This is like that Black panther guy on Bill O'Reilly today, interviewed by Michelle Malkin, who was commenting about the Duke Lacrosse players, who had all charges against them dropped. To this guy, these Lacrosse players were still guilty. He doesn't know what they did, but they did wrong and no indictment is a failure of the system and a failure of the justice system. His brain was unable to take in that these young men could have been innocent, and no amount of talking would change his mind; no event could change his mind.

Rev. 3:14–17: "And to the angel of the church in Laodicea write: 'The words of the Amen, the faithful and true witness, the beginning of God's creation. 'I know your works: you are neither cold nor hot. Would that you were either cold or hot! So, because you are lukewarm, and neither hot nor cold, I will spit you out of my mouth. For you say, I am rich, I have prospered, and I need nothing, not realizing that you are wretched, pitiable, poor, blind, and naked.'

Tuflos

1. Blindness of the soul; the soul is blacked out.
2. In a blackout, the believer is incapable of clear thinking or common sense from doctrine. Irrationality.
3. Negative volition toward doctrine opens up a vacuum in the soul, call matiototes.
4. In blackout, only the influence of evil can penetrate both lobes. This is Israel. This is a description of liberals today as well.
5. 2Thess. 2:11 describes such believers; they are under strong delusion; they reject all reality; they are in a spiritual wasteland. Their souls are blacked out.
6. The result; you become moody and irrational and obsessive and fear and neurotic and sometimes criminal. You can even enter into psychopathic behavior.

Moses went up the mountain, and when he returned, the Jews were worshiping a golden calf which they made out of the gold that they brought from Egypt. This was after the Red Sea. They were losers and reversionists and they would die the sin unto death. In 40 years, that entire generation would have their bones bleaching in the desert. Moses great ministry was to the next generation, the ones who took the land. They got the message.

How many times have we seen the grace of God applied to us? 70x7; it never stops. We might get faithless, and even put under discipline, but God gives us grace over and over again. The exodus of Israel is a picture of the stupidity and the irrationality of human viewpoint. We have to see that.

1Cor. 10:2 and all were baptized into Moses in the cloud and in the sea,

1Cor. 10:

Lesson #519

Sunday 1 April 15, 2007

The believers were identified with Moses, and he was identified with the cloud. Moses was the intermediary. He was the intermediary between God and Israel. Israel identified with Moses and Moses identified with God, so through Moses, Israel was identified with God. Moses acted as an intermediary.

The Jews, when they saw the sea, and saw the dust of the chariots behind them, they panicked and they began to weep and wail. They saw themselves as the victims of God's leadership.

Ex. 14:8–9: And LORD hardened the heart of Pharaoh king of Egypt, and he pursued after the sons of Israel, for the sons of Israel went out with a high hand. And the Egyptians pursued after them, all the horses [and] chariots of Pharaoh, and his horsemen, and his army, and overtook them encamping by the sea, beside Pihahiroth, before Baal-zephon.

The Jews blamed Moses and they blamed God. Moses tells them, "Relax, and watch what God will do; these Egyptians, you will never see again ever."

These Jews have seen great deliverance, but they have locked-in negative volition; they were stubborn in their souls. How many times did they need to see the patience and character of God in order to depend upon God? These Jews were locked into all kinds of arrogance, which superceded the wisdom and reality of divine viewpoint.

We can be stupid in a lot of areas, but this is one area where we need to apply God's Word. If you cannot apply the wisdom of Bible doctrine to every situation of life, then you are ignorant.

Ex. 14:10–12: And when Pharaoh drew near, the sons of Israel lifted up their eyes, and, behold, the Egyptians were marching after them, and they were very afraid. And the sons of Israel cried out to LORD, and they said to Moses, Because there were no graves in Egypt, have thou taken us away to die in the wilderness? Why have thou dealt thus with us, to bring us forth out of Egypt? Is not this the word that we spoke to thee in Egypt, saying, Let us alone, that we may serve the Egyptians? For it were better for us to serve the Egyptians, than that we should die in the wilderness.

We will never see a miracle like this; the Jews view an incredible miracle, and yet they do not apply it to their lives. We don't need a miracle; we don't need a visual spectacle. Millions of Christians go to Christian healers looking for great miracles; they are desperate and they do not represent Jesus Christ, our Savior, in this life. Millions of Christians speaking in tongues, and, to them, they think that this is evidence that God is with them. Christians want so badly to have the same sort of visuals as Israel have. Believers beg for these kind of signs and they do absolutely no good.

Their rejection is an example to us. They failed miserably. How many times have we failed in this life? Failed in the plan of God. How many times have you forgotten in whose hands you are held? In Berachah, we still have every opportunity to recover. We stand at the Red Sea almost every day. The same power which opened up the walls of water of the red Sea lives in us.

So the chariots are advancing, and God's deliverance will now go into high gear.

Ex. 14:13: And Moses said to the people, Fear ye not. Stand still, and see the salvation of LORD, which he will work for you today, for the Egyptians whom ye have seen today, ye shall see them again no more forever.

The Red Sea was not the only deliverance by God.

Ex. 14:19: And the agent of God, who went before the camp of Israel, moved and went behind them, and the pillar of cloud moved from before them, and stood behind them.

Then the Egyptians were momentarily confused by Ex. 14:24: And it came to pass in the morning watch, that LORD looked forth upon the army of the Egyptians through the pillar of fire and of cloud, and troubled the army of the Egyptians. God taught these Jews lessons every day, and they still rejected God's provision. God provided Moses with time.

They had to be baptized into the faith rest of Moses. This is part of God's promise for us; God will not let the Jews die in the desert. "We are not in the land yet, why are you panicking? God promised us the land."

Then God has Moses get the people up and they need to get moving. This would be the first big moment for Moses, and the Jews should have been able to check out what happened, but they did not. There is no reason for a believer to go to bed with fear in his soul. No reason for an anxiety attack. Moses as a leader had to first respond. Even Moses could lose track of where he was. He had to first learn the great lessons of faith rest. Most of this, Moses learned in the desert.

Each situation is a progression in the plan of God. As we move through life, we face a variety of tests. The worst circumstances of our life are the greatest circumstances of our life.

1Cor. 10:1 I want you to know, brothers, that our fathers were all under the cloud, and all passed through the sea,

1Cor. 10:2 and all were baptized into Moses in the cloud and in the sea,

Ex. 14:21–30

Sunday 2 April 15, 2007

The Jews have the Red Sea in front of them and behind them are the chariots of the soldiers of Egypt. Now they are panicked. Moses, after preaching a sermon, is ready to execute the plan of God.

The pastor-teacher has to learn the plan of God after studying Scripture; Moses will continue with this opportunity to serve God, as does the pastor-teacher. Moses gives the Jews the operational orders, similar to the pastor-teacher who gives operational orders to his congregation. Moses has his back to the Red. Sea, and he will follow God's instructions to the letter.

God points his stick to the Red Sea, as God had instructed him. The wind began to blow, and a wind from the east parted the Red. Sea. People have trouble with this, and assume this is a myth or a story; others have thought of this as a tidal phenomena; a natural phenomena. The Red Sea parted, and there was dry land before the Jews. God is completely capable of parting the Red Sea, which He parted in the first place. Since we don't see things like this, our immediate response is, it didn't happen, it could not happen. But they see this with their own eyes. Moses is decisive, and he tells them to gather up everything and to move out across the Red. Sea.

Bobby is thinking that the Jews see this and they are hesitant. They were always confused and fearful at the wrong time. Now they are looking at two walls of water, and they were probably quite troubled by what they are seeing, which is probably a great miracle. Even though they heard Moses and saw the miracle.

Over and over again, the Jews said, “Why do we need to go anywhere? Why not return to Egypt?” The sea was parted just wide enough for them to carry their things with them. They had wagons, livestock, gold; they had just enough room to get themselves through the column between the walls of water.

They get out into the sea, in a vulnerable position, and the cloud lifts. These men were slaves; they were not prepared for war; they were intimidated by the Egyptians, their slaveholders.

Ex. 14:21–22: And Moses stretched out his hand over the sea, and LORD caused the sea to go [back] by a strong east wind all the night, and made the sea dry land, and the waters were divided. And the sons of Israel went into the midst of the sea upon the dry ground, and the waters were a wall to them on their right hand, and on their left.

The Egyptians were chasing after the Jews:

The Egyptians had seen the deliverance of God for the Jews and they were concerned. Some of them wanted to call off this chase. They normally destroyed their enemies, and some want no part of these Jews. They understood, but Israel did not. Blackout of the soul. Nothing could come through. No faith rest. No promises in your soul means that you cannot apply doctrine.

Ex. 14:23–25: And the Egyptians pursued, and went in after them into the midst of the sea, all Pharaoh's horses, his chariots, and his horsemen. And it came to pass in the morning watch, that LORD looked forth upon the army of the Egyptians through the pillar of fire and of cloud, and troubled the army of the Egyptians. And he took off their chariot wheels, and they drove them with difficulty, so that the Egyptians said, Let us flee from the face of Israel, for LORD fights for them against the Egyptians.

Summary of the Baptism of Moses

1. The baptism of Moses was the identification of the Jews with Moses. Water baptism is a ritual which identifies us with Jesus Christ and his death and resurrection. Water baptism is simply a profession of your faith. No one is saved by being dunked in the water or by having water sprinkled on you. Bobby was baptized when very young. It was a profession of his faith.
2. Moses was identified with the cloud which was overhead; the presence of the Shekineh Glory. This is the 2nd Person of the Trinity. This is the Word of John 1. Jesus Christ did not come into being in the 1st Advent; He was made flesh in the 1st Advent.
3. Then through the open path of the Red Sea, the Jews were identified with Moses; this was a real baptism, not a ritual baptism.
4. Therefore, they are connected through Moses with God. These Jews were delivered in being identified with Moses at the Red Sea.

5. Moses, as their leader, had enough spiritual life, to get them into a position where they could be delivered. Moses had the great spiritual life; they needed to be in Moses, as they did not have the faith and the spiritual wisdom to know what to do.
6. These Jews were identified with divine leadership and guidance and redemption from Egypt.
7. The baptism of Moses is a real identification with the person of Jesus Christ. This is a marvelous illustration of the salvation of Jehovah.

The Parallel with Jesus Christ and Salvation:

1. Moses is the intermediary, mediating between man and God.
2. Jesus Christ is our mediary, mediating between man and God.
3. The Jews are associated with Moses, in whom was all the credit and the spiritual power.
4. We, as mankind, are associated with Jesus Christ, in Whom is all the credit and all of the spiritual power.
5. There is a deliverance for the Jews by being in Moses, being baptized into Moses.
6. We are delivered in salvation by being in Christ, by being baptized into Christ (1Cor. 12:13). You have all been baptized into Christ.
7. The Jews finally follow Moses into the Red Sea and are delivered from Egypt, their earthly enemies.
8. Our walk in life, we look to Jesus Christ, and we are delivered from the evil of our day. When we go back to our job or whatever it is on Monday, we face our Egyptian chariots; when we face the charge of the Mosquitos or the charge of the elephant, we put our trust in Jesus Christ. Now, God may not wipe out our boss or those problem people that we deal with. We don't know what God is going to do for us tomorrow; don't complain; just face it, and wait on His deliverance, one of the great promises of Scripture.

The baptism of Moses is our baptism, but our baptism is done by God the Holy Spirit, when He places us into Christ; and we have the power of Jesus Christ, Who indwells us. We all have equal privilege and equal opportunity. Jesus Christ stand between God and us, just as Moses was the intermediary between the Jews and the Shekineh Glory. We are without excuse; Israel is without excuse. We can see it in the pages of Scripture, which is Bible doctrine in our souls.

Next, Israel needs to learn a logistical grace lesson.

Ex. 14:26–30: And LORD said to Moses, Stretch out thy hand over the sea, that the waters may come again upon the Egyptians, upon their chariots, and upon their horsemen. And Moses stretched forth his hand over the sea, and the sea returned to its strength when the morning appeared, and the Egyptians fled against it, and LORD overthrew the Egyptians in the midst of the sea. And the waters returned, and covered the chariots, and the horsemen, even all the army of Pharaoh who went in after them into the sea, there remained not so much as one of them. But the sons of Israel walked upon dry land in the midst of the sea, and the waters were a wall to them on their right hand, and on their left. Thus LORD saved Israel that day out of the hand of the Egyptians, and Israel saw the Egyptians dead upon the sea-shore.

1Cor. 10:1–3 Lesson #521 Wednesday April 25, 2007

Our fathers refers to the first generation of the nation Israel. The One Who guided Israel was the 2nd person of the Trinity. He was the cloud; and the Jews were a pack of idiots here. We will examine reversionism based upon the exodus generation.

1Cor. 10:1 I want you to know, brothers, that our fathers were all under the cloud, and all passed through the sea,

Israel was guided and protected by the very presence of God Himself. This would be the first great test of their walking to the Land of Promise. These are the people who are the great nation promised to Abraham. The problem was, their backs were to the wall at the Red Sea. Pharaoh with 600 chariots was bent on destroying them or putting them back into slavery.

What God's solution was, the Jews were baptized into Moses. These were not men who could fight; they were not used to that. The baptism of Moses was a deliverance and a test for these people; it tested faith rest, which was their spiritual life. This faith rest drill should have been part of their souls, but it was not. God promised Abraham something, and these people had forgotten His promise. They needed to see and realize God's power (despite the fact that they had seen several miracles already).

Summary Points: How did this Baptism Deliver them and Test them

1. Moses was identified with the cloud.
2. So he was therefore identified with the presence of God, with Whom he communicated face to face. When Moses left the Tabernacle, his face glowed from speaking to God (the Shekineh Glory).
3. Moses then conveyed God's will and guidance to this people. He turned around and gave this to the Jews.
4. Moses was the intermediary between God and the people. Nothing was distorted or lost in the translation between Moses and the Jews. They got the straight, unadulterated truth from the mouth of Moses. Moses repeated what he heard word for word; this changed, by the way, with Deuteronomy. Bobby is not infallible. But the truth of the Word of God is unadulterated. Bobby teaches enough that is correct that he can give us enough to grow. These people got it exactly the way that God said it.
5. These people were connect with God through Moses. Hence, they were connected to God's deliverance.
6. The deliverance and the test:
  - a. The Jews were identified with Moses.
  - b. Moses was empowered by God to open a path through the Red Sea.
  - c. Israel seized this path and they had to believe in the power of God for deliverance.
  - d. The Jews must take the walk down the open path of deliverance. This is the opening gambit of the faith rest drill. This was their initial use of the faith rest drill.
  - e. They took that first walk, and they must continue to walk in the guidance and protection of Yahweh all the way to the Land of Promise and for the rest of their lives; that is their spiritual life.
  - f. At the Red Sea, being baptized into Moses, meant that the children of Israel participated in divine deliverance and in the faith rest life. This was their spiritual life through Moses. They learned at the Red Sea what their spiritual life was all about. These tests which we face are for us to grow and to relax; for us to claim a promise or two and to apply that rationale to our circumstances. This whole incident at the Red Sea is analogous to salvation provided by Jesus Christ. In many churches you would hear that this is a myth, a nice story. This incident has more meaning than one could ever imagine. God did all the work and they had to simply respond to it. These Jews needed to grow a little more and a little more, and God gave them more. As they passed one test, they would fail the next, and they would have to be brought up to snuff; and yet, God was faithful every single time.

Let's see about this analogy

The Analogy of the Deliverance of the Red Sea

1. Jesus Christ is the mediator between God and man, as Moses was the mediator between God and the people.
2. The Lord Jesus Christ was directed by the Father; He did the will of the Father. He was also empowered by God the Holy Spirit to provide divine deliverance for all mankind on the cross. Moses was directed by God and empowered by God to provide for the deliverance of the Jews.
3. Man must believe in that salvation event; the event of the cross provided by the grace of God through Jesus Christ. Man must believe in all that it means, provided by God through Christ.
4. This is a perfect parallel. This is a parallel to the Shekineh in the deliverance of Israel. We are saved; Israel was delivered. God the Father and Jesus Christ teamed up to deliver us from our condemnation.
5. Once we appropriate our salvation, we are to walk in the Spirit, as Israel was to walk into the Land of Promise.
6. All of that is analogous to the cross and to executing the deliverance through Christ.

Bobby left out the slavery of the Israel people; they were redeemed from slavery. We continue moving until the day we die walking toward the Land of Promise. Moses is a type of Christ. The baptism of Moses is an analogy. It foreshadows what is to come. Perhaps baptism has to do with analogy and/or foreshadowing as much as it has to do with identification?

This same principle applies to the Corinthians. They were identified with Paul who entered Corinth. They were also identified with Christ and His protocol spiritual life. We are identified with Christ in salvation and in His protocol spiritual life. Paul is our teacher in teaching us the Christian walk, just as Moses taught the Jews how to move toward the Land of Promise.

After we see all of the failures of Israel, we will be wondering, why, how? We may find ourself in the exact same position. These people were blind. They needed to live the same spiritual life.

This was a package deal; salvation and the spiritual life.

Summary of vv. 1–2

1. The analogy for the Church Age was Israel's deliverance from Egypt. It is the deliverance from Egypt. This took the Jews out of slavery.
2. For us, we are delivered from the slave market of sin, an delivered from slavery by the cross of Christ from the slave market of sin.
3. For Israel, this meant standing still and watching the deliverance of the Lord. They were to take hold of that grace and walk through the dry path between the seas.

4. For us, it means applying the doctrines of the faith rest life, of logistical grace, living grace and dying grace, from the very beginning to the very end. This is all that God has provided for us is wrapped up with the Red Sea.

1Cor. 10:2 and all were baptized into Moses in the cloud and in the sea,

The 3rd analogy is found in v. 3. And all ate the same spiritual food. The exodus generation ate this spiritual food, which refers specifically to manna. This was the divine logistical provision by God for Israel. It was one more test that Israel failed. They refused to depend upon the grace of God. They made it through the Red Sea, and now they are hungry.

Ex. 16:2–4: And the whole congregation of the people of Israel grumbled against Moses and Aaron in the wilderness, and the people of Israel said to them, "Would that we had died by the hand of the LORD in the land of Egypt, when we sat by the meat pots and ate bread to the full, for you have brought us out into this wilderness to kill this whole assembly with hunger." Then the LORD said to Moses, "Behold, I am about to rain bread from heaven for you, and the people shall go out and gather a day's portion every day, that I may test them, whether they will walk in my law or not. Whining to God is not the way to get God's attention; He is not going to be well-disposed toward us when we whine to Him. The key was Moses, their mediator. They grumbled to Moses, and about Moses, but Moses was their intermediary. God promised them that they would be delivered in any problem. God fought for Israel; He is not going to allow them to starve.

What Did Israel Do?

1. The Jews remembered Egypt, the place of slavery, instead of remembering about the Red Sea.
2. They would rather be slaves in Egypt than free men in the desert under the care and keeping of God.
3. The Jews forgot who redeemed them; they observed the Red Sea, they knew about the plagues; and they still desired to return to slavery. Their memory was very selective and a short attention span. As a nation, they had ADD.
4. This is the picture of reversionism; spiritual information in one ear and out the other.

"Would that we had died by the hand of the LORD in the land of Egypt, when we sat by the meat pots and ate bread to the full, for you have brought us out into this wilderness to kill this whole assembly with hunger." (Ex. 16:3). I'd rather die a slave in Israel. Just like an adolescent who wants what they want when they want it; they want to run away; ready to run back to Egypt. Realize how selective their memory is; they would have to go back across the Red Sea. They act as though God's purpose was to kill them in the desert. There was never a time when it was God's purpose to do anything but deliver them. They had to realize that God would not destroy the Jewish race, and they were the Jewish race. Abraham believed and he was declared righteous.

They directed their childish tantrum toward Moses and toward God. “Get us some food now, or we are going back.” So they said, “So you have brought us out into this wilderness to kill this whole assembly with hunger.” it is almost impossible for this people to be so stupid; but their desire was Egypt where they felt secure. That was the lift that they knew. They did not know about this new life.

There was another time when we had a similar lapse. We have seen this from their perspective and from Moses’ perspective; now let’s see it from God’s viewpoint. Tomorrow night.

1Cor. 10:3 and all ate the same spiritual food,

1Cor. 10:3

Thursday April 26, 2007

there is a complex analogical meaning for this verse; it is obviously a continuation of the previous verse. There is a great deal of meaning to be found in this verse. This is the 3rd analogy after the cloud and sea of the previous verses. These are analogies specifically directed toward the Corinthian church. Their situation was so parallel to the exodus generation. Paul thought about his own Jewish ancestors and he looked at the Corinthians, who neglected doctrine. They had become contentious among themselves, particularly when it came to Moses, whom they constantly bickered with. Their eyes were on themselves and their eyes were on their own circumstances, and not on the Lord. Very similar.

This spiritual food in v. 3 is manna, which God provided for Israel in the desert. Manna was another test, as was the Red Sea, and it was designed for their spiritual growth; spiritual food for spiritual growth. This boils down to another opportunity for these people to utilize the faith rest life. This is how God designed His program so that they could live the life that He wanted them to live. They had visuals which should bring faith into their souls and minds. They needed to see these visual manifestations, and they needed to understand and apply them. They saw visual demonstrations of divine promises in Egypt, when leaving Egypt, and now when wandering in the desert. They were required to depend upon these promises. These were visually demonstrated to them time after time. Blind and hard headed.

The faith rest drill is claiming a promise out of Scripture, e.g., cast your cares upon the Lord because He cares for you. The Jews could have taken this promise as moving through the desert. “Isn’t this like standing still and watching the deliverance of the Lord?” All they needed to do is exercise a little faith every day, and their spiritual life would grow stronger. Most people think that it might take them 40 years to get to the Land of Promise. It should have taken them less than a year to get there. It’s something that we could walk in a few days or weeks, given enough water. There were 2 million people, so it took longer. The 40 years was a whole other situation. This was a result of their continued failures.

Ex. 16:2–3: And the whole congregation of the people of Israel grumbled against Moses and Aaron in the wilderness, and the people of Israel said to them, "Would that we had died by the hand of the LORD in the land of Egypt, when we sat by the meat pots and ate bread to the full, for you have brought us out into this wilderness to kill this whole assembly with hunger."

These Jews had just seen the power of God at the Red Sea, and it should have been obvious that God was not going to let them perish. They faced total annihilation, and God delivered them. God was not going to let them perish in the desert. They should have been able to now use the faith rest drill. God's promise is always in effect. They could have claimed any of those promises. The simplest would have been the promise to Abraham. Then they could have happily marched to the promised land, and arrived with enough faith to go the next step. They should have been gaining spiritual maturity along the way. Now they were going to have another test and they should have become more proficient in using the faith rest drill. Here they are in Egypt; they are slaves. They got to watch Moses perpetrate 10 plagues on Egypt, and they should have realized that this was all God's power which freed them.

The next test after the Red Sea was the manna test. They had a very short attention span; things did not seem to click with them. Not long after the Red Sea incident, they got hungry; the provisions which they brought began to run out. An army marches on its stomach. This was more than simply grumbling. This was actually a full-scale rebellion against Moses and Aaron's leadership. They were trying to usurp the authority of Moses. They have seen that Moses is God's chosen intermediary for them. They are hungry, so they are rebelling against Moses. Ultimately, they were rebelling against God. Moses and Aaron provided them human leadership, but that was a result of God's unfailing grace toward them. This is a picture of an advance toward reversionism rather than toward maturity. They act as if it is Moses' fault, but Moses took his marching orders from God. They complained: "Would that we had died by the hand of the LORD in the land of Egypt, when we sat by the meat pots and ate bread to the full, for you have brought us out into this wilderness to kill this whole assembly with hunger." Better to die in Egypt than to die here of starvation in the desert. There is an underlying premise here. God you should have killed us in Egypt so that we could have eaten before we died. They are charging a perversity to God Himself. That God would bring them to this point, out of Egypt, and then let them die of starvation. It is irrational. This is the worse kind of manipulation. They were exploiting God's grace to get their way.

An argument from a false premise. The premise is, God wants to kill us, in one way or the other. Then they come up with a false conclusion, that God would kill them in Egypt. What makes this really bad. They should have realized that God had no intention of killing them; but they wanted instant gratification. They were going to try to manipulate God to get what they wanted. They were attempting to control God; to control the God of the Universe, to get Him to do their bidding. They were negotiating to get their plan fulfilled on their terms, not on God's. How many times have we tried to make our own desires the plan for God for our life. We try to manipulate things so that our plan is superimposed over God's plan.

In this way, we are not utilizing faith rest. It is all related to why did you let this happen to me, God?

They accuse God of taking them out to the desert to kill them. This would violate God's promise to them and to Abraham. It seems impossible to Bobby that these people could be so illogical, absurd and perverse. But, bear in mind, they were raised up in slavery, apart from the teaching of God's Word. They went from zero to 60 and could not maintain 60. They kept falling back to zero. These verses reveal the thinking of reversionists. You cannot manipulate God; you cannot control God; you cannot make God do what you want Him to do.

God later reveals His thoughts on these people. "I loathed that generation." Ezek. 23:19–21: Yet she increased her whoring, remembering the days of her youth, when she played the whore in the land of Egypt and lusted after her paramours there, whose members were like those of donkeys, and whose issue was like that of horses. Thus you longed for the lewdness of your youth, when the Egyptians handled your bosom and pressed your young breasts." Therefore, O Oholibah, thus says the Lord GOD: "Behold, I will stir up against you your lovers from whom you turned in disgust, and I will bring them against you from every side: the Babylonians and all the Chaldeans, Pekod and Shoa and Koa, and all the Assyrians with them, desirable young men, governors and commanders all of them, officers and men of renown, all of them riding on horses. This all took place in 586 B.C. when Nebuchadnezzar was bearing down against Israel. He had already come into Judah and he took some hostages, included Daniel. Nebuchadnezzar had the greatest army on earth at this time. It was time for the Jews to depend upon the Lord. What did they do? Judah turned toward Egypt for help, rather than to God. They thought that Egypt might have an army which could defeat the Chaldeans. They depended upon a foreign army instead of upon their God. They made a defense pact with the very nation which had previously enslaved them. The same thinking; the same mindset.

This is an analogy. "Yet she multiplied her harlotries, reliving the days of her youth, when she lusted after her former lovers, when she acted the whore with Egypt, remembering the days of her youth." This woman misused her beauty and she degraded herself with many lovers. God called Israel here a whore. Israel became more and more promiscuous with a previous lover, which was Egypt. Both generations were unfaithful in their youth to Egypt, and each received a catastrophic destruction. Gen. x was wiped out, their carcasses rotting in the desert. The Jews of Ezekiel's time would be carted off to Assyria as slaves. However, even as whores, God still loved them. This was like the wife of Hosea, who rescued his wife, who was unfaithful to him. God had to remain faithful, which was how Hosea was pictured. It is that same instant gratification, and both groups were going to take matters into their own hands, and they wanted what they wanted when they wanted it. In short, Israel went a whoring after a false lover. This is how God saw Israel; this communicates divine viewpoint. This is what Israel was like. Ezekiel was not attempting to be vulgar. There is only one reason for this kind of blindness.

The Problem with Israel—the Whores of Israel

1. Israel had many illustrations of deliverance from adversity; and of divine providence. They were recipients of some of the greatest miracles of history.
2. They had doctrine revealed right before their eyes. They watched it; they saw it; it was empirical. They had visuals of what we get in Bible study. The Jews saw God's deliverance over and over again. They were whores; they failed to be faithful to Him.
3. The Jews did not have the completed canon of Scripture; they had first hand experience.
4. Experience does not carry anyone with negative volition. All the miracles in the world will not carry you.
5. The Jews of our Lord's generation watched Him and His miracles and still rejected Him. That is the power of negative volition. Believers have the power to reject. The exodus generation was made up of believers. No matter how much you see, if you are in reversionism, you will fail big time. No food, panic; chariots, panic, no water, panic. The experiences of went before had no impact on them; nothing registered in their souls. What they had did not carry them in the present crisis.
6. They did not have doctrine in their souls; what they had was only empirical.

As a believer, we metabolize doctrine via gap. We hear doctrine, we believe it, and it is transferred to our right lobes. None of that is empirical. We do not have to experience any of this. We don't have to see any of these things. The next day, they have nothing.

1Cor. 10:3 ...and all ate the same spiritual food,

1Cor. 10:1-3

Sunday 1 April 29, 2007

One believer who sacrificed his life in Iraq has protestors at his funeral, putting Bobby out of fellowship.

We're taking an in depth look at failure, and we might not like considering it, but it is necessary for believers to consider today. We are going to examine the overall perspective of v. 1-3.

1Cor. 10:1-3 I want you to know, brothers, that our fathers [the exodus generation of Israel, given as an example of failure in the life of the believer] were all under the cloud [which guided them and was God's constant presence with them], and all passed through the sea, and all were baptized into Moses in the cloud and in the sea [the Jews were identified with Jehovah and His promise to them of deliverance], and all ate the same spiritual food, This sentence goes on until v. 4, and this generation failed time after time. They failed to use the faith rest life on every occasion. Since they did not use the spiritual life which God gave them, they failed again and again. No faith rest was in evidence among these people, except for Moses, Joshua, Caleb, and Eleazar.

These Jews were delivered from slavery. They saw 10 divinely-induced plagues, where they were untouched, and the Egyptians faced great misery. The Jews were protected by God for His purpose and for His plan. The Egyptians, because of the power of God, freed the Jews, which began to be the beginning of God fulfilling His promises to Abraham and to Moses. There are still monuments in Egypt which the Jews built. These Jews watched the miracles and acts of God with their own eyes and they were unmoved, for the most part. They saw great acts, and it did not stay in their brains.

They moved out of Egypt and ran into the barrier of the Red Sea, and there they stood, helpless and hopeless, with Pharaoh approaching quickly with his chariots. It was a perfect moment where they could apply faith rest. They could take their previous experiences and apply it to this new experience. All these people had to do was to apply the faith rest drill. Moses stated it for them. Ex. 14:13: And Moses said to the people, "Fear not, stand firm, and see the salvation of the LORD, which he will work for you today. For the Egyptians whom you see today, you shall never see again. They were to think about what God had done for them up until that point in time; God provided for them in Egypt, so He can provide for them now. They could have depended upon the promise of God to make them a great nation. They were that nation; if God makes a promise, He will keep it, as He is faithful and immutable. "Is it because there were no graves in Egypt that you brought us all this way into the desert in order for us to die?" They complained about being freed from slavery. They blame Moses and they blame Moses. They were not willing to use faith rest. If they were willing to die as slaves in Egypt, why would they not be willing to die as free men in the desert?

"Please don't bring us out here to die; we really liked where we were; we liked being slaves in Egypt." Ridiculous statements. "It would have been better for us to serve the Egyptians than to die in the wilderness." This is a slave mentality. God has freed them, and they have decided that they would rather be slaves. When we become enslaved to our own plan and resist God's obvious logistical grace and His plan, and we are behaving exactly like the Jews at the Red Sea. They thought that God brought them to the Red Sea to die. A massive, collective, anxiety attack. Are you able to apply something as simple as one promise? What backs that promise insofar as doctrine is concerned? Just apply that promise and then sit back and relax.

The background for v. 3 is, they are hungry. They have eaten all of their provisions. Now, after the 10 plagues, and after the Red Sea, and after seeing the Lord as a cloud and a pillar of fire; now, after all this, all they have to do is apply God's promises and essence to the situation. They act as if God has forgotten His promises. They projected their own unfaithfulness on the Lord. Do they relax? Do they wait on the Lord? Nope, they go find Moses and start bitching and moaning. They used to sit next to pots of meat and ate to their full. Food was more important to them than God's promises. "For you, Moses, have brought us out to the wilderness to kill us with hunger." Once again, they portray God and Moses as unfaithful. All they have to do is apply the visual evidence which they have seen over and over again. They are not applying what they have already seen. They have had overwhelming visual evidence of divine providence. Blind reversionism. The solution can be right in front of you, and they are unable to apprehend it. Israel had so many spectacular, visual examples of logistical grace, and yet, they are still negative. They did not even have to dig up any doctrine from their souls; they only need to think back to a few days/weeks previous to God leading them across the Red Sea. Experience does not carry anyone with negative volition. The pharisees saw the Lord Jesus Christ in hypostatic union, and they crucified Him. They were unable to see what was right in front of them.

The Red Sea crossing had no impact with them; it did not register in their souls. It did not carry them in the present circumstances. "What have you done for me lately, God?" was their attitude. They needed to utilize the faith rest drill, and yet, they whined, complained and rebelled.

Experience Does not Mean a Thing

1. They did not apply doctrine because it was not available in their souls. It was only empirical. They had empirical knowledge; they experienced this by sight and sound, but it did not impact their soul.
2. Empirical experience is tantamount to gnôsis only. When you have gnôsis, it is not applicable to anything in life.
3. They had first-hand knowledge of God's plan; but they were unable to drive.
4. They could not make an application when it came to the circumstances in their lives; they could look in the rear view mirror and they could not utilize that in order to help them drive down the road. How can you not trust in divine deliverance when you have seen it over and over again?
5. This is their own personal expression of negative volition. They are unable to apply trust in the Lord under a pressure situation. The Red Sea, the hunger and the thirst. You only need one promise in the soul in order to apply faith rest. The more promises, the easier life is. You must let this take over the way you think. Some have said, "Doctrine is not all there is. We can get wrapped up in the Bible." Nothing takes up the slack for thinking divine viewpoint. There is no substitute for that. The Jews had emotion; they saw it all; but these things meant nothing to them. Get the thinking first, and the rest of it then falls into place. Some believers sit in Bible class day after day for years and they never seem to be able to apply this doctrine when needed. Others see these people in crisis and they think, doctrine doesn't work or they take the correct view, it is just Γνωσις in their soul.

What can I draw by way of conclusion concerning these pathetic failures; what does it mean for me, 3000 years later?

1Cor. 10:3

Sunday 2 April 29, 2007

Moses is the middle man, the punching bag for the Jews of Gen X. For 40 years, Moses put up with the failures of these people. You would think that he would, at some point say, "God, just kill these people and let's start over." God even offered this to Moses. Moses applied the lessons of faith rest throughout his life. There is the failure of a huge number of believers; and the spiritual success of a handful of men. The end was determined by the few who applied doctrine from their souls to the situations that they faced: Moses, Aaron, Joshua, Caleb, Phinehas.

“God you brought us out here to kill us with hunger, and you have Moses doing this on Your behalf.” Grippers, resellers, complainers. People with these characteristics are people that you cannot run away from fast enough. The great lesson is that we must learn not to repeat their failures. In negative volition to doctrine, you are destined to repeat their failures. Some believers when a loved one dies, “God, why did you not heal this person?” Death is but a short separation. That is a faith rest rationale; you will spend eternity with them. Yet, people can fall apart. This is not grieving; but, we are not to grieve as those who have no hope. Our hope is in Christ Jesus. At the end of our lives, eternity with the person, with the person for whom we grieve.

Application

1. Experience with God is not what believers need today in this life. You do not need empirical experience in order to trust God.
2. What are we talking about? God is not going to part the Red Sea, traffic, etc. Healings, speaking in tongues—some believers seek exactly this kind of experience. And some even claim that God speaks to them personally. Why does anyone need to hear God that way? God has given us everything that we need to know in His Word. If what such a person hears is in congruence with doctrine, then why does he need that revelation? And if it is in disagreement with doctrine, then it is false.
3. The Jews here had empirical experience; but in the end, it made no difference.
4. Empirical experience is not our system of metabolizing doctrine. It is not our system for the Church Age. We have so much more than just a visual. Moses said, “I long to see your generation” and yet he had some fantastic experiences.
5. Empiricism is what we see, hear, feel, taste; it is drawing conclusions with regards to things in this life by observation. It is what we perceive sensually (using our 5 senses). We can see the same thing as someone else, and get something entirely different from what we see. We have so much more; we have doctrine in our souls, not spoiled by experience, which is very nebulous.
6. For the believer in the Church Age, what he have is, all divine truth from the objective canon of Scripture; no experience for us to interpret. It is metabolized by the grace apparatus for perception. This is empowered by God the Holy Spirit. We are empowered to hear Bible doctrine objectively. We have the power of the filling of the Holy Spirit. We can metabolize it and it is right there for us to apply.
7. This is God’s system for living the spiritual life in the Church Age. This is so much greater than what the Israelites had. They had the faith rest life, which was good; but it was not much.
8. Grow in grace and knowledge of our Lord Jesus Christ. We are not told to grow in grace and in the experiences which we have had.
9. Therefore, our faith rest is the application of doctrine resident in our souls, the knowledge, not in an experience like Israel. This is resident in our soul; it is a part of the fabric of our life; it becomes the way that we think; part of the fabric of our lives.

10. The difference between the grace apparatus for perception and empiricism is simplicity of application and understanding.
11. Doctrinal application from doctrine resident in the soul never fails under any circumstances. You don't have to figure out what an experience means. It is the power of God in our soul; it is the Word of God and that which gives us divine viewpoint. We can make some divine establishment decisions; but there is no substitute for divine viewpoint.
12. Why? Because it is real to the moment; it is time-sensitive. Doctrine can be applied to any circumstance, then and there.
13. It is not a past event which need recurring confirmation; it is real and resident. A past event may not be the same as a current event. Doctrine in our soul is real for the moment; at that very instant. We do not have to interpret a previous experience and apply it to a new and different experience.
14. Missouri is the show-me state. It is doctrine resident in the soul which should lead us.
15. Doctrine is pertinent to every circumstance; every single one, because it is the rationale of truth. The experience of the Jews was a rationale of truth, but only one truth. Doctrine resident in the soul is a conglomerate of many truths. Therefore, our range of application is greater.
16. It is the rationale form our right lobe and the empowerment of God the Holy Spirit to get things done. Doctrine can only be applied from our soul. You can always turn tv on and see a healing experience; you can go to certain churches and observe people speaking in tongues; and none of this is meaningful nor can it take you anywhere. The next crisis that you face still knocks you over. At some point in our life, we will recognize how important doctrine is; it may not seem flashy, but we use it to handle a crisis, when everyone else around us is falling apart. That is the spiritual life; that is the spiritual life working.

All the past experiences of Israel; they could make application from their experiences. These experiences were objective, and they saw the power of God directly. Even with these more objective experiences, these Jews were unable to apply it. It is not the experience per se, but what the experience represents. Moses interpreted this for them. The Jews had no doubt from their experience what was real or what was not. We have no idea observing someone speaking in tongues or healing; but they knew. However, Bobby points out, this stuff is fakery today. Where there is tongues, it will cease. The empirical experience which people put stock in today is worthless. Experience even in the age of Israel was not their spiritual life. Applying doctrine from that experience was. Israel depended upon their experience; but that is not really faith rest; that is living from experience to experience, and that has nothing for your soul. The spiritual life is never based upon empiricism; it is based upon ἐπίγνωσις. We can experience God and the way that He works in our lives. We can look back and see how God has worked in our lives; no question about it. However, this does not necessarily translate to today's pressures; they still require doctrine in the soul. Even then, it was not about the event, but what is in our souls. That is the difference between subjectivity and objectivity. When someone does not have a continuous reminder that God is present with them, then they begin to lose their faith. However, with doctrine in your soul, it should make no difference. God was visually present with Israel; but He is with us as well, but without anything miraculous, necessarily.

The alternative to no doctrine in the soul is to blame Moses and/or God for what is going on. They blamed God and Moses for how they have been victimized. Where is that miracle when I need it? This is exactly their problem.

Summary of the Problem of Gen X

1. They had first hand miraculous experience. Moses had lots of experiences, yet he longed to see our day.
2. The exodus generation is proof that empiricism alone is not enough; it must be a part of a doctrinal rationale.
3. The Jews had seen God's care and keeping, but it was only in the moment. If things don't go our way a few hours/days/weeks later, then we forget what God has done and how He works. We don't know if God is going to deliver us in a similar fashion.
4. Living in the moment does not carry into the next event. You cannot experientially apply one event to another.
5. Israel refused to trust what they had seen beyond the event itself. They could only panic and fall apart. Beyond the event itself, it meant nothing. Before the crisis, they fell apart; during the deliverance, they sort of stood and watched it; and afterwards, they were unable to apply it.
6. Empiricism cannot metabolize doctrine; faith in what God has said metabolizes doctrine. Grace apparatus for perception is our means of metabolization.
7. Empiricism is not application of doctrine from the stream of consciousness from the right lobe of the soul . As it stands written, eye has not seen or ear heard, neither has it entered into soul, what God has prepared for him. The only way to live is relying on Bible doctrine. The Jews represented the futility of human experience; we represent the triumph and victory of doctrine in the soul.

1Cor. 10:3 and all ate the same spiritual food,

1Cor. 10:3

Wednesday May 2, 2007

These first 3 verses illustrate the faithfulness and guidance of God. Application made to our own lives as well. It is amazing that the exodus generation had staggering visual proofs, and yet, they could not advance spiritually. God worked in very visible ways at times in the Old Testament and sometimes in miraculous ways, and so many did not get it. They faced adversity there just as we face adversity here. Bible doctrine can provide a wonderful mental attitude for all of us. There is adversity and prosperity and it is easy to lose focus on God's Word. In fact, some lose focus, because now they are in the chips. This keeps a governor on us during times of prosperity. For Israel, for the very moments that they crossed the Red Sea, they should have recalled the promises of God given to them by Moses. They should have been able to focus on the promise of Moses: “Stand by and observe the deliverance of the Lord for you.” Every day they should have understood that God would accomplish for them that day. However, there will be a progression of failures and a series of examples for the failing Corinthians as well. They failed to follow the divine guidance. There would be a lack of food first, then a lack of water. Yet, time after time, the things they saw had no impact on their lives. They never depended upon the Lord at the beginning of any crisis. They never made the doctrinal transfer of what God had done for them. What they saw never translated into what they faced next. They could see the deliverance after the fact, but it never carried over to the next problem. They needed to be able to think for themselves using divine viewpoint in their souls, utilizing their spiritual lives. What they needed was a little spiritual autonomy.

Spiritual Autonomy

1. What was spiritual autonomy for the Exodus generation? This is a perpetuated mental stability from utilizing their spiritual life. Their mechanic was the faith rest drill, which brought on an relaxed mental attitude.
2. Mental stability comes from the ability to think with divine viewpoint when under pressure. What does it mean to think when you are under pressure? That is courage. Courage is not the absence of fear; it is functioning when dealing with fear. This is being able to think with divine viewpoint when under pressure.
3. Spiritual autonomy for the exodus generation is the ability to make correct and accurate application of doctrine in testing and crisis. This is a lack of dependence upon other people; and lack of dependence even upon empirical knowledge.
4. Spiritual autonomy reflects spiritual muscle. You build muscle on muscle. Spiritual autonomy is the building of spiritual muscle; the application of grace principles. The grace rationale is a good start for operating in spiritual autonomy.

They saw spiritual autonomy over and over again, but were unable to apply it to their own lives. The result of spiritual autonomy would be...

What Does Spiritual Autonomy Mean?

This will have application to us, and sometimes Bobby applies it for us and sometimes he does not. When we begin to figure it out for ourselves, that is spiritual autonomy. Thinking with divine viewpoint for ourselves. When we face a crisis and

1. One result is doctrinal orientation to reality. That underpinning of all faith that they should have had is the promises which God made to Abraham and all of his descendants. You learn to think in terms of Bible doctrine; you begin to think in terms of doctrinal rationale which you apply to your own life.
2. A result of spiritual autonomy is making great decisions from a position of strength. You begin to think independently of human viewpoint with divine viewpoint.
  - a. Divine viewpoint inherent to spiritual autonomy results in right motivation.

- b. What is right motivation? This is absolute confidence in God's ability to take care of a believer. I know He is going to take care of me; no question about it. Therefore, we can be motivated to continue in the plan of God.
  - c. Right motivation results in right decisions. If we know that God has the ability to take care of us and fHe does, then they should have been motivated by God's faithfulness. They should have made good decisions while waiting on God's deliverance.
  - d. Right decisions result in right actions.
  - e. So spiritual autonomy is characterized by the divine viewpoint necessary to make good decisions from a position of strength. Right motivation, right decision, right action.
3. Having contentment in all circumstances of life. This would be something the Exodus generation needed. What is contentment in all circumstances of life?
- a. Contentment is tantamount to capacity for happiness, whether in adversity or in prosperity. You can't have happiness without some motivationi for it. You gain capacity for happiness by understanding the absolute care and keeping of Jesus Christ in every circumstance of life. How can you not hav tranquility of soul? Facing giants in the land, hunger, thirst? Not a problem.
  - b. This is an attitude of problem solving. They instead were enslaved to their circumstances; they were enslaved to their own bad attitude. Enslaved to their lack of doctrine in the soul. They had only one position to fall back on. They could only panic and blame and lose all contentment, being enslaved to their circumstance. You will have a salve mentality without spiritual autonomy. They were enslaved to their inability to apply doctrine to their circumstances. The actually said they'd rather return to Egypt to be slaves than to be free in the desert. That is a slave mentality. We need to be able to think with spiritual autonomy.

Gen x had no strength from doctrine; they had no perception or learning. Similar elements are present with us today. We will explore how they should have gained some spiritual autonomy.

The Application of Doctrine by the Exodus Generation

1. They had the faith ability to perceive and learn, as do all believers in every dispensation. They could have learned, just as we are able. They need just a little faith in all that they learned.
2. They did not have the unique spiritual assets that we have; e.g. the filling of God the Holy Spirit. Faith in the things unseen for us; they saw what to have faith in.
3. There is logical perception, empirical perception, but it cannot be separated from faith when it comes to applying spiritual truth.
4. Experience alone is not the source of application.
5. Experience is empty without understanding the doctrine behind the event. This is where the Jews were lacking.

6. They had the experience, but they could not apply it. The spectacular experiences of the Jews are bogus today..

We don't have that kind of empirical evidence. No tongues or healing either. Healing even my charlatans. Is healing out? People are healed by God in this dispensation; but they are not healed through someone. Being able to heal was a credential in past times; it is not necessary any more. The problem is this for those who expect an empirical experience—the time may come when God will not heal someone that you love. If you don't have the experience, then all you have to fall back on is doctrine. You want to see God heal; you don't want to see your loved one in pain. This is a normal way to think. Plan of God rationale; you must utilize, we have this idea of what God can do for us, and we want to superimpose our plan upon His. We might want to look ahead; we don't understand those things, so we have to just trust in His Word. God makes the deal in sickness and health, for better or for worse, God's plan goes on. All of our crying and all of our complaining will not change a thing. They saw the grace of God over and over again and they did not deserve it. Have a little happiness; have a little spiritual autonomy.

What Should the Jews Have Done to Pass the Test

1. Faith: the means of perception and knowledge that needed to be employed; specifically, faith rest. This needed to be employed in every crisis. It was so anemic in this generation and almost non-existent.
2. If these people had integrated the doctrine gleaned from their past experiences into their thinking, and then applied that doctrine, then they would have expected the same care and keeping by God that they had previously experienced. There is spiritual autonomy.
3. It was really not the miracles that mattered. The dividing of the sea, the striking of the rock producing water, the manna from heaven—none of this mattered. It was God who did it all; if He did it once, He can do it again. He is God. Negative volition is the inability to think with spiritual autonomy.
4. The fact that He did it once and could do it again is the plan of God rationale. Very few of them understood this.
5. God's plan was always in operation for them.. It never stopped. That should have been their focus.
6. What really mattered was not the miracle but their trust in the Lord and His plan.
7. Doctrine applied not experience is to the real strength in deliverance in every situation. You cannot depend upon God, that He will heal in this case or that. Our dependence upon God is our real strength. After sweating and yelling, how long does doctrine carry them? They hit a wall. They are not ready for the crisis. They are ready for some experience to get them through, and it never works.
8. In the case of the exodus generation, faith and empiricism together should have worked together to bring them to a relaxed mental attitude of dependency upon the Lord. Unfortunately, no such applicational attitude existed. No spiritual autonomy.

No transfer of experience to application. No doctrinal rationale to make the transfer. If volition is negative, there can be no teaching or learning of truth by faith. No matter what we see, we cannot move forward apart from faith. The power of negative volition is clear from this generation.

They were some of the most negative and self-centered believers in the history of man. They were perfect examples of what self-centered people look like.

Self-Centeredness

1. These people were ego-centric, not theo-centric. They thought with human viewpoint and not with divine viewpoint.
2. Self-centered people are arrogant people. When the Red Sea parted, they must have thought, "God must be smiling on us."
3. They demanded that God take care of them the way that they wanted Him to take care of them. That is being self-centered. They had it exactly backwards, which is always the case in self-centeredness. They should allow God to take care of them the way that He wanted to take care of them.
4. They superimposed their plan upon God's plan.
5. It is only God's plan which counts; it is always His plan which counts. The believer must wait for God's plan to unfold. What did they do at the Red Sea? They began to gripe and complain; they were ego-centric. They could not pull off theo-centric.
6. Who is anyone to impose their plan over God's? That is supreme arrogance. God's plan is perfect and He deserves no blame anymore than Moses did. Never blame God; we are not better than
7. The Jews refused to exercise faith. Here is what they wanted: nothing outside of themselves and their immediate desires. I want what I want when I want it. Ego-centric.
8. They were not capable of mustering up faith and applying it, even from that which they had already witnessed. Are we capable of mustering faith and applying it, from what we have learned.

Bobby is hoping that we can see how gracious God was, and how they rejected Him for 40 years, setting an all-time record. They are the epitome of spiritual failure, which is why Paul brings this up. This passage is a beacon to our own failures. Metabolization of doctrine and applying it from the right lobe of the soul is what we need. No grand, show-stopping experience is needed. We are to apply what we learn from Bible doctrine.

1Cor. 10:3 and all ate the same spiritual food,

1Cor. 10:

Lesson #526

Thursday May 3, 2007

Spiritual Autonomy

1. This is the ability to think apart from human viewpoint; it is standing on one's own spiritual feet.
2. Spiritual autonomy is responding to circumstances with divine viewpoint. You are responding to Bible doctrine from the right lobe of your soul. This is from your own resources and the reservoir of your soul. You must grow to a point of being spiritually self-sustaining.
3. The status of spiritual autonomy requires a system of learning, which system is called faith-perception.
4. Faith-perception is a system available to every believer in history. Every generation is given the opportunity to use faith-perception. A different mechanic is used for different dispensations. We will compare the Church Age to the Age of Israel. This meant utilizing empirical experience and then believing what they saw. They must draw from this experience and applying it is the faith rest drill and the mechanic of the spiritual life. Mental stability is also a result of spiritual growth. Lack of faith-perception defines the exodus generation. 1Cor. 10:3—this defines the exodus generation and the Corinthians as well. They needed to learn the lessons of spiritual failure in order to pass their own tests. You must know what spiritual failure looks like, so that you can avoid it. The lesson of failure is misplaced dependency on human resources. A misplaced dependency on human viewpoint. Without spiritual autonomy, all you can do is fall back on human viewpoint in a crisis.
5. Faith perception and spiritual autonomy are characterized by certain actions and characteristics:
  - a. The critical attitude of grace and doctrinal orientation in every circumstance of life. Reality is divine viewpoint, not human viewpoint; it is doctrinal orientation. The doctrinal and grace orientation rationale.
  - b. Combining the thought pattern of divine viewpoint with the reality of the situation and making good decisions from a position of strength. Spiritual autonomy is a position of strength.
  - c. Good decisions from a position of strength brings an attitude of contentment; a relaxed mental attitude. A tranquility of soul in the worst situations or in the best situations.
  - d. This is the application of doctrine under the umbrella of spiritual autonomy. Combining the thought pattern of divine viewpoint which brings contentment of soul in a variety of situations.

What the Exodus Generation Should have Done

1. What the exodus generation did not have the transference of their experiences into a rationale of doctrine. We don't have empirical experience to depend upon. We have the same sort of problems, just a different way of looking at it. They could not perceive the doctrine behind the event in order to pass the next event. They were unable to associate situation B with situation A, but they did not. They saw the Red Sea and when it was parted, they did not recognize what God was doing.

Therefore, when they came to a point of no-water and no-food, they fell apart. Nothing was converted into a rationale.

2. What they should have done: they needed to integrate the doctrine derived from their past experience, which is divine deliverance and the experience of logistical grace and the visible vision of God among them. They should have been able to make this experience into faith-perception. There was a doctrinal rationale behind their experience. Our Lord did not do these things simply to deliver the Jews; He did this so that they could learn some lessons; so that they could understand logistical grace; so they could understand the plan of God rationale. They should have made application from their previous experiences to situations and problems that they would encounter. This is how spiritual autonomy is developed. We stand on our own spiritual feet and draw from previous experiences, and pass the test. But, for 40 years, the Jews could not pass this test. The empirical experience of God's deliverance time after time should have brought the faith rest rational altogether, bringing them to an attitude of faith rest. But, it was the doctrinal rationale applied.

Okay, I understand what was done; how am I supposed to do it? The idea is, you focus on the Lord rather than on circumstances. A good analogy is an athlete. Mike Newman was an NBA player for 14 years, and he is one of the top 4 free throw shooters in the history of the game. What he does is, he throws exactly the way he does it in practice; you focus on the routine; on the drill; and you can tune out the crowd and no longer feel the pressure. You think on your own; you don't let the circumstances around you throw your game off; you have tranquility of soul in the midst of the whirlwind of a crowd. This goes all the way to occupation with Christ. It takes practice. You do it one time, another time, and then the time after that; and then you get good enough to do it in any circumstance.

What is the source? Spiritual food, which is found in v. 3. The adjective spiritual is πνευματικός from 1Cor. 2:13. For us it is gnōsis and for them it is visual knowledge. We must convert γνῶσις into ἐπίγνωσις. This is the gap.

Being filled with the Holy Spirit is our mechanic of this dispensation; we believe in γνῶσις and it becomes ἐπίγνωσις. We now have the result of faith-perception.

The Jews of the Old Testament did not have the filling of the Holy Spirit. They did have faith perception. The Jews did not have a pastor teacher, but they had empirical experience, which also involved priestly sacrifices. It was still empirical. They were supposed to have the experience, digest the meaning of it, and then convert it into a doctrinal rationale. Now, we are pseeking of the faith rest life. By faith, they came up with a doctrinal rationale. Application; the contentment of soul; the tranquility of soul. We know what theirs is and we know what ours is. However, we have the filling of the Holy Spirit, which makes this process internal.

This ηπνευματικός is the process of metabolizing spiritual life. The entire metabolizing process centers around πνευματικιοῦ. This is where Bob came up with metabolizing doctrine as food. Ours is figurative manna which also comes from heaven. Their manna was from heaven and they could hold it and eat it and it illustrated something to them. Our faith is in things unseen, from Heb. 11:1.

Manna was a picture of logistical grace and living grace. The literal manna was about a rationale; it was more than just food in the desert. Israel could see this and they were supposed to take this and apply it. Faith is the confidence and the conviction of things unseen. No one in the exodus generation would be named in Heb. 11.

Bobby wants to take a comparative look between manna supplied to Israel and what it means to us in the Church Age. This manna as a meaning.

Manna

1. What manna meant to Israel. There were specific detailed instructions which were supposed to be followed. Ex. 16:4–5, 16–18, 22–30 By following the instructions for its use, they would know God. This was a rationale drawn from experience. They get manna. Because they had food everyday, they needed to make application. If God can provide food and water in the midst of the desert,
2. Through the detailed instructions of metabolized doctrine, we can know about our Lord and His thinking; we can know the mind of Christ. We can gain spiritual autonomy just like they did, although ours is better.
3. Israel was hated by some of the Jews. Num. 21:5. They got bored with it. In this, they hated manna, so they could not apply it.
4. Negative volition toward manna means rejecting spiritual food, and involved serious rejection of doctrine.
5. No metabolized doctrine + no application of doctrine; which means no spiritual advance. This means, we have no spiritual life.
6. First Israel;; manna spoiled if kept overnight (Ex. 16:20).
  - a. No one was to take more manna than he or shee needed fo.
  - b. If they gathered more than one day's supply, this was a failure to follow instar
  - c. To gather more than one day's supply would be tantamount to rejecting doctrine.
  - d. The jews then got a daily reminder of the care of God; every morning they stepped out of their tents and there was manna.

The instructions were easy; anyone could do it.

Manna was there already to be gathered. Great is Your faithfulness, morning by morin.

it would be easy to get distracted and to think, hmm, manna might not be here tomorrow. Our application: we need a daily and consistent reminder of God's grace. They had spiritual food to do so. We need a daily and consistent reminder of God's race, which means the coon. Just as manna was their daily reminder of God's grace, so doctrine is our daily provision.

Spiritual food in v. 3 refers to a literal bread from heaven, designed for the consumption and sustenance of the exodus generation, and there is an analogy to the spiritual food which we receive at Berachah. There is an application to be made between the literal and spiritual use. For Israel, manna had physical properties—touch, taste, smell, etc. The manna was real, but there was also a spiritual growth application. It was a real meaning with a spiritual meaning. Manna taught the exodus generation about the care and keeping of them in the desert. As they ate this food on a daily basis, this was a teaching experience for them. This was a lesson in logistical grace. This was a chance for Israel to understand God's provisions; it represented a doctrinal rationale of logistical grace. The Jews needed desperately to pass the tests of moving to the Land of Promise. They had to take the land away from those who resided in it. They were going to be required to beat down powerful groups of men in Canaan. They needed to apply the doctrinal rationales to the crises which would come. There was a metabolizing process which Israel went through. Spiritual food was something they could see and then apply by faith to the other remaining circumstances in all their lives. This was a means to inculcate logistical grace, a rationale to use for the faith rest drill. The faith rest life was the spiritual life; that was the mechanic. They claimed a promise based upon a doctrine or a verse; they could take that which God promised and they could form a doctrinal rationale upon that promise. This was the spiritual life for Israel throughout their lives in the Age of Israel. Both literal and physical foods have a bearing on their spiritual lives and their spiritual growth.

Operation Z or gap. The key to gap is πνευματικός, which means spiritual phenomena. This is spiritual information. First there is a pastor-teacher who teaches doctrine.

Γνώσις is not useable for us; we must express positive volition toward this gnōsis.. God makes this Gnōsis into ἐπίγνωσις, which we grow and which we can apply to every circumstance of life. We must understand that this is how we partake of spiritual food; all of us partake in this way.

There is a parallel between what they metabolize physically and what they do in their souls. They went out every day and they found literal food and they ate it and it nourished them. This experience must be turned into a rationale in their souls. Faith is a means of perception. If you combine the two, empiricism + faith means that you are able to put together a doctrinal rationale. We use the filling of the Holy Spirit in order to metabolize doctrine; they needed something which they could see, feel, touch, and taste; and that they could potentially apply to their lives. Moses longed to see the time in which we lived, despite the fact that he had face to face contact with God. We get spiritual food in Berachah; we chew it, we think about it, and they, ideally speaking, we believe it, after it is gnōsis in our souls. He empowers our operation as well as He empowers our entire spiritual life. We also have the faith rest drill. That is a part of our spiritual life; it was their entire spiritual life. Do not envy Israel because they could see the walls of water or the manna coming down on the sky or the water. We think that something is more believable if we see it, but that is false. The problem for both of these people, the Jews and the Corinthians, is that they were not learning from what God had provided for them. The food was there, but they got nothing out of it. This is the entire metabolism process in a nutshell. The analogy of spiritual food; we take it in on a daily basis. This is a pregnant analogy.

Bobby is going to take us through a few of the applications.

Manna and its Application

1. There were specific detailed instructions given to the Jews with regards to manna. These instructions had a spiritual connotation. Ex. 16:4–5, 16–18, 22–30
2. Israel would know from this that the Lord is God from the appearance of manna.
3. The application to us, the detailed instruction of Bible doctrine that is metabolized, we can know about our Lord and His thinking. His mind is divine viewpoint. We metabolize the spiritual food. His viewpoint becomes our viewpoint.
4. The manna was actually hated by many of the Jews. Num. 21:5. This was their rejection of divine provision. The taste of the manna just got old. They wanted more variety in life. What God provided in life was just not good enough. They even wanted to return to the leeks and garlics of Egypt. Logistical grace is exactly what is necessary for us, and often, no more. Manna being hated represents negative volition toward doctrine. No metabolized doctrine, no application, means no spiritual growth, describing where many believers are today and it rescripts Gen X.
5. Manna spoiled over night Ex. 16:20. No one was to take more manna than they need per day. If they gathered more, this was failure to follow instructions. Manna was provided every new day without fail. Great is Your faithfulness, every morning. Tomorrow takes care of itself. You don't need any more than the manna for that day. This is a daily reminder of the grace and care of God. This should have been enough for them to build upon. The application to us, we need a daily and a consistent reminder of God's grace. This is how we know about God's grace. This means the consistent intake of spiritual food. That is our manna, which is daily spiritual food.
6. Manna was not provided on the Sabbath Ex. 16:29–30 so collected a 2-day supply for each person on the 6th day. Another specific instruction, which they violated. Ex. 16:28. Simple instructions which they botched. This demonstrates the divine nature of the provision. It spoils in one day, but it did not spoil on the 7th day, the day that Israel rested from gathering. During the Sabbath they remembered; this was an extra day on their rationales. They could also think about all the deliverance which God provided for them. Time for the Lord in His life and putting aside all the circumstances in life and inculcating all of this into our soul.
7. Application has nothing to do with Sabbath-keeping; that is for Israel. We must set aside designated time for God daily. That is our time to metabolize spiritual food. It is also time for prayer, witnessing, spiritual service, for operating under our spiritual gift. They have applications; we have applications. They had information on a daily basis. We get that everytime that we walk into Berachah. We must not forget that time.

8. Israel's spiritual food—unfathomed manna melted in the sun. Ex. 16:21; that collected was not spoiled. Only that part of the Word of God which is gathered into our soul can be used each day. That which remains outside of our soul cannot be used; it disintegrates. You can only use what you gather and place into your soul. That is all that you can use.

Sunday 2 May 6, 2007

We are in the midst of making an analogy between.

Manna and Its Spiritual Applications

1. There were specific instructions given to Israel and there is an application to us; we can know about our Lord and His thinking, which is the mind of Christ. Manna is physical food for Israel and spiritual food for Israel, and for us (the spiritual food).
2. The manna was hated by some Jews. We have seen some great consequences in our own rejection of the spiritual food.
3. No one was to take more than one day's ration; and we need a daily dose of spiritual food, which is a part of our spiritual life.
4. There was no manna given on the Sabbath. There was a purpose on that 7th day to enjoy the food which had been gathered two days previous. We in the Church Age are required to do this daily. That is why we take in doctrine in some form, whether in person, dvd or by mp3 files. As Israel was reminded on a daily basis, so we need to be reminded on a daily basis.
5. That which was left outside melted; that gathered into tins remained for the day. Doctrine gathered into our souls is applicable; that which is outside the tent disintegrates as doctrine that we do not believe is of no use to us.
6. Those who gathered much had no more than those who gathered little. Each got enough for their own sustenance. This is a perfect picture of grace; they could see it as an individual provision for each one of them. For us, grace always satisfies the needs of every individual believer. For each one of us, God has a plan. The plan of God is synonymous with grace. God's plan extends to us on an individual basis. We actually have in the pages of Scripture the very words that God would have us learn. These are His thoughts, and they are all that we need in order to live. All of this is our spiritual sustenance. There are many provisions for us. Spiritual food is metabolized at the believer's own pace and at his own capacity. You can gather as much as you want, but it will be metabolized at your pace. It is just enough for our life and for the place that we are in our life. Bobby has found that at just the time that he needs a specific doctrine, that it just happens to pop into his head; or it has just been covered. We must eat the manna; we must form rationales in our own souls. The Holy Spirit brings these to mind just when we need them. Grace is always timely; that is why Moses can say, stand still and watch the deliverance of the LORD. This comes from the doctrine resident in our souls. We won't see the grace of God unless we are grace oriented. God's grace is also apparent in His discipline; it is exactly what we need at exactly the right time to get us where we need to be.

7. Manna was provided for all the Jews. All of the Jews got manna, whether they are faithful or not. They could be the greatest leaders or the biggest losers; manna appeared and they all gathered it. Grace depends upon the character of God. It does not matter whether we are faithful to the Word or not; grace is always there. Otherwise, it is not grace. By all right, Israel should have perished in the desert. They should have died of thirst and hunger; they deserved that. Even in the remaining 39 years of their lives, God still took care of these complaining, gripping Jews. Manna was truly the bread of heaven, literally and figuratively. Very pertinent today.

Just as manna is spiritual food, water is spiritual drink. V. 4 tells us that Jesus Christ is the God of Israel; He is the spiritual Rock which followed them and from which they drank. We worship the same God that Israel worshipped. Jesus Christ is the link. From food, we go to water, and food and drink go together. We cannot separate these; the body needs both. An even greater problem was water. Interestingly enough, food came first; and having had food from heaven, why did they not understand that God could provide water? They were always looking for it.

Wherever, they went, the Rock followed Israel. One position is there was a literal rock which went right along with them. Others propose that the water out of the rock followed Israel. The rock produced a river, and this river followed the Jews wherever they went. This was water which made a river through the desert, and that is likely the thing which happened. The Jews had a miraculous, never-ending supply of water. This is a spiritual rock. A pneumatikos rock, from which flowed real water.

A literal water incident in the life of Israel. However, even though these are literal in meaning, there is a spiritual reference and a spiritual lesson, to be noted by the Jews of the Exodus generation and by the Corinthians, to whom Paul wrote. In order to understand the analogy, we need to examine the Old Testament reference.

Ex. 17:1: All the congregation of the people of Israel moved on from the wilderness of Sin by stages, according to the commandment of the LORD, and camped at Rephidim, but there was no water for the people to drink. There was no water available for the Jews at Rephidim. This took place near the time that the Manna incident took place. Did they transfer any rationales from the manna experience? Nope. Do they have a rationale and can they apply the past experience to the new experience? Of course not! They never seemed to get it.

Ex. 17:2: Therefore the people quarreled with Moses and said, "Give us water to drink." And Moses said to them, "Why do you quarrel with me? Why do you test the LORD?" They demanded water from Moses. They understood that they needed water but they seemed to think that Moses could provide them with water. It is normal to realize that water is necessary; but it is not normal to demand that Moses supply them with water. The faith rest method was not being used. "Where is the water?" No spiritual life. They should have stood by and waited for the water. They had seen God's provisions over and over again and they should have been willing to wait God out. We see that God takes care of us. We face similar tests and we flunk again; if we don't apply doctrine, then we fail the test. They could not apply the doctrinal rationale.

What could they do but quarrel with Moses? It should have been obvious that God would provide for them. But they were not spiritually autonomous enough. They were unable to pass this new test. Moses came back on them and said, "Why are you quarreling with me? Why do you test the LORD?" Moses was frustrated. You can understand how a pastor might get frustrated. We will see the idea of testing the Lord again, and he will mention it again in v. 9 (I think?). Testing the Lord is the crux of the problem. Moses is counseling them, so-to-speak. He reminds them of God's grace for them. "Calm down; take a breather; what about the manna in your tent? Can't you put this together." The problem is the mental attitude. They are demanding these things from mental attitude sins. God is taking care of us always; two attitudes of demanding and waiting. The Christian life means patience, tranquility of soul, in the worst crises. It is like no one else's life. Relaxing under any circumstance. God's grace was extended toward them because of Who and What God is.

With the faith rest drill, you know that God is going to do what is best for us. We need to relax; everything will be okay.

- Ex. 17:3: But the people thirsted there for water, and the people grumbled against Moses... "Remember what God has done; why are you grumbling?" These people had learned nothing. They seemed to know enough to come to Moses and complain. We might even cut them some slack at the Red Sea, but they should have understood more as they went along. First test is the Red Sea, the second is the manna, and the third is the lack of water. They have no excuse. Do you apply less doctrine now than when you were a new believer? The tests will get harder as we grow and we must utilize the grace of God. ...and said, "Why did you bring us up out of Egypt, to kill us and our children and our livestock with thirst?" Any time someone wants something from the government, they claim that it is for their children. "Look at our poor children! They're thirsty!" These people are victims. "You brought us out of Egypt to kill us?" but they were slaves in Egypt and they were being killed in Egypt. They were being stupid. They were being irrational. They kept saying that they should go back to Egypt. They got hungry and they wanted to go back to Egypt; when they got thirsty, they said, "Why did you bring us out from Egypt?"
- Ex. 17:4: So Moses cried to the LORD, "What shall I do with this people? They are almost ready to stone me." Moses is their leader and their intermediary and now they are threatening to kill Moses. They have never gone this far before. They never threatened Moses with death before. Things are getting worse and worse. Moses said, "What can I do with these people? They are idiots!" They had no appreciation for what God had done in the past;

no appreciation for Moses. No appreciation for life or for doctrine or for happiness. You build happiness and capacity for life upon doctrine.

What should have happened is, they should be curious what God is going to do this time. They should not be mad at Moses or mad at God. They should not be filled with mental attitude sins. They want to kill their own deliverance; they want to kill their own deliverer. This is typical of the Jews. They were rejecting the very deliverance which they demanded. This is what lack of doctrine does. They rejected divine provisions. They decided the beginning of their plan should be killing Moses. Stupidest idea ever. Moses over and over again was there to deal with their problems. And they wanted to kill him.

Worry won't help; demanded won't help; mental attitude sins won't help.

Ex. 17:5–7: And the LORD said to Moses, "Pass on before the people, taking with you some of the elders of Israel, and take in your hand the staff with which you struck the Nile, and go. Behold, I will stand before you there on the rock at Horeb, and you shall strike the rock, and water shall come out of it, and the people will drink." And Moses did so, in the sight of the elders of Israel. And he called the name of the place Massah and Meribah, because of the quarreling of the people of Israel, and because they tested the LORD by saying, "Is the LORD among us or not?"

1Cor. 10:4 and all drank the same spiritual drink. For they drank from the spiritual Rock that followed them, and the Rock was Christ.

1Cor. 10:1–4 Ex. 17:1–7

Wednesday May 9, 2007

Perhaps metabolizing doctrine is the same as internalizing something. In 1Cor. 10, Paul is giving a warning to the Corinthians concerning the consequences of negative volition toward doctrine. To make his point, and to illustrate this point, he uses the reversionist generation; the rebels without a cause; gen X. They could not seem to apply what they had experienced because of their strong negative volition. By analogy, this exodus generation is a good illustration for the Corinthians.

There was an external presence for the Exodus generation; and we have an internal presence of God the Holy Spirit. Moses observed failure after failure. They did not believe things before-hand. The real test was prior to the deliverance. The real test was prior to the crisis.

1Cor. 10:1 I want you to know, brothers, that our fathers were all under the cloud, and all passed through the sea,

1Cor. 10:2 and all were baptized into Moses in the cloud and in the sea,

They all experience manna, after having bitterly complained about Moses taking them out to the desert to starve. They failed the hunger test as well. They failed to apply the experience of the Red Sea. They did not make the application of the doctrinal rationale.

They did not pass the test, which means they did not grow spiritually. Doctrine in the soul which is not internalized. In any case, they failed the test; they did not apply a doctrinal rationale from their experience. If you don't pass the test or utilize the doctrine, you don't grow.

1Cor. 10:3 and all ate the same spiritual food,

They were drinking from a spiritual rock which followed them. This was a new test. Ex. 17:1–7 is this test/crisis/failure.

Ex. 17:1–4: All the congregation of the people of Israel moved on from the wilderness of Sin by stages, according to the commandment of the LORD, and camped at Rephidim, but there was no water for the people to drink. Therefore the people quarreled with Moses and said, "Give us water to drink." And Moses said to them, "Why do you quarrel with me? Why do you test the LORD?" Quarreling with Moses meant that they were quarreling with the Lord. Moses was simply the mouthpiece. But the people thirsted there for water, and the people grumbled against Moses and said, "Why did you bring us up out of Egypt, to kill us and our children and our livestock with thirst?" A statement which they continually brought up. Why have you brought this harm upon us? Deliver us! These Jews manufactured a problem where there was no problem. When you focus on the problem, you create a problem. Any external problem needs to be handled in the best way that you can, and then you let the Lord do the rest of it. God commanded them to be at this place and they should have remembered the Red Sea and they should have recalled, "Stand by and watch the deliverance of the Lord." However, these people were not spiritually autonomous enough to make this application. They simply rejected what God had supplied them with; they rejected that which was right before their eyes. They continued to challenge Moses and to challenge God. "Give us water!" That was a mandate; not a request and not a prayer. The key is their mental attitude. "What is wrong with you Moses, getting us in a situation like this?" Their demands were completely out of bounds. So Moses cried to the LORD, "What shall I do with this people?" A little bit longer, and these people would have killed Moses. How would that bring water to them? They had no appreciation for what God had done. When you appreciate what someone else has done for you, then you have moved away from self-centeredness. They did not appreciate any of what they had; they did not appreciate anything which God did for them or what Moses had done on their behalf. They were rejecting the very deliverance that they demanded. They doubted God's deliverance and therefore, His grace. What is wonderful is, we see the faithfulness of God, despite their behavior. They are almost ready to stone me."

Ex. 17:5–7: And the LORD said to Moses, "Pass on before the people, taking with you some of the elders of Israel, and take in your hand the staff with which you struck the Nile, and go. God tells Moses to calm down, and get his staff, and then he'll be given some more directions. Behold, I will stand before you there on the rock at Horeb (just as God had been with them as the pillar of fire or the cloud), and you shall strike the rock, and water shall come out of it, and the people will drink." Literal water would have come out of a literal rock. There was a figurative aspect to this as well; this would be the death of Jesus Christ on the cross, and He would satisfy their thirst eternally. This is why John uses the Old Testament illustration of the rock. And Moses did so, in the sight of the elders of Israel. And he called the name of the place Massah and Meribah, because of the quarreling of the people of Israel, and because they tested the LORD by saying, "Is the LORD among us or not?" What more do they need to see? At what point would they recognize their divine benefactor? Every day they saw manna appear from the sky; every day they saw the cloud and at night, the pillar of fire. Once again, in grace, they got a demonstration of God's presence. "I hope you never say, God has deserted me." God's faithfulness is demonstrated over and over again. The whole problem of water was designed to develop the faith rest technique of the Jews. It was not about slacking their thirst no more than was manna about feeding them.

At the Red Sea, there was too much water; wrong kind of water at Marah; and now there is no water at Rephidim. There is very little difference between them at that time and us today. Maybe the desire of our heart is no good for us? What we have is best for us. Paul prayed to remove the thorn from his flesh, for his own benefit. And God does the same for us. Doctrine takes up the slack for all of us.

We have a portfolio residing in heaven there for us, and all we have to do is execute the spiritual life; it is in escrow there for us. The key is, grow up. We have no capacity for it, so what good is it? Doctrine takes up the slack. If you are not ready for it, you might not get it. That would be a break for us. From the moment we are regenerated until the moment that we die, and on until eternity. We have something which is so much greater than what Israel had. We get to see Him in His relationship to us, which Israel might not have seen. They could see what God did, but they did not see what God could do for them personally. We get to see the very personal relationship.

2Cor. 5:7: We walk by faith and not by sight. Faith in the truth of the Word of God, which never fails. God never failed them and He never will fail us, no matter how rotten and lousy we are. We may want to become a victim and maybe even parlay that into getting our way with God. We can't manipulate God.

Moses did not describe this rock, except by saying that God was there; and Paul makes it clear the Jesus Christ was there. It was always Jesus Christ Who stood before Israel. The rock was struck and out came water. Just as Jesus Christ was struck on the cross, and out from this judgment came the living water of salvation. A perfect illustration. This is the spiritual water upon which we are all dependent. "Whoever drinks out of the living water which I give him will never thirst."

And the Rock was Christ gives us two great doctrines. Imperfect active indicative of the verb εἶμι . In the beginning was the Word and the Word was [imperfect active indicative] with God. Since Jesus Christ created all, He had to be in the beginning with God. And the Word was God. There never was a time when Jesus Christ did not exist. He was a form of divinity, but He was not pre-existent. There is an eternal existence. The Trinity is not just a New Testament doctrine; it is found in the Old Testament as well. The Lord Jesus Christ gave the Ten Commandments; it was the Lord Jesus Christ Who gave Moses instructions at Horeb, which includes His own impending death. The glory in the Tabernacle is Jesus Christ. Over the Holy of Holies in the Tabernacle was Jesus Christ. The High Priest went in once a year to sprinkle blood on the altar. Present at the Rock. The Exodus generation saw Him at the Red Sea, with the manna and the water, and in the cloud and the pillar of fire.

1Cor. 10:4 and all drank the same spiritual drink. For they drank from the spiritual Rock that followed them, and the Rock was Christ.

Thursday May 10, 2007

A perverse and fractious group of people. God was not well-pleased with them. Only two made it out of the desert into the land. Not even Moses made it; only Caleb and Joshua made it. They never wavered and they never failed. Their final test came at Kadesh Barnea, and they finally passed. Num. 13–14 Joshua 14:6–14. This also marked the greatest failure of the exodus generation. It sealed their doom. It brought the sin unto death to Gen X. They did not pass even once. They had every opportunity up until Kadesh Barnea to pass the many tests given them by God. All that had come before was preparation for what was to come. Kadesh was to be their final objective; about a year after leaving Egypt, they arrived to Kadesh, close to the Land of Promise. This was an important position from which they could recon. They were adjacent to the land. They would soon have the opportunity to hear just how incredible this land was. At that point, they should have planned their campaign to conquer Canaan. They knew it was theirs; God had deeded the land to them; they only needed to walk in and take their possession. They only had to move in. It did not matter that there were other tribes there. Moses understood that it was time to spy out the land. He took 12 men, the bravest of every tribe; these were the Jewish rangers, including Joshua and Caleb. They decided to split up and they decided to look at every corner of the land. When they finally finished their recon; Canaan lived up to its billing as a land of milk and honey; an agricultural paradise (particularly in comparison to Egypt). 10 of the 12 had a problem, and they were not operating on faith rest. They were among those who grumbled all their way through the desert. They focused on the problem and not on the solution. You do not solve problems by fretting over the problem; you solve problems by applying a doctrinal rationale. We should apply some of the rationales. Will God part the Red Sea for us or smite our enemies? Unlikely, but He still has a plan for us, and we need to relax in our plan. Life can be enjoyable if you focus on the solution rather than on the problem. Everywhere they went, the Jews saw oversized people, which scared them. They were big, they knew how to fight, and they had cities that would be hard to take. It seemed like this would be a pretty difficult undertaking. They did not trust in God; they had no plan of God rationale. This land given to Abraham, Isaac and Jacob. The promise came to them, even though the Jews moved temporarily to Egypt. Here, they are right at the foot of the land, and they say, no. Caleb said, "Let's go in and take the land; this is God's land for us." Caleb applied if God be for us, who can be against us? If you face someone who continually is antagonistic; if God be for you, who can be against you? This is the rationale in Caleb's soul. No enemy is greater than God, Who parted the Red Sea, who destroyed the entire Egyptian army. Caleb was a leader and a warrior. The fearful 10 falsified their reports, so that they would not have to go back. They were like our Congress; they favored cutting and running. They said, "These are giants; we can't deal with them." They distorted their numbers. These are big, tough warriors who would torture us. This report was designed to strike terror into the hearts of the other Jews. We are about to have a national paranoia which will lead us to a lot of bad decisions. We are at a Kadesh Barnea; we're afraid; scary terrorists and soldiers.

Now they made these statements in direct opposition to God. The theme of Moses' sermons would be God has promised us this land; God will guide and deliver us; God has a plan for us. This and what the people saw did not sink in. However, fear sunk into their souls. Moses' approval rating dropped. The people followed their reversionist pattern.

Num. 14:2–4: And all the people of Israel grumbled against Moses and Aaron. The whole congregation said to them, "Would that we had died in the land of Egypt! Or would that we had died in this wilderness! Why is the LORD bringing us into this land, to fall by the sword? Our wives and our little ones will become a prey. Would it not be better for us to go back to Egypt?" And they said to one another, "Let us choose a leader and go back to Egypt." This might as well be, and all the American people grumbled against President Bush. These Jews actually would prefer to die in Egypt or in the wilderness, which was their complaint on several previous occasions. "Is God bringing us into this land so that we will fall by the sword?" Then they used their children—whenever a group wants something, they invoke the children card. Our children need this or that. They do not want to go into the land, so they use their wives and children as an excuse. They suggest that they cut and run. Here are 10 men who tell a group of lies and everyone believes them. They suggest that they elect a leader so that they can return to slavery. How much sense does this make? How would Egypt receive them? Ex. 15:24 16:3 17:3 Deut. 1:27 Joshua 1:17 are various times that they people grumbled.

The land is everything that God had told them that it would be, and they want to leave. Abject fear of their circumstances. Psalm 56:3 tells us what they should have applied. When I am afraid, I will trust in You. This means that there will be times when we are in fear. This is a normal human emotion. When you act on your fear, you are a coward; fear does not make you a coward; acting on the basis of fear makes you a coward. The Red Badge of Courage is a great book on this particular thing.

These people outdo themselves in the realm of fear. Let's appoint a leader to lead us back to Egypt. "Moses, you have a very low approval rating; you need to step down." They are in mutiny; a full-blown revolution against Moses (God's chosen) and against God. These people had been baptized into Moses, and they rejected him now. This is the final rejection. Blame Moses, which meant that they were cutting their own throats. The rejected the source of their deliverance. Then they even want to stone Moses.

Num 14:5: Then Moses and Aaron fell on their faces before all the assembly of the congregation of the people of Israel. This was showing great humility; they were not afraid of these people. These people won't defeat you; they are our prey. Their protection has been removed from them.

Num 14:9: Only do not rebel against the LORD. And do not fear the people of the land, for they are bread for us. Their protection is removed from them, and the LORD is with us; do not fear them." Moses gives them a faith rest rationale. If God defeated the chariots of Pharaoh, can He not defeat these people too?

Num 14:10: Then all the congregation said to stone them with stones. But the glory of the LORD appeared at the tent of meeting to all the people of Israel. Moses was afraid of God, not of these people. He knew that God could take them out.

Num 14:19: Please pardon the iniquity of this people, according to the greatness of your steadfast love, just as you have forgiven this people, from Egypt until now." These people did not deserve Moses' intervention. This is a beautiful picture of Jesus Christ functioning as a mediator between God and man. These people deserve destruction.

These are entrenched reversionists. God loves these people and He must make correction, just as He must correct us.

1Cor. 10:5 Nevertheless, with most of them God was not pleased, for they were overthrown in the wilderness.

Num 14:20–24, 29: Then the LORD said, "I have pardoned, according to your word. But truly, as I live, and as all the earth shall be filled with the glory of the LORD, none of the men who have seen my glory and my signs that I did in Egypt and in the wilderness, and yet have put me to the test these ten times and have not obeyed my voice, shall see the land that I swore to give to their fathers. And none of those who despised me shall see it. But my servant Caleb, because he has a different spirit and has followed me fully, I will bring into the land into which he went, and his descendants shall possess it...your dead bodies shall fall in this wilderness, and of all your number, listed in the census from twenty years old and upward, who have grumbled against me, They had finally reached the point of the sin unto death. This is the pronouncement of the sin unto death. God gave them 39 more years to grow up spiritually and to learn something. God gives them 39 years to think about this, and 39 years to build up a spiritual life out in the desert. There are always repercussions to reversionism.

God did not reject the Israelites entirely as a nation. Those who were 20 years and younger would enter into the land. This 39 years would be given over to preparing the children of Gen X.

Sunday 1 May 13, 2007

In California; was in San Jose for this lesson:

The week of Alex's Memorial service in San Jose June 10, 2007), so this would be from early to mid-May 2007; possibly when I was in California; it is a 1st Sunday Communion Service.

We just covered the 3 deliverances which Paul mentions in 2Corinthians. The Croionthians are the original baboys of the New Testament. May 13, 2007, Lesson 531

The Corinthians may be occasionally in fellowship, but he who does not advance, retreats. Paul is making a comparison between the Corinthians and the hall of shame reversionists, the Exodus generation. There is a high price for reversionism; it is a high price for them and a high price for us as believers. Paul was a great rabbi and he had studied the writings of Moses extensively. He knew the history of his own people, and he now uses this knowledge.

The background is found in Num. 14:2–4:

Num. 14:2–4: And all the people of Israel grumbled against Moses and Aaron. The whole congregation said to them, "Would that we had died in the land of Egypt! Or would that we had died in this wilderness! Why is the LORD bringing us into this land, to fall by the sword? Our wives and our little ones will become a prey. Would it not be better for us to go back to Egypt?" And they said to one another, "Let us choose a leader and go back to Egypt."

Canaan had already been deeded to the Jews, and Kadesh was a strategic place for them to begin, and it was time for them to take possession of this property. This would be the greatest and essentially the ifnaly failure of the Exodus generation. This would have far-reaching repercussions of this generatin. The failure is the lesson which we must learn. Their failure can be our failure as well.

Before the start of the campaign to take their land, the Jews needed to gather some intelligence; who are the people and what is the lay of the land? This is excellent information to gather. Two of the men were Joshua and Caleb, and the other 10 are not named. Those 10 are never named and they were scared to death. The people in the land turned out to be big, strong, powerful; with well-fortified cities. Now, it is possible that the Jews had trained some in the desert; but they were not as strong or as well-trained as the people of Canaan. The people of the Exodus generation were much like the people of the US; well, I do't know; this just does not look like a good situation. However, there were two spies who filed a dissenting report. They counseled for war; they lifted up their voices against the other ten. "If God be for us, who can be against us?" was their doctrinal rationale.

They have seen an example from about a year ago, where the very well-trained army of the Egyptians was wiped out by God so that they could leave. No matter what the circumstance of life, God is for us. There are no setbacks in the Christian life; if God is for us, who can be against us? The one who does not advance retreats. Nothing in our life is a setback. Israel listened to the 10 and not the 2. They were swayed by the bad reports. They took a poll and it concerned them greatly. They have seen 1 year of delilverances, and they cannot seem to hang with it. Then they did what they did best; they complained and whined and grumbled against Moses and Aaron.

It is important for us to see what a loser looks like and what a nation of losers looks like. God had given them the land already, and it was time for these Jews to go into the land, and they chose not to. These are 10 cowards and their report of disillusionment. They grumble. These are not doctrinal rationales but doctrinal irrationales.

Fear has gripped them, the irrationality of fear, and they said, “Let us die in Egypt.” Most of us do not want to die, but cowards in particular. It was an excuse to turn into a coward in front of the enemy. If you have no doctrine, then you will fear for your life all the time. Fear is often defined as how people approach death.

Memorial service for Dick Ryman. Bobby does not eulogize. “Bury the dead and speak to the living” is what Bobby’s grandfather told him? And Bob told him that as well. When Bobby started speaking, some walked out. They were unable to face it.

Our life is in the hands of Jesus Christ. Whether we live or die is in the hands of Jesus Christ. This should give us great peace, and when we die, it is profit. It is just faith rest. The Jews at that time simply need to get off their duffs and walk into the land and take it.

There should be no one in this auditorium who fears death. Bobby will miss those who depart from this life, but we know where they are and it is better than where they were.

Num 14:2 And all the people of Israel grumbled against Moses and Aaron. The whole congregation said to them, "Would that we had died in the land of Egypt! Or would that we had died in this wilderness!

They are saying, God has delivered us this far, saving us from every difficulty, and now, He has brought us to this desert to kill us. They play the family card. “Our wives and children will just die here.” The premise here is, they use the promise of God against Him; “There will be no new generations for You to prosper.” They oppose the plan of God through manipulation.

They feel justified and they are trying to manipulate God to allow them to cut and run. Let’s go back to where we were comfortable. This defines slavery. Go back to the way things used to be, before God contacted them.

They offer up their own little plan; they want to appoint a new leader and get rid of God’s chosen leader, the man who spent 40 years in preparation and who has led them for a year and now they want to get rid of him.

Num 14:3 Why is the LORD bringing us into this land, to fall by the sword? Our wives and our little ones will become a prey. Would it not be better for us to go back to Egypt?" And they said to one another, "Let us choose a leader and go back to Egypt."

Num 14:5–8: Then Moses and Aaron fell on their faces before all the assembly of the congregation of the people of Israel. And Joshua the son of Nun and Caleb the son of Jephunneh, who were among those who had spied out the land, tore their clothes and said to all the congregation of the people of Israel, "The land, which we passed through to spy it out, is an exceedingly good land. If the LORD delights in us, he will bring us into this land and give it to us, a land that flows with milk and honey.

Moses does not argue with them or plead with them. He applies a doctrinal rationale from his own soul this is how he thought under pressure. He stared these people down and told them what is up.

Take any rationale and remember it and apply it: the plan of God rationale, the logistical grace of God rationale. Moses did not say, "Get the hell out of here. Elect a leader and go." Moses gives them a doctrinal message, hoping that they would come to their senses.

Num 14:9 Only do not rebel against the LORD. And do not fear the people of the land, for they are bread for us. Their protection is removed from them, and the LORD is with us; do not fear them."

they picked up stones to kill Moses. God cannot allow such things to pass. He will take them to a reckoning.

Num 14:10 Then all the congregation said to stone them with stones. But the glory of the LORD appeared at the tent of meeting to all the people of Israel.

Num 14:11–15: And the LORD said to Moses, "How long will this people despise me? And how long will they not believe in me, in spite of all the signs that I have done among them? I will strike them with the pestilence and disinherit them, and I will make of you a nation greater and mightier than they." But Moses said to the LORD, "Then the Egyptians will hear of it, for you brought up this people in your might from among them, and they will tell the inhabitants of this land. They have heard that you, O LORD, are in the midst of this people. For you, O LORD, are seen face to face, and your cloud stands over them and you go before them, in a pillar of cloud by day and in a pillar of fire by night. Now if you kill this people as one man, then the nations who have heard your fame will say, God pronounced the sin unto death upon this generation. The exodus generation would die out in the next 39 years.

Even such judgment as this is done in grace. God is not a mean God; He is not a hateful God. "Yeah, but wait a minute, this is a death sentence." Moses will continue to teach and they can learn while in the desert. There are repercussions to bad decisions.

Num 14:21–23: But truly, as I live, and as all the earth shall be filled with the glory of the LORD, none of the men who have seen my glory and my signs that I did in Egypt and in the wilderness, and yet have put me to the test these ten times and have not obeyed my voice, shall see the land that I swore to give to their fathers. And none of those who despised me shall see it.

It is a terrible thing to fall into the hands of the Living God and they needed to be popped.

Now, they offered up their children as an excuse why they could not go into the land; and, therefore, God will let their children go into the land. Moses had his greatest ministry with this younger generation.

God will always fulfill His promise; He will always provide. The children of this recalcitrant generation would enter the land, and they would take it.

During the years that their parents were just living in the desert, their children grew spiritually. They were still there among their parents and they were learning from Moses. What did the kids do? They trained. They trained as soldiers and they trained in the faith rest drill.

They got ready in those years to take the land which God had promised them. Some of these kids were getting older and their children were growing as well. These children taught their children, using their own parents as object lessons. There is a lot of failure around us.

Num. 14:26–32: And the LORD spoke to Moses and to Aaron, saying, "How long shall this wicked congregation grumble against me? I have heard the grumbings of the people of Israel, which they grumble against me. Say to them, 'As I live, declares the LORD, what you have said in my hearing I will do to you: your dead bodies shall fall in this wilderness, and of all your number, listed in the census from twenty years old and upward, who have grumbled against me, not one shall come into the land where I swore that I would make you dwell, except Caleb the son of Jephunneh and Joshua the son of Nun. But your little ones, who you said would become a prey, I will bring in, and they shall know the land that you have rejected. But as for you, your dead bodies shall fall in this wilderness.

A lot of people have ideas as to what we ought to do in Iraq. For some of you, you listen to talk radio almost religiously. We have one deliverance and it does not reside in activism or talk radio, but it resides in Bible doctrine in our soul. That is what God honors.

Καταστροφῆ, which is transliterated catastrophe. The children of Israel of the first generation were walking through what seemed to be a morgue. There were a trail of bones and bodies everywhere that they went. Every time one of them died, the promise and the judgment would be remembered. Kadesh Barnea and the failure there would be remembered.

1Cor. 10:5b: Nevertheless, with most of them God was not pleased, for they were overthrown in the wilderness.

All of this has great application.

Now, God did not set up the Jews up for failure so that we could use them as an example. This is not a deterministic passage. The Jews chose failure here (Gen X). God permitted their failure. God permits the full function of our free will, even when it runs counter to His will.

The directive will of God in discipline. First He directs and then He permits.

1Cor. 10:6: Now these things took place as examples for us, that we might not desire evil as they did.

God overruling will, where He preserved Joshua and Caleb. This is a window to failure and to success. Paul uses the failure of the exodus generation to make a point. The lesson we soul take away on Mother's Day is to remember, you do not owe everything to mother; although you probably owe a lot. You owe everything to Jesus Christ for His plan now and forever. Be the second generation and not the first.

δε + nominative plural demonstrative pronoun ουτος and this connects what comes before, the examples from the exodus generation which are given to us in the OT. The incidence of vv. 1–5, the Apostle Paul understood all about the exodus generation. There are a great many failures from this generation. He chose some specific incidents, calling them τυπος = an example, a pattern. The exodus generation had so much and saw so much and they were blind as any people could be. They had the greatest leadership in Moses, guided by God Himself, εις τω ειμι = to the ends, to the intent that. The exodus generation should have had an extra-strong desire to follow the plan of God, but they did not. They should have gotten up every single day saying, "I wonder what God is going to do today? This is fascinating." There is this river following them everywhere they go; they had manna poured out from heaven on them every day.

The Craving

1. The craving for evil is a desire which has gone beyond lust. It has gone beyond lust for something which is prohibited. They go to a dependency and an habitual practice of the prohibited. They had a strong craving and a dependency.
2. This was chasing evil on a consistent basis. It was not just a slip now and again, this was a consistent chasing down of evil to where it became a way of life to them. Their way of life should have been faith rest; but evil became their way of life.

3. Consistent carnality. Their thought pattern was carnality. This was not a few sins now and again; this was a consistent life of carnality.
4. This craving for evil is synonymous with reversionism.
5. Craving for evil for us means, no recovery from carnality; no filling of the Holy Spirit, and the subsequent loss of any spiritual growth or divine viewpoint. Without recovery of carnality. When you finally hit a craving for evil; when you are consistently involved in that carnality. That is consistent position of Gen X.

We are not to crave evil as the Jews also did.

1Cor. 10:6: Now these things took place as examples for us, that we might not crave [desire] evil as they did.

This is a disorganized gathering of idiots and it included others besides Israel. There were others who escaped slavery in Egypt who were not Israelites, but tagalongs, who attached themselves. They may have been the dregs of Egypt. They may have offered to do whatever was asked for to get them out of Egypt. These were often unbelievers. Israel in close association with these people found nothing but trouble. These types often fomenting rebellion, both against Moses and against, therefore, God. They influenced those who were not strong in faith rest. People seem to drop to the lowest common denominator. They joined up and became a great influence on the Jews who had nothing in their souls.

Num. 11:4: Now the rabble that was among them had a strong craving [greedy desires]. And the people of Israel also wept again and said, "Who will give us meat to eat!"

They had water, they had manna, and they all sat down in the desert and wept. But they did not have meat, and they missed it. They are never satisfied. They want meat.

They look back rather than forward. They recall the free school lunch program in Egypt. There were also the other goodies. They wanted an assortment of great delicacies rather than the great manna provided for them. They wanted their own desires which was not in the plan.

Num. 11:31–32 God provided quail meat for them. Some got the sin unto death in the way of a plague. They lusted for all that Egypt had to offer. They are going to a land filled with milk and honey. This was a place of great prosperity. They are looking back. This is the perfect illustration of a reversionist. The one who looks back and never forward.

Recall Ezek. 3:19–21 where the Jews were called the whores of Egypt. They have evil desires and they expect God to give it to them. Doesn't God know what we want? He is supposed to be taking care of us.

They want what they want

1. They are never satisfied. They always crave more than God has provided. Rather than being focused on the plan of God, these understand in their own souls that they get everything that they need. This is the evil of egocentricity.
2. They do not realize that God has met their needs. Notice what God has provided for you instead of worrying about what you think He should provide.
3. In their wanting more, they do not appreciate what God has already done.
4. This was the picture of the blindness of the habitual craving of evil.
5. This is the testing of God; it is not a good thing to test God. "Do you love us God? Then give us what you want."

Num 11:5: We remember the fish we ate in Egypt that cost nothing, the cucumbers, the melons, the leeks, the onions, and the garlic.

They are tired of even looking at this manna. It was not satisfying their palates. This is an example that the Corinthians could relate to. This is why Paul chose them.

Num 11:6 But now our strength is dried up, and there is nothing at all but this manna to look at."

Ex. 34:17 1Cor. 12:21 Eph. 4:19 5:5 Col. 3:5 1Peter 4:3 Jude all deal with sexual reversionism.

Some people think that if you are a conservative, you are pro divine establishment. However, we should not join some militia and oppose the national guard.

Paul continues with a new set of analogies.

1Cor. 10:7 is hard to follow at first. Idolatry is a serious problem for the Jews throughout their history.

1Co 10:7 Do not be idolaters as some of them were; as it is written, "The people sat down to eat and drink and rose up to play."

The Jews carried idols with them from their Egyptian slavery. They Egyptians worshiped the cow and the bull in their own religion, and the Jews went along with it. Bobby, when he sees an exhibit like that, and he wonders if any of these guys had idols like this with them. For the Jews, the Egyptian cow was not the only thing in their periphery. The Canaanites were the occupiers of this land.

Deut. 7:5–10: But thus shall you deal with them: you shall break down their altars and dash in pieces their pillars and chop down their Asherim and burn their carved images with fire. "For you are a people holy to the LORD your God. The LORD your God has chosen you to be a people for his treasured possession, out of all the peoples who are on the face of the earth. It was not because you were more in number than any other people that the LORD set his love on you and chose you, for you were the fewest of all peoples, but it is because the LORD loves you and is keeping the oath that he swore to your fathers, that the LORD has brought you out with a mighty hand and redeemed you from the house of slavery, from the hand of Pharaoh king of Egypt. Know therefore that the LORD your God is God, the faithful God who keeps covenant and steadfast love with those who love him and keep his commandments, to a thousand generations, and repays to their face those who hate him, by destroying them. He will not be slack with one who hates him. He will repay him to his face.

Moses would be up on the mountain for 40 days, and these Jews decides to build a golden calf. Another failure.

a letter from Iraq and a believer from Berachah who is there. If you are focused on doctrine, the worst of situations becomes the best of situations.

There was no time limit or expectation for the return of Moses so the people gather around Aaron. Gen X already had a God, and yet they wanted Aaron to hook them up with a new god. As soon as Moses is gone for a few days, they assemble themselves. The rabble began to scheme and talk.

The call him this Moses and they say that they does not know what happened to him. There was no need to panic. They still had the river and they still had the manna.

Ex. 32:1: When the people saw that Moses delayed to come down from the mountain, the people gathered themselves together to Aaron and said to him, "Up, make us gods who shall go before us. As for this Moses, the man who brought us up out of the land of Egypt, we do not know what has become of him."

they demanded of Aaron to make a calf, as he was now in charge, and Aaron went along with this.

"This is your cow who brought you out of Egypt" is a statement which is made. It is unbelievable. They had no doctrinal rationales extracted from their experiences. Every day was simply a new day for them.

Exo 32:2-4 So Aaron said to them, "Take off the rings of gold that are in the ears of your wives, your sons, and your daughters, and bring them to me." So all the people took off the rings of gold that were in their ears and brought them to Aaron. And he received the gold from their hand and fashioned it with a graving tool and made a golden calf. And they said, "These are your gods, O Israel, who brought you up out of the land of Egypt!"

Idolatry is the favorite form of reversionism for the Jews. Idols representing the phallic cult. The cow-bull motif of the Egyptian pantheon was also something they were familiar with.

Paul quotes Ex. 32:6b. They ate, they drank and they stood up to play. The rites of the calf were phallic rites. The Corinthians were getting involved in the phallic cults as well.

The Corinthians, even though they were getting involved in the phallic cult of Aphrodite, they did not give up Christianity. It was not an either-or situation for them.

The problem for the Jews was, Moses took too long to come down from the mountain. The mountain where Moses was, was not a reassuring sight. It was more than ominous, it was terrifying. This ominous cloud is the same cloud which led them out of Egypt. The idle hands of children often get into trouble, and these Corinthians were in the same situation. They began to think in terms of a contingency plan. They began to think about Moses. They came up with a false conclusion and worked from there. "Moses is not coming back."

As soon as they lost their leadership, they became lost and confused; they were self destructive; they were looking for some extra help, just not from God.

"Your God does not seem to be working now, so lets call upon an Egyptian god to deal with our day to day life." They demanded action from Aaron. He was to fashion an image.

Here was Aaron, fashioning the calf; he was bullied into a line of action. Aaron used golden earrings and other things to make the calf from. These were earrings, treasures taken from Egypt, so that they could build the Tabernacle.

This was a grouping of gods, and the calf represented a pantheon of gods. It probably included Jehovah as one of the gods. They blend Him in with the other gods.

1Co 10:7 Do not be idolaters as some of them were; as it is written, "The people sat down to eat and drink and rose up to play."

The Jews are guilty of syncretism, which is what the Corinthians are guilty of. They combine or coalesce mutually opposed beliefs. The idea that all religions are essentially the same; they all lead to the same place. All religions are not the same.

When anyone says all religions lead to God, they have built up their own god, and he is just some part of their imagination; they make god in their own image.

The Uniqueness of Christianity versus Islam

1. Islam and Christianity are quite different. Salvation by grace versus salvation by works.
2. Every religion requires some sort of works; Christianity says there is nothing which you can do to gain the favor of God. That is the difference between our faith and all others.
3. There is another distinctive; the meaning and work of Jesus Christ. People have rationalize Who Jesus Christ is. They make Him out just to be a good person. He claimed, "I am the way, the truth and the life; no one comes to the Father but by Me.” He is the only pathway to God. He is either lying or he is telling the truth. The choice is simple. Either He is Who He says He is or He is not.

4. Another distinctive: the deterministic will of God versus the idea that we have free will. They, in this way, relieve themselves of all responsibility. If they say all religions are a pathway to God, then they have never investigated the actual differences. So many people do not want to hear the truth; they just want the easy way out.

Wall Street Journal “Redefining God” is syncretism. Dissatisfied with an authoritarian God or a paternalistic one, people are coming up with their own gods to suit their own quirky needs. Even many traditionalists see a God who is far more accessible; a god who is down here. It is insanity. It is happening right here in the US. The most direct cause is the anti-authoritarian thinking which has made together...cobbled together a religion. They made the new god on one day and were going to worship the other on another day, to cover all bases.

Exo 32:5 When Aaron saw this, he built an altar before it. And Aaron made proclamation and said, "Tomorrow shall be a feast to the LORD."

This is exactly what the Corinthians were doing; syncretism. They gave a little attention to God and a little elsewhere. That is being apostate. They could not wait a few more days to get the law and to see Moses and find out what God had done for them.

We have nothing in common with Muslims, but we still owe them the gospel. This is a perfect example of how man can be then and now. Human viewpoint influenced all of their thinking.

Exo 32:6 And they rose up early the next day and offered burnt offerings and brought peace offerings. And the people sat down to eat and drink and rose up to play.

Armed forces week. Ben Stein Feb. 2, 2007 letter. The letter is addressed to soldiers all over the world. “You own about 90% of the world’s backbone.” Stein describes his day and the minor things which he does; in other words, I did a lot of nothing. I merely rearranged the deck chairs on the titanic; a friend was concerned with his life’s meaning, as all he did was count his money; our lives are about nothing; paying bills, hum drum jobs; our lives are trivia compared to what you do. Oprah Winfrey talks about meaning, which is getting her photo on her magazine cover each month. Meaning is fighting the greatest evil which is out there. The fate of this world depends upon what you soldiers do. About 0.02% of the world’s population hold back the tide of chaos. Now, we know that believers have an impact here; however, the armed forces are a bastion of freedom. Do you know how important you are? Do you know how indispensable you are? If you never do another thing in our lives, you will be heros. We could live without Hollywood or the NFL; but we could not live without you. You have far more meaning than any of these things. That is who you are and what you mean. Stein's sentiments should be ours.

1Cor. 10:7: Nor should we be idolaters, even as some of them, as it is written: "The people sat down to eat and drink, and rose up to play."

Ex. 32:1–: And the people saw that Moses delayed to come down from the mountain, Moses has gone up to Mount Sinai and he would be gone for 40 days and 40 nights. The Jews thought that God had deserted them. God must no longer have a plan for us. We think this way when things are not going our way. The Shekinah glory was still with this people, and yet they did not recognize this. God's presence was there, but they could not trust Him. The people got Aaron out of his tent and got him up to make an idolatrous calf. and the people gathered themselves to Aaron. And they said to him, Up! Make us gods who shall go before us. For this Moses, the man who brought us up out of the land of Egypt, we do not know what has become of him. The Jews concluded that Moses is dead. And Aaron said to them, Break off the golden earrings which are in the ears of your wives, of your sons, and of your daughters, and bring them to me.

Ex. 32:4: And all the people broke off the golden earrings which were in their ears, and brought them to Aaron. And he took them from their hand, and fashioned it with an engraving tool. And he made it a molten calf. And they said, These are your gods, O Israel, who brought you up out of the land of Egypt. The Jews are fully aware of God's part in delivering them on their trek up from Egypt; they lived through all of this. These Jews had no spiritual life; they could not faith rest even the least little thing. They are bringing in new god, because they have no faith in God. Their spiritual life is faith rest; they were miserable failures. Synchratism is what they were guilty of; they combined beliefs; they were celebrating diversity; they were the original believers in multi-diversities. They are mixing the true and the false. God+ gods = blasphemy and evil. Their crisis is losing Moses (so they thought) and they think that this calf, covered with gold, will impress some god. No different than giving money to God to say, "I give God money and He will take care of me."

they were creating God in their own image, so He now conforms to their plan and to their ideals. As soon as we face a crisis in our lives, we want Him to conform; our solution to solve the crisis is nothing but human viewpoint, unless it is application of doctrine to the circumstance. We should stand by and watch the deliverance of the Lord. We might add a little philosophy or a little psychotherapy. In our country, we try to make religion our own private thing, so that we can worship God in our own image.

Our spiritual life and how we operate under that spiritual life is our deliverance.

A woman who wrote a column on Jerry Caldwell and said, "He was much too public about his faith." She just created her own little god and tried to rationalize it. Bobby's heard Caldwell speak, and had no problem with what he heard. Even in our own little private, religious world, fear never seems to go away without the application of Bible doctrine. God answers our prayers in the way that would benefit us the most; it may not be in the way that we want or in a way that we would expect. God's solution is not always the solution that we have come up with.

Impatience, fear, etc. Human viewpoint ruled the lives of these Jews. You must have doctrine in your soul so that you can understand the divine.

What we will see is the integrity, love and grace of God extended to this miserable group of people. He will show them once again Who is God. Moses is seeing what is going on, and God promises to destroy this stiff-necked people.

Ex. 32:5–10: And when Aaron saw, he built an altar before it. And Aaron made proclamation and said, Tomorrow is a feast to Jehovah. And they rose up early on the next day and offered burnt offerings, and brought peace offerings. And the people sat down to eat and to drink, and rose up to play. And Jehovah said to Moses, Go! Get down, for your people, whom you brought out of the land of Egypt, are corrupted. They have turned aside quickly out of the way which I commanded them. They have made them a molten calf, and have worshiped it, and have sacrificed to it, and said, These are your gods, O Israel, who have brought you up out of the land of Egypt. And Jehovah said to Moses, I have seen this people, and behold, it is a stiff-necked [obstinate] people. And now leave Me alone, so that My wrath may become hot against them and so that I may consume them. And I will make of you a great nation.

God then promised Moses that He would begin again with Moses. This is a generation of failure; Gen X. Justice and righteousness on the one hand, and grace and love and immutability on the other. There will never be a time when His grace and love are separate from His justice.

Moses knows something; he knows that God has made him the leader; his commission had not been removed.

Ex. 32:11–13: And Moses prayed to Jehovah his God, and said, Jehovah, why does Your wrath become hot against Your people whom You have brought forth out of the land of Egypt with great power and with a mighty hand? Why should the Egyptians speak and say, He brought them out for harm, to kill them in the mountains and to consume them from the face of the earth? Turn from Your fierce wrath, and be moved to pity as to this evil against Your people. Remember Abraham, Isaac, and Israel, Your servants, to whom You swore by Your own self, and said to them, I will multiply your seed as the stars of the heavens, and all this land that I have spoken of will I give to your seed, and they shall inherit it forever. Moses had a mission and he was going to fulfill it no matter what. He defends these losers before Jesus Christ. He acts as their mediary between these losers and God. He is a picture of Jesus Christ.

1Cor. 10:7 Ex. 32

Sunday 2 May 20, 2007

The people had intimidated Aaron, getting him to agree to constructing an idol of a calf. If God is going to forsake them, they reasoned, shouldn't there be another god to take His place? So, they are camped below Mt. Sinai, where God is giving the Jews the Law, so that their nation would thrive, and Israel is in the process of forsaking God.

Ex. 32:9–10: And Jehovah said to Moses, I have seen this people, and behold, it is a stiff-necked [obstinate] people. And now leave Me alone, so that My wrath may become hot against them and so that I may consume them. And I will make of you a great nation.

God has to deal with this people in love and grace; and with His justice and righteousness. The Jews attempt to replace Him with a golden calf.

Ex. 32:11–13: And Moses prayed to Jehovah his God, and said, Jehovah, why does Your wrath become hot against Your people whom You have brought forth out of the land of Egypt with great power and with a mighty hand? Why should the Egyptians speak and say, He brought them out for harm, to kill them in the mountains and to consume them from the face of the earth? Turn from Your fierce wrath, and be moved to pity as to this evil against Your people. Remember Abraham, Isaac, and Israel, Your servants, to whom You swore by Your own self, and said to them, I will multiply your seed as the stars of the heavens, and all this land that I have spoken of will I give to your seed, and they shall inherit it forever. Even Aaron, who is a part of this, recognized the evil of this generation. Moses, as a man of great integrity, pleaded to God on behalf of the Jews. Moses was faithful to the plan of God. God had chosen him, God had given him the responsibility of this people. Moses' argument is, "If you destroy these people, the Egyptians will hear of it, then they will proclaim victory over You." This would discredit God, because He could not save these people or even keep their loyalty. If God had to destroy His own people, what kind of a God is that?

Moses makes this argument, because this argument expresses doctrine in the soul of Moses. He understands God's character and the importance of God's character being vindicated among the heathen. One of the purposes of Israel is to be God's representatives on earth. "If you destroy them, then who will be Your witness?" These people had given Moses grief from the moment that he began to lead them. They were nothing but trouble. How many times when these people talked about going back, that Moses was not tempted to send them back. He might even recall his good life in the desert being prepared to lead this people. God has a plan for our life; we don't move backward; we move ahead. God's plan is in operation for us.

Did God really need this reminder or this logical argument from Moses? Obviously not, God knows all of this. This is done for our benefit.

God's Anger and His Changing of Mind

1. Moses is expressing the anguish in his soul based upon the circumstances he was in. Some deal with this by lashing out; revenge motivation. Moses had learned the lessons and was applying love and grace.

2. God is omniscient and He is absolute knowledge and wisdom. God knew the validity of Moses' words before Moses opened his mouth. God understood all of these things in eternity past. God already knew what He would do in His plan.
3. Why then this plea? This plea reveals Moses, his soul, his faith rest life, and his selfless leadership. What a great demonstration of a soul which is occupied with Jesus Christ. Think of the person who gives you the most trouble; could you do what Moses has done here? Could you ever?
4. Moses recorded this conversation with God for a particular purpose. He recorded this after it happened. Moses ended up with these people for 39 silent years. We don't know what happened during that time, except that they died in the desert. At this time, Moses wrote Scripture, and he also trained the new generation in doctrine and Joshua and Caleb trained these men in war.
5. The purpose was to reveal God's thinking and God's character and essence and the fact that God controls history for His own glory.
6. How did that happen? God used the pleadings of Moses to reveal Himself to His people and to us. We learn it through the Bible. What is revealed is, no human system of religion or thought can supercede God. The golden calf was to supercede God or to be mixed with the worship of God. Many seek to mix truth doctrine with so much stuff.
7. Moses' plea did not persuade God, even though the argument was sound. This did not even remind God of His promise or purpose. God already knew all of the facts of history and all of their outcomes. He knew it all. This is a revelation not to God but to us.
8. God's promise and His witness throughout this area would be in tact regardless of what He did to this people. If God had destroyed these people, His power would still be in view. When these people saw the power of God, it would also be a witness. Moses may be misguided here, but his heart is in the right place. I am not so sure that I agree with this.
9. We get insight into the working combination of divine righteousness and justice and His love and grace.
10. God's anger at Israel and His desire to destroy them is a fine example of an anthropopathism.
11. This is where God's character is explained in terms that we understand. This language ascribes to God human passions, emotions, thoughts and attitude to God which He does not actually possess; it is language of accommodation. It reveals His actions, policies, essence, His sovereign decisions so that we with finite minds might understand these things.
12. Anger expresses a change of policy; or it explains His justice and righteousness. The policy doesn't really change, but it appears to from our perspective. As far as Israel is concerned, there is a change coming. His judgment and discipline. Psalm 90:11. Who understands the power of Your anger and Your fury, according to the far/respect which is due to You? We should understand that a leader like Moses should become angry when his guidance is rejected. These people have done nothing but show disrespect for God, Who has done wondrous things on their behalf.

Some skeptics say, "God is angry here; He can't therefore be God. He can't be immutable or love if He is angry." That is because this is an anthropopathism. God's discipline and judgment can go all the way to the sin unto death. Psalm 95:11: "Therefore, I swore in My anger, truly they will not enter into My rest [the land]." Divine policy is explained by God's anger. Don't forget God's love and grace, which are also demonstrated here, in his patience and love. God gave these time. During this time, the children and grandchildren of this abstinent people would learn God's character and they would take the Land of Promise. God never loses sight of His promise. God never lost sight. We tend to think in terms of our own actions and our own thinking. God has never suffered a fit of emotional, sinful anger. God did not need to be talked out of this judgment from Moses. This is a perfect picture of Moses standing in the gap for a people who do not deserve it.

Summary of God's Actions

1. Even though they deserved it, God did not remove His covenant from this people and give it to Moses alone.
2. His policy toward this defiant people is revealed in His anger toward this people. They refused to grow; they refused to learn God.
3. God had to discipline these people; God functioned in love. You take these people into a room, and you explain what they have done wrong, just as a good parent disciplines his child. Bob took Bobby in a room and explained it and spanked him, and he could not leave until he stopped crying.
4. Discipline is meant for our best interest. Bobby was made to repeat what he did wrong. There was no reasoning with him or he did not try to talk him into being a good boy; he put sting into the discipline.
5. God presents another gracious opportunity for these people to recover and get with the program. They failed, and God came through; they failed, and God came through.
6. As the mediator, Moses revealed God's thinking on the subject of idolatry and God's solution in discipline and love. The only life worth living is the one which He has provided. It only gets worse if we refuse. God continues to apply the pressure for our benefit. However, once pressure no longer works, God uses the sin unto death on us. The sin unto death is intimately involved with God's justice and righteousness; but also with His love.

This is being taught to the Corinthians, who are acting just like Gen X. And God wiped out Gen X.

1Cor. 10:7: Nor should we be idolaters, even as some of them, as it is written: "The people sat down to eat and drink, and rose up to play."

Max Kline on the mission field. He'll give a report this evening.

Bobby thinks that we will complete this verse tonight.

Gen X managed to flunk every test which God subjected them to. They were all aware of the Abrahamic covenant. At every turn, they rejected the plan of God. They did not believe that they could go into the land and take it, as God had ordered. Every crisis in the desert, they flunked. They could not take what they should have learned in a previous crisis and apply it. One of the results of such faithlessness is idolatry. Paul will use this to address the Corinthians.

In syncretism, these Corinthians built an idol that they build out of gold, and they worshiped the idol and Jehovah at the same time. This put them into a destruction mode. When you mix the worship of apostasy with God, you are headed down the wrong road. Today, we might worship at the shrine of environmentalism; we might sympathize with the Palestinian terrorists. God looked at this and became extremely angry (from human viewpoint). We look at this idea of anger.

Anger

1. Anger is a mental attitude sins. It expresses antagonism, hatred, irrationality. Anyone who has had a fight with their spouse knows how irrational it can get.
2. Anger is egocentric and it displays arrogance.
3. Anger can be mental or emotional or both.
4. Two Greek words for anger: οργη = anger as a human emotion; an emotional reaction.
5. The other word for anger is θυμος = [thermal heat] outbursts of anger; it simmers and then explodes from time to time.
6. In Eph. 4:31, both types of anger are related to bitterness. Bitterness begets anger.
7. So anger is a sin which motivates other sins, e.g., sins of the tongue.
8. Anger also will motivate overt sins, e.g., cruelty. Anger can make someone very cruel (which can come out in a number of ways).
9. Prov. 29:22 is our example. Anger never remains isolated; it pulls in murder sins.
10. A person is never intelligent or wise when he is angry.
11. This is why so many stupid and thoughtless things are said in anger. You cannot take these things back; you can be forgiven.
12. Anger causes misery to those in the periphery of an angry person.
13. Anger ruins relationships; a violent crime of passion has anger and bitterness behind it.
14. You can become vicious, crafty, vengeful.
15. Much evil can be accomplished when one is angry.

However, we should not associate the mental attitude sins of anger with God. When you have to deal with the circumstances of life, you must have your wits about you. You cannot express orgê or thumos and still be able to apply Bible doctrine.

However, God's anger is not like this. We might all face these emotions and actions in our own lives, but God does not do these things.

Negatives for letting your anger simmer or bursting out with your anger from time to time.

What God's Anger is

1. God cannot sin; His anger cannot be sinful or emotional or irrational or reactive.
2. Anger in God can only be described as an anthropopathism.
3. An Anthropopathism ascribes to God human thoughts, attitudes, emotions or which God does not have.
4. Anthropopathic qualities help to explain God's divine policy; His actions. Our finite mind. Our infinite absolute essence is explained to the finite minds of men.
5. Without certain anthropopathisms which describe God and His actions, we would understand in no other way.
6. Gods' jealousy Psalm 79:5 are more examples of anthropopathisms. Scorn (Psalm 2:4 37:13 Prov. 1:36. Grief—Eph. Gen. 6:6 (repentance.
7. Ange describes God's policy toward Gen X. No generation has deserved it more.
8. His justice and righteousness must condemn their sin of idolatry. There is no other option for God. His justice and righteousness is condemning their negative econdition.
9. His love and grace are demonstrated in His patience, love, forgiveness. Ex. 32:3. We can always count on God's forgiveness. He is always merciful and forgiving. He is also gracious enough to forgive the sins which we do not name due to forgetfulness or whatever. God's essence works in a number of ways. We may only notice His justice and righteousness, but this does not mean that His love is missing.
10. We see God's patience and forgiveness because He did not destroy this generation. He allowed their sons and daughters to live. Moses could have been the sole recipient of the Abrahamic covenant. God could have wiped these people out; he could have killed all of the Jews here; and it would have been just and righteous for Him to do so. He did not kill the other Jews in some emotional upheaval.
11. God gave the first generation of Jews more time. He allowed them more time to grow. When it is time to go, He takes us. Sin unto death later on.
12. God gave Gen X more time and also allowed the progeny of promise, the next generation, the 2nd generation, and the 3rd generation. They learned from Moses, Joshua and Caleb. After 39 years, they were ready to roll on through the land.
13. It was the love and grace of God which spared this people, even though He also judged and disciplined their actions. Anger expresses on aspect of His policy and plan, but we cannot leave out the rest.

God's policies and essence would be even greater mysteries, so that Anthropopathisms explain God to us. Man's love is relative and we cannot understand absolute love; or absolute justice. This allows us to see God in the only way that we could understand.

"God's an angry God, God is jealous" etc. and the qualities which make Him unknowable to us. The greatest understanding of love is our under. This allows us to understand, so some degree, God's love for us.

Paul is writing this to teach the Corinthians. There was just as much idolatry in front of them as in from of Gen X. The phallic cult is a part of that idolatry. The Corinthians did not give up on Christianity; they did not denounce Christ. You cannot mix apostasy with doctrine and think that doctrine will override that apostasy. It always pollutes the doctrine. Moses saw it in the Gen X generation and Paul saw it in the Corinthians. They shamed the name of Jesus Christ in the temple in Corinth, which was Moses' argument against God wiping out this generation. His argument was, "God, you cannot destroy this people without causing great problems with the Egyptians.

We have already discussed the meat offered up and then eaten by believers. Eating meat, in and of itself, is nothing. No sin to eat in the heathen temple restaurant. Divine discipline for reversionism, and Paul is laying it out for them. This is what happened in the Exodus generation and here is where you are going. All it takes is a little undo involvement with degeneracy. Idolatry is there before the Corinthians; Gen X faced the same thing, and they got thumped; in fact, they died the sin unto death in great numbers. So, the Corinthians had to determine, do we meander into the heathen temple now and again and enjoy it, or do we avoid the temple.

1Cor. 10:7: And do not be idolaters, even as some of them, as it is written: "The people sat down to eat and drink, and rose up to play."

Max Kline, our missionary in Thailand, Korea. Apparently he was a ranger before.

A false rumor that Max went to Korea for the women. Also that he went to Thailand for the same reason. Falso. In Korea for 13 years, taught in two different seminaries; two different pastoral groups. One very positive group in Injong (?). He asked what do you need? And they asked for commentary and for more translations.

After 13 years, he went to Thailand. He went there because of its strategic location between many Asian nations. Difficult to go to China or Laos because of the Communist regimes and the Muslim area in the south; still religious freedom in Thailand, despite the coup.

He is north of Chungmai, and a very nice place to set up as a headquarters. From there, he can go to China. Chung Mai China is a 3 hour flight. Close to Cambodia, Miamar, Vietnam and india is across the Indian Sea.

Recently began to write commentaries. We need verse by verse simple explanations. Good food and good weather in Chang Mai. Thought that maybe he would write and stay there and do commentary and get the books translated into Korean and Thai and he thinks that is enough, but God has plans. Emails from India to call for him and called for him to come there. He said, "I can't; too comfortable here." He made a trip to India. Gateway to the south; 20% Muslim and 70% Hindu. 1-2% Christian. Great response in India. Much greater response than in Korea.

Told one guy, "You're probably responsible for my lodging" but he was not used to hard beds and Indian toilets. He used some creativity for his bad knees. The guy turned out to be a Gurkha, from Nepal; famous warrior. Loyal and courageous beyond belief. We'll have you parachute out. Could not get anyone to step forward, and then realized he needed to add, "I'll provide parachutes" and they all came forward.

First day, a cottage meeting; and he expects a few people there. Traveled on the back of a motorcycle. 60-70 people turned out, and he ended up giving a message. And it has never slowed down since then. They are very positive and objective. You need a system; he just went to various groups. CD's handed out to those who knew English. Traveled by motorcycle, putting his life on the line. Doctrine of common sense and faith rest both.

He'll go back this winter. He needs to reach the leaders, not to congregations. You can't teach to the congregations too much or for too long, or they will respond to you.

Kline will be 60 next month. Every day, food that he has never seen before. Max is fussy about American food, and he is only used to a narrow group of foods; but he eats anything else in Asia. In Korea, no problem.

He never knew what the food was in the Gurka family.

He'll go to the Philippines and he's been there before. Went to a missionary center; Philippino pastors and American pastors; he said, these guys don't want to listen to me. Max taught anyway. Went there for 10 days a month ago, and he taught and everyone loved it. He taught every day for 2 hours. They demand for him to go back. In Negros.

Myanmar has a lot of Christians in one portion, but the Burmese army has wiped many of them out. He will go there for a week or so.

How were you called to the mission field? No mystical experience; just reasoning from metabolized Bible doctrine. In the United States there are enough good pastors; why try to get a congregation here when there are enough good pastors. He then decided, why not go overseas. If you practice your gift overseas, then that is what a missionary is. When you land, you use that gift, and others say, "You're a missionary."

A couple of great missionaries in the Philippines. Max thinks there is a lot of positive volition there as elsewhere. Drove out to Valencia, a little road, and an area with 50 kids waving their arms. He enjoys kids for 15-20 minutes. 3 mothers and husbands all working. Offers him a coconut and climbs a tree herself. Took aunt and a little girl to the clinic on the back of a motorcycle. A lady who just started talking to him, "I used to be a Christian, but I haven't gone to church for 10 years." So he is going back. The Philipino young men are calling for him to return.

A lot of pastors in Korea, but so many are tied to the Presbyterian church, some correct doctrine but not enough. There needs to be some independent churches, and the Koreans are group oriented. 25% of Korean people are Christians; but the theology is weak; and if it is not absolutely correct, they cannot advance. It is hard enough to advance with good doctrine.

1Cor. 10:7-8

Thursday May 24, 2007

These people saw God's presence and actions over and over again; they did not need Moses to be there to grasp this. However, they are flipping out, asking Aaron to build them an idol in order to have a new god or gods to worship. In their eyes, this Y<sup>e</sup>howah just hadn't really come through for them. It is like believers today who think that God has not really come through for them today. Syncretism was their problem. Once the image had been completed, they worshiped the calf in the way that it was always worshiped, with the feast and revelry of the phallic cult. Syncretism was their problem; they mixed the phallic cult with the worship of Jehovah, which was the problem which the Corinthians were involved in.

The verb stand up to play which is the present active infinitive of paizô (παίζω) [pronounced PIE<sup>D</sup>-zoh] = to dance; 1) to play like a child; 2) to play, sport, jest; 3) to give way to hilarity, especially by joking singing, dancing. Strong's #3815. In 3 verses, nor let us act immorally as some of them did; and 23,000 of them fell in one day. Divine anger. Present active subjunctive of πορνεω = to have sex in the name of religion; to participate in the phallic cult.

Paul uses the hortatory subjunctive, give us let us, which does not mean that Paul is not in danger here or falling into the phallic cults; but it is a softened appeal, with an emphasis upon his love and concern for them. This reflects God's love and concern for the Jews.

We can totally reject God's plan and be out of fellowship for weeks or months at a time. But the grace and love of God never fails. This is no matter how pathetic we are and no matter how many times we have failed. These Corinthians are doing just what the Jews in the Exodus generation were doing. They need to be slapped around or water-boarded to straighten things out. Paul knows that God can do nothing less than discipline those whom He loves.

1Cor. 10:7: And do not be idolaters, even as some of them, as it is written: "The people sat down to eat and drink, and rose up to play."

v. 8 continues with the golden calf incident as the illustration. Some commentators went all over the place with this verse.

Let's look at Ex. 32:35: And Jehovah struck down the people because they made the calf, which Aaron made. Somehow, God destroyed a number of these people (Paul has the number, but it is not found in the Old Testament). God probably brought on a plague on these people, and it was probably sudden and extremely fatal and highly destructive. The black plague was spread by fleas. These fleas wiped out a third of European population in the Middle Ages. The Hebrew verb nagaph is equivalent to the Greek verb πιπτω = to fall. When πιπτω is used figuratively, then it means that people are destroyed or many fall under condemnation.

The Parallel

1. The exodus generation were partially destroyed by a plague. Moses gave God a logical argument why God should not wipe out Gen X.
2. So too, the Corinthians could be eliminated by divine discipline, just as Gen X succumbed.
3. The Hebrew and Greek verbs both represent divine anger directed toward both generations.
4. Anger is an anthropathism. This refers to the policy of discipline and judgment.
5. God's anger was directed toward Israel. That is likely to occur for the Corinthians if their idolatry continues. This is simply a warning by example. They were involved in the phallic cult and 23,000 of them fell. Ex. 32:35 did not give the number of those destroyed by the plague. Apparently there was a tradition that 23,000 died because of this plague. This is the first time that it is revealed to us. Paul reveals this number for a good reason: this leaves no doubt as to the serious consequences of continuing to act immorally; continuing to function in the phallic cult. This is why Paul wrote vv. 7–8. Paul punctuates this with, "God killed 23,000 people in the plague of the golden calf."

This is divine capital punishment. God does not forget, and punishment is cited here as a deterrent. "Listen you Corinthians; this is what could happen to you!" Devastating results for a series of bad decisions.

1Cor. 10:8 We must not indulge in sexual immorality as some of them did, and twenty-three thousand fell in a single day.

Paul again uses a hortatory subjunctive to counsel these Corinthians in a sweet, soft way. Let us not put Christ to the test,... This is how Bobby might counsel the congregation, using the hortatory subjunctive.

The present active subjunctive of ἐκπαιράζω = to put to the test, to go beyond what is right or proper.

Concluding Remarks

1. To put God to the test is to challenge His divine authority. You do not want to do that as a believer.
2. This challenge, this test to His divine authority is the way that this should be taken in relation to the Corinthians and to us. This is thumbing our noses at God. This is all about the verb.
3. Testing God is an expression of negative volition toward His mandates. That is testing God. That is going beyond what is right and proper before the Lord.
4. Testing is the opposite of positive volition toward doctrine. This is the opposite of growing to spiritual maturity.
5. We test God when we fail to understand or to follow His plan for our lives. The fact that we are sitting here tonite means that we are not testing God; we are inculcating Bible doctrine. That mandate is to grow in grace and knowledge of our Lord Jesus Christ.
6. To test God means we are living dangerously; if you want to live on the edge, test God. That discipline can go all the way to the sin unto death. This is where Gen X has led us. The 23,000 who died, those who died by serpents are all a part of the sin unto death for the exodus generation.

A speech by Bush. How to observe Memorial Day and his requests. Bush has received a lot of attacks, but he understands freedom through military victory.

An email from a story in the Washington Times, May 3rd. 1st Lt. Col. Neal (Neil). Phil was one of his students who graduated from West Point in 2005. These were Freshmen when Sept. 11 occurred. We suffer today, since so few officials understand the concept of duty; so few of them have even been veterans. This is not the first war where Congress has dithered and then gone home to their own families. Congress pandering to a political faction. Michael Newton, who teaches at the Vanderbilt University School of Law.

Just as the Lord Jesus Christ made the greatest sacrifice of all time on the cross, so the soldier sacrifices his time, his fortune and sometimes his life. We must never forget the honor which is due to Jesus Christ nor to the soldiers who have purchased our freedom through military service.

All of Corinthians has been a wonderful application for us for all the spiritual life and for those who do not understand the great resources afforded us by God.

3 facts stand out in vv. 8–9: as some of them did tells us about the exodus generation. What they did was contrary to the plan of God. They acted immorally. This was involvement in the phallic cult of the golden calf. Fornication in the conduct of idolatry. Another aspect was the synchritism which mixed the feast and revelry of idolatry with the feast and sacrifices to Y<sup>e</sup>howah.. No other god is on an even footing with God.

1Cor. 10:8 We must not indulge in sexual immorality as some of them did, and twenty-three thousand fell in a single day.

In v. 9, they tested the Lord, which is what they did most of the time. They should have never been concerned about God taking care of them; they failed to acknowledge the preeminence of God over all the heathen that they came into contact with. To think that any believer has a better plan than God is the height of arrogance; yet it happens all the time. We often want God to sanction our little plans in life, and yet we come up with our own plans and yet expect God to support them; we superimpose on God what we think He should be and what He should do. We mold God to meet our own expectations. Unless we know God through Scripture, we are more likely to form our own goofy ideas about what God is and Who He should be. We all think we know what is best for ourselves. Under these conditions, we rival the exodus generation in this area, even if we are not involved in classic idolatry. We have our own forms, nevertheless. The verbs to act immorally and to test the Lord describe Gen X and the Corinthians and us today. As a result of putting the Lord to the test, some were put under the sin unto death by the serpents. Gen X are classic examples of the sin unto death. These examples continue to this moment. Gen X were incorrigible reversionists; and the Corinthians had drifted back to idolatry and they were mixing the Temple of Aphrodite with Christian worship; and they put themselves ahead of God's plan for their lives. They faced and underwent the sin unto death.

Paul gives a fairly soft approach to this warning. The Corinthians must beware that they are headed down the same road as Gen X. It is a warning to us as well. If it applies to the Corinthians, then it can be applied to us. This is to show us the severity of challenging the authority of God; it is to show us the result of continued neglect of Bible doctrine. We lose focus as to where our strength lies. We must regain this focus. We must recognize that Bible doctrine is where our strength lies. It is the source of our spiritual life. Without it, it is impossible to please God or to glorify Him. We have no other mission in life. For whom the Lord loves, he disciplines and scourges every son whom He receives. If the corporal punishment is not effective, then it will increase and eventuate into the sin unto death. However, we can even recover from the sin unto death. This is a warning but it is also encouragement for our recovery.

The Doctrine of the Sin Unto Death

It is appropriate to look at this doctrine on Memorial Day. Those who have died are those who have preserved our freedom; we honor them for that. Nations die as well. We have the blessings of freedom today in our nation; but our nation may not continue. We need a pivot of mature believers. Our nation will not happen overnight; it is a creeping loss of freedom. The sin unto death can apply to us but it can apply to our nation as well. We are Christian warriors and Christian soldiers. It is our mission to uphold our nation's freedom, which we do by taking in the Word of God.

1. Divine discipline must involve some pain; it is the sum-total of punitive measures for bringing us back to spiritual recovery. Divine discipline is always for our benefit.
2. The sin unto death is the final stage of this discipline. It occurs when the believer refuses to be corrected. This is about our volition. We are disciplined for our benefit, to get us back into line. If we don't respond, we move to the final stages of discipline.
3. The sin unto death is administered after prolonged and unchecked carnality. After failure to respond to previous, corporal discipline. This is the incorrigible reversionist; the incorrigible believer.
4. The concept of the sin unto death is revealed in Psalm 118:17–18 and 1John 5:16 (there is a sin leading to death).
  - a. This is literally, a sin face to face with dead and this is directed toward the believer. We have passed that milestone. We never have to face the 2nd death, but we might face the sin unto death.
  - b. This is a sin repeated many times without rebounding or continuing to advance.
  - c. The sin unto death never indicates a loss of salvation; the immutability of God guarantees our salvation; it certainly means a loss of reward. Dying the sin unto death means a loss of reward.
  - d. In the sin unto death, the believer does not experience dying grace, which is reserved for advancing and mature believers. This is missing out on one of the great experiences of life. Most people fear death the most, and public speaking is 2nd. Some people spend a good part of their lives fearing death; some never join the military because they fear death. We have no right to ever fear death.
  - e. Instead, the reversionist transfers from time into eternity under agonizing, painful conditions with fear and uncertainty in their soul. This person will still go to heaven at death, but they will face death with the uncertainty of the unbeliever. Such a one has no resources to fall back on. It is a horrible way to spend your last days on this earth.
  - f. The sin unto death does not imply that the believer will be miserable after death; the moment we leave this life, there is no more sorrow, no more tears and no more death; the old things have passed away. God does not let us get away with this; He wants us back into the fold; He wants His sheep to advance.

The uniforms of the armed forces are the symbols of freedom.

Sin Unto Death

We are at a crossroads in our nation; we who advance toward spiritual maturity hold the nation together and this spills over into every realm of life.

5. Examples from the Bible:

- a. Philip. 3:18–19: describes these believers: For many walk as hostile to the cross of Christ, of whom I often told you, and now even weeping I say it, whose end is destruction, whose god is the appetite, and who glory in their shame, the ones thinking earthly things. These epistles were passed along to all of the churches; and they applied to all believers and many could identify with the reversionist believer. The believer's walk is the progress of the individual in the Christian life. Here, it is a case of no progress in the spiritual life. Paul is speaking of believers who are enemies of the cross. Paul's concern was so strong that he was grieving here. Paul was an old soldier who had seen a great deal of combat in his life. Reversionists are enemies of the cross. They are cowards; they are the anti-war group; they are the 5th column. They are everything that the believer should not be. Calling a believer this name is the epitome of reversionism. These believers have rejected the principle of grace epitomized by the cross. They had enough knowledge to believe in Jesus Christ and they went no further; they were not even remotely grace oriented. There is always a substitution in a situation like this; they substituted legalism for grace. 1Sam. 28:16 James 4:4 enemies of God. All it takes is a lack of focus; a bungling of priorities. Bodily appetite can refer to emotions or to the lust of the soul and body; this is lasciviousness and how it is described in the New Testament. This is an appetite which breeds carnality. ...whose glory is their shame... They glory in their appetite. They glory in those things which are antithetical to the Christian life. We see this concept all of the time from those who justify their perversions by making them normal. "I was born this way" or "I can't help myself" and they live a perverse life and justify it. Sin is sin as described by the Bible and you can always do something about it. There is always rebound, there is always the grace of God, and there is advancing to the spiritual maturity. This is how you defeat carnality which leads to reversionism which leads to the sin unto death. This is obviously homosexuality. Sodom and Gomorrah; Rom. 1. ...many set their minds on earthly things. Their minds are enmeshed on human viewpoint. They never think with the divine viewpoint; they only think in the cosmic system. Their end is destruction.
- b. 1Cor. 5:1–10: the case of the incestuous Corinthian and Paul placed him under the sin unto death. Here is a case where a man is under the sin unto death and he still recovers 2Cor. 7:11. There is always hope, no matter how hopeless a sin seems or how minor it appears. We just rebound and continue to grow spiritually. There is always the grace of God; there is always the chance to recover.
- c. 1Cor. 11:27–28, 30–31 the Corinthians themselves who appear to be poster children for the sin unto death. They were participating in the Communion while out of fellowship, and many became sickly and many died because of this. This is a memorial to the greatest sacrifice in history. This is the only sacrifice which provides us salvation. The Corinthians came into communion drunk and some threw up on the communion table. It is a perpetual mental attitude.

- d. Rev. 3:16–22 refers to believers in Laodicia. So, because you are lukewarm, and neither cold nor hot, I am about to vomit you out of My mouth. Because you say, I am rich, and I am made rich, and I have need of nothing, and do not know that you are wretched and miserable and poor and blind and naked (vv. 16–17). This describes the believer. The unbeliever is cold, and the believer who is positive is hot; and the believer who is negative is lukewarm. Claros = lukewarm. They had once been hot and they had become lukewarm. The lukewarm believer has neglected to advance; still a believer but a loser. They ended up in self-fragmentation. The spiritual life is very absolute. You are either hot or cold. You want to stay hot. Those in Laodicia failed. They even disparaged doctrine and the spiritual life. I will vomit them out of my mouth. The principle of serious divine punishment. Nothing is more gross than being sickly and then vomiting. If they remain consistently lukewarm, they will move into other areas of carnality. The further down you go, the more you get into carnality.
- e. Ananias and Saphira. Acts 5:1–10. Lying to God is build upon a lot of reversionism. Money had entirely distracted them from their spiritual life. Money was their appetite. They entered into a real estate deal; they were going to sell a valuable piece of property, and they said to everyone, “We’re going to sell this land and donate all of the proceeds to the church.” The impression is that they will give the entire amount to the church. There is nothing wrong with giving all or a part; it is the mental attitude. The problem was, they gave the impression that they would give the entire amount. There is something wrong. The problem was an inordinate desire for recognition; it is arrogance; it reveals a life consumed with money. Look at me; I’ve got money and I am going to give a great sum. They have lied not to the church, but they have lied to the Holy Spirit (Acts 5:3). The worship of money can be idolatry. What matters is your motivation in giving; the amount is not the issue. Do not give grudgingly or of necessity. Their mental attitude was deep into monetary reversionism. Peter condemned their words and Ananias fell down and breathed his last. Great fear came upon those who heard of this (that is capital punishment). Don’t tell me that capital punishment is not a deterrent. The sin unto death was graphically portrayed. You do not trifle with the Lord. Communion and giving are not to be taken lightly. These are two areas which can easily manifest reversionism. When you do these things, you are lying to God the Holy Spirit.
- f. The final example: Hymeneus and Alexander. 1Tim. 1:19: ...having faith and a good conscience, which some having thrust away, made shipwreck concerning the faith, of whom are Hymeneus and Alexander, whom I delivered to Satan, that they may be taught not to blaspheme. There must have been more; but two are named. These are not just one-sin condemnations. These are prolonged carnality and they culminate in this situation. God place these two in the place of dying discipline. This is the final warning to straighten up or to die miserably. They will either die or be spurned on to recovery. Being turned over the Satan is not consignment to Satan and to hell. The examples are references to believers; none of these refer to unbelievers. Salvation is not removed; but Satan is allowed to administer a terrible dying experience.

1Cor. 10:9 We must not put Christ to the test, as some of them did and were destroyed by serpents,

1Cor. 10:9 Num. 21:5–8

Wednesday May 30, 2007

Ekpeirazô is the Greek verb here εκπειραζω = to put to the test; to go beyond what is right or proper; to put {God} to the test [which challenges His authority and plan]. This challenge is the result of negative volition. We treset God by failing in our spiritual lives. We question His will when we test Him; and we question His will and plan for our lives; and we flaunt our own carnality and our own negative volition. This is like sneaking behind a tiger and pulling his tail. The end result is the sin unto death. Here are the Corinthians with every opportunity to grow spiritually; the Apostle Paul who wrote them at least 2 letters, which cover about every possible subject that could be covered; yet, they were the rowdiest bunch in the ancient world. The sin unto death is put on more Corinthians than on any other church.

Discipline, when it happens, will be painful. God does not just give us a time out; He whacks us where it hurts; He gets our attention. You do this with a child, to get their attention, to get them going in the right direction in life. Divine discipline is for our recovery. Is it not incumbantg upon God to set us straight? It is for our benefit. The misery that we bring on ourselves along with divine discipline is all designed to set us straight; to correct us; so that we might lead the great life which He has provided for us.

Paul reminds these Corinthians that this is what some of Gen X did. In all of this, the grace of God stands out. Divine discipline was inevitable for some of these people. We began with the crises and now we are going into the sin unto death. Paul identified in the early portion of the chapter the Corinthians with Gen X. Here is the parallel.

The sin unto death was administered by serpents. Genitive plural hupô + ophis = by the instrumentality of the serpents. This is reference is from Num. 21:6–9: And Jehovah sent fiery serpents among the people;...This was probably the hooded viper or the horned nose viper; similafr markings to the diamond back rattlesnake. A very thick snake but only 3 foot long. The fiery refers to the bite of the snake. The incident here was their rejection the logistical grace of God. [Back in v. 5 we read: And the people spoke against God, and against Moses, Why have you brought us out of Egypt to die in the wilderness? For there is no bread, and there is no water; and our soul hates this light bread]. Notice their irrationality: “there is not food...and we hate this food...” This is an expression of regret from being delivered from Egypt. They regret that God delivered them. Instead of growing with each crisis, every time that these Jews faced a crisis, they repudiated God. Their rebellion was revealed by rejecting the bread of heaven. This is tantamount to rejecting the bread of heaven. ...and they bit the people, and many people of Israel died.

Lessons from this:

1. Rejecting the spiritual food for us is rejecting Bible doctrine which sustains us. Everything that the spiritual life is, is rejected.
2. Spiritual food is the lifeblood of our relationship with God. Praying is barely the tip of the iceberg. Our relationship is based upon the doctrine that we metabolize. When you reject spiritual food, you have no relationship with God. You must know God and you must think like He thinks in order to have a relationship with Him. The believer who metabolizes doctrine has a mature relationship with God. Parents and children develop mature relationships when they mature.
3. Rejecting spiritual food is negative volition to the Word of God. The inevitable result is reversionism.
4. Rejection of spiritual food leads to great misery and ultimately to the sin unto death. There is no difference between starving to death physically or spiritually. That is the thrust of this analogy. Without spiritual food, we will die miserably; we will wither where we are. One more time we get a look at what God plans for these people. In all of this negative volition, in the Gen X and in the Corinthians; through it all, God’s grace never fails nor is it diminished. God never becomes petulant or cranky and withdraws His grace; we do that. The grace of God is manifested in divine discipline as it is in logistical grace.

Not all of the Jews died the sin unto death by these serpents. God’s grace went into action as it often does.

The Jews rebounded as a result. Num. 12:7: And the people came in to Moses and said, We have sinned, for we have spoken against Jehovah, and against you. Pray to Jehovah, and He shall turn the serpent away from us. And Moses prayed on behalf of the people. Moses put up with the world’s worst people and he led them regardless. He was able to do this because that was God’s plan for His life. The Jews named their sins to Moses here, as he was the intermediary between God and Gen X. Israel went to Moses and Moses went to God. Moses is a type of Christ; he has been like this throughout their time in the desert.

Later the Levitical priesthood stood in the gap, between man and God. They offered the animals on behalf of the people. The sin offering of Lev. 5–6 and these illustrated rebound. The people named their sins to the priests. The Jews saw a picture of rebound; they saw the cost for their sins. We are royal priests and we do not require a Levitical priesthood to stand between God and us. The animals did not actually allow their sins to be forgiven; it was a picture of Jesus Christ.

God revealed His grace to these people in a very visual way. Num. 21:8: And Jehovah spoke to Moses, Make yourself a fiery serpent, and set it on a pole; and it shall be that when anyone is bitten, when he sees it, he shall live. Now God tells Moses to make an image (before, the people told Aaron to make an idol). Those who see this serpent on a pole, are saved. This is sin being lifted up on the cross and paid for.

Israel were disgusted by snakes; but some people are totally revolted by snakes. The snake was unclean, according to the Law. It is also the form that Satan took. Israel was saved by looking at a snake on a pole, and this healed the bite. The judgment was a snake and the snake was the means of salvation; cursing turned to blessing. The very thing which curses you, God is able to turn to blessing.

1Cor. 10:9 Nor let us put Christ to the test, as some of them did and were destroyed by serpents,

1Cor. 10:9–10 Num. 21:5–7 John 3:14–16 Lesson #542 Thurs. May 31, 2007

vv. 8–10 all make reference to the sin unto death. Gen X was resistant, whining, complaining, negative, angry, and the continually tested God's patience.

There were iron-clad promises made to Abraham; and the Jews in the Exodus generation saw God's faithfulness day after day. This was a death that could only be caused by the sin unto death. The sin unto death is always agonizing; and it is the final corrective measure used on those in reversionism. In v. 8, 23000 of the Jews were cut down. Num. 21:5–8 tells us about the serpents who killed the people. Probably a horn-nosed viper.

Num. 21:6: And Jehovah sent fiery serpents among the people; and they bit the people, and many people of Israel died. A friend of Bobby's had a date, and she wore a snake, and it scared this guy and he ran off. This particular viper is one of the most dangerous of the region due to the high toxicity of the venom, it's size, making him able to strike a good distance, and long fangs.

When the Jews were bitten: there was a proteolytic fluid in the venom. This is a digestive serum, which begins the digestive process; it destroys the protein parts, degrading muscles and skin. There is immediate swelling and severe pain. There was also a neuro-toxic component. The muscles are hit and the body begins to be paralyzed, which spreads throughout the body. There is also a component which attacks the blood, which would act to deal with the attack. There was also an anti-coagulant in the venom. Without treatment, the venom is deadly.

Num 21:5: And the people spoke against God, and against Moses, Why have you brought us out of Egypt to die in the wilderness? For there is no bread, and there is no water; and our soul hates this light bread. This is why the Jews were attacked. Their complaining, their whining and their rejection of God's logistical grace. Furthermore, God did not bring these Jews out of Egypt to kill them. The second problem, the rejected the food which God had provided for them; they must have gotten tired of gathering it every morning. No refrigeration required. Bobby essentially has the same breakfast every morning, and he gets tired of it; but he has it anyway. Israel got all of their vitamins and minerals from this food; and this also provided them with a doctrinal rationale for their souls. Every morning, they should have thought, logistical grace. "I'll bet there is manna out there this morning" is what they should have thought. However, they did not. They rejected their food and they rejected the rationale which they should have formed. Manna was a visual rationale which they should have picked up on. So, snakes invaded their camp and began to take people out.

Num 21:7: And the people came in to Moses and said, We have sinned, for we have spoken against Jehovah, and against you. Pray to Jehovah, and He shall turn the serpent away from us. And Moses prayed on behalf of the people. They did, at this time, recognize their mistake; because snakes were killing more and more of them.

Num 21:8: And Jehovah spoke to Moses, Make yourself a fiery serpent, and set it on a pole; and it shall be that when anyone is bitten, when he sees it, he shall live. Bobby has always wondered, what idiot refused to look at the serpent. Just as some might not believe in Jesus Christ; and there may have been some there who refused to even look at the serpent.

The very instrument of their death was on that pole; anyone who looked at it was saved. There is no merit here; but there is faith which is involved.

There was an incredible meaning in this snake, and this is what Jesus Christ said about it: Nicodemus, a pharisee who was searching, came to Jesus at night, so he would not be seen.

John 3:14–18: And even as Moses lifted up the serpent in the wilderness, so must the Son of Man be lifted up, that everyone believing into Him should not perish, but have everlasting life. For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son, that everyone believing into Him should not perish, but have everlasting life. For God did not send His Son into the world that He might judge the world, but that the world might be saved through Him. The one believing into Him is not condemned; but the one not believing has already been condemned, for he has not believed into the name of the only begotten Son of God. Jesus Christ used this very image to speak to Nicodemus. The lifting up of the serpent was Jesus Christ being lifted up on the cross. Nailing someone to this cross means that the person is the lowest of the criminal subculture. This was a sign of cursing; just as the viper was cursed.

Summary Points

1. The Jews were killed by a snake and they looked on the snake.
2. When we look to the cross, we are healed of our spiritual death instantaneously.
3. The lifting up of the serpent represented the greatest grace event in all of history.

4. This is an example of grace being demonstrated where death is present. For Israel, it is physical death by snakebite. For all mankind, it is the sin nature which we inherit from Adam at the moment of our birth.
5. The grace of God solved the problem of physical death for Israel; and the grace of God solved the problem of spiritual death for all mankind.

And Moses made a serpent of bronze and put it on a pole; and it happened, if a serpent had bitten any man, when he looked to the bronze serpent, he lived.

1Cor. 10:9 Nor let us put Christ to the test, as some of them did and were destroyed by serpents,

New warning: one against constraint grumbling.

Present active imperative of goguzō. An onomatopoeic word; it sounds a little like grumbling. It is an expression of discontent; or it means to complain in a rebellious state of mind. There is an imperative, so this means that they need to stop grumbling. That is what they are doing, as some of those from Gen X did.

What did the Corinthians have to grumble about? They did not have to sweat out the desert; they lived in a wonderful, international city with lots of money and commerce going on. The Corinthians rejected Bible doctrine; and they were failing the prosperity test. Their rebellion was against the Word of God. No obedience to divine mandates. They were also rebelling against Paul himself, just as Israel rebelled against Moses and Aaron. A leader is always a target of discontent. As soon as someone is disgruntled, they look to a leader to blame; just like President Bush—he gets blamed for everything, real or imagined.

Bobby saw this occur in Berachah many times over 50 years; he knew about many of them, and there were a number which he did not know about. There was great disruption in the church and there were problems for those who were in rebellion. There were numerous reasons for the grumbling which went on in Berachah, none of which were valid.

Some complaints: Bob taught too much doctrine and too much Greek and Hebrew; and there were not enough opportunities for social life. There was some infiltration of false doctrine among members of the congregation and some challenged the doctrine which was taught at Berachah. No person was more prepared to teach doctrine than Bob. Moses was a leader prepared by God and appointed by God; and Gen X constantly questioned his authority; and stuff was constantly used against Bob; his authority was also challenged. Or those who misapplied doctrine, who brought it out and it always worked to their benefit and to our detriment. Also the complaint of Bob's strong personality. When Bobby was in seminary, all of them knew about Bob's personality. Many there wanted men with the pastoral heart. They did not understand a strong personality.

Sometimes there are legalists in a church and they search out the feet of clay in the pastor; and these can be real or imagined weaknesses. Then they roundly condemn that and they also gossip about it (to gain some authority and notoriety). This is constant rebellion against authority.

Paul was reprimanded the Corinthians at this time, and they did not like it. He blasted their involvement in the phallic cult and he blasted them for their legalism and their denominationalism. Doctrine will step on our toes and we need to listen and not react. You cannot resent when doctrine steps on your toes. You must be teachable. Reaction is always detrimental to us. Refraining from reaction is advancing.

In Bible class, we need to respond, not resent. Paul pulled no punches; he went straight for the jugular. He pulled out of his doctrinal hat an incident in the lift of the exodus generation. Paul could have used a myriad of incidents on this one. This is an incident which is so pertinent. The Corinthians are going to be prepared.

1Cor. 10:10 nor grumble, as some of them did and were destroyed by the Destroyer.

1Cor. 10:8–10 Ex. 16 17 Num. 14 16 Lesson #543 Sunday 1 June 3, 2007

The Corinthians were spiritually immature; they were ignorant of the doctrine which was taught to them, or flat out negative toward it. There was also serious dissention within the church and factions among the members of the church. Several were deeply into some form of carnality or phallic cult involvement. What Paul apparently was doing is focusing in on what was okay, and what was not okay.

Paul goes on a different track here, and warns the Corinthians of the inevitable consequences of their continued carnality, which is the sin unto death. The warning is of the sin unto death, and he is warning these Corinthians by means of the Exodus generation, who are examples of what we should never be. Many died in the desert for their rebellion and negative volition.

V. 10 is the final warning to the Corinthians in this chapter about the sin unto death. Gen X is the poster child for negative volition. They are the example of examples. This final warning encompasses every aspect of rebellion; wherever there is rebellion in our soul, we need to take heed. This final warning covers Gen X from Egypt until the sin unto death was pronounced in the camp in Kadesh-barnea. Several instances of sin unto death prior to this as well for the Exodus generation.

We have the word γογγύζω = to grumble. There is a rebellion against something.

Ex. 16:2–3: And all the congregation of the sons of Israel murmured against Moses and against Aaron in the wilderness. And the sons of Israel said to them, Would that we had died by the hand of Jehovah in the land of Egypt, in our sitting by the fleshpots, in our eating bread to satisfaction. For you have brought us out into this wilderness to kill all this assembly with hunger. These Jews learned nothing about the parting of the Red Sea, about the plagues upon Egypt from God.

Ex. 17:2–3: And the people wrangled with Moses, and said, Give us water that we may drink. And Moses said to them, Why do you wrangle with me? Why do you tempt Jehovah? And the people thirsted there for water, and the people murmured against Moses, and said, Why, then, have you caused us to go up from Egypt, to kill me and my sons and my livestock with thirst? This is the complaining mentioned in 1Cor. 10:9. The content of their grumbling was to blame Moses for trying to kill them.

Num. 14:2–4: And all the sons of Israel murmured against Moses, and against Aaron. And all the congregation said to them, Oh that we had died in the land of Egypt, or in this wilderness, oh that we had died! And why is Jehovah bringing us into this land to fall by the sword? Our wives and our infants have become a prey. Is it not good for us to return to Egypt? And they said each to his brother, Let us give a leader and return to Egypt. This is another one that we have studied; and Bobby has seen this occur many times in Berachah.

Every time, they complain that Moses or God has brought them out to the desert to kill them; and by doing this over and over again, they are calling for their own poison. They named their poison. God did not bring them out of Egypt to kill them; God did not bring them out of Egypt to kill them by the sword, by thirst or by hunger. Reversionism makes you a victim; it makes you feel sorry for yourself.

This passage from Numbers is a good example of reversionism; they want to revert to their former state; they are willing to be slaves again. A great life does not reside in grumbling.

In Num. 14, they are right there at the border of the Land of Promise, looking into the land from the south. You move ahead according to God's plan. They are going to lose momentum, which they gained from leaving Egypt under God's protection and power. They will stall out. God will have to jump start their sons and daughters and build momentum again before entering into the Land of Promise.

Grumbling in Joshua 9 (or 19?). The generation of promise took the land, but even they grumbled.

Γογγύζω is the mental attitude of Gen X. All grumbling begins with a bad mental attitude. It snowballs into a bad, grumbling life. Negative volition to the plan of God. This expresses our thinking to God.

V. 10 refers back to Num. 16 specifically, which sums it all up.

Num 16:41–42: And all the congregation of the sons of Israel murmured on the next day against Moses and against Aaron, saying, You have killed the people of Jehovah. And it happened, as the company was called together against Moses and against Aaron, that they turned toward the tabernacle of the congregation. And, behold, the cloud had covered it, and the glory of Jehovah appeared! These Jews just have to be victims

There was an actual rebellion or mutiny against Moses by Korah, Dathan and Abiram.

Num 16:1–3: And Korah, the son of Izhar, the son of Kohath, the son of Levi, took also Dathan and Abiram the sons of Eliab, and On, the son of Peleth, the sons of Reuben; and they rose up before Moses, with certain of the sons of Israel, two hundred and fifty rulers of the congregation, elect men of the assembly, men of name. And they were assembled against Moses and against Aaron, and said to them, You presume too much! For all the congregation, all of them are holy, and Jehovah is among them. Why then do you lift up yourselves above the assembly of Jehovah?

These are the religious and political leaders of Israel. These two men come from the tribes of Reuben and Levi: 250 princes of Israel; these are well-respected men of all the people. They represent the national and priestly leadership.

Revolt and rebellion requires a lot of rationalization so that you can prove yourself right.

1Cor. 10:8–10: We must not indulge in sexual immorality as some of them [Gen X] did, and twenty-three thousand fell in a single day. We must not put Christ to the test, as some of them did and were destroyed by vipers; nor grumble, as some of them did and were destroyed by the Destroyer.

1Cor. 10:10 Num. 16

Sunday 2 June 3, 2007

Num. 16:41: And all the congregation of the sons of Israel murmured on the next day against Moses and against Aaron, saying, You have killed the people of Jehovah.

Rebellion is mutually exclusive with spiritual advance. Advancing in the spiritual life brings you the greatest life. We are looking at γογγυζο and its Hebrew equivalent. The LXX uses γογγυζω to render this Hebrew word: lûwn (also lîyn) (לִינ) [pronounced loon], which means, in the Niphal, to grumble [complain, murmur]. Strong's #3885 BDB #.

There is no organization which does not have subordinate leadership; Aaron was under Moses, and there were generals and citizen leaders, etc. This is a group of active leaders. There are some who are chosen here.

Num 16:1–3: And Korah, the son of Izhar, the son of Kohath, the son of Levi, took also Dathan and Abiram the sons of Eliab, and On, the son of Peleth, the sons of Reuben; and they rose up before Moses, with certain of the sons of Israel, two hundred and fifty rulers of the congregation, elect men of the assembly, men of name. And they were assembled against Moses and against Aaron, and said to them, You presume too much! For all the congregation, all of them are holy, and Jehovah is among them. Why then do you lift up yourselves above the assembly of Jehovah?

Truth is falsehood and that which is false is considered to be truth. Moses, everyone here is holy; you aren't the only one who knows divine viewpoint. These rebellious leaders misrepresent the presence of God. God was with them every step of the way, and they knew it; however, they rebelled against God and they all knew that Moses was the intermediary between them. They thought, since God is with the Jewish camp, then everyone is holy; everyone is guided by God. See how they distort the facts? "We're all holy because God is among us." They were saying to Moses, "You are going too far; you don't have a corner on the market of leadership. Isn't God present among all of us?" This is unrestrained ambition. They have power lust; they want the power of Moses. They want democracy rather than a theocracy.

"Why do you exalt yourself over the congregation of the Lord?" We are all equal here. We are all God's children. They accuse Moses and Aaron of arrogance, even though Moses is one of the most humble men who has ever lived. They convinced themselves that Moses is arrogant. This sounds just like politicians attacking one another. They throw mud against the wall to see what might stick. That is what is happening in politics in news today. Mud throwing and politicians denying exactly what has happened. This sounds like those who have been attacking Bush for the past several years. They want to complain about everything. Charge and counter-charge and complain and rebel.

Goguzô is carnality; Moses and Aaron represent living the spiritual life.

Application: in dealing with the spiritual gift of pastor-teacher, we must always remember that Bobby's job includes doctrinal authority over us. It is not a good thing for us to challenge spiritual leadership. Every pastor is not exactly right all the time; but what gives us the right to set ourselves up as doctrinal authorities? Don't challenge the pastor-teacher; if they are involved in criminal activity, something has to be done; but if you can't deal with the authority of one pastor-teacher, then find another that you can submit to. If a pastor is teaching doctrine, then you can grow. Living under spiritual authority is necessary for spiritual growth. Those in rebellion must find pastors who agree with them; or they must tear down those in authority over them. This rebellion means that they did not put themselves under divine authority. A pastor is going to get some discipline when they are out of line. By the way, if Moses is out of line, these people don't have to deal with that; God will.

Num 16:31–35: And it happened, as he made an end of speaking all these words, the ground which was under them split apart, and the earth opened her mouth and swallowed them, and their houses, and all the men who were for Korah, and all their possessions. And they went down, they and all that they had, alive to Sheol, and the earth covered over them; and they perished from the midst of the assembly. And all Israel who were around them fled at their cry; for they said, Lest the earth swallow us up. And fire came forth from Jehovah and consumed the two hundred and fifty men that offered the incense. When you are in revolt, this affects all those that you love. Your children and wife are affected by your negative volition. These are mouthing off to Moses, so the earth opens up its mouth and swallows them up. This is the sin unto death, which is never easy and it is never nice.

Going down to Sheol does not mean that they are in hell, but they died the sin unto death and went into Abraham's bosom. God cleaned them out. It would be nice to see this happen to the politicians of this country. All those who were uncertain about the leadership of Dathan and Abirah, fled their side. But, they only fled out of self-preservation; they did not get the idea of what was happening. They did not grasp the sin unto death which was happening. They were impressed by the means of the sin unto death, but they did not grasp the reason for it. All they cared about was self-preservation. When you are involved in guzô, there is not place to hide.

They ran from this place, they covered in their tents. But they did not rebound; they did not go to Moses with apologies. They fomented more rebellion and they got mad.

Num. 16:41: And all the congregation of the sons of Israel murmured on the next day against Moses and against Aaron, saying, You have killed the people of Jehovah. They blame Moses and Aaron for the deaths of their fellow rebels. You cannot see truth when in rebellion. Arrogance is self-destructive and self-deluding. We are mandated to be teachable; we need to live in an attitude of humility. They are staging a demonstration against the rebellion of Korah. Korah has gotten just treatment directly from God, and they blame Moses for God's judgment. They subvert justice for injustice and vice versa. Justice does not agree with them, so they reject it. Arrogance turns justice upside down. This all happens one day later, with all of this fresh in their minds. They could not transfer this into a doctrinal rationale.

Num . 6:49–50: those who died by the plague were fourteen thousand and seven hundred, besides those who died for the matter of Korah. And Aaron turned back to Moses, to the door of the tabernacle of the congregation; and the plague was stayed. Sin unto death takes out 14,700 here.

14,700 Israelites were killed off by a Destroyer; not by a force of nature. Here, this is personalized. This links the sin unto death directly with God, regardless of the means. This is a graphic example. The principle is real. God assigned an angel to use something for ths 14,700; the angel used a plague. We have had snakes, an earthquake, and here, it is a plague; like the firstborn of the Egyptians who died. The sin unto death can occur in a number of ways, but the ultimate source is God and His justice. Bible doctrine must never be rejected; divine authority was being rejected in all of these examples.

1Cor. 10:10: ...nor grumble, as some of them did and were destroyed by the Destroyer.

This is the end of this particular study, of Israel and her negative volition.

v. 11 looks back on v. 7–10 and summarizes them, and is parallel to v. 6.

τυπικός in v. 6 and τυπικῶς is found in v. 11.

Explanation

1. This is something which is divinely ordained to foreshadow.
2. The previous events covered are historical event; real historical incidents.
3. These incidents reveal the grace of God and His discipline, which was severe; the sin unto death. That is the historical aspect of these Old Testament types.
4. As types, they foreshadowed certain things; e.g., the coming of Christ and His crucifixion. The Rock from which came water and the serpent being lifted up. That foreshadowing was largely fulfilled by the time of Paul's writing. He was not teaching foreshadowing; he was teaching these incidents with respect to the behavior of the Corinthians.
  - a. Paul takes the historical examples and uses them to reveal Church Age doctrine, showing that the Corinthians were following the examples of the Exodus generation.
  - b. The doctrine which Paul showed through this typology is reversionism and the sin unto death if the Corinthians continued down their current path.
  - c. The Exodus generation is a type of generation which rebels against God. Paul is making it clear that this is exactly what he is doing. The Exodus generation are anti-types so that they will not be what the Exodus generation was.

Now these things happened to them as types [or, historical examples] for us.

Ἐκωινοῦς means it happened to them—the dative of advantage. How is this a great advantage? The advantage is to us, not to the Exodus generation. We get the dative of advantage here. The Corinthians see these people in hindsight. This also lets us know where the Corinthians are spiritually, as they are being compared to the Exodus generation. This is an historical snapshot as to how not to live the spiritual life.

The verb is the 3rd person singular, imperfect active indicative of συμβεῖνω = it happens. The imperfect describes all of these events in terms of happening in past time. This is a grammatical nightmare. The problem is the 3rd person singular, which means, it happened. At the same time, it is paired up with the relative pronoun τοῦτω, which is the nominative neuter plural. That is a problem. Number and case should agree. Singular and a plural. It did not make sense, so Bobby thinks he has it figured out. These things refer to the events of the Exodus generation as a series of events of their negative volition. They were in the process of happening in past time. All these events were in the process of happening in past time. Why is the subject in the plural, but the verb in the singular. These things—it happened is more or less a literal rendering. Why does Paul do this? We would expect a 3rd person masculine plural.

What Does this All Mean?

1. These things in the plural is the subject of συμβεῖνω in the singular.

2. These things refer to the several examples of negative volition on the part of the Exodus generation.
3. Συμβεινω groups these events as one even which happened for the purpose of focusing in on the whole picture of divine discipline. Paul wants us to focus on this as one event; that we are looking at the negative volition of the Exodus generation.
4. So, for Paul's purpose, these things refer to one event; and what followed the event is the sin unto death. All of these events have one purpose to point out to the Corinthians what can happen—the sin unto death.
5. It is not just the events—the these things—independent of each other, even though they did, as this is a progression of events. What Paul cares about is, it happened; and the Corinthians are to see this as one event.
6. The grammar here would grab the Corinthians by the shirt and lift them up.
7. This is the whole picture of the Exodus generation from start to finish, rather than the individual incidents.
8. These things are all a part of one lesson...the destructiveness of reversionism.

What Does it Mean, Written for our Instruction?

1. written for our instruction means the historical example of an entire generation's failure was given for posterity, for the Corinthians in part.
2. Not only for the generations of Jews who would follow, but for us believers in the Church Age as well.
3. The idea is, they would see that the Exodus generation was filled with losers and they were not to be losers like their fathers were. And they serve as instruction for all of us.
4. It is not the events of the rebellion which we need to know; but it... How could they say time after time after time that God brought them to the desert to kill them, and yet be witnesses to all of these events.
5. It is the whole picture of the plan of God; it is the concept of their rebellion, which was constant, despite the fact that there are a variety of events which took place.
6. The problem is the lesson that we should take from the examples; reversionism, which can lead to the sin unto death.
7. The Exodus generation is a type of rebellion, written for our instruction, revealed by Paul and Moses and by God the Holy Spirit, for our benefit and for our learning. We all have these same self-destructive tendencies. We all have the ability to fall into the spiritual deposit of reversionism. .

So, we should look at all of these various acts of rebellion and see them as one act of negative volition against God; or one mental attitude which was never straightened out.

Accusative singular of νυφεσια + προς = face to face with an admonition or warning. This is instruction, but it is a warning. The goal or the purpose of recording this is for the purpose of admonition. We are warned; we are forewarned of the problems of going astray. Don't go negative toward doctrine; do not oppose the plan of God. The repercussions are devastating. God has designed a plan for us in eternity past. It is our individual plan. In order to fulfill this plan, God gave us His Word and His resources; and now we must decide to do the plan; we must decide to complete the plan. This begins with our spiritual life and our spiritual resources and everything which God has provided for us. This warning is for one thing; do not depart. Think about the big picture; what about our resources. These things happen. Resources are rebound; keep moving, be consistent in the intake of the Word; build up doctrine in our souls. Do not depart from that plan of God. That is everyone's plan; and then there are individual aspects to the plan of God for everyone. If you are in doubt at all about the validity of this warning for us, then look back on our own life, and think about when there was pain in your life and suffering and hurt and then relate that to our spiritual status of the time. Now, sometimes there is suffering for blessing; and sometimes we suffer through no fault of our own; however, most of the time, we will see a correlation between pain and a low spiritual life.

We are so bombarded every day with human viewpoint that it is difficult to hold onto divine viewpoint. Probably, from time to time, many members of the Exodus generation had it straight, but the influence of human viewpoint over took them. Sometime it is so subtle that you don't even recognize it. That is the importance of divine discipline. The Corinthian believers and we are brought face to face with reversionism.

It is so easy to react to something that Bobby says. You need to be focused; you need to recognize what is important in life; how many times do you need to cross the Red Sea? How often does God have to provide manna? How much water do you have to drink before you know that God is providing it? Consider the Exodus generation as a whole and all that we have studied. Consider how it relates to you. It happens. The Corinthians are our examples; they are pathetic; they are stabbing one another in the back; they are doing everything wrong.

...on whom the end of the ages has come. This is a dispensational reference.

1Cor. 10:11

Thursday June 7, 2007

these things are the events of the previous 3 verses; and they happened as a type for a warning. The incidents of the exodus generation and the immorality of the phallic cult and the continual grumbling; and all of these things had a singular purpose of foreshadowing a New Testament event. These are types of spiritual failure, and they are used to reveal critical Church Age doctrine. The Exodus generation are types of incorrigible, spiritual failures. They are historical examples of a spiritual wasteland. They were as spiritually dry as the desert in which they wandered. These things are a reminder and an admonition to all of us. The repercussions of such negative volition are devastating. Therefore, we need to understand that it is not the events of the rebellion which we need to remember, but we need to recall the entire picture of rebellion against the plan of God. What God wanted from them was clearly laid out. The Exodus generation are types of rebellion, but we need to hold to the principle rather than to the specific acts of rebellion.

Συμβεινω is in the singular, but the subject is τούτω is in the plural. The editor is God the Holy Spirit and He meant for Paul to say this. These things, it happened... The individual rebellion begins with the rebellion of the soul. These things are a type. They are for warning, admonition, for our benefit and for our learning. An automatic turning to human viewpoint rather than to divine viewpoint in every aspect of life puts you on the road to rebellion.

The typology here is from a previous age, but it has complete validity for the age in which we live. At the end of this verse, Paul makes a dispensational reference. This is just as pertinent to us today as it was in past ages.

Summary of the Doctrine of Dispensations

1. A dispensation is a portion of human history defined in terms of divine revelation.
2. These consecutive eras reflect the unfolding of God's plan for mankind throughout time and human history. It is not all the same; it is not all the same.
3. Each dispensation is a progression of God's plan; a progression in God's plan.
4. Dispensations constitute the divine viewpoint of history. It is interesting to read several different authors on the same period of history; you will get different facts and different slants and incredibly different points of view. A Dispensational viewpoint is critical to accurate interpretation of the Word of God. These are God's timelines and there are similarities and differences. Dispensations are critical to hermeneutics (interpretation of Scripture), ecclesiology (the church and Israel) and eschatology (future events).
5. We are in a specific moment of history and doctrine helps us to orient to God's plan, will and purpose. Doctrine of dispensations is the vehicle so that the believer can orient himself to God's plan.
6. An outline of Dispensations:
  - a. The Age of Gentiles—from Adam to the Exodus generation (why not to Abraham?); to Ex. 11.
    - i. The age of positive volition, which is from Adam and Eve to the fall (Gen. 1:26–3:6).
    - ii. The Age of Negative Volition; the fall of man up unto Abraham. Gen. 3:7–11:32.
    - iii. The Patriarchs to the Exodus generation. Abraham was the first Jew, but he lived during the Age of the Gentiles. Why? The Age of Israel could not start until the formation of the dispensation of Israel.
  - b. 1441 B.C. to 4 B.C. is the Age of Israel.
    - i. Theocratic kingdom: from the Exodus to Samuel, the first High Priest. 1431–1020 B.C., which includes Joshua, Judges and Ruth. No human ruler; the ruler of Israel was God.

- ii. Then the united kingdom: from Saul to Rehoboam. Israel wanted a king and God gave them a king. Saul was handsome, strong, tall; and he was a miserable failure. 1020–926 B.C. (to the death of Solomon).
- iii. There was a split between the southern and northern kingdom. Jeroboam to Hoshea in the Northern Kingdom (926–721 B.C.). In 721 B.C., the Assyrian empire marched into the northern kingdom and destroyed them and took some out, apparently.
- iv. The southern kingdom: Rehoboam to Zedekiah, which overlapped the northern kingdom, as they existed at the same time. 926–586 B.C. The latter date marks the diaspora. Jews in the land until 586 B.C., when Nebuchadnezzar of Babylon marched in and destroyed the temple in Jerusalem and the 70 years of Babylonian captivity set in.
- v. Restored nation of Judah, from Nehemiah to the birth of our Lord, which is 516–4 B.C.
- c. The Dispensation of the Hypo-static union. Every time there is a break, there is a change. The incarnation or the 1st advent of Jesus Christ. This includes the testimony of the gospels. 4 B.C.–30 A.D., which covers the life, death and ascension of our Lord Jesus Christ.
- d. The Church Age, the age in which we live. 30 A.D. to the rapture of the church.
  - i. Pre-canon period. Begins with the Book of Acts and continued until John wrote the book of Revelation. 30-96 A.D., the era of the writing of the New Testament, the era of the Corinthians.
  - ii. Post-canon period of the Church Age. This is governed by Christ's upper room discourse (John 14–17) and the New Testament epistles and Revelation 2–3. It is governed by the New Testament epistles and the first couple chapters of Revelation.
- e. The Tribulation: a 7 year period of time, from the rapture of the church to the 2nd advent of Jesus Christ. Prophesied in the Old Testament and in Christ's Olivet discourse (Matt. 24–25). Also in parts of Revelation.
  - i. Satan's failed utopia, which begins with all unbelievers (opposite of previous civilizations which begin with only believers). Satan attempts to set up the utopia which he has always wanted to. 3.5 years into the Tribulation.
  - ii. The 2nd 3.5 years is called the great Tribulation. Satan's expulsion from heaven to the 2nd advent of Jesus Christ. Then the enemies of Israel will be destroyed at the battle of Armageddon.
- f. The Millennium, which means 1000. This is the 1000 year rule of Christ on earth, from his 2nd advent to the end of human history, 1000 years later. Prophesied in Rev. 20 and many places in the Old Testament. The Messiah was prophesied in the Old Testament over and over, and they expected a King; they did not expect a cross. They rejected Him as their king, and the Church had to be inserted. He will come back as the king of kings, and He will reign until the end of human history.

- g. The Eternal State, which is not really a dispensation, as there is no more time; there is no such thing as time and no history.

The Age of Israel begins with the Exodus generation, which is what we have been studying. Then we have the Age of the Hypostatic Union, which is the center of human history. All of history is centered around the event of the cross. This is the event which carries the greatest weight of human history. Approximately 25 years after ?? The Exodus generation has an influence on the Corinthians and also on us.

Upon whom refers back to our, which is all Church Age believers. Then we have the word ages, which is the genitive plural of aion, which is the Greek word for dispensations. From the divine perspective, there is a purpose for Israel, which continues through the Mosaic Law and through the prophets. There were sacrifices which is the faith rest life. They did not have the filling of the Holy Spirit. Some believers did have the indument of the Holy Spirit, which could be removed.

Aion = ages. Εἰ τῶν αἰῶν = unto the ages, which was inscribed on Bobby's grandfather's wedding ring. This refers to the fulfillment of a group of these ages, as well as a continuation of these ages. These ages are completed and also a continuation of the ages, which is the Church Age.

The election of Israel as a nation and all believers throughout history are called to advance to spiritual maturity. All believers in every dispensation represent God in this world. The discontinuity is also clear in the Scripture, and it is here where many are confused. Israel was a single nation, a single race of people, who represented the Lord on earth. They had rituals which represented Christ to come. Israel had a set of covenants like the Mosaic Law and the Abrahamic covenant which define their relationship with God. Only a few prominent Old Testament heroes had a function. The Age of the Hypostatic Union of the central point of human history, and the 3 hours on the cross were the central point of all human history.

In these last days, He has spoken to us through His Son. The dispensation of the hypostatic union provides a hinge which connects and divides, and this separates theologies. Dispensation theology emphasizes the discontinuity; this is a salient point of theology. Without understanding the dispensational theology, you cannot interpret Scripture.

The dispensation of the hypostatic union introduced and unprecedented system of power which had never been seen before. The Holy Spirit sustained Jesus Christ as no man before, and this set the precedent for our own operational spiritual life. This dispensation is the hinge and it is also the separator. This defined all other dispensations. The resurrection of Jesus Christ became the distinguishing mark and all believers will be resurrected. The church has differences. We live in the Church Age. We come to our portion of the history of mankind. We will see the progression of history as it relates to us.

v. 11 gives us the reason why we have studied the exodus generation. This is why we study extended carnality and lack of faith rest; the incidence of idolatry and syncretism, and the grumbling of that generation.

V. 12 is the conclusion, which is another warning, which is an admonition about staying alert and staying awake. 1Co 10:12 Therefore let anyone who thinks that he stands take heed lest he fall.

The ages are the dispensations in history; that is the importance of dispensations in history. Each dispensation is a progression in God's plan. Believers who live in a specific age must orient to the doctrine and spiritual life which have been given them in that age. Each era has unique characteristics; there is a continuity and a discontinuity by way of dispensations. In all dispensations, salvation is the same. There has never been a moment when salvation has not been the same. His work on the cross is efficacious for past, present and future dispensations. These dispensations look back; and others may suggest that ritual sacrifices were the means of their salvation, but those were just pictures of Christ to come.

1Cor. 10:11

Sunday 2 June 10, 2007

In California for Alex's Memorial service

Ages is αἰον, which refers to dispensations. Salvation is the same in every age. There are spiritual lives and spiritual growth which are somewhat different. Ritual sacrifices in the Age of Israel.

We live in the Church Age. The nation Israel was elected; and we, in this dispensation, come from every nation and from every gender. We no longer need as believers in the Church Age all of those rituals and covenants. We no longer need them. We no longer need the Mosaic Law or the Abrahamic covenant. We do not need the rituals to foreshadow Christ. He was sinless and perfect and the only one to fulfill this law. The Abrahamic Covenant is not abrogated by the death or life of Jesus Christ.

In the Church Age, we have the completed canon of Scripture and the mystery doctrine, which was reserved for us. The mystery doctrine is the unveiling of God's plan for the believers in the Church Age. We are endowed with the power of the Holy Spirit, something which Israel never had. Our spiritual life is modeled after the spiritual life which our Lord began.

We represent ourselves before God in rebound and in our spiritual growth and as we learn doctrine and apply it. We are in union with Christ by the baptism of the Holy Spirit. No other age allows for believers to be united by God the Holy Spirit to Jesus Christ. At some point, we will pass over to the other side, and share all the Jesus Christ is and all that He has.

We do not have to have miracles or the awesome displays of power that Israel saw, like the appearance of manna. We don't see this and we do not have to see that. We have that power. It is unique and it is one of the greatest privileges in all of history.

The great continuity between the dispensations and our continued spiritual growth. In the Church Age, the means to this end, our unique spiritual life is more powerful than it has been or will be in any age.

Brief time line of the dispensations.

Human life begins with Adam and it continues though the fall of Adam all the way to the exodus. The Jews were elect of God and they were utter spiritual failures. At a specific time in history, the Age of the Gentiles ended and the client nation Israel began. However, when the Lord Jesus Christ was born, the Age of Israel ended. Then there was a new age as the center of history. It began on the day of Pentecost, a few days after the ascension of Jesus.

The believers of Corinth reside in the Church Age, during the pre-canon period. This Church Age is continuing, and we do not know the end of the church. There are no signs or wonders in this age where we are told that this age would end. We do not know the end, but we know what will happen at the end.

Then there will be 7 years of the Tribulation, which will end the Age of Israel. The Church Age was intercalated between the Age of Israel and the Tribulation, which is a part of the Age of Israel. The Millennium starts with the rulership of Jesus Christ, at the end of the Tribulation, and goes for 1000 years. Then we have the final age, which is not a dispensation, the eternal age, the eternal state.

Καταντω

1. This means to arrive, to reach one's destination.
2. In other words the ends of the ages are reached.
3. The ends that are reached implies that each of the ages is completed; in other words, those previous dispensations.

4. The sum total of these ages have come down to this age in which Paul writes. 1Corinthians applies to all those of the Church Age.
5. This age reaps the benefits of the experiences of all previous dispensations. These completed ages are for our benefit in the unique age in which we live.
6. The Corinthians and all Church Age believers have reached the completion and fulfillment of these previous dispensations. The Age of Israel is not entirely fulfilled. Our age has not ended. These eschatological ages are still to come. However, with each moment, we progress in the Church Age.

The warning for all of us from the Exodus generation.

What are the Lessons?

1. As this age continues, believers need to understand their relationship to God, insofar as to what comes before and what comes after. We know the responsibility that we ought to have.
2. There is a problem for us as there is in every generation. We have so many more resources. Sin hinders and limits the use of our resources. That is the message of the exodus generation. That is the message of the fall of Adam; that is the message of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob.
3. Divine discipline, and the Exodus generation should have learned that a long time ago. Can we look at the Exodus generation and make the comparison to our own spiritual life. The nation Israel is not a client nation to God right now. In WWII, we have great weapons and great resources, but they had nothing compared to what our soldiers have in Iraq. We have so much more in the Church Age than was had in previous ages.

1Cor. 10:11 Now these things happened to them as an example, but they were written down for our instruction, on whom the end of the ages has come.

Paul adds two more admonitions, which begins with beware of creeping human viewpoint. Bobby loves this verse: Therefore let anyone who thinks that he stands take heed lest he fall. Continue with doctrine unless you fall. What you think is the only variable. V. 12 has to do with reviewing the entire sad approach of the Age of Israel. If you stand for nothing, then you will fall for anything. If you stand for nothing, you will fall for anything. No spiritual life means that you are without the Holy Spirit and/or without doctrine.

ὅσπη which means therefore. Perfect act infinitive of ἵσταναι and this is a result clause. What should be the result of the Corinthians and everyone else? How can we stand? Bobby is going to close out on this one.

We must never forget that the grace of God is involved with every area of our lives. As soon as we realize that, we understand that is where our strength lies. We must not search for solutions in our own strength, which is weakness. The power of human viewpoint is nothing but weakness. The only power we have is the divine viewpoint and the power of the Spirit. We bring nothing to our spiritual life. We must stand by and watch the deliverance of the Lord in all situations of life. We must press on to the high ground, and push anything aside which distracts us from that mission. That is how we take it in. Pressing on to the high ground is the appropriation of the grace of God. That is grace orientation. We cannot stand on our own. We can only stand utilizing the grace of God. We must continue to take in the Word of God as our first priority. You must continue to rest, to think, to concentrate on the doctrines in our souls. Life will be terrible for us and we will be wondering why.

1Co 10:12 Therefore let anyone who thinks that he stands take heed lest he fall.

1Cor. 10:12 Lesson #549 Sunday 1 June 17, 2007

Bobby was teaching at the Dallas Bible Conference last week at the Machaira Bible Church. Intense positive volition and a real enthusiasm for Bible doctrine. However, 1Corinthians was treating them roughly, as they told Bobby. They were up to date, and Bobby covered a different topic there.

We are going to deal with a critical passage, which will treat us roughly as well. This verse is one of the great warnings of Scripture. It is the crux of our spiritual life and the dangers of departing from that spiritual life.

For most people, there are no absolute standards; all they have is relative standards, and they bend, so that they have nothing of substance to stand upon. They look for loopholes; they find a way not to make the hard choices in life; they try to find a way of least resistance; so they can conform to fluid standards, so that they may change their behavior as they feel. There is no moral courage where standards are relative.

For the believer, we must be aggressive about standing upon principle. For many, it is opposing the standards of the world around them. Even Christians today stand on nothing because they know nothing. Or some are aware of absolute standards, and yet they choose to ignore these things under pressure. The result is they will adhere to the relative standards of Satan's cosmic system, which is lethal. When we cannot stand, we cannot glorify God. We cannot live the spiritual life without advancement.

Stand firm means that we stand upon Biblical principles, and without doctrine daily or being out of fellowship for awhile, we drift mentally, and we begin to lose the edge of Bible doctrine and the principles which go with it. We must continue to take in the Word of God. We must continue to take in the doctrine and we must keep active the doctrines resident in our soul. Sometimes, standing firm is just doing nothing and waiting on God to handle a situation that you cannot handle. Which time I am afraid, I will trust in You. The only way to trust someone is to have personal love for them and you have to know them. If you do not trust those whom you love, then you do not love them. You cannot live the spiritual life; you will stand for nothing, without doctrine in your soul. We love because He first loved us. God loves us beyond what any person can muster in life. When we depend upon personal love for a human being, you are standing upon clay. You must never forget to whom you owe complete allegiance like you do to God. This is our first and foremost allegiance. Without this, we have no other allegiance which lasts. Our allegiance is not to ourselves or to Satan's world.

The standard of the world around us is me first. We are not called to turn inward and to think only of ourselves. Sayings, e.g., you must take care of yourself first; or, if you don't look out for your own interests, then no one else will.

If someone has good standards, but without doctrine, then these standards weaken under pressure; you are influenced by every wind that blows your way. You wonder why you have no confidence. This is how a person who understands the importance of a traditional family, who has been in both situations, and still will cast votes against the traditional family. No clear, standards.

We are in danger of becoming Gen X. Bobby is calling them generation X. Excellent! They found no peace and no pleasure in their departure from God's plan. That is the consequence of not being able to stand on the doctrine resident in your soul. Since they never stood upon the promises of God, they could never recover and they died the sin unto death.

There is always the danger of the fall; no matter how long you have been under doctrine, you can always fall. All it takes is failure to stand upon doctrine; failure to apply doctrine.

Paul uses the imperative mood of the verb βλέω = look, see [here], look closely at this, pay close attention to this; be careful and be watchful, be vigilant. 2Peter 3:17: Be careful! You therefore, beloved, knowing these things beforehand, beware, lest being carried away with the error of the wicked, you fall from your own steadfastness. You fall into reversionism like generation X.

1John 5:21: Little children, keep yourselves from idols. This is the picture of syncretism, where you worship God, but you operate outside the plan of God; you dabble in the cosmic system. There are lots of things out there to be on guard against. There are obvious things, such as the dominant area of your old sin nature. That is the problem of the Exodus generation; they were knocked over the problem instead of by the solution.

There are more subtle ways, e.g., association with human viewpoint thinking which seems to be harmless enough. Imperceptible ways where we are affected. The extraction and the recovery is very difficult. However, no matter how far we fall, we can recover. God's love never fails and His love never fails. Human viewpoint and all that goes with it can be addictive, as well as destructive. This is because our sin nature is attracted to things apart from God. The more mature that we become, the less our sin nature controls. The more we grab human viewpoint, the more our sin nature controls. Take heed that you stand on doctrine, so that you do not fall.

Eph. 6:13–14: Therefore, put on the whole armor of God, that you may be able to withstand in the evil day, and, having done all, to stand. Stand therefore, having the utility belt of truth buckled around your waist, and having put on the breastplate of righteousness,... these are the passages so that we remain on guard to protect our spiritual lives.

What are the great dangers? What can we fall into? In Corinth, it is idolatry and the phallic cults; syncretism. To them, the Temple is just a feast, just a party, just a place to kick back and enjoy life. They don't think they will be swept away, not taken in by the false religion. The problem is, they are not on their guard. They are putting themselves in a position of vulnerability. They are vulnerable to the thrust of a sword which is not divine viewpoint.

1Cor. 10:12 Therefore let anyone who thinks that he stands take heed lest he fall.

1Cor. 10:12

Sunday 2 June 17, 2007

The problem is, how do you do it? How do you live this life? That is key to the Christian life. Standing firm in the Word of God and standing firm with doctrine resident in your soul. You may think you are tough, but your exterior is not that tough. The softest, sweetest person in the world can stand firm. You can stand on the principles of Bible doctrine. When you strap on the armor of God and you begin to reject doctrine, and you leave yourself vulnerable. What we are studying is very practical. V. 12 is the culmination of everything that we have studied. The Corinthians are believers, but they have not said to themselves, "We are leaving the Lord behind and we are going back to the heathen temple and worship false gods." They feel that they are impervious to their old false worship. "We know better; we are never going back to that." But they do feel safe in going back and having a great meal and a glass of wine and they hang out with old friends. They feel safe from contamination in the temples. They are not going to be swept away by the worship of the false deities. For them, it is just about entertainment and fine dining and friendships, and maybe a little romance; but not romance.

A quick way to get into human viewpoint is to leave Berachah and date outside Berachah church, if there is no one dating you there. Berachah is good for doctrine but not for relationships. You meet someone who is a lot of fun and better looking than anyone else at church, so you go out and get your feet wet. It happens. It is a warning. They are not going to dive into temple worship; their doctrine will not be shaken. No threat to my spiritual life; I have a strong spiritual life. These Corinthians are already in syncretism.

There is not one aspect of your life where you cannot be on guard. You have to have the armor fully strapped on. Some did not just become peripherally involved with the phallic cult, but they became active participants. When religion and doctrine are mixed, doctrine is compromised. The result is a soul filled with confusion and garbage. Divine viewpoint is always dumbed down. Human viewpoint or religiosity always affects divine viewpoint. Human viewpoint and divine viewpoint cannot co-exist without the practitioner becoming Gen X.

We can become addicted so easily to are areas of weakness. Even areas of strength can creep up and get us. We are not bullet-proof, simply because we sit in Bible class. When we think we are, our guard is down; and it is easy to fall into a trap. The step into sychrotism is just a step away.

Matt. 6:24: "No one can serve two masters, for either he will hate the one and love the other; or else he will be devoted to one and despise the other. You can't serve both God and Mammon. Trying to serve both is syncretism. It can be anything: activism, environmentalism, or anything that we put in front of God. These can be things which are not wrong, but they can overthrow divine viewpoint. Sooner or later, mammon and doctrine will make opposing demands. They may seem to run concurrently for awhile, but after awhile, materialism takes the place of Bible doctrine.

3 General Temptations that We Should be On Guard Against

1. Constantly looking for association with human viewpoint. This can lead to distorted thinking and actions and degeneracy. They had the presence of God right there and they still had distorted thinking.
2. When you mix human viewpoint in your soul with syncretism will win out.
3. In syncretism, we will come to despise Bible doctrine, even as we give it lip-service. We must constantly evaluate our thinking. This is a continual thing; not once a week or once a month.

Letting your guard down in the army is a serious offense. Be aware of your surroundings; be aware of your choices; be aware of those with whom you come into contact. Your choices: your surroundings and associates. When you have associations with unbelievers, be careful where you take them and be careful as to where they take you. When human viewpoint creeps in and you fall into agreement, you have gone too far.

2Peter 2:74–9 For if God didn't spare angels when they sinned, but cast them down to Tartarus, and committed them to pits of darkness, to be reserved for judgment; and didn't spare the ancient world, but preserved Noah with seven others, a preacher of righteousness, when he brought a flood on the world of the ungodly; and turning the cities of Sodom and Gomorrah into ashes, condemned them to destruction, having made them an example to those who would live ungodly; and delivered righteous Lot, who was very distressed by the lustful life of the wicked (for that righteous man dwelling among them, was tormented in his righteous soul from day to day with seeing and hearing lawless deeds): the Lord knows how to deliver the godly out of temptation and to keep the unrighteous under punishment for the day of judgment;... Lot chose the beauty of this area, but he was oppressed by the conduct and thinking of those in that area. He was a believer in Jesus Christ, and yet he departed from the great doctrinal leader of his age, and he was influenced by the degeneracy of the ancient world. There was a time when two angels visited Lot, and they came in the form of men. As was customary at that time, he took them into his house. A gang of men demanded that Lot send these men out to them so that they could gang rape them. Lot followed legalistically the custom of that time and offered his own daughter to these men. He was that influenced by the evil of his time. Gen. 19:8. He would substitute his daughters for the angels, without a thought as to what it would do to them. Lot made a conscious choice to continue to associate with the evil of that area. His soul was tortured by the evil of those in his periphery. Lot turned evil just by the association.

Two categories of people to stay away from: 2Peter 2:10–11: ...but chiefly those who walk after the flesh in the lust of defilement, and despise authority. Daring, self-willed, they are not afraid to speak evil of dignitaries; whereas angels, though greater in might and power, don't bring a railing judgment against them before the Lord. Anti-authority and antinomian are the two types of people which we ought to avoid.

The evil which Lot chose affected his own daughters, who chose sex with their father in order to perpetuate their family, from which came Moab and Ammon, who caused great harm to Israel throughout their lives.

There are definite problems with our associations. We are attracted to people; our sin natures end up being compatible with ours; and this similarity of old sin natures is what is the basis for our attraction.

Associate with evil and you will become evil or you will become influenced by evil. Vulnerability to those same evils.

A 2nd problem of human viewpoint that we may fall prey to. This one is more subtle: we can fall prey to legalism. Very religious and very self-righteous—phoney. These are those who do not understand rebound. They live in carnality. They think that the Christian life is self righteous morality. You can be moral and carnal at the same time. The legalist tries to have a good life under his own power. Is morality and sin compatible? Of course. Antinomianism and asceticism can both be detrimental. When you live under legalism, you become self righteous about your works and your own holiness. Self righteousness is about the person; it is not about principle, but it is about the person. Subtle, but evil.

In self righteousness, you develop a inordant self righteousness and self-confidence, which leads to carelessness. You depend upon your own strength; you focus on yourself and not upon Bible doctrine. You are convinced that God is impressed with you.

We can be influenced by legalists in Berachah church. We must be vigilant about antinomianism and legalism both. Both attack and both are being warned against. Next comes encouragement. "I can't have friends; they all influence me badly." We must be on guard, but we always have help. We are in the world; we must rub elbows with the world. We need help to function in this world. A great promise coming up in this chapter.

1Cor. 10:12 Therefore let anyone who thinks that he stands take heed lest he fall.

Our great hope and our great confidence. This does not guarantee that we will not fall. We can handle any temptation, but there is more to it than that. We can choose to fail.

1Cor. 10:13 No temptation has overtaken you that is not common to man. God is faithful, and he will not let you be tempted beyond your ability, but with the temptation he will also provide the way of escape, that you may be able to endure it.

1Cor. 10:13

Wednesday June 20, 2007

Jim Meyers mission report on the Ukraine.

We may have claimed v. 13 many times, but we may not have a complete understanding of it. It is an important promise. This is what God has done for Israel. Time after time, Israel was delivered from her failures. God intervened many times when Israel was about to go under; and time after time, they saw God's wonderful grace. God sustained them at the Red Sea; He provided water and manna. We know exactly how they failed and everything which God did for them. What Israel had in all of their testing, trials and temptations were preparations, so that the grace and faithfulness of God could come through to them loud and clear. They faced many tests, time after time, and they failed all of them. In spite of their many failures, they did not experience any test for which God had not already prepared them.

They left Egypt and marched to the Red Sea, and they whined and complained, and God delivered them. Then, the golden calf incident, and they figured that Moses would not return; but he did return. Then they had no food; and then no water. Each test gave them a basis for passing the next test. God did not bring us out into the wilderness to die. They chose not to apply doctrinal rationales which were right before their eyes.

Background/Summary for 1Cor. 10:13

1. Bobby's point is, the temptations and the tests that the exodus generation faced were not beyond their ability to withstand. They had the ability to face these tests and to pass these tests. They had the ability to face these temptations; to resist the temptations to build an idol; to resist the desire to return to Egypt.
2. God's grace is in operation every minute of the day. God's faithfulness. This is an iron-clad promise.

3. God provides the means by which we can have deliverance, a way of escape; just as Israel had the means, but they did not use it. Israel did not take the escape hatch.
4. For the way of escape, we learn to depend upon doctrinal rationales. There is our means and our way of escape. In so doing, we will be delivered from temptation, trial, etc. We will escape and endure.
5. His power offsets our weakness and temptations. 2Cor. 12:10: when I am weak, then I am strong.
6. The filling of the Holy Spirit and metabolized doctrine are the means of our escape, and that is how we endure temptation and testing.

Πειρασμος = temptation. This is not a synonym for sin. It is a solicitation to sin, but it is not sin. Temptations in life are unavoidable. They are parallel to adversity in our lives. Adversity is inevitable in our lives; we all will experience that; we will all experience temptation. It is the nature that we all possess. We all have a sin nature and we do not become perfect. We might gain more control over the sin nature and we may spend more time in fellowship from day to day; but we never enter into sinless perfection during this life. We do not need to succumb to temptation anymore than we need to give in to adversity. These things are inevitable. Temptations and adversities are inevitable. Sin and stress are optional. We cannot complain, "I had no choice but to sin." This is the argument of the homosexuality. They have a great degeneracy of thinking and lifestyle. When they think with degeneracy, even if they are nice, association with them will affect us. Be on guard. Stand, take heed, lest you fall. This is the effect of their thinking. This is true of any degeneracy.

Temptation is a solicitation to sin. It produces human good and sin. There is a second concept in this area: pressure testing by God for our benefit. God does not tempt us to sin; but God does test us. Our sin nature tempts us to sin. God does not. However, He tests us.

When we fail to pass the test, we have chosen to do that. We experience that sin in a lousy mental attitude. We are tested so that we pass the test and move forward. Temptation from the sin nature and testing from God. Our volition is always in play in both areas, facing temptation and testing.

Abraham had to trust God's promise and that God would fulfill it in the way that God promised. God would fulfill His promise regardless. He did not want to kill his son; he loved his son. He passed the test. He did not sin by disobeying God's test.

Spiritual advance and great blessings and in this is the greatest happiness in life. Disobedience, even when it seems justified, will not bring happiness or contentment.

We will receive temptation which normally faces all believers in this life. Only this temptation normal to all believers is what we will receive. We will not get some superhuman temptation which we cannot overcome. We are protected from overwhelming, demonic temptations. This we won't face as we could not overcome it. Job was given direct Satanic testing as a test of Job's faith and it furthered along the angelic conflict. His wife said, "Curse God and die." He endured all that came his way, except that he could not deal with his self righteous friends.

The incestuous man of 1Cor. 5:5 was turned over to Satan, but that was for punishment, not for temptation or for testing.

We can be tested by the indirect influence of the doctrine of demons. 1Tim. 4:1 5:15.

There are common tests for all believers that we all are able to pass. We might not be strong enough to face a direct Satanic attack, but that is not given to all believers. We will have the doctrine of demons placed in front of us; anything which is not Bible doctrine is the doctrine of demons.

How can we be assured that these temptations are only those which all believers face? We know that God is faithful; and we are told this in this verse.

Our Encouragement

1. God is always right there; He never leaves us and He never forsakes us. He is always there to keep us from being overwhelmed by our circumstances.
2. The immutability of God and His promises assures that His help is always there; this is an iron-clad assurance.
3. Although believers may be faithless, He remains faithful. Time after time, we fail tests and time after time, we get out of fellowship. God remains faithful, no matter what. 2Tim. 2:13.
4. Not one of God's promises has ever failed. 1Kings 8:56.
5. God's immutability is the anchor in unstable times and circumstances. We can step back and use the essence of God rationale. His promises never change; His promises always work.
6. Therefore, the faithfulness of God is the assurance that nothing will be impossible with God. There is encouragement. Luke 1:37.
7. God will not allow any temptation which is not common to man; nor will He allow a temptation beyond a believer's ability to resist.

1Cor. 10:13 No temptation has overtaken you that is not common to man. God is faithful, and he will not let you be tempted beyond your ability, but with the temptation he will also provide the way of escape, that you may be able to endure it.

Jim Myers missionary to the Ukraine, which is the largest country entirely within Europe. It is a little smaller than the state of Texas. Russia is larger, but it is in Asia. It is the bread basket of Europe and they can grow anything there. They grow beets for sugar and the wheat for Europe.

Instability in the Ukraine. Ushenko is the president there, and he was in a presidential election with Yanakovich, which a lot of shenanigans, and somethings called the orange revolution and hundreds of thousands of Ukrainians marching in the streets over the elections. 3 elections occurred. People thought he would be a wonderful guy; the guy he lost to is become prime minester. Yanokovich is friends with Putin. The parliament was fired. They could not get a majority or do any business, so they were fired and the president fired them all. These two politicians are not allies in any sense of the word. They have a militia in different parts of the country.

There are fewer in number there proclaiming that Christ alone is our salvation; and this is becoming a very foreign concept there. Our purpose is to train nationals to carry on the work. The things that you learn from me, I want you to commit to faithful men so that they can train others also. There are now graduates from their Bible college and some are going out and planting churches on their own. One young man who he thinks is destined to become a great spiritual leader, and he is just outside of Kiev. He is only 23 or 24. He has a school of theology of his own, and it is almost unheard of for other Ukranian pastors to listen to someone who is so young. However, they recognize that he has a message of truth.

They started a church in Kiev called the Word of God Church. Evangelism outreach is emphasized as well. This is the only hope for that country. There are many evangelistic outreaches. They preach the gospels in the hospitals, in the juvenile detention centers, to kid's clubs, to orphanages. A tremendous reponse in these kid's clubs; and even a recent call to go into the schools and teach Christian morality. A society without thieves and drunks is good, and this is recognized. They will be able to go in a teach whatever they want. Morality is wonderful, but without a relationship with Jesus Christ, it is empty.

He has gone to Zambia many times (Northern Rhodesia) and he taught pastors without training there. He was asked to put on a longer conference; and he was asked back. Hundreds of pastors and church leaders showed up and men from 30 different ministries. They were overwhelmed; they had never heard Bible doctrine before. They would sit there 5 or 6 hours a day. Printed outlines provided and cassette tapes. They are cranking out thousands of tapes for church leaders for pastors there. They are very positive to the Word of God and the doors are open and they just want teachers.

Tim and Ingrid Lipsky were friends of his. Tim came to teach in a Bible school in the west of Kiev. They were killed in a bus accident in the upstairs behind the driver, and some animal ran out in the road and an 18-wheeler swerved to miss the animal, and there was a head on collision and the platform collapsed. The gas tanks were right beneath them and one of Ingrid's legs are trapped. She called for Tim to cut off her leg. Tim would not leave her. Ingrid in the past said, "I don't want to be a widow; I want us to go together." Tim and the rapture generation, and he said, "I want to die, and I want to experience dying grace. I want ot have that experience." They both had their prayer answered. A conference was held anyway, and huge numbers came. They had a passion for the Word of God. Even their children stood up and testified how wonderful it was that they knew doctrine and lived doctrine. Nicky and Valerie, who are both strong in the Lord.

Seminary is not just open to anyone; it is for those who want to get the doctrine, the theology, the training, and then to go out and have ministries of their own.

Ali's Bible lessons are being broadcast into Iran in their own language.

1Cor. 10:13

Thursday June 21, 2007

This is a promise that everyone knows about, but few know exactly what it means. Sometimes some make it mean what they want it to mean. It is a complex promise and there are many facets to it.

First a key noun begins this verse: πειρασμος = temptation. As the verse says, this temptation can overtake us. What is temptation and how does it occur? It is anything which induces us to take a course of thinking or action which is sin. There are all sorts of temptations. Temptation itself is not sin, but it is only an inducement to sin, but it is not sin. It comes from the sin nature. You cannot remove your sin nature; you can't pray it out; it is permanent; it is an inherent nature. It is a nature of death. This inherent part of our body seeks to influence and gain control of our soul. It begins by inducing us to sin. We sin personally when we surrender to temptation. The sin nature is the tempter to sin. Temptation is inevitable and as certain as adversity. It is not circumstances which tempt us, which is a common misconception. Circumstances are simply bait. It is our inner sin nature which tempts us to make the wrong decisions. The sin nature takes the circumstances and through these circumstances tempts us to sin. That which tempts us is not outward circumstances but the inward nature. There is a very practical application to this: we can never use the excuse that we are a victim of circumstances. We cannot blame sin on where we live or how we are brought up. We always have a choice. The circumstance is not the sin nature; the sin nature is us. The sin nature is our inner enemy. Within the sin nature there are lust patterns and these are patterns for which we have a propensity to conform. It is a preference in choosing a sinful course. We all have a preference in choosing a sin that we really like. This is a trend, which is known as our area of weakness. It might be a trend toward legalism or it might be antinomianism, leading to immoral degeneracy. One of these will be dominant. This dominant trend can change.

You can go from being a rake to being a self righteous prig, and vice versa. The sin nature is an obvious and permanent element of human nature.

We are probably well aware of our own lust pattern and we understand that it is the most tempting for us to follow. When we are attacked by this lust pattern, it is overt and well-known to us. However, at other times, there are temptations which are in very subtle areas. These are often imperceptible things which we do not view as problematic or dangerous. We fight the obvious, or not, but the obvious is obvious. The subtle is where we need to be on guard.

Bobby draws a circle, a defensive position. Rangers when moving, when they run into any problems, go into a perimeter defense. A good platoon leader or company commander will examine his perimeter and determine where he should concentrate his defense. One direction may be more obvious than another. He will have to pull people from one place and put them in another, weakening the other positions. There is an obvious area of attack; however, sometimes, there is a subtle attack at another area.

What are the subtle areas of a sneak attack?

1. These are areas where we can be compromised through someone else's corrupt thinking.
2. We can recognize our own trend and deflect that.
3. This is human viewpoint associations which impact on our thinking in imperceptible ways. People who influence your thinking in imperceptible ways.
4. These attacks come as a mode of thinking which infiltrates and contradicts divine viewpoint, so that divine viewpoint is neutralized in some areas.
5. What happens is, we develop blind areas of human viewpoint which conflict with divine viewpoint and application of Bible doctrine. You may like these people; you may like hanging out with them; and you may recognize that you can resist the obvious temptations associated with them. However, you get into carnality, and it affects every area of your life.

There is a simple recognition process and you need to know how to recognize these subtle attacks. We must associate with a large variety of people and we may not associate with some of them because we are forced to; but there are others that we really like to associate with. Under certain conditions, in those cases, a warning bell should go off in your head.

The Recognition

1. If you know that someone thinks in purely human viewpoint terms, then bells should go off. They can be very attractive people. There is a lot of human viewpoint. Then there are Christians who don't know anything. They aren't interested in doctrine. Human viewpoint is all that they can have.
2. If you know that some is degenerate in the lifestyle and their thinking, you have to be careful, because they can be very fun.

3. Close associations can be a source of great temptation. Sometimes, when you want to advance, you need to separate from them.
4. Your doctrinal viewpoint will be subtly eroded in certain areas. Pretty soon the carnality involved will take you down with it. You may not even realize that you are giving into the subtle aspect of it.
5. By the time that you see where it is taking you, it has already taken you down that road.
6. Hence, you have succumbed to this temptation which sneaked up on you. You must always be on guard in these subtle situations.
7. Solution: choose your intimate associations wisely. "I'll never have any friends" is what you might think. The trouble is, you want associations with those with the wrong proclivity. Both the overt and subtle temptations are warned against.

You may think that you are standing against temptations, but take heed against the subtle temptations, lest you fall. All will lead to the destruction of your spiritual life.

Πειρασμος can also mean testing, and God does put our spiritual intent to the test. The purpose is for us to pass the test and to accelerate our growth because of it. Carnality for being out of fellowship, and this is how testing becomes sin. Either one leads to sin.

Common Temptations

1. We will receive by way of tempting or testing what other believers normally are subject to. Jesus Christ was tempted directly by Satan; we won't receive that.
2. There are customary and similar temptations which are common to all of us. We will not receive any unique or unusual tests. We are capable of passing these tests. They are not impossible because God is faithful. God will not allow a believer to be unduly tempted.

Ability to resist

1. God will not allow tempting or testing beyond our capability to resist.
2. He always provides the means of our resistance from tempting and testing.
3. He gives us the filling of the Holy Spirit and Bible doctrine so that we are not overpowered.
4. When we learn to depend upon these rationales and promises, when they are implanted in our souls, when we have confidence in them, we will make good decisions, and we will be delivered from temptations and testing.
5. In God's faithfulness, we are assured that He will not allow us to be unduly tested. That in itself should be an encouragement and a comfort to us.

We also have the ability to fail any test or give into any temptation.

The negative οὐκ + εἶω = to let, to permit + the negative. Future tense; this promise includes all believers and our entire life on this earth, either now or in the future. If one believer can resist using the spiritual life, then we are all capable of doing the same thing. We may not advance the same amount or at the same rate, but we are guaranteed to be able to resist the temptation which God gives us.

The Parameters of the Promise

1. God will never put us to a test or tempt us so that we are guaranteed to flunk. You cannot be in the 2nd grade and go into a Calculus class and pass. We are not spiritually mature enough to deal with something, so God does not put us there.
- 2.
3. God does not permit temptation past our capability; and He will not wear us down so that we fail.
4. God will only allow testing and temptation which we can handle. Almost any test can overwhelm me.
5. You will never be taken beyond where you have spiritually advanced.
6. You will not be tempted to the level of the Apostle Paul as you lack his maturity. Testing is designed for our advance. We can fail, if we don't handle it.
7. In our testing and temptation, what we apply by way of doctrine will advance us. We will not be tested beyond our capability to metabolize doctrine.
8. We are protected in that way; this is an iron-clad protection; we are not set up to fail; we are not set up to succumb to temptation. We are designed to resist and to deflect.
9. It is reassuring and comforting knowing that we have the capability of handling whatever God throws our way. If we pass, the upside is, we advance. It has to be a test in order for us to spiritually advance.

Volitional Aspect

1. It is up to us to handle the temptation and the testing; we have free will. We must choose to do so.
2. This verse does not guarantee that we will resist all temptation or that we will pass all temptation.
3. The guarantee is that we will not be tempted by anything that anyone else has not faced.
4. Our guarantee is that we will not be tempted by anything which we are not spiritually mature enough to face. If we refuse to spiritually advance, then we will fail when tested. God is still faithful and He will not test us beyond what we can handle. For the Exodus generation, they could have passed those tests; they could have put things together and passed each and every test. They had that capability.
5. In resisting temptation or passing testing, this will be the push for further momentum in the Christian life. The more momentum we gain, the greater our life. We have it all, despite testing and temptation.

What is the Guarantee Again?

1. If we think we have or face impossible testing or temptation, then we must realize and never forget that we are equipped to handle it, or it would not be in our life. We are equipped to handle any test or temptation in our lives.
2. God will not allow any temptation or testing beyond what we are able to deal with.
3. Whatever temptation we are facing, we will have in our right lobe the knowledge and the resources to pass any temptation or test which crosses our path. How can that be? "I know I've faced temptations which I could not resist." God will not permit testing beyond what we can bear.
4. We must use our spiritual life to pass, to resist.
5. When we resist, we advance spiritually by passing the test or resisting the temptation.
6. So, we must consider this: temptation or testing is not a bad thing. It accelerates growth, when we use our resources and weather the storm. It is a great thing designed for our benefit. God can take our great enemy the old sin nature, and turn it into something which benefits us. We turn the tables on the sin nature and advance to maturity by resisting its temptation.
7. To the degree that we learn to depend on the Lord, we are delivered from the temptation and testing to which we are subjected or to which we subject ourselves. We must learn to depend upon the Lord in all circumstances.

Paul tells these Corinthians that they have the ability to resist temptation and to pass testing, just as the Exodus generation did. Okay, what about when we are first saved?

1Cor. 10:13 No temptation has overtaken you that is not common to man. God is faithful, and He will not let you be tempted beyond your ability, but with the temptation He will also provide the way of escape, that you may be able to endure it.

1Cor. 10:13

This is a very complex promise in Scripture. All believers in all dispensations of history have had to resist temptation. Bobby hesitates to use that term as there is a tinge of legalism in it. It become almost meaningless and almost revolting. peirasmos (πειρασμός) [pronounced pie-rahs-MOSS], which means 1) an experiment, attempt, trial, proving; 1a) trial, proving: the trial made of you by my bodily condition, since condition served as to test the love of the Galatians toward Paul (Gal_4:14); 1b) the trial of man's fidelity, integrity, virtue, constancy; 1b1) an enticement to sin, temptation, whether arising from the desires or from the outward circumstances; 1b2) an internal temptation to sin; 1b2a) of the temptation by which the devil sought to divert Jesus the Messiah from his divine errand; 1b3) of the condition of things, or a mental state, by which we are enticed to sin, or to a lapse from the faith and holiness; 1b4) adversity, affliction, trouble: sent by God and serving to test or prove one's character, faith, holiness; 1c) temptation (i.e. trial) of God by men; 1c1) rebellion against God, by which his power and justice are, as it were, put to the proof and challenged to show themselves. Strong's #3986.

We have the spiritual life, so that we may view history, understand it, and learn from it. Our ability to glorify the Lord all hang in the balance of our ability to execute the spiritual life. If we don't have to fail, if we don't have to go down the road of the Exodus generation or of the Corinthians, then what do we do? God has provided a guarantee. He has provided that He will not tempt/test us beyond what we can handle; God has provided the ability in us to resist. God has provided us inner resources. We are not going to face any tests which God has not prepared us. There is dependence upon certain factors.

What Has God Done? God has provided something for us: the power and the resources of the spiritual life, so that we can handle problems, tests, and temptations. The promise is that God will not give us a temptation beyond what we can handle. We have the resources and we must use these resources in order to handle the temptation. It does depend upon our volition. However, this is God's guarantee of our deliverance.

Any person or thing which induces us to take a course of thinking or action which is sin = temptation. Temptation in and of itself is not sin; our response to it can be sin. God has provided us a way of escape.

Temptation includes within it, testing by God for our benefit. God does not tempt us to sin; however, He does test us, and this word includes both. Unless this testing accelerates our growth, then it is useless. The idea is, God will test us in order to help us grow.

Summary of the Promise

1. The temptation and the testing will not go beyond what we can handle. That is God's promise.
2. However, we must utilize our spiritual resources.
3. God will only allow testing and temptation that we can deal with from the doctrine and the maturity status that we currently possess. This puts the two of them together. What about those who choose not to grow? Those who had little or no doctrine will have problems with the testing and temptations they face.
4. We will not be tested/tempted beyond what our maturity level has taken us.
5. If we don't have the maturity level to handle something, we will not be tempted or tested in that area.
6. However, we will fail if we are negative to or if we neglect Bible doctrine. God still provides a way of escape. The easiest way to fail is to neglect doctrine. Negative volition is not the way of escape. It is still reassuring and comforting to know that we have the capability to handle it.

All the testing that we will receive will be common to all men. These are tests which we all experience. If one believer can resist a test or a temptation by using the resources of the spiritual life, and since we all have the same resources and the same equal opportunity and options, then we are all capable of passing these tests and resisting temptation. No one faces an uncommon test that he is not prepared for. Like any promise which God makes, the promise is immutable. God cannot change it. God is faithful. He is faithful to His promises. He is faithful and consistent. That is the essence of God rationale.

However, we are very capable of falling to temptation and failing the test. We know that we are, as we might fail once a day. In great maturity, we pass a few tests; big failures and small failures, all of which come from our own choice. When you fail by your own choice, then you fail. You choose that course for yourself. You choose not to use the power and resources of the Christian life. If we so choose, we are in carnality and a status of spiritual failure. There is a guarantee of that way of escape. It is up to us to handle the testing and temptation using the resources which God has provided for us. God guarantees that we will not face a test above and beyond what others have faced.

Perhaps this is a two-fold promise, one for those who are growing and for those who are not growing? For those who are growing, God promises that we can face any test and any temptation; for those who are negative toward God's Word, perhaps the promise is, there is no uncommon temptation or testing for such a one.

We must choose to use the spiritual life by His promise and by His resources. We appropriate the way and the escape by using the resources of His spiritual life. There is no degree of deliverance; there is only deliverance. We will always have the doctrine that we need; God will not test us beyond what we have resident in our soul.

A question might arise: what about the times when we have no spiritual life? When we became believers, what way of escape did we have, when we have no resources? There are also believers who do not advance.

What About when we are First Saved?

1. Understand that 1Cor. 10:13 is addressed to all believers; it is not addressed to only the spiritually mature.
2. We all bring baggage into our lives and we build up baggage in our souls.
3. That baggage in our souls may seem overwhelming when we begin our spiritual life anew. The problems may seem monumental. Or, what if you have been negative toward His Word for a long time?
4. The very fact that you expressed faith in Christ or you have a renewed positive volition to doctrine is a recognition by us that we have a solution to those problems. I'm in the wrong place; I'm on the wrong track; this is a recognition that there is a solution.
5. There is a security simply based upon faith in Christ.
6. If you are positive to doctrine, the promises that we learn in the early, immature stages, will be enough to get us through. That will get us the escape which we are promised; that is the escape from the baggage and garbage that we have accumulated. We have not totally escaped them; the baggage and garbage may remain for awhile.
7. The baggage will not disappear nor will the repercussions of that baggage/garbage. There is a maturing process, which handles testing and temptation at our level. Why do I want to advance if there is just more temptation? Our spiritual advance is what makes life great. Our life means little without spiritual advance. The testing and temptations that we receive make it better. When we know what the solution is, we have ahead of 99% people in this life.

8. The more doctrine you metabolize, the wider becomes our escape route from that old baggage.
9. In the meantime, as we progress, God is not going to allow new temptations that we can't handle with the basic doctrine that we have. God will not lay on basic doctrine more than we can handle.
10. God will never set us up to fail. That is why the tests which He gives will never be beyond what we can handle. That is how this verse connects with our life. However, we will set ourselves for failure. We have no excuse; we are not victims, except of our own bad choices. Still, we have the solution; rebound and positive volition toward doctrine. It is what is inside of us that tempts us and what is inside of us is the solution. The sin nature vs. the doctrine in our souls and the Holy Spirit.
11. Our purpose in this life is to grow spiritually, and as we progress, we can handle old baggage and new temptations and testing.

Bobby is going to diagram this for us. As we progress, it all gets less. We still get temptation, but our progression is spiritual advance. We will always face temptation and testing. Better to get used to solving problems in this life.

Escaping such new temptations always accelerates advance and wipes out the baggage. This promise encompasses our entire spiritual life; problems and solutions. This is one of the fundamental promises of Scripture.

1Cor. 10:13 No temptation has overtaken you that is not common to man. God is faithful, and He will not let you be tempted beyond your ability, but with the temptation He will also provide the way of escape, that you may be able to endure it.

1Cor. 10:13

Sunday 2 June 24, 2007

Almost everything that we need is here to function in our spiritual life.

Summary so Far

1. First of all, there is a promise; if there is temptation, if there is testing, we have a way of escape. We have something that we can utilize, we have the ability to claim the promise.
2. God has given us resources, which come from His grace. There is nothing which we have gotten from Him which we have earned or deserved.
3. Therefore, we can escape the temptation.

There is always the problem that we can still flunk the test, even having the spiritual assets to resist a particular test. We have the means to fail as well as the means to pass. We must be on-guard; we must constantly be on-guard; we are on-guard because we have doctrine in our souls. What we have is doctrine resident in the soul. When we are filling of the Holy Spirit, and with doctrine in our souls, in the right time, in the right way, God will bring to our minds exactly what we need to advance in the test; it is not about our own ability or our own resistance. It is about what He does for us as a means of resistance. Positive volition toward doctrine guard against surrendering to temptation, and this allows us to pass tests. We simply cannot do this under our own power.

Endurance is a wonderful word; this means that it is not just a one-time thing; it is not a flash in the pan; this is the one step at a time. This is when we really begin to see what Bible doctrine can do. One step closer to maturity every day. We don't just endure life and grit our teeth until heaven. Endurance is utilizing our spiritual life consistently and facing these temptations and tests consistently. It is solving problems consistently. Endurance is a great word. Unbelievers can solve problems as well; it is not a situation where they are completely knocked down by every problem; they just have fewer resources. For them, there is nothing beyond themselves. For us, we have so much which is beyond ourselves. By utilizing our spiritual life, we are capable of glorifying God, and we withstand even the greatest temptations and testings and we are a victor in the angelic conflict. When we fail, never forget the remedy. With the temptation, He will provide the way of escape so that we can endure it. We have so much more than the unbeliever and the immature believer. Sometimes, in our areas of weaknesses, there are times when it is very difficult to resist temptations. No matter what they are, they will not exceed our ability to handle them. Maybe we don't realize that we have the ability to defeat it; maybe we don't realize how far we have advanced and what we can do. It is defeatable; it is resistible. We have temptation and we have the ability to escape. Life would not be better without these temptations. Facing these gives us these options and the chance to defeat our temptation. One does not precede the other. Temptation will always be there but it will always be bearable, if we stand on the doctrine in our souls. The way of escape is standing firm on doctrine. We cannot escape anything if we cannot stand firm in doctrine. Take heed, be on guard; stand, lest you fall. Much better to have a clear vision of where we are going and who we are. It begins with the filling of the Holy Spirit. It then moves into an area.

Let's go to the basics. We can become filled with the Holy Spirit from our earliest spiritual life. If we are consistently in the Spirit, we then have options. The basis for resistance is retroactive positional truth, which is one of the great rationales for our early spiritual life. It is our identification with Christ in our two deaths and burial. This happens through the mechanics of the filling of the Holy Spirit. We are identified with Christ in His death, burial and resurrection at salvation; and the emphasis on what we have as a result. We now have salvation based upon faith alone in Christ alone. Our human good and evil were not imputed to Christ; however, the believer is separated Positionally from human good and evil. The rulership of Satan's cosmic system—evil itself—we have an early means of escape. The power of the sin nature and the power of the evil in this world is broken at salvation. We have the ability to resist and we can claim this as a doctrinal rationale from the very beginning. We have the assurance that our salvation is the basis for this. If the power of the sin nature is broken Positionally, then it can be defeated experientially. One of the things which we need to understand at the very beginning is the 39 irrevocable absolutes which we get at salvation. Now it can be broken experientially. The old sin nature is no longer the sovereign of our life. It is no longer our master. This cannot occur with the unbeliever. He can recognize problems and side-step them, but he cannot resist the cosmic system.

“But, I like the cosmic system; it’s a pretty good system; makes me happy.” However, this is just for a few moments, and his system is covered by a veneer of light and underneath is complete darkness. We can identify this; the unbeliever can’t; he lives in it and cannot escape from it.

What sort of resources has God given us? The first one is rebound. There is no spiritual life without it. We have eternal life, but we have no ability to resist anything apart from the filling of the Holy Spirit. We need doctrine in the soul to claim this verse.

We certainly have the faith rest technique, which is how we claim 1Cor. 10:13, which the Exodus generation had. We know that. We put it into a doctrinal rationale. We are encouraged to know, “I have a way of escape.” Then all you have to do is use it.

One of Bobby’s first promises was 1Peter 5:7: Cast all your cares upon Him because He cares for you.” For the unbelieving world, they can sublimate it, ignore it, or run from it. However, we can hand these things over to God. We can apply this verse to every promise that we have. Faith rest; apply the rationale to the test; apply the rationale to the temptation. We place problems, temptations, etc. in the Lord’s hands, and we leave them there. Human viewpoint is all encompassing; it is all the unbeliever has; human viewpoint is what you have when you have no divine viewpoint. Human viewpoint can get you through a few problems, but not all of them.

If we continue in the consistent intake of Bible doctrine, then we have one of the greatest means of resistance, of passing tests, which is occupation with Christ. That is when we resist temptation and pass tests on a consistent basis. Our attention focuses on Jesus Christ and not on the problem; not on the test. The problem we have is we focus too much on the test or on the temptation. However, when occupied with Christ, His mind is our mind; we have His thinking in our souls via Bible doctrine.

This occupation with Christ influences every thought and action in our lives; His spiritual life influences every action that we take in this world. We often fail due to discouragement, and the more we fail, the more difficult it is. The solution is simple. We have the encouragement; we have in our souls one of the greatest encouragements that there is. Then we will resist with the doctrine in our souls. We focus on Him and we focus on the doctrine which is in His thinking. We are as close to impervious to testing and temptation as we can be as a person; and this is where our life becomes the more incredible experience that we can have. This is the promise which God has given us. This is absolute objective truth from the Word of God. If one of us can solve a problem through His Word, then we can all do it.

...that we may be able to endure it... Του + δυναμαι = that you are capable; that you are able, that you may be able; that you have the potential of. This expresses God’s purpose of providing a way of escape for us. We can endure all temptations and all testing.

Endurance depends upon you and me utilizing His power. When Jesus Christ says, “Well done, you good and humble servant,” we recognize that this is only based upon what He has given us. Endurance is a great way of life, if we have the resources. When we endure, the resources that He has given us solves all of our problems.

Wednesday June 27, 2007

Bobby hopes that we all understand the exegesis of the promise which God made to us by the hand of Paul. We must understand this promise for vv. 14–21.

Summary

1. We will not be tempted/tested beyond what we are ready to face.
2. We will not be tested or tempted beyond our maturity level. That should also be encouraging to us.
3. We must utilize the way of escape; God has provided this way of escape for each one of us, through the doctrine which is in our soul. However, without the doctrine in the soul, we will fail these tests. We must uphold our end and utilize the grace of God and the resources which He has given us.

1Cor. 10:13 No temptation has overtaken you that is not common to man. God is faithful, and He will not let you be tempted beyond your ability, but with the temptation He will also provide the way of escape, that you may be able to endure it.

Suddenly, we are back in idolatry, even though we spent much of chapters 8–9 in idolatry. These are examples; this is the problem and here is the way of escape. This is an illustration of v. 13. The next 7 verses arose out of the questions in chapters 8–9, which were, is it permissible to eat meat sacrificed to idols? The illustration now fits perfectly with what Paul will illustrate. Paul taught that there is nothing wrong with eating meat offered to idols. The law of liberty means that they could eat the meat because an idol is nothing. In these verses there was another problem; the problem of eating meat offered to idols; the stumbling block principle. You had to abstain from eating meat for the weaker believer or as a witness to unbelievers. This is a summary of what we have already covered.

In this new paragraph is a new set of reasons, or another viewpoint which Paul takes. A new principle, is abstaining from meat and close association with idolatry. It could lead to participation in idolatry by association. That is the subtle attack which we have already studied. It is the association with the idolators and their activities. This was a fine line; Paul will now split hairs for us, and illustrate just how far we can go. Here, it is association with idolatry; but there are a number of associations where this could be applied.

There was syncretism, a mix between idolatry and believers. If the meat could be eaten by the Corinthians, and it could be, what would cross the line into idolatry? What does it matter where you are eating or how you associate with idols, which are nothing. On one side, there is eating the meat, which is not a problem; and on the other side is idolatry. Where is the line between the two and when do we cross it? How do you go from no problem to a problem.

The line comes in when the meat is eaten in the temple of Aphrodite, and there we have an act of idolatry by association. Paul will go into great detail as to why it is the way it is. Paul uses communion and compares it to idolatry. When this line was crossed, the Corinthians were partaking in a Satanic communion. In Berachah, Communion is a memorial, and we concentrate on a doctrine which allows us to commune or associate with our Lord Jesus Christ. Other groups see communion is transubstantiation and consubstantiation. Here, the elements are worshiped, and they are seen as the actual body and blood of Jesus Christ.

The subtle attack; it is not wrong to associate with certain unbelievers; but when you put the association together with the eating of meat in the temple; and that is about when you cross the line. Not long from overt actions of worship. In the subtle and legit area, you get comfortable in the situation and in the associations; it is a short step into slipping into direct participation, in thinking and in action. This can be applied to any situation where a believers consistently puts himself in harm's way in evil, degeneracy and/or false religion. Here, the association can get them too close to idolatry. False religion is attempting to gain God's attention by what we do. Religion is substitutes some form of human endeavor to please God for a relationship with Jesus Christ. Religion is the devil's ace trump. Religion is evil and encompasses great evil and, sometimes, degeneracy. Our association with that which seems to be good and religious, becomes syncretism. 1% of deviation, and you can be out in the tulies. It is subtle. One common deviation is confusion about rebound.

You are trying to gain the favor of God, and you become involved in religion. Just a little mix of false doctrine ruins this. The feast is a part of the sacrifice to the idol, even though the idol is nothing. Religion never pleases God. Wherever works are involved to please God, you have evil. The problem with that approach is, it is anti-grace. Our relationship with God is based upon what God does, not upon what we do.

Consistent association with the human viewpoint of religion; and it is in almost every church. One church where a funeral took place, and the name of Jesus Christ was never mentioned; and it was a Christian church. The fact that he gave a lot of money to the church was mentioned.

We cannot expect to live in the stronghold of evil and come out okay. You will not be unscathed. The subtle influence becomes direct and overt in very short order. Religion is anti-grace and anti-God.

We begin with the conjunction διοτι = on which very account. There is a way of escape, by fleeing idolatry. Do we beat feet until we are out of the area? Φεύγω = to flee; volition is involved, implied. You turn the other way and escape; you decide to leave. You have the ability to flee. That is the way of escape. Therefore, flee idolatry. This is the way of escape, which Paul spoke of in the previous verse. Paul is encouraging them; and they have the ability to flee; it is in their ability. They began in the temple of Aphrodite, they were raised there; and it is easy to slip back into the old ways. You can break the mold of your past; you can break with the past. Those areas were engrained in us in many ways. We have a way of escape; we can wipe this garbage right out of our souls. We will never advance to spiritual maturity. You can flee; you just have to use what you've got. We have the means to remove it. Their background was idolatry. Do it; get out of it.

Applications

1. We should not walk into the teeth of temptation. We don't walk into temptation, flaunting our liberty. By doing this, we might be walking right back into the temptations of our past life. As a believer in Jesus Christ, we have the ability to resist it. Consorting with know purveyors of human viewpoint or religion or degeneracy. Do not expect God to yank us out of temptation's path.
2. If this is what we think, that is a distortion of keep me from temptation. We have the resources to do it; now do it.
3. Choosing close associations which offer great temptations put us in precarious situations. What is worth that?
4. We make our own problems from our own volition. There are certainly problems in the outside world, but we exacerbate these problems. Then you expect God to nullify the repercussions of your bad decisions. God has provided us the means of escape; but bad decision after bad decision puts into worse and worse situations. Maybe into flat-out degeneracy. A good illustration is an alcoholic; they just can't walk into a bar and have a drink. You might end up drunk and broke a week or ten later. This application can work for any area of weakness. You yield to your area of temptation. You put yourself in harm's way. Forget about real integrity; any illustration that you want to use.
5. The believer must make good decisions in conjunction with divine help (filling of the Holy Spirit) and using the resources God has given us.
6. So our volition must act against the temptation to move outside the plan of God. We must resist that using the resources which God has provided. He makes the way of escape. Doctrine is the means and the motivation for resistance. You can't flee from that which you really don't want to flee from. However, with doctrine, you have the motivation. The filling of the Holy Spirit is the spiritual power to do it, hence the importance of rebound in the face of temptation.

1Cor. 10:14 Therefore, my beloved, flee from idolatry.

1Cor. 10:15 I speak as to sensible people; judge for yourselves what I say.

1Cor. 10:13–15

God is not going to allow testing or temptation beyond what we are able to handle with our spiritual life. That is the essence of v. 13. God has prepared us for all that we will face. The Exodus generation saw God's deliverance and simply had to apply this to the next test. We are prepared for temptation and testing from the doctrine resident in our soul. Spiritual advance prepares us for all the exigencies of life. If you're not advancing, any temptation or testing becomes trouble for us. Apply the doctrine we have in our souls, and we are prepared. That doctrine will handle any testing/temptation that we face. When we flip the coin, it lands on one side or the other (testing or temptation). You cannot pass any testing without advancing.

As we advance, whatever baggage we have collected as a believer or as an unbeliever, that it will be replaced by doctrine in your soul. There are things which affect us from the past, subtly or obviously, and these things can be removed as we grow, resist temptation and pass testing. Bible doctrine is the escape and the endurance through the spiritual life. That is the fulfillment of v. 13. However, we must express positive volition toward that doctrine in order to utilize the way of escape provided by God. This viewpoint is the victory over all testing and temptation. To the extent that we are not prepared, that we reject or neglect Bible doctrine, then we do not progress, and we will be unable to handle the testing or the temptation.

We can fail to appropriate all that God has given us by our volition. We will not ever be emptied beyond what we can bear; and He will not test us beyond what we can handle. However, we must utilize His way of escape, which is related to spiritual growth.

1Cor. 10:13 No temptation has overtaken you that is not common to man. God is faithful, and He will not let you be tempted beyond your ability, but with the temptation He will also provide the way of escape, that you may be able to endure it.

Φεύγω = to flee, to run away from. Present active imperative here. Fleeing is an option; but if positive volition and doctrine are not a part of your life, then you will continue to fall backward into the same patterns of capitulation.

The filling of the Holy Spirit provides the power to resist. God has provided the way of escape; all that we need in order to resist. It only requires a little positive volition on our part.

Paul uses a form of address; he softens his harsh command, and it comes across more as an imperative of entreaty. It is more like, please flee from idolatry; it is a mandate, to be sure. It stands for us as a mandate; it is softened for the Corinthians. He is addressing them almost like a parent. The parent dreads disciplining his children and dreads even bringing their wrongdoing to their attention. He does not do this in harsh, unreasoned anger. Part of love in parenting is making sure that your children do not exceed certain boundaries, and sometimes it involves inflicting pain of some sort (including spanking). And you need to explain exactly what they did wrong. And you let them know that you are doing it because you love them. Hopefully, they will eventually understand; but it is required even if they don't. We are to train our children; we are not here to cultivate their friendship. If you do it right, they will understand the love part.

This is exactly what Paul is doing with his children—his spiritual children. We receive discipline from God and, ideally, we recognize it and we recognize its importance and God's love behind it all. Bobby taught the teen class for about ten years. Some teens are still at Berachah and some took off. He taught the Song of Solomon several times. That was the sex, drugs and rock and roll class. Train up a child in the way that they should go, and when they are old, they will not depart from it. Paul was writing to a bunch of kids who were recalcitrant, but he also let them know that he still loved them.

1Cor. 10:14 Therefore, my beloved, flee from idolatry.

Paul gives them an incentive to judge; he calls them wise men. Present active indicative of λέγω = to say, to speak. This is a communication from Paul. He is going to say something to them which is important. Paul is about to take the ritual of the church and compare it to the sort of rituals what they were involved in, in their syncretism.

Communion is called a meal because there is fellowship involved. It is our meal with the Lord and our time to remember Him. We are to contrast communion with God with fellowship with demons.

ὅς which introduces a characteristic quality. He wants to make sure they understand φρονιμος = the quality, sensible, wise. Dative of advantage; masculine plural. They have the quality of wisdom, because they had some doctrine in the right lobe. If they think and act as wise men, then they will initiate the way of escape. Paul is expecting them to evaluate things wisely. However, it should be clear that many of the Corinthians are idiots. However, Paul is not being sarcastic here. He is not a slap at their ignorance or their neglect of Bible doctrine. Paul is regarding them as men who have wisdom available.

Adjective: phronimos (φρόνιμος) [pronounced FROHN-ee-moss], which means intelligent, wise; prudent, i.e. mindful of one's interests. Strong's #5429.

You, you judge; ingressive aorist, which is an action which is about to begin. It denotes an action which is about to begin and an action which is going to continue. There is not a time when they should cease judging or cease considering what Paul is telling them.

The Corinthians need to figure out if they are involved in syncretism (syncretism?). They need to determine for themselves where is the line and have they stepped over it. Is it the feasting in the temple which goes along with it. They may not have intended to do wrong; they may not have intended to be syncretistic. There are unintended consequences of our own syncretism. Paul is willing to leave the answer to the Corinthians to determine this for themselves. He will present his case and then leave them with it. They will decide.

Parents have to do this as well. No matter how good of a parent you are, ultimately, the kids have to make some of their own decisions. You can overdo the discipline and you can overdo the control. You have to be wise in this area, which is what Paul is doing here. He is going to allow them to evaluate what he is telling them, and then he will step back, like a good parent, and let them figure out if they have gone too far. What they were doing was, undoubtedly, idolatry. Some may not have gone far enough to be in sin; and others may have. Paul is going to leave it up to them.

Arrogance will resist correction every time. All Scripture is good for reproof, correction, and instruction in righteousness. This is reproof to us as well, because we can be just as involved in synchotism as these people can be. Paul is speaking in ex-cathedra in the matter of idolatry. Paul could do that; the pope cannot. Paul is laying down absolute truth, whether they believe it or not. It is still truth; it is always truth. Because a person says he is an atheist, that does not make God any less real. Truth is truth, whether someone believes it or not.

A friend of Bobby's from the service went to church with a gal, and God did not meet with his expectations. They want God to be what they want Him to be. They don't want God to be as He actually is. But God exists whether we believe it or not. When someone determines that God does not exist, they set themselves up as the absolute authority. If you listen to absolute truth, you cannot help but become wise. If you reject it, you have set yourself up as the authority of all authorities.

1Cor. 10:15 I speak as to sensible people; judge for yourselves what I say.

1Cor. 10:14–16

Sunday 1 July 1, 2007

In Christ, there is no greater freedom, whether we are free or not. The great peace which passes all understanding.

We've completed these two verses, but we are going to deal with a few more points here. These Corinthians needed to know that Paul still loved them, and he calls them my beloved. They are told to run the other way, to flee from idolatry. They had come out of cultic religious practices. Idolatry is a form of religion.

Application today would be whatever false life that we came out of with whatever false values that we had adhered to before. This might be seen as flee popular culture and cultural norms. This may include the evils of religion—doing whatever there is to gain God's favor.

Idolatry is a false worship; and religion substitutes an experiential relationship with steps to gain God's favor or blessing. If you try to please God with your own works, then you are failing the grace of God. Any mixture of grace and works falls short of the plan of God. The plan of God is grace from beginning to end. In Him, we have redemption through His blood, the forgiveness of our trespasses, according to the... ..that He would grant you according to the riches of His glory... 1Cor. 15:10: By the grace of God, I am what I am. The grace of God never fails; it is always there. 1Peter 3:18: Grow in grace and knowledge of our Savior, the Lord Jesus Christ. Jude 1:24: Now to Him Who is able to keep you from falling, and to make you stand in the presence of his glory. The grace of God brings us face to face with God. Every portion of the plan of God is dependent upon what God has given us. Christianity has nothing to do with gaining favor from God through our works. True Christianity is grace; it can never be called a religion. Christianity is a relationship with God through Jesus Christ, and never through our works. You cannot be saved or live the Christian life apart from God. There is nothing which commends us to God that we can do. The grace of God is our salvation, is our spiritual life, is our eternal future. The sad part is, where religion and Christianity mix, religion influences and dominates, which we have studied under syncretism. Works will take precedence over grace. The plan of God for our life will remain unrealized if we mix in the works of man. There is no more important concept than the grace of God. Idolatry is a subject which we have seen before. We seem to think it is a relic of the past, not really practiced anymore; particularly not in our country. Who bows down to images anymore, or who believes that wooden images, etc. are divine. However, we worship at the feet of materialism or environmentalism (pantheism); humanism, activism. These things are all idolatrous. One more: the doctrine of demons, and Christians can be influenced by demons through syncretism personified. Some many not even realize that we are so influence.

The correct spelling is syncretism. I think that I fixed all the occurrences.

Paul hopes that his confidence in them might prompt them to make the correct changes. Paul calls them my beloved, wise men; and he is encouraging them to flee idolatry. These men have the resources to be wise; he wants them to take this information and carefully and objectively consider what he is teaching them. Paul is putting them in a box here; I am giving you truth and wisdom here, and you are wise men, so that you reasonably should latch on to what I am giving you.

So, they are asking, Paul said we could eat meat offered to idols; so what is the problem? What is the big deal? This is all that we are doing. Where does liberty stop and where does syncretism begin? Paul is saying, you decide if you have fallen into syncretism. The decision is up to you as wise men.

1Cor. 10:14–15 Therefore, my beloved, flee from idolatry. I speak as to sensible people; judge for yourselves what I say.

Paul will use the Eucharist to make his point. You answer these questions in your own soul. The little cup of grape juice is blessing, in contrast to the cup of the cross, which Matt. 20:22 26:30–39, which was bitter and filled with cursing. We commemorate with the communion cup that cup of the cross. Christ had one cup; we have another. Our cup is truly a cup of blessing. Why does this cup represent the blood of Christ. We share in this blood when we drink of the communion cup. There are religions which take the cup and make it into idolatry. The cup of the blood of Christ, and we share in that cup, but what does it mean?

The Blood of Christ

1. The blood of Christ is not literal blood; we are not vampires when we take the communion service. Some cults see this as the literal blood of Christ. Christ's blood is a metaphor; it is a figure of speech.
2. In the Old Testament, God mandated specific rituals of animal sacrifices, which were teaching aids concerning salvation. These Levitical offerings were for believers which emphasized to them their salvation. The believer commemorates the sacrifice. Only the believer; this was not for unbelievers. No unbeliever could be saved by sacrificing an animal. Only through faith in the coming Savior could they be saved. Salvation was not in the sacrifice, but faith alone in Christ alone.
3. They looked forward and we look back. This is the same concept, but on opposite sides of the occurrence of the cross. For the believers in the Messiah, the sacrifices symbolized the true meaning of the fellowship with God.
4. These sacrifices revealed in shadow form, our Lord dying for us on the cross. There was meaning to every part of the sacrifice. The believer could view in the exact procedures of the rituals.
5. Example:
  - a. The burnt offering. This Levitical offering illustrated salvation by the shed blood of Jesus Christ. It represented propitiation and redemption and reconciliation. Every time Bobby teaches communion, he covers these doctrines.
  - b. The people of Israel observed these 3 doctrines at each salvation.
  - c. A lamb, a bull or a turtledove was brought; it varied by their economic status.
  - d. He handed over the sacrifice to the priest and presented it to him. He did this of his own free will. This expressed his non-meritorious, positive volition toward the Lord.
  - e. The offerer placed his hand on the head of the sacrifice, which symbolized a transfer of sins from the sinner to the sinless animal. Lev. 1:4 He placed his hand on the innocent lamb who had no sin, who had done nothing. The animal did not deserve to die, his throat cut.
  - f. We have a perfect picture of this in Abraham offering up Isaac.
  - g. As the blood shot out the carated of the animal, it illustrated our Lord dying for our sins. He died for us. Tremendous cruelty to Him; undeserved. A blood atonement.
  - h. The ritual transfer represented the transfer of sins to the cross.

Israel did not recognize, when Jesus died on the cross, that this was repeated over and over again in shadow form.

1Cor. 10:16 The cup of blessing that we bless, is it not a participation in the blood of Christ? The bread that we break, is it not a participation in the body of Christ?

Bobby hopes that the promise that God will not tempt us beyond what we are able, and that we hold to this. Kevin Howard was in Enron and he was indicted in that entire mess, and he is going to testify as to how this verse impacted him.

Kevin Howard adversity and how we choose to deal with it. We will all have adversity; we will all have it in different amounts. Adversity will show up on our doorstep, whether we ask for it or not. The bottom line is, we will all have adversity; with or without doctrine. His adversity has to do with Enron. He graduated in college with honors in accounting in an Iowa university. Eventually accepted a job with Enron in their accounting department. Went to the ranks of vice president over 16 years. With the exception of a few, most of the Enron employees were honest and had integrity.

He became a workaholic, focused on his job 100% of the time. Brought to Berachah by his wife, and in 2003 (I think) he believed in Jesus Christ. He had become arrogant. Indicted in 2002 he was indicted by the US government and he was upset and distraught over these circumstances. He always tried to do an honest job. Began a 5 year nightmare. Taken into custody by the FBI and he was formally indicted; the humiliation was unbelievable. Up until the trial, he could have taken a plea agreement. He had two daughters and he never considered it. In order to stick to this, he could not lie to his children and admit to doing something that he had not. A long, painful, costly fight against a very tough group. He lost nearly everything in Enron's collapse. He began to take in more doctrine. Could not take enough of it.

First trial ended up in a hung jury (with 5 other defendants). Tried again, adjacent to Ken Lay and Skillings. His friend was acquitted and Howard was convicted of all 5 counts. His faith was being tested. Every time they expected their lives to go in one direction, it went in another. Trust in the Lord with all your heart and do not lean on your own understanding. Juroes came forward revealing problems in the deliberation; there were all kinds of problems. Some Enron convictions had been overturned. Ups and downs afterward, and finally they filed to overturn all 5 counts. The government agreed with the first 4 counts, but stuck to the 5th. He and his wife continued to teach his children that they face all kinds of adversity. God answered their prayers. The judge threw out all charges; the government broadly interpreted the law.

Some who hear this story get angry at the US judicial system, Howard has gotten many blessings and he has a wonderful relationship with his wife and children because of this; and with his own father. Also, his relationship with God has grown by leaps and bounds.

He became pen pals with Chuck Colson since then. We are to suffer with Christ, Chuck wrote him; suffering is simply a part of our lot in life. God redeems it. Sometimes to strengthen us, sometimes to draw God closer, and always for the maturing of our souls.

Doctrine does work. It would seem like testing that they have faced should be beyond what anyone can bear. They were in a position spiritually to handle it.

The cup of blessing refers to the Communion. His curse is our blessing. We looked at the burnt offering, which is where a lamb or bull was presented to the priest. The offerer put his hands on the lamb, and his sins were transferred to the lamb. Once the lamb was killed, the skin was burned. This burning was a picture of the judgment of God on the Messiah. Propitiation, redemption and reconciliation was taught by these sacrifices. Our salvation depended upon our Lord dying on the cross. The actual slaying of the animal, his throat being cut on the altar and its blood being poured out on the altar; it was terrible to watch the animal die, and it seems cruel and inhumane.

The Blood Sacrifice

1. The animal paid the price for the offerer's sins with its life.
2. This was a blood atonement for the sins of the offerer.
3. The animal's bloody, horrible death was symbolic of the price for their forgiveness and their salvation.
4. That blood shed on the altar represented a life given as a substitute for another. One life was the price for the eternal life of another.
5. So this sacrifice was a memorial which looked ahead at a coming event. Memorials by definition look backward. They look to a past event or to a past person; but this offering was unique; it memorialized something that would occur. The person and the work of the Messiah.
6. This sacrifice looked forward to the terrible price that would be paid and all that they had to do was to believe on the Messiah. The sacrifice depicted and memorialized in their minds the symbol of salvation. It was not Christ's literal blood that He spilled for our salvation. The animal's actual blood was spilled; but our Lord's literal blood plays no part in our salvation. Our Lord gave up His own spirit. He did not die by bleeding to death. It was purely symbolism; it was a picture of death. His blood represents spiritual death. His spiritual death was separation as He hung on the cross and the sins of the world were placed on Him. In these terrible hours, He died spiritually. He received in 3 hours what we deserve for all eternity. This is the figurative blood of Christ.

This is the Meaning of the Blood of Christ:

1. That bloody physical death on the altar represented our Lord's spiritual death on the cross.
2. The slaughtered lamb foreshadowed our Lord Jesus Christ.
3. The Old Testament ritual of shedding literal animal blood portrayed the future shedding of the figurative blood of Christ.
4. The blood of Christ is a metaphor which stands for the substitutionary blood of Christ on the cross. Another interesting subject here; the Blood of Christ in the church library.

When Bob first taught this, this was a controversial topic. When Bobby went to seminary, it was still a controversial book. However, in seminary, the position of the seminary was exactly the same. Such a clear doctrine can be distorted so easily. This is what we partake of in Communion. It is the work of the Lord Jesus Christ that we partake of. This is the price of our forgiveness. The cross made rebound possible, as He paid for all of our post-salvation sins as well on the cross. There is a rebound offering in the Levitical offerings. This is why we rebound before we take Communion. The very act of rebounding is fellowshiping with Jesus Christ in the blood.

Partaking of the cup of blessing is entirely different from taking of the cup of syncretism. You cannot partake of both cups. You cannot partake in the cup of blessing and leave the auditorium and partake of a different cup.

1Cor. 10:16 Lesson #559 Thursday July 5, 2007

This Sunday is Communion, which would be the ideal time for this passage: The cup of blessing and the bread that we break is the Communion. Eulogeo. Ευλογεω without His work, we have no celebration, no relationship with God at all. A declarative sentence: drinking from the cup of blessing is a sharing of the communion with the blood of Christ. How do we share in the blood of Christ? Several theological views on this subject. These various views are critical.

The blood of Christ is what we share, so we need to understand that first before we can understand sharing in the cup of blessing.

The Blood of Christ

1. The concept of the blood of Christ began in the Old Testament; right from the very beginning. The blood offerings of the Old Testament.
2. The literal blood of the animals was shed as a graphic picture of the terrible price for the forgiveness of sin. This is quite graphic.
3. In the ritual, the offerer's hand was placed on the head of the animal, and this indicated that the sins of the offerer were transferred to the innocent animal.
4. The sins of the offerer were symbolically imputed to the animal, which is a basic doctrine of Soteriology. It is a perfect picture of the imputing of our sins to Jesus Christ.
5. When the animal was killed, his blood shed on the altar represented the life of the animal—its physical life—given as a substitute for the life of the sinner.
6. The innocent animal who had no sin paid the price for the sins of the offerer by its sacrifice. This is why the animal was a substitute for the offerer. A life for a death.

7. This offering looked ahead to a future event...the real sacrifice of the animal pictured a future sacrifice.
8. The animal sacrifice was a foreshadowing of the blood Christ would shed on the cross.
9. The animal's blood bled out and it was literal; but Christ's was not.
  - a. Christ's actual blood had nothing to do with our salvation
  - b. He shed blood; He was beaten, He had a thorn crown, etc. However, He did not bleed to death.
  - c. The Lord Jesus Christ's atoning death (substitutionary spiritual death) took place before He died physically. He said, it is finished; obviously spoken before He died physically. Therefore, the blood that He shed was not the reason for His death.
  - d. He died physically by dismissing His own physical life. It was not the loss of His literal blood which killed Him.
10. The literal blood of the animal sacrifices was a graphic depiction of a terrible spiritual death which Christ would die on the cross. The Messiah would bear the sins of the world. That was the point of the sacrifice.
11. The animal died physically, and it represented the substitutionary spiritual death of Christ on the cross.
12. Just as the offerer's sins were imputed to the animal, the lamb or whatever, so God the Father imputed our sins to Christ. Every aspect of the blood sacrifice of the animals portrayed some aspect of the sacrifice of our Lord. The skin being burned was judgement against our sins in Jesus Christ.
13. The lamb anticipated the Lord Jesus Christ, the Lamb of God, Who would pay for the sins of the world through His own slaughter.
14. The Old Testament blood ritual portrayed the future shedding of the figurative blood of Christ. The literal blood was a portrait, a picture of the spiritual death of Jesus Christ.
15. Therefore, the blood of Christ is a metaphor that stands for His substitutionary spiritual death on the cross.

The blood of the animal was very real; the blood of Christ refers to His very real spiritual death—suffering the equivalent of eternity in hell for all humanity for their sins. Whenever we drink of the cup of blessing, of the symbolic blood of Christ, not His literal blood, we are looking back on His work on the cross on our behalf, just as Israel looked forward through the animal sacrifices. That is the greatest blessing ever received by mankind. That is what we share in the cup of blessing.

What We Share

1. We share in the blessings of His figurative blood.
2. We share in the results of the cross as believers in Jesus Christ. We share His eternal life; we share in the 39 irrevocable assets or attributes. There is nothing to Christianity without the blood of Christ.

3. We commemorate that sharing when we partake of the cup.

As great as they are and as moving as they are, the impact of the war memorials in Washington are nothing compared to memorializing our Lord Jesus Christ and His sacrifice on the cross.

Koinonia = fellowship. The communion table is fellowship with the Lord, hence the importance of rebound. We need to be in fellowship before we can fellowship with our Lord. Sitting down to a meal with someone is a great time of fellowship, so this indicates why communion is a meal, as we are fellowshiping with our Lord Jesus Christ. We do so through the filling of the Holy Spirit. We cannot fellowship with nothing in our minds; we must know Who we are relating to. To fellowship with a person, you must know something about that person. We fellowship with Christ by memorializing Him through the bread and the cup. The nature of that fellowship.

Theological Differences Between Religion and Christianity in this Area

These views have a lot of works in them, which mean that they cannot be grace oriented.

1. Transubstantiation, which is the Roman Catholic view, means that the priest stands before the congregation, and he gives the mass, which is spoken. He repeats a formula phrase, and then he raises up the elements in his hands, and mystically, the wine and the bread turn literally into the body and blood of Christ. This is a sacrificial rite. In every mass, every time the priest says these words of the mass, this is understood to be offering Christ as a sin offering, over and over again. Communion is an ongoing sacrifice of Jesus Christ each and every time it is given. The blood of Christ is very literal in this view, and the wine/juice become the blood, even though the elements do not actually change. This is seen as necessary to be done regularly, every time they meet, in order to maintain salvation. Another problem: the actual worship turns from the risen Christ Himself to worshipping the bread and blood, which become the body and blood of our Lord, which they worship. The elements themselves are worshiped. There is no memorializing. There is little or no thought involved in this ritual. This misconstrues the sacrificial nature of our Lord's death. Rather than being directed toward Christ, the sacrifice is directed toward man rather than toward God, which is to Whom our Lord's death was directed. The communion of transubstantiation is an actual and recurring salvation event. It is not a once-for-all occurrence; it is recurring. This is why many call for the last rites when someone is dying. It is necessary for salvation and does not even guarantee it (might end up in purgatory). It is not about remembering Christ; it is about going through a ritual which saves. Bowing down to the host, the wine and the bread, is tantamount to worshipping the elements themselves. Since Christ is not bodily presence in the elements, you are worshipping simply bread and wine. Just as in the heathen temples, they worshiped gods which were not God. Tantamount to idolatry. The communion is a memorial, which looks back on the one-time event of Jesus Christ on the cross, paying once for our sins. He is resurrected, and He ever makes intercession for us.

2. The Lutheran view of Communion. In this doctrine Christ's body and blood are locally found in the wine and bread; this is called consubstantiation. This does not call for the actual transformation of the elements into the literal flesh and blood of Christ. The elements do not change, but Christ is present; just not in the elements, per se. Martin Luther saw perfectly and clearly the doctrine of salvation, which was the great departure from Catholicism. He was a great hero of the faith. He was unable to study everything in detail. He made a few twists in the Communion service, but he did not get that right.

The actual elements are really not that important. Fellowship with the Lord can be done without these elements; we are commanded to take them; this that we do on Sunday is a dramatization of the sacrifice of Jesus Christ. Every time we eat and drink the elements, Bobby will tell us what they mean. The Biblical view of the fellowship of Jesus Christ is closely related to union with Christ, which occurs at the moment of salvation.

United with Christ

1. In union with Christ, we share all that Christ is and all that He has. He is king and we share His kingship. He is the High Priest, and we share in His priesthood. He is the Son of God, and we share His sonship.
2. This is a spiritual, not a bodily fellowship with Christ. We do not ingest Christ in order to be united with Him.
3. This is not the literal presence of the body of Christ, but the memorial to Him by doctrine in the soul. Communion, fellowship and union with Christ are all very close. Communion is a memorial to Him and His work on the cross.
4. There will not be a bodily fellowship with Him until we are in our resurrected bodies. Now we must do this darkly.
5. By faith in the substitutionary work of Christ, we are placed in union with Christ through the baptism of the Holy Spirit. The baptism of the Holy Spirit puts us into union with Jesus Christ.
6. Thus, we share in union with Christ and we share in the benefits of all His work. We share in everything.
7. Communion ritual is for memorializing in our souls that salvation event of the person of Jesus Christ and what we share in Him. We share everything that He is and everything that He has.
8. We come together to fellowship in the meal to remember these great, fundamental truths. Communion is actual inculcation. We are inculcated with soteriology, again and again, month after month, so that it sticks. We remember on a consistent basis what Jesus Christ has done for us.
9. We have a spiritual life fellowship with our Lord in communion. From our spiritual life is the doctrine in our soul and the filling of the Holy Spirit. When we are filled with the Holy Spirit in Communion and we have doctrine in our souls, we have a spiritual life communion. We know what He has done on our behalf.

Is not the bread that we break a participation in the body of Christ? This is not literal or mystical. Nor, does the body of Christ here refer to the Church, even though often the body of Christ is so used. The body represents the humanity of Christ, God in the flesh, Who dwells among us. The deity of Jesus Christ could not die on the cross; deity cannot die. We share in the benefits of our Lord.

These two questions should always be answered in the affirmative. Is not the bread that we break a participation in the blood of Christ? Yes! Is not the bread that we break a participation in the body of Christ? Yes! Paul is going to lead them to the point that syncretism and idolatry are destructive to the Christian life. The more times they answer yes, the more Paul leads them into the trap about idolatry and syncretism. The chain of evidence leads them to this conclusion. Paul examines them until they say yes, yes, yes. Since there is one bread, then we who partake are of one body. The Corinthians are mixing the meal of Communion with the feast in the Temple.

1Cor. 10:16

Sunday 1 July 8, 2007

Communion Sunday.

Paul is answering the question in the affirmative with this verse. V. 16 asked the following:

1Cor. 10:16 The cup of blessing that we bless, is it not a participation in the blood of Christ? The bread that we break, is it not a participation in the body of Christ?

V. 17 answers yes. Since there is one bread, so all of us must be one body; we are many, but there is one body. This verse can be made into a syllogism. The major premise is there is one bread; the minor premise is we all partake of the one bread; the conclusion is, since we all partake of the one bread, we must be of the same body. The emphasis is upon unity. We must therefore understand the two premises and the conclusion. In order to understand the unity of this passage, we must examine further.

One loaf of bread is not the bread that we put into the oven and it rises, and we bake it. However, bread here refers to Jesus Christ. John 6:47: "I am the Bread of Life; whoever partakes of me shall have eternal life." Actually, John 6:47–51: Truly, truly, I say to you, The one believing into Me has everlasting life. I am the Bread of life. Your fathers ate the manna in the wilderness and died. This is the Bread coming down out of Heaven, that anyone may eat of it and not die. I am the Living Bread that came down from Heaven. If anyone eats of this Bread, he will live forever. And indeed the bread which I will give is My flesh, which I will give for the life of the world. Those who believe in the Bread of Life have life. Those who partake of the eternal life of Jesus Christ, are partakers of the bread of life. "Your fathers ate the manna in the wilderness and they died." Manna is the literal bread from heaven, which sustained the physical life of the Jews, but it did not give them eternal life. There was no eternal life to be found in the manna from heaven. This is the bread; your forefathers ate manna in the desert, and they ate it and they died; but I am the bread of heaven, and if you eat of My flesh, you will never die. There is eternal life to be found in the Bread from Heaven, Who is Jesus Christ. The Bread of Life is eternal life. Eating the bread is analogous to believing in Jesus Christ for eternal life. Just as eating and metabolizing the Word of God is analogous to our spiritual life and growth. “I am the living bread which came down from heaven; if anyone eats of this bread, he will live forever. And the bread also that I will give for the world is My flesh” His bread is His body being broken for them. John 6 is a perfect communion message.

Paul takes this metaphor one step further. We partake of a literal bread, but that bread represents Jesus Christ, Who is the Bread of Life. This Bread had already been eaten by the Corinthians; they were saved eternally. They must eat for the sustenance of their spiritual life. Our spiritual life is in doctrine. Therefore, we have a metaphor for the Christian life. We eat of the bread of life and we are saved; we continue to eat of the bread of life, and we are sustained in our lives. This is the metaphor of communion.

1Cor. 10:17 Because there is one bread, we who are many are one body, for we all partake of the one bread.

1Cor. 10:17–18

Sunday 2 July 8, 2007

Paul is one of the great geniuses of history. The Greeks took great pride in their use of logic and Paul, although not a Greek, was raised in a Greek culture. He uses logic throughout the New Testament. In v. 17, Paul uses a syllogism, with a major premise (There is one bread), a minor premise (we all partake of one bread) and the conclusion (and, because we all partake of the one bread, we are one body). The statement which Paul makes, that we are all partakers of the same Bread, must be seen in context. The bread is both Jesus Christ, in relationship to salvation; and this bread is also Church Age doctrine, which sustains us spiritually. We must see the partaking of the one bread in this context. Present active indicative of metechō (μετέχω) [pronounced met-EHKH-oh], which means 1) to be or become partaker; 2) to partake. Strong's #3348. That which He possesses, we possess, by virtue of being in Him. We will, at some point in time, have His perfect body.

The phrase body of Christ designates Church Age believers in relationship to Jesus Christ. We are all members of the body of Christ; we eat of the one bread. In all places, in all time periods, we all fellowship in Jesus Christ. It matters not where we are or who we are or when we live. We are united with those from the 12th or the 1st centuries A.D. We are all one body in fellowship with Jesus Christ.

The major premise: There is One Bread [the Lord Jesus Christ]

The minor premise: We all partake of the One Bread [at salvation; at communion; when we take in doctrine]

Conclusion: Therefore, we must be One body.

What Does this Tell us?

1. Christ is the bread, and when he is eaten, by faith alone in Christ alone, we have eternal life.
  2. When we eat of the Bread, which is Jesus Christ, we are united with Christ through the baptism of the Holy Spirit.
- Aside There are 39 irrevocable absolutes Rebound Revisited or The Plan of God and in the index, we have these 39 irrevocable absolutes listed. If we have all of these little books then we have a complete theology. Bobby spent almost 6 years in several theological schools, and there is more in those booklets which are free than in any course in theology or book on theology.
- Aside We are a vital part of the church, by virtue of eating of the bread; and the body functions using eaching an every part.
3. As we continue to eat the bread of life, we partake of the prototype spiritual life designed and perfected by the Lord Jesus Christ.

There is physical suffering in the Lake of Fire. It is not a metaphor. These are the things to concentrate on. We share everything that Christ is and everything that He has; we are joint heirs in Jesus Christ; we share His priesthood; we share His destiny. This is by virtue of a six hour period that Jesus Christ spent on the cross dying for our sins.

4 Things to Remember

1. We are united with Jesus Christ and all that it means.
2. All who are united are partakers of the One Bread and all that means. The one revocable asset can be recovered by rebound.
3. We are partakers and sharers and fellowshippers of the benefits of Christ's spiritual life. When we know what these benefits are, we begin to see our place in the plan of God. We love because He first loved us. When we begin to grasp what is going on, and we express personal love for Him, and we look at all these idiots around us, and we can deal with them with impersonal love. We are no longer driver to distraction by everyone around us. What a wonderful life in sharing the happiness of God. When we are together as one body, in the same place, and in one body, taking communion, it is one of the greatest moments of our life. We concentrate on the most important person in the universe. We just had a meal with Jesus Christ and we toasted Him with a glass of grape juice.
4. As believers we are beneficiaries of the spiritual life which He utilized during His incarnation.

As believers in the New Testament, we look back to the cross; Old Testament believers looked forward to the cross, at that which pointed to the substitutionary death of Jesus Christ.

1Cor. 10:17 Because there is one bread, we who are many are one body, for we all partake of the one bread.

Look at the nation Israel. Paul says, let me give you another example of Israel. This is an illustration which links Israel to the Church Age.

This illustration does not prove that the church is now spiritual Israel. We have not taken over their communion. Paul simply uses this illustration how the Lord's table and animal sacrifices mean fellowshiping with God.

Paul wants these Corinthians to understand the dangers of syncretism. If we are at the Lord's table, we are fellowshiping with the Lord. If we are eating at the temple of heathen gods, we are similarly fellowshiping with heathen. Now, there are no such things as these heathen gods, like Aphrodite or Jupiter.

Old Testament were a picture of the future. No one was forgiven of their sins because they sacrificed an animal; this was simply a picture of what would save them, of what would be their forgiveness of sin. The blood sacrifices of Israel represented the substitutionary death of Jesus Christ. Every time an animal was sacrificed at the altar, it represented what would happen; just as communion tells us what has already occurred.

There is a close comparison between eating the bread of communion and the eating of the meat sacrificed in the Old Testament. Every time, there is a picture of eating, there is a picture of fellowshiping, of uniting. In both cases, they become sharers. They both represent having fellowship with the object of faith. That is the picture of the eating metaphor. There is a uniting with that which we do not see. We can see Him via the doctrine in our soul, as in fragrance of memory. Fellowshiping they looked forward to the cross and their relationship to Jesus Christ and the cross.

V. 18 begins with present active imperative of blepō (βλέπω) [pronounced BLEEP-oh], which means 1) to see, discern, of the bodily eye; 1a) with the bodily eye: to be possessed of sight, have the power of seeing; 1b) perceive by the use of the eyes: to see, look descry; 1c) to turn the eyes to anything: to look at, look upon, gaze at; 1d) to perceive by the senses, to feel; 1e) to discover by use, to know by experience; 2) metaphorically to see with the mind's eye; 2a) to have (the power of) understanding; 2b) to discern mentally, observe, perceive, discover, understand; 2c) to turn the thoughts or direct the mind to a thing, to consider, contemplate, to look at, to weigh carefully, examine; 3) in a geographical sense of places, mountains, buildings, etc. turning towards any quarter, as it were, facing it. Strong's #991. Blepo means that we need to carefully examine something. Corinthians, look at your own life, and determine where your life departs from the mandates of Scripture. Look carefully at the spiritual history of Israel. Didn't Paul already point out to them that Exodus generation. Paul points them out over and over again.

Paul is using these illustrations for the same purpose; for the correction and the instruction in righteousness.

Let's look at the phrase are not those who eat the sacrifices... This is the only picture that Israel had of Jesus Christ. They had some sacrifices. Well, they had the Ark of God; they had the illustration of Abraham offering up Isaac; they had the book of Job; they had the articles of furniture for the Tabernacle. They had the Tabernacle.

Israel saw these sacrifices quite often. They were familiar with it and we should recall that we recently examined the burnt offering; and we will look at the peace offering, which represents reconciliation and propitiation.

1Cor. 10:18 Consider the people of Israel: are not those who eat the sacrifices participants in the altar?

The Peace Offering

Lesson #562

Wednesday July 11, 2007

Vv. 16–17 is essentially a communion message from Paul. There is a relationship between the drinking of the cup and the eating of the bread and the fellowshiping with our Lord in the communion service. Our unity with the Lord is our position in Christ. All of those things we celebrate in communion. In this context, Paul had a purpose beyond revealing communion. We are in the context of idolatry, which is syncretism. What is this comparison between idolatry and communion? How will Paul compare these two? With what are the Corinthians united? Who are they fellowshiping with in the heathen temple? Paul will point out the problem here; Paul will set out a chain of evidence. He will take each increment of evidence and present it to us. And he will show us the infidelity which will occur with syncretism. There is a similarity. Fellowship in the meal is the similarity.

Not Sure

1. Paul cites the unity principle in v. 16; we share in the salvation blessings of the figurative blood of Christ. He provide the salvation work for us and we share in His work on the cross. We share all the He is and all that He has. Whenever we drink of the cup of blessing, we are looking back on His work. When we eat the bread, we commemorate His body, which was broken for us. We are identified with His death, burial and resurrection when we take the elements of communion. Identifying with His death means that the power of the sin nature is broken, at least positionally.
2. Paul uses logic. All believers partake of the one bread. Here, Paul uses a syllogism. We all partake of the one bread, and in this, we have fellowship with the bread of life. All of this is a picture of union with Christ. The phrase in Christ is used over and over again in the epistles. Because of all this, we have a unifying position; we who are many have one body. We are unified as one body as we sit in the church and partake of the elements of communion. All of us commune during this time. It is a great time of unity in the body of Christ.
  - a. There is one bread.
  - b. We all partake of the one bread. We are in union with the bread of life.
  - c. Because we partake of one bread, we are in union, with Christ, we must all be one body, the body of Christ.

We have one thing in common with everyone else in Berachah—we are positive toward doctrine. The greatest likemindedness in the unity of the body of Christ is found with those who are positive toward doctrine.

We will come upon the οικοδομεω again. Paul's looping logic.

There is another communion; those who drink and break bread in the heathen temple and fellowship with those who worship idols. There should be no fellowship at the table of the temple of idolatry. That is syncretism and that is what Paul is warning these people about. The Corinthians will need to recognize the antithetical nature of idolatry and syncretism. You cannot have fellowship with both—with demons and with Jesus Christ. Paul provides a link in his illustration; a link between what we do in communion and eating the literal meat of the Levitical offerings. So, we must understand how the Levitical offerings work, and then understand what they mean. The Old Testament sacrifices are graphic illustrations of our Lord's sacrifice.

We cannot fellowship with the Lord and fellowship elsewhere with that which is demonic. When we are finished, we will have a clear picture of what it means to fellowship with Jesus Christ. We will learn what is correct fellowship and what is evil fellowship.

One of the blood rituals is the peace offering, and we should be somewhat familiar with it, as it is similar and different from the burnt offerings. The doctrine of reconciliation and propitiation is covered here. The first act of the peace offering—a male or female bull, goat or lamb, which would be presented as the sacrifice. This animal had to be the best in the herd and without spot or blemish. You never bring the crappy animal out of your herd.

The Animal Represents

1. The spotless lamb of God who takes away the sin of the world.
2. This animal presented at the altar of sacrifice without blemish emphasizes the perfect humanity of Jesus Christ. This is why the best of the herd was brought.
3. This spotless, perfect humanity of Christ was His qualification to go to the cross. If Jesus Christ was not perfect humanity, then He could not be the sacrifice for our sins.
4. The animal would be put on the altar and the offerer killed the sacrifice. Then the priest collected the blood and sprinkled the blood on the altar. A bucket was put under the gushing caryatid and the blood was sprinkled.

Expiation

1. Expiation means to atone for or to make amends for an offense.
2. Mankind in Adam has offended God by sin. When Adam fell, we fell. We are an offense to God at the moment of birth.
3. We cannot on our own make atonement for our own sins.

4. The penalty of sin places us hopelessly in debt. We are so deep in debt, we can never get out of it. We don't make enough money to ever approach the debt that we owe.
5. Jesus Christ provided the payment for that debt, and that is expiation. He made the amends for our offense; the amends which we cannot make.

6. The altar represented the cross.
7. The literal blood of the animal which was sprinkled represented the blood of Christ. The priest would be covered in blood when he did this.
8. The blood of Christ was His substitutionary spiritual death. At one moment in time, Jesus Christ took upon Himself the sins of everyone. That was the substitutionary moment. For those moments of the cross, Jesus Christ was separated from His spiritual communion with God the Father, just as the lamb was separated from His life.
9. Because of this sacrifice at the altar, the offerer was ritually expiated; he was atoned for, and he had peace with God. The same thing happened once a year on the day of atonement, when the High Priest went into the Holy of Holies and sprinkled blood on the mercy seat, making an atonement for all the sins of all the people. This pictured unlimited atonement; and the individual sacrifice represents the sacrifice for individuals.
10. This is reconciliation; peace with God. It is a picture of reconciliation. When two parties are at odds with one another, and they are reconciled, and they are then at peace. Jesus Christ reconciled us to God.
11. Reconciliation is that work of Christ on the cross by which that state of enmity between fallen man and God is removed and replaced with a state of peace. We were born to die and to reside at the Lake of Fire. There is no more war between God and us.
12. At the altar, it was the sacrifice of the animal which symbolically made peace with God. There had to be a death; there had to be some blood; there had to be a payment; there had to be a mediator so that there could be peace. There is one mediator between God and man, and that man, Jesus Christ.

The 3rd Act of the Ritual

1. Now the priest burned the fat and the innards of the animal.
2. The burning of the fat. Smoke comes out of the fat which is burned. Smoke rised up to the sky.
3. The smoke that rises from the fat is called a soothing aroma, a sweet savor to God. This is the 2nd half of the picture of the atonement.
4. When the sacrifice was consumed by the fire. This soothing aroma satisfied the offended justice of God the Father. This satisfies the justice and righteousness of God.

What did the Burning Represent?

1. This depicts propitiation.
2. God's integrity—His justice and righteousness demanded punishment for these sins.
3. The wrath of God toward man for his sins had to be propitiated or satisfied.
4. Only then, only after satisfaction has been made, can we approach God or have fellowship with Him. The soothing aroma means that He has been satisfied.
5. The burning of the fat on the altar is the ritual which represents propitiation. The burning was the judgment and the aroma is the propitiation. God gave this to Moses so that this would all be a perfect picture. We can even think of this offering during the communion service. It gives us good idea as to what our Lord endured for our salvation.

The 4th Act

1. The priest and the offerer sat down at ate the meat of this animal. Lev. 7:15–17
2. For the offering to eat was to take part in the ritual.
3. This was his identification in the ritual atonement. Now he is eating. What does this eating represent?
  - a. The flesh of the sacrifice depicts the appropriation of reconciliation and redemption by faith. We eat by believing in Jesus Christ.
  - b. So the altar was the place of fellowshiping with God at a ritual meal. This completes the picture fore. Us. Even the family which comes in piecemeal and grabs something out of the fridge does not convey this. However, a meal together represents fellowship. Here, the priest and the person are sitting together and eating from this sacrifice.
  - c. This was taking part in the blessings of the sacrifice. He now ate the best of his herd. And now he is taking part in the blessings of the sacrifice.

The eating of the sacrificial meal made them sharers of the altar; they shared in the peace of the reconciliation brought by the sacrifice of the spotless lamb. The heathen, pagans and their sacrifices were exactly the same.

What about the sacrifice to something or someone other than Jesus Christ and our participation in it?

The Two Tables

Thursday July 12, 2007

Why should we go back and look at things which happened thousands of years ago when there is so much for today for us to study? The Levitical offerings provide an in depth look at this subject matter. All of these things point toward our Lord's first advent.

David said, "Against You and You only have I sinned" in his rebound prayer. Why were there sacrifices if they named their sins? The sacrifices were a critical picture for Israel to look at the basis of their spiritual life and to understand what their spiritual life is all about. They had the advantage of seeing the power of the Lord in their lives. Faith rest should have been a snap for them.

We looked at the peace offerings last night, and all of the other offerings and all of their symbolism and every aspect of the atonement is found in those offerings.

The presentation of the lamb, the killing of the lamb, the burning of the entrails and the fat, and then the priest and the offerer sat down and ate of the cooked flesh. The fellowship of the altar and its parallel to the communion table today. It is a graphic picture which will reveal to the Corinthians the intimacy that they have with the Lord Jesus Christ at the Communion Table. The real point is, this intimacy must not be interrupted with the table of the heathen. Love demands that devotion not be split with paramours.

Fellowship with the Lord versus infidelity to the Lord. Scripture describes God as a jealous God. This is known as a mental attitude sin, but it is attributed to God so we know His jealousy is not an act of sin. This reveals His demand of complete devotion from His loved ones. He demands complete devotion from us and He is completely worthy of this devotion. His demands are much more than reasonable. There is not room in God's plan for fellowshiping with the enemy. If they dabble in syncretism, then the fellowship and intimacy is lost with Jesus Christ. At the altar, Israel could see the price of atonement for sins; and they could also see the magnificent love of God for them. They could see the picture first of His expiation. The lamb, the bull or the goat's throat was cut; and the blood poured out, representing giving an innocent life for a life. The animal was a means for atoning or making amends for sin. At every moment, there was always a picture of the grace of God.

They also saw reconciliation in the offering. That was the price paid for taking us from enmity to peace with God. Through the sacrifice of Christ, the state of war between man and God was replaced.

When the smoke of the burning fat and entrails sent a soothing aroma toward the heavens, this represents God being satisfied with the offering.

The final act was for the offerer to sit down with the priest and to enjoy the meal. This was fellowship, based upon the ritual of the slaughter of the lamb (goat, or bull). The eating of the flesh, which depicted the propitiation by faith. The act of the offerer himself and his participation, which gives him fellowship with the Lord because of eating the flesh.

All of this parallels our meal at the communion table. We look backward and they looked forward. Only through the sacrifice of Jesus Christ can we approach God and only in that way can we have fellowship with Him. That was a depiction. The sacrificial meal at the altar made them sharers in the altar. This was brought about by the sacrifice of the spotless lamb at the altar.

The Jews were not the only ones who sacrificed animals. They had the only reality, but the pagan nations all had those sacrifices as well. In every sacrifice, only a portion of the sacrifice was burned on the altar. The fat and entrails was burned, but the rest was cut up. The food then was then given to the priest and part to the offerer. This food was identified with the altar. This established the very nature of the food. That food cut up and held back from the altar established the very nature of this meal. It was a food offered to God. Not only was this true of Israel and it was true of all the other pagan nations.

The Jews and other groups fellowshiped with the altar. For Israel, this was fellowshiping with God at the altar; but for heathen, this was fellowshiping with gods that did not exist.

Eating today is a time of fellowship; a time of exchanging ideas and events of the day.

The Background of What Paul is Doing Here

1. A meal at the altar depicts fellowship with the unseen deity. At the altar, there was no deity in sight.
2. The eating of the meat is a depiction of that fellowship and therefore a picture of fellowshiping with the unseen God Whose altar it is. For the Jews, that is Y<sup>e</sup>howah.
3. To have fellowship or to be a sharer of the altar is to be a sharer with God. Animal sacrifices means sharing in the altar to the God that the altar represents. Fellowship with this God.
4. Reconciliation and propitiation are pictured by this sacrifice.
5. Thus this eating had great significance for depicting the relationship and fellowship between the offerer and the Savior. The point of comparison—eating of the offering was also a part of the ritual of unbelievers participating in their pagan sacrifices. The true altar versus the ritual of unbelievers and their pagan sacrifices.

Heathen Temple and Heathen Offerings

1. The food offered on a heathen altar and eaten established fellowship with that altar. The Corinthians were eating meat offered to idols. They were doing it next to the temple of some god. There was no problem before, and now Paul indicates that there is a problem.
2. The law of liberty versus Syncretism.
3. They fellowshiped with whatever unseen god that altar represented. The altar of Israel is where they fellowshiped with God; in heathen temples, they fellowshiped with heathen gods.
4. Feasts and revelry occurred in the temple of Aphrodite.
5. They ate their sacrifices and they drank wine to excess.
6. The heathen also were fellowshiping at their altar. Therefore, they fellowshiped with the unseen altar that was. It could have been to Zeus, to Poisiden, to Aphrodite, etc. They all had their own temples.

7. Therefore, the unbeliever who ate the meat sacrificed to an idol was a sharer to the altar of the gods to whom the sacrifices were made.
8. The pagan ritual sacrifices paralleled Israel's true sacrifices. Satan is the great counterfeiter himself.
9. Participation in the heathen sacrifice by eating the meat during a religious feast was fellowshiping with a heathen god or gods. This is feasting with whatever god the meat was sacrificed to. This tells us the kind of problems that the Corinthians faced and the syncretism. With whom are the Corinthians fellowshiping when they eat a meal that originally was sacrificed to a demon. Those who eat the sacrifices are sharers in the altar.

Comparisons—Complex

1. Comparing the sacrifices of Israel, their ritual communion, to the sacrifice of the heathen idolaters.
2. The comparison between Israel's ritual sacrifices and the heathen sacrifices compared to the communion of the Church Age believers and eating meat in the heathen temples.
3. This is a comparison in both dispensations. There is true fellowship with the Savior and the bogus, evil fellowshiping with false gods.
4. In other words, we are compared the parallel between true worship and idolatry in each dispensation. 4 comparisons, 2 for each dispensation.

Bobby wants to caveat this here. There is not an equating of the Old Testament sacrifice and the New Testament communion. In a different dispensation, these are not equatable rituals. There is a comparison being made. Communion does not have a literal sacrifice within it (although it is theologically in communion where transubstantiation is believed in). The difference in the rituals is based upon the timing of Christ's work. One looks forward and we look back.

The question is, with whom are you Corinthians fellowshiping with in the heathen temple? They are communing with someone or something other than the Lord. A syncretism with rituals and rituals from opposing sides. Syncretism is two antithetical sides mixing together. The sacrifice is to the god of this world and to his minions. The sacrifice to pagan gods; the sacrifice to Aphrodite. God and demons; which table do you partake of? Only two spiritual tables in this world. The two cannot be mixed because of the fellowship principle. Paul has already told them that they can eat the meat offered to idols. Now he is saying, "Under certain conditions when you are involved in this feast, you are involved in syncretism." What does that food actually depict? What is the implication of the eating? With whom are you fellowshiping, Corinthians? Most importantly, what is the line of demarcation between syncretism and the law of liberty. What is presented here is the table of idolatry in the temple of Aphrodite. There are only two tables: the table of the Lord and the table of demons.

1Cor. 10:19–20: What do I imply then? That food offered to idols is anything, or that an idol is anything? No, I imply that what pagans sacrifice they offer to demons and not to God. I do not want you to be participants with demons.

What the gentiles sacrifice to are demons; they do not sacrifice to God; and I do not want you to become sharers with demons. Paul has told them exactly what they are doing. When we become involved in human viewpoint and when we get neck deep in the cosmic system, we are fellowshipping with demons, as did the Corinthians way back when.

Sunday 1 July 15, 2007

1Cor. 10:18 Consider the people of Israel: are not those who eat the sacrifices participants in the altar?

Sometimes, things in Scripture seem to be irrelevant, and vv. 19–20 may seem to be one of those passages. However, these are applicable to today. I don't want you to be sharers with demons, so we need to ask, what does this mean and what does Paul mean to get across to them?

The final act of the peace offerings was the eating, which was a meal, with the priest and the offerer, and this depicts fellowship with the unseen Jehovah. To have fellowship or to be a sharer of that altar. Jews and Gentiles associated with Israel looked forward to the cross; today, we have a similar situation, except that we look backward to the cross. The eating had great significance which depicted fellowship with the Savior for that age, our age and the age to come. He compares these two as fellowship, but one with demons and the other with Jesus Christ. Eating the meat at the heathen temple was fellowshipping with heathen gods, which is why it is forbidden. These two types of fellowships are antithetical. Unfortunately, Israel spent a great deal of time at the altar of Baal and even became involved with child sacrifice. fellowshipping was involvement with someone other than God and mixing the two, which is a problem even today. Today, it is mixing our communion with God and communion with other things. It is either/or; it is an absolute; we have a hard time understanding absolutes. Generations before did not have much trouble with absolutes; our generation has problems with that. We always see grey, which is syncretism. We are all subject to that from time to time. When the Corinthians are eating meat in the temples, with whom are they fellowshipping? So Paul shocks them with saying, "You are fellowshipping with demons." What is the line of demarcation between the law of liberty and fellowship with demons, the syncretism which is wrong. Vv. 19–23 will answer this.

The gods of the heathen do not exist; or, do they? The meat which Paul describes here is just a piece of animal flesh and offering it up to some god does not altar its substance. The pantheon of Greek and Roman gods do not exist. Even though these idols do not exist and even those there is no such thing as these gods, there is something behind idols and gods. That is where Paul is going with this passage. They actually thought that they were worshipping a god, but they weren't, not exactly.

Idolatry does replace the true God and true doctrine with a false and evil doctrine. Secondly, for the Corinthians, it had a destructive influence on metabolizing and applying Bible doctrine from the right lobe of the soul. Idolatry is confusion; syncretism is confusion. When you mix the communion table of the Lord, in syncretism, doctrine in the soul is unuseable. There is something even more sinister behind idolatry.

1Cor. 10:19 What do I imply then? That food offered to idols is anything, or that an idol is anything?

In v. 20, we find out what the problem is. We begin with the conjunction, αλλα = but. However, there is a negative with this. A negative statement is being made. That is the implication. However, the word no is added by the translator and is not found in the text. Paul asked two questions in the previous verse, and no is the answer to v. 19. Is the food offered to an idol anything? Is an idol anything? No! It is Paul's answer which implies the answer to this question. Paul does not have to state a negative in order for that to be understood here.

Δαιμον = an evil spirit, a demon. This refers most often in Scripture to angels who have fallen, which is a third of the angels. Isa. 14:14: Satan decided that he would become like the Most High. This is how far arrogance can remove you from reality. Satan was the most beautiful of God's creatures, and he became arrogant; he is the ultimate narcissist.

There is only one ultimate reality, and everything else is subterfuge. The doctrine of demons is the ultimate in unreality. They attempt to substitute themselves as God. They are counterfeit gods. A perfect way to describes Satan and his demons; they attempt to blind us from the truth and to remove us from fellowship with Him. Idolatry is fellowship with demons. It is a worship of God's opposition in the angelic conflict. This is a worship of the opposition. It is being part of a family and then deserting that family and going over to the opposition. It is like those who are a part of this nation, and they align themselves with our enemies (Muslims for instance who desire to kill us).

Satanic Counterfeits

1. Satan has evangelists and they spread a bogus gospel. 2Cor. 11:13–15
2. 2Cor. 11:3–4 Gal. A bogus gospel. Every aspect of humanism is a bogus gospel, with pantheism, environmentalism, and anything else which substitutes itself for God. Humanism is the primary Satanic philosophy. Environmentalism confuses God's creation with God. This does not indicate that conservation is wrong. There are no absolutes. It is obvious on television, which spreads the gospel of Satan; it is the greatest way to spread the bogus gospel.
3. 1Tim. 4:1–4 A counterfeit doctrine; doctrine of demons; which is the cosmic system. This is human viewpoint. When you think with human viewpoint, you are thinking with the mind of Satan. This doctrine leads to 1Cor. 10:12, which is the destruction of the spiritual life. There are teachers of false doctrines, and they are taught in churches Sunday after Sunday; and they are filled with humanism. That is pure, Satanic doctrine. That is my ticket to blessing and my ticket to heaven. 1Cor. 12:10 this false doctrine leads to the fall, and we are vulnerable to doctrines of demons.

4. Satan has a communion table, which is our passage. 1Cor. 10:20. It is just like our communion, which is fellowship with Jesus Christ. Fellowship with him is fellowship with his cosmic system. Human good is a part of the cosmic system. There are things which people do are certainly good for others; but anything done outside the power of the Holy Spirit is human good. The sin nature thinks in the cosmic realm. Satan is in direct opposition to the grace of God. Anything which takes you away from understanding and applying the grace of God is the cosmic system. Satan is the great deceiver, and he tries to provide us with what he thinks we want. The dividing line is the grace of God. Satan must oppose it and we must understand it. Grow in grace and knowledge of our Lord Jesus Christ. Our objective is not to glorify Satan to to glorify the cosmic system, which is his false doctrine. Satan's communion is fellowship with the doctrine of demons. For the unbelievers, this can go as far as demon possession for the unbeliever. As believers in Jesus Christ, we cannot be demon possessed. Believers in Jesus Christ cannot be demon possessed. We, as believers, can be demon-influenced. That is the doctrine of demons. We are influenced by the cosmic system. That is Satan's communion table.

1Cor. 10:20: No, I imply that what pagans sacrifice they offer to demons and not to God. I do not want you to be participants with demons.

1Cor. 10:20

Sunday 2 July 15, 2007

Bobby was talking to someone in a party, and someone had been chased through Florida by a demonic cult. Paul has made this a serious subject.

We are capable of sitting down at the table of demons. We can come into contact with demons. First, Satan has counterfeit evangelists (review is appended above),

5. Satan has a counterfeit righteousness, which is legalism. It is everything which is opposed to grace. The pharisees were hypocritical purveyors of human good. Jesus called them full of dead men's bones. Matt. 23:1-36
6. Satan has a blinding screen of religion; 2Cor. 3:3-4 (Timothy?). Religion is Satan's ace trump; these are his elite troops. His most successful attacks are under the guise of religion. All religion advocates gaining God's approbation by doing some sort of human works. We do something which impresses God. In reality, there is nothing that we can do in order to gain God's approbation. Religion comes up with a system of how to please God through what we do. Christianity is a relationship with God through what Jesus Christ did for us on the cross. Christianity is grace, grace and more grace. Every religion of history espouses some sort of works activity. Satan wants to turn humanity against the grace of God. Some of the Most pious people think that they are just great and God is crazy about them, because they are in church and they just gave Him a big check in the offering plate. Islam is a perfect example; it is a religion of good works. The extreme in good works is the 72 virgins waiting for a suicide bomber. Bobby saw a great cartoon, with 72 nuns waiting with shotguns. Pray 5 times a day toward Mecca. First, you say, Allah is God and there is not other. You must give alms to the poor. This is an act which sends them to heaven, so it is evil, human good. Many of these organizations give to terrorism, even though some give to them not realizing this. There is the month of fasting. No food, no water, no sex, no tobacco. Sunrise to sunset you are pleasing God by withholding something from yourself. The pilgrimage to Mecca. Another pillar is Jihad. These works can never commend anyone to God. Only appropriating the grace of God in Jesus Christ. Religion is in complete opposition to Christianity. Some do-gooders try to produce an environment where there is no more war and no poverty; but all he can produce is chaos and misery. Today, there are people who think that we are moving toward a much better environment. We have ac and indoor plumbing, but there is as much evil today as 50 years ago. All of the wonderful things that we possess blind the eyes of human viewpoint. And Islam sees us as evil. The doctrine of demons is all around us. "You've got a nice point there; I think I can accept that." When you recognize that, say, that they give money to the poor or that they are self-disciplined. Satan causes chaos and misery, but he continues to try to bring in a Satanic Millennium. Satan's most potent weapon is how you think.

7. Antinomianism, which is a very attractive religion to some people. Worshiping a god through fornicating? Again, you are trying to please God with your own works. There are some who have this today. When Bobby was in Oregon, there was a guy who set up shop there, a Mahareesh guy; the is the Mormon religion, which originally was something which allowed for many wives.

The idea behind Muslims is very Satanic. Strong enforcement of Muslim law, strong moral values; a destruction of all that they see as sin. In such an environment, overt sinners would be despised and destroyed; but their society would be, ideally, orderly and moral.

Ου τηθει = not to God. They sacrifice to demons and not to God. It is obvious that these sacrifices are not made to God; so why does Paul state this? God is never the object of idol worship. Of course this is true. This is superfluous statement. It is not necessary. The translation is reasonably no-God. No-God is in apposition to demons. Paul is further defining demons. Heathen are under the delusion that they are sacrificing to God, just as a Muslim thinks he is worshiping God. They worship the epitome of evil, which is Paul's point here. No-gods refers to demons. Paul shows the Corinthians that there are two evils involved here. The Corinthian believers are now participating in the worship of nothing. They should worship Jesus Christ and worship at the communion table of the Lord. In these cultic rites is the worship of demons, God's enemies. Adherents to Islam worship demons; the worship God's own enemies. This explains how they can go from a very moral set of behaviors to the destruction of innocents and even the destruction of their own children.

I do not want you to become sharers of demons. The Corinthians did not realize that they were worshipping demons; they just thought they were eating and drinking, and, in some cases, fornicating. When one city-state and one nation or one empire conquered another, they would superimpose their own gods or they would partially incorporate the gods of those defeated into their own pantheon. Maybe they are not powerful gods, but they should be considered. In that temple was contact, fellowship with the enemy. Satan is called the god of this world; that is his title, and demons serve the god of this world, so they may be called gods of this world. They are not the intended objects of the worship of unbelievers or believers, like the Corinthians.

Religion, legalism, and human viewpoint all make up the doctrine of demons, which is Satan's greatest weapon. If they participate, they don't know the extent of this evil. We will determine where we will draw the line of eating the meat and demon worship.

Most unbelievers in this world do not intend to serve Satan. There are some exceptions, but most unbelievers have no such intent. Even criminals do not see themselves as minions of Satan or purveyors of evil; they are out to serve themselves. Arrogance is the bedrock of the doctrine of demons. Let the sin nature take over and arrogance flows out of us. Believers do not intend to associate with Satan. The pursuit of anything outside the plan of God is unintentionally the plan of Satan. Satan has a plan for this world, which is to further his own cause. There are evangelists, religion, everything. It is a copy of God's plan, except that it is evil. Our life plan will coincide with one of them. When we are out of fellowship or thinking human viewpoint, that we serve Satan's system. When out of fellowship, we do not have the basis for thinking with the mind of Christ. This might not be our intent; we might just be stumbling through life. We might be trying to push our way through the fog of our confusion. Confusion in our life is from Satan; Satan is the author of confusion. We are thinking with his viewpoint.

There are absolutes to every aspect of life. It begins with being in or out of fellowship. Controlled by the Holy Spirit or controlled by the old sin nature. You cannot serve God and serve mammon. We are locked into worshipping or serving God or the cosmic system. Neglecting Bible doctrine constitutes participation in the plan of the god of this world. Neglecting doctrine is passive rejection. The result is the same. We have only one way to God. The plan of the god of this world. Fellowship with the gods of this world; that is syncretism. There is a fine line between Bible doctrine and progressing in the plan of God; and the doctrine of demons and regressing in the plan of God and falling into the cosmic system.

1Cor. 10:20: No, I imply that what pagans sacrifice they offer to demons and to no-God [others render this not to God]. I do not want you to be participants with demons.

Psalm 23 has been updated. The wagon tracks of righteousness; from that era.

The last phrase is a warning of one of the most extreme dangers to believers in Jesus Christ. I do not want you to become sharers in demons. Few if any of us were ever think of ourselves as sharers with demons; there is such a thing as demon possession of unbelievers. However, believers cannot be possessed, but we can be demon-influenced. Clearly, from v. 20, there has been some fraternization with demonic cults by the Corinthians.

In the ancient world, favor was sought by sacrificing to this or that god in order to get this or that thing which the god supposedly provided. However, this is a no-god. However, behind all of this were demons, and in this way, the communed with the god of this world and his minions. Διαιμον = demon. The heathen communed in this way with the god of this world, and some Corinthians were participating in this as well, so their communion was with Satan and the demons of this world. This is syncretism. We don't do this nowadays, but we do get involved with syncretism.

Syncretism might include a very basic doctrine or a very important doctrine that your church has got wrong. Now, this does not refer to misunderstanding of this or that passage; but, when it comes to the fundamental doctrines, if your church is wrong about it, then you need to separate from the church, or you are guilty of syncretism.

Where you are not influenced by doctrine in your soul, you leave yourself vulnerable to the cosmic system; to the doctrines of demons.

Bobby has not yet defined the cosmic system. Lewis Sperry Chafer in Vol. 2 pp. 77–78: The cosmos is a vast order or system which Satan has promoted. It is a civilization functioning apart from God. It assigns nothing to God, including causativity. [This can be applied to anyone with this system of thinking]. Culture, education, governments, armaments, jealousies, religions of morality. [Religion is the devil's ace trump; it is always anti-grace. Wherever there is human good, that is the cosmic system. Satan comes as an angel of light]. It is within that sphere where man lives. [It is literally a diabolical system designed by Satan, which is a system which incorporates all systems of thinking except for the truth. Immersion in the cosmic system for the believer in Jesus Christ is reversionism].

Philip. 3:18–19: (For many are walking, of whom I have told you often and now tell you even weeping, as the enemies of the cross of Christ; whose end is destruction, whose god is their belly, and whose glory is in their shame, those who mind earthly things.) Paul calls them here enemies of the cross; a title for believers in the cosmic system, because they are opposed to the cross. Whose end is destruction refers to the destruction of the Christian life and eventually the sin unto death. They become overly emotional, which is being ruled by one's belly. Perhaps, that is their lust? They glory in the way that they are, which is immersion in the cosmic system. They set their minds on earthly things, which means they have rejected the principles of grace. They reject grace and doctrine. Neglecting doctrine means participation in the plan of the god of this world. This can even be neutral toward doctrine. I know doctrine is there and it's available, but I just have a lot of things going on.

When you substitute anything for the plan of God, you are a part of the cosmic system. You may not have the intent to serve Satan or demons, but that is what you are doing if you remain outside of God's plan. This is not someone who goes to take in doctrine regularly and rebounds to get back into fellowship. This is the person who does not rebound or who does not go after the Word of God to grow.

Paul uses idolatry to describe the ease with which someone falls into the cosmic system.

Idolatry

1. What they offer in worship to a god is actually offered to demons.
2. The pantheon of Greek and Roman gods are not real, and even though it is great literature, they are still just made up. This is a perfect look as to how people think of the world around them. It is basically the cosmic system. Still, there are evil beings behind the idols and the worship of them.
3. Any association with worshipping idols is association and fellowshiping with demons. It is so easy to fall into the trap, if I am a good person, then God will smile on me.
4. This is why it can be said, in some religions today where idolatry is involved, demon activity is also involved. This does not happen only in 62 A.D. It happens here and right now. The Corinthians have entered into the environment of associating with demons. The new age movement today is an example of this. New age concepts simply come from eastern religions. They don't worship stone images; they do worship nature or they worship themselves as deity. In essence, they are worshipping themselves. That is complete and total arrogance and another form of idolatry. Trans-channeling, fortune telling, religious yoga, divination, etc. These are basically the occult and these are syncretism. Yoga is fine for exercise; but, when you use yoga to look deep inside yourself for some kind of deified as whatever.

Paul tells the Corinthians, do not become sharers with demons, which means that they are able to. This is why he warns them about idolatry, as that is the quickest way to become involved with syncretism. This can be as simple as a religion of morality. Syncretism is mixing evil with Christianity. In our communion, we have compatibility with Jesus Christ. We mortalizing...

The Cosmic System

1. When we are influenced by the cosmic system, then we are involved with the counterfeit doctrines of demons. You have compatibility with the god of this world. You think with his thinking, the cosmic system.
2. That is human viewpoint., which is the cosmic system.

3. Human viewpoint is a branch of Satanic viewpoint. We have some association with human viewpoint everyday. It is on television, it is in the workplace, it is everywhere. This is how close syncretism is to us.
4. If human viewpoint is our main influence apart from Bible doctrine, then there is nothing else. When you throw in the human viewpoint, it becomes a trump card; it pollutes. Pretty soon you think in the cosmic system.
5. This is Satan's world that we live in. He is the god of this world and we are a part of this world when we think in step with the cosmic system. This is more than simply going to the temple of Aphrodite. Our country is very much like the temple of Aphrodite.
6. We essentially have an intimate relationship with God's opposition in the angelic conflict.
7. In our thinking and in our actions, we have switched sides. We have gone over to the enemy.
8. We have, in this way, become a traitor. We will all be at the Lake of Fire, and those who involve themselves with the cosmic system will have all their human good burned and they will go into eternity with the bare minimum.

Obviously, no one intends at Berachah to commune with demons; neither do heathen, nor do the Corinthians of that era. Communing with demons is unintended consequences. They put themselves in harm's way, not intending to do so. They do this inadvertently.

This verse is a look at a loser in the angelic conflict. This is how a loser comes about in the angelic conflict; we turn traitor, we go over to the cosmic system. We need to recognize where we are and who we are. We cannot be warriors without the right weapon, which is doctrine in the soul. The question with the Corinthians, is not what we intend, but what we actually do and what we actually think.

A Summary of v. 20

1. The affect of syncretism is different from our intent. We do not intend the consequences which we intend.
2. Fellowship with demons is an unintentioned consequence of thoughtlessly participating in syncretism.
3. The unintended consequences are essentially demonic communion; the devil's counterfeit communion table. Everything that Satan does is counterfeit.
4. The application: a believer may not intend to corrupt himself. We do not trip through life intending to corrupt ourselves by associating with human viewpoint or with degeneracy, but we do. It happens. All it takes is neglect of Bible doctrine.
5. By our decisions we precipitate communion with any human viewpoint with which we associate. This is our ticket with the cosmic system and with any object of syncretism.
6. The unintended consequences is utterly destructive to the spiritual life. It is reversionism. Reversionism is subjecting yourself to the doctrine of demons.

Reversionism makes our god our emotions. Our thinking is centered on earthly things. This is exactly what the next verse says. You cannot drink the cup of the Lord and the cup of demons. When you think with Bible doctrine, you are drinking of the cup of the Lord; when you think with human viewpoint, you are thinking with the cup of demons.

1Cor. 10:20: No, I imply that what pagans sacrifice they offer to demons and to no-God [others render this not to God]. I do not want you to be participants with demons.

1Cor. 10:

Thursday July 19, 2007

This passage can be summed up with syncretism is prohibited. We can become involved with the doctrine of demons through the demon communion table.

We cannot be involved with the true communion table and with the temple of Aphrodite. You cannot put these two things together. It is syncretism when you do. There is no possibility of compromise between Satan and God. There are no truces in the angelic conflict; no time out, no detente.

We have a difficult time understanding the absolute because we live in an age when the absolute is scorned; everything has a grey area, which is standard thinking here. A great example: a person cannot have integrity and be corrupt. We cannot be corrupt and have integrity. Both statuses cannot exist simultaneously in the same person. The world says there is a little bit of each in every person. By definition, they are mutually exclusive. Therefore, the importance of rebound. Malfeasance must be absent in order for integrity to exist. You cannot be involved in the cosmic system and the plan of God at the same time. There are no crossovers. If they are lacking integrity in one area, then they are lacking integrity in all areas. There is no such thing as a little bit of corruption and a little bit of integrity. You cannot be a little honorable and a little dishonorable. This is not the way the world thinks today. There is always that grey area.

This is like a man who kisses one woman, and then goes out to see another woman. His loyalties are divided. That means, he has no loyalty. People can rationalize this; he's mostly loyal; he slips a few times. But, it is integrity versus no integrity. Where there is dishonor, there is not honor; where there is disloyalty, there is no loyalty.

You cannot have devotion with indifference; it is impossible. With the presence of a little disloyalty, some form of betrayal will follow. That is the very definition of disloyalty. These are absolutes, and it is either one or the other. Understanding this will preclude some very serious mistakes in relationships. There is forgiveness and you can move on in life and loyalty can be gained where disloyalty was before. Betrayal will follow; it is inevitable. Where loyalty is not present, the best you can have is doubt; and the worst is outright distrust. This illustration carries on over into the spiritual life. One sin destroys fellowship with God. The smallest sin, and the filling of the Holy Spirit is lost. Either ___ or ___. Never, both ___ and ___. You have sin or you have fellowship; you cannot have both.

Now, even as a believer, you can be an enemy of the cross, being involved in syncretism. You don't get it if you cannot think in absolutes. Such a life may land you in heaven, but without reward. Positive volition toward doctrine is our motivation to focus on God. It is the impetus to concentrate and to commune with Him through Bible doctrine. When you are able to do that, you can understand the either...or... There is no partial filling of the Holy Spirit and partial carnality. These are absolute states. You are either advancing or retreating; there is no dynamic tension in the spiritual life. There is nothing in between. God's plan is an absolute. There is no wiggle room and no grey areas. Doctrine is absolute. Doctrine differentiates; doctrine is clarity. So it is with the cup of the Lord and the cup of demons.

Genitive singular of κυρίου and a genitive plural δειμονιον. Both of these genitives are genitives of relationship. The cup brings you into fellowship or communion either with the Lord or with demons. Syncretism always excludes fellowship with God. It is one or the other.

What about ποτηριον = cup. This is not a reference to a literal cup which contains liquid. Cup is a metaphor is the share cup over which we have fellowship. When we drink with someone, we are fellowshiping with them. When you partake of the cup in the communion service, all of us together in a social setting, it is a picture of fellowship. When you love someone and you spend time with them, fellowshiping with them, you can be said to be occupied with the person; sometimes, there is intense occupation. If you are distracted, that is syncretism. When you are not occupied by them, then something is missing.

You might be sharing a beverage with a person and another woman walks by, and that takes away your focus. You are no longer fellowshiping with the first lady; you are involved in syncretism. Bobby gives us something to think about during the communion service. As soon as we are distracted, we are unfaithful. This does not necessarily refer to an overt activity; this occurs in your thinking. Mind of Christ, cosmic system, human viewpoint, divine viewpoint, doctrine of demons; are things we have studied, and some of these are completely incompatible with other things in the list. Some of these things do not mix ever. This is v. 21. Human viewpoint always forces out divine viewpoint. There is some divine viewpoint rolling around, but you don't utilize divine viewpoint out of fellowship. You don't think divine viewpoint and mix it with human viewpoint. You cannot drink of the cup of the Lord and the cup of demons. You cannot live in the cosmic system and the plan of God. You cannot think with Bible doctrine and the doctrine of demons at the same time. Human viewpoint always forces out divine viewpoint. Demon influence forces out divine viewpoint. Demon influence rules out the Christian way of life. The result of imbibing in the cup of demons is arrogance in its many forms. It is the epitome of the cosmic system. It is the arrogance complex; the cup of demons. Arrogance was the original sin of Satan. It was arrogance which launched Satan's fall. Arrogance is the foundation for all sins, human good, evil and moral degeneracy. You can count on arrogance as underlying the whole thing.

Shakespeare wrote about the fatal flaw, and arrogance is the ultimate fatal flaw; it is Satan's basic flaw. Satan is the most arrogant.

Do not confuse self-confidence in a believer for arrogance.

Distinguishing between Arrogance and Self-Confidence

These are absolutes in the spiritual life.

1. For the advancing believer, confidence in life is based upon confidence in the Lord. This is not based upon your personal abilities but it is based upon the Lord.
2. This is not arrogance, this is humility and doctrinal orientation. Confidence in the Lord is humility. There is no greater confidence than taking away your confidence in yourself and putting it the Lord. There is nothing that can remove your confidence when it is centered in the Lord rather than in yourself.
3. It is doctrinal and grace orientation that you come to recognize your worth in the plan of God. We have great worth in the plan of God. We are certain unworthy of the salvation and what God has given us; but we are still quite worthy in His plan, as we are in Jesus Christ, and we share His value. You begin to realize who you are in Christ.
4. When you realize your worth, you realize your personal potential when you execute the spiritual life. You know what you have and therefore, you know what you can become. No one thinks that they have unlimited potential. Some realize this more than others; however, as believers in Jesus Christ, we have unlimited potential and we reach it by advancing in the spiritual life.
5. We attain the confidence of spiritual self esteem. This is not human self esteem, based upon who and what the Lord is and our relationship with Him. Even if you are defeated by circumstances, you are not defeated in your soul; you cannot lose in Christ.
6. With the confidence of spiritual self esteem, we stand on our own two spiritual feet. We are not dependent upon anyone but the Lord.
7. With spiritual self esteem, you now look to God with the eyes of a lover of God. You recognize what you have in the plan of God. You've reached spiritual self esteem and you know where it comes from and you know where your strength and confidence come from. Total devotion and total loyalty; absolutes.
8. This means that we are effectively functioning with personal love for God the Father and occupation with Christ. This is intimate fellowship with Him in His system. This is drinking of the cup of the Lord; not the arrogance of the cup of demons.

The Arrogance of the Cup of Demons

1. This is narcissism. In narcissism, a person acquires an abnormal fixation with self accompanied by dissatisfaction with others.
2. No one meets the standards of the narcissist but the narcissist himself. It is a constant comparison.
- 3.

4. Narcissism is the foundation for self righteousness. Self righteous people are miserable people.
5. This is fixation on self; fixation on self. Spiritual self esteem is occupation with Christ. Focus away from yourself and onto that which is absolutel.
6. The narcissist never becomes an individual entity which looks to the Lord.
7. He is never able to develop spiritual self esteem or personal love for God or occupation with Christ. The narcissist cannot split time between God and himself. That is narcissistic Syncretism.
8. The narcissist is always self centered; everything in life rides on your shoulders. You image is bound up in our union with Christ and our spiritual self esteem.
9. So narcissism is the pride of arrogance. Exaggerated self-respect and conceit. Narcissism is a sense of superiority which distorts life. Our life should be clarity when seen through the grid of divine viewpoint.
10. Narcissism is easily vulnerable to flattery. This is because flattery reenforcing one's image of oneself. If someone else thinks that you are as great as you think you are, then you have a basis for compatibility. This reenforces who you think you are. With doctrine, you know who you are. Anytime someone attacks this inflated self image, defensiveness and counter attack occur.
11. Narcissism is unstable, vindictive and can never grasp reality from divine viewpoint. It is impossible.
12. Such a believer is divorced from the spiritual realities of life and hence, divorced from reality. Our reality is not in our circumstances, but in our soul as we apply to our circumstances. Circumstances are relative; what is in your soul can be absolute.
13. The narcissist replaces reality with a cosmic scale of values, which is human viewpoint.

1Cor. 10:21 You cannot drink the cup of the Lord and the cup of demons. You cannot partake of the table of the Lord and the table of demons.

1Cor. 10:19–21

Sunday 1 July 22, 2007

After years of study and understanding that there are 5000 variants in Scripture, it is important to note that not one of these affects the theology of Scripture. This passage is written 2000 years ago, but it is no less the Word of God now than it was then.

V. 19 give us the subject of this passage, as well as two questions. Idolatry and syncretism are the subjects.

1Cor. 10:19 What do I imply then? That food offered to idols is anything, or that an idol is anything?

Paul answers the questions of v. 19 with the word no. Paul further defines what gentile unbelievers sacrifice to: to demons and to no-god (that which is not God). . Behind idolatry throughout the centuries is fellowship with the cosmic system of Satan (which is his plan and his thinking); and we are bowing down to Satan and his minions.

I don't want you to fellowship with demons. Paul is writing to believers here; to believers in the Christian church at Corinth. It is generally not the intent of a believer to have fellowship with demons. The unintended consequences of believers here is fellowship with demons.

1Cor. 10:20 No, I imply that what pagans sacrifice they offer to demons and not to God. I do not want you to be fellowshippers with demons.

There is a natural antagonism between fellowship with demons and fellowship with God. You cannot drink the cup of the Lord [in Communion] and [at the same time] the cup of demons [indicating fellowship with demons]. You cannot eat from the table of the Lord and [at the same time] from the table of demons. You cannot be a part of the cosmic system and, at the same time, a part of the plan of God.

It is just as impossible for you to fellowship in both realms just as you cannot be loyal and disloyal to the same person at the same time. You are either loyal or you are not; there is not in between.

You fellowship at one table, or at another. You can't eat at two different tables at the same time. How you feel about the person does not mean that you are not fellowshiping with them. When you drink from the cup of demons. When you share a table with someone that you want to be with, you are still sharing that table.

When you are influenced by the cosmic system of Satan, you cannot be a part of the plan of God. The Corinthians were trying to do this. They were attending the table of Satan while being believers. Fellowship with the cosmic system is very expansive and extensive; fellowship with God is narrow.

The Cosmic System is anything outside the mind of Christ and outside doctrine and divine establishment. This can include evil and human good. Morality and ethics keep man from destroying himself. However, religious morality is the cosmic system, where one attempts to gain the favor of God through doing something good. No one is good enough to attain the favor of God. We can gain God's favor only through Jesus Christ dying for us on the cross. God loves His righteousness in us based upon our faith in Christ, which appropriates for us forgiveness and imputation of God's righteousness, which is based upon His work on the cross. Cosmic influence nullifies our spiritual life. It is easy and subtle. When we mix Bible doctrine and humanism, we are immersed in humanism. We cannot partake of relativism and Bible doctrine.

The difficulty is, human viewpoint always forces out divine viewpoint. Without the counteraction of Bible doctrine, human viewpoint drives out divine viewpoint. What makes the Christian life wonderful is, there are absolutes. People who live in the cosmic system live in confusion; they live according to situational ethics. What is the situation? That determines my ethics.

No one meets the standards of the narcissist except for the narcissist. He can never be occupied with the person of Christ; he can only be occupied with himself. He is totally divorced from the spiritual realities of life.

Christian activism has lost sight of who is in control of history. They have no purpose other than the religion of morality. It is a very sad state of affairs. Such an arrogant believer, the narcissist, has a struthious attitude. There was an argument at Bobby's table about the meaning and use of struthious. This word means resembling an ostrich.

The struthian believer develops, with a human lust to destroy the Christian way of life; glorifies himself as opposed to glorifying God. He climbs over the dead bodies of others to gain ascendancy. He is miserable outside the plan of God. Divine viewpoint is always reality because it focuses on the Lord rather than on self and circumstances. A person who buries their head in the sand means they are focused on who and what they are, and not upon what reality is. The advancing believer can see through Bible doctrine the things which are really important. He can have a clarity of purpose apart from themselves. Their purpose is to advance themselves.

Humanism focuses in on what is good in the human race and it refuses to see evil and depravity. When you have a personal sense of destiny, then you have spiritual self esteem. Some try to tell us that you need human self esteem in order to function in this life. We must recognize our personal sense of destiny. We must have love for God, impersonal love toward man, and we must be occupation with Christ. Otherwise, we are struthian believers.

1Cor. 10:21 You cannot drink the cup of the Lord and the cup of demons. You cannot partake of the table of the Lord and the table of demons.

1Cor. 10:21

Sunday 2 July 22, 2007

We are studying the struthious believer, the one who buries his head in the sand. The believer who cannot think in absolutes. We are designed to think with divine viewpoint. This does not happen the moment we become believers in Jesus Christ. As a believer, we must continually take in Bible doctrine. Otherwise, we are blown in every direction by every wind of false doctrine. We cannot live in the cosmic system and live in the plan of God at the same time. You cannot be corrupt and have integrity. We must be able to think in absolutes. Divine viewpoint is an absolute. It all begins with rebound. You are either in fellowship or you are not. Confusion in life is living in relativity. You need to have a clear picture of what your life should be and what your purpose is. Bible doctrine in the soul gives clarity. You can fill in your own blanks with the cup of demons. This is in opposition to the table of the Lord. Personal love for God and sharing the happiness of God. You cannot live as a struthian believer and have any of these wonderful things in life. This are problem solving devices. The struthian believer simply sticks his head in the sand; you don't know rebound, you can't use the faith-rest drill, you have no spiritual self esteem. Your thinking is human self esteem; your thinking is relative; your thinking is human viewpoint. Without problem solving devices, we cannot deal with people, you cannot have impersonal love for people and deal with their crap.

The Christian way of life is an absolute rather than a relative. These two cups are relatively exclusive. The struthian believer is arrogant; he only sees himself. When something intrudes on his narcissism, he buries his head in the sand. You may not be confused all of the time, but you are confused so often that you are always off balance. You cannot be humble and happy at the same time that you are arrogant. Accepting truth in humility. Bobby can look into our faces and figure out who is who in the congregation. The Bible doctrine is absolute truth and it is inspired by God. Knowing and depending upon the Lord; you are now fellowshiping with the mind of Christ. The greatest fellowshiping is with people of like minds.

Arrogance and demon influence and relativity are our enemies; we are behind enemy lines consistently. We maintain a perimeter against the cosmic system when we are in fellowship and we think Bible doctrine. You think with the doctrines of demons, which is the cosmic system. We move into decisions and actions influenced only by human viewpoint.

Divine discipline is all about us being out of fellowship and thinking with human viewpoint. It is better to be happy in all of our circumstances, to be content, and that is all about living the spiritual life. Being influenced by the doctrines of demons.

This is not demon possession; this is demon influence. We all have old sin natures, and as believers, we are capable of almost anything, and it has nothing to do with demon possession. The Holy Spirit indwells us, so demonic possession cannot take place.

Human viewpoint or divine viewpoint; there is nothing in between. You cannot have a little of one and a little of the other. When we try to mix them, it is syncretism; and where there is syncretism, there human viewpoint will overcome divine viewpoint. Without divine viewpoint, you operate as a struthian believer. You can do nothing else.

Table is the Greek word τράπεζης. This represents a way of thinking and fellowship with that way of thinking. If we are in carnality, we are in the cosmic system. There is no other option. Without the filling of the Holy Spirit, we replace communion with Jesus Christ with communion at the table of demons.

The first absolute, after salvation, is rebound. One sin removes us from fellowship; rebound, and we are back in fellowship. In the end, we will be in heaven or in hell, which are absolutes. The thinking of the spiritual life is in absolutes.

You fellowship from your soul and not from an experience. Much of Christianity is beginning to think in terms of spiritual gifts which are no longer extent in our day and age. There is nothing absolute with speaking in tongues today; everyone does is in their own way. It is a relative experience which everyone has for himself and touted as a personal experience. There is nothing absolute about it. A large portion of Christianity believes in this individual experience. That is relativism. The spiritual life is based upon how one feels. Many so-called Christian experiences are nothing other than the struthian believer operating in the realm of human viewpoint. The sin nature will not allow us to think in absolutes. Under the control of the sin nature means we think in relative concepts.

Everything within the realm of the filling of the Holy Spirit and Bible doctrine is fellowshiping with Him. Everything else is human viewpoint and the cosmic system. The plan of God is the filling of the Holy Spirit and Bible doctrine in the soul. There is a narrow road when it comes to the Christian way of life, just as the way of salvation is a narrow path (faith in Christ).

Bobby read that we have gone overboard in this concept of Christianity, and we need more experience in order to serve God (and this is from a seminary that we all know). There is one road in the spiritual life; there are many roads in the realm of human viewpoint. Bible doctrine is our life as believers. We cannot glorify God by some relative experience. "Tongues is what you need and here is how it works." and the person who says that is the one who is running the show, and the result is a relative experience. There is great personal danger in doing what the Corinthians do in syncretism.

1Cor. 11:30: approaching the Communion table in syncretism. This is exactly what the Corinthians are doing; they are influenced by the doctrine of demons. We need doctrine to deter human viewpoint. The more intimate that we become with those sporting human viewpoint, the more human viewpoint influences us. This doesn't mean that we cannot have a social life. It is possible to have a social life; however, there is a line there, and it is a line that you don't cross, and the Corinthians are crossing that line. That is the point of what Paul is teaching.

The cosmic system is attractive; whatever is outside the plan of God which attracts us, that is the cosmic system. 1% human viewpoint becomes a lot bigger with time. We need fellowship with the Lord in His plan. Without that, we fall into the cosmic system. In the end, there is no happiness in the relative cosmic system. When we realize that, we realize our own personal sense of destiny. We live our life in the light of eternity. Chaos versus contentment. A lot of chaos all of the time is not a way to live. The spiritual life and the cosmic system do not mix in any way, shape or form.

1Cor. 10:21 You cannot drink the cup of the Lord and the cup of demons. You cannot partake of the table of the Lord and the table of demons.

1Cor. 10:21

Wednesday July 25, 2007

The cup and the table of demons are freely available to the Corinthians; it is right there in Corinth; and when they place themselves in this environment, they are actually fellowshiping with the opposition to our Lord. For them, this is the doctrines of demons influencing their thoughts and actions. It is exactly the same for us.

Summary Points of Drinking of the Cup of Demons

1. Without doctrine fortifying your soul, you need the FLOT line in your soul (forward line of troops), you become vulnerable to the cosmic system. The FLOT line of the soul is a summary of the 10 problem solving devices, which are found in Freedom Through Military Victory.
2. Influence of the cosmic system is subtle.
3. It begins with voluntary exposure. They expose themselves to the cup of demons by their own choice.
4. After we have voluntarily exposed ourselves, we will make concessions to the cosmic system. Just a little compromise for a good time or a suspect relationship; or perhaps this relieves a little peer pressure in your life; but this compromise increases.
5. Sometimes, when the subtle aspect of the cosmic system doesn't get them, people get injured by circumstances in life or they feel like doctrine has let them down. In reaction, they dive headlong into the cosmic system. This is the obvious capitulation to the cosmic system. Many have left Berachah and have dived headlong into the cosmic system.
6. Human viewpoint replaces availability of doctrine in the soul and the focus on divine viewpoint. Now you are starting to slug down the cup of demons.
7. The human viewpoint of the cosmic system then overwhelms our soul and it becomes our life, which is tragic, and our life is unrecognizable to anything which God has designed.
8. The intake of Bible doctrine is nonexistent. You have departed. You either realize that it is something worthwhile, but you don't do it; or you just are negative, you don't have doctrine, and your soul become arrogant, you are hostile toward divine viewpoint, and you become every defensive about your life. Sometimes you have divine discipline and sometimes it is self-induced misery.
9. Human viewpoint defines your thinking process; now you are in trouble. You are so far out of fellowship, you cannot conjure up divine viewpoint. Your thinking is no different from the unbelieving world around you.
10. Your actions and your activities coincide with the cosmic culture of corruption and decay which surround you.
11. Your norms and standards are now defined by the corrupt culture all around you. Whatever the rest of the world does, that is where you want to be. You are guzzling the cup. So many believers have bought into the norms and standards of the world in which they live.

Rick Hughes sees this stuff in Christian schools all the time. Doctrinal inculcation is the only hope for this generation coming up; and not the legalism proclaimed by many churches today (or, works, experience, feeling good). These things are thought to be Christianity today, and it comes out of our seminaries as well. Anything other than the divine viewpoint of Bible doctrine, brings about the struthous believer. Ostrich's don't really stick their heads in the sand, as you have to breathe, and they can't with their head in the sand. A struthian believer has lost sight of the reality of Christian life. The result of becoming a strutheous believer, is you give yourself over human viewpoint. You become narcissistic. You are self-centere rather than Christ-centered. You are wrapped up in a frantic search for happiness; you look for people or you look for things.

There is nothing wrong with relationships and things; but they will not satisfy the strutheous believer. Or, the legalistic believer goes in for legalism. He attempts to please God by his own good deeds. Nothing wrong with morality, but religion is terribly evil and wrong. Religion is trying to please God through your own power and works. How good do you have to be? What is the cut off? At what point are you discarded? We must think in absolutes. The good deeds that we do must be divine good. It is legalism versus grace.

The pharisees looked into the eyes of Jesus Christ, into the eyes of grace incarnate, and tried to stand upon their own works. They were the epitome of self righteousness and hypocrisy. Most of the time, religion ends up being gossip, maligning, judging and self righteousness.

Legalistic or antinomian approaches divorce you from the spiritual life. Our purpose is wonderful; we have a life of contentment and purpose. It is simple and it is absolute. There is not other way. Never has been and never will be. Divine viewpoint means we don't have to wonder. Every circumstance and every situation is part of the plan of God.

God is absolute and definitive. The alternative is confusion and relativity. Divine viewpoint is an absolute. As a believer, we should see the world as God sees it. That is what doctrine is for. This is not nebulous abstract information; we see the evil of the world and the grace of God, by mere observation, as long as we possess divine viewpoint. We can see the total depravity of man and the grace of God in action. Many of us see this world and we are appalled by it, but then when you see what God has provided for you, it is a great motivating factor. Divine viewpoint is an absolute. You give lip service to divine viewpoint, and you live in human viewpoint. That is the syncratic believer. Strutheous is a synonym for reversionism. The reversionist love for the Lord is replaced by love for the cosmic system. That is cuckolding our Lord; we are being unfaithful to Him.

Hosea's entire book is all about cuckolding the Lord. The prophet of God was sent to marry a prostitute. The entire book is an allegory, although the situation was real; it had a whole other meaning. The wife ended up as a sex-slave, and Hosea went and bought her back. It is exactly the same for us; if we are unfaithful, we become like the wife of Hosea. However, we are always bought back, every time. Not one of us has to end up in the gutter. It is amazing that one can be that unfaithful and still be loved.

Personal love for God and when we are there, we are practically, unassailable. Bible doctrine in the soul allows us to see life for exactly what it is. You cannot have fellowship with the cosmic system and fellowship with God at the same time. You cannot be influenced by human viewpoint and possess divine viewpoint at the same time.

Well, you can hop from one to the other; you can be in and out of fellowship; you can be in and out of Bible class. However, you are either in fellowship or you are out; you are in the plan of God or you are not. You are thinking with divine viewpoint or you are living in the cosmic system. You must be consistent in the intake of doctrine.

Bobby is imploring us not to become a struthous believer. The believer must always be on guard. Being filled with the Holy Spirit and taking in doctrine pushes out human viewpoint and pushes out the cosmic system from our souls. 1Cor. 10:12: Wherefore let him that thinketh he standeth take heed lest he fall. Philip. 3:19: Whose end is destruction, whose God is their belly, and whose glory is in their shame, who mind earthly things.)

Bobby is not recommending the austerity of a convent; and he is not saying that we do not tlet the outside world in at all. You cannot serve God without being in touch with the outside world. We don't have to isolated and unhappy. Doctrine does not do this. We can come in contact with the cosmic system without buying into it.

The believer must recognize the corruption of arrogance. Arrogance is one of the biggest indicators of living in the cosmic system. You use divine viewpoint to recognize human viewpoint. Divine viewpoint thinks in terms of humility.

Satan's subterfuge is evil; it is not obvious. He tries to mimic divine good. The influence of the cup of demons must be neutralized by grace orientation. Grace orientation. You cannot intermix the cosmic system with divine viewpoint. The cosmic system will eventually drive out divine viewpoint. However, if you keep advancing, you will drive out the cosmic system.

1Cor. 10:21 You cannot drink the cup of the Lord and the cup of demons. You cannot partake of the table of the Lord and the table of demons.

This next verse gives us the consequences of drinking from the cup of demons. Jealousy is one nasty emotion. This is that awful suspicion or mistrust of others, along with resentment. It is a devastating category of mental attitude sins. Jealousy is always motivated by fear, fear of rivalry, fear of rejection, a sin of great misery of soul. Being jealous is agonizing and being the object of jealousy is also a pain.

Severence of fellowship between a person and the object of his jealousy. The worst part is when the jealous person attempts to control through manipulation or intimidation. Jealousy is possessive and very territorial. There is no capacity for love in jealousy.

Narcissism is self-absorption. Egotistical irrationality. Jealousy is irrational. Gossiping and slandering and maligning. Particularly with the object of their jealousy. When you are jealous of a person's status in life, you might spread lies about them. There is no room for jealousy and divine viewpoint. If you are conjuring jealousy in your soul, then you are out of fellowship. It does not matter whether it is justified or not. A jealous person is always lurking somewhere and trying to intrude on another's privacy.

There is a reason why God is called jealous here; and it is the same reason that it is found here as in the book of Hosea...

1Cor. 10:22 Shall we provoke the Lord to jealousy? Are we stronger than he?

1Cor. 10:22

Thursday July 26, 2007

Bobby lived outside of Houston for about 20 years and was on tapes for that time, and heard some tapes several times. Bobby finds that in spiritual growth, we might be focused on one aspect of this or that doctrine, but there may be several things being taught; and you may go back and later get something that was being taught that you did not catch before.

V. 22 characterizes God as having jealousy. Syncretism is, in essence, unfaithfulness. It is devastating to love someone and that they turn out to be unfaithful; one of the worst moments of life. Here, it says that God is provoked to jealousy. One of the worst mental attitude sins. Jealousy is a vicious mental attitude sin, always entailing distrust and resentment. It is the opposite of what the spiritual life brings to us by way of happiness and contentment. Jealousy from jealousy springs a plethora of other mental attitude sins. From it comes anger, fear, vindictiveness, fear of rivalry, fear of losing another's affections, envy (you are jealous of what someone has or what they have accomplished); and egotistical irrationality, self-pity, and other such sins can result, as well as gossip, maligning, rumor mongering, spreading public lies. Jealousy is a relational mental attitude sin. It is always directed toward someone.

Now, when we are out of line in syncretism, is this God's reaction? What we should always think of is righteousness, justice and love when it comes to God's character. These attributes all work together in His dealings with us. God's jealousy falls under these attributes in relation to us. It can never be separated from that. There must be some difference between God's jealousy and our jealousy.

This sort of description certainly should get our attention when Paul uses this word. There is no doubt that God has a strong response when we are in syncretism. Paul's use of jealousy; he takes human emotions and human actions. Paul uses jealousy to indicate that God disapproves and to indicate that He strongly disapproves. Corinthians expressed syncretism in idolatry. Fellowship with the Lord. What is God's response to our unfaithfulness? It is jealousy. Parazêloô (παραζηλω) [pronounced pahr-ah-zay-loh-oh], which means to provoke to jealousy, to be provoked to jealousy. We provoke Him to jealousy. There has been a real unfaithfulness which has provoked an overwhelming negative response.

This first phrase mirrors God's Deut. 32:22 "They have made Me jealous with what is not-God." A god which is not God. This could be Baal or a number of false gods. "They have provoked me to jealousy with

What We Can Expect from God

1. God's jealousy is never a sin; our jealousy is sin. If there is a reason to be jealous, then you simply move on. If there is no reason to be jealous, then it is your problem. Jealousy will just bring more mental attitude sins and sins of the tongue. God is not jealous in this way.
2. God's jealousy carries none of the evil characteristics of human jealousy. Human jealousy is miserable.
3. God's jealousy has no irrational, unstable, emotional connotations as ours does.
4. God's jealousy is not based in fear as is ours. God does not fear our disloyalty.
5. What is the jealousy of God? In a word, it is an anthropopathism. In fact, most emotions which are ascribed to God are anthropopathisms.
6. An anthropopathism is an emotion ascribed to God which He does not actually possess. It is ascribed to Him as it reveals a policy of God toward man. This is so that we can understand divine viewpoint in relation to our activity.
7. In this case, jealousy reveals His extreme disapproval of the evil of idolatry and syncretism.
8. Jealousy is God's policy toward us. When our love turns to Him from someone or something else. Wherever jealousy is found with God as the subject, it indicates extreme disapproval.
9. God's extreme disapproval is justified and legitimate, which is not true of human jealousy.
10. God is always justified in demanding our attention and our concentration, as well as our loyalty and our unswerving devotion.
11. Why can God demand this? God is worthy of absolute love and obeisance. No one else is above Him. God should always have 1st place in our soul.
12. To place something above God is to be out of the plan of God. Whatever we place above Him is problematic. We can have things that we focus on, which we enjoy, which we spend time on. We are not required to be ascetics. The key is what is first. This is the importance of doctrine. Most believers have no idea how we put God in first place. God is not put in first place by taking things away from our lives.
13. In effect, God is our husband to whom we owe foremost devotion. There can be no other lover in the syncretistic way. No polygamy with God and He loves us as a husband loves his wife (ideally). The husband is entitled to the love of the wife. That does not mean that the wife does nothing more than lay around adoring her husband; she may have a number of different interests and focuses in her life; but her husband is her priority. That should be our attitude toward God. Sometime the pastures do look greener and we want to stray a bit, but we don't do this with the Lord. If we do, we have cuckolded the Lord. There is nothing which can take His place; there is no one who is greater. Our syncretism can never be justified.
14. We owe absolute fealty to Him and to no one else.
15. God is totally justified in disapproval directed toward us when He does not receive personal love and devotion from us.

16. When we are unfaithful and disloyal to God, when we reject His doctrine and His plan for us; or when some other false infatuation embodied in idolatry or syncretism takes His place, He is said to be jealous.
17. Because jealousy is such a terrible human emotion, it serves very well to bring home the Lord's policy against unfaithfulness. We are married to God; we are bought with a price (like Hosea's wife). There is no alternative; there is no one else that we can go to. Whatever we hold as the same importance of God is syncretism.

Deut. 32:21: when we make God jealousy, we almost make Him angry. Again, this is an anthropopathism. We do not want to rouse God's anger or His jealousy. They translate to divine discipline. Never forget that divine discipline is designed to motivate us to rebound and to get with doctrine and to turn away from the objects which caught our attention. Mental attitude sins are never beneficial. God's policy against our unfaithfulness is to our benefit. God will not discard us. That is never God's policy. He does not simply move on, severing His relationship with us. Our relationship with God is everlasting. We cannot lose our relationship with Him.

Through the feasting and the going to the temple of demons, God has been placed on a level with demons. God is jealous and angry. The Corinthians are partaking of His communion table. Eating meat offered to idols under certain conditions results in severe divine disapproval and divine discipline. These people are being warned by Paul of defecation. The threat level has gone through the ceiling. It's nice to be warned that God is about to smash us. This warning continues through the last phrase of v. 22.

The 2nd half of this question in v. 22 is, no one is stronger than God when it asks, Surely, we are not stronger than He is. No one can stand against the anger and jealousy of God, so we should stand with Him. Don't test our might against His. Ultimately, we cannot afford the divine discipline and anger from God. We are not designed to withstand God's jealousy and anger. It is designed to bring us back; otherwise, we are heading for the sin unto death. We do not want to test His strength.

Paul is telling the Corinthians, you should not be involved in syncretism, and this is what God thinks of it.

1Cor. 10:22 Shall we provoke the Lord to jealousy? Surely, we are not stronger than he is?

A new paragraph with this verse. Expediency is applied to the unbeliever. The law of love is applied to other believers. Liberty and certain conditions under which liberty should not be the primary consideration. Your liberty might be legitimate. The Corinthians were allowed to eat meat, no matter what its origins. However, some unbelievers and believers observed their eating habits and were concerned and confused. Paul wants to keep the weak believer from mental attitude sins and from being upset, disturbed and distracted from doctrine. He wanted to encourage them and not discourage them. They could eat meat; this was legit. Some viewed this liberty as idolatry.

The law of love is not in view in this chapter. V. 23 is a restatement of 1Cor. 6:12: all things are lawful to me, but not all things are profitable; all things are lawful for me, but... These are parallel verses. What can we legitimately do and what can we abstain from doing?

What is not lawful is πορνεία. The Corinthians had been deeply affected by the phallic cult and the sex culture all around them. The larger more general picture of 1Cor. 6:12 is the larger picture. Chapters 6 and 8 are the background to vv. 23–33. We will understand why Paul is bringing this chapter up again. Chapter 6 is the more general picture and chapter 8 is the specific view. The spiritual life versus that which neutralizes the spiritual life. What is the boundary between these two?

Liberty is the ability to eat meat offered to idols. There is not one thing wrong with this. However, there is a law of expediency. Under expediency, eating meat is not legitimate; under the law of liberty, it is legitimate. It is exactly the same thing; when is it okay and when is it not okay? All things are lawful but we don't get to do all things.

1Cor. 10:23 "All things are lawful," but not all things are helpful. "All things are lawful," but not all things build up.

1Cor. 10:23

Sunday 1 July 29, 2007

Every time we sin, we lose the filling of the Spirit, and every time that we rebound, we are filled with the Holy Spirit. These are absolutes.

Our detailed study has been in syncretism and it now takes a turn. V. 23 moves away from the table of demons and the cup of demons, to some very specific comments on idolatry. The general topic is the same (coming from 1Cor. 8—meat sacrificed to idols); however, the specific subject has changed from the table of demons and the cup of demons.

This is extremely applicable to us, and we will study meat sacrificed to idols. How far can we go before we become syncretistic? Eating meat sacrificed to idols did not constitute sinfulness. The eating signified nothing, as the idols are nothing. Even though the idols represent demons, and that fellowship with these idols meant fellowship with demons; the simple eating of meat, apart from participation in the temple of Aphrodite (or, whomever), was not sinful. The meat was taken from the Temple of Aphrodite to the butcher shop next door, where it was quickly processed; and eating this meat was not sinful. However, there was a misuse of this freedom by the believers in Corinth. These Corinthians did not give a thought to immature believers, and these mature believers could become a stumbling block for immature believers. Their weak conscience could be defiled; they do not have enough doctrine to see the difference. They might dive right into idolatry, seeing them eating idol-sacrificed meat. Paul's conclusion was, the mature believer should curb his behavior because of the law of love. The law of liberty is set aside for the law of love, so that he does not become a stumbling block for the immature believer. This is a believer who recognizes that his activity becomes a stumbling block to an immature believer.

You might think that other believers have no right to look at us and to intrude on our legitimate liberties. 1Cor. 8 has a correspondence with 1Cor. 10:23–33. In chapter 8, we dealt with the relationship between a believer and another believer. In chapter 10, we are dealing with our associations with unbelievers. We do have an obligation to unbelievers as well. A stumbling block principle in 1Cor. 8 limiting the liberty of the mature believer for the sake of the immature believer. In our chapter, we will look at limiting the liberty of the mature believer for the sake of the unbeliever.

All things are lawful refers to the law of liberty. Let's take a look at 1Cor. 6:12: All things are lawful for me, but all things are not expedient: all things are lawful for me, but I will not be brought under the power of any. I have used boldface to indicate the differences between these verses. V. 12 is particular to Paul; and v. 23 is general; but they both categorize things which are lawful and things which should limit our liberty. What is the boundary between eating meat offered to idols, which is a liberty; and eating meat as syncretism, as participation in idolatry. syncretism = mixing two sets of beliefs together which should not be mixed, like mixing Christianity with humanism.

In 1Cor. 8, we saw that any believers could eat idol-sacrificed meat without that being sin. However, there is a possibility that this could be syncretism. What crosses this line from liberty to syncretism, and that is the topic of this chapter. The difference is apply liberty, which does not neutralize our spiritual life; and applying liberty when it crosses over into syncretism. We can go from a liberty to something which is wrong and sinful. What makes it so? When our liberty becomes a stumbling block to the unbeliever, that is the crossover from lawful to syncretism. Vv. 28–33 define the unlawful in relation to the unbeliever. Applying the law of expediency to the law of liberty. All of this is in the context of the Corinthian's propensity for idolatry.

An overview of the paragraph: vv. 23–33 is a pre-summary
v. 23 picks up from the context of vv. 20–22. This is linked to the Lord's table, which is mandated to us as believers. There is a special meaning of worship and fellowshiping. The believer under this obligation must never denigrate or taint his obligation to the Lord. It is our mental attitude of dedication and our mental attitude of remembrance, and nothing from the outside should intrude on our concentration. The believer should not denigrate or taint that moment. We must always be on guard against syncretism, which removes us from fellowship with God. The evil of the cosmic system which affects us every day. This is the combining or coalescence of contrary beliefs. The combination of humanism with Christianity. Anything which is not Bible doctrine is of the cosmic system. If you can only think in relativism, then you cannot think in absolutes. Secular doctrines are based upon relativism. Take on the mind of Christ in our soul, is our mandate. Paul confirms something here; a Church Age believer is at liberty to do what he likes, as long as it is not sinful. However, a believer cannot to all things which are lawful, as some are not profitable.

Israel had instructions for rituals and sacrifices which are not a part of the Church Age. We are no longer to sacrifice animals. We look back on His finished work. The blood of bulls and goats is no longer legitimate. We do not live under the dietary laws of the Jewish Age.

It was a sin in the Age of Israel to eat meat offered up to idols. Paul tells us that we can eat whatever we want. The Jews have the Mosaic Law and we have the mystery doctrine of the Church Age. Meat sacrificed to idols is legitimate for our consumption; but not to Jews under Jewish law. The believer must abstain from liberty which might obstruct a person's spiritual life. Abstaining from liberty is not just for our benefit and for the well-being of others. The well-being of others should be a first priority. One's right in liberty should not be the overruling factor in applying our limited. Examples of limiting liberty to come in the next session.

We will see how limiting our own liberty is exactly what we ought to do, parallel to what Paul is writing about here.

1Cor. 10:23 "All things are lawful," but not all things are profitable [helpful?]. "All things are lawful," but not all things build up.

1Cor. 10:

Sunday 2 July 29, 2007

Bobby groaned when he came to this paragraph and saw that we are dealing with meat offered to idols. He thought that he had done everything that he could have done; however, as he got into syncretism, he could see that there are still important issues. Now, today, there are no problems with eating meat offered to idols; that is not a part of our culture. The problem is, how do other believers and unbelievers perceive those who eat meat offered to idols; to us, there are other applications. Believers and unbelievers associated the eating of this meat with worshiping false gods. It all centers around this meat sacrificed to idols. Now, we have another problem. In 1Cor. 8, it was the perception of weak believers; now we have the problem of the perception of unbelievers. "I never thought about unbelievers before; I always thought, just let them go to..." This was being a bit facetious. However, where is the line drawn between liberty and obligation to the perceptions of others. This is how important our witness to the unbelieving world is. All things are lawful but not all things are profitable. All things are lawful, but not all things edify. The Church Age believers is not subject to the laws and regulations which were imposed upon Jews in the Age of Israel. As long as meat is good, it can be eaten. There is no such thing as an unclean animal. There is not reason for us to forgo eating or touching unclean animals. Abstaining from liberty should take into consideration our own spiritual growth, as well as that of believers and unbelievers who observe our activity. Our rights and liberties. People turn on the television and talk about their rights and liberties and their entitlements. One's rights and liberties are the controlling factor today. What we can do and what we are entitled to do. For us, our legitimate rights should not be the controlling factor in our actions.

Bobby will try to illustrate. If only people could understand, when people continue to demand their rights and entitlements. They demand these, whether they are detrimental or detrimental to the nation. Civility and thoughtfulness of others should be taken into account. You do not trample the rights of others. The security of the nation should be considered before the right to reveal classified documents under the "public's right to know." Some personal responsibility is important here. Absolute, unfettered free speech, a right of the constitution; but this right is abused. There ought to be some personal accountability in this right. The example of screaming fire in a public auditorium. You don't speak treason in time or war or you don't speak treason which gives comfort and help to the enemy. Where is this lawful speech detrimental.

Lincoln and his attitude of verbal treason. "Those who speak ill of the commander-in-chief during war time ought to be shot." There are limiting factors to our liberty as believers in Jesus Christ. If you do not limit your liberty, everyone suffers. Very few Americans ever abide by these common sense principles. We need to occasionally limit our own personal liberties. We need to police ourselves. There are legitimate things that we can do, but ought not to for the benefit of those around us. All things are lawful but not all things are profitable.

Overall Summary:

The Temple Meat Market, where meat offered to idols is now offered to the public. There was no refrigeration, and the meat had to be sold before it spoiled. The meat market was often connected to the temples, so that the meat could be offered immediately for sale.

There was no problem with believers buying this meat at the market and eating it. The believers at Corinth should have not had even the slightest twinge of guilt for buying and eating this meat. All things are of the Lord for our use; and this is true for us today, regardless of PETA, who would like to see us all be vegetarians so that we do not hurt animals.

There must be some problem with eating meat sacrificed to idols, as we are talking about it. When are these things not edifying?

Bobby will elaborate on Paul's scenario so that we can understand the law of expediency more accurately. Let's say, a believer walks into a temple butcher shop and purchases some meat, which is allowed and is lawful. The believer is liberty to eat when it does not hinder his spiritual life and when it does not cause a believer or unbeliever to stumble or to become confused. If the butcher cuts that meat, and says, "Do you know where this meat comes from? What I am selling you came from idol worship." This butcher is giving them a warning, a disclaimer. The butcher here is cognizant of something, and he understands that there is something involved here with the believer. "You need to know where this came from; are you sure you want to eat this?" Christians worship one God, and the butcher warns the believer, this meat has been offered to other gods, just in case the believer needs to know this. This butcher has expressed some interest and some knowledge of Christianity; and he is indicating that he understands that this meat is part of worship, and there is a form of worship occurring here. The result for the butcher, if the believer buys the meat, he observes that the believer's dedication to the Lord might be soft. He may see this as the believer hedging his bets in this regard. The believer knows that there is nothing wrong here with regards to buying meat. This requires some sophisticated application on the part of the believer. The antinomian no-law unbeliever is to be taken into consideration.

The same is true of another scenario which is described here. A believer is invited into the home of an unbeliever. If the believer accepts this invite, then he can eat whatever is set before him. A good guest generally eats what is set before him, whether he likes it or not. If the host says to the believer, "Did you know that this meat came out of the temple, and that it was offered up to this or that god?" The same problem occurs again. The unbeliever presenting the meat now has made an issue out of eating the meat. Is the believer now involved in syncretism. This is not syncretism per se, but it is perceived as such by the unbeliever.

There are those who demand rights in our country regardless of the results.

The butcher might say, "I offered this meat to a Christian and he took it and, presumably ate it. So, is this believer, in essence, worshiping our gods? Is he doing obeisance to our gods?" When one people conquered another people, those conquered did obeisance to the gods of their conquerors. Some appeasing involved. You appease other gods in this era.

This man looks at a Christian eating meat offered to an idol, and decides, "Hmm, this faith of this person may not be all that much; he does exactly what we do; he eats meat offered up to idols." The witness of the believer here is compromised. His witness is compromised in the eyes of the unbeliever. The unbeliever see his dedication to Jesus Christ as being denigrated, even though the believer has really done nothing wrong. Eating is an innocuous activity which we all must do; it is a liberty. However, eating under certain circumstances can be not the best choice. If the unbeliever perceives this as syncretism, even if it is not, then that needs to be taken into consideration. We are all mandated to be witnesses for Jesus Christ. Can we afford to ignore this? Can we afford to thumb our nose to the plan of God. This is like those who thumb the rights of everyone else so that they can have their own rights. So we have to be careful about crossing the line into syncretism or being careful to be perceived as having crossed this line, even when we haven't. We cannot afford to overlook perception. This goes to the welfare of the unbeliever. The same principle for the law of love and the law of expediency; they are simply directed to other groups of people.

Let's say you are invited to a false Communion, such as a church which believes in transubstantiation. Maybe unbelievers view your beliefs as weak if you participate. Or, the unbelievers may object if you don't participate. Their perception would reasonably drive your actions. Eating and drinking at such a communion is not unlawful.

3 Principles

1. Eating at sacrificial meals in or out of the temple is idolatry and is strictly forbidden; it cannot be done; that is real syncretism, not just perceived syncretism.
2. Eating meat bought at a meat market is authorized under the law, even if that meat had been offered to an idol.
3. When do I apply the law of liberty and when do I apply the law of expediency? That is what we will explore.

1Cor. 10:23 "All things are lawful," but not all things are profitable [helpful?]. "All things are lawful," but not all things build up.

1Cor. 10:23

Wednesday August 1, 2007

The next 11 verses will bring out the scenario described on Sunday. We all enjoy certain liberties which go with our status as being in Christ. Greater liberties than has ever been known in previous dispensations. The restrictions and limitations which Israel lived under, we do not. There are, however, exceptions, to these liberties; for the good of the believers and unbelievers around us. All things are lawful but not all things are profitable; all things are lawful, but not all things edify. The final phrase is very important when dealing with the exceptions to what we already have. What liberty do we have that is not profitable to us? This is the liberty which the weak believer or the unbeliever perceives as being syncretism. The perceptions of other people do matter. This is not a reference to legalistic, self righteous types. This is the weak believer or the unbeliever and their perception of us. When they perceive our actions as being syncretism, then our actions have the same affect upon them as if these actions were syncretism. If they perceive it wrongly, then the witness to the unbeliever is ruined. For the weak believer, this can hinder or slow his advance.

Most of these verses deal with the unbeliever, although there will be a reference here or there to believers. If the host of a dinner party makes an issue of it, then it is an issue for us.

Summary of Sunday

1. For the idol worshipping unbeliever, for him, the act of eating meat sacrificed to an idol is worship of the gods. It is more than just eating meat, which is the believer's understanding.
2. For him to see a believer eating meat sacrificed to an idol, he sees it as an act of worship of the gods by the Christian.
3. The unbeliever concludes that the Christian is hedging his bets. The Christian is being syncretistic; he is worshipping Jesus Christ and the idol to whom the meat was sacrificed.
4. The unbeliever might conclude, after seeing the Christian eating meat offered to idols. He bought it and he ate it, just as unbelievers do in their feasts to the gods. They are both doing the same thing, which is an act of worship. This Christian, therefore, must recognize that there are other gods which require obeisance. Idolatry was a standard practice in the ancient world; and a conquering nation might even incorporate the gods of the conquered nations into their own pantheon. You can't ignore the gods of any nation. These gods must be greater than humans. Don't make them mad by ignoring them.
5. To the heathen of the ancient world, this syncretism was simply covering all one's bases. If a Christian pays obeisance to other gods in syncretism, that would seem perfectly normal within the culture that he understands. This makes Jesus Christ not as important any more. He is just one God of many.

6. If by eating the meat, the unbeliever sees the believer as syncretistic, then Jesus Christ is on the same level as any other god in their pantheon.
7. The Lord Jesus Christ becomes one among many and the believer's witness to the unbeliever is compromised because the Lord is compromised to this unbeliever. This unbeliever might add Jesus Christ to their list of gods (sort of like Muslims consider Him to be a prophet), but they do not recognize who He is.
8. Under these conditions, the believer must abstain from eating for the benefit of the unbeliever. The believer does not want to appear syncretistic. It is the perception of the unbeliever which is important here. There are many practical applications for us today.
9. This is a similar reaction by the weak believer seeing us eat meat offered to idols. This immature believer does not know how to discern between liberty and license. His understanding of these issues is confused and he sees this as syncretism. He can see you eat the meat, and he might drop by the temple and check out the temple priestess, because, in his mind, there is no difference.
10. Under the law of love, the strong believer will sometimes abstain from a liberty on behalf of the weak believer. These laws are our obligation.
  - a. Eating at sacrificial meals in or out of the temple—specific meals offered to idols, and it is prohibited. You do not eat at the feast of the temple. It is wrong in every case and it is true syncretism.
  - b. Eating meat bought in the meat market of the temple is authorized under the law of liberty. They can buy it and they can eat it. Enjoy it, even if it was offered to idols.
  - c. There is the area which requires mature application. The weak believer and the unbeliever may not distinguish these two actions, one of which is strictly prohibited and one which is not. The law of liberty and the law of expediency must be considered. If no issue is made by the unbeliever, then we do not need to make an issue out of it. However, if attention is given to the history of that food, for whatever reason—e.g., “Can you eat this meat?” then you must discern whether to eat it or not.
  - d. In this case, eating the meal, if there is a problem, should be declined. It is not because the eating is idolatrous; it puts the believers in a discredited position before the unbeliever. Perception is key.
  - e. What we have by the unbeliever is perceived syncretism that the believer must avoid. Always avoid seeming syncretistic.

Religion is all around us. Taking communion in a church where it is misrepresented, someone might observe you as trying to cover your bases or trying to fit in. You must stand for the doctrine that you know. If you don't stand up for the doctrine that you know, then your doctrine will be compromised. How easy is it to have a relationship with an unbeliever and you compromise your witness. Right there, you can be discredited. The unbeliever can have all kinds of thoughts when they think that you have compromised something in their eyes.

This could be applied to very neutral issues. Someone might view you very negatively if you don't recycle. When around that person, recycle, if that breaks down that barrier. However, someone else might observe you recycling and think that you believe in global warming and fall for many of the issues of the left. Therefore, the law of expediency could require you to act in either way.

If you decline to participate in an activity that may be misconstrued, do not make an issue of yourself. Politely with tact and class and courtesy and humility, decline. If you have the chance in all of this, explain the principle of your choices. This may open the door to explain the gospel. Always realize that we represent Jesus Christ in this life. If forgoing a pleasant experience in front of unbelievers, is that really that big of a sacrifice? What does it matter in the light of eternity. How far can you go before you have compromised yourself in the eyes of an observing unbeliever?

Summary Points of the Law of Expediency

1. If there is any hint that the law of expediency ought to be applied, then apply it; even if you are unsure as to how they think.
2. Just think with divine viewpoint first; don't think of yourself and your liberties. You don't thumb your nose at them and you do not kowtow to them either. Sometimes this is a narrow walk.
3. Analyze the circumstances and determine how does it affect your witness and testimony before the Lord. There are two problems; first, a compromise of your testimony before the Lord. If you are actually involved in syncretism, then the powerful influence of human viewpoint will negate your spiritual advance. What are you doing and what are the repercussions? You consider this even if the action is a liberty to you. This is why the inculcation of Bible doctrine is so important to you. You need to be able to apply doctrine in complex situations.

We have an ace in the hole, and that ace is the Holy Spirit. He will aid in helping us make these decisions; however, you must have something in your souls to work with. The Holy Spirit works with the doctrine in your soul when you need to apply it. You don't get some great thought or application brought to mind by the Holy Spirit if it is not there to begin with. The Holy Spirit does not tell you things that you do not know, then you are involved in mysticism. How do you know that is the Holy Spirit telling you to do this or that without a frame of reference. The Holy Spirit just told me to go across the street and buy some stuff at the Galleria. The Holy Spirit works in powerful and mysterious ways, but we cannot get stuff from Him subjectively; He brings to our minds spiritual things which we have already learned. It is aggravating to listen to believers call upon the Holy Spirit to do each and everything. Whatever their experience is, they don't really know if it is a valid experience or not. Generally, if they want to do it, they think that it is the Holy Spirit. The Holy Spirit brings to mind what is inculcated in our souls. The immature believers looks for these subjective and meaningless experiences. It makes Bobby uncomfortable when someone claims that there is subjective experience with the Holy Spirit in the most mundane aspects of their lives.

All things are lawful refers to the law of liberty; all those things which fall under the category of things that are lawful to us. Certainly, there are ways in which the Holy Spirit works that we have no idea about; but when we claim to understand this or that thing which is simply experiential, that is simply subjective.

Summary Points

1. Lawful things are not permissible because they are wrong or sinful.
2. Obviously, if something is sinful, it is not permissible.
3. These things spoken of here are not permissible because they are not profitable.
4. It is because they are not profitable to the person who is observing you do this or that thing. We need to know when to use our liberty and when to use expediency.

Not profitable is συμφερω = advantageous, expedient. The law of expediency is set up against the law of liberty. All things are permissible, but not all things are expedient.

1Cor. 10:23 "All things are lawful [or, permissible]," but not all things are profitable [helpful?]. "All things are lawful," but not all things build up.

1Cor. 10:23

Thursday August 2, 2007

Bobby likes his translation for the first half of v. 23, although he did not elaborate on why he made the changes that he did. Bobby changed two words from the NASB. The Greek lexicon is exactly like an English dictionary; and several different words can be used for any given Greek word. It is the judgment of the exegete to determine which choice best fits the context.

Εξεσθι = lawful, permissible. Permissible is probably the better rendering here since we are no longer under the law. Permissible notes something which is allowed; that is the nuance of the word. Lawful emphasizes an established legal precedent. Allowable indicates that there is some possible restrictions involved. Bobby might allow himself to have a piece of apple pie; however, he is resolved to eat but one piece of the pie only. He is at liberty to eat all that he wants, he will personally limit his intake. There are no laws here; we are at liberty to eat, but we limit ourselves here. There may be a reason why it is good not to eat.

The second word change is the present active indicative of ου συμφερω = not advantageous, not always permissible, not always appropriate to the circumstances or to the occasion. It is the same set of circumstances, but it is not expedient for a number of reasons.

Translation

1. The law of liberty is contrasted with the law of expediency.
2. We must decide what is permissible under what circumstances. What is not permissible under the same circumstances.
3. Doctrine in the soul is the key in deciding what is permissible and what is deferred for the circumstances. It is a liberty, so it may be done at another time. That piece of apple pie could be eaten later.

Summary of v. 23a

1. Certain harmless things, like eating meat offered to idols, when done at the wrong time and/or the wrong place could be harmful to the Christian's testimony. Our testimony is one of the reasons that we exist.
2. Not because the eating itself is wrong, but the results of eating could be detrimental to the observers.
3. When observing a legitimate liberty of a believer, the unbeliever or the immature believer might misinterpret the situation as a compromise of Christian principles and we might see you as a hypocrite or as syncretist. It is legitimate to have things and it is legitimate to try to get a promotion; but when those things take precedence over your spiritual life, that can be a problem; and it can be misinterpreted.
4. The door closes to witnessing to that person. The believer has missed the chance to witness to that person. Sometimes, you have to forgo legitimate activity in order to witness to someone else.
5. The activity confuses or misguides a weak believer. They observe this at the wrong time, even if the activity is legitimate.
6. Hence the law of expediency and the law of love always supercede the law of liberty, unless you are in a situation where there is doubt about perceptions. How does the unbeliever perceive what you are doing; how does the weak believer view what is going on?

Now we are at the second phrase: all things are permissible, but not all things edify. Οικοδομew = to edify, to build up, to build as a process, from the ground floor up. Filling of the Holy Spirit, gap, grace orientation, doctrinal orientation, mastery of the details of life, relaxed mental attitude (you do not react to a legalist; and you are not required to bow to legalism), capacity for love (personal love for God and impersonal love for all mankind), sharing the happiness of God. This is the edification complex. This is the priority of your life. It illustrates growing and executing the spiritual life. There is no liberty which overshadows the building of the edification complex structure.

Two Principles

1. When the law of liberty conflicts with the law of expediency, then the latter law takes precedence.
2. When the law of liberty conflicts with our personal spiritual advance, then our edification always supercedes our liberty.. When it is a distraction or takes precedence over the spiritual life.

You can over-expose yourself to human viewpoint influence; or the details of life can squeeze our your spiritual advance. The law of expediency and the law of liberty go right out the window.

1Cor. 10:23 "All things are permissible [or, lawful]," but not all things are advantageous [profitable, helpful?]. "All things are permissible," but not all things build up.

General Introduction

1. The law of liberty operates for our benefit.
2. A liberty which damages others is an abuse of that freedom. Horrible legalism; going overboard.
3. Abusing freedom will not benefit us; liberty is for our benefit; but when liberty is damaging to others, it is not to our benefit.
4. Hence, the proper use of liberty often depends upon its affects on others.
5. It is not about what is good for us and what we can partake of in liberty; it is about God's plan for us. God knows what is best for us. We do not have to press the liberty button all the time; we need to think of expeidecny and love.
6. You must always be aware of what legitimate liberty does to others.
7. Bad decisions in the realm of our liberty can quickly turn to self-centeredness. We take no account of anyone else. That becomes the problem of arrogance. When we make everything about our liberty, that is arrogance.
8. Arrogance and expediency are mutually exclusive. Arrogance can exclude the law of expediency.

This has a wider use in a national sense. This definition can be expanded. That is why freedom must be carefully used. Where freedom is applied, our liberty does not supercede the liberty of everyone else in the nation. When gun control is instituted with the idea that this will reduce crime, the criminal then has the advantage. Instead of giving us more freedom, it limits our freedom and gives freedom to the criminal with a gun. Another illustration: where there is no limit to free speech, then that speech routinely becomes salacious, slanderous, and it destroys the liberty of others. Individually, we ought to police our own free speech, and the rights of others are trampled upon.

In the spiritual life, we can similarly trample others in the exercise of our freedom. We are mandated to think this way; we must be willing to police ourselves, even if it falls within our realm of freedom. Freedom gives us options; and an option can be done or not done.

Whether freedom is a blessing or whether it is misused and can become a detriment to others. When personal restrain is lost, then freedom is lost for all of us.

One of the great examples is the cycles of civilization, like the empire of Rome and the city-state of Athens. In whom do you trust is a booklet which covers this.

Cycles of a Nation

1. The cycles: man begins his existence in bondage (mental or physical);
2. Man cycles from slavery to spiritual faith.
3. From spiritual faith to courage of soul. This world is filled with men under bondage. Western civilization is the cradle of freedom.
4. From courage to physical liberty. Throwing off bondage and entering into physical liberty.
5. From liberty to abundance. Freedom is the environment of great blessing for all. It is amazing that so many bash America, with the great freedoms that we have. We have the greatest economy that this world has ever seen. China has a good economy, but it does not benefit all its citizens. In the US, prosperity trickles down.
6. From abundance to self-centeredness. This begins the abuse of freedom. Thoughtfulness of others and civility are set aside. There is no understanding of true freedom.
7. From selfishness to complacency. Now freedom is in decline. Don't rock the boat, even if some freedom is lost.
8. Complacency leads to apathy, which thinks freedom cannot be lost. The true concept of freedom becomes murky in the minds of the citizenry. Those who have no idea of the concept of freedom, do not understand what losing that heritage would mean. This is where we are in the US today.
9. From apathy to dependency; this is losing the concept of freedom altogether. No longer do we depend upon individual freedom; we depend upon the entitlements and gifts and security of those in power. Whoever offers the most gets the power. Individual freedom is eroded in dependency.
10. From dependency back into bondage. Rulers become tyrants and personal freedoms are set aside.

Bad decisions and the abuse of freedom guarantees that freedom will not continue. We see examples of this every day. It is within our free speech to complain about the war; but a prudent person might limit himself here.

Freedom: Volume 1 (1999): For most of human history, freedom was and remains anything but an obvious goal. Militarism, harmony of heaven and earth, justice, equality, material progress; these might be legitimate, but they are not freedom. Non-western people have thought so little about freedom that some languages did not even have words for freedom until contact with the west. Freedom comes from Christianity. We are a nation founded on Christian principles and upon personal freedom. Liberty must be limited for the sake of all.

One example: the rule of law.

1Cor. 10:24 Let no one seek his own good, but the good of his neighbor.

There has been a confession of sin in every dispensation, but it has been distorted time and time again. It is pure grace and if we distort it, we are distorting grace, which is fundamental to the plan of God.

Mankind's search for freedom, particularly in the history of our own nation, there is a tension which exists. The exercise of personal rights and liberties and the encroachment of these rights and liberties on the rights of others. Individual personal rights can conflict with the overall freedom and security of a national entity. Do we limit our own personal liberty for the benefit of others and to maintain the freedom of others. Are our own personal rights the only things which matter? What are the limits of our liberties? If our liberty infringes on another person, this does not benefit that person or the nation as a whole. Constitutional lawyers deal with this question every day. Someone's rights always end up taking precedence based upon the interpretation of the constitution. The question of free speech. Every American can speak freely when he wants and where he wants. Is there a time when free speech is detrimental to freedom? Of course. The NY Times when they printed information about our methods of detecting and dealing with terrorists. What about when our free speech borders on sedition? What about the revealing of information pertinent to national security? How far can the press go? When does it go over to giving aid and comfort to the enemy. We must consider the effect of our unfettered, free speech; and what should we say, even when it does not violate the letter of the law. This restraint of information was practiced in World War II; there were conscious decisions to limit their own free speech and their own freedom of the press. Maintaining this freedom is based upon what choices we actually make and these choices will define the course of our freedom. Our nation was founded on the rule of law, but it is unique in western civilization. Those with power cannot take action against individuals without a clear indication of a violation of law and not without due process. Irresponsible self-centeredness engenders a loss of freedom.

Those in the military limit their own freedoms for the good of others; an individual soldier limits his own freedom in order to defend the freedom of his own country. This is a unique understanding of the military. Elsewhere, the military is used for conquest and to maintain the power of a few. Limiting freedoms in a free society is similar to the personal limitation of our freedom in the Christian life.

1Cor. 10:23 "All things are permissible [or, lawful]," but not all things are advantageous [profitable, helpful?]. "All things are permissible," but not all things build up.

Individual freedom versus the freedom of others. A believer must choose the proper course in relationships and circumstances of life; and these choices require wisdom to make such choices. A believer must be able to discern his impact upon others. He must be able to determine where his liberty infringes on the liberty of others. The believer must have some humility from grace and doctrinal orientation. When nothing is more important than our own liberty, that is self-centeredness and arrogance. It takes a relaxed mental attitude to voluntarily give up legitimate freedom in this or that case. There must be impersonal love toward people to make these types of decisions. Impersonal love is critical to overcome the self-centeredness and arrogance. To the arrogant, the only thing which matters is your own liberty.

Edification is always necessary in order to make wise decisions to benefit others. You can never have legitimate humility or that relaxed mental attitude or mastery of the details of life or the happiness which is necessary in order to make decisions which are adverse to your own liberty. Edification is always necessary. Limiting your own freedom is the law of expediency. Let no one seek his own good but that of his neighbor. There is a matter of balance here, and many ascetic lives have begun with this verse. I must always think of others and I must always shuffle and keep myself in the dirt. But this is not the point of the passage. There are countless times when we have the liberty to do things which have no effect on anyone else. There is no Biblical prohibition against the exercise of such liberty. When your personal freedom, drive for achievement, etc. conflict with the good of others is when your liberty needs to be self-curtailed. My goals are more important than anyone else's goals. However, our goals are less important to the goals of the spiritual life, which includes growth, witnessing to the unbeliever, and not being a stumbling block to the weak believer. Apply expediency to people and circumstances; this is a necessary skill in the spiritual life.

Altruism is too often superceded by arrogance and self-centeredness. As you grow, you are more able to think of the needs of others. If you are not aware of your responsibility to others, then you obviously will never apply this. There needs to be a balance between our liberty and the unbeliever and weak believers that we come into contact with. We must develop the edification complex within the right lobe of our soul. This is a reference to the believer seeking the good of the unbeliever. Later, it will be the good of the weak believer. We should seek the highest and best good for the unbeliever. This is giving him the gospel. It is not giving him a job, pulling him out of poverty, etc. We are only alive for a few years and then we are in eternity. The circumstances of the unbeliever in this life are not the most important part of the gospel. The deeds they observe and the words of our mouth impact them; and sometimes we cut back on our liberty in order to deal with the unbeliever.

Satan is out recruiting for his evil world—this is why he attacked Adam and Eve. We also recruit, but for God, and this is a part of the angelic conflict. Parallel recruitments.

What Paul said in v. 19 he picks up now in v. 25. Μακελλον = meat market. This is an interesting word. This word occurs only here in the Bible; a hopoxlegomena. It is also very rare in classical Greek literature and history. It appears on a building inscription about 400 B.C. and it also has a Latin equivalent, marcellum [pronounced mahr-KEL-lum]. This word is found much more often. It is found in a number of ancient places. In the Greek, it is an obscure word today, although it was used fairly often in the ancient world. It is the meat market of the supermarket of the ancient world. Archeologists excavated a commercial building on a paved dirt road. This road that they uncovered was leading north out of Corinth toward Lycium (?). We have on this building the inscription μακελλον.

Pompey is one of the best examples of Roman art and architecture, as they were preserved, people and buildings perhaps from a volcano? Rectangular building with a central stone courtyard where people gathered. It was surrounded by small shops. Columned court and a public fountain in the middle. Over the fountain a domed shaped roof supported by columns. Booths on both sides and porotcos (porches) on both sides (a porch supported by columns). There was a cult area, which was a state sponsored place where there were statues of the gods and there was a room for sacrificial meals. Connected with this was a cultic area, but not a temple. Bobby's point is, there is a market, and connected to it a cultic area, where worship could occur, outside of a formal temple area. There was a connection between the two. Marble slab and μαρκλλον was inscribed on it. This building in Corinth could even be the very market that Paul was speaking about. This is where he got the word from, from the front of this market place. Paul simply took that form and used it in this text. Everyone who received this epistle understood what Paul was referring to. This is the illustration which he makes and it is related to the extent of our liberty and how we must limit it.

1Cor. 10:25 Eat whatever is sold in the meat market without raising any question on the ground of conscience.

1Cor. 10:23–25

Sunday 2 August 5, 2007

Every time a believer entered into this market and went from booth to booth and purchased meat scarficed to idols, this demonstrated the law of liberty. At the same time, it is a demonstration of the law of expediency. It all takes place in this one building, the perfect illustration for the Corinthians for the law of liberty and the law of expediency. The law of expediency did not matter to most of them. They understood that meat offered to idols was sold at the μαρκελλον.

1Cor. 10:23 "All things are permissible [or, lawful]," but not all things are advantageous [profitable, helpful?]. "All things are permissible," but not all things build up.

I want all of you Corinthians to think of your neighbors, believers and unbelievers, and think of their best interests, all of those who wandered into the μαρκελλον.

1Cor. 10:24 Let no one seek his own good, but the good of his neighbor.

The meat there had to be sold quickly, sold that day; and some is sold today in the middle east in the same way. They had a lot of bugs there as well. The meat market was always in proximity to a cultic area. You can always go to a cultic area and find a way to make money. This is probably true of churches today as well. Where there is the most religion, the law of liberty and the law of expediency are most often applied. Most of the meat had come directly from the gods, so to speak.

The believer did not need to inquire about where the meat came from. The believer did not need to ask the butcher, was that meat offered to idols? The butcher would have answered, "Of course it came from the cultic area next door." The meat itself was not tainted by the sacrifices. It was not contaminated by religion or by the sacrifice itself.

The verb to eat is the present active imperative of εσθεω, which is often taken as an imperative of command; but this is an imperative of permission. There is a command to be in compliance with an expressed desire. It implies consent by the Corinthians. They must consent to this and that is okay. "Eat" if you so desire, is the gist of this. Paul is emphatically giving them permission to eat meat offered to idols. "You believers are allowed to eat of this meat; do you understand, eat it!" Paul sets up this whole aspect as an absolute fact; that is their liberty. This is why they do not need to ask questions for their conscience sake. There are no negative connotations in eating this meat; there are no repercussions here. What about others? If there are no repercussions here for others, then we are at liberty to eat. Paul has set up the norms and standards and priorities. He has set standards in his imperative of his words. Our conscience should be the flow of doctrine through our stream of consciousness. This is the development of norms and standards in our consciousness.

An interesting topic at an editorial session...should this be called operation Z? All this was, was a delineation of the communication of doctrine to us. The pastor-teacher teaches our human spirit. It begins as academic knowledge from the right lobe of the soul. The stream of consciousness moves around the right lobe of the soul. Once this ἐπίγνωσις reaches the stream of consciousness, which first comes to the frame of reference, and the second part is the memory center, which is the storage area. This is the initial staging area for doctrine. It is stored in the memory center and from there it flows to the vocabulary storage, which allows us to think divine viewpoint with a vocabulary. We cannot process thought without a vocabulary. The same is true in the realm of Bible doctrine and theology. When we can put the terminology with concepts, we can develop the ability to think with divine viewpoint. In physics, there are words we must learn in order to grasp the science. Our knowledge is heightened with our vocabulary. Mass, gravity, acceleration all are technical words which require some understanding in order for you to move forward. You begin to bring together concepts, and they are accumulated and they are mentally organized. From this circulating ἐπίγνωσις, we have a conscience, norms and standards, which are created by the flow of doctrine through the previous divine viewpoint. We think with divine viewpoint. At the end of the stream of consciousness, we have wisdom. Wisdom is the application of divine viewpoint to experience and the utilization of the problem solving devices. All ten of the problem solving devices are developed through wisdom, which is the movement of doctrine through your soul. Your conscience is developed where you know these norms and standards, and that is our right lobe. We all have the capability to build this soul. This is an illustration what the Lord has provided for us. Wisdom is the application based upon the norms and standards being built up in our soul. Taking every thought captive to the obedience of Christ. This taking in of doctrine is how this all occurs. When human viewpoint enters, then your conscience operates on relative standards and they bend and they become situational ethics, which is not divine viewpoint. The conscience of the Corinthians developed some new norms and standards based upon this illustration which Paul gives us, about something as inane as going to the meat market and buying a few steaks. These are developed for conscience's sake. Their conscience says, "I can eat. I don't need to ask where the meat came from. That is not an issue to me." Their norms and standards are not legalistic; they are grounded in doctrine. They now know the application of doctrine at this point. In legalistic terms, they might think that, if there is the possibility that this meat is contaminated by idols, then we should not eat it. There is no testimony in legalism. Doctrinal norms and standards know better than to operate as a legalist. When this is clear in our conscious, you never have to operate in legalism. All things are permissible, but all things are not always permissible. It is the grace of God which provides this food for us. We are free to eat it. We are free from the dietary laws of the Old Testament. There were limitations in the Old Testament for reasons that we will examine after awhile. This law of liberty becomes the means of focusing attention. There is no prohibition on eating this meat. The viewpoint is not on the Old Testament prohibition; the view is logistical grace and God's grace in providing all of this. This is a witnessing tool of the graciousness of the Lord Who provides for all of our sustenance. There has never been so much food in the world as in our supermarkets and God has provided every bit of this food for us. The supermarkets we enter is a picture of God's grace.

Legalism, I've got to do something in order for God to recognize me, in order for God to save me. Where does it end? How far do you have to go? When have you done enough? This is being enmeshed in religion. Christianity is a great breath of fresh air. Eat meat sacrificed to idols. Look at the liberties of grace. The Jews of that time were really steeped in the legalism of their time. They cannot go into the μάρκελλον and buy what they want. They were ensnared in meaningless rituals and do-good-ism. They have no freedom. The believer is not self righteous. Do we have an attitude of legalism: am I being self righteous in this situation? Sin is never condoned; but on the legalistic side, we are free of the legalistic impositions of religion. Morality does not gain the favor of God. Morality is the result of divine norms and standards in our souls. Slavery to the relative whims of mankind as opposed to the clarity of Bible doctrine.

Another question that Paul deals with concerning the weak believer. We have dealt with the unbeliever. What must we do? How do we deal with the grace of God and the immature believer? What about those who have legalism in their souls? Does our liberty run afoul with their human viewpoint and what do we owe these types of believers? What about that other believer, the legalistic so-and-so. What do we owe those who want to force their legalistic standards upon us? What is our obligation here, to the positive but immature believer who does not know anything? Do we invoke the law of liberty or do we invoke expediency?

1Cor. 10:25 Eat whatever is sold in the meat market without raising any question on the ground of conscience.

1Cor. 10:

Wednesday August 8, 2007

Cancer's Unexpected Blessings from Christianity Today. This article will give an example of living life in the light of eternity. An article about Tony Snow. Christianity Today asked him if there were any lessons that he learned. Odd position of coping with our mortality.

Should not spend much time examining the why me questions. They express more our own anguish than any search for an answer. We are fallen, we are imperfect, our bodies give out. God offers the possibility of salvation and grace. We don't know how our lives will end, but we know how to deal with the time in between. We were born into life and that the journey continues after we end our days here on earth. We can open our eyes; God relishes surprises. We want to see an even trail as far as the eye can see, but God takes us off road. By His love and grace, we persevere. God tells us, our quandary has drawn us closer to Him and closer to those we live. There is also a shudder of excitement. The moment we enter the valley of the shadow of death, things change. Faith draws us into a world shorn with faithful caution. Think of Paul traipsing through the world and thinking about trips throughout. It is through selflessness and service that we can do the most that we can do. We can let love change everything. Jesus cried for Jerusalem before entering into the Holy City; and He asked for our forgiveness before going to the cross. What is man that You are mindful of Him. No matter where we are and no matter what we do, each of us lies in the hollow of God's hand.

1Corinthians is a great book of application of doctrine. We appreciate all the application which is being made in 1Corinthians, as per emails Bobby has gotten. Without the doctrine in our soul, all application is relative.

Some might say, we don't need doctrine; we need to serve Him, we need to apply what we know; we need to get out and work for the Lord. It is all about motivation. Our motivation had better be all about grace orientation when serving the Lord. We cannot be oriented to the plan of God without knowing doctrine. Apart from doctrine, we are just trying to curry the favor of God by being good and active in Christian service. Don't ever think that service precedes doctrine.

Without doctrine, we cannot get our motivation right, and we serve with arrogance. It is possible to learn doctrine from applications. Paul never leaves out the principles of the mystery doctrine.

Μακλλον is important here. These examples cement in our mind divine viewpoint. Paul was thinking of millions of Christians for future generations. The Scripture is always relevant to our lives. Without asking questions for conscience sake, eat anything from the μακελλον. This meat which was offered in the meat market had direct contact with the demonic. It was sacrificed to demons, and it had been a vehicle for fellowshiping with demons. Hmm, maybe I should not eat it? Should a believer have anything to do with anything that comes out of a heathen temple? The answer here is crucial. The problem is, this meat offered to idols is tailor-made for legalism. Or, it is tailor made for giving justification to the antinomian crowd who want to be wild and crazy in the temple of Aphrodite.

Should it be liberty or expediency? The key to liberty is revealed to be the understanding of the unbeliever and the weak believer.

What is being illustrated?

1. Every believer has certain liberties afforded to us by being believers in Jesus Christ and we all have the same liberties.
2. Every believer, particularly the maturing believer, has the obligation to consider the results of exercising his liberty under certain conditions. This is the law of expediency and the law of love.

V. 25–26 liberty is defined. No meat is tainted, even if it was offered up to some demon. It is nothing. Maybe the same is applicable to meat produced here under inhumane conditions? If you don't think this is a liberty, now we ought to regard it as a liberty. Doctrinal norms and standards in the conscience can distinguish liberty from antinomianism. It is easy to cross the line from one to the other. Doctrinal norms and standards in the soul distinguishes between these two and guards against legalism. For the correct balance between the two, the limits must be clearly understood. We must understand the limitations to liberty.

It is now a matter of logistical grace and not where the meat came from. Liberty under these conditions, when it reflects grace, it becomes a witnessing tool to the unbeliever. Grace provides the entree to the mature believer.

What about the weak believer whose conscience is weak, who would be limited by this situation. Chapter 10 allows Paul to enlighten everyone about this. "There is no reason for any of you to have any doubt with respect to eating meat here." You now have doctrine; so what will you do with it? How will you apply it? There is no such thing as sitting on your hands and taking in doctrine. If you are alive, you are not sitting on your hands. Every day, God will bring something into our lives in order to apply doctrine.

Legalism. This is rather foreign to Bobby, but it is all over. It is syncretistic to eat some meat from sacrifices under certain conditions. The strong and the weak can eat without an qualms of conscience. They don't have to go to legalism. The people in Corinth were trying to superimpose the religion of morality; and when that takes over, liberty is gone. Legalism removes liberty. Legalistic tyrants cannot wait to tell you what you can and cannot do.

Psalms 24:1 gives us the basis for the quote of this next verse. It is quoted to substantiate the law of liberty. It is interesting that this verse is used, as there were dietary regulations during the Old Testament times, and Paul takes a quotation from the Old Testament and uses it to repudiate any rules about eating certain types of foods.

It is amazing to dig back into the past, and Paul uses the Old Testament to show us what he means by liberty in the New Testament.

Why Does the Mosaic Law Contain Dietary Laws?

1. Simply put, no other people on earth had such laws of diet. That in itself makes it unique.
2. The dietary laws were one of many illustrations in the Old Testament that Israel was set apart from other nations and peoples, completely set apart from other nations and peoples with a unique, theocratic government. These dietary laws were a part of this and unique to the Jew.
3. Israel was sanctified and dedicated to God's purposes in history as the first client nation.
4. These laws and their prohibitions about eating and about sacrificing certain animals, Israel would be viewed by the surrounding peoples as distinct. They were God's chosen people and everyone needed to see that.
5. Therefore, certain animals were considered unclean in Israel in order to demonstrate God's special attention to Israel and their distinction from the heathen nations. The unclean animals were a comparison, so that other nations would take notice.
6. God protected even the health of these people with dietary restrictions.
7. This was the age of national Israel, carrying out the plan of God in history and there was a special consideration for those who served God. We are just as much God's people as they were.
8. Being set apart included the prohibition of certain unclean animals like pigs and certain kinds of birds (Deut. 14). Why? They could not eat in order to be distinct.

Why Could they Not Eat Certain Animals?

1. Some of these animals were used in heathen cultic practices.
2. A distinction needed to be made between the sacrifice to God and the sacrifice to other gods. Only certain clean, spotless animals could be.
3. Prohibiting specific animals makes clear that God was very particular as to how people approached Him. You could not just throw any animal on the altar.
4. They could approach God only in His way and not in their own way.
5. Only the sacrifices that He designated were acceptable. Someone could not just make up their own sacrifice and throw it onto the altar.
6. Only the food that He designated for their consumption was acceptable.
7. Here's the picture: God provided salvation in a particular way illustrated to Israel and the surrounding peoples by the sacrifice of the spotless animal. Unclean animals were unacceptable. Only the perfect lamb of God was an acceptable sacrifice for God. These dietary regularizes represented the picture of clean and unclean animals acceptable and not acceptable to God.
8. So the designation unclean animals were chosen to represent God's message through Israel directed toward the surrounding peoples and nations.
9. That message was the special relationship of the nation of Israel with Y<sup>e</sup>howah.
10. The dietary laws were just one example of how God took special care of His people.

11. Therefore, even His dietary laws demonstrate His grace, even though these laws seem opposed and antithetical to grace.

1Cor. 10:26 For "the earth is the Lord's, and the fullness thereof."

1Cor. 10:26 Psalm 24:1

Thursday August 9, 2007

We could spend days on this passage. There are all sorts of applications. The importance of this verse is so far reaching so as to affect just about everything, including our perceptions of the world in which we live. This includes scientific endeavors like global warming and evolution. The earth is God's domain; He runs it. We can certainly do damage to His property, since we are fallen mankind and we are barred from the garden of Eden. The earth in its fallen state is not man's to save or to destroy. We are constantly hearing that we can destroy the earth and now it is up to certain individuals to save it. The earth is God's to preserve. No man knows when the rapture of the church will occur, and then the Age of Israel is continued. The earth will be destroyed at some time in the future, at the end of the Millennium, but that will be God's doing.

We are dust in comparison to Him. This one statement shows us just how marvelous and how far-reaching is His sovereignty. We worship Him because of Who He is and we are nothing in comparison to Him. He is our Savior and He carried out creation.

As a stand-alone statement, apart from a context, this is a principle of unlimited divine dominion. However, all statements of Scripture have a context, and this belongs in one rationale of doctrine, which is eating meat offered up to idols. This ought to tell us that this is not such a silly, vacuous statement that Paul is making. All of the meat being offered to idols is a part of this earth which the Lord owns.

Psalm 24:1–2: The earth is the LORD's and the fullness thereof, the world and those who dwell therein, for he has founded it upon the seas and established it upon the rivers. V. 26 is directed specifically to the Corinthian believers and, therefore, to all Church Age believers. This is actually a prophetic psalm which looks forward to when the Lord would enter into Jerusalem, and it was probably chanted by a priest as the Lord entered into Jerusalem. The sovereignty and the glory of God as the sustainer of the universe. God's power and sustenance is extended to all.

This provides comfort to believers who understand that God provides logistical grace for them. The eating of meat, even the stuff offered to idols, and part of the table of demons, is still something which God has made. This is a beautiful example of cursing turned to blessing. The liberty announced by Paul in vv. 25–26 is in sharp contrast to the Old Testament dietary laws, as are found in Deut. 14:1–29. These are laws of exactly what Israel could eat and could not eat. They all belong to God. God limited their use and declared them unclean in Deut. 14, even though they are all from His hand (Psalm 24:1). Why is there this disconnect between the dietary laws of the Old Testament and this freedom which Paul offers, where we can eat everything which is edible. This Psalm quotation bridges a gap between the dispensations; between a lack of liberty and liberty of the Church Age. There is always a limitation when it comes to freedom.

The Purpose of the Dietary Law of the Old Testament

1. The dietary law was one way that God set Israel apart from surrounding peoples.
2. Certain animals were considered to be unclean to demonstrate God's special attention to Israel, distinguishing them from the surrounding heathen nations.
3. Related to God's purpose in history. These dietary laws were much more than a healthful consideration.
4. The special consideration to see God's favor bestowed on Israel and to see the means of salvation. The dietary law was one of God's evangelical tools. The pharisees mistakenly tried to keep the law for salvation.
5. Also, unclean animals could not be sacrificed on the altar to the Lord.
6. Because some of these animals called unclean by God were used in heathen practices and sacrifices. No doubt, the heathen used these other animals as well.
7. What were the distinctions in these animals?
  - a. Prohibiting certain animals meant that there was a particular way to approach Him.
  - b. In these unclean animals, God reveals how short of His righteousness that an unclean sacrifice falls. This demonstrates the perfect righteousness of God. Man needs a Savior, a perfect, spotless, clean Lamb of God.
8. The clean animals represented God's message.
  - a. A special relationship between Israel and God.
  - b. The sacrifice of the clean, spotless animal.
  - c. This foreshadows the death of the clean, spotless Lamb, the Lord Jesus Christ. We cannot sacrifice ourselves for our salvation.

What does all this have to do with the liberty of the Corinthians as well as our liberty and responsibility to other people. Paul is obviously addressing the church and not Israel in his epistles. Ours is a unique dispensation with the filling of the Holy Spirit and the pioneering of the unique spiritual life. The unique witness of client nation Israel is over. The reason for the dietary law is no longer extant, as the nation Israel is no longer God's instrument.

Christ is the end of the Law, so He is also the end of the dietary regulations. What a perfect way for the Apostle Paul to reveal the difference between Israel and the Church. This could be a referenced to the Israeli faction of the Corinthian church. Nothing can be designated by man as unclean; only God can so designate this or that as unclean. God can do this; we cannot.

This is not about how dirty the animals are; this is not the deal that we apply to pigs because they roll around in the dirt. The unclean illustrates a human issue. An animal does not sin before God. We are sinners; we are unclean. The unclean animals represent us. The unclean animal represents the unclean human race. It is possibly that this distinguished Jews from Gentiles.

V. 26 is a rationale for liberty. Whatever God has filled the earth is of benefit to mankind. God designated these animals as unclean for specific reasons. However, for the church, nothing is unclean. These old messages are no longer pertinent.

Gen. 9:3: Every moving thing that is alive is allowed for food to you. I gave all to you as I gave the green plant. Psalm 50:10–11: Every beast is mind, and the cattle on a thousand hills. Previously unclean; but no longer. Eat it with gusto; enjoy it. This is a rationale for the liberty of the church. All animals are creatures of God, so they are not unclean nor are they inedible.

Bobby's Old Testament profession kept to the dietary laws and was, of course, mixed up about dispensations. The dietary laws are not just about health; the unclean animal is from Israel. The unclean animal list is not to denigrate God's creation. We are free to eat whatever we want or free not to. So, you can't argue with someone who eats according to the Law. All of these animals are supplied to us as logistical grace. Even the animals who are off limits to Israel. Did the heathen nations around Israel also have dietary regulations? No! This was God's all-encompassing design.

Dispensational Aspect

1. Only God can adapt His design for His own purposes, as He did for Israel.
2. God did not change His design; we use the word adapt.
3. God does not alter His decree; once it is in place, it cannot change. God's character does not change.
4. God reveals His plan differently in various dispensations.
5. Only God can decide how His plan is presented.
6. But even though God made that decision, that does not mean that they were not all His creatures, and this does not prevent them from being eaten under God's permissive will.
7. It is now permissible to eat all animals which were previously unclean. This is about how God reveals His plan in the dispensation of the church.
8. God's plan involves different illustrations in different dispensations, but always for the same immutable purpose.

Immutable Purpose

1. To reveal God's unchangeable purpose.
- 2.
3. To reveal the unshakable eternal option given to all mankind.
4. To reveal the spiritual life that He has designed and bestowed for believers. It all reveals His immutable purpose for a certain age in history.

Part of the distinction between the church and Israel is revealed here. The Jews did not know that the dietary laws were removed. Israel did not have the liberty to eat meat offered to animals. There is an important contrast here. The difference between liberty and the Mosaic Law. What we have is so much greater. What Paul is doing is defining the further advancing through this revelation. We have a unique aspect in this dispensation. These previously unclean animals still came from the hand of God. All previous unclean animals are now eligible to be eaten, including food offered to idols. God showed Israel that they were a special people by giving them dietary regulations; and He shows us that we are a special people, as we are given liberty in this realm.

To dig into the Scriptures is one of the great pleasures of life, and it is infinitely deep in its meaning and exegesis. It goes all the way to our souls, as nothing else can. Therefore, in this distinction, the law of liberty is being commended to these believers. These are no longer the standards for the Church Age. We look back at the sacrifices of Christ, and not forward as did Israel and their ritual sacrifices on the altar. Such sacrifices are no longer necessary. Therefore, distinguishing between clean and unclean animals is no longer an issue.

Can you imagine what the Jews thought? We can eat bacon? Damn! Even though certain animals were being offered on heathen altars in Corinth, they are no longer deemed unclean. However, this liberty still has limitations. We are not free to do whatever we want. We are not free to abuse liberty. We must personally decide to limit freedom so that we don't destroy our freedom. These limitations, as are necessary, for our function in the plan of God.

As Bobby studied v. 26; this is God's logistical grace, and this is what God has given to all of us. For the earth is the Lord and all it contains, so thank you for this food, from Your great benevolence and abundance; in Jesus' name, Amen. This is a good dispensation meal prayer.

Everything created by God is good, and nothing is to be rejected, if it is received with gratitude. From Timothy.

1Cor. 10:26 For "the earth is the Lord's, and the fullness thereof."

1Cor. 10:26–27

Sunday 1 August 12, 2007

In Christ, we all have liberty. At first blush, the example here seems unimportant—eating whatever meat that we want. For the earth is the Lord's and all that it contains.

There is no problem with eating meat which has been offered up to idols. These two verses declare our liberty during the time in which we live. Under the dietary laws, Israel could not eat anything which had been sacrificed to idols, and that set them apart from the rest of the heathen world. This freedom means little to us, but it means a great deal to us. There is a time when liberty become license, and not because the liberty is wrong; but the liberty becomes wrong for reasons other than the act itself.

We are never going to face eating meat offered up to idols, so why spend any time here at all? Why not give this a quick passing nod, and just go on. However, this is the Word of God, and it is not just addressed to the Corinthians of 62 A.D., but it has great meaning for us in our lives and our times. This reveals an all-encompassing doctrine which is pertinent to our times. The real issue here is one of syncretism. Actually, it is the perception of syncretism, rather than the actual act of syncretism. Our actions may or may not be a liberty, but those who are observing us do not perceive it as a liberty. Can a liberty become illegitimate if it is perceived to be wrong? What is that application to us as believers in the 21st century. The answer to these questions from some is, my liberty is unassailable regardless of the perceptions of others. This is a person who views liberty as the highest notion or the highest aspect of Christianity. However, it is not the greatest good. 1Cor. 8:8–9: Food does not commend us to God; we are not the worse for eating or the better for not eating. But, take care, so that this liberty of our does not become a stumbling block to the weak. Where is the line drawn between participating in a legitimate liberty and when can it be safely expressed? What is the danger to others? The danger is not to oneself, as we are speaking of legitimate liberties. The danger is to others, who might have their progress impeded or your actions might affect your testimony to some unbeliever. Anything which is not sin, we are at liberty to do, except for what we find in v. 27.

1Cor. 10:26 For "the earth is the Lord's, and the fullness thereof."

The example is much greater than a dinner party which includes believers. This is a perfect social example between the believer and unbeliever. We are also at liberty to eat the meat sacrificed to idols. Do I eat meat offered to idols? Do I buy meat which was offered previously to idols.

The example given in v. 27 is a private dinner party. We are not to eat in the temple of some heathen god, where the meal is a part of the celebration of the heathen god. That is syncretism. However, we can buy this same meat at the market next door. We do not have to ask the butcher, "Is this meat kosher? Has it been offered to idols?"

Let's say we are at a private dinner party, and there is meat there offered that was originally offered up to some heathen god? When not being consumed at the ritual of idolatry, the meat is not tainted. Even meat eaten at these feasts is not tainted per se; it is the feasts themselves which were prohibited. The same thing applies to any private table.

1Cor. 10:27 If one of the unbelievers invites you to dinner and you are disposed to go, eat whatever is set before you without raising any question on the ground of conscience.

1Cor. 10:27

Sunday 2 August 12, 2007

There is no difference between this dinner party of believers and unbelievers; believers can eat whatever is set before them. They do not need to ask questions about the origin of the meat. The Corinthians had the liberty to limit what they eat as well. It wasn't because they thought they should trim up or slim down.

Paul, in v. 27, makes liberty clear. The if introduces a 1st class condition; Paul is assuming the reality of unbelievers inviting believers to dinner at their house. This is not a fictitious scenario, as a 3rd or 4th class condition might indicate. So, there are continued contacts between believers and unbelievers. They are maintaining some social life. The unbeliever figures, these people have gone into some religion call Christianity, so that should not be a big deal. In most cases, they do not have to be separated. At least some of these believers would like to go to dinner with their old unbelieving friends, as they enjoyed their company before, and they still enjoy this company. Paul is not denying these believers contact with their old unbelieving friends. We are not required to separate from unbelievers. He is not recommending it either. It is a liberty which he leaves up to believing Corinthians. It is not Paul's purpose to regulate the social life of these believers. They can make their own decisions as to whom they associate with. They have the liberty to associate with anyone, just as long as human viewpoint is not a distraction to their spiritual life. Paul is not keeping track of their soirees, but he is giving some guiding points. We are never at liberty to become involved in syncretism. The believer must never forget to whom he owes allegiance. The believer is no longer free to feast in the temple, nor is he free to give the impression of syncretism. This is a tough line to draw sometimes. We must examine our own spiritual lives and the influence that they have on us and the affect we have on them.

The Word of God makes things simple; it tells us what we do and when we do it and the criteria for determining our actions. Fellowship with unbelievers should not get to the point of syncretism; furthermore, believers do not have the liberty to marry unbelievers. Paul is concerned with the maintenance of a believer's testimony with the Lord. The perception of syncretism is as important as actual syncretism. Liberty's limits are defined.

We love application and we are here for application, so give me some application. However, the doctrine comes first. But, Bobby does not want us to get bogged down in all the culinary hair-splitting. The effect that it has on us and how does our association with them affect them. We are obviously not prohibited from social contact. However, bear in mind that the unbeliever is not like-minded. He is incapable of understanding the very basis of our existence. He can never understand where we are coming from. Even if these unbelievers have divine establishment values, they do not have divine viewpoint. We must always keep in mind what sort of testimony are we conveying to them. We must have the desire to see them go to heaven, especially if they are our friends. They know we are Christians.

There is always that in-built danger of syncretism when we deal with unbelievers. All cosmic system thinking comes in two packages: the religion of morality (the legalist, which is diametrically opposed to the grace of God); the second package is the hell-raisers, who appeal to the antinomian types. Associating with unbelievers always carries these two temptations/draws. These things can be very attractive, especially if we are out of fellowship. However, we are not denied contact or a relationship to a certain point. If we were denied, how could we ever witness to an unbeliever? We must always be careful as to how we enter into these relationships.

Points to Keep in Mind

1. Know and understand legalism. Denigrating their lifestyle will not lead them to Jesus Christ. Legalism is manipulative. It attempts to impose outward change, which is not Christianity. It is the attempt to put clothes on the native syndrome. Legalism will never be an effective way to evangelize. Self righteousness is never the correct application of the law of expediency. We must be aware of self righteousness and we must be aware of legalism.
2. We are never justified in getting involved in moral degeneracy. That is, we cannot show the unbeliever, "Look at what I can do." Some date unbelievers to witness to them, and that can lead to all kinds of problems. That is just as destructive as legalism is. Unbelievers are often most concerned about what they might have to give up. "I liked going to Berachah okay, but I don't know if I want to get into it further because then I might have to go to church every night." That is a valid objection in the mind of the believer or unbeliever; but it can be overcome.

What do you do to be a witness which is not legalistic or syncretistic? You have to maintain an impersonal love regardless of what the unbeliever is up to. You don't participate in their frantic search for happiness, and you don't turn your nose up either. Self righteousness is not the proper approach to their frantic search for happiness. The key is a relaxed mental attitude; the key is impersonal love toward all other people. If their lifestyle is very tempting, and that is the trend of your old sin nature, your relaxed mental attitude and remaining in fellowship is the key. One shows the difference; the other is syncretistic. The legalist must manipulate others to his way of thinking; and there are always things which don't fit into his box. The antinomian is also problematic, because he is always involved in a frantic search for happiness. He is focused on self-gratification. A relaxed mental attitude differentiates between all of this. You are not a legalist nor are you an antinomian. Our relaxed mental attitude from a mature believer is a wonderful thing to see and to be involved with. It is magnetic. A relaxed mental attitude is a part of sharing the happiness of God, and that is unique. This is a part of our advance to spiritual maturity. That is the manifestation of positive volition. People observe that we are not involved in a frantic search for happiness and yet we are relaxed and content. They wonder, how does that happen.

It is gaining a spiritual life and not what you give up which is the issue. This is the attitude of the believer in the law of expediency. Expediency works in focus; our primary mission or primary reason for association with unbelievers, is to witness without legalistic strings and without false antinomian incentives. There is a middle ground, which includes a relaxed mental attitude, occupation with Christ, impersonal love, a mental attitude which is occupation with Christ, and sharing the happiness of God. If this is not part of our repertoire, how do we share our spiritual gain, if no one can see it?

What is the Opposite of the Law of Expediency?

1. If we get deeply and emotionally involved with the unbeliever and influenced by human viewpoint, then that is compromise.

2. When you allow fellowship with your unbelieving friends to override your obligation to the Lord, you are compromised.
3. When you attempt to present the gospel to them when operating in their human viewpoint realm, we are out of synch, compromised, and involved in syncretism.
4. When we think human viewpoint, our thinking is not different from theirs. At least, that is how they will perceive it.
5. Under any of these conditions, they are much less likely to listen to the gospel. They see no difference between ourselves and the them.
6. Why do they need Christ when they perceive no difference between they and you. You have not applied the law of expediency in the light of the gospel.
7. Expediency is not compromising with human viewpoint ever. Expediency maintains divine viewpoint without making an issue of your liberty. Expediency is appropriateness to the conditions and not giving in to them. We think with divine viewpoint and not with human viewpoint.

No doubt, we can look back and recognize that we have compromised our testimony in front of unbelievers. The more we advance spiritually and the more we can think with the mind of Christ, the more we can think in terms of our mission. The effective witness is the person who has advanced spiritually.

1Cor. 10:27 If one of the unbelievers invites you to dinner and you are disposed to go, eat whatever is set before you without raising any question on the ground of conscience.

1Cor. 10:27

Wednesday August 15, 2007

A shift in the narrative here. Liberty is reiterated in the passage that we are looking at, but this is an introduction to the primary focus of this paragraph. The whole point is to distinguish liberty from the laws of expediency and love. Where liberty must be set aside for the good of others.

This applications can apply to marital relations, for your function on the job, for your interaction with others, or in politics. There are things which we have the liberty to do which, if we do them, can end up causing all kinds of problems.

Most of us have attended a dinner party, which makes this applicable directly to us. If you are enjoying social life with unbelievers, then you eat what is placed before you. Θελω = to wish, to desire. Paul is simply giving the option of attending such an invitation. He is not approving it nor is he speaking against it. This is not Paul's duty to regulate our social lives. Now, there are legalists who want to continually regulate our social lives. Some would never want us to spend any time with unbelievers. A person's social life is between himself and God; it does not involve Paul or the church. Our witnessing requires some sort of involvement with unbelievers. There is reason to be careful of being too closely involved; and we cannot be involved in syncretism. Our primary mission is witnessing; we cannot allow our lives to compromise this. When we try to present the gospel to them in these conditions, we are in syncretism and our message is compromised. In that case, our thinking is not different from theirs. They are less likely under these conditions to listen to the gospel given by us, if they see no difference between themselves and you. Why do they need Christ, if there is nothing to recommend Jesus Christ? Our actions and their perceptions of our actions affect how open they are going to be. For most of society, that is succumbing to being judged. If you are too concerned about that, you are being hypersensitive or maybe you have something to hide. When perceptions are concerned, we must be sensitive to that. What kind of social life do you have with someone who cannot appreciate your thinking, your core. Great social life is with people of like mind. You must be careful of too much intimacy and friendship; the place where you can witness. You can have a great social life, but be careful of where it goes with the unbeliever. Expediency defers to divine viewpoint. It aides us in maintain divine viewpoint and deterring compromise. Expediency is appropriateness; we show wisdom in social intercourse. It is not giving into inappropriate behavior or relationships. This distinction between expediency and liberty depends upon the illustration of the dinner party, which we are about to study.

The 2nd half of this verse addresses our liberty in relation to unbelievers. Eat whatever is set before you without questions for conscience sake. The implication is, this meat had been offered to idols, but that is not an issue at a dinner party. They can eat it without asking questions for conscience sake. The unbeliever would not have a twinge of guilt in eating this meat.

The believer should not have a guilty conscience. A guilty conscience is counter-productive. You cannot advance, you are out of fellowship, and it is a consuming thought in your soul.

The Conscience

1. Whenever Bobby mentions conscience, he is not speaking about guilt feelings. Those who want to manipulate others by saying, "Don't you feel guilty about doing that?" How you feel is not the key to anything.
2. The conscience is a principle part of the soul.
3. The conscience separates right from wrong.
4. The conscience constrains you to do what is right and restrains you from doing that which you know to be wrong. Doctrine is right and what is wrong is human viewpoint.
5. The key is to recognize because without a developed conscience, there is no recognition of what is wrong or what is right.
6. The conscience stores our norms and values from doctrine (for the believer) and it establishes our priorities in life. There is a lot that the conscience does.
7. If the norms and standards of the conscience respond to guilt, then it can be called a weak conscience. This is true of anyone, believer or unbeliever.

8. The norms and standards of the conscience make proper application of doctrine. That is where it comes from. The strong conscience does not respond with guilt or to guilt.

The believer who does respond to guilt must take the proper application, which is rebound. Weak or strong believers can rebound. He names his sins and knows that they are instantly and completely forgiven. The believer who knows this does not have a battle with guilt; no self-flagellation; no penance, no guilt. The focus is on yourself when you deal with guilt. Going astray even a little bit with rebound gets you off base. There are no nuances to rebound. Doctrine in the soul should preclude the reaction of guilt. If you do something sinful, which we all do, do not foster a mental attitude of guilt about it. Just rebound and keep moving. Rebound is one thing, but keep moving is also important. Forget those things which are behind and continue to move ahead spiritually. Guilt is the opposite of an relaxed mental attitude. The entire world lives in guilt. As we grow spiritually, we will better control our sin nature and our thinking. Guilt retards spiritual advance, and it is easy to fall into guilt. It is an interesting thing. It takes a conscience to have guilt, but the development of the conscience can bring on guilt. It is the development of spiritual maturity which distinguishes between guilt and a properly functioning conscience.

The believer whose host is an unbeliever is not to make any issues out of the food served at a dinner party. Here are immature believers. They certainly have doctrine, and they have enough to feel guilty about something. Guilt bogs you down; if you have guilt feelings about something that we have done, forget it. Guilt is destructive in our own soul. We need to rebound and keep moving. Eating this meat is a false issue in witnessing for Christ.

There is one exception where the law of expediency supercedes the law of liberty. The perception here of the unbeliever or unbelievers at the dinner party and the conscience determine that we need to forsake our liberty. We must willingly limit our liberty.

1Cor. 10:27 If one of the unbelievers invites you to dinner and you are disposed to go, eat whatever is set before you without raising any question on the ground of conscience.

Now, let's say that someone makes an issue out of this. This verse begins with  $\delta\epsilon$ , a conjunction of contrast, which limits liberty of the previous verse. But.  $\epsilon\alpha\nu$  = if. Then we have the present active subjunctive of  $\lambda\epsilon\gamma\omega$ , which means to say. But if should say... The previous verse was introduced by  $\epsilon\iota$  and here, we have  $\epsilon\alpha\nu$ . They both mean if. The first is followed by the indicative (1st class condition; the relativity of the scenario, which indicates being invited to a dinner party is a likely possibility); the second is followed by the subjunctive (a 3rd class condition; maybe this will occur and maybe it will not; uncertainty is implied here). So, if it likely that you are going to go to a dinner party, that is almost a fact. The second is, maybe someone will say this to you and maybe they won't. We don't need to worry about the circumstances of the dinner party; we need to know what we are going to learn from this and the principle that we can get from this. Paul could have used many different scenarios, and Paul chooses this particular scenario. Whether it happens this way or not is the 3rd class condition.

benefit of someone else. There are others who are advancing spiritually. There are others who might be interested in Jesus Christ.

This anyone is someone who has been invited to this dinner party. Two suspects could be eliminated: the believer who is the invited guest. Then v. 27: If one of the unbelievers invites you to dinner and you are disposed to go, eat whatever is set before you without raising any question on the ground of conscience. So, an unbeliever invites the believer to a meal. Obviously, the invited guest is eliminated. The host can be eliminated, as he is mentioned in v. 27, and the subject is changed. However, the fallacy here is, anyone is used to include the host as well as any other guest. Repeating the subject would have limited anyone to include only the host. This includes believer or unbeliever guests.

Some guest saddles up to you and says, "Do you realize that this meat had been originally offered to an idol?" So, they are making an issue of the meat. There is no question that Paul presents this so that we understand that one law can supercede another law. It is reasonable to assume that, there are some laws and sometimes one law will supercede another law in life. Under these circumstances, it would be wrong for us, believers, to eat meat sacrificed to idols, because the unbeliever or believer made an issue of the meat being offered. Eating this meat could hinder this believer's testimony to the unbeliever there or to some other person there.

Because the unbeliever host understands the significance of this meat offered to idols or because any one of the unbelievers understands the significance of what they are eating and he believes that he understands what his believing friend . He knows that they are eating something which celebrates a false god (to the believers). Meat offered in the heathen temple was always used . The unbeliever associates this with an act of worship. To the unbeliever, if the believer partakes of this meat, then he is worshipping one of heathen gods, to whom the meat had been sacrificed. The unbeliever understands what this meat signifies. The Lord Jesus Christ, in the unbeliever's mind, is reduced to just one of many other gods. The Lord Jesus Christ is simply reduced to one of these gods, and that is Syncretism. This is the impression which the believer takes from this. The believer is perceived to be syncretistic. If the believer eats, his witness to the unbeliever is compromised. It is misunderstood by the unbeliever to his detriment. The unbeliever is flummoxed and believes that he is observing an act of syncretism. Perception in this case is everything. How could the Lord Jesus Christ be unique in the mind of the unbeliever? The perception of the unbeliever. There are many ways for us to be syncretistic. The norms and standards of the mature believer must therefore apply. Now, you don't just throw up your fork and say, 'I'm leaving; I can't eat this stuff!' The law of liberty is set aside in expediency, for the much more important issue of witnessing for Jesus Christ.

1Cor. 10:28 But if anyone says to you, "This has been offered in sacrifice," then do not eat it, for the sake of the one who informed you, and for the sake of conscience--

1Cor. 10:28–29 The Law of Love      Lesson #584      Sunday 2 August 19, 2007

We found out that someone saddles up the believer at a dinner party and tells him, "This meat has been offered up to idols." There was an incredulous sound in this person's voice. "Wouldn't this be worshipping one of these gods?"

This is a dinner party with believers and unbelievers, and the guest spoken of here is a mature believer. Paul has made this a 1st class condition, meaning that it is a real situation which actually will happen. This gives us two possible situations: the unbeliever asked the believer if eating the meat is okay; and a believer asking the mature believer about eating the meat. The idea is, worship of the god of this beef is seen as some god, no greater and no less than Jesus Christ. Jesus Christ is thereby associated as an equal to the god of the beef that they are eating. This statement indicates that there is an immature believer there, and he is not mature enough to understand what is going on, and, to him, the meat is tainted. For this immature believer, his conscience is defiled by eating the meat. He might take things one step further. The mature believer is required to abstain from eating, as he has a responsibility toward the less mature believer who is there. The law of love and the law of expediency both supercede the law of liberty, but for different reasons. The believer must make a snap decision right then and there not to eat the meat, so that the weak believer is not confused. For the immature believer, you must realize just what is behind this question. What is his thinking? What must I remember in order to make the right decision. If the believer eats the meat, the immature believer might fall into a state of shock and anxiety. He is confused and he is not sure what to do, nor is he sure about how far he can take things.

The tough part is, this is a legitimate liberty. It is not sinful, it will not set your spiritual life back, and it is something which you will enjoy. If you don't think of your obligations, 1 of 2 things can happen to this believer. He might react in legalism and self righteousness. He might denounce you for violating his false standards. "Let me tell you how wrong you are, and next I am going to tell a bunch of other people how bad you are." Or, this weak believer cannot determine the boundaries and then takes his liberty into sin. Two trends of the old sin nature: legalism or antinomianism, and either one can determine which direction this person will go in. This all depends upon the immature believer's thinking, and how far they are willing to go. So, the mature believer, must act, to some degree, as his conscience, as a backup for his lack of norms and standards. There is a lot more satisfaction applying the law of love to a weak believer than enjoying that beef.

Expediency and/or love supercede love. Where liberty is perceived as license and becomes a gospel hearing issue for the unbeliever or a stumbling block issue for the believer, it must be curbed.

An example of this is taking a person to court, something discussed earlier in this book. You may have every right to take a believer or an unbeliever to court; however, you may want to consider what you are doing. Paul even forbids us taking other believers to court.

1Cor. 10:28 But if anyone says to you, "This has been offered in sacrifice," then do not eat it, for the sake of the one who informed you, and for the sake of conscience--

This is obvious not our conscience, as Paul tells us that it is not. The unbeliever's norms and standards are not an issue here; we are not concerned with his conscience. The problem concerning the unbeliever is, just how important is this Christ, if you are eating food offered to some other god? Will this Christian be syncretistic or what. The unbeliever's conscience is not affected by the believer eating the meat here; and the believer who is mature, it has no effect on his conscience. Therefore, the only person that we are speaking of here is the weak believer, who might be judging the other believer's liberty or his imagination might be going out of control, thinking about all of the stuff that he can do.

Sometimes our approach is, they are already saved; we have kicked them through the doors of the church; so let's just let them wander around for awhile. Or, they are just legalistic; let them get over it. Nothing is worse than a legalist. A confusing aspect of the Christian life is, how do you deal with legalists?

Our Relation to Legalists

1. The law of expediency is not a law for legalists.
2. We do not placate legalism.
3. Do not bend to a legalistic believer who sees the spiritual life as nothing more than taboos and legalism. These things have nothing to do with the spiritual life.
4. The legalist interprets everything that does not meet their standards as being antinomian.
5. The legalist demands that other believers conform to their legalistic standards.
6. The problem is, their conscience does not just lack doctrine, but it is biased and prejudiced by legalism.
7. Legalism is more than just a lack of doctrinal norms and standards; it is an active antagonist toward grace. It is mutually exclusive with grace; it is anti-God because it is anti-grace. If we are anti-grace, then we are anti-God. We might still be saved and still going to heaven, but we don't understand the most basic concept of Christianity, which is grace.
8. Liberty is lost because grace is lost. Where there is no liberty, we have been short-changed. No one has a right to take it away from us. Maturity demands that we have a different perspective.
9. We are no obliged to conform to legalistic standards. We never come down to their level and turn against grace.
10. We must conform to Biblical standards in our mature conscience. We must also conform to the standards of impersonal love. How do you handle a legalist when you must be in their periphery?

How Do We Work with Legalists?

1. It is not our place to act contemptuously toward anyone. Sarcasm, giving them a hard time, rubbing their nose in it.
2. We must always conform to grace standards; we are not to placate legalism.

all the time. The weak believer, the immature believer, whose conscience is in danger here.

Why Any Immature Believer would Have a Problem Here

1. His conscience is in danger because he does not have enough doctrine. He thinks that it might be Syncretism.
2. The norms and standards of his conscience are under-developed. Norms and standards are what the conscience is all about. This is what we use to evaluate all the events around us.
3. Because of his weak conscience, his reaction to liberty would be to judge the mature believer. He will run headlong into sins of the tongue, based on his underdeveloped norms and standards.
4. The result is, his spiritual advance would be curbed. This is the immature believer; not the legalistic believer. The indiscriminant exercise of the mature believer's liberty could actually halt the advance of the immature believer.
5. Because of his immature conscience and the misreading of another's liberty, the immature believer is in danger of succumbing to antinomianism or to legalism. He may see this liberty and misunderstand it and dive headlong into sin. He reacts to the mature believer and begins to judge and malign.
6. For the sake of the immature believer's conscience, the mature believer must show restraint in his liberty. This can cause a crisis for the immature believer's conscience.
7. We must make an application of doctrine for the immature believer.
8. The immature believer's weakness of conscience is the motivation for the mature believer to apply grace orientation and impersonal love. It is his weakness which should be our motivation. We must be able to recognize that weakness.
9. This means the mature believer falls back on the strengths of the doctrinal norms and standards of his conscience. The most difficult application for the mature believer is the attack of legalism. . Legalism is in direct conflict with grace. This should be very obvious to the grace oriented believer. The relaxed mental attitude and the grace orientation of the mature believer is easily offended by legalism. Even when spiritually mature, you do not appease legalism; we are not required to appease legalism as mature believers. The legalist just sees the Christian life as a list of taboos that you do not do. He demands that others conform to the distortions of their conscience. You are antinomian if you don't follow his rules. True liberty is lost on the legalist.

When Dealing with the Legalist: Restrain and humility should be shown toward legalistic believers. You do not scorn or excoriate the immature legalist. You do not show contempt and you do not rub his nose in your liberty. That just causes his self righteousness to kick in. We are the one with grace orientation and we have impersonal love. They do not have these things; and we should manifest these things in graciousness and with love. We do not bait them with our freedom; we do not exacerbate their problems. They may harden themselves, but we do not heed to contribute to this. The law of love is just a furtherance of our spiritual life. We all need to grow up. By definition, those that we are speaking of need to grow up. Norms and standards need to be placed into the weak believer's conscience. You cannot help them by indulging in legitimate liberty in their face. Do not kowtow to legalism and do not aggravate it either. Bobby learned this quite quickly when he matriculated in seminary. Bobby planned to just check the place out for one semester, and he met people whose spiritual life hinged on legalism. He had just come out of ten years of the army where there was no legalism. He did not antagonize them and he did not make an issue of their legalism. Bobby would ask questions to see how they were thinking. It was a learning experience for Bobby. It was much easier to just let their legalism slide. Love and tolerance is a good way to go. Bobby enjoyed seminary and grew because of it. He saw the other side of the fence and knew that was not the way to go. Some of these students had no life experience; they had been in a Bible school and a seminary, and they were full of legalism.

General Application

1. Be aware of your actions and how they affect others, believers and unbelievers. You cannot just go tripping through life. You live in a world with other believers.
2. You have the obligation to witness to unbelievers. It is a great obligation. You have the obligation to encourage the advance of immature believers. Keep that in mind when you begin to react. Encourage them by your actions and thoughtfulness, and always focus on Bible doctrine.
3. Do not react to false issues or cause false issues to become relevant to the weak. The legalistic believer looks at you and says, "What, you are going to have a drink?" Let it go. Have a drink later. Don't become a stumbling block.
4. Consider the doctrinal development of the conscience of the immature believer. Even if they never grow up and never express positive volition, you do not do anything to exacerbate that problem.

Paul indicates that you are not forgoing a legitimate liberty over your own conscience. The immature believer has already evaluated this situation incorrectly and the circumstances. The mature believer has a conscience with good norms and standards; and he has figured out he can eat this meat. Where it came from is unimportant.

There the mature believer sits, about to enjoy the meat, and someone nudges him saying, "What should we do? This meat was offered to idols." Paul warns the mature believer not to eat. Suddenly you say, "I've got an issue because he has a believer." Hopefully this does not occur with those that you hang with who are mature believers. The mature believer must take the immature believer's conscience into account. He focuses away from legalism and the false issue of the meat, to the issue of grace. The immature believer easily gets his eyes on other believers. You do not want his focus to be on you. Keep the focus on Bible doctrine and not on yourself. This is the answer to any grey area in life. Give no offense. It is enjoyable to give no offense. And, after they climb off their high horse, you can direct them toward doctrine and toward Scripture. It is a wonderful exercise in your own spiritual life. How you treat other people is important in this life. There is application in doctrine and tests which accelerate your spiritual growth. You maintain the filling of the Holy Spirit and you build the edification complex.

The law of love relates to our personal relationships. Not just how he or she perceives your actions, but we must think how your actions will affect this person. In no way should a personal relationship infringe on the life of an immature believer. The law of love demands that we pull back to remove the stumbling block problem. This is especially true in a romantic relationship. If the person you date is a believer, they may not be mature. So you have to use the law of love in relationship to their spiritual growth. Romantic relationship should never take precedence over spiritual advance. You must allow for that person to gain some room to grow personally. This is a mature believer applying the law of love toward a person in a personal relationship. As the immature believer advances, then the relationship can be further explored. The overriding principle is always spiritual advance.

The law of love is critical in marital relationships. Personal issues in marriage can easily take precedence over doctrinal focus. When problems occur, doctrine sometimes goes by the wayside. Doctrine gets forgotten or neglected too easily, and the problems of marriage multiply. In marital turmoil, the application of the law of love is always the solution. Every issue does not require confrontation. You don't always have to be right. Personal considerations must be relinquished in marriage at times so that spiritual growth can occur. The application of the law of love is one of the greatest motivations that there is. You think of them first and you keep the focus on doctrine, not on your injury or on what you want, but upon doctrine. Applying the law of love stabilizes us. We can focus on problem solving devices, and not on the problems. That love is part of our corporate witness in marriage. The law of love is far-reaching and it all depends upon our perception of the immature believer and their perception of us and how we handle it.

It is the clarity of doctrine which cuts through all of the subjectivity of doctrine. The law of love bring objectivity. The focus is taken away from us, which is subjectivity, and focuses it on doctrine, which is objectivity. The mature believer recognizes the solution rather than dwelling on the problem. The mature believer forgoes his own liberty in personal relationships for the purpose of another believer's spiritual advance.

The spiritual life always comes first in everything. Under difficult circumstances, under relationship pressures. Grace orientation, relaxed mental attitude, sharing the happiness of God, occupation with Christ, etc., then you will pass the test and you have done everything in your power to encourage the immature believer to advance. This means that we have done our part and we have fulfilled our application. I'll eat when I get home; and in the meantime, you have not discouraged the weak believer.

1Cor. 10:29 I do not mean your conscience, but his. For why should my liberty be determined by someone else's conscience?

Sharing the happiness of God is the top floor of the edification complex. We have great happiness from this, a great mental attitude. What we do has great meaning, and great purpose.

As v. 29 concludes, Paul introduces a question, a separate sentence, an interrogative sentence, and it does not seem to be connected to anything. This introduces, if the mature believers weak conscience passes judgment on the strong believers liberty, then the immature believer's growth is halted. Paul is interjecting a reason for the application of the law of love, and he is interjecting the reason for applying this law of love. Don't give cause for the immature believer to judge. Encourage spiritual advance; don't impede it; don't bring up false issues. How is this interrogative sentence placed here? Does it belong in v. 29 or with the next verse. This phrase/question should be taken as connected to the main idea of the context, which is found back in v. 28. It is not related directly to v. 29, but more to v. 28b. Do not eat it (v. 28b) for his conscience sake, you do not eat it. So, why is my liberty determined by another's conscience? (V. 29b). V. 29a is more of a subordinate clause. The rationale is, what are you going to gain by the eating? Certainly it is good food, but do not eat this meat at this moment. This is the immature believer whose conscience is at stake here.

A principle of leadership is, the leader never eats before his troops eat. The leader must put the welfare of his troops before his own welfare. The troops are hungry and cannot wait to get their chow. You don't shove some poor private out of the way and call for yours. The privates under your command get fed first. It is the same idea here: concern for the welfare of the immature believer. You do not shove your way in front of the chow line, even though you can. The immature believer always comes first and that is the way things our. Bobby had men in his platoon that he would rather see starve first, but it was his position to look out for them first.

Why should my liberty be condemned by another's conscience? Why should I cause this breach of conscience? When my liberty is judged by a weak conscience, then my liberty is not important. Why should I used my liberty to give offense to the immature believer? The immature believer is going to judge Paul or any of the other guests, so what does this do for us?

This is not just about a dinner party in 68 A.D. What does this mean to us?

What is Paul Trying to Do in this Rhetorical Question?

1. Paul is giving reason why we should defer to the immature believer. There will be some liberty which we have that some poor immature believer does not understand.
2. This question is designed to motivate us to apply the law of love. The application of the law of love is to keep the immature believer from misunderstanding and judging the mature believer.
3. Paul is giving the mature believer a scenario for application.

4. What is the scenario? Apply the law because you are mature; because you can. Do not cause further weakness in another. The law of love must be applied.
5. Don't cause the immature believer to judge your actions of liberty. Do not indulge so that the immature believer judges us because of it. Temporarily let the liberty go. It is not as though you are giving it up forever. You can let it go for a few minutes. For the sake of the immature believer, you are doing it for a higher purpose.
6. When someone judges others, it is out of weakness and not out of strength. You let God do the judging. You are furthering the weakness
7. Judging is getting eyes on people rather than getting your eyes on doctrine. For the mature believer, they need to keep their eyes on doctrine. For the immature believer, he is to get his eyes on doctrine. The immature believer should not keep his eyes on people. It reverses spiritual self esteem. He looks at a role model and he does not understand the liberty, and all of a sudden, he loses his spiritual self esteem. Without spiritual self esteem, you are somewhat lost. If you are judging someone, you are not building spiritual self esteem, but you are confused. Paul knows that the mature believer can eat this meat at a normal dinner table and to exercise this liberty.

We are perfect at liberty to go to a dinner party and have a glass of wine or two. The problem is, someone might be there who has a problem with that. What do you do? You simply forego the wine when dealing with an immature believer who thinks that no one should be drinking. Your liberty should not supercede his weakness. You must always be cognizant of the affect of your liberty before immature believers and before unbelievers. You don't want to send them into a tail spin, so that they cannot take their eyes off you.

Paul also asks them this question, so that they do not give the legalist additional ammunition to wander off to every other immature believer and start a gossip riot in the church. It takes a little thoughtfulness; it takes a little maturity; it takes a lot of impersonal love. This is the very definition of a mature believer. Mature believers do not want to be the cause of mental attitude sins in anyone else. If you are a mature believer and you may be judged for a number of reasons, and many of them are beyond your control; but you try not to cause others to become judgmental. You don't place your own interests above the immature believer. Don't eat at which time that it is a problem.

Bobby is browsing through a series of essays on the Holy Spirit. There are two camps in this book: the pure doctrinal camp and the others are those who the Holy Spirit moves and there are lots of Holy Spirit activities going on in their lives. That is such a misnomer and a distortion of the truth. Doctrine is important, but application is important as well. We are not just here learning doctrine for ourselves; we are learning and applying doctrine. In our rush to our own spiritual maturity, we need to realize that there are other believers around us. That is the end result of all of this. This is not just a dry, academic pursuit.

Paul is the most mature believer who has ever lived and he is not going to become a stumbling block for anyone. He does not place his own personal welfare above anyone else. Remember, I am of Paul, I am of Cephus, etc.? Paul will not become a stumbling block for any of these people. He will retard the spiritual growth of others and set them back.

This meat represents logistical grace. That is what the meal represents. This is why we say grace, to recognize the logistical grace of God, in supplying those things which nourish us. That is why eating this meat is bona fide. It is logistical grace and logistical grace overrides everything, including eating meat sacrificed to idols. Paul also wrote 1Cor. 8:8: Food does not commend us to God; we are not the better for eating and not the worse for not. The immature believer does not have this advantage yet. Paul want to give him by applying the law of love. When we begin to grow up, we begin to find that we have a great deal of freedom as believers.

How do we know that we are hindering the immature believer?

1. The obvious one is the immature believer begins to judge and malign; you can see it in their eyes. When the immature believer asks the mature believer, "Do you know this meat had been sacrificed to idols?" That was the clue.
2. Why is this a hindrance? This confuses the immature believer seeing a mature believer involved in this activity. He sees the eating as idolatry. That is what comes into his mind. Just like, some things they might observe and think are sexual immorality.
3. The stumbling block principle: in reaction to your actions, the spiritual advance of the immature believer could easily be diverted into legalism. If our actions exacerbate legalism, we need to curb our freedom.
4. Grace orientation gets retarded because when the immature believer is judging, he is out of fellowship, and he has no interest in metabolizing doctrine.
5. The other obvious indicator of hindrance to spiritual advance is when the immature believer goes berserk in antinomianism.
6. His weak norms and standards do not understand the boundaries of liberty. They can take liberty too far into sinfulness. You do not have a glass of wine with a recovering alcoholic.
7. In that case, in the case of the antinomian, liberty becomes an excuse for sinful and indulgent activities.
8. It is very simple: we are never at liberty to sin. We must know the difference as well and we cannot take our liberty too far and take immature believers with us as well. As a mature believer, these things should be apparent to us. We think with the mind of Christ so we should be aware.

Living the spiritual life is all about 1John 1:9 and learning doctrine. You cannot apply the law of love apart from the filling of the Holy Spirit. 1John 1:9 is applied in status quo carnality. The guilt brings you into carnality. It is not a part of the spiritual life. Its use results in returning the carnal believer to spirituality. Rebound is the gateway to the spiritual life. Just as salvation is the gateway to a spiritual life, rebound is the gateway to the spiritual life. Rebound works every time that you use it. You are always forgiven your sins no matter what. God never has reservations about our failures, regardless of our attitude. Our attitude about a sin does not matter. If you regret the sin, it does not matter. No matter how you feel about your sins, it does not matter. It does not matter how often you repeat that one sin, that does not negate rebound. You are always forgiven and always restored to fellowship when you use rebound. And this places you into the environment for spiritual advance. There are no other prerequisites in rebound to have your sins forgiven. Spiritual growth provides the attitude of change; but a spiritual attitude is not necessary to rebound. You may have an attitude, but that has nothing to do with the working of rebound. Rebound works regardless of your frame of mind at the time that you name your sins.

One caution is the use of rebound: chain sinning, even though you consistently rebound, it does deter your spiritual advance. You don't stay in fellowship long enough to advance. Rebound was never designed to be a license to sin. I can sin with impunity because I can always rebound. You can always rebound and it always works every time. Don't view rebound as an aspirin for a hangover. Rebound is not a license to sin; it is a grace license to grow and glorify the Lord. To use it as a temporary fix with the emphasis on temporary is to misunderstand the grace plan of God. It always opens the door to spiritual advance, but you need to keep that door open for awhile.

Let's say you rebound with the intention of repeating that sin again. You not only know that you are going to do it, but you want to. Every sin prior to that moment of rebound is forgiven. What is affected by that attitude is your spiritual advance, not the workings of rebound.

We all have an area of the sin nature which causes us problems, and that takes us into carnality, back and forth. Rebound always works, regardless of what you think about it. God is faithful and just to forgive us our sins. You need enough time in fellowship to grow; you cannot just hunker down on rebound. God applies grace to us; we ought to apply it to others. The more we advance, the less we want to commit that sin.

1Cor. 10:29 I do not mean your conscience, but his. For why should my liberty be determined by someone else's conscience?

1Cor. 10:29

Sunday 1 August 26, 2007

Berachah Church is founded and dedicated to the worship of Jesus Christ. They assembled in the Valley of Berachah and blessed the Lord. In many churches, emotion rules the day; there are rock bands, the use of gifts which are no longer extent, etc. The key to the worship of Jesus Christ is knowing the Lord Jesus Christ. Worship requires love and dedication and loyalty and consecration to the person and word of Jesus Christ. This can only come from know Who He is and what He has done for us. It is our spiritual IQ, not our human IQ, which allows us to grow.

No believer in Jesus Christ can afford to polarize other believers by judging and maligning them. We see much of that in politics today, and our nation is surely polarized today. There is truth and there is something else, which is our in our politics today. However, the acrimony that we find cannot be justified. Similarly, a believer cannot advance in a state of acrimony. A believer is not to judge other believers; we are not to have mental attitude sins toward other believers. Our focus then is upon another believer rather than on Jesus Christ. Going down that road is extremely destructive to the believer in Jesus Christ. We all fail, and it is important that we keep this in mind, if we have a mind to judge someone else. Leave another person's failures up to God. Openly judging other believers is not an option God has left to us. When one believer condemns or judges another believer, he supercedes the Lord as the rightful judge of all of us.

The immature, weak believer (as described in 1Cor. 8 and 10) is the believer who becomes preoccupied with the failures and weaknesses of others. The nosey, busy body who intrudes in the lives of others, in the guise of helping a brother; but it is really a way to bully another believer who does not fit into the norms and standards or the judging believer. Taboos mistake legitimate liberty that we have in Jesus Christ for sin. The weak believer is short on doctrine and he does not grow because of his attitude of self righteousness. The immature believer does not and cannot understand the principles of grace. He is controlling; he is arrogant; he is petty, inflexible. He does not have the ability to apply impersonal love to other believers or to unbelievers. He has a propensity to judge the mature believer, whose liberty in Christ he does not understand. The weak conscience does not comprehend those liberties. They see this liberty as antinomianism. He cannot distinguish between sin and liberty. He cannot distinguish between real sin and no-sin. Through this judging, the weak believer furthers his weakness. Then we have the mature believers, in reaction to the self righteous judging of the immature believer also becomes arrogant and contemptuous of this moron believer. He lowers himself to the level of the immature believer. The conscience of the mature believer should be able to apply doctrine; instead, he finds his application being distorted by mental attitude sins. Self righteous and contempt is an occupational hazard of knowledge of Bible doctrine. Knowledge can make a person arrogant. Biblical knowledge can make a person arrogant, when falsely used, falsely applied, or applied when out of fellowship. The hazard is, this mature believer becomes irritated. He foments in his own soul, mental attitude sins. The mature believer falls into a maligning mode, which ends up polarizing the church. Instead of using the law of love and grace orientation, there is division and polarization. Superior knowledge, but he does not apply doctrine at the right time. It brings into his soul a defiance and a judging and maligning of others. Sometimes when we face legalism, we become defiance and angry, and we judge and malign them.

There is nothing wrong with morality; it is not the spiritual life, however. It would be good if the unbeliever is aligned with the divine institutions. When judging and maligning take place, we have division, no matter who does it. There is no reason for division in the body of Christ. Believers, weak and strong, all have old sin natures. We will never rid ourselves of these sin natures until we are raised again and given resurrection bodies. The difference of the strong in relation to the weak is grace orientation and impersonal love. Without those two in the soul of the strong believer, the church would be torn to pieces, because of judging and maligning. Both strong and weak believers have different occupational hazards. The weak believer tries to make his weak standards the rule for all believers. If the weak believer has his way, all would be as weak as he is. Rather than judging, the strong, mature believer uses doctrine. Applying the law of love is the obligation of the strong believer toward the immature believer. If you have to judge, then judge yourself under the rebound technique.

The judging by the weak is the specific problem addressed by v. 29b. In this case, the liberty is eating meat, which the weak believer sees as being sin. There is no question that any believer can eat meat, even if it was originally sacrificed to idols. Any believer can attend dinner parties and eat the meat which is served without worrying about where this meat came from.

Vv. 28–30 is the warning, which almost seems contradictory to v. 27. However, it is not; it is the law of love. If the weak believer judges the strong believer, the strong believer must react with the law of love, rather than with animosity. You apply impersonal love to those who are around you, including the obnoxious ones. It is easy to forgive those that you like; impersonal love is what you must apply to those that you just do not like or those you do not respect. The immature may look at us and judge and malign. If the weak believer begins to judge, the mature believer must respond with the law of love. When faced with criticism, or faced with anything which is antithetical to that person's welfare, respond with impersonal love.

V. 29b should be affixed to v. 28b. Do not eat [the meat at the dinner party]; for why is my freedom judged by another's conscience? Or, Do not eat, for what good will be gained if using my liberty to eat incurs judgement from the weak conscience of another. Or, why should I make use of my liberty to keep from giving offense to the weak believer? Every weak believer has the right to grow spiritually, and we have no reason to get in their way. We must not become a stumbling block to any believer. To do so would become a polarizing situation and you descend to their level. This introduces a principle. If the immature believer's weak conscience responds to the mature believer with judgement, his spiritual growth will come to a halt. His weak conscience passes judgment. A weak conscience focuses on other people. This weak conscience has a desire to control and manipulate. What is your obligation to not react? What is our obligation not to be a stumbling block to these types? Our ability to apply grace orientation and impersonal love can have the greatest affect on such immature believers. This is what they expect; they expect you to react, and they want to control you in this way. Your proper response as a mature believer, which is mandated, which can catch their attention. You do not make an issue out of a non-issue. You do not polarize over something which is meaningless.

When the mature believer recognizes that there is going to be a problem, he recognizes that he must not eat if he is going to become a stumbling block to the immature believer. Do this because you are mature. Don't give cause for the immature believer to judge your actions. Just cool it; and use your liberty later. If there are going to be repercussions, then refrain from applying your liberty.

A parent does this all of the time. The parent has earned the money to buy the food, and the parent can eat whatever they want when they want. However, they set up meal schedules and good meals for their children and they generally allow their children to eat first. They place the welfare of their children above their own.

When a believer becomes a stumbling block, he can retard the growth of others and his own as well. Our lack of application is to our detriment. To this point, doctrine is only gnôsis.

There is a practical application to all of this, since eating meat sacrificed to idols is not something which we generally contend with. There are many other liberties which we have which we must content with in the face of the immature believer.

So, how do we apply the law of love; how do we keep from offending the unbeliever or the immature believer? Put yourself at this dinner party, invited by an unbeliever who is an old friend of yours, and he invites both believers and unbelievers. One of the immature believers sitting next to you says to you, "Did you know they are going to serve meat sacrificed to idols?" So you decide, "I cannot eat" so that this other believer does not fall into judging and maligning. You can offend the immature believer or you can offend the unbelieving host, who has prepared this meal. You do not want to offend the unbelieving host who invited you. So you are in a dilemma. Bobby suggests, eat everything but the meat. Take a little meat, but don't eat it. Quietly give it to the dog under the table. You need to consider both sides of the fence and consider both situations to determine which course that you must take. How do you keep from offending the host, who is an unbeliever; and how do you keep from offending the immature believer who has it wrong.

Now, do not make an issue of your love; don't tell everyone that you are applying the law of love. You do not need to project false issues on anyone in order to gain a merit badge of those around you. When you have the option not to offend someone, then do not offend them. With impersonal love and grace orientation, you can eventually explain the issues to these people.

You have liberties and do you partake of these liberties or not? How do you accomplish that which you need to accomplish in order to keep from being offensive to others? As you learn doctrine and learn how to apply doctrine, the options become clear.

1Cor. 10:29 I do not mean your conscience, but his. For why should my liberty be determined by someone else's conscience?

1Cor. 10:29–30

Sunday 2 August 26, 2007

Bobby observed believers criticizing his father often, and for many superficial things, and they judged and they maligned and they spoke to various friends of theirs. In Bobby's own life, many people knew the name of Thieme and they knew a few things about what was being taught and the manner in which it was taught.

A person approached Bobby and said, "Thieme, that's an interesting name. Do you know about the cult which is down in Texas." Bobby had the inclination to blast this person.

However, this guy was only speculating, repeating that which he had heard in the past. Bobby said, "I have heard of it; in fact, that is my father." Bobby wished he could reproduce the look on this guy's face. He apologized, invited Bobby to lunch, and he recognized what he had done. The issue was not whether or not Berachah was a cult; the issue was not to make an issue out of it.

A missionary speaker would come into Western, and one of them came from a church in Ohio and he proceeded, not by name, to lambast the believers at Berachah. We spent all of our time doing this or that, and how it was a cult. Bobby later went to theology class, and his professor said, "Now, Bobby, take 3 minutes and give your side of the story." Bobby said, "If studying the Bible is a cult, then we are a cult. But Berachah is as mainstream as most Baptist churches." The guy who spoke to Bobby originally stood up and said, "This missionary is from my church and he does not know what he is talking about. I made the same mistake."

The idea is do not give offense. Apply doctrine. Don't make an issue of yourself. Don't become divisive. You do not need to be confrontational in a judging and maligning situation. You explain grace and the principle of grace whenever you have the time to; but you must also show graciousness. No one is going to buy into this unless you show graciousness. Be sensitive to each situation on all counts. You must not react. Reaction is always a bad solution. It will always lead to a mental attitude sin. Reaction will simply antagonize those who are wrong. Bobby saw Bob being gracious on many occasions, when he could have sweated that person's shadow into the wall. Be sensitive to the situation and give no offense to those who are offending you. Do not use your liberty to arouse criticism. That is counterproductive to everyone concerned.

It is liberty versus love. Liberty, maybe; love, always. You cannot control the other person's conscience. You can control your response, and the norms and standards you have. You decide to forgo a liberty under certain circumstances; but you will be able to enjoy that liberty elsewhere. Do not be self-centered or reactionary to those around you.

You might have a permit to carry a concealed weapon. In some homes, this would cause the host to flip out. Carrying the weapon is your right; however, in some circumstances, you would not carry the weapon, so not to give offense.

Public figures get much more criticism than those who are not in the public limelight. It does not matter if Bobby is out of line or if we think he is out of line; just don't get involved. Maligning and judging will take us down the wrong road.

1Cor. 10:29 I do not mean your conscience, but his. For why should my liberty be determined by someone else's conscience?

Paul then uses himself as an example. Paul knows his own situation and he knows about all the slander that he was received, and he injects himself into the situation. If I partake [of this meat] with thankfulness, why am I denounced for that which I give thanks? Paul is at liberty to eat the meat here.

Paul uses the 1st class condition and uses the noun χάρις, which means grace. Grace is the principle, that the earth is the Lord's and all that it contains. All food which comes to the believer is a manifestation of logistical grace. It should be received with thanksgiving. It did not come from the kitchen or from the chef, but it came from the Lord. It is all logistical grace. It is too bad that the host or his guests may not understand this. Grace is the basis for liberty. Because it comes from the grace of God, we know it is a true liberty. It begins with salvation and continues to our spiritual life. We now gain capacity for life and capacity for love, and capacity for things which we never had capacity for before. We always should focus on grace and this is the direction that the immature believer should advance, growing in grace and the knowledge of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ. This is the direction that we, as mature believers, must encourage. Be gracious in all circumstances; show impersonal love in all circumstances; impersonal love and grace are practically synonymous.

Why am I slandered for that which I give thanks? Why should we be denounced to taking what is given to us by the grace of God. Our Lord changed water into wine, which was His first miracle, at Canaan. Could you be criticized for having a glass of wine or two? Could you, as a believer, have a glass of wine at that party, as a believer? This is a liberty provided by logistical grace. So many times, legalistic believers think that if you have a glass of wine, you are sinful.

Obviously, we would be tempted to drink a big old glass of that wine in front of legalists, to let them know where things stand. This does not mean that you might not have a glass a little later. You must understand that you know things that the immature believer does not understand. Some day, in the future, you might toast with a person like this. You really must be sensitive to the immature believer. It costs you nothing but a glass of wine at that moment.

Slander here is the Greek word blasphêmeô (βλασφημέω) [pronounced blahs-fay-MEH-oh], which means 1) to speak reproachfully, rail at, revile, calumniate, blaspheme; 2) to be evil spoken of, reviled, railed at. In the passive, it can mean to blaspheme [God]. This is slander which has no basis in reality at all. This kind of slander might be taken into court today, although it is prohibited between believers. Being slandered for this is immaturity or serious legalism in some. Wherever logistical grace is involved, eat and drink with thanksgiving. This is why Paul asks, why on earth should this happen between believers? Why should other believers criticize Paul for enjoying logistical grace, as how can you criticize someone for taking that which God has given us.

These kinds of believers are incapable of grace; they cannot apply graciousness in every situation. We are the mature ones. We need to be the ones who apply grace.

In the final phrase, Paul reveals just how outrageous this is, and what it takes to apply impersonal love. Why should I be denounced for that for which I give thanks? Present active indicative of eucharisteô (εὐχαριστέω) [pronounced yew-khahr-ih-STEH-oh], which means 1) to be grateful, feel thankful; 2) give thanks. Strong's #2168.

1Tim. 4:4–5: For everything created by God is good, and nothing is to be rejected if it is received with thanksgiving, for it is made holy by the word of God and prayer. Do not ever get shy at a dinner table at a public place. How do you handle grace in a public place. Bobby, when believers are assembled, he prays. Believers need to understand gratitude.

Unbelievers do not understand the meaning of logistical grace, so we do not raise false issues in a crowd of unbelievers by requiring that everyone give thanks to God. But, it is reasonable to bow your head and to give thanks. There are times when you are 1 on 1 with someone at a dinner table, and you tell them, “I am going to thank God for this food; do you have a problem with that?”

Paul responds with impersonal love. That is how we should handle it.

1Cor. 10:30 If I partake with thankfulness, why am I denounced because of that for which I give thanks?

1Cor. 10:29–30

Wednesday August 29, 2007

Aug. 27, 2007 op ed piece from the Houston Chronicle. Living dangerously in the absence of holy fear. It is an article about divine establishment. The consequences of cringing at the ten commandments. The commandments are seen as hazardous to the community who want to ban them. We could find them quite revolutionary and an attack against the self. A dangerous book is Klinghoffer’s “Shattered Tablets.” Our society has cast off the decalogue authority. Klinghoffer is a religious Jew, but his argument. The justice of the commandments is guaranteed by the God who gave them, who will judge us based upon this law.

The old fashioned phrase fear of the Lord meant respect toward the Lord and His laws. The degree to which individuals believe in a God affects their morality. You don’t need to believe in God to be moral, but it helps. This is the same conclusion by Phillip Reaf, who was agnostic. He said, all cultures result from prohibitions. You will not and I will. There is a balance between these two. Tyranny versus chaos. In Biblical terms, we have lost the fear of the Lord, making us terrors to ourselves and to one another. Western man has passed into a perilous state where his fear and anxiety can only be endured through pleasure seeking.

We are wealthy and cultured, but we quickly approach a state of barbarism, throwing off the inhibiting authority of the past. That is rapidly disappearing. Jesus as best friend is a phoney substitute for Jesus is the God of the universe. How a culture thinks about God will go a long way as to how it thinks about other people. No culture has treated the individual as great as our western civilization, which has gotten its views mostly from the Bible.

Many of us think of the Ten Commandments as ancient and unimportant; funny, how these old ideas turn out to be the most important of all.

Every believer has freedom to do a great many things; however, other people will affect what we actually choose to do. Without the proper norms and standards in the immature believer's conscience, he cannot understand all that we are able to do. They end up judging all other believers from their faulty and weak conscience.

1Cor. 10:29 I do not mean your conscience, but his. For why should my liberty be determined by someone else's conscience?

The question of v. 29 can be restated, why should I make use of my liberty to give offense to another believer? Is there a good reason to abstain from application of your liberty? Do not every provide a reason for immature believers to judge our actions of liberty. That is the application of the law of love, to make certain that we do not become a stumbling block to such believers.

V. 30 continues this thought. The truth is, he is being slandered, especially when thankfulness means that he eats this portion of this meal with gratitude. God provided the meat. The earth is the Lord's and all that it contains. Every time we pick up a fork, spoon and a knife, we are enjoying logistical grace. All food is a manifestation of logistical grace. All should be received as such. The attitude of gratitude. Even when this attitude is present and demonstrated. Even when eating with the proper motivation, we can be slandered by the conscience of the weak believer, which is a defamation. It is a violation of the grace of God and the principles of grace. This is what makes the application so important, even though the slandering and judging of immature believers is completely unjust. That is the very essence of the law of love. This is why Paul uses slander and judging. This takes a mature believer with a strong conscience with proper norms and standards residing in his soul. Slander does not diminish one bit the law of love. We are never justified in abrogating the law of love. When the law of liberty becomes a stumbling block for someone else, then we need to apply the law of love.

People have a hard time dealing with this. We have all the equipment that we need to have the mental attitude of impersonal love. When we can apply that, we have something great. Slander is a great people test and an opportunity for us. Using the law of love strengthens our own conscience.

Why should I provoke blame for that which I give thanks? Giving thanks is εὐχαριστῶ = to give thanks, to return thanks, giving gratitude, this is the expression of the attitude of gratitude. This refers to saying grace before a meal. Do it before partaking of a meal, which includes meat that has been sacrificed to idols.

It is ironic, that Paul is partaking in logistical grace; God provided this for Paul's nourishment, and he has expressed gratitude for it; and he should not be slandered for this. Grace before a meal is a great expression of thanksgiving. This should all be remembered by a believer, then and now. Some may fear to bow your head in public; that would be weak. When in a group of unbelievers, don't demand a moment of prayer (although you may be asked to). You can do it quietly. Who cares if someone notices? It should not be a long, drawn out prayer in public. Save the long prayers for private prayer or for prayer meetings. Prayer is not an obligatory ritual. Jesus Christ did provide this for us. Everything that He has provide is good. When it comes to us, it comes from His logistical grace.

Don't be a self righteous vegetarian. You can eat only fruits and vegetables. Don't force this on other people. God provides meat for nourishment just as much as He provides vegetables for nourishment.

Whatever may be injurious or harmful in the food is set apart when we say grace. This doesn't mean that we knowingly eat something harmful and spoiled. We don't eat rotted food; but praying over food means what is harmful that we don't know about is handled. We don't bless hallucinogenic mushrooms and everything will be okay.

Bobby tactical process, and on one assignment, they had live animals to eat. Always say grace overseas and don't drink the water. It is always important to our mental attitude.

Paul is operating under this law. Logistical grace and the law of liberty and Paul is being slandered for it. We should never stand in the way of an immature believer's advance, no matter how much it costs.

1Cor. 10:30 If I partake with thankfulness, why am I denounced because of that for which I give thanks?

A summation of the truth and liberty. These are the overarching considerations in deciding which law should be applied and when. This is for the next 3 verses: 1Cor. 10:31–33: So, whether you eat or drink, or whatever you do, do all to the glory of God. Give no offense to Jews or to Greeks or to the church of God, just as I try to please everyone in everything I do, not seeking my own advantage, but that of many, that they may be saved. This is why we take in Bible doctrine, to glorify God. This is why we develop the mental attitude that we have and why we apply Bible doctrine in the circumstances that we have.

Paul will try to please all men in all things, attempting to please all men in all things, giving no offense to anyone.

Inferential use of the conjunction ovv; we are summing up what has come before. Paul looks back at meat offered to idols, and the law of love and the law of liberty, and partaking of thankfulness. When swining a golf club, we cannot have complex thoughts; there will be a couple of key thoughts, and this is what Paul is doing. He is going to lay out some simple, key thoughts. In golf, a confused thought pattern is going to result in a confused swing and a wild ball pattern. Paul is going ot focus and simplify all of our thoughts. He will funnel it all down to one or two thoughts. We have split seconds to decide. We have split seconds to decide. We had better have some simple thoughts here. Do I have the liberty? Will I be giving offense? Am I thankful? The simple thought to determine whether you go for or against liberty in the final moments. The golf swing is complex, but the thought process before the swing is simple.

1Cor. 11:1 belongs with chapter 10. No punctuation, no paragraphs; just a line of capital letters. Later on, some decided to break these up into words, sentences and paragraphs.

These final few verses will correlate our interactions with people and the application of Bible doctrine to the circumstances. The law of liberty and the law of love and the law of expediency. As Paul closes out, he turns to the illustration that he has been using throughout. A huge portion of 1Cor. 10 has dealt with eating and drinking at the table of demons versus the table of the Lord. Is eating and drinking idolatry or is it liberty in Christ? We need some guidelines so that we can distinguish between our liberties and syncretism; but we also need to know when we ought to forgo our liberties. When does eating and drinking move beyond legitimate nourishment and when does the perception of others get in the way of our liberties.

In these last 3 verses, Paul moves beyond this illustration and he expands the application to whatever we do; whether we eat or drink or whatever we do, do all to the glory of God. Give no offense to Jews or to Greeks or to the church of God. 1Cor. 10:31–33: So, whether you eat or drink, or whatever you do, do all to the glory of God. Give no offense to Jews or to Greeks or to the church of God, just as I try to please everyone in everything I do, not seeking my own advantage, but that of many, that they may be saved. These are the summation verses when it comes to our liberties and what we can or cannot do. Seek that many can be saved. We should be able to decide what we can do in any given circumstance, and we should be beginning to see the impact of this idolatry question, even though it may not seem at first to have any application to our lives in this century.

3 Important Principles to remember

1. Do all the glory of God, which should be an overriding objective of our lives. Our glorification of Jesus Christ and God the Father for His plan is part of our witness to others for their salvation.

There is an imperative here, and that means there is no other option. We are not taken home when we believe in Jesus Christ, we are left here on earth to glorify God. There are many ways in which we do all to the glory of God. There are many aspects of life that don't seem to fall under the category of glorification of God. Most of realize that witnessing is part of glorifying God, but there are mundane things which we do day after day which glorify Him as well. Glorifying God is much wider ranging than just our activities. It is not all about accomplishments. We may think that pleasing people pleases God; the Christian world thinks that if I can do certain things which please other believers, then I have glorified God. In these cases, you are mostly glorifying yourself.

What is Glorifying God?

1. Glorifying God is the consistent motivation of doctrine from our right lobe.
2. It is the center of our life being divine viewpoint. This is the key to where we are going with glorification tonight.
3. Our thought processes which become doctrinal orientation. Glorification begins in our thinking and not in our activities.
4. Glorification of God always begins with the filling of the Holy Spirit. That continues as you use the grace apparatus of perception.
5. Glorification of God is something as simple as saying grace over your meal. Even saying it silently is glorification of God. The key is the correct motivation; the motivation of thanksgiving. It is what we think. A lot of denominations go through obligatory ritual and there is no thought involved. It is all about thinking and motivation. We have a moment on Sundays to give to the church. All of that is related to motivation. Not gurdingly or of necessity, because God loves the well-motivated believer. It is the thinking; the motivation; not the action. This encompasses our entire spiritual life from beginning to end.
6. Glorification is the mental attitude first and the action second. Most believers make it all about what they do. The imperative is wider than that.
7. Your thinking without any activity glorifies God.
8. Any recognition of God's grace, his logistical provision, or the resources for our spiritual life, glorifies Him. We recognize His grace by being grace orientation. When we rebound, that is the fundamental grace of God in our lives.
9. The imperative of ποιεω = to do, to take action; is more than just our activities, but it is maintaining the motivation which glorifies God.
10. In short, ποιεω is divine good. You cannot produce divine good apart from the filling of the Holy Spirit, but after, your actions are divine good.
11. This was the entire spectrum of glorifying God.
  - a. Filling of the Holy Spirit + doctrinal inculcation.
  - b. The resultant motivation from doctrine.
  - c. The application of doctrine from inculcated right lobe.
  - d. Service, using our spiritual gift or whatever opportunity comes our way.

No matter how many people you witness to and no matter how much you try to function in your spiritual gift, unless you are filled with God the Holy Spirit, you are not producing divine good. This places you miles ahead of believers who think that what you do on the street is glorifying God.

3rd Time through:

1. All of these aspects glorify God. Each is dependent upon the other in glorifying God. You have inculcation, which is Bible class. But you need to be filled with God the Holy Spirit. This is where glorification begins.
2. With inculcation, you have doctrinal advance, which is dependent upon inculcation, which is part of God's plan for the believer.

3. From this, you gain the motivation to serve the Lord. It comes from this doctrinal advance. You gain spiritual self esteem. You recognize your destiny in the plan of God. You recognize life in the view of eternity.
4. You are advancing, you are motivated, and you thereby glorify God.
5. At the very end, you have actual acts of Christian service, but it is a result of the previous things. You must begin with the filling of the Holy Spirit and the motivation of our life.

There is the believer who stays out of fellowship; who doesn't inculcate doctrine, who cannot glorify the Lord; it is not the motivation of his life. Divine viewpoint does not drive his thinking. Our thought process glorifies God. We glorify God when we think with divine viewpoint. That is how we begin to think in every area of our life. The believer who is out of fellowship who does not understand how to glorify God, may give some nod toward service for God. I've got to do it, so I'll do something which looks really good; and he thinks that he has fulfilled his obligation to serve God. It is obligatory and it is done grudgingly. He is out of fellowship and there is no doctrine flowing through his stream of consciousness. Outside the plan of God, there is only glorification of God. Self-centeredness rules his life; he falls into human viewpoint. He lives in the cosmic system—this is the believer who has not advanced and who is not motivated. He might be able to serve and get out there and hustle and think he is glorifying God, but he is not. He lives in the cosmic system and syncretism is his modus operandi. When none of this works, all there is which is left is pleasure seeking. Without that, your soul is hurting. When you fulfill your purpose in life, it makes your life wonderful. This believer may turn to legalism or to tabooism or to self righteous arrogance, and without ever glorifying God. With legalism or antinomianism, there is no glorification of God. What matters is, you don't stay in this condition. What matters is, you recover divine viewpoint. That is your thought process; that is where it begins.

As we advance spiritually, we glorify God whether we realize it or not. That is recovery and that glorifies God, whether or not we are doing anything which seems spiritual. When out of fellowship, the only thing you can do is to rebound. It is fundamental to the Christian life. But acknowledging His grace is the simple act of recognizing His grace. It is the only thing that we've got when we are out of fellowship. Always remember, recovering and resuming the spiritual advance glorifies God. We are back in His plan. We utilize His grace resources to accomplish His will. This is the essence of glorifying God.

What is the Essence of Glorifying God?

1. Utilizing His grace assets to advance; fulfilling the mandate to grow in grace, and then, with proper motivation, serving Him.
2. This is the whole package of glorification; not just what we do; not just our activity. Glorification of God is so misunderstood.
3. Growth and motivation always preceded effective service. Witnessing to someone is always a great thing and if they believe in Jesus Christ, that is a great thing; but there is nothing which glorifies God insofar as you are concerned if you are not filled with the Holy Spirit.

4. It is a balance:
  - a. The invisible glorification of God through the thinking process of divine viewpoint. That is the attitude of glorification. Thinking with the mind of Christ glorifies the Lord.
  - b. The visible application of doctrine.
  - c. This is the imperative of do all to the glory of God. It is doing all which glorifies God.

This whole package is where immature Christians clash with mature believers. Immature believers are confused by all of this and, most of the time, they just glorify themselves. They become narcissistic. Without the proper motivation, it is simply self-centeredness. Their deeds are marked only by human viewpoint. They are always outside the plan of God. Outside of this plan, you never glorify God.

Christian activities may be better than Christian activities, but this is not anything which glorifies God. Someone is set on a pedestal, and they are iconoclasts.

Practically speaking: what happens to Christians who do not really glorify God. All the other parts of their lives are compartmentalized. They live their lives; their work life, their recreation life, their church lives; and each one is a little compartment. They pigeonhole their separate lives and only one little area, and one area does not overlap into another. Doctrine never seems to be there. God is what we do at church. Sitting in Bible class becomes the spiritual compartment. This intake of doctrine is all important. There is no substitute for metabolizing doctrine. However, if this doctrine does not break through to the rest of your life, then all you are doing is leaving it in church. It is just gnôsis. If you are compartmentalized, then every aspect of your life is removed from your Christian life. However, you need divine viewpoint for every portion of your life. You will build an edification complex; you will apply the problem solving devices. The spiritual life is designed for all of your life.

When you fill your regular seat in Bible class, doesn't that fulfill the big requirement of the Christian life? Isn't 4 hours a week enough? If God is the most important part of my life, then aren't a few hours a week reasonable to devote to Him? But what do you do when you leave this building or turn off the MP3 player. What happens when there is no doctrine in these other compartments? What happens when you cannot glorify God in all these other compartments in your life?

Sometimes doctrine intrudes into our lives when we are in trouble; but the rest of it, we never give a thought to. Do all to the glory of God; everything in your life. From the moment that you wake up until the moment that you go to sleep.

Sunday 1 September 2, 2007

We as believers in Jesus Christ remain in life in order to glorify God. We might want to head right into heaven but our mission statement is Glorify Christ. We cannot advance the glory of God; no believer can diminish or increase the glory of God. God's glory cannot be enhanced; God is perfect glory. Why are we so mandated if God's glory is fixed. The glory of God has already appeared on this earth in the form of Jesus Christ, God among us in the flesh. We are witnesses in both realms of the glory of God. We can reflect God's glory to the world around us and to accomplish His plan. What's the key to fulfill this mandate? Whether you eat or drink, or whatever you do, do all to the glory of God. That is the mandate of this verse. The real answer to ποιῶ in the imperative mood is to think with the mind of Christ, which has been provided for us. We glorify God when we think with His mind. We glorify Him by our spiritual advance. We use His grace resources, using the grace apparatus for perception. Doing is not a set of acts which we perform, but it is our entire life which glorifies God. Grace is the key, not us. This is our life; this is the most important concept.

The passage that we are dealing with is an illustration of glorifying God in our relationships with different people. The use of these laws requires good decisions. This chapter tells us that we believers have many liberties in our lives. We are not cloistered in these little cells where we cannot do anything. All that is not sinful, we are at liberty to do. However, freedom can always be abused. When individual liberty conflicts with evangelism. In Corinth, the liberty in question is eating meat which had been sacrificed to idols. This eating could have an adverse affect on unbelievers who observe you eating; and it could cause a weak believer to stumble. We should put the welfare of others before our own liberty in the Christian life. Soldiers put their own liberty aside for the sake of others. The problem is, what is the stated criteria when it comes to putting our liberty aside. The overarching principle is, do all to the glory of God. V. 32 gives the 2nd criterion: Give no offense to unbelievers or to weak believers. Don't block the gospel from unbelievers. The 3rd criterion is in v. 33: Do not seek personal profit, but seek the profit of others. Glorification of God is much more than overt activities. Do all to the glory of God is the mental attitude first; then, afterward, comes the action. Your mental attitude comes from thinking with the mind of Christ. That inculcation and attitude is possible by the grace of God. The power to apply ἐπίγνωσις doctrine to any circumstance in life. This is learning and thinking doctrine and the production of divine good. Human good does not glorify God. Whatever we do outside the filling of the Holy Spirit does not glorify God. The difference between doing it under your own power and under the power of the Holy Spirit. Doing it under our own power is really doing it to glorify ourselves.

There is a benefit to us by leading a life glorifying to God. This is a life of contentment. We are doing great things for ourselves and all others. There is always the believer who fails to glorify God, who stays out of fellowship on a regular basis. What is his life like apart from glorifying God? Outside of the plan of God, we can only glorify ourselves when we are not filled with the Holy Spirit. We fall into the pattern of the cosmic system and syncretism. Syncretism becomes our modus operandi. Without glorifying God, without living the mental attitude, our life is compartmentalized. All of the other aspects of our lives are kept separate from our spiritual lives. Our working life, family life, recreation life are all sealed off bunkers to the spiritual life. One does not leak into the other. Sitting in Bible class becomes our spiritual compartment, and that is where it ends. We leave church and doctrine remains in church. That's a classic nod to God. You give a little time to God, giving Him a few hours, and after it is over, you get on with the real world outside. That is tantamount to negative volition. If it stays in Bible class, it is negative volition. You have got to inculcate ἐπίγνωσις and then run with it. If we compartmentalize, our lives will be an abject failure. Glorifying God does not mean that we will live cloistered boring lives; we are dedicated to glorifying God. We are in the place where doctrine may come into our souls and maybe one day, we will be motivated to live the spiritual life in every aspect of our lives.

We can compartmentalize college football and if our happiness depends upon our team winning, we can lose our happiness and contentment.

At the workplace, we do our job as unto the Lord. We show up everyday and our motivation glorifies God. We ought to be motivated to glorify God in our work. Without the motivation or application of Bible doctrine, we again glorify ourselves. Our motivation is greed, promotion, recognition when we compartmentalize. One major result of excluding Bible doctrine at work is a lack of integrity in what you do. You are influenced by all those who are around you. One of the worst ways is, you hatch some scheme to fleece others, including those at Berachah. I'm a Christian businessman and have I got a deal for you. Backstabbing someone else to get ahead instead of just doing your job. God will promote us at exactly the right time. This requires spiritual advance and application and a good mental attitude. Doctrine must penetrate that compartment of your life. Your greatest credentials at work is glorifying God at work.

1Cor. 10:31–32

Sunday 2 September 2, 2007

Our mission statement in life is Do all to the glory of God. There is more to this than to just get out there and hustle for God. The people in South Korea are extremely upset with the missionaries who were in Afghanistan. The Koreans in general were upset because people drove through with loudspeakers giving the gospel. But what is their motivation. Are they hiding behind some vehicle blaring out the gospel message?

We may spend some time witnessing for the Lord Jesus Christ, and that is great. However, never think that because you give the gospel, do not think that with the wrong motivation that just giving the gospel glorifies God. You don't produce divine good from the flesh.

The workplace is the example from the previous hour and doing our job as unto the Lord. We are not there to get promoted or to make money; but the key is the motivation involved. These things may or may not come to us. The approbation of those around you or even the number of people that you witness to; but it is the application of doctrine from the filling of the Holy Spirit which is key.

The compartment of family—you must infuse doctrine with the family life. Some see that Bible doctrine does not intrude on this life. Compartmentalized family life means that there is no corporate witness in the angelic conflict; a marriage is one of the great witnesses and the operation of marriage and the divine institutions is part of our glorification of God. The family does not grow together spiritually. Children never get the perspective of parents dedicated to the Lord; they need to see parents whose lives revolve around doctrine. Not parents who force doctrine down their throat. Drop the kids off at prep school and drive off; what impression does that give the child. They see the parents; they see the Bible doctrine is not important to the parents. There is nothing like parents who reveal the true impact of doctrine to their children. They need a spiritual solution and children will respond more to what they see you do rather than what you tell them to do. It is a matter of leadership; leadership in the home. A failure to teach children doctrine. A parent should teach his own children doctrine. Prep school should not be designed to be independent of parental teaching. How many times have you put the kids to bed thinking you are too tired to pray with the child. Read them a Bible story until they fall asleep; something to infuse their souls with doctrine. Evangelism starts early in the home. Both parents need to be involved here. The two go together in our family life. Self-centeredness is not the environment for love. Preoccupation with self is not the environment for Christian parenting. You cannot be too busy with work of play to work with their little souls. Without this guidance, they can end up as self-centered as we are and they grope their way through life.

Amusement, recreation and entertainment, and this is a place where we tend to compartmentalize. Here is where liberty supercedes love and expediency. Social life becomes utterly self-centered. No witnessing. Social life can become a distraction and an incubator of divine viewpoint.

Assembling yourselves is one of the best environments for learning and it is also an environment where you can meet people of like mind. Bobby's been under all circumstances of learning—on tapes, in Fx groups and at Berachah. Doctrine is learned and great social life can come from church. Make our intimate associations with other believers. However, we can become utterly distracted and unduly influenced by human viewpoint in our social lives. You must be cognizant all the times of their perceptions at certain times and in certain places. This is the application of eating meat or not; going to the Temple or not.

The wrong place at the wrong time; having an adult beverage in a restaurant or in a bar with or around Christians. Some think that it is wrong. But we have an obligation to glorify God. We have the freedom to have a cocktail or a glass of wine; but there are times when we don't. You don't flaunt this in the faces of those who have problems with drinking.

The other problem is when legalism raises its ugly head; you are judged and maligned for taking a drink. You have a tendency to react. Do not kowtow to legalism or bend to their false standards. You must be sensitive to the perceptions of the immature believer; even the dreaded legalist. A drink with a friend does not take precedence over wounding another believer. Liberty is always there. We don't live our lives in air tight compartments. Liberty does not take precedence over love or over expediency. Glorification of God is a moment by moment business. It is not haphazard. It is not compartmentalized; it is not kept out of this or that aspect of your life. The believer places this thinking into every aspect of his life. Doctrine must always be infused in that endeavor. This command in v. 31 includes every facet, every compartment of your life; none excepted. This is why doctrine is available to us and that is why we must apply it. It is not just the visible glorification but what goes on in our soul first.

When it comes to giving, the key is motivation. If I drop money into the plate, maybe God will bless me. That is the wrong motivation. If I drop money into the plate, maybe this ministry will further the teaching of the Word of God.

When liberty does not glorify God, then apply love or expediency. The more we advance, the more we are able to glorify God.

1Cor. 10:31 So, whether you eat or drink, or whatever you do, do all to the glory of God.

The 2nd principle is found in v. 32. We are not to give offense to the categories: Jews and Greeks, which are two categories of unbelievers. There were Jews and a number of other races, and the other races were incorporated under the heading Greek. These are unbelievers who are among God's chosen people and unbelievers among those who were not chosen as a people by God. What affect are your words and deeds having on those who need to hear the gospel?

It is like a golf swing. It is a very complex set of moves, but your thinking is not going to cover every aspect of that golf swing. There are one or two thoughts which should be in your brain, but not everything is under consideration. In a split second, we must understand how to apply the law of love or the law of expediency.

The church of God includes all who have believed in Jesus Christ. This relationship deals with mature believers and immature believers. This does not exclude legalistic believers. Do not even give offense to legalistic believers. The taboos that they have; but there is no exclusion here. Do not placate their standards of legalism. If they are offended by God's grace manifested in you, then God offends them. God's plan is grace and they do not grasp that. So we do not bend to legalistic standards. Grace orientation is excluded from giving offense. Conversely, when grace and impersonal love are extended toward the legalist, you have fulfilled the mandate to give no offense. With some, you cannot help but give offense.

It is a display of spiritual sophistication and doctrinal orientation when we function under the laws of these verses. We are a work in progress. We are advancing spiritually, even though we never reach a point of absolute maturity. You never get enough doctrine.

Our life advances in a progression; it takes time and continuity and continuous positive volition on our part.

1Cor. 10:32 Do not become a stumbling block [or, do not cause stumbling] to Jews or to Greeks or to the church of God,

1Cor. 10:31–33

Lesson #593 Wednesday September 5, 2007

We can choose to supercede our own liberty with the law of love or the law of expediency. Do all to the glory of God; give no offense; and do not seek personal profit but the profit of many—these are the 3 guidelines.

1Cor. 10:31 So, whether you eat or drink, or whatever you do, do all to the glory of God.

The law of love is actually the God-ward side of things; but giving no offense is the man-ward side. Looking at the second factor, give no offense is a negative particle + a noun + a verb. The verb is γίνομαι, which means to be, to become. Do not be, do not become, give no cause is how we should render this. It is in the imperatives. The NASB give no is too wishy washy. Απροσκοπος = offense. This noun has quite a bit of bearing on how we ought to understand it. It does not mean that we are somehow able to keep from offending anyone. We cannot go through life with the idea that we are not going to give any offense to anyone. If you give the gospel to an unbeliever, he may take offense in rejecting it. People even become antagonistic when it comes to giving the gospel. Should we not give the gospel? Or should we keep from offending Christians who want to see fruit and not doctrine. Some Christians think in this way. Grace giving can rattle some pastors. So, there are legitimate ways to offend people whom you may not want to offend. You must offend someone. You will. Guaranteed. This does not mean absolutely that you will give no offense to no one ever.

Offense is not the best translation. Απροσκοπος = stumbling block. That is a better rendering of this noun and it fits in well with the entire context. This is combined with the believer and the unbeliever. Our actions should not cause the unbeliever to stumble over the gospel; you do not cause the believer to stumble in his spiritual advance. It refers to both here.

We must be sensitive (sort of a fluffy word); we must recognize other people and their thoughts and needs. We must be thoughtful to those in the church and those outside the church. They can easily mistake eating meat offered to idols with idolatry. They could have no contact whatsoever. They would make a legalistic issue of the Mosaic Law.

We do not call God Allah; that is not an application of the law of expediency for a Muslim. They are not two names for the same Person.

The Brussels Journal www.BrusselsJournal.com who is Allah? This is a fine example of syncretism. Europeans love to mock the salience of religion in US society. The de-Christianization of Europe because of tolerance is driving this shiftless continent into the arms of Islam. Even Catholic clergy are jumping onto the Islamic bandwagon. Roman Catholic bishop of Breda says he wants Christians to start calling God Allah, thinking that this would promote harmony between Christians and Muslims. "Shouldn't we all call God Allah?" If the names are interchangeable, why not ask the Muslims to call God Jehovah? They wouldn't. Words still mean something. Is the Allah of Islam the God of the Bible? In pre-Islamic times, Muslims claim that their God began with the Biblical God of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob. The worship of the moon god was the religion of the middle east. What about where Islam was launched? Prominent archeologists found that the dominant religion during the time of Mohamaed was the moon god. The chief deity of the moon god call Al-elah, shortened to Allah, meaning god of the idol. They even used Allah for the names that they gave themselves. Historians say that pre-Islamic Arabs would bow toward Mecca and they would fast for a month beginning with the crescent moon and ending with the same. They run around the Kabbah 7 times. All of these are Islamic practices. Note the moon on the Islamic flags. The main deity from the Arabian pantheon and he was taken to be the greatest; Allah Akbar, Allah is great. There are several different beliefs which go back to paganism like praying 5 times a day and virgins waiting believers when they die and other things. So some scholars call.

Muslims claim that Islam is Judaism and Christianity reformed. They accuse the Jews and Christians of changing the original versions, and they claim the Koran clarifies it. The Koran offers a different god diametrically opposed to the God of the Bible. The Koran says that Allah is an unknowable, impersonal deity. The God of the Bible desires to be known. The Bible says that Abraham is a friend of God. Allah wants to avenge sinners; but Jesus came to this earth and died for our sins. Islam says Christ is not God; Islam does not provide any sure way for man to be reconciled to God.

Mohammed thought Christians would receive him as a prophet. Christians rejected him as a false god, and Mohammed turned against Christians. This bishop thinks he can buy a fake peace with the Muslim religion. Muslims understand much better that ecumenical appeasement is a symptom of a weak and dying Christianity. It has been more than 50 years since C.S. Lewis warned us of what was happening in Europe and post-Christian Europe. This is syncretism.

One more article from Bakersfield fx group. From a newspaper in Bakersfield "Christianity in a Pluralist Culture." Christianity is on the defense. Ted Turner says Christians are losers. Many view Bush's Christianity with contempt. Atheistic writes. Jesus is being removed from the calendar and replaced by CE (common era) instead of AD. Teaching religious studies in college is pure syncretism. Christianity has its roots in Judaism and they had a need to recognize a monotheistic god better than anyone else's. Paul picked up on this exclusivism theme and looked at non-Christians as lost souls. The idea of God playing favorites makes God seem arbitrary and cruel especially when coupled with hell for non-Christians. Young children making friends with Muslims and Hindus just don't buy into it. They eventually reject Christianity outright. Christianity at its best is a beautiful religion, placing emphasis on charity and devotion. The world needs a message like this. [this guy doesn't believe the truth of this]. Christians must learn to see this message in other religions; not only in theirs. Christians need to rise up against their narrowly educated teachers. Each planet receives light from the source of the sun, which is God. Each planet is another religion, and this is the hope of the world; we ought to move away from exclusivism.

The boundaries of our very traditions might be where we meet and catch a glimpse of glory as seen by others, by a Harvard person. Perfect example of syncretism.

Exclusivism Christianity becomes hated, and is seen as stopping the world from getting along; we must eradicate these Christians and everyone will be fine. Christians have been persecuted and killed because they would not renounce Jesus as the only way. Bobby can easily see this coming about in this country as we begin to appease the Muslim more and more and fear him more. Some will do anything to assuage their fear.

Our generation or the next may face trading our lives for our beliefs. We are spoiled; our constitution allows us freedom of religion, but we could lose it. We can see those who hate us rise up and say no more. Christians who believe in Jesus Christ have died for the faith for centuries. No matter how persecuted Christianity is, it will live forever, because Christ lived forever. Do not ever fear the Muslims or those who would compel us to be ecumenical.

You've got to be sensitive and thoughtful, inside and outside of the church. A careless display of liberty could have confused weak Jewish believers. A careless display of antinomian syncretism might turn off the Greeks as well. They see you and figure they are no better and no worse than you.

Europe is dead because they have moved into syncretism. From all Bobby has heard and read, there are a great number of Christians in China; they meet in homes and meet wherever they can. Christianity often flourished under great pressure.

1Cor. 10:32 Give no offense to Jews or to Greeks or to the church of God,

Paul is a great example of v. 32; he is not asking them to do anything which he is not doing. Paul faced incredible pressures and incredible insults and attacks. He made application of these three criteria. He does not seek his own profit, but the profit of the many.

Ευρισκω should not be rendered to please. Paul is not soliciting approval from everyone. He isn't trying to be esteemed and loved by all. Paul knows he cannot please everyone. A believer carrying out the mission of spiritual advance and following the divine mandates of our Lord. There will always be opposition, attacks, etc. It is not our purpose to please everyone; exactly the opposite is true.

1Cor. 10:33 just as I try to please everyone in everything I do, not seeking my own advantage, but that of many, that they may be saved.

In California.

An extensive condition report on R. B. Thieme, Jr.

A Fort Riley soldier was killed in Bagdad. He was one of our own. His parents have been members of Berachah and he was listening to tapes.

This looks like the last verse in chapter 10, but it is not. The final principle of syncretism tonight.

People have a tendency to want to make someone else as the fault for everything in their lives. They want an excuse for all of their failures in their lives. This is a part of people testing. The mandate of the Apostle Paul was to preach the gospel and his mandate was to preach. He will do nothing to interrupt that mission. He does not want to cause any believer to stumble over the gospel. People mostly stumble over those who present the gospel.

Paul has taken a lot of backstabbing and attacks by this people. His response is grace orientation. He has applied the law of love in his own life and ministry. There is no way that we can please everyone. How can we be an imitator of what he is doing? Paul cannot be attempting to get approval by others. Very few people esteem him. Negative volition can be quite vigilant in his opposition and some will become quite livid. There is nothing like the gospel to go straight to the soul of the unbeliever. Paul's mission is to proclaim the gospel. Christianity is exclusive and absolute. The truth is the truth and there is only one truth, and that truth comes from the pages of the Word of God. It excludes all other religions. He teaches the exclusivity of Christianity, of Jesus Christ. When you stand for the truth of Bible doctrine, you will be disliked and sometimes even hated. It would not be a shock for people even in this time for people to be attacked for their Christian beliefs. People are afraid of what might happen if we make the Arabs mad, so that we might placate them. This is Satan's world and he hates you. You are in the cosmic system, designed to work against you. Even Christians ruled by human viewpoint cannot be pleased by divine viewpoint. They do not want to live in that place. We do not get to throw out anything that we want to from the Bible. So pleasing all men cannot be exactly what Paul has in mind here. The key to the meaning is found in the noun which follows it. Συμφορῆς is translated profit, benefit, advantage. What Paul seeks here for all men is a benefit, an advantage, not to please them, but to benefit all men. He wants all men to have the advantage that he has.

So many of us ask, what should I do to please them and you have gone way beyond the meaning of ἀρεσκω. You may think that you need to leave divine expectations and do what human viewpoint desires. We must benefit others. The benefit in this verse is the gospel hearing for the unbeliever; of, in the law of love, the benefit of advancement or not to cause one to stumble in their advance. Whatever it takes to achieve that is rendering service to all men. You cannot please human viewpoint. If you do that, you will depart from the divine approach.

You are not pleasing them from your expectations, but you are approaching them with whatever it takes to communicate their profit, their advantage. Paul is a benefactor, not necessarily from their viewpoint, but from Paul's understanding of doctrine, which is divine viewpoint. We are benefactors, whether those you benefit know it or accept it. When you advance spiritually, you are a benefactor. Paul is not pleasing all those who cannot stand him, but he is there for their benefit, whether they understand it or not.

Paul is not trying to be popular or trying to increase approbation; but he is doing these things hopefully that any and all will be saved. Every time you give the gospel, you are a benefactor, and that is to everyone's benefit, although some may not like it. That is why Paul is a benefactor of all men, but he is not a pleaser of all men. A great example, is one of our soldiers who fell in Iraq. He is a benefactor to all of us, his spilled blood, which provides freedom and security. Many of us recognize that benefit and appreciate it. There are not enough words to say to express the sacrifice which he has made. However, there are others who mock it. War protestors go to funerals of fallen soldiers in order to express their views. That is the evil or arrogance and activism. Those fallen soldiers are the very benefactors of those who despise them. They are συμφέρω. Antiwar activists just do not realize it. They do not recognize where the advantage of freedom comes from. Rodney J. Johnson is our benefactor, just as we are a benefactor to anyone who receives the gospel from us.

1. Any believers who presents the gospel is a benefactor.
2. That is regardless of whether it is accepted or rejected by the one who hears it.
3. In that sense only, can you please all men, even though not all are pleased.
4. The gospel is the benefit; the one who witnesses is the benefactor. We are the messenger of this great advantage.

In this principle is the final commentary on Syncretism

1. Syncretism is trying to please the human race from the human perspective. That is relativism. They do not like absolutism or the exclusivity of Biblical truth. You cannot please everyone.
2. In syncretism, some Christians collaborate with human philosophies and religions which are diametrically opposed to Biblical Christianity. The goofy idea that God is the sun and all religions are like planets circling around Him. However, every religion is out of step with God. No other religion has as its core the grace of God. That means, you have nothing in common with the rest of the world.

3. This is what we call ecumenicalism, Christianity accepting some of the doctrines of other religions, so as to play down the differences between Christianity and other religions.
4. Or, accepting falsehoods or heresies which are anti-Biblical. In other words, anti-Christian.
5. Liberal theology often denigrates divine attributes and Biblical doctrines usually for humanism or for man. As Biblical theologians, we start with God and with us as lost. God is absolute; His truth is absolute; His essence is absolute. Any denigration of that is a denigration of God.

Bobby also read an article about a Bishop in Netherlands, saying that we ought to use the name Allah for God. "What does God care what we call Him?" If you will recall, Allah came out of idolatry. Allah is very different from the God of the Bible. Allah determines everything, including evil done by the Muslim. Why did this guy make such an untrue statement? To placate our Muslim brothers; to show that we are brothers. That is syncretism. They will not use the name of Yahweh. That bishop has no solution but a human one, which is no solution. Christianity is exclusive, not one religion among many. He calls himself a bishop of Christianity. If Christianity is truth, and if the Lord Jesus Christ is truth, when He says, "I am the way, the truth and the life, then there is no other way. Therefore, Christianity is a separator of the human race from those who reject Jesus Christ. That is humanism. People are filing by Lucy at the museum and thinking that she is our ancestor. Lucy will not bring us all together. Believers are brought together by the work of our Lord. The rest of the world will not be unified ever. Humanism hates that narrow view. Humanism makes us into God. How can you unify with that? We are not God. We are made in the image of God. We are just as spiritually dead as anyone else born into this world. We will be separated from those who do not believe. We have the only message of unity. You do not please God in syncretism either. The Muslim today, syncretism is weakness. The Christian who capitulates to the Muslim is seen by them as weak. And they will exploit that weakness to the detriment of mankind. Syncretism is a compromise of the truth of God's Word. There is no benefit for believers or unbelievers. Seek the profit of all. The gospel is worth living for and worth dying for. Paul died by the hand of Nero, and Nero died shortly thereafter. Thousands have died as martyrs and they are all benefactors. Always remember, to live is Christ and to die is profit; that is what to remember when the world hates you.

We can do good all of our lives and it benefits no one. We are that exclusive. The Lord Jesus Christ provides the only true future.

1Cor. 10:33 just as I try to please everyone in everything I do, not seeking my own advantage, but that of many, that they may be saved.

1Cor. 11:1, should be in chapter 10. Paul is not the epitome of perfection, but he is a benefactor and that is what we all ought to be. There is dissension in Corinth; incredible arrogance, and they are at war with one another. There is nothing good among the factions of that church.

“You have heard the examples of how to use the law of love” and the have read this and have absorbed it. They cannot claim a legitimate liberty for intolerance toward one another. We must have the best interest of one another in mind. We need to develop the problem solving devices and learn them and use them. Learn the doctrine I am giving you and apply the doctrine I am giving you. This is all about imitating the doctrine, not the personality.

1Cor. 11:1 Be imitators of me, as I am also of Christ.

Specialist Johnson from Berachah was killed in Iraq.

Bobby is unsure as to how to present this delicate information to us. He may have to be an imitator of Paul. 1Cor. 11 is just as much as inspired as the gospel of Jesus Christ.

Overview of this Epistle

1. In the first 6 chapters, Paul deals with lack of harmony in his church and the carnality which was widespread among all believers. Not one of us has remained in fellowship all the time. Believers filed lawsuits against each other.
2. In 1Cor. 7, Paul takes up various instructions and aids for practical living; marriage and divorce; and how believers handle being married to unbelievers. Eating meat sacrificed to idols, which dealt with the problem of syncretism when we are inundated with human viewpoint all of our lives.
3. There is a necessity for the application of the laws of expediency and love so we know how to use the laws of expediency in our life. We unequivocally understand that we have an obligation to one another. We must not be the cause of someone else stumbling over us or over the gospel or over Bible doctrine. They can do it on their own, but we must not be the cause of this stumbling. The law of love always eclipses our liberty. As we progress in the spiritual life, we will keep in mind the best interest of others over our own. We cannot be intolerant, antagonistic, etc. Grace orientation and iml must rule our relationships with other. We did not deserve salvation when we received it. So now we understand the only way to fulfill our obligation to one another is to advance in our spiritual lives. So we build the edification complex and learn the problem solving devices, all of them.

Now, in chapter 11, Paul will continue to expound and deal with hair and veils and we may wonder what does all this matter? The overarching principle is authority. We will be stunned, and hopefully, we will come to our senses about authority.

There are other portions of this chapter which deal with the Communion Table and how important it is to approach Communion with sobriety. What you have in your soul must be applied to our everyday life. We must have some doctrine in our soul to apply it. To just sit here and acquire knowledge is not enough. That is the means of spiritual advance, but it is not the entire picture. This is not just humanism; this is divine viewpoint. This is a help to us to be able to utilize the doctrine which is in our souls.

These people to whom Paul writes know him well. He spent 11 months there face to face with them, teaching them. They know the priority of Bible doctrine in his life. They have seen his modus operandi. They have seen his impersonal love. They do not earn or deserve it. They have been real back stabbers to Paul. He still fails and he still has the problems of human life which we all face. However, he tells them, Imitate me. Paul has feet of clay; he has a sin nature, and if they view Paul in this way, they will scream hypocrisy when it comes to imitating him. However, it is not about imitating Paul's human life. He is not some charlatan boosting money from other believers. This guy is the real deal. This is not about Paul; this is about being Christ-like; if they follow Paul, they will follow his instructions and his mandates and they will advance spiritually just as he is; they will take on the mind of Christ; they will fulfill the plan of God for their lives.

1Cor. 11:1 Be imitators of me, as I am also of Christ.

Sunday 2 September 9, 2007

In California

We must be very careful when we approach a statement like, be an imitator of someone. We often want to imitate some quality of someone that we like. Anyone who has qualities that we want to emulate often has some negative qualities as well. It is also possible that there are qualities which they do not like. This is not what Paul is saying here.

Μιμητης = mimic. Γίνομαι = to become. Be imitators of me... This can be loosely translated Use me as your model; or, strive to behave as I do. Striving is not what we do in the Christian life. This can also mean be followers of me. Paul does not want to allow them to become divisive as they have been before, because some have said, "I am of Paul" and others have said, "I am of Christ." This is an imperative of entreaty, which means, Paul is not making a mild request, nor is he emphatically mandating them to imitate him; he is appealing to them; he is urgently emphasizing them to use their positive volition to become imitators. The best translation is become imitators of me, which indicates a process, which means they become like Paul. That process is the spiritual advance. To fulfill the purpose which Paul is compelled to fulfill. As a mature believer, he understand that, and he wants them to be compelled, by their positive volition, by their spiritual advance. There is a person to imitate for all believers. He seems to be setting himself up as the one to imitate, but there is no arrogance involved here. There is something much more important than mere imitation here. The caveat, imitate me as I imitate Christ; they are to imitate the example which he sets. Paul is not trying to set up a faction here. Imitation here is a call. It is a call to unity and to fellowship in the Corinthian church. It is not just a unity, but a doctrinal fellowship. When Bobby closes out with a prayer thanking God for allowing us to fellowship, this is not a social thing, but the association in the Word.

Bobby has his own spiritual advance before the Lord, just as we all do. Imitate the spiritual advance of the man who is advancing spiritually. Social fellowship is great when you are of a like mind. Imitating Bible doctrine. Paul means for them to imitate him. That is how the believer is to imitate.

In the previous hour, we should have been occupied with Jesus Christ while we participated in Communion. It is a time to explore our own dedication and loyalty to the Lord Jesus Christ. What did we think? Where was our mind? Were you thinking about what you were going to do later? What about the purpose of the Communion Table? What about the Person Who should be foremost in your thinking? It is a privilege to be an imitator.

There are very few of us who are original. Some of us are plagiarists. As long as it is not stealing someone else's material, including Christian material. Christians have these sorts of problems. They are not the imitators which we need to be. Paul needs for us to imitate him as he imitates Jesus Christ. Paul hated those who were not Jewish. One of his first martyrs was Stephen, found in Acts 7, holding the coats of those who stoned Peter. Here was a man killing those who believed in Jesus Christ. What did Jesus Christ do for him? He was riding on a horse and Christ struck him down from his horse. Jesus personally appeared to Paul to cause him to change his mind. What great impersonal love. He did not strike Paul dead, but he struck him with the gospel. He poured our salvation richly upon someone who deserved none of it. Paul wants these Corinthians to imitate how he treats them with impersonal love, as he was treated with impersonal love from Jesus. He is making a policy.

Have we seen Paul? Of course not. Humans cannot imitate other humans that they have not observed, and this was written to us. We cannot imitate his personality. They have not a clue. We have not seen His ministry; we have not seen Him walk the earth.

How do we imitate if we can't see?

1. We are imitators by inculcating Bible doctrine and executing the spiritual life. The only way that we can know Christ We can only imitate what we know about him from the Scripture.
2. The unique spiritual life was pioneered by Jesus Christ in the 1st century. He was filled with the Holy Spirit and He grew spiritually like any other human being does. He was tempted like us, yet even greater, as He could see Satan and was tempted by him directly. He is our Savior and He is our example. All of the problem solving devices were used by Him to the maximum. These we possess as well, even though we are imperfect.

3. He was the prototype of our spiritual life. We have the same spiritual life.
4. That is His legacy. When He departed, He left the spiritual life behind, the very one which He operated under. He gave us all of it. That is riches beyond our imagination. It has nothing to do with what we can do. It has everything to do with what He can do for us.
5. Filling of the Holy Spirit is part of our lives, and He went to the cross under the power of the Holy Spirit. If we use the power of the Holy Spirit in our spiritual advance, we are imitators. He grew in spiritual knowledge and He build perfectly the edification complex structure. He used all the assets which we have.
6. All of these are the mechanics of our spiritual advance. Paul is summing up for us just exactly what our mission is in the Christian life. Now he gives us the mechanics, which we have from the Word of God.
7. By utilizing these spiritual resources, growing spiritually, and making application to circumstance, any believer can become an imitator of the Christ in the first advent. We look around at ourselves and say, "I can do that?" He is so far above us; but He left behind the ability and the resources which we can use to imitate Him. Christ-likeness is the very depths of our souls. Without the proper motivation, we can't be Christ-like.
8. Through utilizing the spiritual resources, and making application to circumstances, any believer can endure insults, antagonism with humility, patience and kindness. You won't emulate Him perfectly, but, as you grow, you can endure things that you would never endure before. Why? Why don't you strike back? What a relaxed content way to live when your life isn't consumed with the idea that you will get back with someone, if it takes you the rest of your life. That is not an imitation of Christ. He took everything that they could give Him, and He gave back salvation. We have salvation and we can be imitators.
9. In short, any believer can utilize grace orientation.

Paul himself is a fine example of spiritual imitation by his own life. So, he can write to them, become imitators of me. When you try to get back at someone, they then try to get back at you, and it is an endless cycle. Be imitators of me is a wonderful grace statement; not to imitate his personality or his traits, but to follow his spiritual life, through the same mechanics.

You are not to imitate the personality or the style of Paul or any other human being. We like someone's personality, so we try to emulate that. It is a poor substitute. Too often Christians pick out other Christians whom they attempt to imitate. Someone who is very pious or someone who raises hell and calls himself a Christian. It is a superficial imitation. You need thinking and motivation, not superficiality; not a facade. There must be a change of attitude, which comes from epistemological rehabilitation. The change of imitation is wrought by Bible doctrine in your soul. That change comes from the inside. You see a mature believer and you try to emulate the way that they walk or talk or whatever attracts you. They try to get some approbation by having the proper personality.

Now you understand Who you are to imitate and who you are in Christ, and that you are to be grace orientated and doctrinally oriented.

1Cor. 11:1 Be imitators of me, as I am also of Christ.

Lesson #597 Wednesday September 12, 2007

In California

Killed in action on the 4th of September; he attended prep school, etc.

Who was Paul that we should ever even consider imitating him? Isn't it presumptuous for him to hold himself up as a model to imitate for all time? The Corinthians know him very well, so they understand what he is saying. He is an Apostle, one of the 12. Even more than that, they knew him as a teacher and a writer of the inspired Scripture, as a missionary traveling throughout the ancient world. In those churches, especially in the new ones, he carried out pastoral duties, including the Corinthian church once he formed this church. He could speak in tongues and he could heal, and he had all of the gifts. He could reprove, correct and instruct in righteousness. He ended up as a martyr for the faith at the order of Nero. He had all of the gifts as an Apostles, everything which epitomized the Christian life. He would be a great Christian to mimic, based upon his wide range of Christian activity. As Christians, let's pick some of these gifts? Imitate his works? All the things which he is doing? This is not what Paul is saying here. There is no imitation of activities here. Too often Christians pick out some other Christian and they attempt to mimic others. And these others want you to think that they are the greatest Christians in the world. Many people want to be notices and to be seen by others as something special and someone to imitate. This is not Paul. That is superficial imitation of activities and effort, and there is no real motivation. There is nothing phoney about the Apostle Paul. A superficial imitation of someone is fleeting, especially if you suddenly see their feet of clay. They stumbled and you think, they are hypocrites, and instead of following them, you are maligning them. They disappointed you, and there you were, an imitator. You should not be imitating activities, duties, obligations or whatever of another believer.

There was training at the seminary where Bobby went. Bobby never got the right heart. The pastoral heart, which seemed to Bobby to be a certain type of personality. For them, it was a sweet, offend no one, godly personality, and the actions to go with it. This may include some good qualities, if it sprang from the doctrine resident in their souls. This is how many there took it. Don't raise your voice to the congregation; pat them on the head; make them feel good. The problem is, you encourage people with doctrine and you correct them when it is necessary to correct them. Bobby understood that there was a time to get tough. Many Christians disliked Bob's personality, and it was not one sweet Christians would imitate.

You cannot be an imitator by aping someone's personality or disposition. The correct motivation comes from epistemological rehabilitation. When you try to make a personality changed based on superficialities, it is worthless. You may see a quality you don't have and you try to mimic it.

There is not set personality or temperament for a pastor. The imitation here is on the inside, not on the outside. Paul is one of the most doctrinally oriented of the believers. We were to imitate Paul's way of thinking. The mature believer is motivated by divine viewpoint.

Imitation

1. Paul operates with the mind of Christ from Bible doctrine. He has implanted in his soul the mind of Christ.
2. He consistently used the operational spiritual life. Christ was the prototype and we have the operational system.
3. When the Corinthians become imitators of Paul, they are motivated by an internal change. Epistemological rehabilitation.
4. They are now thinking with divine viewpoint, which is imitation.
5. They are not only imitating Paul but Christ, as the prototype. He was the model of the Church Age believer spiritual life.
6. Applying doctrinal thinking to all the circumstances of their lives. It is always about inculcation and motivation and application. This is the only way to imitate.

It does not matter what your personality is like; it is the 6 points above.

1Thess. 1:6–7 is a parallel passage, with a different twist: And you became imitators of us and of the Lord, welcoming the Word in much affliction with joy of the Holy Spirit. So that you became examples to all those believing in Macedonia and Achaian.

You cannot become an imitator without receiving the teaching of the Word of God. It is the prerequisite. It is doctrine and the promises of the Word of God and the techniques of the Word of God, like rebound and faith rest; it is the entire divine viewpoint of life. It is not imitating a person's actions but imitating the change within. Thessalonians believers are heavily persecuted. Nothing like a little pressure to get the believers into the Word of God. You get yourself in a bind and what do you do? You come running back to the Word with your tail between your legs. Adversity accelerates the advance. Tribulation and joy are put together in this Thessalonians passage. These people went through many trials and adversity. They understood contained in this doctrine were all the problem solving devices that they needed. They began to utilize and apply divine viewpoint. Filled with the Holy Spirit they are happily motivated, even in tribulation. Here is a church advancing, taking in doctrine with great anticipation. Be imitators with this church. The believer inculcates in order to become an imitator, to live the spiritual life. This is how we become an imitator. That is the mandate; to imitate.

Paul has this marvelous spiritual life and he knows that it is wonderful, and he is trying to impart it. Paul was a prototype of the spiritual life; he had it and he executed it. It is all internal; it is not external. Those in Thessalonika were some of the first to respond to Paul's teaching. You may want to call this a blueprint church at Thessalonika. The Holy Spirit is that which makes doctrine real to their soul. They have positive volition and they are in great anticipation of their pastor-teacher teaching them. We also in looking at Christ, at Paul, at anyone functioning in the spiritual life.

In Thessalonians, Paul does make a reference to imitating us and the Lord. Paul, and these others, are only messengers. They are illustrators. He is a purveyor of doctrine and its application to the extent that their thinking and actions conform to Jesus Christ. Paul must conform to the life pioneered by Jesus Christ. This is why he adds the source, Jesus Christ. It is all about imitating Christ and doing so by inculcating the mind of Christ and utilizing the thinking of Christ, the faith rest drill, and all the Jesus used to withstand all the temptations which He faced. It is about how He thinks and is motivated. His motivation and His actions are our motivation. Christ invented the unique spiritual life. He could not have gone to the cross without the power of the Holy Spirit and doctrine in His soul. He was God and true humanity, like us in every way. Therefore, He thought as we do, He developed as we do, and we must imitate it. The Lord Jesus Christ glorified the Father by His thinking and His actions. That was the greatest glorification of all. The spiritual life has such great happiness and contentment; it is a by-product. He perfectly shared happiness and contentment.

Application to the Corinthians and to us

1. Part of our imitation of Christ as we grow spiritually is His graciousness and His love toward us, which is worth imitating. He loved us so much that He gave His life for us; He paid a penalty which was not His. We love because He first loved us.
2. Our emulation of His attitude should be extended to all through the laws of love and/or expediency applied from the increasing capacity to love gained by our increasing capacity to love. Paul has just given us a long dissertation on the laws of love and expediency, and he applies to these idiots these two laws. Paul gives them an example. They have not treated Paul well. He could have easily said, "I am washing my hands of you and going back to Thessalonika where they appreciate me." Imitate grace orientation, personal love for God, and impersonal love for all mankind.
3. The application of the laws of expediency and/or love is our objective and the true solution to conflict among people. It is the alternative to conflict among believers.
4. Imitation is the means to maintain our witness to unbelievers and believers and to encourage other believers to grow. Imitating Paul is imitating Christ. You maintain your witness, which is expediency. The real test of your spiritual growth is how well can you imitate. When you utilize the problem solving devices, that is the result of your imitation.
5. This is what Paul imitated in his relationship with the Corinthians. This will affect their relationship with one another.

More Points

1. The doctrine that circulates in our stream of consciousness, which is the source of our imitation of Christ, is the basis for our grace orientation, for our divine viewpoint, for our relaxed mental attitude, our personal love toward God and impersonal love toward all mankind. We can have the same relaxed mental attitude as our Lord had, walking toward the cross. We have the resources; we have everything which he had.
2. This is the highest and best motivation for all in life. People are motivated by all kinds of things. We know what our motivation is. This is our spiritual life and everything which comes from it.
3. Without this motivation in our soul, there is only a surface imitation.
4. Without any real spiritual advance, there is no real underlying spiritual motivation.
5. If you have impersonal love in your soul as motivation, and you apply the law of love, which is an application of impersonal love, then you will approach conflict that same way that you approach harmony. That is a skill that we all need to have. How relaxing is that? That is a real relaxed mental attitude. That is a great skill for when you are married.
6. You will then think like Christ with a relaxed mental attitude and graciousness toward all, as did Christ and Paul by utilizing the spiritual life. Imitate so that you can apply the law of love. Do not become a stumbling block to anyone. Do not seek benefit for yourself but the benefit of all others first. This all goes back to the previous chapter.

1Cor. 11:1 Be imitators of me, as I am also of Christ.

Now we move to v. 2, which is a different tact and a different subject, and we are moving into chapter 11.

1Cor. 11:1

Lesson #598 Thursday September 13, 2007

Some one from Berachah died, and possibly it was a soldier who is well-known?

Paul has just told the Corinthians to copy him, and he will actually give them a little encouragement under the law of love. These Corinthians have given Paul quite a few problems, but he needs to encourage them, as a person who loves them would. They have not done much right, but apparently they have done something right. Paul is not going to give them some false praise.

We need a little background. We should understand that Paul is actually responding in this first epistle to a letter which had been previously sent to him from the Corinthians. He recognized that these people needed some answers, and under the inspiration of God the Holy Spirit, he penned them a letter. All of these things which Paul covers in this epistle did not just come out of the blue. There is evidence of this first letter in this text. Paul's answers are so specific that they could have only come from specific questions; these answers, sent from Ephesus, had to have knowledge of what was going on there; and he had not been in Corinth for some time. Scholars also believe that the epistle that we are studying is not Paul's first letter to them. Any letter written prior to this one is now entirely lost to us.

These Corinthians must have expressed some kind of desire to conform to his instructions. It is like, we got your letter and we want to conform and go along with your guidance. They also expressed confusion and deviation in other areas. Paul obviously had reports of their deviations, squabblings, and cultic behavior. Paul could still say that there was some positive volition and some desire to do what was right. These problems which had been expressed to Paul, he addressed directly. Paul acknowledges that there was a certain amount of loyalty in this church.

Paul uses an interesting word here: traditions. Παραδοσις = teachings, doctrines [not traditions]. This includes what he had taught face to face. This included the facts of the gospel and the teachings of Christ. In the first 30 years or so, after Paul planted all of these churches, they had no knowledge of what Christ had said.

What Paul Taught

1. Paul had to circulate what was known from Jerusalem. They could only know about Jesus through one of the Apostles.
2. What Jesus had spoken was transmitted by the Apostles until it was put into writing.
3. And, of course, Paul taught the mystery doctrine.

They understood what Jesus did on the cross; the hypostatic union. They had not become gnostics or fallen into a cult, but they had problems with one another. Paul also writes practical instruction and doctrinal mandates. After his encouragement, Paul begins a new area of instruction.

1Co 11:2 But I praise you, brothers, that in all things you have remembered me, and even as I delivered them to you, you hold fast the doctrines.

Portions of the next verse are rather difficult, and we may be able to become very subjective when dealing with this verse. We just need to set aside in our minds what is coming. We need to let the 2nd phase go.

The underlying principle of this paragraph is all about authority.

Paul uses some illustrations, and each one of the relationships which he covers requires authority orientation. The ones which are clear help to explain those which are not. The chain of command is crystal clear.

This is parallel to Eph. 5:23–24: ...because a husband is head of the wife, as also Christ is Head of the assembly, and He is the Savior of the body. But even as the assembly is subject to Christ, so also the wives to their own husbands in everything.

What is missing is, God is the head of Christ. We are dealing with two deities. Philip. 2:5–8: For think this within you, which mind was also in Christ Jesus, who subsisting in the form of God, thought it not robbery to be equal with God, but emptied Himself, taking the form of a slave, having become in the likeness of men and being found in fashion as a man, He humbled Himself, having become obedient until death, even the death of a cross.

Μορφη = the whole set of characteristics which makes something what it is. This is the very essence of a person; it is the essential nature of a person. The form of God is in fact God. Christ in hypostatic union had all of the attributes of God. He existed in the form of God. During the first advent, Christ subordinated Himself to the Father, even though He was the exact essence of God. In the first advent, this God-man subordinated Himself to God the Father in order to accomplish our salvation. Christ did not seize on His deity, refusing to be subordinate; He did not require equality with God as a thing to be held. God's plan required our Lord to take on the form of a slave. He was a slave in the likeness of men; again, μορφε is used. It is a mystery how God can be God and man at the same time He subordinated Himself to the Father. He was true and perfect humanity, and under the authority of the Father for His mission. He is never said to be inferior to God; subordinate, yes, but inferior, no. This is true in every area of authority that we find in v. 3 below.

Doctrine of the Kenosis

1. Kenosis takes its name from the Greek verb κενω = empty, emptying; to deprive oneself of a rightful function. Taken from v. 7. It does not mean that He emptied Himself of His deity.
2. Kenosis explains how the supreme God of the universe could take upon Himself the form of a man and to be truly man forever and ever. He condescended to become a man and endure the humiliation of the cross. This is how God became man and dwelt among us and died for us.
3. Kenosis does not mean that Jesus gave up His perfection to sin; He did not surrender one attribute of deity and not even a little bit, while becoming man. He willingly restricted the independent use of His attributes. This is in compliance with His Father's plan for the Incarnation, which is the heart of the doctrine of kenosis.
4. That is the meaning of God is the head of Christ. That Christ willingly restricted the use of His attributes in His incarnation.
5. Christ was subordinate only in His role as Savior. He had a role to play as our Savior. He was not inferior because He took upon Himself the role of a man.
6. This is the crux of headship in our passage. This is the prototype for headship: authority, but not inferiority; headship but not inferiority.
7. There is another great statement in Scripture of our Lord's subordination. Luke 22:41b–42: And having placed the knees, He prayed, saying, Father, if You purpose it, take away this cup from Me; but not My will be done, but let Yours be done. Perfect God praying to be released from this path which He was on. He did not want to bear our sins. Many times women do not want to submit. There has never been more authority orientation in history; Jesus did this because He was authority oriented and he was totally dedicated to the purpose for which He came into this world. God has volition just as man does. Jesus in His humanity had volition. This required subordination to God's plan. This is the epitome of authority orientation.

Imitate me and imitate Christ is what Paul told the Corinthians to do. You must be authority oriented.

1Co 11:3 But I want you to know that Christ is the head of every man, and the man is the head of a woman, and God is the head of Christ.

Sunday 1 September 16, 2007

Funeral for fallen soldier in Berachah last Friday. There were many in Berachah and all who showed up heard the gospel. There was a motorcycle group there to protect against anti-war protestors, who did not show.

Authority is involved in every aspect of our lives. Without authority, anarchy and chaos results. Too much authority is tyranny. There is a balance between tyranny and anarchy. Authority was an issue in the garden. It was their anti-authority decisions which cause us to pay the price. These verses present illustrations in the divine and human realms. These verses are of God's authority. We no longer have to debate about authority as Scripture is clear in this area. This passage will clear up for us leadership, subordination and our obligations. We may or may not accept what we will hear. However, the key is positive volition toward doctrine.

This passage sets up authority. There is a relationship between God and Christ; and Christ, man and woman. There is a chain of command, and a reason for this chain of command. Authority-orientation in the divine realm is the pattern for authority-orientation in the human realm. We start with the final phrase of v. 3: God is the head of Christ. If Christ is God and co-equal and co-eternal with God, how can He be, in any way, subordination? Doesn't subordination suggest inferiority?

Let's go to Philip. 2:6–9: Jesus Christ subsisting in the form of God, thought it not robbery to be equal with God, but emptied Himself, taking the form of a slave, having become in the likeness of men and being found in fashion as a man, He humbled Himself, having become obedient until death, even the death of a cross. Because of this also God highly exalted Him and gave Him a name above every name. Form is the Greek noun μορφή. Christ, in the form of God, had the complete essence of God. He is in the form of God. He is co-equal. God's plan required our Lord to empty Himself, to take on the form of a slave, being made in the likeness of men. Christ was truly human, in every sense of the word, in the likeness of mankind. Christ has a divine and human nature in one person; that is His hypostatic union. These two natures were inseparably united in Him without any mixture or loss of separate identities. There was no a mixture nor did He lose a portion of His deity. These persons were united in one person forever. Jesus was in the form of a bond servant. This helps us to understand the authority issues. As undiminished deity, Christ was not nor could He ever be inferior to God. In true and perfect humanity, Jesus Christ subordinated Himself to the Father. Equality and subordination. These are absolutely key in all other relationships. Our Lord submitted Himself to the plan of God for our salvation; and this included the agony of the cross. The agony which He endured was perfect humanity bearing the sins of the world. This was certainly something which Jesus Christ did not want to do. Luke 22:42. Shortly before going to the cross, He said, “Father, if You are willing, remove this cup from Me. Yet not My will, but Yours be done.” This is the power of impersonal love.

As God, Jesus was not inferior to the Father in any way. He was not in some way lesser than God the Father. He emptied Himself... He did not empty Himself of His deity.

Kenosis comes from to empty oneself. It is better understood to mean to deprives oneself of a rightful function. Jesus Christ was completely God during the entire period of His incarnation. He did not set aside His deity for any part of His 33 years. He deprived Himself of the independent function of His deity. He had equality with God. He could have shed the whole thing and joined God in heaven. However, Jesus did not use His deity for His own benefit. He did not fall back on the equality clause, but He certainly could have. He was never independent of God’s plan. He used the spiritual life that we have in order to accomplish the first advent. He never stepped outside the plan of God.

Subordination to authority always requires volition to do so. Our subordination to God requires our free will as well. Our submission to authority does not come naturally. It requires humility and virtue in order to do. Our spiritual life and our attitude in life all have to do with the authority which is over us. Authority is critical in life.

It is important to recognize that Christ was subordinate only in His role as Savior. He was not inherently inferior because He took the form of a man. A woman is subordinate to a man; but the woman is never inferior to the man. Our Lord Jesus Christ humbled Himself to the point of making Himself obedient to the cross. This is the crux of headship and authority in our passage. What we have just heard carries over to us, with respect to the relationship between a man and a woman.

1Co 11:3 But I want you to understand that Christ is the head of every man, and the man is the head of a woman, and God is the head of Christ.

Lesson #600 Sunday 2 September 16, 2007

Some men were really happy to hear that they are in charge. However, if you are not a leader, then the woman is not going to be much of a follower. Subordination depends upon the leader and if the leader can’t lead, he is not even going to have a following of one.

These illustrations are connected. The woman is of the same nature and of the same characteristics as man. Christ and God are of the same  $\mu\omicron\rho\phi\eta$ ; and the same is true of men and women. The woman is also the imago dei, which is the image of God; and this applies to men and women alike. This is true, even though the woman was created second. This is the essence of shadow image.

The woman is not inferior to the man in any way. The woman is a responder. She responds to the husband and submits to the authority of the husband. Men and women both have subordinate roles in the spiritual life, and we should not react to this, as Christ had a subordinate role in the plan of God as well. We are to love and care for our wife and to look out for her. We have a greater responsibility and we should never forget this. The leader in the relationship. This is the parallel. Christ did not submit to God the Father because He was inferior, but because that is divine design. The woman is subordinate to the man by divine design. The woman was created as a responder.

It was a difficult role for Jesus Christ; and after, He was exalted above every name. The woman needs to be oriented to authority in order to fulfill her role. The question looming large in most minds is, what is submission? What is initiation and leadership? The picture of authority has even a greater connotation. Authority and subordination are pervasive concepts throughout the entire human race; it is a part of divine establishment. It is more than simply Christian establishment. Without divine establishment, every believer is a law to Himself. Anti-authority is the epitome of arrogance. Authority is inescapable. The time in which we live from the 1960's is totally anti-authority; they think that there is no law above their own personal whims. There is no doubt that we are inferior to God; He created us and we are certainly under His authority. This paragraph will make it clear exactly what the lines of authority are. Many people have a problem accepting the authority of God. These are humanists who place human authority above all. There are naturalists who place human authority below nature, and attempt to subordinate human volition to nature (or, their view of nature).

Monday morning, we will step into an office and someone there is in charge, whether we like it or not. We all have authority in our lives. The question is, how do we deal with it? What happens if we reject it? There is always a battle for power and authority among people. Someone is always trying to take more authority or to usurp authority. They do not understand the true nature of authority; authority will always be abused and rejected. Authority is a divine institution; it is part of human life. There is authority in all relationships of mankind. Authority is a part of the church and of marriage and in all mankind.

Keep in the back of your mind: this is a critical principle to keep in mind while covering this chapter. This is not about cultural issues. Paul is dealing with spiritual issues when it comes to authority. He is dealing with Christian men and women in the church. This passage has validity for the relationships between men and women and people in general. Authority is a divinely sanctioned principle.

When authority is attacked, then freedom is at risk as well. You might think that, if you overthrow authority, then you'll have more freedom. However, not enough authority means anarchy and chaos, which means no real freedom. Freedom is based upon authority. God is not trying to limit the freedom of men and women or of anyone else. If authority is handled right, whether in a nation, at home, or at work, it allows for the greatest amount of freedom. Unless authority orientation is taught in the home, freedom will be lost outside the home. We have a generation which is entirely anti-authority and look where we are. This is a universal principle. Try speaking on a college campus if you have the wrong viewpoint. You will be shouted down. No freedom of speech. This is anti-authority; this is lack of authority orientation.

As God is the head of Christ, Christ is the head of man; and man is the head of woman.

This is the chain of command. kephalê (κεφαλή) [pronounced keh-faw-LAY], which means head; superior rank; superior authority; a person designated with authority; 1) the head, both of men and often of animals. Since the loss of the head destroys life, this word is used in the phrases relating to capital and extreme punishment.; 2) metaphorically anything supreme, chief, prominent; 2a) of persons, master lord: of a husband in relation to his wife; 2b) of Christ: the Lord of the husband and of the Church; 2c) of things: the corner stone. Strong's #2776.

In our Lord's subordination resides great glory. There is a glory in having authority orientation. This passage will say there is a glory in a woman who is under authority. The woman with authority orientation is exalted because she is inside the plan of God.

In mental capacity and capabilities, women are equal to and even better in man areas. It varies from man to man and woman to woman. This is not about who have the capacities or abilities between the genders. Designated authority as in v. 3 does not mean superiority in any realm. This is the mistake of feminism. Feminists see themselves as inferior when they are subordinate; and men who misuse their authority also make things out to be that way. When a man has true humility, some women mistake that for weakness. True humility in a man is a quality of greatness; and some women mistake it for weakness, which can be a problem.

Now, there is the problem when the dolt of a man is hooked up with a brainy woman. Authority to this guy? Subordination to him? This was a mistake that you made, if you married someone like this. You need to marry someone who has authority orientation, and someone to whom you are willing to be subordinate.

The plan of God is not suspended because you make a bad decision. It does not work that way. This passage is difficult because some superimpose their experience over the principle. This is why a woman needs to be so careful about whom she closely associates with; and whom she falls in love with. A woman should not put herself under the authority of a man who cannot handle it. It is hard enough for a woman to subordinate herself to a man; much more difficult if he cannot properly wield authority. A man does not have to be smarter than the woman nor does he need to be anything else more than the woman; he needs to know how to use his authority. Taming of the Shrew is a good example of this. A man needs to know when to be gentle and when to be tough (but, there is no place for brutality; that is abuse of authority). Leadership takes patience in the face of disrespect in the face of anti-authority. We men have the responsibility regardless of what the response is; and women had their subordinate role regardless of how poor of a leader he is. Brutality is a lack of patience; brutality is an expression of frustration and it is absolutely wrong.

Women, be careful to whom you place yourself under authority to. Bobby's been under great authority and under lousy authority; however, we gain ground under bad authority. The military is great for spiritual advance. The military provides all kinds of illustrations.

he 2nd and 3rd part of this verse may cause some minor problems. A subordinate relationship is being set up. Κεφαλη = head, superior rank, authority. When dealing with authority orientation, there are problems. We mostly understand what a higher rank is and we respect this higher rank, even when they are not superior to us (obviously, in the human realm). Authority orientation is the mode of the Christian life; how we relate to God and to each other and in marriage. Authority orientation is a universal principle.

A subordinate relationship in the divine realm. God is the head of Christ. Bobby wants to cover this for the hardcore Wednesday night.

God is the Head of Christ

1. This does not refer to a superior status of the 1st and 2nd members of the Trinity.
2. They are absolutely totally equal in all ways. There is no inferiority or subordination among the Godhead.
3. There are different rolls in the economic Trinity. Bobby first heard this in Seminary. This is a theological word for how the Trinity works. 1 God in 3 persons; and how do they work among themselves. The practical side of the Trinity. Christ was the agent of creation according to Heb. 1:2.
4. In the same way, there are different rolls in the working of the Trinity in relation to man. Everything was written into the decrees.
5. But, in spite of these rolls, there can be no inferiority or subordination where Deity is in relationship to Deity. That is impossible. Christ was born into this world as Deity and as humanity.
6. In spite of Christ's subordination as God and man and He is subordinate as man in the Hypostatic union. There is no inferiority because He took on the form of man. He became true humanity.
7. Christ demonstrated humility as a man when in relationship to divine authority in God's plan. It take humility to be in subordination.
8. God is the head of Christ; that is our phrase. There is that senior relationship between God the Father and God the Son.
9. Jesus Christ was authority oriented; He had to be. The authority orientation of the Lord Jesus Christ in the Hypostatic union is the pattern for us today.

10. When He walked the earth, He was equal to God; but He submitted Himself to God in His humanity. This is for a specific mission, His mission as the Savior. The God-man had to subordinate Himself to the Father. This is our pattern; we are not perfect; far from it. Remember the mandate of v. 1: we are imitators of Him in every way.
11. This role as subordinate, God the Father as the head of Christ was not what Jesus Christ wanted. He had to submit His will of the Father to this task; He submitted in full humility.
12. Therefore, He deprived Himself of the independent use of His divine attributes. This is what emptying means. Also, likewise, He humbled Himself. We will never know what He did and how much He gave in this way. He showed the greatest humility in this world. He became obedient to the death of the cross. The compressed doctrine of Kenosis.
13. This describes the breadth and the depth of His authority orientation as the Savior. God descending, humbling Himself, to become a man, the God of the universe, and takes on such a role of weakness.
14. This is the concept of authority orientation. The amazing thing about this is, this is a status that we must emulate. God is the head of Christ and we must emulate that. Being an imitator means grace orientation, it means authority orientation.
15. This authority orientation by us always requires a positive decision from a motivation of humility and virtue. We must understand that we can, through our spiritual life, emulate Jesus Christ. It is called Christ-like.

Secondly in this verse is another indisputable line of authority: Christ is the head of every man. This establishes that.

Christ is the Head of Every Man

1. Based on His position as the Savior and our requirement to believe in Him, He has an inherent authority. Acts 4:12: There is no other name under heaven given among men by which we must be saved. There is no other name. That is authority.
2. Believing in Him requires a modicum of faith; that little bit of faith, orientation to His position, is our understanding of Him as our redeemer.
3. So in this verse, man refers to gender, not to the human race as a whole. The use of man in this verse refers to the male gender only.
4. Therefore, according to this phrase, Christ, as true humanity, has superior rank over every male of the human race. Those who are cast into hell may reject His authority, but they will experience it. His authority will condemn and throw the unbeliever into the Lake of Fire.
5. There is an equality between the humanity of Christ and man. Christ is the mediator between God and man. Therefore, there is a certain equality there. He is our substitute. He has to be true humanity in order to be our substitute. In this way, there is an equality between the humanity of Christ and man.

6. However, in the hypostatic union, Christ is superior to man. A superior/subordinate relationship between God the Father and God the Son; and a superior/subordinate relationship between God the Son and us.
7. A chain of command is what is revealed in this verse. God, Christ, man.
8. Each person is senior over the next.
9. Each person is a subordinate in the chain (except for God the Father).
10. So in these 2 phrases is established a ranking of senior/subordinate relationships.
11. Man is the superior rank over a woman. A similar pattern; no inferiority, but a different rank. There is both an equality and a subordinate relationship.

Gen. 2:18 gives the rationale from creation for the different rolls. Gen 2:18: And Jehovah God said, It is not good for the man to be alone; I will make him a helper to complement him. Adam is quite conscious that he is alone. The rationale for making the woman is v. 18.

The Man and the Woman

1. Understand that by position, a helper is a subordinate. The Hebrew word ʿezer which means helper.
2. This word means more than just an assistant who eases the load of life for man. If we are a carpenter and we have an assistant, we treat them like an apprentice and they do the dirty work for us.
3. Correlation, association and fulfillment.
4. This word denotes a counterpart or a complimentary component.
5. The helper is the part that corresponds and responds to the man. The opposite number which specifically fits man. Doesn't fit the woman.
6. So the woman fulfills the man's soul yearnings. She completes him physically, relationally, mentally; in every way that a husband and wife can unite. There is also responsiveness and authority. This is the Word of God.
7. The woman is therefore subordinate in her mission as helper, yet equal in essence. She is a counterpart; a corresponding part; but she also responds.

So Christ, man and woman all have subordinate rolls. However, in this chain of command, the woman has no command role. There is an equality throughout; and subordination as well. Someone has to be at the top and someone has to be at the bottom. The woman is not an initiator; she is a responder only. There is no initiation here by the woman. She does have a little authority as a mother.

This chain of command is not tyranny and not absolute command; there is love, protection and logistic and spiritual leadership for those who are in a command position. The one with authority has responsibility as well.

Adam's Leadership Position 1Tim. 2:12–15: And I do not permit a woman to teach or to usurp authority over a man, but to be in silence. For Adam was formed first, then Eve.

And Adam was not beguiled, but the woman being beguiled, fell into transgression. Nevertheless she will be kept safe through childbearing if they continue in faith, love, and holiness, with self-control. In Bible class, men respond to the pastor-teacher. There were some problems with women who wanted to teach in this church. Adam was given priority, because he was created first and the woman second. This is why Paul is labeled a misogynist. Paul recognizes the priority of man in God's design as delineated in the creation account of Genesis. Man was not created for the woman's sake, but the woman was created for the man. Κεφαλη refers to superior rank, but it does not mean they are a superior person. The man is designated to have the authority. People who react to this confuse authority with superiority. The woman can be superior in many ways to the man.

The less respect that one has means the more important that authority orientation is. Part of the equation is to make a good choice to begin with. Secondly, if you made a mistake, then respect the authority if the man. If you cannot respond to the man, then respond to the next higher authority: Jesus Christ. If you do not respect the person, then you must respect the rank. The greatest way to lead a woman is from your spiritual maturity. Just because a woman does not respond does not mean the man is relieved of his duty. It takes thought, maturity, understanding, and inculcation.

God designed us in specific ways; and we cannot enjoy life apart from His plan. There is a word for a woman who cannot respond or a word for a man who cannot lead and inspire.

1Co 11:3 But I want you to understand that Christ is the head of every man, and the man is the head of a woman, and God is the head of Christ.

1Cor. 11:3

3 gals at the office had signs; we are not speaking; we're at the bottom of the food chain.

This verses establishes a chain of command. The word used is κεφαλη and this refers to superior rank. Christ is the head of every man and man is the head of a woman. Adam perpetrated the fall and Christ brought the solution. This phrase establishes a continuation of the chain of command. There is also an equality between Christ and man. He is equal to man, but without a sin nature. He substituted Himself for us and in that, there is an equality.

Man is the head of a woman. Man is the authority; superior rank. This is the same pattern of subordination and equality found in the previous phrases. There is no inferiority. There is an essential equality, but with different roles in life. The woman fulfills the helper for man. The woman is also the one who responds as a helper. She is subordinate and responsive in her role yet equal in her essence. This completes the chain of command: God, Christ, man and woman. The man is also a responder to Those Who are above him. Man responds to Bible doctrine and he is in a senior subordinate relationship. He understands leadership and subordination. In the illustration given us, women are responders only.

Leadership does not imply inferiority in the one who is being led; and it does not justify bad behavior. There is no inferiority there at all. Leadership requires authority. There are two types possessed by any leader. A good leader has inherent authority, by virtue of his qualities. Flexibility, assertiveness, compassion, humility, a sense of humor are all qualities needed by a leader. The man has vested authority; he has the office of authority. The great leader has inherent and vested authority. These qualities can be and should be learned. Bible doctrine brings leadership qualities to life in the soul of the designated leader. Unless a woman follows her man, such a relationship is doomed. A woman must maintain her role as a responder to authority, whether the man is a good leader or not. The man still holds the office of leadership, if not the qualities. A woman also learns responsiveness. This causes a woman to become beautiful through her responsiveness. Taking on divine viewpoint. A woman understands her role as responder.

A woman should remain a responder and not a reactor to bad leadership as long as she can respond to Bible doctrine. Gen. 3:16 describes this for a woman. Gen 3:16: To the woman He said: I will greatly multiply your sorrow and your conception; in pain you shall bring forth children; your desire shall be for your husband, and he shall rule over you. Hebrew poetry works off parallel thinking; Greek poetry worked off of meter; ours words from rhyme. These two lines pronounce the woman's curse. This is not just a reference to delivery; it covers all of reproduction. The second half of the curse is the next couplet. Yet he will rule over you is the helps to understand the first couplet. The wife desires to rule over her hands; she will always try to usurp the man's authority; that is part of the curse. Just as there is pain in childbirth, so the woman will want the authority over the woman.

4 Points on the Curse

1. God pronounced the curse. The man is cursed as well. But because God pronounced the curse does not mean that He caused it. ‘
2. What did God do here? He simply reveals the results here. Get out of the garden.
3. The woman's sin nature has a propensity for usurping authority.
4. That is the divine pronouncement. Bobby is not trying to manipulate anyone so that he can be in charge.

Subordination requires humility at every level. If Jesus Christ was subordinate to the Father, then humility is a virtue, not a fault. An attitude of anti-authority is an attitude of arrogance and mental attitude sins. You know the attitude: “No one is in authority over me; I am my own authority.”

it is apropos to illustrate with military structure to teach this chain of command. God the Father is the General Officer. Christ is 2nd in command, the Battalion Commander. He is subordinate but not inferior to His commanding officer. The man is like the company commander, the superior officer of the woman, but not superior to the woman. The woman is analogous to a lieutenant. She may have authority over children and over some other women in some situations. Higher ranking officers are not always more capable people. However, we do have a system where the cream rises to the top. We have some of the very best men at the top. However, sometimes, higher ranking officers are completely incompetent. The British army during the British empire were often poor as they bought their positions; and the junior officers were the key to the British army success. So, subordinates can be more capable; but the higher ranking officer is designated; he is vested with responsibility and command. You respect the rank even if you do not respect the person. That is authority orientation.

Bobby is speaking in the human realm; God and Christ are fully worthy of praise.

Deference of higher rank is the way that the system works. Christ has to be subordinate to God in order to accomplish the mission.

We need authority orientation in order to be a witness for the prosecution in the angelic conflict. If we don't do that, we are not witnesses in the angelic conflict. The arrogance of anti-authority thinking is what got us where we are today arrogance and anti-authority in Satan, and then in the woman and then in the man. The first anti-authority thought came from one angel, Lucifer, who was greater and more beautiful than all of the other angels. Satan plotted to overthrow God in order to usurp His authority. Anti-authority sedition erupted, which disrupted all creation. This cosmic rebellion continues even until now. Satan had this option first, and then man had the option. Anti-authority is the first sin and the cause of all that is wrong in this world. What God did to facilitate His design, is He married the first man and woman, and this solidified the first relationship. Adam looked around and realized that he needed a mate, one who corresponded to him. God placed the authority with the man and that is the root of the problem.

The garden, in essence, was an incubator. Adam and the woman were charged not to eat of a certain tree in the center of the garden. It was exactly the same in the garden as it is right now. That was the function of the first marriage under ideal conditions. However, the chain of command still stands, despite the fall.

The Greek concept is, the gods sit up there and watch us to be entertained. Marriage is to our benefit because inside of it, there is a structure. We must understand what our authority is and we must respond to it.

1Co 11:3 But I want you to understand that Christ is the head of every man, and the man is the head of a woman, and God is the head of Christ.

1Cor. 11:3 Authority Orientation Lesson #603 Sunday 1 September 23, 2007

The human race has a system of authority which allows man to function without anarchy, chaos or self-destruction. Authority is what provides protection of freedom. Authority is designed to protect the freedom of others through the rule of law and others are subordinate to that rule of law. The principle of authority as a system designed by God is paramount to all of us, despite the fact that it can be distorted. The system of authority in the human realm requires a chain of command; a senior and subordinates. Superior rank does not mean a superior person. Designated authority does not mean a superior person.

Authority must be wielded with great care and love; that is the way that authority was designed to function. To fulfill those designated obligations, a leader needs assertiveness, a sense of humor, compassion, humility, flexibility. Megalomaniacs do not make for benevolent leaders. Such a person must develop these qualities when dealing with subordinates. God is at the top of the Biblical chain of command, and He is the commanding general and to Him is all authority. He is the originator of the divine decree for the human race and for angels as well. The decree is the immutable will of God regarding the events of history and their precise order of appearance. He has total and absolute authority, but the decree is designed for the benefit of all mankind. God the Father shows great love and grace for all mankind. The greatest authority and its greatest use. 1Cor. 11:3 puts God the Father over Jesus Christ. Christ is subordinate in His role as our Savior. Jesus Christ in His humanity bowed to God's will. As God, He is equal to God; but as the God-man, He has made Himself obedient to the will of God the Father. The chain of command continues with Christ as the authority. Christ over man and the man over the woman. Gen. 1:27 and identical essence of souls.

The woman is not inferior to man, and the Bible never indicates that. The woman has a different rank, but she is never seen as inferior. Men and women have different roles in life. The woman was designed by God to be a responder and to fulfill that role, she must be authority orientated. She is the helper or the ʿezer in the Hebrew. She is man's counterpart. A correspondence and an equality of nature. She is subordinate by virtue of position as a helper. She is also called the weaker vessel. That has been greatly misapplied, because it does not mean that she is inferior. The weaker vessel means that she is subordinate. Obviously, a woman is not necessarily intellectually inferior, although some prefer to find men whose intelligence she respects. Maybe that makes subordination easier to be under. In this chain of command, the woman carries no authority. Bobby did not make these rules; he did not decide to make the woman subordinate to the man. This does not mean that men have a tyrannical role over the woman; this is not to make a woman barefoot and pregnant in marriage. God has so designated these roles and there must be an important reason for Him to do that. 1Cor. 11:8–10: For man is not out of woman, but woman out of man. Nor was man created through the woman, but woman through the man. For this reason the woman ought to have authority on her head, because of the angels.

From the fall of man, we have the fight for rule between the genders. The woman's desire is to turn her subordination upside down. All subordination in authority requires an attitude of humility. In her role as wife and responder, the woman must adjust to her role in marriage. The husband must protect and care for his wife to maintain her ability and desire to respond. It is not all about I carry a big stick, I have authority, and you will obey.

Authority has been an issue from the very beginning from Satan rebelling against God, and then the woman and the man. Satan is the prototype for anti-authority. "I want to be the Most-High; I want to have all of the authority." We are in the middle of this issue; man and woman are created by God as rational creatures and possessors of free will, just like the angels.

When the woman came on the scene, God married them; and marriage in part was designed to teach something: the senior/subordinate roles. This teaching was needed from the beginning. This was an issue in marriage at the moment the woman was created. God charged them not to eat of a certain tree in the garden. They had to use their free will not to violate that mandate. God designed marriage in part just for that purpose. The one tree in the garden that the man and the woman were not to eat from was the one test of volition and authority. The tree was the absolute mandate of God not to eat from. It was man's turn to respond to God's authority. Satan made man anti-authority. His objective was to have the woman go outside of the authority of the man, and for the man to reject the authority of God. This would determine the life and the death of all mankind. The woman, as a responder, had this in her hands.

The Lord came in the cool of the evening and He taught Bible class. He trained them in marriage. He taught them how marriage was to work. "Adam, you are this; and woman, you are this." The Lord taught them the test. Do not eat of that tree.

Satan distorted their relationships and authority. Satan represents the misuse of authority. Adam and his wife needed to maintain a proper balance of authority and freedom. They needed to remain as initiator and responder. However, the only way to abuse their freedom was to eat of the Tree of the Knowledge of Good and Evil.

The issue was authority and it continues today. Would they learn this lesson from Bible class on a daily basis.

4 Points on Marriage and the Garden

1. Marriage was the training ground for authority orientation. For us, it is different. Our training ground for authority orientation is in the home. They had no parents, so God began to teach them authority orientation by marrying them. God was their parent, for all intents and purposes.
2. The authority structure of marriage was critical to their decision whether or not to retain their sinless state or to plunge into spiritual death. If they plunge into spiritual death, then we do the same. We are affected.
3. If the couple metabolized the doctrine essential for a successful marriage, then they would have authority orientation based upon their own relationship. They learned authority orientation through Jesus Christ in the garden and the man/woman relationship.
4. If they followed what Jesus Christ taught them in the garden, they would be protected from the attacks of Satan.

Satan determined to inject himself into the authority equation. He knew that man and woman had volition and how he could best get to them was that which he considered before attacking them. Satan was the interloper. He wanted to force himself between Christ and the human race. Would man respect or abuse his volition. Would man and woman use their freedom and authority orientation to succeed or fail? The first marriage failed in the realm of authority orientation.

Because they were not authority oriented, the fall occurs. The greatest attack today is authority orientation. Don't trust authority; question authority. There is an authority we can trust: the Bible. God. Are humans trustworthy? No. Women are not men and vice versa; we have proper roles. We all need authority, and we sometimes go anti-authority; and every time, that rejection comes from arrogance.

When we lose our respect for authority and stop responding to authority, then we lose out. This is a training ground where we mature. We can only fall back on arrogance or the doctrine in our souls.

1Co 11:3 But I want you to understand that Christ is the head of every man, and the man is the head of a woman, and God is the head of Christ.

1Cor. 11:3 Authority Orientation Lesson #604 Sunday 2 September 23, 2007

For many people and families, authority is a bad word; it is something demanded by some people over others for no real reason. It has been a problem between men and women since the beginning of time. The great training ground for this couple was the marriage relationship. God designed marriage for a training ground. Adam named the woman; in this way, he showed his authority over her, just by virtue of giving her a name. God showed authority orientation as the pattern for the human race. Gen. 1–3 would show us how God introduced authority orientation into the human race, and the first marriage is key here.

Anti-authority and negative volition in the human race, and Satan found it, using all of his deceptive ability and his evil genius. He understood exactly at what point to divide and conquer. That was the issue of authority orientation with disastrous consequences for the human race. Authority orientation continues to be an issue during the appeal phase of the human race/angelic conflict. .

You would think that if God Himself stood in the pulpit in front of us and said it is easy to get; and they did not even have a sin nature. They had free will and they had a certain orientation, which began with God. God was obviously the top of their chain of command. They had volition and authority orientation and that was it. The woman in reaction to Adam's authority. She reacted to Adam's authority and she began to respond to the deceit of Satan. She took him as her authority. She could respond to God and to her husband; or she could respond to Satan. The curse of Gen. 3:16 began in the garden. God pronounced a curse that she had put herself under. Her anti-authority feelings were given as her judgment. The woman's role is for a woman to respond. Satan understood that the woman was more susceptible to anti-authority thinking than Adam, because she was a responder. This is why he attacked her. Satan, in his genius, chose to divide and conquer.

How Satan Divided and Conquered

1. Satan would go after the woman—not the man. He went after her independent of her husband. He used secret, provocative conversation. All of this is documented in Scripture. This all parallels contemporary authority issues today. This is the central issue. It is all wrapped up in doctrine and volition and in all of the characters involved in the angelic conflict in the beginning.

2. Satan would attempt to make himself the initiator to her soul instead of Adam. He would usurp Adam's authority and use his own to get her to respond.
3. Satan initiated a response in the woman, but not through love. The man initiates love and protection; Satan used flattery and deceit. Initiation was designed for love. Satan was not a leader, but he is a deceiver. He promises what he cannot deliver. Satan saw her as the weak point, which is perhaps why Peter calls her the weaker vessel.
4. Satan cunningly disrupted her soul; he interrupted her response to her husband. The woman responded to the subtleties of Satan. She picked the wrong person to respond to. Some time when she was out of the sight of Adam, there was some sort of a failure in their marriage before Satan could consummate his deception. She wanders the garden and instead of responding to Adam or to Christ, she began to react, rejecting legitimate authority and she responded to illegitimate authority. Freedom does not mean that you do whatever you want whenever you want. Freedom and authority are designed to function together. Eve decided that she was free. She was a free spirit. She flaunted her liberation. She started a conversation with a strange serpent as though he was some old friend. He was someone that she did not know and someone that she was unsure of. She should have understood his innuendos as being anti-authority. She did not immediately say, "God is my authority; Adam is my authority; and you are selling me something I don't want to buy." She had already rejected Adam's leadership. He apparently failed to provide the proper love or leadership. There were no constraints on the woman's freedom. She should have recalled the lines of authority. Adam was not her only authority. Authority is designed to protect freedom. Originally, principals in schools were designed to protect teachers and give them the freedom to teach. The woman attended Bible class, but perhaps she got bored? Something went on in her mind which clicked off the authority orientation that she was supposed to have. She clicked off the authority of the Lord Himself.
5. The tree was the only prohibition that the woman had. God demonstrated one authority obligation to the woman: "Do not eat from that tree."

The Lord never lets us down. Human authority is abusive and can be abusive. As believers in Jesus Christ, we have no right to go anti-authority, no matter who is in the white house.

We know that Adam rejected God's authority by their conversation in the garden after Eve had fallen. "I can become as smart as God?" This sounds like parallels to scientists today. They are revered and respected and obeyed.

Satan subverted the woman by offering her an opportunity. We have no idea how much time was involved. But, at some point, Satan asks to hear a point of doctrine. He is going to probe her for a weakness.

Gen. 3:1–5: Now the serpent was more cunning than any living thing of the field which Jehovah God had made. And he said to the woman, Has God indeed said, You shall not eat of every tree of the garden? And the woman said to the serpent, We may eat the fruit of the trees of the garden; but of the fruit of the tree which is in the midst of the garden, God has said, You shall not eat it, nor shall you touch it, lest you die. And the serpent said to the woman, You shall not die the death. The woman, in v. 3, adds to God's mandates. She made her own interpretation. This indicated the reactive state of her soul; the inaccuracies of the doctrine in her soul. For God knows that in the day you eat of it your eyes will be opened, and you will be as God, knowing good and evil. Bobby wonders if the woman fell in her soul and then in her action; and he'll ask God that. But, there is only one prohibition, and that is not to eat of the tree. Had Adam been there and said, "Stop." Then things would have been fine until the next temptation.

6 Things:

1. The woman was easily deceived by Satan's sweet talk. It was seductive. She was deceived. She rejected the truth. When you reject the truth, you can easily be deceived.
2. The woman made herself vulnerable by rejecting every authority made to protect her. She was not a stupid woman, but she made herself as vulnerable as anyone can. She rejected the authority designed to protect her.
3. She ended up spiritually dead by rejecting the authority over her.
4. Her anti-authority self-absorption was her undoing.
5. She has swallowed Satan's lie instead of metabolizing God's truth.
6. So she ate the fruit violating the authority of God and of her husband. Not only will I touch it, but I am going to eat it.

How Satan Deceived the Woman

1. Satan deceived the woman by attacking her function as a responder.
2. In her dialogue with Satan, the woman was socially unfaithful to her husband.
3. The woman ignored the man's protective authority and the absolute authority of God's mandate.
4. In responding to Satan, the woman relinquished her responsive attitude to her designated authority, making herself susceptible to confusion, ignorance and to a display of arrogance.
5. Everything that happens to a woman in marriage happened to her.

Now the woman initiated. She was not responding to Adam, but she initiated an enticement to her husband to ignore God's Word. Now Gen. 3:16 kicks in. She desires to usurp the authority of those over her. Adam responded to his wife's overture and flagrantly disobeyed God. He knowingly failed to subordinate to God. He willingly and knowingly disobeyed God. Because of this, death followed. That is the impact of being anti-authority. Rejection of authority was the downfall. Free will rejected the authority. Freedom and authority go together. Upon Adam is the greater culpability for the fall, and

Jesus Christ placed the blame on Adam in Gen. 3:9. God first dealt with Adam, and then later with the woman. Leadership is responsible, and God dealt with Adam first. He was responsible. What happens when a group of soldiers fail? Their leader is excoriated and possibly removed. He is responsible for them. Adam surrender his authority and he failed in his obligation. If Adam had been better in his leadership, it is possible that this could have been averted. Adam was the head of the household; his authority was key here. He neglected her. Maybe he was playing golf? The man has a responsibility as does the woman. He has the responsibility here. God has provided the pattern for us. Adam and Eve provided the pattern for failure which stands up even to today.

1Co 11:3 But I want you to understand that Christ is the head of every man, and the man is the head of a woman, and God is the head of Christ.

1Cor. 11:3 authority orientation Lesson #605 Wednesday September 26, 2007

The subject is authority orientation. Authority was Satan's problem, as well as Adam's and the woman's. The woman entertained the deceit of Satan. The authority vested in Adam was suddenly turned to the woman and Adam became the follower, which is not the way things ought to be. Teamwork inside the church and accomplishing the mission and it is impossible when everyone tries to do what is right in their own eyes. Too many want to superimpose their own ideas on God. Our understanding of God comes directly from the Word of God. If we are not authority oriented, we will reject God and His attributes and we will reject the Christian life. Without accepting in the authority of the Word of God, γνώσις will not become ἐπίγνωσις.

When you pick and choose which doctrines you will metabolize. Our sin nature is fundamentally anti-authority. Adam passed down his sin nature down to all of us, which includes a built-in anti-authority attitude. You cannot grow without accepting the Word of God.

Man is the head of the woman. Applying authority orientation is very difficult, because it goes against every fiber of our being. Each person in the hierarchy of v. 3 responds to a different authority. God's plan is grace; God is the initiator. We like that, because we get that grace for free. Christ is God's grace plan, so it is easy to see Christ and God as our authorities.

Man responds to God's grace. The first response is faith alone in Christ alone. We accept the authority of God the Father and we accept the authority of Jesus Christ. Accepting His authority is one of the earth acts as a Christian. We subordinate ourselves to Christ and the plan of salvation. We respond to this authority; all of us do. We respond to the doctrine taught. That is our responsibility. 1Cor. 11 has thrown some curve balls to Bobby. We respond to his teaching with spiritual advance.

The final initiator is the male, and this is why God took a rib from Adam and made from him and created a woman, so that there would be one to respond to him. The woman was created for the man's sake, not vice versa. Adam looked at the woman, thought of his own name, Isha, and named her Isha. One one thing names another, authority is expressed. 1Cor. 11:11 gives us this particular role. Adam immediately understood his role and he immediately took responsibility toward the woman. The man initiates love and he carries the authority, and the woman responds to man.

God has not suddenly changed His mind in the modern world. Women's liberation did not change God. The role has not changed between the man and the woman.

What about Gal. 3:28: There is neither Jew nor Greek, male nor female, slave nor free. That has nothing to do with the authority roles of these. In this passage, we all have the same resources and we all have the same souls. Gal. 3:28 has to do with equality of nature, but it does not deal with our roles with respect to authority.

The Woman and Authority

1. The woman is the ultimate responder, who responds to all levels of authority. You will note the chain of command. The woman is the ultimate responder to all authorities in this verse.
2. Caveat: this is the way that God designed it.
3. When the woman becomes the initiator, she departs from her role as a woman.
4. She will then attempt to usurp the authority of the man, the wife over the husband. Gen. 3:16.
5. The natural order of initiator-responder from Gen. 3:16 is turned upside down.
6. The result is anti-authority reaction.

Many women reject this role, sometimes violently and sometimes with subtlety. Christian women must remember the example.

The Analogy

1. The Lord Jesus Christ Himself took a place of subordination. If He was willing to take such a role, that should tell the woman something.
2. Jesus Christ was equal to God, just as the woman is equal to man.
3. Jesus Christ accomplished the plan of salvation for man through authority orientation.
4. Ultimately, the Lord Jesus Christ was glorified in His subordination. Philip. 2:9

It requires humility to subordinate.

Humility and Authority Orientation

1. Humility expresses grace orientation. Grace orientation is orientation to the plan of God.
2. This is a recognition that there is a plan greater than your plan. Humility recognizes that God can have a better and greater plan.

3. In the natural order of the universe, there is always someone under someone else's authority. Miserable moments can result as being unable to submit to authority.
4. To orient to any authority requires humility. They go together.

V. 3 is the general rule in the universe: God, Christ, man, woman. Men do unquestionably abuse their authority, which is tyranny. A man must learn what authority is and he must learn how to use it. He must provide leadership. The man must learn how to lead just as the woman must learn how to respond. He must learn to treat the woman in tenderness, compassion and with understanding. 1Peter 3:7: Husbands, likewise, dwell with them with understanding, giving honor to the wife, as to the weaker vessel, and as being heirs together of the grace of life, that your prayers may not be cut off. Weaker vessel does not mean mentally weaker and sometimes not even physically weaker. The man cannot abdicate his authority. There is not woman who has ever lived who hasn't been quite successful in usurping the authority of her man.

To avoid tyranny, a man must grow spiritually. When a man cannot exercise authority properly and the woman has nothing to respond to. If she gets cruelty and indifference, her natural reaction is to revolt. When this happens, the man is responsible for the overturning of the natural ordering of life, because you have not correctly applied your authority. She is the responder and she will respond to what you initiate as a leader. If a man does not act within his role, he will pay a great price.

The man is to initiate love, compassion, etc. Now, if the man screws up, the woman has no excuse when it comes to remaining under the authority of the man. And if the woman acts up, the man still is the leader.

Bobby knows the practical questions. There are some issues in our everyday world which must be addressed. What about the authority of women today in the workplace? What about them giving orders to men in the military? What about deaconesses? How does this relate to what we are studying? A woman can be the CEO of a company. Are these situations anti-authority and anti-the plan of God? Many women are in this situation.

Women do receive delegated authority in many situations in life. Delegated authority over men in certain types of positions in the society at large is not necessarily prohibited by the Bible. Our passage deals with the Christian home and the church; not the outside culture or society. The principles found in this passage are generally true for all relationships between men and women. Authority over men is not a woman's natural role or position. This is even if the woman is fully capable of fulfilling any role that the man has. There is always the occupational hazard of woman who wield authority over a man; she can end up abandoning her responsive nature to her man. Like, a woman CEO may lose this aspect of her femininity. It is that much easier to become something else; not a responder. How you come home and how you handle yourself in the church.

There is also the danger of improperly wielding authority, which I have observed in a number of instances. .

1Co 11:3 But I want you to understand that Christ is the head of every man, and the man is the head of a woman, and God is the head of Christ.

1Cor. 11:3 Authority

V. 3 is the general rule of authority for the universe. All the basic superior/subordinate relationships. Christ and man are also initiators of love, authority. Jesus Christ also carries ultimate authority as our Savior. We are also to be imitators of Christ. He is the authority of our spiritual life. He wields authority over the woman. Woman at the lower end of the chain of command is the ultimate responder and the utmost in the subordinate position. She is a responder to all of her authorities. She has no one in her command with whom she can initiate authority, love, respect, protection except for children. There is that occupational standard; the innate desire of the woman to become anti=authority. She will want to usurp the God give authority given to the man. When she becomes the initiator, she has departed from her role as a woman. The world is turned upside down. That is a disaster. This is exactly what we have studied in the garden of Eden. What happened in the fall was that she became the initiator. The man had a problem in the area of wielding his authority. She allowed an outsider to enter into the chain of command. When she fell, she turned around and became the initiator to Adam. Adam responded and he ate when he should have said no. Had Adam been there, he could have stopped the woman. He responded to the woman and disobeyed God by responding to the woman. Adam was fully cognizant of his disobedience. The fall of the human race in the garden is laid right at the feet of Adam. It was Adam's fault and the man that God called to task. Adam abdicated his authority.

Leadership always has the greater responsibility for failure in a relationship. They both failed; God took Adam to task. That lays the duty of leadership as a first priority for the man. The result of both of their anti-authority actions was spiritual death. Not only for them, but for the entire human race. That sin nature which we have acquired from Adam has the same propensity as theirs. They were the first to show an aptitude for anti-authority actions. This is passed down through the human race. Anti-authority and arrogance go together. The fundamental inclination of the sin nature is to be anti-authority. It does not matter what the trend or areas of weakness and strength, the fundamental flaw is anti-authority. This is expressed the same way by Adam's progeny as Adam and the woman.

The number 1 attack on authority is the role-reversal between men and women. This fact has general application to the human race at large. These have become cultural norms which surround us in today's society. There are divine mandates in the Christian realm, but also for men and women together in regular life.

Women have vested authority in life today just as men; it is a part of our culture, since World War I. Should Bobby now denounce those women who are in authority in secular positions? Obviously not. But the question still stands: What about women in these positions?

Delegated authority over men in certain types of positions by women in society at large is not necessarily prohibited by the Bible. Bobby is making some very practical application for us in life. Delegated authority is not necessarily prohibited by the Bible.

There is some tension here. God did not design woman to be in authority, but she may find herself in that position. The problem is this: there is always an occupational hazard for women wielding authority over men. She cannot abandon the responsive nature. Holding the secular authority is not the problem.

The Woman and Secular Authority

1. By virtue of holding an authority role, a woman can take on masculine characteristics.
2. The woman who becomes more and more masculine becomes less of a responder. Most unbelieving women could care less about this. Non-Christian women are still responders; they just don't know it.
3. The woman moves outside her natural role as a responder.
4. What happens is, a woman in that position is not more predisposed to succumb to the Malady of anti-authority.
5. The problem in the secular realm is not the delegated authority. The problem is the consequences in her soul. Wielding authority can have an effect on the soul of a woman, a very unhappy effect.

Bobby has known women who have maintained their femininity when in authority and some who have not. This is in the secular world. A small example. This is the woman who refuses to take her husband's name in marriage, which happens every day. This is a Christian tradition. The argument is, this is a sign of oppression of women. Taking a husband's name in Christianity is a recognition of his authority. This begins in small ways and mushrooms. Often, there is separate names and separate lives. If the woman does not take the man's name, it is an authority problem from the beginning.

When Bobby is asked to marry a couple, when a woman says, "I don't want to obey the clause in the wedding vows, look out." It even happens in Christian marriages. Some women accost Bobby after a wedding for that. That is a serious breach of authority orientation. The man's troubles are just beginning.

There is the extreme example of Lesbianism. She always has a responding nature and she will respond to someone, even if it is not a man. Lesbianism is not about sex but about authority orientation and rejection of authority.

Homosexuality is capitulation of the male role. We all have choices, and being anti-authority, you can say no. Whether this is from birth or not, you can still say no.

One reason given today for promiscuity today is sexual abuse of a child, which is a terrible and damaging thing. This abuse becomes a later problem of authority orientation. Children sexually abused by an adult has no natural defense to say no, and they develop a deep distrust of authority because authority was destroyed. The one in authority did not function with the proper characteristics.

The adult who was abused as a child should not blame himself or herself for what happened. It was beyond his or her control. They had no means to resist the abuser. Children trusted the authority. The abuser abused his authority over them. The adult must evaluate the past, not from the viewpoint which they currently have. Guilt should not be later transferred to themselves later as adults. The result is anti-authority. Is the child a victim? Absolutely. The adult who was abused as a child must not foster a victim attitude as an adult. Doctrine should step in to remove the blame and confusion. Doctrine takes up the slack. Doctrine is authority orientation, in direct opposition to becoming anti-authority. One who has been abused cannot reject the general concept of authority because one person misused their authority in a terrible way. Authority is not negated because the child was abused. Bobby believe in a cruel and unusual execution for children abusers.

Back to the woman in secular authority. The real problem for the woman in a position of authority is her loss of her ability to respond. You are not prohibited. This can carry on over into the home. This needs to be left at the office or the barracks. This is how we got women pastors. Women pastors are a fairly new thing and they parallel the rise of women in authority in our culture. A woman in an authority position in other areas is not denied that position by this passage. The general principle of authority must be maintained. Having authority in the human realm does not excuse Biblical authority. Authority-orientation is just as much a secular principle as it is a Christian principle.

Bobby still needs to teach how to be a leader and how to be a responder.

1Co 11:3 But I want you to understand that Christ is the head of every man, and the man is the head of a woman, and God is the head of Christ.

1Cor. 11:3

Sunday 1 September 30, 2007

[I'm in Arkansas]

Without the power of the spiritual life, we would be no different than any other religion. John makes it possible in 1John for us to worship God and to study His Word. You need the filling of the Holy Spirit, which requires 1John 1:9.

This confirms the leadership role of man and the subordination role of the woman, which requires the attitude of humility. What else backs up this principle of authority? Man was created first and then the woman was brought to Him. In the woman's creation, she was designed to be the responder to the man, the helper to him. She is an equal counterpart in a subordinate role.

The woman completes the man in every way by her response to him, and he initiates in order to prompt her initiating nature.

At every level, someone has to carry authority. Harry Truman had on his desk, the buck stops here. He was the final authority.

That the man has authority over the woman is also a part of the creation order. The context is specifically concerning marriage and the church. Paul is not specifically addressing the surrounding culture of the society in Corinth. God's design has not changed. Woman has not evolved into man or vice versa (unless this occurs in their thinking). The rolls of men and women offer the bona fide place of authority and happiness. The RM/RW relationship is the training ground for much of the rest of life. The sin nature is a universal affliction and authority-orientation is critical. That nature has destructive tendencies, personally and corporately. It is authority-orientation which counteracts these destructive tendencies, holding back lawlessness. Satan's prehistoric fall came from the arrogant expression of his attempt to usurp the authority of the Almighty God. Satan fell and man later followed him, using arrogance expressed as anti-authority thinking. First it was by the woman and the man followed. She responded to the authority of Satan and the man responded to the woman and her enticement to eat the fruit. The woman could not be seduced unless she was receptive to that seduction. This is the basic anti-authority function of the human race from the beginning. The reversal of male female rolls. Authority-orientation is the bedrock for the function of the entire human race.

What about the operation of authority-orientation of the man and woman in this secular society today? Women are in positions of authority delegated to them by our society, and there are many jobs open to women today which were not open to them 50 years ago. Is this anti-God, anti-establishment?

Delegated and invested authority of women over men, in the workplace, in the military, is not necessarily prohibited by the Bible. Our passage deals specifically with the Christian home and the Christian church, not with the outside society. There is a second answer to this question, this Biblical injunction does have validity for the secular world. There is a caution, which is to Christian women, and a caution to all based upon the divine design. Having women in positions of authority is not the correct way for things to go, even when a woman is more qualified than a man, since the woman has a natural propensity to abandon her role as responder. She can easily become de-feminized or a feminist in the worst sense of that word.

Bobby is not talking about equal pay for equal work; he is talking about the nature of the woman as designed by God. In doing so, she is fighting with herself, with her own nature. The woman becomes the authority by her appointed position and she sometimes loses her ability to respond and she becomes pre-disposed to anti-authority thinking. She is delegated certain place in our society, and she, with authority, can end up rejecting the authority in her own home. I'm sure you have heard the statement, "No man will ever have authority over me." This can come from many places, but that statement is made often. That is an unhappy woman filled with soul conflict. She will always be at war. No contentment in her. Some women may dispute this and think they can only be happy in a leadership role.

A woman not taking the name of the man indicates that she does not understand her role as a woman in marriage. She takes his name to submit to his authority. Authority and authority-orientation are just as much principles of divine establishment for unbelievers as for believers. So these have application to both believers and unbelievers. All divine institutions in this world depend upon authority-orientation and confusing authority confuses these divine institutions.

Bobby is presenting a huge caution light—do not lose responsiveness or femininity in a driving flurry of ambition or in a consuming desire to rule over men or because you hold the feminism. Anti-authority is a special area of attack. As it was at the garden and the fall, so it is now. Throughout history, and in our generations as well, the desire to usurp the authority of the husband is an occupation hazard for the woman. Wielding secular authority can inflame the soul in that area. The Christian woman heeding this caution requires something. We have the equal opportunity and privilege and this includes the doctrine of authority-orientation. Authority-orientation protects the responsive nature of the woman. Never forget what God has ordained in our word as divine establishment and as Christian mandate. If you forget this, men become women and women become men, and the society is turned upside down. And anti-authority is rampant everywhere in society.

This is a very difficult subject, since every area of culture disagrees with this. You cannot advance past the Word of God. You cannot advance past His divinely designed and ordained roles for men and women. As soon as you do, you will see destruction in every area of life.

This is not an option and this is not a suggestion and Bobby is not the one making it. This needs to be carefully considered and not rejected out of hand, since this is the way God set things up. Consider our own experience and consider the results. We can do this in the privacy of our own souls. The principle is for us to apply this in our own lives.

Lesson #608 Sunday 2 September 30, 2007

I'm in Arkansas

Bobby made most of his comments about women in the previous session, but he's not going to leave the men alone. You don't bring people to Berachah church so that they will hear some doctrine and get straightened out. You come to Berachah for yourself. The Holy Spirit has a way of grabbing people and shaking them until they get the general idea. This is the divinely inspired Word of God and we need to take it as such. Bobby was personally commanded by a female colonel. In infantry, there are no female officers. The feminine colonel was one of the worst which Bobby had. It can be confusing to a woman to have a responsive nature and to be in a position of authority. One with Bible doctrine can deal with it, and she can do it by growing spiritually. The person without doctrine will be de-feminized by having authority. Once you cross the line, you can come back. A woman removed from her responsive role is not pretty when the man is no longer an initiator and a leader, the woman takes over, and it is a disaster. God designed these roles, and when they are reversed, there are big problems. This verse is why many feminists despise Christianity. There is some sort of case to be made for the suppression of women, but Christianity and the Mosaic Law put women on an equal footing with men; different roles, but equals. The solution is in the Word of God, and never forget that. The concepts of a superior and subordinate relationship between a husband and wife must not be discredited by feminists or anyone else. They characterize this as the ravings of a misogynist speaking during oppressive times.

We as men often wonder what makes a woman tick. Women tend to have a better idea about how to handle men, whereas men are often confused by women. To improve your marriage and to have true objectivity in life, this chapter will speak to that.

The greatest problem in this area of reversal of roles are homosexuality and lesbianism. they become responders and initiators to those of the same gender and it does pull down a society. It is also not true that Iran lacks homosexuals, as the sin nature is everywhere; and that is what it is, a sin.

Marriage is effected and children are affected adversely. Freedom is sometimes used as a cover for anti-authority. This is the Biblical exposition of authority-orientation in every area of life, as believers, we must inculcate this doctrine, as we are surrounded by an anti-authority world. It is a great thing for a young person to go into the military as this trains them to understand authority. You begin right away in basic training. You had better have some authority-orientation in basic, or you are in deep...trouble. Bobby is glad that he spent 10 years in the military, as it has given him a good understanding of authority and how to use it and how it is abused. The abuse of authority does not make the principle wrong. The principle is how we survive. Do not mistake one person's anti-authority or abuse of authority as an excuse to be anti-authority in every area. This is Satan's world; he is anti-God, which makes him anti-authority. He probably rules his angels with an iron fist. Dictators hate the law, but they demand the law from their subordinates. Satan is the original and the consummate antiauthoritarian. When the woman goes outside of that role, she is outside the plan of God. She forfeits the contentment of soul. When the woman is responding, it is one of the most beautiful things to see. She is happy and content. When she gets out of fellowship, you have a woman at war, with herself and with us.

Women know when they are out of line; they know when they are anti-authority. That is what we must be on guard against. Some women stormed out after the first service as this is a powder keg in our culture.

Bobby has to teach those doctrines from the Scripture which are not popular, but must be taught anyway. Bobby is not trying to teach the superiority of the male gender, but the divine design of the male-female rules. Just put aside for awhile your political correct distortions, and pay attention to the teaching of the Word. The man will learn not to be the oppressor, but to be the leader and initiator. The alternative to this is female revolt.

With the time left, Bobby wants to address some particulars. When am I responder and when not; when can I get out of being the authority. You must apply it to your own circumstances; Bobby is not going to answer detailed letters about when to do this or that. These principles are about how we think, not about our actions.

How can I be a responder if you are not a leader? How can I lead if you do not respond? You cannot control the actions of another person. It cannot be done. The more you try, the more frustrated you will get. A woman who will not respond will become hardened and unhappy. The man must be the initiator in love, even if his wife does not respond. Our problem is to initiate. Response and initiation is not standing around and finding fault. And women, if you nag your husband all the time, you are not responding. A husband needs to lead, no matter what the wife does. When you do it right, there can only be one problem. The only way a woman can some day respond is for the man to always lead. This is why 90% of this is all on the man. Without leadership, armies lose, and relationships fall apart. Ladies, if your husbands cannot lead, that does not allow you to take over leadership, as when you do, then you are at war with him. A man's natural inclination is the lead and the woman's natural inclination is to try to usurp that authority. A woman must respond to authority in doctrine in order to be a responder in marriage. You learn to be a leader in doctrine and you learn how to be a responder in doctrine. If you are out of fellowship or if you reject divine truth, then it is flip-flopped.

Bobby will pick up with, why is the history of Corinth important here; and why is Paul teaching authority-orientation to them? When we get into this passage, there will be no doubt in your mind what the principles are.

1Co 11:3 But I want you to understand that Christ is the head of every man, and the man is the head of a woman, and God is the head of Christ.

Wednesday October 10, 2007

Bobby saw a news report where a group of scruffy looking types were protesting the war. They always seem to be unwashed or unkempt kids; or some old grizzled radical. Bobby watches these guys, and most of them have long hair. Long hair is an indication of anti-authority thinking. They were not just protesting the war but they were also protesting authority. This is very enlightening considering our passage. For them, authority appears to be the root of all evil. They think that if authority is removed, then you take away all freedom. Truth is always inverted in Satan's world. Authority is a Biblical principle. Authority cannot be eradicated any more than war can. Anti-authority is not freedom but chaos. In watching these people, you can tell that these are angry people with unsettled souls and they want to destroy something related to authority. Obviously authority can be abused by anyone; when authority is abused, tyranny is the result. History is the study of abuse of authority and the loss of freedom. However, the fact that authority can be abused does not make authority wrong. Now, what these protestors did really want is not to remove all authority, but to set themselves as authority. The French Revolution and the Russian Revolution replaced one oppressive authority with another. They were under tyrannical governments, and these governments were replaced with tyrannical leaders.

Christ is the head of every man and the man is the head of the woman. The concept of authority orientation in the entire universe is maintained as well. All authority is invested in God the Father. The chain of command extends to the human race, including the Lord Jesus Christ, Who was authority oriented, even though he is God. He was obedient to the plan of God even to His death on the cross.

The Concept of Authority

1. Authority orientation is critical to making good decisions from the free will of man. If you are not authority orientation, you have chaos of soul. Chaos of soul guarantees that you will make bad decisions.
2. It is critical to the function of marriage and family. Marriage does not work in this world apart from authority orientation. This is true with Adam and the woman and it is still true today. If there is no authority orientation in the family, in the children, then you have an entire generation of children who are not authority oriented.
3. Authority orientation is critical to the divine establishment function of God. What are we oriented to? We should be first and foremost oriented to the authority of Bible doctrine. The church is not just formed, but it thrives. Most churches teach with few absolutes and without authority orientation. This makes them a disaster for the most part.
4. Authority orientation underlines all the divine institutions. Authority is a principle ordained by God. All we hear about is the abuse of authority. Without authority, we as human beings would destroy ourselves. This is why God has given us the divine institutions and why they are based upon authority.

5. In the wider arena of the human race, there is a divine establishment, divine institution aspect to authority. This is what the protestors to the war do not understand. This world is filled with nations ruled by those who abuse their authority or exploit anti-authority.

The senior subordinate roles in the church. Our passage is about marriage and the church. This passage is a guideline as to how women think as responders to authority as a subordinate. The point is not what do I do to be a responder under authority; the idea is to inculcate the principles. Everyone wants examples. Tell me what I do in this situation. I'm married and my husband does this or that; how am I supposed to respond? Most women want to have examples and how to handle every circumstance. What we need are the principles of authority planted in our souls. We need to do what Bible doctrine dictates. When we are authority oriented, we make good decisions from a position of strength.

We must know, what is response to authority? Most women do not understand response. And they especially do not understand it over the long haul. We have to know what is response to authority. Unrestrained response to the wrong man and to the wrong authority is a recipe for disaster. Eve responded to the serpent rather than to her husband. A woman is going to respond to something; this is her nature. So we need to know to what to respond to and how to do it.

Men have 51% of the stock, so they must know how to demonstrate authority. Some men do not understand authority or how to use it; and they exhibit authority abuse. Those in authority operate for the benefit of those under your authority. The man must be the leader in love and in protection. If we have no capacity for love, we will not be a leader or a protector. We cannot learn about love from the Word of God; not from hanging out in a bar. When we understand the love of God, then we can begin to understand our position of authority.

A man who is self-centered can be easily manipulated. That is easy. A woman with half a brain can manipulate a man who is self-centered. If you cannot lead, you will never activate the wonderful relationship between one man and one woman. The woman is going to respond to our leadership. If we show no integrity, the woman will not respond.

The man has got to be a leader.

Some more background. Why is authority a particular issue in Corinth? Why do the Corinthians need this message? They came from a culture which absolutely oppresses women and uses women. What is often forgotten is, heathen cultures and religions make women subordinate and inferior and enslaved. Ancient Greece held up by many as the golden age and the 5th century Athens and the bastion of enlightenment. The weaker gender were not included in any civic responsibilities. Women could not make any contributions to the Greek state. Women were the same category as children, slaves, and old people. The highest purpose for a woman was to produce children there. They did not treat women very well. They were polytheists; they were heathen, not Christians.

The Spartans are an extreme example of male dominance and tyranny. Military men look up to them for their prowess. However, rampant homosexuality in Sparta. The rate of childbirth seriously declined. The phallic cult was quite pervasive. Women were mere objects. They were used and abused. They were not revered in marriage or protected as responders.

Most of us know about the Muslim culture, which enslaves and represses women. They are segregated in every area of life, including in the Mosque. Bobby was required to go witness to some other group, like Jehovah Witnesses; he went to a Mosque. The women were in the Mosque, but separated behind a veil. Even in their holy place, women were 2nd class citizens.

When Bobby was in the service, he was stationed in Fort Wachuka. There were several officers from other countries. Bobby got one officer from the Sudan, a Muslim Luitenant. The guy offered to set Bobby up with several wives. Bobby told him, "You are out of your mind; it is hard enough to rule one woman; and it is considerably more difficult to rule over more than one." Big Love degrades women. They see their husbands once and awhile, but not enough; no initiator-responder. Women can be murdered in a Muslim society, they can be killed for falling in love with the wrong person; an honor culture. Even the Jewish culture around the time of Christ and rabbis were encouraged not to teach women or even speak to them. They were ot have no knowledge or education or inclusion in the man's domain. This is heathen practice; it is not Old Testament practice.

Women in the Old Testament

In Old Testament law there was a great contrast to surrounding civilizations. The woman under God's reign has a great place.

1. There is a special concern to recognize the dignity of women in the Old Testament; unheard of in surrounding civilizations.
2. The Old Testament recognized the significance of motherhood; not just as child bearing.
3. Mothers are frequently recognized on a par with fathers, especially concerning rights.
4. Frequently daughters and sons were listed equally in legal proceedings.
5. Daughters could be family heirs, Num. 27, which is unheard of in heathen culture.
6. Appropriate safeguards for the women and welfare in the Mosaic Law. Women wer protected under the Law.
7. They could occupy exalted positions; even positions of authority. Miriam, the prophetess, Ex. 15:2 Deborah was a judge, which she shared with Barak. Holda, a prophetess in 2Chron. 34:22. Biblical Christianity in the west brought women out.

Christianity has had a great impact on women and an influence on their place in society, more than anything else in history.

How Jesus Dealt with Women

1. There was a place stressed for women, by our Lord's approach to women. The rabbis did not show them any respect.
2. Christ was willing to speak to women, like the Samaritan woman. They were considered lower than dogs.
3. Jesus educated women. Luke 10:38–42. This was unheard of in Jewish culture.
4. The women became His followers and had a prominent place in His ministry, despite objections. Luke 8:2–3
5. Christ featured women in many ways.
  - a. They are central in many of his parables. Matt. 13, 24 25:1–13
Luke 18:1–5
  - b. He seriously angered the Jewish leaders because He healed a woman on the Sabbath. This was seen as works; and healing a woman was a serious breach. Luke 13 or 10. No rabbi would soil his hands like that; on the Sabbath.
  - c. He performed many miracles on women, showing the high esteem which He showed them. He showed that to those who were His disciples. Matt. 9:18–26 Luke 7:11–17 John 11.
6. He safeguarded the rights of women in marriage and divorce. This was following the Old Testament. Widows were well-taken care of in the Old Testament; there were laws about that, including laws in marriage and divorce.
7. After His resurrection, Jesus appeared first to women, and they brought the word to the Apostles. These women would understand and believe. When they told the Apostles, many of the Apostles did not believe it or understand it. Matt. 28
8. It was not our Lord's purpose to liberate women but He gave their gender their due. However, he never changed their role as responders. He designated them as responders. Gal. 4:28 there are no distinctions.

Men and women have equal opportunity and equal privilege in Christ. It is Christianity, not feminism, which gives women rights;

1Co 11:3 But I want you to understand that Christ is the head of every man, and the man is the head of a woman, and God is the head of Christ.

Gal. 3:28 1Cor. 11:

Thursday October 11, 2007

Gal. 3:28 was antithetical to Greek culture. Slaves were not free and women were lesser persons than men; and Jews and Gentiles saw the other as inferior.

Women did not participate in the arts. Greek plays did not feature women. All of the actors were men, even those who played women's parts. The education of girls in ancient Greece was nonexistent. An Athenian woman was not educated, even though philosophy and knowledge were highly revered.

When a Greek man wanted the company of an intelligent woman, they would turn to a well-educated class of foreign women. These women were called companions, who had a position somewhere between wives and prostitutes.

Demosthenes said, "We keep these women for pleasure...for the care of our person. We keep wives to bear legitimate children and to be trusted guardians of our household." Greek women lived in an entirely male-dominated society. They could not contribute to public forums, like politics. These women had no freedom at all. Their highest purpose was to bear children and run a household. Houses were divided into men's rooms and women's rooms. Men were involved in politics and philosophy, women took care of things at home. They were not trusted outside the house. The men did all of the shopping?

There were various women's festivals and they were distinctly designed for women. They were confined to quarters even when married. When men entertained guests, the only ones present were prostitutes. There is abundant proof of all of these things in Greek culture. Bobby studied their literature in college. Shakespear took much of what he wrote from Greek tragedy. In order to figure out what happened, you read their literature and their history. The literature tells about their actual culture.

Electra and Antigony by Sophocles, women are told to get indoors, as that is where they belonged. Virgins were not every to be seen outside the house before marriage. Some of the suitors saw their prospective brides. One play described a man serenading a woman that he did not get very close to. It was difficult for a man to actually meet a woman for social life.

When it comes to the choice of a husband, the Greek woman was not included here. That was the choice of men. There was a great deal of homosexuality in the Greek culture and it was seen as normal and acceptable. There was no coming out of the culture. Men treated other men with greater tenderness and respect than they treated women.

In religious polytheism, women were used for sex as temple prostitutes. That was considered a high calling for a women outside of the home. They were degraded as objects of worship related to Aphrodite.

For Paul to write, Gal. 3:28, this was a revolutionary concept. This must have been an incredible revelation for those who read this passage and possibly set off a bunch of questions.

On the other hand, this was not set to liberate women from a subordinate role; women were not inferior, but they were subordinate in Christianity. However, Christianity redefined the role of women in ancient society, but it did not redefine their nature or their status in God's plan.

A woman had equal privilege and equal opportunity to advance to spiritual maturity. In other words, a woman was spiritually educated; they could be epistemologically rehabilitated. In this process, you develop a desire to know these things. Simply by writing

Gal. 3:28, Paul was saying, "Educate women in doctrine." In Christ, the woman was a person to be revered and loved by the husband, something unknown to the surrounding culture. Their status as equals was elevated.

Paul educated women with Bible doctrine. Men were not favored by our Lord Jesus Christ. Christ died for everyone, and women were created in the image of God. Jesus Christ paid for the sins of women as He paid for the sins of men.

This doctrine of educating women has been restated and elevated by theologians ever since; and it has been apostatized by theologians as well.

100 years after the Lord Jesus Christ, one of the Alexandrian fathers, Clement, who lived from 150-211 A.D., and he made a clear statement of spiritual equality for women, and hence an equality of life for women. He wrote in a church context, an early father of the church; and he wrote when women were not treated well in the surrounding culture. Heathen never treat women well. Africa women are raped and killed in the Congo; Muslims abuse their women, and so do the Chinese. They [women] that possess life in common and grace in common and salvation in common; they also have virtue in common, and therefore, education too. This is a statement of Clement, interpreting the Scripture.

It is Christianity which elevates women to their proper role and their proper life; the record of Christianity has been distorted. Clement took this doctrine and made application, indicating that women needed to be educated in spiritual matters. This would be the only education of women.

At times, this doctrine was perverted inside of Christianity. Whenever the church got into serious heresy, the doctrine of the equality of women was also perverted. These were the Dark Ages; there was no light of doctrine (or very little light). There was some accurate teaching, but, by and large, the church was in heresy in the Middle Ages.

Origen 185–250 A.D. the church's first systematic theologian, writing in Latin, but he was influenced by a great heresy of the time called Gnosticism. Gnosticism had dualism, which influences Origen. His writings were very unfavorable to women. Gender is not a part of the world of spirit. Body was seen as evil and spirit is seen as good. Gnostic dualism and Greek dualism have this basic premise. God does not favor what is corporeal. The human soul and the human spirit are both corrupted by the sin nature, just like the body is corrupted. He brought into the dualism, this good and evil of the human being. Some Gnostics went so far as to say that sexual intercourse between men and women was evil, because the women tempted the men in that way (Origen may not have held to that). The supposition was the women fell further in the garden than men did. The upshot was, women were evil and they could not rise to the level of men spiritually. Unfortunately, Origen was very influential in the western church. Satan can always deceive where Scripture is ignored. We need to know and understand Bible doctrine. Apostasy reigns where doctrine is not known.

Now let's relate all of this to Corinth. Their culture was as Bobby has described. No equal worship; women used and degraded in the phallic cults; and women were relegated to an inferior status in the Greek culture. They were expected to submit as inferiors and in wrong ways. Men over women then was tyrannical.

Humanists see the golden age of Athens and Greece as the greatest of human cultures. As believers, women are free in Christ. These newly converted Christian women in Corinth were coming out of this culture in Greek; this was ingrained in their thinking. Their mothers lived this way and their grandmothers lived this way. What they saw here was a completely new status in Christianity. Women are equal with men.

Gal 3:28 There is neither Jew nor Greek, there is neither slave nor free, there is neither male nor female, for you are all one in Christ Jesus.

These women were not sure how to handle their new-found freedom; how not to abuse it and how not to go overboard. Bear in mind that much of this was taught verbally to the Corinthians when Paul traveled through.

Now, this can be distorted to feminism and it can lead to them departing from their roles as women. Women were not to be liberated from the authority of men, but they were clearly equal to men. Women have more freedom today than in any other time in history. The time in which we live, women have greater opportunities than ever before in human history.

There is use and abuse of freedom, and Paul needs to clarify this here. How should the woman relate to the man and how should a man treat women and his wife? The men and women of Corinth and Galatia were coming out of the same culture. There was confusion; the tendency was to abuse freedom. It would be easy for them to forget their responder function with regards to the men.

The woman's desire is to rule over her husband. This is a natural tendency of the old sin nature. How should men and women deal with all of this.

Women, Authority, Equality and Freedom

1. The limits of freedom; the roles of men and women, and the necessity and principles of authority. Paul was concerned about a number of things. He was concerned about Greek culture and how freedom would be understood. Paul needed to inform them of these limits.
2. He will relate the balance between authority, leadership, deference to superior rank, initiation and response, love, humility,
3. The woman needs to understand in spiritual freedom that the Christian woman has not been removed from all authority. Feminism removes women from all authority. They should not be removed from their roles as responders. The woman is under authority. God, Christ, man, woman.

The woman still has the responder role with the husband, but she is never to be abused or tyrannized by her husband or by the church. These are things which these people had never conceived of before. This defined the very nature of the relationships in marriage and in the church.

Israel in the Old Testament had much of this understanding, but this was divinely driven and not culturally driven. The church cannot function apart from these doctrines. The Christian men and women had to remove themselves from the thinking of their culture and take to heart the doctrine of authority orientation and initiator and responder.

1Co 11:3 But I want you to understand that Christ is the head of every man, and the man is the head of a woman, and God is the head of Christ.

1Cor. 11:3–4

Sunday 1 October 14, 2007

V. 3 introduces us to the authority orientation which is covered in vv. 4–11:

πας ανερ = of every man. Genitive case. Κεφαλη = head, authority. Every man must be authority oriented. A more common word for man is ανθρωπος = the category of man, including men and women; mankind. Γυνη = woman [in contrast to man]; married or unmarried woman. ανερ = the male gender. Every man does not refer to all mankind. This is further limited by the proper noun χριστος = Christ. Every male is under the headship of the Lord Jesus Christ. These males are specifically believing men. Christian men. Unbelievers have not accepted the Lord Jesus Christ, and therefore they are not under His authority. Now they might be under divine establishment authority, but not under His direct authority. Γυνη is a believing woman under the headship of Christ and her husband as well. The woman is under everyone's authority. The problem is, even though her direct authority is her husband, it is possible that he will not give her anything to which she can respond.

Doctrine is the soul initiator for a woman without a man or one who initiates. Christ is the head of the church. V. 4 is the first half of the comparison.

1Co 11:3 But I want you to understand that Christ is the head of every man, and the man is the head of a woman, and God is the head of Christ.

These few verses seem as though they are some vague, weird cultural tangents. What is on or off the head represents the correct or incorrect role of men or women. Paul has already established the chain of command. That is the overview of the rest of the paragraph. The rest of these next few verses will give illustrations of authority.

This morning, it is all about what you wear or don't wear.

1Co 11:4 Every man praying or prophesying, having anything down over his head, dishonors his head.

The chain of command is critical in order for us to maintain our orientation.

Roger Lewis and Bobby were talking in the office about Bob teaching and there was not one time when Bob did not come out to teach, even in all sickness. With responsibility comes authority and dependability. Bob's leadership did not fail us. Authority carries a velvet glove and a hammer of a fist. This chain of command is the way we live. We must understand authority orientation when we are under it

1Co 11:3 But I want you to understand that Christ is the head of every man, and the man is the head of a woman, and God is the head of Christ.

A disgrace for a man is having something on his head. A woman without something there dishonors her head. These are cultural references which we need to understand; men and women understood exactly what Paul was speaking about here.

Πας ανερ refers to all Christian males. During the activity of praying and prophesying are both temporal present active participles. When a man is involved in these things, his head needs to be uncovered. Prophesying is the Greek verb προφητεω = to proclaim a divine revelation; to foretell the future. In the time that this was written, it was the pre-canon era of the Church Age. We hold in our hands the canon of Scripture. These books have been included in the canon for very good reason. This is all that is necessary for us to know.

Prophecy—Written and Verbal

1. This means to speak under divine inspiration. Paul wrote and spoke under divine inspiration.
2. This is much more than prophesying the future.
3. The church was a brand new and unique age and no one knew what that meant and there was nothing in writing for it, no field manuals. The only way to know it is men who spoke and later wrote under divine inspiration.
4. The mystery doctrine of the Church Age before the written canon was in existence had to be spoken.
5. This was the doctrine that believers in this new unique age needed to know. No one would have any idea about what was going on without Paul and the Apostles. How do you think they found out about Jesus Christ? They were told. Only later were the gospels available. They did not have this information as we do.
6. This doctrine was available to them in no other way than prophesying. Paul includes women in the activity of prophesying. This is interesting because elsewhere in Paul's writings, Paul says women are not to speak in church. "You may prophesy" and then he says, "You cannot speak in church."

Today, unlike the time that this was written, the canon is closed.

Prophecy in the Post-Canon Period

1. There is no brand new revelation to be prophesied, regardless of the Muslims, the Mormons and anyone else who claims there is new revelation. It is all revealed already.
2. All that we need for faith and practice in the Christian life is contained within the Bible. People think that we need to know more things and need to move past where we are, but this is false. All that we need to know is already in front of us. Any church claiming new revelation is heretical.
3. Prophesying today is the teaching of the Word of God; that which is already in existence. Bobby is a prophet but he does not tell us about future events. There are prophecy conferences all over. Eschatology gives us great confidence and hope in our future. We are assured of what we hear about; we know what is ours. It is nice to know. Prophecy conferences do not advance us spiritually. Bob used to say dying is the great experience of life; those who go up with the rapture will be wimps. They do not get to enjoy dying grace. You are only a little ways from eternity, and you see the grace of God like never before.
4. Prophesying today does not mean speculating about future events. Still, you can turn the tv on and find someone talking about future events which are not in Scripture.
5. When there is speculation like that, it borders on adding onto the Word by human theorizing. Will it make your life any better because you know exactly when the rapture will take place? This type of stuff is pointless. There will be a rapture, a bodily resurrection, and we do need to know that.
6. Making prophetic predictions today is not divinely inspired and therefore it is not valid as divine revelation. All we need to find is in the Bible. The apocrypha was added recently added by the Roman church—about 100 years ago. Why do you need new revelation if all that we need is already in the canon of Scripture. You cannot in your lifetime study the entire Word of God. Unfortunately, many Christian ministers are foretelling the future and not teaching the Word of God.

Prayer is the next topic.

Prayer

1. When teaching the Bible, you must approach it with humility. You are going to the throne of God. One who does this is rebound.
2. Immediately it is understood the submission to authority is involved.
3. When you ask God for something, that is authority orientation in prayer.
4. The very act of requesting from God in prayer is an act of submission and an act recognizing His sovereignty.
5. When you pray, you are recognizing divine authority. It takes recognition of authority to pray or to prophesy. No believer can ever afford to trifle with the Word of God. The Bible contains God's mandates and instructions.

The Scripture contains all of God's mandates and instructions. Bobby stands before us in humility, bringing to us the authority of God the Father and God the Son. We receive it under the authority that Bobby has as the pastor-teacher. He is not a prophecy that he brings on his own; he is illuminated in order to teach. No inspiration; no new revelation. Bobby's authority is from his gift, not from his person. Bobby doesn't hear voices or dream dreams of doctrine.

Bobby once asked Bob about a funeral and if he ever gets nervous about this crowd. Bob said, "I am a professional." He might get nervous, but he functions regardless. Bobby is also prepared; and he also has the language. There is a chain of command even as we learned it now. Bobby is prepared and God the Holy Spirit used his preparation. Bobby does not stand up in infallibility. He can be out of fellowship, he can draw wrong conclusions, etc. With the help of the Holy Spirit, Bobby can bring us to maturity. We can have impersonal love for all man and personal love for God. It is never a good idea to be under the authority of more than one pastor. When we listen to 2 or 3 pastors and we hear divergence. It is subtle, but we need to be under authority. With several pastors, we remove authority from the chain of command. We should not set ourselves up as the final arbiter is truth. The Holy Spirit, the pastor-teacher and then us, in that order of authority.

That should make us think about the grace apparatus for perception. The Holy Spirit is right there with Bobby when it comes to studying. The chain of command is in every aspect of the spiritual life. There is more in authority instead of just us and God. Some move outside the lines of authority of the church. They begin to conceive of their own interpretations of Scripture. They pull it out of context and then they proof text it without training and by claiming the Holy Spirit gives them some mystical insight. There is no governor on that. It is very dangerous territory for amateurs, dilitants and charlatans to try to interpret the Word of God. The pastor must dig out the meaning that God intends for a pastorate, not just for ourselves. Scripture must mean what God intended it to mean. Theology is not an easy thing.

People think they can just read theological books and get it, but this is not true. We need to be trained in theology; we do not know the oddball predilections of the authors we read. We will get more out of reading the passages which we have been taught.

Then they want to perpetrate their fallacies on others. Let me tell you what I have found. What kind of responsibility we are taking on here. We are representing the Lord Jesus Christ and we are giving someone who needs doctrine falsehood. We do not want to shoulder that responsibility. We should not put ourselves between a pastor and his congregation. Bobby answers directly to the Lord. We are answerable to Bobby but only in the area of the Word of God. Going around to hear this or that speaker can lead us into all kinds of problems.

Bobby, as our authority, has a system of authority or a chain of command. As a private, you do not go to someone in a different unit or command to get their instructions. We need to stay without our own platoon or company.

The amateur pastor is analogous to the woman in the chain of command. Bobby is not being self-serving here, but simply giving the chain of command as per the Scriptures. We may want to know and we may want to study the Word, but there is an underlying arrogance here and stepping outside of the legitimate areas of authority.

We must not come between the pastor and his congregation. This is anti-authority and destructive to the church. There is such a tremendous delegated responsibility and it should be handled with great care and circumspection. Handling this should never be taken lightly. We do not mess with the Scripture or trifle with the Word of God. It requires great submission and humility. No good ever comes to the believer who is not so gifted and trained or who attempts to lead the sheep astray or attempts to lead the sheep away from the pastor. If you play fast and loose with the Word of God, God will come down on us.

1Co 11:4 Every man praying or prophesying, having anything down over his head, dishonors his head.

1Co 11:5 But every woman who prays or prophesies with her head unveiled dishonors her head, for that is one and the same as if her head were shaven.

1Cor. 11:4–5

Wednesday October 17, 2007

The subject of authority orientation has inspired some colorful illustrations. “If you are an unmarried woman and you have no respect for the man you are engaged to, you are going to have a very difficult time submitting to the person; and you ought to think twice about marrying such a person.” After that, on Sunday, an engagement ring was dropped into the offering plate.

A note from another lady yesterday from another city, who wrote to Bobby about Adam’s failure in the garden to be a leader for his wife. “If Adam was anything like my husband, I sympathize with the woman.” This is after a half century of marriage

What covers the head is not about fashion or manners or culture; a head covering or lack thereof represents the correct in incorrect attitude. The head covering serves as an illustration.

If you just read these two verses, you would be totally baffled as to what they mean. Πας ανερ = every man. This was used back to v. 3, and this refers to male believers. The gender is the emphasis here as opposed to men and women.

The function of praying or prophesying should not be done by a man wearing some sort of head covering. The head covering indicates that the man is under authority. With the woman, the issue is authority orientation. Women should not be teaching from the pulpit of the church, so why should Paul talk about this? The issue is authority orientation for the woman; the issue is authority in the case of the man.

Is there a head-covering cultural norm that we need to know about? The Greeks worshiped bareheaded in their temples. The Romans worshiped with their heads covered. The Jews required men to wear a covering for their head in public services, the tradition of the yamika. So, there was no standard for heathen culture and worship. There is no reason for Paul to suggest that the Greek customs were better than the Roman or Jewish customs. Paul is not dealing with cultural lessons. There are 1000's of churches to day which are inundated with cultural influences and are schooled primarily in the surrounding influence of the primary culture.

This is strictly about what is occurring outside the church. This is not and should not be made to mean that Bobby should wear or not wear a hat in church. If Bobby wore a hat, that might be bad manners, but it would not indicate that he has abdicating his authority.

Wearing a hat is about a mental attitude about humility and authority orientation. It is not about the literal wearing of a hat or not. This is an issue in some churches. A pastor came out of Berachah and kept a bunch of hats at the back of the church on a table for women to use.

There was a norm from that time period for women to wear hats or head coverings. The head covering has to do with the lack of humility in the soul. Bob used to say, it does not matter what you wear to church; what matters is what is in your soul.

Paul introduces this subject other than to deal with some cultural thing. This is all about the women in the Corinthian church. This is where Paul is going with this. The cultural norm for the women of that time was that, appearing uncovered for any woman was a disgraceful thing. This was all groups of women, and that is the basis for this illustration.

Cultural Norm for Women

1. Prostitutes were uncovered; they resisted the authority of one man and sold themselves to many men. The woman needed to show what she looked like. This was considered illegitimate for a woman in public.
2. So, all legitimate women wore some kind of head covering; that made them appear respected.
3. The Talmud gave the culture of the Jews of the time, and women's hair was beautiful and erotic.
4. For that reason, a woman's hair needed to be covered, simply because the hair was a come on (much like Arabs today). This was a cultural norm for all women at that time. It was not true for the men, but it was for the women .
5. For the woman to go with uncovered hair was unacceptable in society then.
6. In order to conform with the cultural norms, the women needed to wear a head covering. However, at the same time, female believers were equal.
7. Going without a head covering was a flat rejection of authority.

8. Women who read this understood all of this based upon their culture. This illustration hit home without any explanation. They understood exactly what Paul was referring to.

Maybe the deal is, Paul was dealing with the law of love. Women actually did have the freedom to go without the head coverings. However, being part of the society, they needed to wear these head coverings.

There is nothing wrong with decorum today; it is necessary for protocol. A society without protocol is confused and often out of control. No decorum and no protocol. Men and women in our society have, at time, eschewed their roles as men and women.

What is the point of all this?

1. The head covering issue was to confirm the lines of authority, already stated in v. 3 in an illustration which they all understood.
2. Vv. 4–5 is a continuing example of the roles of men and women as an initiator and as a responder. Bobby will define soon an initiator.
3. No covering on the head was the symbol of the man's leadership position. If his head is covered, he is not exercising leadership.
4. Being covered is abdicating authority by the man; changing his role.
5. While being uncovered for the woman reveals an anti-authority attitude of these women in the Corinthian church.
6. They were challenging the divinely designated leadership of the church. Praying and prophesying with their head uncovered. V. 5 is more complex than v. 4.
7. The head covering is an illustration of authority, leadership, initiation and response.

Remember, Gal. 3:28: women are free in Christ with equal privilege and equal opportunity. They can move as fast and as far as any man. Gal. 3:28 does not go this far here. The head covering drives home the point which Paul made in v. 3. Paul with the head covering disgraces his head.

Disgrace is the present active indicative of καταεσκυω = to dishonor, to disgrace, to shame, to humiliate, to bring to shame. Here, they are bringing to shame his authority; his head in this verse to be precise. A leader may listen to a subordinate, but he does not capitulate to a subordinate. It is okay for a man to listen to his wife.

When you abdicate authority to a subordinate, that is a disgrace; that is a κατεσκυω. His subordinate will lose all respect for him. A common problem for men today is abdicating their authority; these men do not know how to lead; they have abdicated their authority completely.

Some have taken this line to mean, the man brings shame to Christ, Who is the head. The idea that, when he prays or prophesies, he brings shame to Christ. However, that is not what this verse means. However, in this verse, the man is disgracing Himself, not Christ.

We all man and woman carry the responsibility for our own actions. If we did, we would have about 90% fewer lawsuits today. When you do not take responsibility for yourself, you will constantly be defending yourself; you will be constantly rationalizing your own actions.

A commissioned officer comes out before his men unshaven, dirty shoes, hair too long, etc. is a disgrace to his uniform. His appearance reflects what is going on in his soul. He belittles himself by his appearance. This is the person who must enforce his authority and his appearance can destroy his authority. His troops are required to fall out in pressed clothes, shined shoes, shaved, etc. He loses their respect and he loses his authority and his ability to lead. His higher commander has already given directions as to how to wear the uniform. This does not reflect. He brings shame upon himself. That takes him outside his role as a man and outside the plan of God. A man who prays and prophesies covered is not a man, but he is a responder. He loses his authority. He has abdicated his authority.

So, now Bobby needs to explain what it means for a man to be a leader or an initiator. Some of us have abdicated our position as leaders. You can be shy and quiet and be a leader. You do not have to be rough and tough to be a leader. You can be small. You don't have to be a big man to be a leader. Leadership is a learned skill. There is such a thing as a natural leader, and they say this because of the way he looks and acts. Some people in school are naturally able to lead. That is only a small part of leadership. The best leaders learn the skills of leadership. Some only know how to have a strong personality, which does them no good when running into a person with a stronger personality. Bobby attended many classes on leadership in the service. You can be a success as a military officer if you understand leadership.

Bobby was assigned to Alaska as a controller; maneuvers in cold weather. It was a fascinating time and Bobby got to see a great leader. Bobby observed him very closely. Everyone in his company had respect for him. He wasn't the kind who had to bark orders; he was not a big man. He was always out in front. There was a warming tent. This officer went out every hour to check on his men, even though he could stay in the warming tent. He was an inspiration. Leadership is a learned skill and we can each learn it.

1Co 11:5 But every woman who prays or prophesies with her head unveiled dishonors her head, for that is one and the same as if her head were shaven.

1Cor. 11:4–5 Leadership

Thursday October 18, 2007

The subject of leadership is quite vast and volumes of books have been written on this subject, and we observe it during elections, during a war, in a classroom, etc. When two or more people are involved in some way, there is leadership. It takes place in every area of life. Authority in government demands the leader, the president; authority in academics demands a teacher; the family demands parental leadership; authority in the church demands pastoral leadership.

Why do we need leadership? Why can't we just take care of ourselves? It is necessary or order, direction, guidance, accountability, motivation, organization; and because we all have old sin natures. Leadership comes in all sort of packages—autocratic and democratic; with all kinds of styles, but style is not leadership. Leadership is principle. Carrying authority has a lot of responsibility.

Leadership results in a common bond rather than in antagonism. There is no cohesion and no integrity or subordination in antagonism. V. 4 illustrates authority. An uncovered head is authority in leadership. The assumption is the man has authority in leadership.

In v. 4, the man has a head covering. When he does this, he disgraces his head when praying or prophesying (teaching). With a head covering, he brings shame to his leadership. To be a leader, he needs to have his head uncovered. Covering his head means that he is relinquishing his authority and his leadership. The church is left leaderless without protection, without guidance, without decision making, without accurate teaching. This is also true in the area of marriage.

When a man abdicates his role as a leader, he has been beaten into submission, which places the man and women in the worst positions that they can be in. What does it mean to be an initiator? A leader is an initiator, and he carries designated and delegated authority.

He must also learn how to be an initiator. He is born with a natural affinity for leadership; he has an inherent aptitude for leadership and for initiation. An aptitude implies a learning process; it does not mean that you can do it; it means you have a propensity which can be developed. If he has the qualities and the designated authority, then he can show the optimum in good leadership. Most people have not a clue as to what it means to be a good leader. They have no idea how to learn how to be a good leader. In the human realm, the best way to learn leadership is to join the military.

The man is mandated to be a leader to the woman and no woman will respond to the man who lacks leadership or who does not initiate. This is why we need to be a leader and we need to be able to initiate. So, how is authority to be exercised? Where does the man cross the line to become covered; a responder, or when does he cross the line to become a tyrant in stead of a leader?

Eph. 5:22–25 is a good place to get a feel for leadership. Wives, submit to your own husbands, as to the Lord. For the husband is the head of the wife even as Christ is the head of the church, his body, and is himself its Savior. Now as the church submits to Christ, so also wives should submit in everything to their husbands. Husbands, love your wives, as Christ loved the church and gave himself up for her (Eph. 5:22–25), Subordinate and leader. There is not doubt that the woman is a responder; she is subordinate to the husband and to Jesus Christ. The husband is the head, which is that same noun κεφαλη, which is the head or the authority; the superior in rank. He is the leader the initiator. He is head over the wife just as Christ is the head over the church. Christ is the Savior of the body; and there is a parallel here. As the church is subject to Christ, so also the wives ought to be subject to their husbands. Husbands, love your wives just as Christ loved the church and gave Himself up for her. Love is a part of leadership; it is the responsibility of leadership. Be subordinate comes from υποτασσω = to be subordinate to, to be subject to. This occurs in v. 21, but not in v. 22. It is not repeated in v. 22; since there is no verb in v. 22. It is implied, however. ὑποτάσσω is a military word.

Bobby is going to give a little scenario. An infantry company is ordered to set up a defense in some location; a defensive position. The leader of that company is the company commander and he is totally and completely responsible for the tactical deployment of his company. The fact that we have been given leadership; responsibility is the key word here. This commander, particularly in combat, has many things in his mind, including the lives of his men and the mission which he is given to accomplish. His responsibility is right in front of his eyes. He must always keep his composure and his calm. No matter what the circumstances, a leader keeps his composure. The company commander must issue sound, clear orders and he must follow up, in order to see that these orders are followed. Leadership is leadership by example, and this is where the leader gains respect.

The company does not set up its defenses on its own. Only without a leader and being dazed, do they ever try this on their own. The company commander has to coordinate them as whole. This is one reason the soldier in command is an issue. Leaders must be thorough in their thinking, and then they ask for questions. A leader must initiate the action and his subordinates must respond to his orders. The leader initiates the action and he does this in the best interest of mission accomplishment and troop survival. Accomplishing the mission and taking care of the troops are his concerns. The mission comes first and the troops understand this as well. Great leadership keeps their best interests in mind. A leader can be the best leader on earth, but without a response, nothing works. The husband leads and initiates, but the wife must respond.

The husband initiates in love; leadership is to give his all to his subordinates, which is his capacity for love, and he leaves nothing on the table. His subordinates know that he will give his all to accomplish the mission, even his life. When this is in the marital situation, the marriage is great.

The acts of authority are by the order of the Congress. There was a bar on Bobby's uniform, and he was vested with authority, but he was not a leader; that takes extensive training. For the husband, that is the development of capacity for love. We get this training from Bible doctrine in the soul. The wife is like a subordinate soldier to her commanding officer.

If there is no confidence in a leader, then the subordinates will not obey their CO. The troops want to see their leader out front; they want to see that he cares about them. He can be tough, but they must understand that he cares about them, through the actions which they can observe.

The wife needs to see competence of leadership; she needs to have confidence in him. The good leader elicits the desire to respond; he instills teamwork; family teamwork. Yet, there is a place where the buck stops.

The subordinate will want to gain the respect of his leader. He must initiate using the leadership qualities which he has developed. He is charged with the welfare of his subordinates.

The Qualities of a Husband Leader

If you have these qualities, and if you learn to use the skills inherent to this qualities, you can be a husband leader.

1. Maturity. Maturity is the ability to make wise decisions by applying doctrine. These decisions should elicit confidence from the wife. If you are mature, you are wise and confident. And you build capacity for love, which is what the wife sees and which gives her confidence.
2. Flexibility. This means making timely and appropriate changes when necessary. Leadership in marriage means that you are never closed minded; you cannot afford to be closed minded and you cannot be threatened by a wife who suggests a better way. The wife may know some of these things better than the husband and the husband should not stifle that. She is not a woman who says yes sir, no sir. There is a great difference between leadership and merely issuing orders. A man becomes inflexible when he fears failure. When a man fears failure, he doubts; and it controls your thinking and your life. No leader can afford to have fear or doubt in his soul.
3. Endurance; the ability to weather the repeated storms described in Gen. 3:16; the woman who desires to rule over her husband. You must be able to weather these storms with patience and constancy; you should not lose your composure. You should not lose personal control in anger. When you are angry, you no longer think, you are simply reacting. There is strength in endurance, and part of endurance is persistence. You do not ever defer your leadership; you do not step down from your position of leadership; you do not delegate your leadership to your wife. You should be flexible and with an open mind; but you do not give away your leadership. These qualities are not individual, but they work together. You must learn them as a whole.
4. Decisiveness. This is sound doctrinal judgment to make good decisions at the proper time. Inactivity is a loss of leadership and do not defer decision making to the subordinate. Decision and initiation are almost synonymous.
5. Poise is the next one. This is the stature of a leader. If you do not have poise in life, then you might as well quit. Poise is composure marked by self assurance. Some men seem to wake up with self assurance. Some learn it just because of the way they move and act and others respond to them. Spiritual self esteem is composure and poise. Leadership must be able to act under pressure. The responder, the woman, responds with emotion; and her emotion may be more difficult for her to control it. A stressed out man is not a leader. As soon as stress hits, you see who the leader is and who isn't.

1Co 11:4 Every man praying or prophesying, having anything down over his head, dishonors his head.

1Co 11:5 But every woman who prays or prophesies with her head unveiled dishonors her head, for that is one and the same as if her head were shaven.

1Cor. 11:4

Leadership Lesson #615 October 21, 2007

Sunday 1

This verse does not refer to a head covering in general. However, if teaching and praying should be done with a bare head, then we need to revise GAP and the doctrine of prayer.

By divine design, the concept of authority exists in the universe. That is the big picture topic. The chain of command was given back in v. 3: God, Christ, man and woman. There must be authority orientation and a response to authority. Leadership and subordination to authority.

Decision making, efficiency, guidance, motivation, accomplishment, accountability, are all a part of a leader/subordinate relationship. When 2 or more people are involved, there must be some kind of leadership. In our context, this leader subordination refers to the man and the woman both in marriage and in the church; and it is man who holds the leadership position. This does not mean that the man is the superior person. Women can be superior to men in many ways, but the vested leader is the man.

In v. 4, the man is wearing a head covering for praying and prophesying. This is a sign of subordination. He is humiliated as a leader; he has abdicated his leadership position; he is in dereliction of duty before God. There is no excuse not to exercise leadership. There are women in authority in business and in many other places. In our world, the relationship here is between husband and wife. Leadership is the designated role of the husband; and Bobby's designated role is leadership for the church.

Leadership in man requires vested authority. The man must learn how to deal with authority. The man is vested with authority. Aptitude always implies a learning process. A man needs to learn these qualities. You have authority, now what are you going to do with it? This is where the war between men and women begins. Leadership must be learned. We men lead by example, which comes from the developed qualities and characteristics of the soul. Our subordinate will come to reflect our example. It takes time, thought and training to develop leadership skills. If a man does not develop these attributes, he will either abdicate his God-given role or he will become a tyrant. In either case, the man is a failure before the Lord. What a man is depends upon his beliefs, his values, his ethics, and his character. Beliefs and values have great motivating power. That is the object of the leader, to motivate; to lead by example. The Christian man growing in grace and knowledge will have the greatest ability to lead that a man can possess. He will know the divine value system; he will understand divine viewpoint. He will understand the characteristics that he must develop and internalize. His value system must be conveyed to the subordinate. Some husbands have failed here; the wife takes in doctrine and the wife runs the spiritual show. The man should be the spiritual leader in your family. As you go, so goes your family and so goes your children. Your ethics must be spiritual ethics, characterized by virtue love.

Truly, all of these things must be developed in the soul of the subordinate, but the man, as the leader, must develop these things. Virtue love is the essence of the Christian leader. Husbands love your wives with virtue love, just as Christ also loved the church. Christ gave Himself up for the church, and the husband is to love his wife like that.

We need to keep stress out of our lives, as this will destroy a unit. The husband should not show stress; he needs to develop spiritual self esteem which exudes confidence and stability. His qualities motivates her to respond to Bible doctrine. When it is seen in the soul of a man by the wife, that becomes a strong motivator.

The man also must develop grace orientation, and we need to have an attitude of graciousness toward our wives. It begins with grace orientation and as we begin to understand what salvation means and what grace God has bestowed upon us.

The man brings a contentment and a peace into the home. Contentment in our souls means that we are one of the greatest examples of leadership. This always affects our subordinates. It is what we need to show in our family and in our life. We are leaders based upon what is in our soul.

The wife assesses us on a daily basis; she learns whether we are open and honest and trustworthy, or if we are lazy, indecisive or trustworthy. She sees if we are consistent with the values that we profess.

If you, as a man, cannot apply doctrine as a leader, then your head is covered; you are not a leader. The closest parallel is the military where the officer whose beliefs and values are strong; and his subordinates will die for him.

The qualities and values must be resident in his soul. They are phoney and they cannot be faked; true for the Christian leader as well. You must have something in your soul in order to lead.

Qualities of a Great Leader

These apply in the spiritual realm as well as in the world. It is possible for a woman to respond to the wrong man; it is possible to respond to human viewpoint. The source of all leadership comes from Bible doctrine. These qualities are a part of capacity for love.

1. Maturity; the man has a sense of responsibility; it is taking responsibility; there are no excuses. A leader is never a victim. You are not impulsive. Make wise decisions based upon doctrine and not upon emotion. You should not live by emotions or by feelings, but you live by Bible doctrine.
2. Flexibility. Making timely and appropriate changes when necessary. This is very tough when she has a better way and she tells you about it and you recognize it.

Leadership does not mean that you are closed-minded. Some people just cannot be wrong, and that is dangerous. A woman is not an automaton who simply says yes, sir all the time. A man becomes inflexible when they fear failure or when you doubt your ability. If you doubt your ability, then you do not have Bible doctrine in your soul. You must acknowledge your mistakes when you make them. It is so easy to say, I am right and you are wrong; that is not leadership. Then you have a unit that does what you say and they will not follow you out of a paper bag. This is what women do when they are not led.

3. Endurance (stamina); the ability to weather the repeated storms. The wife has the desire for her husband's authority. Gen. 3. The wife desires authority. Keep going spiritually; never let up. Do not break your momentum. This will break your leadership. Your leadership goes with momentum; there is strength with endurance. Endurance: once leadership is taken out of the hands of the husband, it is hard to get it back. Just like with children; you let your leadership over them lapse, and it is hard to reign them back in.
4. Decisiveness: sound, doctrinal judgment to make good decisions at the proper time. When it is time, you must be ready. In the military, it means violent choices at times (but not in marriage). Have the courage of your convictions. Absolutes leave you with no doubt insofar as to what course you should take. The leader can exemplify absolutes.
5. Poise is the stature of a leader; this means composure marked by self-assurance. You can think or act under pressure. When you are certain of your ground; when you are convinced of absolute truth, then you will exhibit confident controls of your emotions. One great pitfall is marriage, which can be the most adverse of circumstances. Toleration, self-restraint, self-control, self-regulation. You cannot be poised an arrogant. Poise is our ability to think without bitterness, antagonism, without self pity. An attitude of poise comes from spiritual growth. The poised Christian leader is a man with spiritual self esteem. If you do not have this, you will fold under pressure. Poise is the mature spiritual life. In the mature spiritual life, you can solve problems before they begin. This is because you do not become reactionary to your subordinate or to your circumstances. People falling apart in emotional revolt.

If you are single, separated or divorced, then you have a leader, and this is Bible doctrine. The leader who exemplifies these qualities. These qualities are adapted by Bobby from the field manual on leadership. These are the qualities developed in a good combat leader. We are in the angelic conflict; we are in marriage. Marriage is a corporate witness in the angelic conflict. Everything that we are stems from our leadership ability, and this comes from one place: Bible doctrine.

Leadership Qualities

6. Fair treatment; it is not being tyrannical toward the wife. We might get up in the morning and want to get everything straightened out because she cannot do anything right. You cannot be just authority. It is not just about authority; it is not just a chip on your shoulder, but an attitude. You must grant some amnesty to your spouse from time to time. Sometimes you might deliberately overlook an offense. There is a fine line between justice and nagging. Bob was a master at this (not nagging). He knew when to correct and when correction would be self initiated. When you initiate your own correction is when doctrine kicks in. Bob repeated so much because he could look into our eyes and tell when we have it or not. We must maintain impartiality and even-handedness and give her the benefit of the doubt. No legalism in dealing with your subordinate. Legalism and justice are antithetical. Justice is impartial. When you have capacity for love, that is how you treat them. Even when they commit an offense, you have to treat them in love. And be careful what you say, because there are things that you can say that cannot be taken back...on either side. Control yourself, even if you think it. No legalism, but you do have to hold the line for integrity. Remember the righteousness and justice are two sides of the same coin. Nothing is more important than to be objective and just. No more difficult or terrifying situation than to have bullets flying by your and having to lead men in battle. You must maintain objectivity.
7. Assertiveness: taking charge when necessary. Leaders take charge. What does this mean in a marital situation? Make your thoughts known. You cannot afford to internalize everything. Problems do not get solved if they are ignored. You have to communicate in order to lead. Asserting yourself involves communication. A woman follows a man with presence, but it must be spoken. Confidence comes from Bible doctrine; you do not have a spirit of timidity, but of doctrine and of sound mind.
8. Compassion: and we must be careful here. Some think that if you have compassion, then you are a wimp. There is nothing wrong with being sensitive to your wife. If you are callous, the wife knows it immediately; that means that you do not care. 1Peter 3:7: live with your wives in an understanding way as with a weaker vessel. This weaker vessel needs compassion and understanding. This weaker vessel is responsiveness. Do not destroy the little girl inside of her. That is a delight to watch. Without compassion, you will harden the woman against you. Compassion comes with impersonal love; as we develop impersonal love, we develop compassion. We overlook faults. We are faulty. To many men who think of themselves as leaders do not recognize their own faults, but they think that the woman has all the faults.
9. Sense of humor. You need to lighten up. Be able to critique yourself; be able to admit your own short-comings. You need to have some sort of sense of humor about yourself. Handle some problems with humor; it deflects conflict and settles issues without a fight. You do not need to impose your will very often. Sometimes, you need to be self-deprecating. This is as long as you can have a sense of humor about yourself. Sometimes, these sorts of things and sometimes relationships should be enjoyed and we can share the happiness of God. God has a sense of humor; He has a great sense of humor.

10. Humility: acknowledge your mistakes. A bad leader cannot wield authority if he cannot be under authority. He bends the rules in front of his subordinates; he runs down his boss to his subordinates. You need a gracious attitude and that must be projected. Grace precludes the anger which is a part of relationships. In marriage, you must put your wife's interests above your own. Jesus Christ put our interests in front of His own. Humility is developed, as we grow in grace and knowledge.
11. Self-discipline: forcing yourself to do what you know to be right...even if you do not want to do it...even if it is the last thing in the world that you want to do. You follow your values of Bible doctrine. You make application to your own circumstances. Do not compromise in the area of doctrine.
12. Dependability. This is what makes you dependable. This is so people know what to expect. You are wise and prudent, so you are poised and compassionate and mature.
13. One quality may be exercised over another in a particular time and place, but do not let one outweigh the others. At some times, these qualities will need to be applied. When do you apply this or that quality? One may be more effective than another under a certain set of circumstances. The spiritually mature believer can do this. Some great military leaders know exactly what to do at the right time in order to get the correct response from your subordinates. If you want to get the right response from the wife? Then live these qualities and practice them. It takes wisdom and Bible doctrine. It starts now. You cannot forget that you are a leader. You can never give up on leadership. You can never abdicate it, you can never turn it over to the wife; because when you hand it to her, she will take it. Spiritual maturity will grow simultaneous to leadership. Ideally, both the husband and wife grow together. 51% or more of the franchise is dependent upon the husband. He is responsible for initiating the blessing, and strength, and tranquility in the marriage. The wife has the responsibility to respond to doctrine and she will respond to the man in the chain of command. The woman will respond to Bible doctrine, but never forget, in your human relationships, she will respond to us, or she will react to your lack of leadership. Men do not understand that what they sow, they reap.

1Cor. 7:3 gives the duties of the husband to the wife: Due benevolence is the key to an initiator responder relationship. How does the husband do this? You have just heard. A principle of business and investment illustrate the point. Some of us will illustrate this. Some men think that if they make enough money, then things will be okay. But money is not a substitute for leadership. Your family will not understand any of the principles.

Capital must be invested and it will create wealth; it will create a return. If you invest a lot of money, you will make a lot of money. Your financial position appreciates. A 401 K continues to grow. The analogy is, when a man makes a good investment to his future in marriage: a contribution of the capital of love, care and attention to the woman, he receives a good return on his capital investment from his wife. If you do not invest anything, you will receive little or nothing in return. A negative response is active reaction to a man who is indifferent. The worst leader is a person who is indifferent. Indifferent people cannot lead or initiate. When a leader does not care about his men, then laugh about him behind his back; they know he does not care, so he does not need to care. Good investments appreciate over time, on and on and on and on. Marriage appreciates over time; it is not a flash; it does not occur overnight. If you do not make the investment and grow, you will get nothing out of it.

The longer I am married, the worse it gets; that indicates that there is all kinds of problems. You are not initiating love, memories, shared experiences. When you strip everything away, what is left is spiritual growth, and when you get older, your relationship is the best. TV tells us that only when you are 21 when the relationship is the best. If television says something, then they are probably wrong. When spiritual growth occurs in tandem, it is a magnificent blessing personally and as a pair. Manipulation means there is no capital investment; there is no investment, no response. Many men have yet to understand, what they sow in the home, they reap in marital discord or marital happiness. It can become so ingrained that, the wife is subjected to apathy, abuse, mistreatment; and you will never get back love. If you only show kindness when you want sex, the woman will go into full scale reaction. There is no due benevolence in the husband; he does not know how to initiate love. It is our responsibility in every aspect of life. There is no substitute for good leadership ever. Every area of love requires it. It exists in heaven and it exists on earth.

1Co 11:5 But every woman who prays or prophesies with her head unveiled dishonors her head, for that is one and the same as if her head were shaven.

Eph. 5:25                      Leadership   Lesson #617   October 24, 2007                      Wednesday

Daylight Savings changed to Nov. 4 this year.

Leadership for the Christian man is really easy; you think and speak wisdom from doctrine and the Christian woman will respond. Training and thought develop the spiritual qualities for leadership.

A Final Summary on Leadership

1. Maturity, which engenders a sense of responsibility. The greatest sense of responsibility is Bible doctrine which circulates in the soul. You do not live under impulsiveness or emotionalism. Maturity is an over-arching principle, which is critical.
2. Flexibility—not being closed minded. You can be closed-minded about a principle of Bible doctrine. This is an absolute which is not negotiable. You base your life on Bible doctrine. We need to be flexible in making changes in this area. We employ the faith rest drill. We are flexible when we understand His promises. When we are uptight, there is no flexibility at all.

3. Endurance is the stamina in dealing with resistance. Perseverance and love toward the subordinate. Love and care for the subordinate. Impersonal love is the key; impersonal love toward the insubordinate. You must always look toward the long haul. You don't go with the first blush of emotion.
4. Decisiveness, the right timing and conviction in making sound doctrinal decisions and persevering in their execution. If you lack the conviction of Bible doctrine in the soul, then you will not be decisive. You cannot be stupid about doctrine. Stupidity and decisiveness do not go together. The absolutes of Bible doctrine cannot go along with lack of decisiveness. You make the correct decision without wavering or 2nd guessing yourself. With the principles of Bible doctrine, you evaluate the decisions that you make.
5. Poise is something which we must all have in every aspect of life. It is thinking or acting under pressure with composure. We have all seen people lose their composure when under pressure. This means control of emotions under adversity, which is not always easy to do under marriage. A personal sense of destiny. The believer leader gets poise from a personal sense of destiny when in Christ. We share in all that Christ is and has. We have a destiny in Christ. That is our personal destiny. This brings spiritual poise into our soul. Here is where we gain spiritual self esteem. This is the confidence which brings poise. That poise is the stature and dignity of a Christian leader to stand under any adversity.
6. Fair treatment. The Christian leader must balance authority with clemency. He must be able to deal with insubordination, antagonism and defiance. You want to slap it down with legalism, but you must maintain impartiality in the soul without legalism. You do with with the knowledge of the integrity of God. We must gain the fairness and the impartiality which comes with Bible doctrine in the soul.
7. Assertiveness, which is taking charge at the appropriate moment and in the appropriate way. You must communicate in order to lead. Assertiveness in your life is the by-product of consistency. If you don't take charge of your own life, you cannot take charge of anyone else's. The greatest resolve of all is having doctrine in your soul. The leader must think in terms of absolutes, and only the Christian leader is able to think in absolutes. The more you are involved in human viewpoint, the more relative your thinking is.
8. Compassion; sensitivity to the feelings, interests and well-being of your subordinates. 1Peter 3:7. Compassion comes with the development of personal love for God. When you know God and understand Who He is and what He has done for us, we cannot love Him apart from Bible doctrine in our souls. We build our personal love for Him with doctrine in the soul. As He is compassionate toward us, we reflect this compassion toward others. The more you know about Him, the more you reflect upon Him. Doctrine always does because it is consistent and because it is truth. We begin to apply all of these things, and you do not become defensive.
9. A sense of humor. You must be able to laugh at yourself and self-critique your own shortcomings, and you do it in the light of Bible doctrine. You laugh at yourself; you don't take yourself so seriously. When you critique yourself in the light of Bible doctrine, you see yourself objectively and all your short comings. You don't fear someone seeing all of your weaknesses. Have a sense of humor. Don't become defensive. Don't try to justify yourself constantly. Once two people become defensive, they will have lost the compatibility. When you make mistakes, then laugh sometimes. If you have a sense of humor, then you can laugh and not be offended. We get so offended when someone notices that your spouse is not perfect. Have a little sense of humor.

10. Humility, you are teachable and as you are teachable, your thinking adapts. These are the grace procedures so we are learning. We begin to apply God's charitable policy of undeserved favor to all those around us. In this application of humility, we put our wife's best interest ahead of your own. The military is a great illustration of this. The subordinate knows that his head will take care of them to the point of personal discomfort, hunger and even death. Put the best interests of the subordinate ahead of your own. Leadership is not a breeze; you will get opposition. You will find it constantly in marriage. Do not be a pushover.
11. Self-discipline. Forcing yourself to do what you know to be right. This is one of the greatest assets in life. You can do anything with self-discipline. To discipline yourself in the spiritual life means you follow the absolute principles of life. You do not compromise doctrine under pressure. What does doctrine tell me to do under these circumstances? With self-discipline, we are dependable. That is an invaluable in leadership. Constancy and dependability.

How does this affect the subordinate? A woman will respond accordingly if she grows in doctrine. She will respond with deference, honor and respect. This is the greatest characteristic of leadership that she can have. She responds with deference and love and, at the same time, she responds in kind, by taking on the same qualities that he reflects. These characteristics are not just for the leader, they are for everyone. The combination of Bible doctrine in your soul and the leadership which we receive, allow for the reflection of these qualities in our soul. The greatest capacity for love comes from Bible doctrine in the soul. Bobby read the word love about 50 time in the first few pages of some Christian book. You must have capacity for love. The greatest capacity for love comes with spiritual growth. Personal love for God and impersonal love for the subordinate. Personal love is all about the quality of the person which is loved; impersonal love is all about the integrity of the one who loves. The object of your love might not always be attractive or nice, and this is where personal love fails. Virtue and integrity in the one who loves. It is the integrity in the soul. That is capacity for love.

How is the woman to respond if she does not receive her due benevolence? She might become resentful, hostile, sarcastic, anger (toward the whole concept of marriage). Neither the man nor the woman has to make a full investment in living together, which is why so many choose that. Don't criticize the woman; look at yourself and change yourself if necessary. Self-absorption, self-deception, self-justification. Bitterness, despair, promiscuity, revenge and even suicide. Faced with this sort of reaction of his own making, the leader-husband begins to react. If the man cannot fulfill his obligation to lead or initiate, then his soul turns feminine. There is nothing for the man to fall back on if he cannot initiate from problem solving devices resident in his soul during a time of adversity. He cannot lead and his wife will not follow. Then he mirrors her bitterness, her resentfulness, her promiscuity. He finds his happiness outside of the home. What happens is, they begin to despise each other. Human viewpoint solutions are only temporary at best. You must have the solution, which is doctrine in the soul. The only solution is the spiritual solution. Rebound and keep moving; and then you focus on the only solution, which is doctrine. You must keep your eyes on the solution, even if the man gives her nothing to respond to. She responds to doctrine. The woman needs to respond to something, and if there is no husband or he is out of line, then you respond, as a woman, to Bible doctrine. When you neglect Bible doctrine, you will stop leading and you will stop responding. When a Christian man leader leads his wife into Bible class, that is a great initiation of love. Love begins in the soul; it does not begin in a bar or in bed. The husband and wife begin to understand the role that they play in their relationship. They begin to understand and grow, and all the garbage of their soul begins to clear out, which is when capacity begins. This does not happen overnight. It takes daily intake of doctrine. This is the best and only solution to marital problems.

Eph. 5:25: Husbands, love your wives, as Christ loved the church and delivered himself over as a substitute for her, Jesus Christ is the model for leadership. He gave Himself up for her (the church). What a critical phrase for the leader to understand.

Christ loved the church with personal love. Then it says, He delivered Himself over as a substitute for her. We are worthless sinners with every fault that man can have.

1Co 11:4 Every man praying or prophesying, having anything down over his head, dishonors his head.

1Co 11:5 But every woman who prays or prophesies with her head unveiled dishonors her head, for that is one and the same as if her head were shaven.

Eph. 5:25 1Cor. 11: Lesson #618 October 25, 2007

Thursday

In marriage, the husband is vested with authority and leadership. As the leader, he must learn to initiate a response in his wife. He is to give due benevolence to his wife. He must show all of the leadership qualities from the other night. Whether a guy wants to have this position of leadership or not, he is. The more you learn, and as he grows spiritually, he applies his leadership qualities as a part of normal consequence. These things all fall into place as you grow and begin to understand your role. So, a man's first and foremost role is the grow to maturity.

This is not just about men; women are responders, and all women will respond to something in some way. There will be times when Gen. 3:16 kicks in, and the wife's desire is to rule over her husband. With spiritual growth, the genuine and complete response will be available to us. However, both the man and woman must be consistent about growing spiritually. The husband will become a spiritual leader. He will lead in other areas, but his spiritual leadership is the most critical. He will exemplify the benefits of Bible class. Then he will initiate her interests. Sometimes, the wife is the positive one and the wife is not.

You wives can influence your husbands when it comes to doctrine. Bobby has seen many instances of wives who are positive to doctrine and they are dedicated to spiritual growth, and they have had the greatest impact on the souls of the husbands; both for salvation and for spiritual growth. In some cases, the husband has even taken his rightful place as the spiritual leader in the home. Some women do advance, even with hostility at home. Many men resent Bible class and many hated Bob's voice. However, a woman cannot nag a man into spiritual growth.

For the husband whose wife is not positive, the solution is exactly the same. You hang in there in Bible class and you continue to grow and you exemplify all of the wonderful qualities of leadership. The woman will be aware of your leadership and character and she will know where it comes from. You must remain remain positive and compassionate, even if the wife has no interest. If the wife responds to doctrine, ultimately, she will respond to the husband. As she sees you grow, that is the only way that she will take an interest in spiritual things. Don't get impatient. It won't happen overnight, and the growth will take time as well.

Husband and wife, under those conditions, will grow up together, in their marriage; the Christian husband and the Christian wife begin to gain capacity for life, as leader and responder. The children are also affected for their benefit.

Children will do what they see; not just what they hear you tell them.

To Eph. 5:25, which is the key to leadership. The initiation of love by the husband; is the principle of leadership. The husband has a model for this kind of love; his model is Jesus Christ, Who initiated love for the church in this way. He gave Himself up for her. This is a critical phrase for the leader-initiator to understand.

Impersonal love and personal love. As this happens, so he becomes a leader.

Some Points on Eph. 5:25

1. Christ demonstrated impersonal love by become our substitute; He gave Himself up; He died for us, for our salvation. He paid the penalty; He delivered Himself up over for us. He gave the last measure of His life for us. That is impersonal love.
2. We do not deserve such unselfish benevolence.
3. His impersonal love reflected His won character and virtue as a man. We know what His sacrifice entailed; perfect subordination to the Father. What agony, paying for our sins, sins which were not His own.
4. That is the extent to which He went to initiate love toward us.
5. There is no greater love than the application of impersonal love. This is irrespective of the virtue, integrity or attributes of the object of that love. Do you think that Jesus Christ, when He died for us, looked at our worthiness and figured, we were good enough?

6. Impersonal love chooses to act, despite the negative aspects. Impersonal love is the depth of husbands love your wives as Christ loved the church.
7. The husband's love for his wife is dutiful (this is meant in the best sense of the word); this is due benevolence.
8. The initiation of due benevolence does not depend upon any response from the subordinate. Does our response matter to Jesus Christ with respect to His dying on the cross? Christ died for every man, but the response of the subordinate is not important. It does not matter.
9. Impersonal love is both the power of love but also the premier problem solving device for marriage. Marriage will not be optimum without the power of impersonal love. If she is the most attractive woman in the world, but she becomes much less attractive in many other ways with a love response.
10. The husband cannot be consistent in his initiation of love, through the application of impersonal love.
11. Impersonal love applied from doctrine in the soul of the mature husband. The first quality of leadership is maturity. Impersonal love applied from doctrine in the soul from the mature husband takes precedence over the faults and flaws of the relationship. It takes precedence over the conflicts and the personality clashes and the policy arguments of marriage.
12. It is the same for the wife who responds to doctrine. Doctrine cuts both ways.
13. Personal love depends on attraction and response from the object. That fades or turns into reaction. In impersonal love, the subject or initiator expresses virtue.

Don't ever think that impersonal love won't work. Everyone thinks that personal love is what it is all about. Do you think there has ever been a marriage based upon physical attraction or personality compatibility, which lasts? Impersonal love is the only chance that any of us have for maximum marital happiness or fulfilling our roles in marriage.

There is another aspect to love.

More Points

1. The Lord also love the church, with is the body of believers; and He loves us with personal love. He died for us with impersonal love. We were spiritually dead; we were unattractive to Him.
2. In becoming believers, we respond to the initiation of His impersonal love on the cross. We are ugly to God because of our fallen nature. We express faith alone in Christ alone; this is where is begins. That is the response to impersonal love. When we receive impersonal love, it hard not to respect that or to respond to that. It is a hard woman who cannot respond to that.
3. Our Lord imputes His perfect righteousness to us. That is His merit imputed to us. God loves that righteousness in us. This is perfection and He loves us in this way.

4. We develop our own personal love and respect in return; this is reciprocal love. When we know Him, we understand Him and love Him. Personal love does not last in any other way. We are the responders. As we come to know the One Who saved us and provides for us.
5. With further spiritual growth, the response of personal love gains greater depth and intensity. Surface personal love does not go very far.
6. When personal love gains greater depth and intensity, the beauty of the object of love grows. That love is cherished and respected, appreciated and nourished and the love grows. The combination of personal love and impersonal love is what makes the relationship work.
7. This is analogous to personal, reciprocal love between husband and wife. You see the virtue in each other; and you see the great value in one another. Our beauty will fade; and in no time, your physical attributes will no longer be what is was. This combination of impersonal love and personal love is the virtue necessary for initiation and response. That is what is necessary for initiation and response in marriage.
8. What this love is not: it is not sentimental or emotional. It is virtue dependent. It is doctrinally dependent; grace dependent. The virtue grows in the soul of the husband with doctrine. Then the wife responds with respect and develops her own virtue love.
9. A husband must so love his wife that he will give of himself in every way that a human being can give of himself. Emotion may be a part of all of this—in fact, it will be—personal love is not sterile or clinical; there are deep sets of feelings in all of this. However, emotion is secondary to all of this. Impersonal love is devoid of emotion. Impersonal love is about virtue, not emotion. If emotion is involved, it will distort impersonal love. Emotion comes in with personal love. However, personal love does not carry with it the power of impersonal love.
10. If no response can be drawn, the wife has no capacity for love. This is the difficult thing.
11. But, the man must still initiate from the virtue in his soul. Christ continues to initiate love toward us, regardless of our response. God still continues to offer it until the day that we die, whether we respond or not.
12. Love does not mean a leader is a pushover, a rollover or a tyrant. No subordinate respects this sort of thing. A leader is assertive and there are times to apply these qualities of leadership.
13. It all boils down to be imitators of Christ (1Cor. 11:1).
14. When personal love for God and impersonal love for people unite, that forms the great quality of virtue love. Virtue love is what is directed from the husband to the wife. Christ loved the Church and gave Himself for it.
15. With virtue love, neither the husband or wife will be stapped with cruel intolerance, smoldering anger, judging, hatred, or any other mental attitude sins.

A Few Practical Points

1. In virtue love, the husband's love will not be distracted. It will not ruin his life; he will not have the smoldering anger.
2. He won't
3. He will imitate the Lord with endurance, poise, humility, etc.
4. If the man has those qualities and applies them, the wife will appreciate them and respond. She will respond with the greatest extent of her ability.
5. Bobby is going to close with this verses: 1Cor. 13:4–5: Love is patient, love is kind, love is not arrogant, it does not seek its own, it does not take into account a wrong suffered. All of the aspects of impersonal love are found there. Virtue love suffers these negative things. Eph. 5:33a: Love his own wife as even himself. Is there anyone who does not care for himself? Who stops providing for himself or protecting himself or feeding himself?

Eph. 5:25: Husbands, love your wives, as Christ loved the church and delivered himself over as a substitute for her,

1Co 11:4 Every man praying or prophesying, having anything down over his head, dishonors his head.

1Co 11:5 But every woman who prays or prophesies with her head unveiled dishonors her head, for that is one and the same as if her head were shaven.

Eph. 5:25, 33a 1Cor. 11:3–4 Lesson #619 October 28, 2007

1Co 11:3 But I want you to know that the head of every man is Christ, the head of woman is man, and the head of Christ is God.

V. 3 seems to be unrelated to v. 4, but they are intimately connected. A head covering was the official emblem of submission. When a man wears a head cover, he is submitting to authority; and, in and of itself, it is not bad. The problem is, to whose authority has he submitted? The authority relationship focuses between man and woman. In v. 4, man has brought shame upon himself, as he is praying and prophesying with a head covering, indicating subordination to those about him. However, in praying and prophesying, the man is expressing God's thoughts, and therefore, should speak with the highest authority.

We are currently studying what this leadership in the man requires. There has to be more than having stripes on his sleeve or bossing others around.

Impersonal love is by far the most important; it is the bedrock of a relationship. There was apparently a very demonstrative couple in Berachah last session, but they seemed to know a lot about personal love without knowing anything about impersonal love. Impersonal love is epitomized by Jesus Christ giving up Himself on our behalf. He suffered the horror of dying on the cross as the Savior of all mankind. He took the penalty of sin and death upon Himself. He took all of these things upon Himself, out of love for us. There is no great illustration of God's love or of the concept of impersonal love than Jesus Christ dying for us on the cross.

Personal love is weak and it changes and it goes up and down; and it is hard to love someone when they do not love you back. Attractiveness is never the basis for a real and lasting relationship. Impersonal love depends upon the virtue and integrity of the one who initiates the love. Attraction can be for many reasons and it is often based upon the way that someone looks. However, it goes way beyond that. Personal relationships cannot be based upon that alone. Even when the wife's exterior attractiveness diminishes, the husband's impersonal love kicks in, and firms up their relationship.

The wife can also have this same maturity and virtue, and it is applied in a different way, as the responder. She can still respond. She can respond to Bible doctrine. Impersonal love is the love which must be applied by the husband to the wife as a part of his initiator, leader role. This means he initiates an enduring devotion and a dedication to her and consideration of her. Her worthiness is not a part of this. The only constant and stable love is based upon this impersonal love. After all, Jesus Christ died for sinners, and we had no attractiveness or virtue. Impersonal love always takes precedence over the policy conflicts, e.g., how the toothpaste tube is to be squeezed or how money will be spent. Judging or hating can all crop up when personal love fails; his impersonal love should kick in. Man's brutality toward a woman is one of the great failures today of men and their leadership.

The husband is a leader with authority; his impersonal love is fist in a velvet glove; this does not mean that the man is a pushover nor does it mean that he is brutal. The husband always puts the welfare of his wife first, whether she appreciates it or not. When a man has that kind of love for a woman, she will appreciate it. The leader, the husband, maintains, objectivity, and he provides stability and dependability. That is what a leader does.

Bobby is reading The Coldest Winter which is about the Korean War. It is about a man who cared for his men, who would die for him and who had the greatest of respect for him. He showed true leadership, and it was recognized as such. He took care of his people, never forgetting what his mission was. He controls his emotions and provides stability and dependability. No more adverse conditions than the winter of 1950 in Korea. This was the coldest winter in Korea in 100 years; but leadership pulled them through. That is what it is like in marriage as well. Bobby went to a 50 year wedding anniversary, and the secret to marriage is impersonal love. However, it does not stop here. You cannot leave personal love out of the equation. Jesus Christ loved us with personal love because He found something pleasing and attractive in us: His perfect righteousness. Jesus Christ does not find our good deeds attractive. At the moment of salvation, we became the possessors of perfect righteousness. Experientially, we are not righteous. All of us have sinned more than once since we believed. What is attractive is His perfect righteousness in us. That is the target or home for His personal love. With impersonal love leading the way, and with continued spiritual growth, the beauty of both man and woman can be realized and appreciated and respected and nurtured. The attractiveness and the personal love comes from the soul metabolizing doctrine and creating inner beauty of the soul. This becomes attractive, regardless of your exterior. Personal love must have a home or an object which is worthy. Impersonal love is the key; spiritual growth is the key. The greatest interchange of all is the personal love for the one who has impersonal love. Husbands, love your wives.

Eph. 5:25: Husbands, love your wives, as Christ loved the church and delivered himself over as a substitute for her,

How about Eph. 5:33a: Husbands, love your wives, even as yourself. This requires aggressive love. This does not mean brutal. It is impossible for a man to be indifferent to himself; he will not neglect himself. This is the staying power; this is the personal and impersonal love. He is always concerned with himself; he will protect himself. We all have a normal love for ourselves insofar as we take care of ourselves. He must have impersonal love in the face of all adversity. Marriage can be one of the most adverse circumstances of life. Impersonal love is necessary, because the woman will test the man on a recurring basis. When her old sin nature is in control, she will test the man. The man needs to continue to initiate with impersonal love. You don't smack the woman around or yell at her because she is in revolt. You remain as initiator and leader. It must be in tandem with impersonal love. The husband must provide an environment for her responsiveness, to protect the little girl in her. You do not want to harden her or to abuse her. You want to take care of her just as you would take care of yourself. A doctrinal leader husband lends support to his wife in adversity and in prosperity. The result is, she comes to respond to her more and more.

The wife gaining virtue love is becoming her most beautiful. There is a greater beauty on the inside.

1Co 11:4 Every man praying or prophesying, having anything down over his head, dishonors his head.

1Co 11:5 But every woman who prays or prophesies with her head unveiled dishonors her head, for that is one and the same as if her head were shaven.

Lesson #620 October 28, 2007

You do not gain impersonal love 2nd day out as a believer. One of the great aspects of the Christian life is impersonal love. We think we have the capability of loving so strongly, but it is based upon Bible doctrine, which gives us the capacity to love when things are going well or not. We must have resources, which requires spiritual growth, which involves sharing the happiness of God. We enjoy life, despite the fact that our circumstances are not enjoyable. Marriage can be miserable and extremely happy; however, we can be happy in either circumstance. Personal love and impersonal love; virtue love; it is so critical for all relationships of life. With virtue love, you have fulfilled the obligations of Eph. 5:25. This is the way a husband should think. A wife should be able to respect her husband even if he is not the initiator that we think that he should be. Impersonal love depends upon our own virtue and not upon the virtue of our opposite number. So, sometimes, we must respond to the doctrine in our souls as opposed to responding to our opposite number.

The man has a response to Jesus Christ and initiates love to the woman, and these are connected activities. The woman responds both to Jesus Christ and to the man, and these responses are connected. If you cannot apply virtue love as a man, you are a disgrace.

1Co 11:4 Every man praying or prophesying, having anything down over his head, dishonors his head.

Now we go to the woman. The woman prophesying with an uncovered head, is like the woman with a shaved head. Δε, which contrasts with the previous verse. The woman's status of disgrace as compared to the man's state of disgrace. Compare and contrast man and women from the standpoint of authority. This is what vv. 4–5 are all about. The test, of course, is our life.

We may start with the fact that man's head is covered in v. 4, but that it ought to be uncovered. Here is the beginning of its contrast. The woman's head being uncovered is one who has usurped authority. Her shame is her head being uncovered.

This comparison begin with πας γυνη = every woman. The first phrase of v. 4 is πας ανερ = every man. This is the contrast; parallel phrases. Γυνη refers to all the female gender and ανερ refers to the masculine gender. The woman here could be a wife or a single member. However, the issue is authority orientation and response. The parallel is her resistance to authority or her lack of response.

If there was ever a graphic illustration of shame, it is a woman who has a shaved head. The Greek word is καταλυπτω and there is a cultural aspect to being covered or veiled. At the time that this was written, a discrete, dignified woman wore a head covering. This was a universal practice, which represented a woman's chastity and honor. This was true for Jewish culture and Greco-Roman culture. This does not mean that there women were chaste and honorable; but this was a sign of that.

Peplum is Latin for a mantle. It was thrown over the head, like someone running down the road wearing a jacket. We can see this style in the female Muslim population here. There is also a veil which reveals only the eyes of a woman. There are many Arabs and Muslims in Houston because of our connection to oil. Does this mean that a woman today needs to wear a head covering as a sign of her subservience to man? This is what it means to Muslim women. It is easy to talk about a man being uncovered, but what about a woman being covered? The answer is no, that is not the application of this passage. Paul is speaking of the customs of his time. A woman without a head covering would identify her with prostitutes; such women submit their bodies to many men, but their souls are submitted to no man. A prostitute rejects the authority and leadership of one man. The head covering was a sign of decency and morality, whether the woman possessed these attributes or not. The head covering today is associated with the social norms of that day.

Today, the parallel social aspect would be a woman with multiple sex partners; this is a woman who rejects the authority of one man over her soul. Obviously the promiscuous man has a parallel problem, and he cannot initiate love to one woman, the one which God designed for him.

Mistakes in our past do not mean that we need to stay there. We can always rid our souls of the garbage which is in it. We can always breathe out this scar tissue of the soul.

A veil in our society does not have the cultural meaning that it did in that era.

Miss Manner's described a lady today as one who might now and again use some profanity, but never on her tee shirt.

There is no stigma or cultural mandate for a woman to be without a head covering. Today this head covering means nothing, concerning authority, which is what this passage is all about. The concept is authority orientation. However, the culture has changed, so the cultural aspects of this passage are different than those of today; however, the underlying principle is the same.

In that culture, a removal of the veil was not what they should be aiming at. Such an act violated the social customs of that day. Paul did not want the rest of society to look at these women and think that they are out of control.

Now, at some point, Paul speaks of the hair being the covering for the woman, which may have been an indication of a cultural shift.

If you live and work in the Middle East, it is a good idea for a woman to wear a veil. There, it is a symbol as it was in 50 A.D.

Some churches actually provide scarves or head coverings for women; and a table was provided for men's hats. That is legalism and a misapplication of this passage.

It was a practical consideration when Bob chose for women not to wear hats which obstructed someone else's view of him.

A head covering today is more a picture of pure legalism as opposed to the principle that this passage teaches. It is the interior of the soul which is a requirement.

Feminism takes Paul's teaching on women and says that these are antiquated views and lumps them in with the cultural things as our passage. When we remove the teaching, then we remove all norms and standards. God wants us to get the meaning of this passage.

Κατακαλυπτω here appears with an alpha prefix, with is a negative. This means to not be veiled; to be without a head covering. The woman is humiliated when she has nothing on her head, but the real humiliation is the attitude in her soul. It is a disgrace before the Lord.

The Lord looks at the heart. It is a disgrace for a woman to be anti-authority. It is not disgraceful that she lacks some kind of head covering; the real problem is, she is rejecting her position as a responder.

There was a cultural crisis occurring at this time, and that was that women were not wearing head coverings in church. They were recent Christians, and they had not learned a lot, and there was this anti-authority attitude in these women. However, it appears as though this might be a passing cultural norm.

The throwing off of this head coverings was a sign, in some cases, of a woman rejecting the authority of men. This was an act, for some, of revolution. We are not called to revolutionize our society. These women might be even considered activists. We are free in Christ, free of all the bonds placed upon us. The way we revolutionize our society is through our souls. The unbeliever might look at these women and think they are out of control; and some of them were. Even unbelievers can recognize women who are out of control.

The unbelieving world saw their attitudes as anti-authority, which they were. The Christian woman must conduct herself in such a way as to not usurp the authority of the man. Equal opportunity in the spiritual life does not erase gender distinctions.

In the secular world, we are attempting to erase gender distinctions in every possible way; it is especially anti-Biblical. Paul is making it clear that attending church uncovered is a sign of spiritual equality.

So Paul is saying, put this principle in your soul and live it. This is a sign of your doctrinal attitude. Have this attitude; don't just cover your head.

1Co 11:5 But every woman who prays or prophesies with her head unveiled dishonors her head, for that is one and the same as if her head were shaven.

1Cor. 11:5

Wednesday

A woman without a veil was ostracized, and to go without a veil would be to suggest that one had a bad reputation. It was important because it coincided with a strict, rigid, societal norm. This was not something which could be ignored. Wearing a head-covering was a common norm of their society. On the surface, this verse may have little meaning for us culturally. Today, it matters not whether we wear some sort of a head covering. The head covering there represented authority orientation.

We men cannot force a woman to be authority orientated. Paul could not demand that these women be authority orientated. He could have said, that's it; just do it! This here is a voluntary orientation. However, the man cannot just demand that the woman obey him. The demands that a woman obey him is just going to cause friction. A woman is not going to automatically respond. A Christian woman with doctrine knows that her role involves authority orientation. However, that is her potential and it is realized only through her own positive volition. A man cannot be the positive volition for a woman. The man cannot just sit around and say, "Woman, you need to obey me." He has missed the point. Similarly, the woman can't say, "Man, you need to show me love and initiate in order to get my response." You cannot control the volition of another person. That is completely distorted.

For a man to have to demand obedience from his wife, that is a failure of leadership and it is embarrassing. The man who becomes petty and whines about this, is less than a man, and he gets no respect. The epitome of leadership will draw out respect. He needs to show leadership qualities which will in themselves demand the woman's respect.

When the woman is out of line; when she is rebelling in her soul. The man can and should communicate with her. You cannot just shut down; you cannot throw your hands up and say, "I can't do anything about that." You should make clear your viewpoint as an initiator. You do not demand; you clarify. You cannot demand that she get in line. Your words can cut and slash or mend and reconcile, and you need to be careful about the words that you say. You can say things in anger that cannot be taken back. The wrong words can leave battle scars and bad memories. Therefore, temper your words. Do not unload those terminal words. Do not unload words that are so scathing and nasty that they leave behind scars. A leader should not lose control of himself and he must maintain his poise.

A man cannot manipulate a woman's response by continuing to demand she obey the Word of God. A man needs to communicate with the woman and use his leadership skills. Eph. 5:25 is what the man needs to do. This are actions; not words or feelings. You do not beat up on a woman verbally or in any other way. The woman is a voluntary helper. Treat her as you would treat yourself.

And ladies, you still have a responsibility to respond to him from your soul; even if you have to respond to Bible doctrine, if he is not a leader. Both need to give of their souls. You cannot be concerned about whether one or the other will respond to you. You can only take care of yourself; you can only become a responder or an initiator; you cannot impose this on another person. Responding is not an obligation, but it comes from a soul filled with doctrine.

Bobby speaks about giving. Giving grudgingly is not meaningful; it is pointless. Demanding response has no meaning; it is pointless. You can only fulfil your own obligation; you cannot demand that the spouse fulfils there.

Christian women of that era who are uncovered are called κατεισκυνω = dishonored, disgraced, shamed, humiliated. This reflects an attitude of rebellion against authority. It is not divine design for the woman to rebel against authority. The women there were showing up to church with uncovered heads. This reflected a spiritual problem, rather than an appearance problem. They were souls in revolt. Could this have any reference to the law of love? Could this be a legitimate freedom that they did not necessarily need to rub the noses of society in? No head covering was an act of revolution. It indicated what was in their soul.

Wear a head covering for the sake of the gospel; that is the law of expediency. We do these things because of the gospel. Consider our appearance before the unbelieving world. The requirement of a head covering indicates a problem inside and outside the church. The Christian woman must conduct herself in such a way as to not usurp authority from the man. She needs to act willingly.

Paul puts a finishing touch on his thinking here. A woman appearing without a head covering might as well just shave her head.

The shaved head is the epitome of disgrace and shame. Most women would not go out in public with a shaved head. How many times do you enter into Berachah Church with rebellion in your soul? You might as well walk into Berachah with a shaved head.

Shaving the head of a woman might be done for adultery or to a runaway slave or as some form of punishment. This head shaving thing transcends culture. Women with a shaven head is a disgraceful thing. A photo of Dutch women who had sexual relations with German soldiers, and as soon as Holland was liberated, these women were taken out in front of the entire town and shaved their heads and led them around. That is shame and degradation.

There is one final question which needs to be answered in v. 5 (it is a sideline, but important to the Church today): prophesying meant to deliver through the power of the Holy Spirit the divinely inspired message from God. In v. 5, the woman is prophesying. Now, we understand prayer, but prophesying is a whole different thing. A question should come to mind: are there women at that time who were prophesying? This indicated that they revealed mystery doctrine, doctrine which was unique to the Church Age. This doctrine had not yet been revealed. The mystery doctrine was not available yet.

The Holy Spirit inspired the writers of holy Scripture; but that was not available to these people; the canon of Scripture was incomplete; so there were those who prophesied in the church. However, since we have the canon of Scripture, there is nothing new which is required.

Bobby prophesying is simply teaching what is already written down. Prophesying then refers to those who spoke the Word of God, the Church Age doctrine. When a man prophesies, he does it without his head being covered; he does it from a position of authority.

Women are in subordination to men, but the one who prophesied here, does she carry authority? Is this an exception to man's authority? Is this a slip up? This is neither a contradiction nor an exception.

The man's authority is not abrogated by the prophesying of a woman. Since women prophesied, they had some sort of authority. Because we have some problems here, we need to figure out what exactly is going on in this church.

1Tim. 2:12: And I do not permit a woman to teach or to usurp authority over a man, but to be in silence. There is a problem there: in our verse, they are prophesying; and in Timothy, the woman are told to shut it up. Silence is also imposed on women in 1Cor. 14:34: Let the woman keep silence in the churches, for they are not permitted to speak, so let them subordinate themselves.

Women with their heads covered are authority orientation; and those without a head covering, have no authority orientation. This authority is not negating the authority of the woman prophesying, who is under authority. The woman must pray or prophesy with her head covered. Women overstepped their bounds when they prayed or prophesied in the assembled church when their heads were not covered.

The woman is never authorize d to usurp the mans authority. Wherever people assemble to study the Word of God is a formal teaching situation. However, the woman is prophesying; no question about that. In the assembly of the church, she is silent.

We need some background to understand this. It is documented that certain women of the Precanon era did have the gift of prophecy. Acts 21:9 His 4 daughters had the gift of prophecy. He was an evangelist and not a pastor-teacher. These women would at character Maybe they were inculcating other women in the mystery doctrine? They could prophesy under authority, from from a different from teaching in the church. They could not show authority over men; and doing so in the church was out of line. This verse does tell us that women were prophesying, but it had to be done outside of the church assembly.

Paul and other pastors were not under the authority of this woman. The proper chain of command was still in effect: God, Christm man and woman.

The gift of prophesying for the womanis no longer in existence. The canon is complete and the pastor has the legitimacy to teach it. Everything that we need to know is found in the Bible today.

One more point, that Bobby wanted to get to? Does this give the green light for women's Bible classes? Doesn't this give them the option of prophesying today?

Titus 2:3–5: the older women likewise, that they be reverent in behavior, not slanderers, not given to much wine, teachers of good things; that they admonish the young women to love their husbands, to love their children, to be discreet, chaste, homemakers, good, obedient to their own husbands, that the Word of God may not be blasphemed. The Word of God is not to be taught without authority. These verses indicate an informal situation. It is a high calling for a woman of spiritual maturity to teach the younger women. Women do this by word and by example. Prep school is fine; there is not problem teaching a woman teaching kids.

There is a reasonable place for a woman to teach a Bible class to other women or to kids; and a woman can teach and teach well. However, it is easy for the woman to usurp the authority of the man, who is the true authority. There is no spiritual gift for a woman like pastor or evangelism. If she gets to a place where the pastor is no longer in control, there is a problem. The woman teacher in that setting places herself between that man and his authority. This is teaching uncovered. The same mistake is having to pastoral authorities.

So many churches promote such outside classes; but how many churches really put the emphasis upon doctrinal teaching from the pulpit. The end result is, teaching women are off elsewhere violating the man's authority, because he has no idea what they are teaching his congregation. There may be a whole batch of pastors teaching whatever. Bob stopped allowing Sunday school teaching by assistant pastors. They were teaching things which were outside of his authority.

A woman should never usurp the authority of the male pastor-teacher.

1Cor. 11:5, 16–17 Ti. 2:3–5 Lesson #622 November 1, 2007

Thursday

Bobby dealt last night with women's Bible classes, as we move ahead in 1Cor. 11:5. Bobby wants to make certain that we understand what he is saying. Bobby did not intend to scare us away from every church where a woman is speaking. There are some very good women speakers and who do not speak on a recurring basis. This is a hot topic today and controversial in some circles.

What may a Christian woman do? She can speak on the problems and practical applications which a woman faces. However, a woman with the problem solving devices has more on the ball than a woman speaker with a lot of human viewpoint. A woman speaker may speak on missions and the mission field. Bobby heard a lot of excellent speakers in chapel and one was Elizabeth Elliot, whose husband was murdered in Ecuador, and she gave a spell-binding presentation on the difficulties and rewards of the mission field. The same group of men who killed her husband also came over to Jesus Christ, and even the one who killed him became a Christian leader there. However, the caveat is she was not teaching doctrine.

Titus 2:3–5: the older women likewise, that they be reverent in behavior, not slanderers, not given to much wine, teachers of good things; that they admonish the young women to love their husbands, to love their children, to be discreet, chaste, homemakers, good, obedient to their own husbands, that the Word of God may not be blasphemed. Teaching what is good is teaching divine viewpoint, but not teaching doctrine from the pages of Scripture. She often teaches by personal example and sometimes verbally to individual women. Teaches women to be sensible, pure, being subject to their own husbands.

The Women Teachers in Titus 2:3–5

1. Nowhere in Titus do we have a woman teaching the men of the church.

2. This woman is the model of the doctrine of authority orientation of the woman.
3. She teaches practical information about the women as a responder, but not Bible doctrine in the assembly of the church. There is no specific reference in this passage to teaching doctrine. She is teaching practical application, but not to the congregation in the church in a formal setting.
4. She teaches by example and sometimes verbally.
5. She must respond to the doctrine that she has been taught, and she cannot teach by example if she does not learn under the authority of a pastor-teacher.
6. She is under the authority of a pastor-teacher and she recognizes that authority and she actively promotes his authority. She does not undermine his authority with her teaching ever. She is not in competition for listeners or for bodies.
7. So she sets the example for younger women in the marital relationship. She is older, as v. 4 tells us, which probably indicates spiritual maturity and I would suppose some real experience in this area.
8. She will respond to the doctrine in her soul whether her husband initiates leadership or not (which is his responsibility). Then she is the greatest responder to doctrine.
9. As Titus 2:5, she teaches in such a way that the Word of God is not dishonored.
10. Bottom line, she does not teach men in the assembly of the church. Let the women remain silent in the church; let them subject themselves. She is not to teach with authority in the church. She is not to exegete and teach the Scripture. Then she is teaching uncovered.
  - a. This means that she has placed herself along side the pastor-teacher under a formal setting, either verse-by-verse or topically.
  - b. In this situation, she often teaches men, in contradiction to 2Tim. 2:12; some even pose as pastor-teachers, although they do not have this gift. The Holy Spirit did not give this gift to any woman in the church. Bobby did not write this. Some women are highly capable, but no woman is authorized to so teach.
11. What is wrong with these Bible classes?
  - a. These Bible classes are taught outside the legitimate authority of the church.
  - b. They are outside of the doctrinal teaching of the pastor. They are extra-curricular, even though they are very much a part of church activity today.
  - c. Since a woman cannot be a pastor, there can be no real spiritual authority exercised when teaching Scripture. She does not wield this spiritual authority. Not being gifted means she does not have the pastor or evangelist gifts; she may be innately gifted.
  - d. Authority is part of teaching doctrine. This is authority which she cannot exercise, even though she may try.
  - e. What is she actually doing? Bobby is not going to impugn the motivation of some of these teachers; she is attempted to do a right thing, but in a wrong way. This will help us when someone asks you to go see a woman teacher.

- f. What inevitably happens in these Bible classes, is this woman usurps spiritual authority; she cannot help herself. When you teach, you teach with authority. She takes authority from the pastor-teacher.
- g. Other women and sometimes men are then subject to a false and non-Biblical authority.
- h. When such misapplication of authority takes control, it will sooner or later go awry. Whenever you go against the tenets of Scripture, it will eventually go awry.

Men may have the innate ability to compartmentalize, which is something which a woman cannot do. A woman sees things more connected. The problem here is, she can become emotionally involved with her teaching and her mistakes and sins. A male pastor-teacher can sin and still speak against that sin. He can compartmentalize that sin.

How can Bobby be so mean to our favorite women Bible teachers?

1. She is placing herself between another legitimate authority who is designated to advance them spiritually and those who need to advance.
2. She might bypass and supercede the pastor in competition.
3. In either case, whether blatant or inadvertent, she has placed herself over the pastor.
4. That is nothing more than a lack of authority orientation. She is uncovered in prophesying.
5. Her women pupils responds to an illegitimate authority outside the church.
6. The legitimate authority, the man charged with teaching doctrine to his congregation, has no knowledge of what is being taught in those classes. And he certainly does not have the time to go check in on all of these classes.
7. Because he has no knowledge about what is being taught, he has no ability to correct what is being taught incorrectly.
8. The untrained woman who teaches the Bible with authority, she becomes a de facto pastor.
9. Those listening get hoodwinked into listening to a false teacher.

Bobby doesn't think he gave the summary the other day in enough depth. He needs to protect us against aberrations and false doctrines.

Summary Points

1. This is like having two pastoral authorities. When you hear false concepts from one or even subtle differences, you have to decide which is right. You will eventually hear something which is different. And, there you are, and the more doctrine you know, the more difficult it becomes. You end up making the decision, as to which doctrine is right. You have usurped the authority of a pastor.

2. Which authority do you accept when there are contrasts or variances? You don't have to accept either one; you can take a little of this or that.
3. When you accept the authority of two, then you accept no authority.
4. The more you get into the mix, the more confusing it becomes and the less authority oriented you become.
5. You become the arbitor of doctrine yourself; you make the choice.
6. So you ultimately have to decide which teacher is right and which you will have to accept. When one is a woman Bible teacher, you ought to reject her outright.
7. When you decide what authority to accept, that is a bad precedent to set.
8. This can lead to the arrogant disregard of the authority of the one who teaches with the spiritual gift.
9. In making this decision, you have a 50-50 chance of choosing the right one or the wrong one, which are bad odds when it comes to spiritual growth.
10. This is a momentum stopper, even if this is a right choice. It will come back to bite you on down the road. You have to decide which way to go when you come to a fork in the road. You are charging ahead in the spiritual life, and you stop and look at it like a cow at a new gate.
11. What happens is, your example is set by a woman teacher who actually becomes the arbitor of her own doctrine. She has begun by being out of line. She is setting the example for you.

What if this woman is just teaching what her pastor is teaching? What if she teaches the same doctrine the pastor is teaching.

1. If she teaches the same doctrine, why do you need her in the first place?
2. Get your doctrine from the person who is designed to teach you doctrine. There were a bunch of guys in seminaries who just wanted to know more about the Bible, because they were not getting it in church.
3. If it is a personality thing, or you would rather listen to a sweet woman, then you have the wrong priorities. Doctrine is the priority, not a pastor's personality. There are people who have started churches all over Houston just to please people. If you want to learn the Word of God, then you need to find a pastor who teaches with authority.
4. For the woman to mimic or to try to repeat what the pastor is teaching, there is a greater possibility of making an error. Get it straight from the horse's mouth.

1Co 11:5 But every woman who prays or prophesies with her head unveiled dishonors her head, for that is one and the same as if her head were shaven.

We should not misuse these verses. Women are made in the image of God as well. Here, in a few words, we have the concept of a responder. The woman is the glory of the man. That is the meaning of, let her cover her head in v. 6. There is a glory and grandeur here.

Eι = if. This is a conditional particle. This goes with the present middle indicative of κατακαλυπτω = to cover. this makes this a 1st class condition. The middle voice + the negative ou means to not cover herself. We are assuming that the woman does this. The covered head was a sign of a woman's humility. The women of Corinth were not wearing this head covering. Paul knew that they were not wearing this and they had thrown off authority orientation.

We also have this phrase: if the woman has her head uncovered, then let this woman cut her hair off. That is a picture of shame. This is tantamount to having her soul out of sorts with authority and she is a collaborator with the enemy.

A barber shop at a basic training camp is a rite of passage; almost a badge of honor. The women do not get this treatment, which is correct. If a woman wants to usurp the authority of a man, then let her look like one. She should not hide her manliness. She should not come out of the closet. Let her be what she already is.

1Co 11:16 But if anyone seems to be contentious, we have no such custom, nor the churches of God.

1Co 11:17 Now in this that I command you, I do not praise you, since you come together not for the better but for the worse.

1Cor. 11:5–6

Lesson #623 November 4, 2007

The new Daylight Savings time change (actually, going back to regular time).

Avoiding disgrace by passing the buck. We use this for many things, and our conscience is clear, whether it ought to be or not. Disgrace is not something which people want to endure; it should be avoided not by making excuses or disclaimers, but you own up to it. You take responsibility for your own bad decisions. It is usually something which is a result of your own bad decisions.

For believers, there is only one option: we rebound and we keep moving toward spiritually maturity. We do not dwell in our own disgraces or humiliations. If we simply try to blame someone else, we pass the blame to someone else. Forgetting what was behind and pressing forward to what is ahead. On the good side, if one has a working conscience and good norms and standards from doctrine in the soul, these kinds of things are often avoided simply by our own thinking.

There was a societal stigma attached to the removal of hair from a woman. Lack of head covering, as Paul has already defined, is a lack of authority orientation in the woman. No authority orientation is disgrace and humiliation.. The woman is designed to be a responder or authority. Anti-authority is the woman rejecting the plan of God for her life.

Eι+ the indicative is a 1st class condition. With the negative, it means not to cover, to uncover. She decides to be uncovered; she does not cover her own head by her own decision. This is her decision. The 1st class condition makes the assumption that this is a true statement, meaning that the Corinthian women were not wearing is to obey God. These women decided, I don't need to wear this covering anymore; I am free in Christ. The veil was worn in the church to indicate their authority orientation. They were no longer in the mode of responding.

The apodosis: Let her also have her hair cut off. This is not a command; Paul is exaggerating out of respect. He says, "Let's take this all the way—chop off all of your hair." Bobby shows another photo of Dutch women who had their heads shaved because they associated with the Germans. They were humiliated. Shaving a man's head is not a stigma of any sort. But it is to the woman. This is because it is the men who have the authority.

For the woman to take on the look of a man is tantamount to taking on the physical appearance of a man. She is no longer a responder; let her come out of the closet and show herself for what she is—a masculine female. This reflects this is the background for Paul's later statement. We have to carefully understand what everything means here; and what does the image of God mean in this context.

The woman's soul here is in revolt. No hair means no authority, no humiliation. Therefore, the woman has departed from her beautiful function as the glory of the man. Bobby checks out the audience, and it is clear no one shaved for church. The hair is much a sign of submission to authority. If the woman is not a responder, then she no longer has her hair, figuratively what is inside of us should be authority orientation.

Paul here is being very sarcastic at this point. Paul is not recommending that the rebellious women be hauled outside and have their heads shaved and then parade them around. Some women do have relatively short hair. Do you need to start growing it out? Do you need a wig? Bear in mind that this is an illustration. We should be concerned about what is in the soul; not what is on top of the head. Whether it is the man with long hair or the woman with short hair, it is still the attitude which counts.

No one knows how Jesus looked; no one has a description of Him. The pictures we are familiar with came out of the Middle Ages. Does any woman want to shave her head? Only those with authority problems. No one else would.

They Symbol of the Shaved Head

1. The shaved head of a woman shows disrespect for authority.
2. If a woman goes into marriage or in the church, with a negative attitude, then it is equivalent to having a shaved head in church.
3. We are disgraced because we have removed ourselves from the plan of God. Our actions follow our thinking and attitude.
4. So without the head covered, the woman is truculently displaying for all to see her attitude as an initiator.

Paul is telling them, “Women, get over yourselves; look at the big picture.” Be authority oriented.

Present middle imperative of κατακαλυπτω, where is it in the imperative. “Let her hair be covered.” A husband cannot mandate a response from his wife. No woman can be ordered into a responsive attitude. “You will obey me” is likely to get the opposite response. Some men get rough because their ego is easily affected. The husband must show leadership here. It takes time for the humility from doctrine circulating in the soul to replace human viewpoint and egocentricity. A woman responds to leadership; not to bullying. Pray the woman responds to doctrine in the soul, not to bullying. She covers her head with doctrine, and she will respond in the right way to us. She will do this because we have leadership. Women respond by their own choice; even if you bully a woman into responding, you do not have a true response; she has only acquiesced to something.

The woman responds to doctrine circulating in the right lobe, even if the husband never gives her anything to respond to. You are what God wants you to be. It is an attitude in your soul.

1Co 11:5 But every woman who prays or prophesies with her head unveiled dishonors her head, for that is one and the same as if her head were shaven.

1Cor. 11:5–7      Rom. 12:2    Lesson #624    November 4, 2007      Sunday 2

We will get to the man in v. 7. As a preview of coming attractions, the woman should keep her head covered because of the angels. That stunned Bobby. This gives an idea just how important it is for us to recognize authority orientation. There will be an entirely different slant given to the angelic conflict. V. 6 speaks about the woman shaving her head; and that she might as well go all the way and shave all her hair off; but the key is what is in the soul. It is her soul which is uncovered; her soul is anti-authority. Paul says, “Let her head be covered if she does not want her head shaved. Let her have an attitude of authority orientation.” The man cannot order this; he cannot beat her into submission. If there is no authority orientation in the soul, there is no response. Men, you want response from the woman. You cannot force the issue; you cannot demand the issue. If you have to demand this, you are a failure; a failure as a man and as an initiator.

Rom. 12:2: And do not be conformed to this world [this is human viewpoint thinking; Satan’s thinking is human viewpoint; and, in context, this is an anti-authority viewpoint], but be transformed by the renewing of your mind [we can only get away from human viewpoint thinking by renewing our minds; we must begin to think with the mind of Christ; we apply divine viewpoint thinking to every aspect of our life; the way we think is what we are], that you may prove what is that good and acceptable and perfect will of God. In this case, it is the woman proving the will of God for her, and being a responder. When a woman is epistemologically rehabilitated, she is proving what the will of God is. Rom. 12:2 is the key to the Christian life. As you think, so you are.

The crux of the argument against Paul is, he is misogynistic; and they reject these sections of Scripture. You have to accept it or you have to reject it. Ladies, you are at your glorious best as a responder, as that is the greatest place for a woman. A woman as an initiator is at her worst. Women do not make good men.

1Co 11:5 But every woman who prays or prophesies with her head unveiled dishonors her head, for that is one and the same as if her head were shaven.

1Co 11:6 For if a woman is not veiled, let her also be shorn. But if it is shameful for a woman to be shorn or shaven, let her be veiled.

A reversal of authority and the divine design is ignored. This is the rationale for the man holding the authority. This is a comparison of roles; not a comparison of essence.

Gen. 1 is the creation of the man and the woman; their souls are the essence of God. However, that is not what this verse is talking about. Both the man and the woman were created with volition, mentality, self-consciousness, etc. In this way, there is no inferiority, no superiority between men and women. What the key is, is their roles. They were both created in the image of God. What is the comparison between the two?

What this Verse is About

1. This is the relationship between men and women.
2. This is not about the relationship between women and God.
3. What this is, is a reflection of the chain of command.

Paul is remaining with the context; he is not leaving his train of thought. Paul has a context and he stays within this context until he finishes the thought. This reflects the chain of command in this context. The man precedes the woman in the chain of command. He responds directly to God in this chain of command. The woman responds to God and to Christ as well. Both genders respond to Bible doctrine; but the woman also must respond to the man in the chain of command. Both of them respond to Jesus Christ and to God the Father; they have to—Rom. 12:2. However, the woman must respond to the man as well. There is this dual response which you cannot overlook. The man holds authority over the woman, but not vice versa. When you flip-flop this, you overturn the divine chain of command. This is not how men and women were designed. The woman holds no authority over the man. The man must still learn to wield authority. Men must learn what it takes to be a leader; otherwise, you will never get the kind of response that you were meant to have.

The man is called the εικον = image [from which, we get the word icon]. Then we have δοξα. We are the image and glory of God. This is where man comes in the chain of command. He is named here as the direct image and glory of God. Man is directly responsible to God, and therefore he is called the image and glory of God.

First, we need to start with God, Who is the reality, that we are the image of. God is the ruler; He is the sovereign. He is sovereign authority over all mankind. Jesus Christ is called the King of Kings and the Lord of Lords. Man reflects this image and glory. Man is the designated authority. So man reflects this image and glory in the sense. So far, half of Berachah likes this and half do not. The majesty of God is reflected in the man. The image here is an image of authority. This is the leadership position in the chain of command. This is not a discourse on the character and the essence of men and women. The woman is called, in the next phrase, δοξα = glory. She is not the glory of θεος but of ανερ. Women would love to see herself called the image and glory of God, but Paul does not write this. The woman is the glory of man. She is not called the image of either man or God. Here, we are talking about a person's role in life; so being the image of God or of man is not an issue. Man is the image and glory of God; and the woman is the glory of man. Man, as the image of God, is the soul-image of God. The woman reflects the man's glory as he reflects the sovereign image and glory of God.

Now Bobby goes for the example. Let's look at royalty. A woman becomes king if two things are there. The husband is king or her father is king. She becomes queen if the husband passes away; or if there is no male heir. She is qualified for this position of authority by default, and she is the image of these men. She manifests the glory of that court for all to see. She probably demonstrates it more than the king. Now it is the same with the wife, who reflects the glory of the husband.

The Husband and the Wife and the Glory of God

1. The husband possesses the image and glory of God because of his position of authority. He was simply given the designation authority. Men may want to say, "I must be pretty special" but we are not.
2. The woman possesses glory as she reflects the glory of her husband. If the husband has no glory to reflect, that is his fault, not hers.
3. The woman is the glory of man in her authority orientation and in her responder role.
4. The woman is truly at her most glorious and beautiful when she is authority oriented and responding to the authority of her husband.

Men and women are never completely independent of one another; there is a balance there. How does Christ express His authority to us as the Church? Christ loved the church and gave Himself up for it. This is how the man expresses the glory of Christ in leadership. The woman has no glory apart from responding. The woman can have glory if she responds to the Lord. The man reflects the leadership of God. Christ gave Himself up for the church, as the absolute epitome of love. This is a beautiful picture of exactly what God designed.

4 Quick Points

1. The man must respond to God, Who is the sovereign.
2. The woman responds to the man, who is the woman's authority, leader, and initiator.
3. So, in this response, the woman has the opportunity to give a visual illustration of what it means to be responsive to the man, just as the queen reflects the majesty of the court. The woman has a far more beautiful role than the husband.
4. The woman reflects the husband's response to God. That is her glory.

1Co 11:7 For a man indeed ought not to veil his head, since he is the image and glory of God; but woman is the glory of man.

1Cor. 11:7-12

Lesson #625 November 7, 2007

Wednesday

Bobby got a tour of his families lineage beginning about 1900. Began in Ft. Wayne and then to Beverly Hills. Our true genealogy is the royal family.

The concept of glory, which is used in several different ways in 1Corinthians. The glorification of God always begins with the filling of the Holy Spirit and then knowing doctrine. The execution of the spiritual life. We glorify God in our thinking and in our actions. We have also seen glory in relation to the person. There is the Shekineh Glory, which is the manifestation of Jesus Christ in past dispensations. As the Shekineh glory, which means to dwell, the glory of God was with Israel throughout history. While on earth, our Lord visually showed His glory. This was the glory of our Lord Jesus Christ on the Mount of Transfiguration, where His face shown like the sun and His clothes which a bright white.

We also see glory in our relationship with the Lord. We are to glorify God in our bodies, as we have been bought with a price. Glory in our bodies is intimately connected to the Shekineh glory. Col. 1:27 to make known what is the riches of the glory. The same God, the Lord Jesus Christ, Who dwelt with Israel, the same God at the Mount of Transfiguration, that same God dwells in us. We can reflect His glory in our bodies, because He indwells us. We all, with unveiled face, behold Him as if in a mirror. We are being transformed (remember Rom. 12:2?). The epistemological rehabilitation is the mirror, and we are transformed into the same image as the Lord Jesus Christ, from glory to glory (in eternity). 1Cor. 15:23: Your body is sown in dishonor, but it will be raised in glory. We are in union with Christ and we will be raised in Him.

God, Christ, man and woman. A man ought not to have his head covered, because he is the image and glory of God. But the woman is the glory of man. The woman is made in the image of God just as man is. The passage will take us there. Both man and woman are equal as the image of God. However, this image is a contrast between man and woman and their roles in relation to each other in the plan of God.

Man is the image of God in relation to authority. His head should be uncovered.

In what way is he the image and glory of God?

1. God and Christ are sovereign and Jesus Christ is called the king of kings and the Lord of Lords.
2. Man is the immediate subordinate to Jesus Christ in the chain of command.
3. Hence, man reflects divine authority vested in him from the very beginning. Christ is the authority over man and man over woman.
4. Man reflects the authority of Christ; it was vested in him at creation.
5. In responding to divine authority, he is the glory of God—the image and glory of God.
6. Man reflects God's authority in his relationship to woman. He reflects God's authority because he is the authority over the woman.
7. As the subject of a sovereign God, he directly responds to God and Christ.

What About the Woman?

1. The man precedes the woman and is her designated authority.
2. The woman is mandated to respond to man, just as she responds to God and Christ.
3. The woman was designed as the ultimate responder. This is because there is no one below her. Well, she does have some authority over children. She is the lowest commissioned officer.
4. Therefore the woman is the glory of man because of her position of responder; she responds to him, who is the image of divine authority.
5. She is his reflected glory as she responds to man's leadership.
6. The woman is truly at her most glorious when she is authority oriented and responding. The man is at his best when leading and responding to God.

The woman's role is no less glorious than the man's, but they do have different rolls. The man becomes a responder if the chain of command is reversed. If the woman is no longer the responder but an initiator, the glory is gone, in both cases. There is no glory in disrupting God's design for us.

1Co 11:7 For a man indeed ought not to veil his head, since he is the image and glory of God; but woman is the glory of man.

Vv. 8–12 is a parenthetical explanation of what is going on and it is the rationale for all of what has been said. This is a group of verses which are among Bobby's faves.

1Co 11:8 For man is not out of woman, but woman out of man.

1Co 11:9 Nor was man created through the woman, but woman through the man.

1Co 11:10 For this reason the woman ought to have authority on her head, because of the angels.

Bobby was chatting with someone awhile back and he asked, when are you getting into the Angelic Conflict? Well, this is where, and there will be a whole new slant to it.

1Co 11:11 Nevertheless, neither is man without the woman, nor woman without the man, in the Lord.

1Co 11:12 For as woman is out of man, even so man also comes through woman; but all things are from God.

There will be a lovely balance here, and we should be able to understand here a rationale for our place in this world.

Authority, priority and equality. In v 8–9, the woman is clearly presented as the one under authority. Two facts are given: (1) she was formed out of man; her physical origin came from the woman. (2) The woman was created for the man as well.

This is another place where the New Testament authenticates the Old Testament. These testaments are not independent of each other. They are intertwined. God's plan has continuity. There is a continuity of history, salvation and doctrine. All of this is contained as well in the New Testament. The dispensation of Israel from the exodus to the dispensation of Christ. The pages of the Old Testament are splashed all over the New Testament.

The Old Testament views history in a different perspective than the New; they are not autonomous works nor is there any contradiction between the testaments. The New Testament reveals the advent of the Messiah, which is also revealed in the Old Testament and anticipated by Old Testament prophecies. There is progression here with complete continuity.

The New Testament also reveals the church, which was never before revealed in the Old Testament. The church is not revealed in the Old Testament. There is discontinuity and continuity in the testaments. The Millennium and the Tribulation are both prophesied in the Old and New Testaments. However, the Church Age is found only in the New. Both reveal the coherence of salvation.

Hermaneutical Summary

1. Both testaments reveal the plan of salvation through the Lord Jesus Christ, one looks forward to it and the other looks back. He is Jehovah Elohim. Messiah is not used in the Old Testament?
2. Bible doctrine is consistent from start to finish. One can illustrate the other.
3. There are no contradictions between the testaments and within the testaments, despite the fact that they reveal different dispensations.
4. The New Testament is the progression of Old Testament history and the fulfillment of salvation for all mankind.

5. In vv. 8–9, the doctrine of authority orientation is now going to be validated by an Old Testament passage.

Gen. 1:26: Then God said, Let Us make man in Our image, according to Our likeness; let them have dominion over the fish of the sea, over the flying creatures of the heavens, and over the beasts, over all the earth and over every creeping thing that moves on the earth.

To make is (הַשִּׁיחַ) [pronounced ah-saw]. Man here refers to all mankind. There is no distinction here between man and woman. Here, it means to make something after a pattern. That pattern is His image. Betselem (בֵּית שֵׁלֶם) [pronounced beht-seh-lehm].

The Image of God

1. This is to be done next time, apparently.

1Co 11:8 For man is not out of woman, but woman out of man.

1Cor. 11:8

Thursday

Communion on Sunday for Veterans Day, plus a special speaker; the father of a wounded Iraq veteran. This will be the beginning of the 2nd service.

Man is the image of God and the glory of God; and in responding, he must respond through Bible doctrine. The woman also has glory. Man's image reflects the chain of command which God set up from the beginning. Glory in both cases is response; man's response to God and the woman's response to man. The woman was designed as the ultimate responder.

There is also a balance here, an intermingling of authority and response. The woman has one more layer to respond to; and both responses are necessary for the woman. The man is the image of God in his designated authority and the glory of God in his response. Paul did not just leave it there; he did not just make a statement of image and glory and move on. Paul determined that further information and further emphasis would be needed.

These 5 verses are commentary on the woman being the glory of man. These are a confirmation and clarification of the woman as a role responder. They further define the interrelationship between man and woman. This is an intricate concept of man and woman. They are inextricably united in this way. So it will be a beautiful picture of the relationship between man and woman; it was made in heaven and defined in heaven.

1Co 11:8–12: For man is not out of woman, but woman out of man. Nor was man created through the woman, but woman through the man. For this reason the woman ought to have authority on her head, because of the angels. Nevertheless, neither is man without the woman, nor woman without the man, in the Lord. For as woman is out of man, even so man also comes through woman; but all things are from God.

An image of God which is an essence of humanity (male and female); there is the image of the priority of man and the image of equality between the two. Beginning with vv. 8–9, we will go into this image and the images.

Gen. 1:26: Then God said, Let Us make man in Our image, according to Our likeness; let them have dominion over the fish of the sea, over the flying creatures of the heavens, and over the beasts, over all the earth and over every creeping thing that moves on the earth.

The Hebrew verb asah = to make, to manufacture something after a pattern. Man in v. 26 refers to all mankind, both male and female; so there is no distinction here between the two. God used Himself as a pattern to create man. In our image was how it is described. B<sup>e</sup>tselem = image.

The Image of God

Imago dei = the image of God. There has been great debate on this topic and 100's of years spent on this.

1. In the imago dei, God is spirit (John 4:24); God does not have a body; God is not corporeal. .
2. So the image of God in man refers to a spiritual rather than to a bodily facsimile.
3. B<sup>e</sup>tselem conveys not a physical structure but an immaterial image.
4. Man is not a physical image of God; he is not a physical duplication of God.
5. Immaterial image describes something invisible but nonetheless real. Things can be invisible but very real. Some people say, I don't believe in God because I cannot see him (rationalism).
6. God has bestowed on man and woman an invisible essence which is just as real as the material side. You can feel and touch your own body and you know it is physically real. The invisible essence cannot be seen.
7. Therefore, we are human beings, male and female, are made in the spirit-pattern of God. We are all the image of God.

What does God have that we are the image of?

What is the Essence of God?

There are 3 persons and they have a relationship with man in a number of way.

1. God has mentality. God has logic; he reasons; God has a plan and He has a plan for us.
2. God has volition; God chose to create, and that is what we are dealing with. God did not have to. He chose to accept Satan's appeal for the angelic conflict.
3. God is self-conscious; He completely knows Himself as a personal God and He completely knows the other members of the Trinity completely and totally. This is why God will always be God, because He knows who He is.
4. He is a personal God and is described as such in the Bible. A person has attributes and essence and they are described in human terms. God is described using pronouns. He has names like adonai, and Elohim and Yahweh (people have names).

5. God is not just some impersonal force out in the universe. This essentially makes the universe itself as God. The big bang is the universe somehow creating itself. Evolution is essentially pantheism. God is not an impersonal, subjective idea.
6. God has absolute standards of righteousness; this is one of His attributes; and He has sovereign control. The end of all things will be as He determines them to be.
7. God has infinite relational capacity. So He relates to us as man. He relates to us in perfect justice, righteousness and love. God is love; that is part of His essence. People have relationships and clearly God has relationships.
8. God has perfect character with no flaws or shortcomings. God has no relation to sin, nor is he capable of sin nor is He responsible for sin. We are responsible for sin. Our free will is truly free. God has not determined our decisions out in advance; but He knows what our decisions will be.

Being in His image means that we are endowed with rational, moral and relational attributes. Human beings are the only creatures which uniquely reflect God. No other creature is ever called the image of God.

Man as the Image of God.

1. As the image of God, we have reasoning power; we can think logically; we can work out problems with logic. We have this capacity for logic. We think our way through things and come up with solutions.
2. We are responsible, self-conscious, and self-determining beings.
3. We all have a conscience with standards of right and wrong. When Adam fell, he was embarrassed. He knew that he had made the mistake of his life.
4. We have the capacity to relate to one another. We have the capacity for relationships; intricate relationships.
5. We are capable of having a relationship with God through Jesus Christ. This relationship will blossom into perfection when we reach heaven, and we will truly understand Him as a person. God provides a personal future for us and a personal relationship with for throughout eternity.
6. Man was designed to rule over every other creature. This is where we get into authority. Man was designed to have authority over every living creature and the earth. No other creature is going to have this authority.

Two conclusions from this:

The imago dei is the image of God. The immaterial essence is the soul of man, which includes the qualities of human personality.

What Happened to the Image?

1. At the fall, my lost the perfect virtue of the image and acquired a sin nature.
2. So the image of God in us is marred in the sense that it falls far short of the perfection of the divine character and personality.
3. Even though we have a sin nature, the image has not been destroyed because of the fall; we have not been reduced to animals, although some act that way from time to time.

Gen 1:27 So God created man in His own image; in the image of God He created him; male and female He created them.

Barah means to create something from nothing. No one else can create something from nothing. We can only create from existing material. Ex nihilo, which means from nothing.

Barah is used Thrice

1. God generated from nothing the heavens and the earth. There was no dust, there were no molecules, there was nothing of substance.
2. God generated life to animals in Gen. 1:21. Life comes from ex nihilo.
3. God created life in man where no life previously was.

The spirit pattern was made from no material at all. Only God can create something from nothing.

Man does not originate from woman.

Now, let us focus on man as a gender.

Gen. 2:7: And Jehovah God formed man of the dust of the ground, and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life; and man became a living soul.

The 3rd verb is yatsar, which means to form from dust. This is the forming of the original body, which, in this case, was formed from dust, and He made a functioning, living male body. That is corporeal. This life is in all of the cells of the body. The material part of mankind. God created from dust a living, biological being, which is the living, physical person of God.

Then God breathed into the man's nostrils, and man became a living being.

The Image of God.

1. In this verse, and is identified from the simple letter wa`
2. This is a wâw consecutive; it means and then.
3. Body and then God breathed into Adam's nostrils. Very similar to All Scripture is God-breathed and profitable for doctrine. WordPerfect began acting up a lot here, so I lost many of these points.

4. That phrase breathed into his nostrils, the breath of life, is a beautiful picture of the soul of man. Man had to have nostrils in order for God to breath life into him.
5. When this happened, this is the bestowal in Adam of life.
6. God breathed soul life into the living organism made from dust. However, that which God breathed into us is eternal.
7. Biological life and soul life is combined in this one body. Adam became a living being.
8. Biological life and soul life is the human life of a human being. There is no human life without both.
9. So there was a logical order to the creation of man.
10. That order was the formation of biological life from dust and then the imparting of soul life to the human body.
11. The result was a living person.

We will put together the creation of man and woman as the creation of God and the creation of man, and then the creation of the woman, to see the difference.

1Co 11:8 For man is not out of woman, but woman out of man.

1Cor. 11:7–9      Gen. 1:26    Lesson #627    November 11, 2007      Sunday 1

Veteran's Day—the father of one of Berachah's soldiers will be here for the 2nd service.

Vv. 8–9 are proofs of Paul's contention from v. 7: For a man indeed ought not to veil his head, since he is the image and glory of God; but woman is the glory of man (1Cor. 11:7). He backs this up with vv. 8–9: For man is not out of woman, but woman out of man. Nor was man created through the woman, but woman through the man.

Paul backs this up with these references to Gen. 2:7

Gen. 1:26a: Then God said, Let Us make man in Our image, according to Our likeness;...

Man is not a physical duplication of God nor is man a physical representation of God. Man is a likeness of God's invisible essence, which is just as real as the material bodies which we possess and just as real as the material universe in which we live.

We Are Made in God's Image

1. God has mentality and logic and He reasons; He is rational. God has a plan; He made a plan; making a plan requires logic. We, as human beings, can also think with logic and reason.
2. God has volition and will; God chose to resolve the angelic conflict by creating man. He could have resolved the angelic conflict the moment that Satan sinned by throwing him into the Lake of Fire. We also have volition and will. We make hundreds of thousands of decisions in our lifetimes; and we are totally free to choose for and against God.

3. God is self-conscious. He is completely aware of Himself and He is completely aware of the other members of the Trinity. He maintains His perfection. Man also possesses self-consciousness. We are aware of ourselves and the world.
4. God is conscience He knows right from wrong, and He always chooses righteousness. We also have a conscience and we choose between right and wrong. Adam had standards which were those that matched God. When Adam sinned, his conscience was marred; it distinguished between right and wrong, albeit, imperfectly. Nevertheless, we are made in the image of God.
5. God is a person. He is described in this way in the Bible. He has the attributes of a person: He has justice, love, righteousness; He has names: God, Elohim, the Lord, Jesus Christ. He is referred to in Scripture with personal pronouns. God is not an impersonal force in the universe. God has, as a person, an infinite relational capacity. God and Christ have a relationship. We are also persons; we have love, righteousness, justice, and we have the capacity to relate; we have intricate and real relationships with others. This shared image between God and man is the immaterial part of God and man. However, we also have a sin nature, which mars this image.

Paul offers proof of what he says in 1Cor. 11:7–9:

Gen. 1:26a: Then God said, Let Us make [to make something from nothing] man in Our image, according to Our likeness;...

We always use something to make something else; but God made our soul out of nothing. The material parts of men and women were created differently. The souls were not. Because the material aspects of men and women were originally created differently, there is a pecking order; an order of authority.

Gen. 1:26–27 tell us how man and women are equal and created equally.

Gen. 2:7: And Jehovah God formed man of the dust of the ground, and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life; and man became a living soul.

1Co 11:8 For man is not out of woman, but woman out of man.

1Cor. 11:8                      Gen. 2:7    Lesson #628    November 11, 2007                      Sunday 2

In March 2005, Paul Statser, a national guardsman from Pennsylvania, and he was on foot, and an IED went off and severely wounded. It was designed to take out a vehicle. He took the brunt of the explosion in his own body. Surprisingly, he lost none of his limbs. James Statser is his father, and will speak on his behalf..

His son has been on the prayer list immediately. He took a 155 from 2 feet, and took the full blast from it, and he survived, and it is because of God's faithfulness. This was the big test and the peace and contentment is there. This ministry prepared them.

He wrote a letter to his town newspaper (which would be appropriate to any community in the US): He received a phone call about injuries his son received by an IED which would be designed to take out a Humvee. There were no details at that point, but Paul was in pretty bad condition. A brain surgeon called and said he could not get him stabilized. He did not think that the son would make it through the night. He made it through the night, and was taken first to Germany. He was told that he might not make it on a trip to Walter Reed Hospital. He did. A woman from Kokomo, Indiana brought him a great banner and she speaks around the country now, Alison Mansfield, about how freedom is not free.

Paul has survived wounds which have doctors amazed. For the soldiers at Walter Reed, the most important thing are the prayers and support of the people in the US. Many have given the ultimate sacrifice.

There are people who fight to maintain our freedom.

One eye has been lost and a nurse told him that he is totally blind and he is on a respirator. The nurse conveyed that he was like a vegetable. James called up and said, he is not going to allow his son to be kept alive on a respirator as a vegetable. James figured he would be going somewhere, so he went out to get a haircut. He prayed to God, if he is blind and on a respirator, then take him home. If he survives, he prayed for him to not have a lot of pain. So far, Paul has not even had a headache. He was in pain, but out, in a coma for a month. He does not remember any pain. James said, I will leave it in Your hands.

James pulls into the parking lot, and the doctor tells him that he is not a vegetable, that he was not totally blind, and that he was so doped up, that they kept him on a respirator.

Today, the doctors at Walter Reed cannot believe that Paul can walk and talk. He has shrapnel in his neck. Titanium in his head. He went golfing the other day.

A pastor asked him how he was prepared; and James told him, he has ben taught by a great theologian R. B. Thieme, and that God has prepared us for every problem that we will face.

When Bobby heard about the severity of Paul's wounds, and his first prayer was, if Paul is in that state, then, Lord, take him home. Bobby did ask, why did God let him go through this? Why is he kept alive? Paul has been a tremendous witness for the Lord Jesus Christ and his father has been able to speak with boldness on this. He is a picture of the grace of God. God still has a plan for Paul's life, just as He has for our own.

We are currently putting together the distinctions between man and woman. However, we have first seen the equality of man and woman, how we are made in the likeness and image of God. It is our self conscious and out mentality, etc., which are made in the image of God.

Adam was formed, and that is the Hebrew yatsar, which means to be formed. Adam was formed from the dust; and this dust was from the previous creation of the heavens and the earth. God somehow took the dust, and however He formed man, it was from the ground, and He breathed life into Him. He breathed biological life into Adam, and God breathed life into his nostrils and Adam became a living being.

We have a wâw consecutive, so it means: And Jehovah Elohim formed man out of the dust of the ground and then He breathed into his nostrils the breath of life and then man became a living soul. The origin of life

Now lets take these two verses and put them together:

Gen 1:26a: Then God said, Let Us make man in Our image, according to Our likeness;... Man and women are made in the image of God. This is the immaterial part of man.

Gen. 2:7: And Jehovah God formed man of the dust of the ground, and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life; and man became a living soul. Their bodies were created differently.

God would perform radical surgery upon Adam. He put him under an anesthetic. God banah's a woman. Banah means to form, to fashion, to build, to construct. God did not use dust, but God build the body of the woman directly from Adam. Adam woke up to the sight of the most beautiful creature that he had ever seen, and he probably gasped. Adam made an immediate identification in his soul. He knew what was taken out of him, his rib. Similarity, exact similarity, and difference. She was bodily constructed in the image of man. She was just as human as he was, but different. In keeping with Adam's divine task, which was to name the animals (that was his occupation). Adam gave her a poetic word, to mark her as his partner in life. He also has authority over her, as he names her. The very act of naming something means you have authority over them.

He names her Ishshah. Man's name was Ish. Adam names woman, and he recognizes the soul and body correspondence. The woman completes Adam, she came from him; and one cannot live without the other. Adam's immediate recognition was that there was something missing in his life. What was removed from him graciously came back with interest. She is the most wonderful gift. The woman was given to man.

Creation of Man and Woman

1. The point is, man came more immediately from God and was already designated as the ruler over nature. The very fact that Adam named these animals indicates his rulership over them.

2. This is the picture of the chain of command.
3. The woman was created second, formed from man's rib and brought to the man.
4. Then Adam named the woman in commemoration of her origin from himself.
5. The woman was made in the image of God, but she was created out of Adam. Authority, priority, and equality.
6. That indicated her equality but also her responding position to Adam's authority. Initiator, responder, leader, follower.

Paul reflects this account.

Gen 2:21–23: And Jehovah God caused a deep sleep to fall on Adam, and he slept; and He took one of his ribs, and closed up the flesh in its place. And the rib which Jehovah God had taken out of the man He rebuilt into a woman, and He brought her to the man. And the man said: This now at last is bone from my bones and flesh from my flesh; she shall be called Woman, because she was taken out of man.

1Co 11:8 For man is not out of woman, but woman out of man.

Wednesday

We will complete v. 8 tonight. For man does not originate from woman, but woman from man. Asah means to make after a pattern, to make after an image. God created, barah, man, in His own image; in the image of God, He created him; male and female, He created them. God created man and woman out of nothing. from His own image.

We still have the image of God; it is our soul. No other creature has such an image. Authority orientation design in man and woman, and this is found in Gen. 2:7: Then the Lord God formed man from the dust of the ground. This is the tangible, corporeal, living flesh-and-blood man. Then man is linked with a soul, which is created from nothing. Then God breathed into his nostrils the breath of life.

Our essence is the soul. Spirit is given to us in order to understand God. Man cannot understand God after the fall, as we lose the human spirit. Man was alone, the only creature without a counterpart. He observed this with the animals. Man was a soldier a long way from home. Most of us have experience loneliness; however, few have experienced loneliness as Adam did, with no counterpart on earth. God understood this and He did not leave Adam alone.

God then took a rib from man and He fashioned (banal) it into a woman. God placed a soul within the woman, as per Gen. 1:26–27. So Adam wakes up from his operation, and Adam immediately makes an identification. He could perceive a similar origin for her from himself. This beautiful creature was from the hand of God. God had perfectly provided what man was missing. Adam recognized that the woman was his counterpart, the bone of his bone, the flesh from his flesh.

The Creation of Man and Woman

1. Man was created first, more immediately by God.
2. The woman was formed out of man from his rib and brought to the man.
3. By virtue of the physical creation sequence and the method of creation.
4. Adam had priority and authority by order of creation and by method of creation.
5. Order of creation coincides with the chain of command.
6. The original creative design of God set the pattern for the man as the initiator and the woman as the responder. That was God's original design.
7. Adam upon seeing woman named her, in commemoration of her origin. Naming the woman was an indicator of his authority.
8. They were both made in the image of God, male and female. They had equality as human beings. There was no inferiority in the woman, even though her role was that of a responder.
9. The woman was created out of Adam and for his sake. Her role was responder to Adam.

A commentator observed. God did not take the woman from man's head, so that she might lord it over him. God did not take the woman from man's feet, that he might lord it over her. God took the woman from man's rib, close to his heart, that he might love her and hold her close and so that she completes him.

Gen 2:21–23: And Jehovah God caused a deep sleep to fall on Adam, and he slept; and He took one of his ribs, and closed up the flesh in its place. And the rib which Jehovah God had taken out of the man He rebuilt into a woman, and He brought her to the man. And the man said: This now at last is bone from my bones and flesh from my flesh; she shall be called Woman, because she was taken out of man.

1Co 11:8 For man does not originate from woman, but woman from man.

Now we move into v. 9: we have γυνή = woman. The 2nd noun is άνερ = man. Man was not created for the sake of the woman, but the woman was created for the sake of the man. We have the concept of the ezer here, from Gen. 2:18: "It is not good for man to be alone; I will make a helper suitable for him." This is interesting that we know what is in the mind of God; we know what God had in mind when creating woman. The verb is asah (אָסָה) [pronounced aw-saw], and this means to make after a pattern. Gen. 2:20 is also relevant at this point: And the man gave names to all the cattle and to the birds of the sky and to every beast of the field, but he did not find a helper suitable for him. There were all of these creatures in the garden with whom Adam could not speak. Animals are nice to have around, but they are not a replacement for human companionship. It says the Adam gave names to every beast of the field. Adam named all of the animals. Man learned about his Creator directly from God. His work was quite enjoyable to him.

Bobby has a friend who is a golfer, and this man works by the sweat of his brow. But Adam enjoyed his work; it was perfection. There was another dimension which man was missing. Eccl. 9:9: Enjoy life with the woman that you love all the days of your fleeting life, which God has given to you under the sun. This verse is directed toward the unbeliever after the fall. Enjoy your woman and your work.

Man worked to relieve his own loneliness. In so doing, he was doing something else. He was cultivating his intellect as well. His mind was an empty shell. Jesus Christ had to learn in his humanity.

If you had a 3rd grade education and a few one syllable words at your command, then you limit your options in life. You limit here your ability to think. The more words you know, the more you can expand your own thinking. Adam got a little tired and he needed a little time off. He stood down and more acutely felt the pangs of his solitary existence. He pondered all that he had seen and all that he had seen and all that he had done. He recognized that there were pairs of animals, but just one of him. Adam had no one to talk things over with. No one to unwind with; to relax with; to recreate with.

Man is not a creature of seclusion; he is not designed to be by himself. By himself, Adam could never be completely fulfilled. He could exist and enjoy himself and his work. God furnished for Adam exactly what he needed at exactly the right time. No telling how long Adam was in the garden. At the right time, at the right moment, God brought the woman into the garden.

Shouldn't be enough that Adam lived in this great place, the garden, with God? Of course it was enough. Yet, God understood that man had a certain need here. There was a certain longing in man's soul for another human being. This also would serve a great purpose in life in the angelic conflict. Adam was certainly a witness for the rebuttal phrase of the angelic conflict. However, with the woman, there was a whole new spin or dimension to the angelic conflict.

Was God snubbed by Adam's need for a counterpart? God never felt slighted. He created man with the capacity for a relationship with God and with human beings. We are not robots. God has given us a capacity to express love for Him and for others.

Even though we have a great relationship with God, God has provided for us one the greatest things to come from His hand; a woman for the sake of the man.

There are times when it is good for a man or a woman to be alone; to be single, and focus on something besides a companion and a relationship. We were never alone as Adam was alone. Relationships with people are never our primary focus. As believers, we have first our relationship with the Lord, and this relationship must take priority. Our relationship with God should come first. Adam's relationship with God had to come first. There are times when a relationship with a person of the opposite sex can detract from spiritual growth; especially if they are not growing as well.

There are still the relationships of different kinds which provide companionship; but God provides at the right time in the right way. This gives us the capacity to enjoy such a relationship.

Relationship Before and After the Woman

1. There are times in our lives when we need to be alone with the Lord. We do not need that one big relationship.
2. We need to be focused on spiritual growth; do not waste the time. In doing so, we gain capacity for love and life.
3. You cannot be your best as a leader or as a responder without the capacity which comes from your spiritual life.
4. If you want the optimum relationship with a mate, you need to develop your relationship with the Lord first. If necessary, God provides other things to take up the slack.

When God saw that Adam was ready for his human companion, God provided the woman at just the right time. Adam had that face to face with the Lord. God's pattern for the human race is the proper counterpart of the opposite sex. The woman was created as Adam's ezer, which is his subordinate. One who is a helper works under the authority of another.

What an Ezer is

1. Ezer means more than just an assistant who eases the load of life for man and follows his order.
2. Ezer denote correlation or a complementary component.
3. Association and fulfillment.
4. Ezer is the part which corresponds and responds.
5. Ezer is the opposite number who specifically fits the man.
6. The woman fulfills the man's soul yearnings and completes him intellectually and emotionally and physically and relationally, in every way that husband and wife were meant to unite from the beginning. The woman was not created as a servant, a slave or a sex object. . The woman was also under his authority. That was the way and the reason that she was created. The woman fulfills him while she herself was fulfilled by the man. That is the interchange designed by God. It still works today, despite the sin in the world.

1Cor. 11:9: Nor was man created through the woman, but woman through the man.

1Cor. 11:8-10

Lesson #630 November 15, 2007

Thursday

We studied the Old Testament on this. Adam had an exclusive relationship with God, which none of us will ever know until we are face to face with the Lord. He lived in the greatest place that we can imagine. Adam had all of that perfection, and God too; but what Adam was missing was a relationship with another human being. He desired human intimacy and human companionship. He wanted someone who complimented him. God understood Adam's need and He did something about it; God created the ezer.

No one in leadership is ever called a helper; the one so-named is under the authority of the one that she is the helper of. Now, she is Adam's helper in life, and was to be treated with love and respect. In fulfilling the man, the woman also fulfilled herself. They both had a role to play in the plan of God.

So many women today think that they can go it alone without men; to be an entity in themselves. This is the premise of feminism: you do not need a man—you can go it alone or with other women. These women try very hard to be autonomous; and even a few succeed in this. A person like this pays a steep price—not to have the greatest relationship in life as designed by God. If the woman is not a responder, her intimate relationships will be very ephemeral. The relationship that she looks for is going to be just beyond her grasp.

V. 9 clearly states the men and women were to be joined, allied; they were not meant to be enemies in life. We see the complete opposites with feminism and with women being subject to men as slaves and as those who bear his children only. The truth is somewhere between.

Men and women are given the capacity to have a relationship with God, which animals do not have. Adam had the capacity to express love, both for God and for another person. God created the woman at just the right time to be Adam's wife, as he was prepared to be a husband. This way, he could have the relationship which he was ready for.

There was another reason God created woman. Man and his woman would also be corporate witnesses in the angelic conflict. This is what is coming up in v. 10.

If you are single, don't panic because this passage speaks of the relationship between a man and a woman. In God's plan, we have the best situation that we can be in. If we are dissatisfied with our life, we are probably outside of the plan of God. Wherever we are in our life, we are in the right place, and so we can relax. God provides for our needs in every respect. That is our purpose for being here. We do have other needs which He will fulfill.

You may think that what you need to do is sit down with a financial planner, and that would solve everything, but it will not.

1Cor. 11:8–9: For man is not out of woman, but woman out of man. Nor was man created through the woman, but woman through the man.

The woman should have a symbol of authority on her head. The woman was created for man and his helper, so she should have a symbol of authority on her head, a symbol which she recognizes. This symbol means she recognizes the authority and the leadership of her man.

The ordinary symbol which covers the woman's head was a veil. The women of Palestine in those days properly showed up in public with a veil. She wore a veil in deference to public opinion in the streets.

The woman did not shed this veil. A woman found in prostitution had her head shaved. If a woman betrayed her country or if she betrayed her master as a slave, she got her hair cut off. This publically disgraced the woman. No cover was the essence of being anti-authority. How much more important was it for Christian women not to shed their veils in public? It was important for them to be a witness for Jesus Christ and to show that they were still under authority. Christ is not honored or glorified for the woman to be anti-authority in marriage or in the church.

Authority orientation has a higher affect than was previously understood. There is something about the woman's authority orientation which has an impact on the angels. This is an extremely important reason for the woman to be authority orientation. This is about the angelic conflict.

This phrase begins with the preposition  $\delta\iota\alpha$  + the accusative plural of  $\alpha\gamma\gamma\epsilon\lambda\omicron\varsigma$ . In the previous verse,  $\delta\iota\alpha$  meant for the sake of. It means the same thing here. The angels were watching to see whether or not these women are authority orientated.

Angels do watch women specifically in their relationships, with their husbands and in church. They are being observed. This same observation continues right to this very moment. Higher created beings are watching the chain of command. They are watching how it is observed. It is amazing to Bobby that there is an authority issue in the angelic realm. However, Satan's problem is authority orientation. Those angels who fell, their problem is authority orientation. Satan had that issue; it is still an issue.

Bobby is going to cover the angelic conflict big time now.

The role of the woman is clearly laid out in the previous few verses. However, in v. 10, we see just how important that it is. Why would these angels watch the woman? What happens on this planet is the focal point of the angelic conflict. All angels are watching what occurs here on earth.

Angelic Conflict

1. In eternity past, God created super-creatures, known as angels. This includes Lucifer, who is the highest creature to come from the hand of God. Numerous other angles were also created, but we do not have a clue as to how many.
2. What we do know is, at some point in eternity past, is that Lucifer had a thought: it was an anti-authority, arrogant thought.
  - a. In this one thought was rebellion against divine authority.
  - b. Isa. 14:14: I will make myself like the Most High. Arrogance. He thinks he will take on God's authority.

- c. There is no doubt that Lucifer set himself against the absolute authority and sovereignty of God.
- d. That arrogant moment, that one first arrogant moment of anti-authority, which is unfathomable negative volition. Thousands of people saw the Lord Jesus Christ and they chose not to believe. They heard Him and many saw His miracles.
3. So the conflict began in heaven with Satan's anti-authority moment and his anti-authority thinking was contagious. There are others who are dissatisfied. They are dissatisfied with their lot in life. Revolution is anti-authority. Bobby is extracting what he can from the Scriptures which we have. It is probably and accurate view. Bob never dealt with this one particular phrase.
  4. So divine authority became an issue of all the angels. . This has been an issue ever since. This will be an issue until the eternal state.
  5. In that prehistoric time, one-third of all the angels became affected by Satan's rebellion. Rev. 12:4 (?) says one-third of the stars fell. These are the fallen angels or demons. God knew this would happen.. Why did God make these wonderful super-creatures if He knew that they would reject Him? We will find out some day.
  6. God cannot ignore rebellion against Himself ever, regardless of who it is, whether Satan, mankind or you and me.
  7. God had to judge the rebellion against Himself. This is the definition of sin and God cannot let sin go.
  8. The negative volition anti-authority posture of Satan and the fallen angels demanded that the righteousness and justice of God kick in.
  9. God could not compromise His righteousness, even for the most beautiful creature to come from His hand.
  10. The result was, in heaven, God convened a trial. This is an illustration. No idea whether God sat at a bench of justice and slammed down a gavel. In any case, we will call this a trial. This is the theme. Satan fell, one-third of the angels fell; and the trial begins with the slamming of the gavel. God's justice insures that this trial be fair. The charged were attempted coupe of God Almighty. That was an anti-authority insurgency. God was dealing with a problem.
  11. The outcome of the trial: Satan and all the nagels were condemned. Matt. 25:41: Hell was created for the devil and his angels. The Lake of Fire is very tough for anyone to get their mind around. Literally burning for eternity and not being consumed. This is God's justice? What horror! What a cruel God! People either want to find a way out or they simply discount that hell is literal or real. The alternate view is, God would never create such a thing to throw His creatures into. The Lake of Fire is real; when Satan was at this trial, and when Satan heard, you are guilty; Satan saw the jaws of hell open up, and he knew what his sentence was. This is be for unbelievers as well. We don't know what happened next. Was Satan sorry? Did he throw himself on the mercy of the court? Or did he appeal? Angels and Satan are deathly afraid of the Lake of Fire. "Let's think about this for awhile. God, you created me, you loved me; how can you do this to me?"

1Cor. 11:10 For this reason the woman ought to have authority on her head, because of the angels.

1Cor. 11: The Angelic Conflict Lesson #631 November 18, 2007 Sunday 1

None of the references to angels are biographical or personal, for the most part, but circumstantial; that is, the angel/angels are involved in some sort of activity. We know that the angels are messengers, as this is the very meaning of their name. Messenger is one who serves, meaning that they serve God. They are called heralds who announce things; there were many angels in the time of the era of the hypostatic Union. Angels are given names, because they are individuals or persons.

There is the Angel of the Lord, which is the Lord Jesus Christ in the Old Testament. There is Gabriel, whose name means the mighty one. The best known arch-angel is Michael, which means who is like God? There are categories of angels: seraphim and .

There are the sons of God, a specific group of angels, can be found in Victorious Proclamation. On occasion, angels take on a physical form, like those in Gen. 18:1–19:1; and this is more prevalent prior to the Church Age.

Matt. 22:30: angels do not reproduce, apparently; and probably don't have genders. Angels do not die, so their numbers remain fixed (Luke ?).

The history of the doctrine of angels does not help us in this area. The wildest of speculations in the Dark Ages, which are just weird. Angels by some are thought not to exist and belong to a pre-scientific age. All that we know about angels can be found in the Bible. However, all that we need to know about angels is in the Scripture.

The doctrine of the angelic conflict. This is such an important doctrine, that this encompasses the very reason for the human race. The human race can be tied directly to the human race, making angelology a critical doctrine.

In our passage, it reads because of the angels. The woman needs some symbol of authority on her head, because of the angels, as she must have some authority orientation.

In the creation account, the woman is called the helper. She is a responder to leadership and to authority. Because the woman is under the man's authority and because she should be authority oriented. According to this verse, there is a higher impact of the woman being under authority and being a responder.

A woman has long hair because this appeals to the man; it is a pain in the neck to put up with, but as a responder, the woman retains her long hair.

How did the angelic conflict begin and how is the woman involved with this? The angelic conflict is a long doctrine which was begun Thursday night.

Angel Conflict

1. Lucifer is the highest creature to come from the hand of God, and he is called the most beautiful of the angelic creatures.
2. People seem to be concerned with the number of angels. Heb. 12:2 indicates that they are innumerable. We know that angels are not glorified human beings, as we see on tv. They are way above the sphere of mankind. They are not man, but they are not God either; 2Sam. 14:20 Matt. 24:26 they have great knowledge, far beyond what we have. Psalm 103:20 they have great power. They are not equal to God, but they want to be (at least, some of them do).
3. At some point in eternity past, there was a fleeting arrogant thought of Lucifer. He was the original, anti-authority creature. Isa. 14;14: I will make myself like the Most High. With this, he became Satan. It is almost impossible to imagine how Satan could be in the throne room of God, and yet, as a created being, was so far below God. Jesus Christ, God Himself, walked this earth. For a 4 year ministry, He presented Himself as the God-man. People saw Him at this time, and many of them completely rejected Him, because they were so steeped in their arrogance. Satan thought and set himself up against the absolute authority of God. He launches the angelic conflict. This began with one single thought that spilled over into the entire universe. After this, Satan could not be quiet. Arrogance cannot be quiet; arrogance must be fed. It requires approbation. It began as an act behind God's back, although this is silly. Divine authority and opposition to this authority became Satan's issue and the issue for all the angels ever since.
4. As Satan began to spread his sedition throughout, he brought 1/3 of the angelic creatures with him. Rev. 12:4: 1/3 of the stars fell from heaven. And these fallen angels become to be known as demons. When this war began, there was a universe of some sort, and Satan's rebellion began chaos on one particular planet, earth. The earth is the focal point of the angelic conflict. At some point, the earth was packed in solid ice.
5. Perhaps the angels had some sort of physical body, as this does take place on the earth?
6. The Spirit of God moved over the surface of the waters, and He began to restore what the earth was. God does not make formless and void; this was a result of the angelic conflict.
7. What happens to Satan and his minions? God has to judge sin. He can have nothing to do with sin. He cannot compromise His character. God could not compromise His righteousness. If God played any favorites, it would be Lucifer, as Lucifer was God's greatest angel. In heaven, God convened a trial.
8. God's indictment of Satan was a coup and an attempted overthrow of God's authority (His rulership). The outcome of the trial was a conviction. There could be no doubt about this, and Satan and his angels were sentenced to the Lake of Fire. Matt. 25:41.
9. Hell is not metaphorical but it is a literal place of torment and first, day and night, forever and ever. Fire and brimstone are used to give us an earthly picture of hell. The destruction of Sodom and Gomorrah in Gen. 19:24. The Lake of Fire is a literal place where people will burn. Unbelievers will also reside in this location forever. As eternal judgment, there is no respite, and no final consumption by the fire. It is so horrible that people cannot believe it or accept it, and it is why we should have such a great incentive to witness to unbelievers. Satan and his fallen angels were sentenced to the Lake of Fire. No one resides in the Lake of Fire today. Satan for the first time, looked into his eternal future, which is his eternal destiny.

10. "I would rather be with the sinners than the saints" or "If my family is in hell, I want to be there too." These are incredibly stupid statements.
11. Satan has only one option remaining to him. He wanted to stop the execution of his sentence. Satan's mind thought quickly, and he appealed to God his sentence. God allowed his appeal to play out. We know that God entertained Satan's appeal, because Satan does not presently reside in the Lake of Fire. Satan is loose and roaming the earth, searching any scheme to win his appeal. It is all he has left. He has hatched many a plot to do so. His most obvious schemes were to keep Messiah from coming (which he may have expected in Moses as well). Satan is extremely dangerous, the epitome of evil, although he is able to disguise himself as an angel of light.
12. What were the grounds of Satan's appeal?

1Cor. 11: The Angelic Conflict Lesson #632 November 18, 2007 Sunday 2

Bobby has 2 masters and was halfway to a PhD. Bobby felt that his father did a tremendous job with the angelic conflict and that this pulled a great deal together. Bobby, when he came to this passage, first felt that he could regurgitate what his father had taught; but this is a point which his father had never covered before. He has developed some material which gives us a different perspective and a different angle than we have had before.

When Bobby read because of the angels, he was really stunned.

There is no passage which deals with the angelic conflict in total. We have to extract what we know from a variety of books in order to put this together.

Satan is the epitome of anti-authority; and yet presents himself as an angel of God. Angels designed to serve God, and now they are fallen angels, some of them, and serve Satan. God had to judge Satan and He convened a trial, where Satan was convicted. The sentence was given immediately, which is the Lake of Fire. Satan saw hell open up, and he knew his faint. So Satan appealed his sentence, and God, surprisingly enough, allowed. Satan is charged with sedition. His sentence would be to burn forever in a literal hell.

14. What were the grounds of Satan's appeal? Satan made the same observation that people do today. How could a loving God sentence His highest creature and the fallen angels to an eternal fire. Is that love? That is one offense. "God, let's let the punishment fit the crime; lighten up a little; why are You so brutal? Show a little love.” To the human ear, that seems reasonable. “Why is God so authoritarian and so cruel?”

15. This was a brilliant defense.
  - a. Satan had set God’s attributes against each other. He set justice and righteousness against love. “How can you be a God of love, if you are going to sentence me to the Lake of Fire?”
  - b. Satan reasoned, and Satan was a great reasoner. If God would emphasize one attribute over the other, even temporarily; to put one attribute aside; then God would not be God. Maybe God should try to rehabilitate Satan? What would have happened would have been a contradiction in God’s character.
  - c. This would have compromised God’s entire essence. Had He favored one attribute over another, that would be a compromise.
  - d. Satan understood God’s character; he had witnessed it first hand. He knew God’s character; so he attempted to use this against God.
16. What did Satan hope? He hoped that God would remake Himself as a God a God of love and not to be so harsh.
  - a. God, in remaking Himself, would put love over righteousness and justice.
  - b. God would be more a God of love and less of a God of integrity.
  - c. Real love cannot love without integrity. They go together.
  - d. Love without integrity is mere sentimentality or emotionalism. Love is thinking and if there is no integrity in the thinking, then what is love worth? That love, with no integrity, will depart.
  - e. If that sort of love without integrity does not last, and that sort of love puts aside His integrity, then He is setting aside His perfect character. He would be flip-flopping. Love and integrity go together. They must.
  - f. God can be nothing less than absolute integrity and absolute love. If love compromises His integrity, then God is not God. Present-day religion wants God’s love to be preeminent. Universal salvation and every religion is the pathway to heaven. This is the reasoning of religion. God is either absolute truth or He is a liar. He said, “I am the way, the truth and the life; no man comes to the Father but by Me.” Righteousness and justice must condemn sin.
  - g. If God becomes relative in just one attribute or if He employs a situational ethic, then Satan would have brought God down to his level. Satan would bring God down, which is Satan’s desire in the first place (“I will be like the Most High.”)
17. God’s response: I will prove something to Satan and the angels, elect and fallen. God would show all of His attributes and He would not compromise any of His attributes. This is speculation.
  - a. God, “I am utterly worthy of your obeisance, and you want to be like Me rather than to worship Me.”

- b. "I will demonstrate that I am perfect righteousness, justice and love. I will show that all of these attributes are compatible in equal measure. None will take precedence over the other."
- c. "These 3 attributes are all equally involved in My judgment of you."
- d. "After all, Satan, did I not allow you and create you into My own abode and into My own house sitting right there with Me? Have I not done everything on your behalf? Have I not given you all that you needed?" We have a parallel in our own lives. God has set everything before us. All 3 are involved in our existence. Now, the justice and righteousness of God must take effect.

18. God would make a demonstration to Satan:

- a. God would now create a new creature. Up to this point, there was only one category of creature on their earth.
- b. God would demonstrate His absolute justice, righteousness and love toward another creature.
- c. In so doing, the angelic creatures would observe the equal balance and God attributes at work. The perfection and infallibility of God. All of God's attributes combine to operate in exactly the same way.

19. How would mankind resolve Satan's appeal?

- a. God would recreate in man the environment and choice of Satan and the angels in another creature.
- b. Man was created in the image of God. This means that man would have a soul, which includes volition, self-consciousness, and conscience.
- c. In the image of God, man could freely choose; man's choices were not pre-determined. This answers Calvinism. The angelic conflict requires that man have free choice. Even as a lower creation, man had to have similar, if not exact attributes.
- d. Angels had to have volition, which could turn anti-authority; they had volition which could rebel against God, and they did.
- e. They had to have self-consciousness, moral reasoning power, and conscience. This is an exactly copy and duplicate of what man has. What man has in his soul will resolve the angelic conflict.
- f. Mankind and angels, although constitutionally different, possess the same soulful attributes. We have the same essence as creatures of God.
- g. Both have the same ability to develop an anti-authority attitude. We must have the ability to go anti-authority.
- h. Like the angels, man in the garden, without a sin nature, had to have the ability to rebel against God.
- i. These are the characteristics of those in the angelic conflict. Animals are not a part of the angelic conflict are not active participants in the angelic conflict, but they are affected by it.

20. As the appeal phrase of the angelic conflict commenced, the angels became spectators. They needed to see it; they needed to watch it. They were in the stands of the greatest of all venues. Then God threw something else into the mix: woman. She was thrown into the middle of the conflict, and she had a critical part to play in the angelic conflict.

21. What were the angels looking for as they observed these new creatures?
  - a. How would God deal with these creatures using His righteousness, justice and love. How would this affect their situation? The fallen angels thought, "How can Satan win this and how can we help?"
22. In order to make this a fair test, man must have the same choices as did the angels. He must have the same option for authority orientation or rebellion. Would Adam and the woman rebel? Satan wanted autonomy and then superiority, which is what launched the angelic conflict.
23. We have a fall, an appeal, and God's response, where God must demonstrate His 3 attributes, in perfect balance. Man is all ready and God is all ready, and the angels are in the stands. And they are about to observe what will happen, and we will study this next time.

1Cor. 11:

Lesson #633 November 21, 2007

Wednesday

1Co 11:8 For man is not out of woman, but woman out of man.

1Co 11:9 Nor was man created through the woman, but woman through the man.

V. 10 nails down the authority relationship between the man and the woman. The key phrase in v. 10 is, because of the angels. Authority orientation is linked to the angelic conflict. The angels are both warriors and observers. They have an extreme stake for everything on this earth. Never before have we considered the battleground related to the woman and her authority orientation.

In eternity past, Satan had that anti-authority thought, "I will make myself like the Most High." And Satan was then tossed out of heaven, for his arrogance. In his sedition, he dragged along with him, a third of the angels.

God convened a trial, and the outcome of the trial is, Satan and all of the angels were condemned. God's perfection, righteousness and justice cannot be tainted by any act of unrighteousness. There was found unrighteousness in him. After the guilty verdict was delivered, and after Satan stopped blubbing, he then made his appeal. The grounds for this appeal: How could a loving God sentence the highest creature to the Lake of Fire? Satan set God's justice and righteousness against God's love.

Satan's Appeal and God's Attributes

1. Satan hoped that God would change His mind and see that He was less than love in His sentencing of Satan. He hoped that God would change His mind, and this would compromise the immutability of God if He changed His mind about anything.

God is justice, righteousness and love, and Satan stands condemned. Now, if God throws out this sentence, then He is no longer immutable.

2. Satan wanted God to focus only on His love.
3. Satan wanted God to subordinate His justice and righteousness to His love.
4. Satan wanted God to be more of a God of love and change His mind about the sentence.
5. The problem is, then God would end up having a conflicted character—an innate contradiction of attributes. If one is focused on, the other is compromised.
6. That would compromise God's essence and hence, His divinity. God would not be God, if He sacrificed one attribute for another.
7. If God changed His mind, then He would bring Himself down to Satan's level.
8. If that happened, it would be a clear victory for Satan and an achievement of His original aim. "I will be like the Most High." Satan cannot elevate himself to God, but he was hoping to bring God down. This is the thinking of socialism. Bring down the rich to our level, so that we, those who are poor, will be better off.
9. God, amazingly enough, accepted this appeal.
  - a. Satan is now roaming the earth. Job 1:7
  - b. Satan is described as the great deceiver of man who disguises himself as an angel of light. 2Cor. . We always think of Satan as the epitome of evil, but he covers it, because he wants to show himself to be that way.
  - c. He goes about like a roaring lion, seeking whom he may devour.
  - d. These are the things which he does as a part of his appeal, which includes accusing believers.
10. What God is proving to Satan and the angels:
  - a. All of God's attributes are working properly in tandem.
  - b. God can properly sentence Satan to hell. This will help us to understand how God's love is involved. God placed Satan the highest of the high, next to God, giving him everything, including an eternal existence with God. That is love. When Satan says no to it, God's justice and righteousness had to act. In this angelic conflict, we see the working of all of God's attributes working in concert.

We have the same parallel situation. God's justice, righteousness and love all function in relationship to us. God provided for us the same as He provided for angels. We are resolved in our creation. God's justice and righteousness would be vindicated in man. God gave man comparable attributes. Satan had the same attributes as God does and as we do. There is an image of God, and we share certain attributes in common with angels.

Man is now teamed with woman. Actually, the husband and the wife are a team, just as a local church is a team.

The Angelic Conflict Continued

23. How would it go for the first couple?

- a. They were placed in the perfection of the garden which God designed just for them.
- b. In the garden, God presented the man and the woman with a test. This was the tree of the knowledge of good and evil, and they were told not to eat of this one tree.
- c. To follow this mandate requires a certain quality: authority orientation; a simple yes sir; got it; don't eat. This is the first inkling how authority orientation is linked to all of this.
- d. It was a clear cut choice. There were no grey areas.
- e. If they ate of the fruit, they would exhibit the anti-authority attitude of Satan—same choice and same result.
- f. But further, God designated man as the authority over women in the garden. This was not a part of the test. However, they were a team, which involved authority and authority orientation.
- g. As we have seen, this authority structure was critical for Adam and the woman acting as a team. Adam and the woman as a team could resist the temptation of Satan.
- h. Part of the ability to resistance to disobedience is marriage and authority and authority orientation inherent in it.
- i. Adam needed something: he needed humility and virtue to initiate love, to provide leadership and to avoid tyranny.
- j. The woman, to be the helper, made for the man's sake. The woman must respond to the man's authority with respect and allegiance. Adam is the leader and the woman is the responder. She is very likely to respond; she will respond to Adam or she will respond to someone else. She is the weak link, as she is the total responder. Adam has authority and authority orientation.
- k. That was the function of the first marriage. This was all part of what was being observed by the angels. A leader, responder, relationship centered around a tree. Later, there would be another tree. Both are essential to the angelic conflict.
- l. The mandate was there. The key to victory is that authority relationship.

24. It was man's turn to revolt or to respond to divine authority. Now man can revolt like the fallen angels or he can respond like the elect angels.

- a. Satan would look to usurp Adam's authority over the woman and then God's authority over them both.
- b. Satan would attempt to seduce the woman mentally, which is where all seduction begins. That was the divine design. Satan wants to destroy the divine design. He would insert himself into the chain of command between the man and the woman, and then between God and the man. Remember, the chain of command: God, Christ, man and the woman.

- c. In this seduction, the woman, the total responder (she has no one to initiate to). Man responds to Christ but he initiates to the woman. Christ responds to God and He initiates to the man. The woman is a complete responder.
  - d. This is why the woman's responsiveness is so important. She is the key here, as she is the complete responder. That is why Satan watches her so carefully.
  - e. The woman should have the symbol of authority on her head as a part of the authority relationship.
  - f. The angels are watching the man and the woman; would the woman respond to God? If she has an anti-authority attitude. Satan has fooled the woman and she has responded.
25. Here was part of the protection that the team had, bolstered by doctrine directed from God. Adam and the woman were prepared to resist Satan and the fallen angels. They could choose against the tyranny and anarchy of Satan's arrogance.
26. If Adam and his wife maintain a proper balance between authority and freedom. As a team, they would have resisted this. The woman responded to Satan and she did not go to the husband. Satan divided and conquered.
27. Marriage is the corporate witness in the angelic conflict. The angels were not just watching Adam, they were watching both the man and the women.
- a. Individual choices here were important.
  - b. Choices in the relationship also had a bearing on these proceedings.
  - c. If Adam stayed under the authority of God and the woman under Adam's authority, they would be just fine.
28. Since man was the authority in marriage and the woman's role was to respond...
- a. Satan knew that she was more susceptible to anti-authority thinking. This is why he did not go directly to Adam. Satan concentrated on the woman because she was the total responder.
  - b. If Satan could get the woman to respond to him instead of Adam—to inject himself into the chain of command—he had them. Satan was the best of all deceivers.
  - c. So, Satan chose his plan to divide and conquer. Separate man from woman. Work on the woman individually. Satan knew the initiator/responder role. He watched the whole thing. The man and the woman were created to resolve the appeal of Satan. He understands us and he understands our weaknesses better than we do.
  - d. Satan would then attack the woman independent of her husband. He would use provocative conversation. He would talk her into something.
  - e. Satan would attempt to make himself the initiator to the woman's soul and to get a response by the woman, not a response to love, but to flattery, deceit and manipulation. Satan did not love her; he was a cheap seducer. He was working her for his own benefit.
  - f. So the quickest way for Satan to precipitate the fall was through the woman.

These are seemingly unconnected subjects: women, authority and angels. However, all three of these are closely linked in this verse. 1Cor. 11:3–9 a relationship predicated on a divinely predicated precedent. There is a chain of command which requires the authority and leadership in man. This is a principle of Bible doctrine. It is based on the creation account in Gen. 1–2. The woman is the ezer, the helper of the man. She is the one who completes the man; the one to whom she responds and corresponds. The man reflects divine authority. The woman is the glory of man as the ezer. The final phrase is an entirely new slant on the leadership of man and the authority orientation of the woman. She must be authority oriented because of the angels. What takes place between a man and a woman is being observed by angels. This is one of the key elements in the angelic conflict, which we have studied in detail. It began in eternity past as we know, by one anti-authority thought in the mind of God's most beautiful creature, Lucifer. It is hard to imagine what Satan was and what he had before he fell; that one anti-authority thought. I will make myself like the Most High. Rev. 12:4 a third of the angels followed Satan in this fall. Satan, which means adversary, is his new name.

Because God is absolute righteous and justice, and so He had to judge all of the fallen angels. This is an illustration, but we do not know from Scripture all of these facts. This is a legal illustration which is appropriate, because of God's righteousness and justice are so involved. There was a trial and a verdict of guilty for sedition and rebellion against God. The sentence is to the most horrible place imaginable, which is the exact opposite of where he resided before his anti-authority thoughts. Satan's only option was to throw himself on the mercy of the court; but he did so with an appeal. "How could God send such wonderful creatures to the Lake of Fire if You are a God of love?" Satan wanted God to focus and to focus only on one attribute, the attribute of God. He hoped that God would subordinate His justice and righteousness, at least for a short time, to the His attribute of love.

Satan is now walking to and fro on the earth, and he has disguised himself as an angel of light (2Cor. 11:14). 1Peter 5:8 tells us that he roams about like a roaring lion, seeking whom he may devour. So, since the sentence has been passed but not carried out, and since Satan is roaming the earth, this suggests to us that he appealed God's just and righteous decision. The fact that Satan is a single creature, tells us that he is not omnipresent, but he does have a demon organization, and they are everywhere. They are wherever doctrine is being taught; they hate it and they hate us who listen.

How can God resolve Satan's appeal and yet retain His essence, is He created mankind, to resolve the appeal of Satan, as a demonstration of His absolute justice, righteousness and love. The cross illustrates all 3 attributes the equal balance of all 3 attributes at work. Angels observing this would understand that God is a God of love, and yet He retains His justice and righteousness.

God would recreate in man the same choice and ability to choose as He gave to the angels. Man would have the same soul contents: self-determination, a conscience, self-awareness, etc. The elements of our soul are also found in the souls of angels. Adam and the woman were created in the circumstances of the garden of Eden. Would they follow the pattern of the fallen angels or the elect angels. This is the test.

This commenced the appeal phase of the angelic conflict. Satan versus the new creatures; Satan versus Adam and the woman.

God gave man and woman one simple mandate: do not eat from the Tree of the Knowledge of Good and Evil. All they had to do is show authority orientation in order to follow this. The quality which Satan did not have was authority orientation. For Adam and Eve not to sin, they simply needed authority orientation.

The authority structure in Gen. 2 and, as a team, they resisted disobedience, which is also the divine design for marriage. A defense perimeter was this authority orientation along with the doctrine taught face to face with the Lord every evening. The first marriage is protection and authority and companionship. They were a corporate witness in the angelic conflict. They formed a corporate witness.

Satan understood the principle of authority orientation much more than we did, and he understood why God created one man and one woman, where they were protection for each other.

God, Christ, man, woman. The woman is the total responder. She does not initiate anything. 1Peter 3:7 she is the weaker vessel. Satan understood her to be the weaker of the two. Satan concentrated on her as the responder.

31. Satan tells the woman that this tree in the garden is the best tree in the garden. And the woman responds to his beautiful appearance and to his smooth talk and flattery, and he gets her to make up doctrine on her own. Satan's brilliant strategy is to divide and conquer. He looks to break down their witness. He looked to disrupt the soul response of the woman to her husband. When she was tempted apart from Adam, she responded to the subtleties of Satan.
32. She chose the seducer rather than the protector, her leader and designated authority, by God's design. She abandoned her authority orientation and took up with an illegitimate authority. She was in the same situation as Satan; Satan put her there. The same negative volition propelled the first humans into an exact and parallel fall. The woman was seduced and fell; and man chose the woman over God in the garden. He chose the fruit instead of maintaining His authority and leadership. He turned away from the lead of his wife right to the jaws of hell. Satan divided and conquered and he won the first round, the tactical victory of the angelic conflict. Man was not seduced; he ate knowingly. He understood the ramifications of taking a bite of the fruit. Therefore, it is the man who is responsible for the fall. Leadership must take responsibility. Adam was cognizant, the subordinate was seduced. In Adam, all die. They both fell because of their anti-authority attitudes. God had to condemn them; He had no choice. His justice and righteousness now come into play. They were not a part of the relationship before, because they had righteousness, so justice was not required to condemn them. Man was now in the same predicament as the angels. Now man and angels were on the same footing.

33. How the 3 divine attributes intersect for fallen man is the story of the cross. The sins of mankind were placed on God and judged. The result was the greatest demonstration of love in all history. God demonstrated His love for us in that, while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us. Justice and righteousness and love, all in one package, all revealed in the cross. It is incredible that God loved us that much to so sacrifice His own Son. One objection to the gospel is, God would never sacrifice His Son, since man would not sacrifice his own son. God did sacrifice His perfect Son, and He did this for us. Justice and righteousness and love all meet in the cross. This is the redemption solution. Every time one person believes in Jesus Christ, he demonstrates the work of justice and righteousness and love. This answers Satan's appeal, which means his appeal is denied. The righteousness and justice of God is so revealed. Justice and righteousness condemned all mankind. God's love can never be separated, because He has given man every opportunity.

It is the grace of God which will defeat Satan. We are involved in the tactical maneuvers against Satan. We won the first tactical maneuver against Satan when we believed in Jesus Christ. There are more victories to be won in this verse.

1Cor. 11:10 For this reason the woman ought to have [a symbol] authority on her head, because of the angels.

1Cor. 11:10    Angelic Conflict    Lesson #635    November 25, 2007    Sunday 2

Martin Luther in "A Mighty Fortress" recognized the angelic conflict.

Satan fell and was judged and condemned; then he appealed. He is at war with God, but he is also at war with us. We will show how God's essence is not internally corrupt.

We will resolve the appeal. Should not Satan have been tossed into the Lake of Fire when Adam and the woman believed? Why does Satan need any more proof? Why should human history continue? Why should it continue. The woman should have a sign of authority on her head because of the angels.

Satan fell because of lack of authority orientation; he was arrogant. What do we need? Authority orientation to resolve the angelic conflict.

33. The cross is the strategic victory of the cross.
34. After salvation is secure, man is still in the conflict. We have the redemption solution; angels fell; were they given a 2nd chance? They were in the very throne room of God. They completely understood the essence of God and they are completely and totally without excuse. If there is a 2nd chance for angels, why not at the cross? This demonstrates the justice and righteousness and love of God toward another person. The cross deals with a related family. We are all related by blood; we all come from Adam and we all have Adam's curse. The sin nature is in every cell of our bodies and we must still choose for and against God's plan. God has another plan for us, after salvation. We must choose whether to advance or to stay in the same place once we have been saved. We can win tactical victories every day. We rebound, we take in doctrine, and Satan gnashes his teeth. When we execute the spiritual life, we know that we are a warrior. We cannot be defeated no matter what our circumstances are. We learn to believe God's Word. We submit to divine authority of His word. Authority orientation in the spiritual life. Here is that issue again. Satan does not have this; he rejected authority. This is what the Apostle Paul is trying to get across. That is what our mission is.

35. The believer must choose to apply the doctrine metabolized to his life. He must make decisions to serve the Lord to make the capacity assigned. You must step through the door of service as it relates to yourself. Being a witness in the angelic conflict; part is our service and part of it is our spiritual advance. All of this is the key to exercising the spiritual life. What is required? Authority orientation. We must be oriented to the Word of God; oriented to the Lord Jesus Christ. Only in this way, do we grow spiritually.
36. Authority is still the issue in the spiritual life. One of the greatest attacks in American today is against authority at all levels. "Mistrust authority" or "Do not trust anyone over 30." There continues to be very little authority orientation left in our country. People do have enforced authority when they take on a job. There is an authority all around us in life. The woman wears a symbol of authority on her head, and it is because of the angels. God set up the authority structure. A great illustration of the authority of structure was marriage; and it continues to be the authority structure, which Satan originally attacked and which he continues to attack. For those who are married, you are a team in the angelic conflict. To the extent that you exhibit leadership and response, that is how you reveal your corporate witness. Just one victory at the point of salvation; and then, we are able to pile up the victories. Authority orientation is still an issue for the believer that the angels are observing very, very closely. Part of God's plan for the believer is the authority relationship between the man and the woman. This includes the authority and authority orientation of the husband and wife; and it includes all the Bible doctrine taught to all believers, which is another area of authority orientation. You must be authority oriented to the teaching of the Word of God; and if you reject what is taught out of hand, then you are a loser. You don't grow and you do not have a tactical victory in the Christian life. You might end up with one tactical victory in the angelic conflict. Warriors are embarrassed who run away from combat, and we ought not to run away. The angels are closely watching the authority situation and women in the church and men and women in marriage and the pastor-teacher and his congregation. This is where we must continue to fight. It always centers in our authority orientation. It was the Lord Jesus Christ Who won the strategic victory of the cross.
  - a. God demonstrated to perfection His righteousness, His justice and His love through the Person and the work of Jesus Christ.

- b. Christ, on the cross, reconciled the enmity between God and man. He thereby demonstrated justice and righteousness on the cross.
- c. He redeemed mankind from the slave market of sin when He hung between heaven and earth.
- d. He demonstrated His justice and righteousness and love on the cross.
- e. The door of salvation is open to all because of His righteousness and justice and love. His grace saves us.
- f. That is Christ winning the strategic victory. That is the ultimate in illustrating and vindicating his essence. His doom is sealed, as Martin Luther wrote.
- g. Our first tactical victory is faith in Christ.
- h. The second is our spiritual advance. All of this, the angels, both elect and fallen know and observe; they know it all. They see it, they watch it, they know it. Satan has hatched many schemes in history in order to defeat, in order to win the appeal. Many of his schemes were prior to the Lord Jesus Christ going to the cross. He attempted to block our Lord's incarnation. Satan caused Adam to fall; check, but not checkmate. This was a tactical victory for Satan. He hatched another plan: the plan of the Nephilim, where there are half-angels and half-man. He tried to pollute the line. Then he tried to destroy the line of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob. He attacked the line of David through Saul and in many other ways. There were many plots. He needed to stop the strategic victory. Our Lord's moments on the cross sealed his doom. Satan knew it; he had lost his appeal at that very moment. Hark the herald angels sing... we have a whole new perspective now. Satan was condemned, but he fell and was not thrown into the Lake of Fire; so there must be more involved in our lives here on this earth. And Satan fights on and he will never stop. He will continue to attack believers and their loser lives. Satan can win tactical victories. He attacks Job and his spiritual life; he attacks marriages; he attacks doctrinal churches. Do you think the loss of prosperity is just bad management just a poor investment? Or bad luck? We need to continue to grow in adversity. It does not lie in our family or in our financial position. The tactical victory does not lie there unless we are married. Job had to face this. He had to face individual problems. We do not grow spiritually by binding and rebuking the devil, whatever that means; by casting out demons. All we can do is operate with our own spiritual growth and the day to day decisions which we participate in. We win the tactical victory in the way that we advance. The authority of the husband and the response of the wife are major players in this witness. Their actions are watched carefully by the angels. Satan wants to destroy the intitation and the response of the husband and wife. Satan continues to roam this earth, seeking what he may devour, and he would love to destroy marriage. Every married couple is in his crosshairs. Every woman must have a symbol of authority on her head and the man must initiate.

God seems to put a premium on corporate witnesses; and perhaps that is related to the angelic conflict? There are two factions, two corporate factions, if you will, of fallen and elect angels.

Next time, we will have the corporate witness of the angelic conflict.

1Cor. 11:10 For this reason the woman ought to have [a symbol] authority on her head, because of the angels.

Lesson #636 November 28, 2007

Wednesday

Hillary is apparently across the street from Berachah.

A letter from a woman whose husband tamed the shrew for the first dozen years of their marriage. They were apparently dance instructors. Their relationship is a slow dance which is getting better every step of the way.

Ballroom dancing, leading and following, is a good illustration of the corporate witness of marriage.

The motivation of the woman to respond is her spiritual growth. Being a responder does not mean the woman is a slave; she ideally responds to what she receives; and if she receives no leadership has nothing to respond to, unless she is on doctrine and responds to the Word of God. The key to a woman being responsive is her authority above her, God, Christ and man. The symbol which is on her head.

There is the relationship to the angelic conflict; the woman is carefully observed by the angels. We are being watched 24/7. They watch the woman's effectiveness in her divinely given role of responsiveness. The angels are observing the woman.

Review of the Angelic Conflict

1. Satan had that one anti-authority thought< "I will be like the Most High."
2. In the very throne room of God, Satan rejected the authority of God.
3. We know that Satan was tried and found guilty of rebellion along with a third of all the angels.
4. Satan appealed his sentence; hell was created for the devil and his angels. He appealed his sentence based upon the love of God. How could a loving God assign His creatures to an eternal hell.
5. We know that Adam and the woman were created to resolve this conflict. We are here to duplicate the situation of Satan and his angels at the time of their fall.
6. We know that they were created as husband and wife. God immediately united the man and the woman in marriage at her creation; and they had roles.

7. We know the woman must be authority orientated to her husband. If she failed in the garden, then they both failed.
8. This is why the authority orientation of the woman was tested; God gave a clear mandate, and they disobeyed it. They had a clear choice for or against God's authority. Same choice as Satan and the angels.
9. They could make a positive response or they could follow Satan in sin.
10. We know that for the woman, Adam's authority umbrella was protection; to protect her from the attacks of Satan, who disguises himself as an angel of light.
11. We know that the woman lost authority orientation to her husband and she was seduced mentally. She was lured away from the mandate of God. As soon as she said yes to Satan, Adam followed her; Adam responded to her. As soon as Adam ate that fruit, he died.
12. Hence we know, they sinned against God at that moment.
13. Adam and we saw God every day, and yet made a negative decision. We know that God's justice and righteousness had to condemn man.
14. We know that God would also demonstrate His love along with His condemnation. God has to condemn sin. Along with God's justice and righteousness, He will also demonstrate His love. The horror of man's fall will become conclusive evidence of God's love.
15. We know that God's righteousness and justice and love would combine. The redemption solution for fallen man.
16. We know that the cross was the strategic victory of the angelic conflict. That was the divine rebuttal to Satan's appeal. God demonstrates to Satan that his appeal is worthless.
17. Anyone who accepts the Lord Jesus Christ as Savior, and receives eternal life, he is a permanent victor in the angelic conflict.
18. We also know that the battle is not over at the moment of salvation. We do not hang up our saddle and spurs at salvation. We are here to resolve the angelic conflict.
19. We also know that part of that battle, is being authority oriented to the maximum, when you can apply doctrine to the circumstances of marriage.
20. Authority orientation is her personal witness and hers alone.
21. There is also a special corporate witness. The husband and wife project a corporate witness. This is being closely observed from heaven and Satan's headquarters here on earth.
22. Satan is looking to destroy the response of the wife to the husband. This is why believers' in Jesus Christ
23. We know that Satan still seeks to destroy the corporate met.

To fulfill her part as a corporate witness, the woman must show her part in the battle. The corporate witness of marriage wins a series of tactical victories. There is much more to marriage than sex and companionship.

The Reasons for the Corporate Witness

1. First off, the corporate witness in Christian marriage is the rebuttal to the failure of the first marriage. Our objective in marriage is to stay together and to pay attention to the
2. Adam and the woman's marriage was an initial part of the rebuttal phase of the angelic conflict. God's love demonstrated God's design. Adam was the woman's protector.
3. His righteousness and justice were demonstrated in the authority options of the first couple. They must remain authority oriented. Adam oriented to the authority of God along with the woman.
4. At their creation, Adam and Eve stood before God as without sin. He was just in allowing them the same choices as Satan.
5. He was totally righteous in rejecting the wrong choice.

The Corporate Witness

God Had Lovingly Designed the withstand the environment and authority structure of marriage at the Tree of the knowledge of Good and Evil

1. Adam would initiate leadership in love. Love is an attitude. It is part and parcel of the integrity of the man. Christ completely and totally sacrificed Himself for the church; that is love. The woman would respond to Adam with respect.
2. Authority in marriage was designed for resistance to disobedience. The dividing and the conquering.
3. Marriage was designed to pass the test, to maintain the rigorous standard of the test.
4. God designed a protective chain of command.
5. Adam and the woman would act as a team to survive Satan's seduction. The woman was the tota responder.
6. Umbrella of protection.
7. They were both protected by the doctrine in their soul; and, in his,

Their Successful Corporate Witness require

1. The teaching of the Word of God and the structure of marriage are integrally connected. They sinned, so they were thrown out of the garden. The justice and righteousness and love are all illustrated in the corporate witness of a marriage.
2. As believers in Jesus Christ, we know have the righteousness of God in us. Before God, we are justified.
3. This is point 5: Christian marriage is the environment for the greatest environment within which to respond to God. Two sinner
4. By executing His plan, we glorify God in our body.
5. So when to believers growing to maturity, unite in marriage; God is glorified.
6. That makes Christian marriage

7. The battle is between the married out and the schemes of Salf Satna does this in a myriad of ways. We can see the battle all around us sometimes.
8. The divine institution of marriage; feminism is one of the great attacks against marriage we need to breakdown the spiritual life so we know what is required as a spift. We need to know the problem solving devices from Freedom Through Military Victory. The advancing couple solve the problems of marriage, family and outside influence as a team, something which Adam and the woman failed to do. The advancing couple solves the problems of outside attacks. The advancing couple can be anvil... There is problem solving and you learn how to problem solve together. There is a unique and intimate interplay between the husband. This is the opportunity to be a corporate witness. God has provided this special relationship between two human beings for just this purpose. Husband and wife have a unique influence on each other like no other influence in life. This is the source of the influence. Two thinking and applying doctrine in synch instead of just one. Two people dancing in synch. They provide encouragement and refreshment for both. This tactical victory is the greatest which can be won in the human race.

Lesson #637 November 29, 2007

Thursday

Bobby was in a hurry last night, and he plans to complete v. 10 tonight.

The corporate witness of Christian marriage. How is authority orientation in the woman the ongoing appeal of Satan in the angelic conflict related to the corporate witness of Christian marriage? Where is the connection?

How Is this all Connected (A Summary)

1. In this verse, there is a clear relationship between the authority orientation of the woman, illustrated by the symbol of the head covering.
2. The woman's authority orientation is linked to the angelic observation of fallen mankind. This is integral to the appeal phrase of the angelic conflict. They are warriors and they are observers.
3. As the angels watch, authority orientation in the woman is demonstrating something to them. There is a demonstration going on by every Christian woman who is authority orientated. That is the point of this passage. She should be authority oriented because of the angels.
4. Part of the human witness in the appeal phase of the angelic conflict, for the divine prosecution of Satan and the fallen angels, is the demonstration of authority orientation by the woman. That is what this verse is talking about. If you don't think authority orientation is important, then you do not understand this verse.

5. The responsiveness and obedience of the woman either to her husband or to Satan has a fundamental affect on the conflict. This was true from the very beginning, from the first marriage, was the first battleground involving Satan and the woman and Adam. It continues to this very day.
6. Marriage embodies the basic structure of authority and authority orientation in the human race. Marriage teaches the basic structure of authority and authority orientation. The man woman part are indelibly linked in this chain of command. Man has the divinely accorded authority.
7. Christian marriage is the ultimate demonstration of leadership initiation by the husband. It is the ultimate demonstration of authority orientation and responsiveness in the wife. There is no better environment for leadership or authority orientation than in marriage.
8. Therefore, marriage is the embodiment of authority orientation centered in the wife. She is the greatest demonstration in authority orientation in the angelic conflict in the spiritual life. That is why this passage is here. The interaction of husband and wife becomes the corporate witness. The leadership is implied and corporate witness is being watched by the angels.
9. A large part of Satan's current tactical scheme and his opposition is to destroy the initiation and response of the husband and wife, just as he did with Adam and his wife. We probably won't fact an indwelt serpent, but every Christian marriage is attacked. This is what Bobby has been working toward; the doctrine of the angelic conflict explains so much; but this passage focuses directly on us and the married couple, starting with the wife.

There were some whiners from last night. So, a quick review of last night.

From Last Night

1. The corporate witness in Christian marriage is a rebuttal. It rebuts the failure of the first marriage precipitated by Satan's seduction of the woman.
  - a. Adam and the woman's marriage was an initial part of the appeal phase of the angelic conflict. God would show His justice and righteousness and love through theses new creatures.
  - b. His righteousness and justice are demonstrated in the authority options given to the first couple. There is justice and righteousness in this first mandate; and Satan and the angels were fully aware of what was going on.
  - c. Adam and the woman met the righteous requirements of God. God cannot create anything which is unrighteous.
  - d. God was just in allowing them the same choices as Satan, which demonstrated to the angels His justice. Human beings were given a fair chance in making their decision.
  - e. Justice and righteousness were also demonstrated when Adam and the woman rejected the love of God and all that He had provided for them.
2. God has lovingly designed the structure of marriage for their test.

- a. Adam would initiate and the woman would respond to him.
  - b. Authority in marriage was designed as resistance to disobedience to the divine viewpoint mandate.
  - c. Marriage was designed to pass so that the man and the woman could pass the authority orientation test. Would they both remain authority oriented.
  - d. God provided a protective domain and chain of command which excluded Satan and his schemes.
  - e. Adam and the woman would act with teamwork to repel Satan's seduction, as a team.
  - f. Adam's umbrella of protection was his initiation of love and leadership to the responder woman. Both were protect by doctrine in the soul. Adam was the spiritual leader there. The Christian husband is always the spiritual leader of the marriage.
3. Their successful corporate witness, they must respond positively; first to the teaching of the Word of God; Bible class every day. Secondly, the positive response required within the authority structure of marriage. These are integrally connected; intertwined, if you will. Their point of contact then became the justice and righteousness of God, when they reject His authority and provision, which was given in love. The 3 attributes working together for salvation. Everything which God does for us in conjunction with justice and righteousness could be defined as love.
  4. Christian marriage today is the opportunity to win back the ground lost at the fall.
  5. Christian marriage is the environment for the greatest opportunity to utilize that spiritual life.
  6. When husband and wife execute together the spiritual life, they glorify God, and they are an unbeatable team in the angelic conflict. There is no more beautiful sight to the eyes of the Lord and to those who watch; and a tactical victory that the fallen angels cannot stand. Two working in conjunction is a double-glorification of God.
  7. When two believers united in the divine design of marriage, God is glorified. Remember when He said, "When 2 or more are gathered in My name" ?
  8. The marriage is an intense battleground. Because it is a corporate witness in the angelic conflict, it is the focus. Women are a focus; the authority orientation is a focus.
  9. The battle is between the married couple and the schemes of Satan, who attempts to destroy the marriage structure in marriage. Satan wants to obscure and destroy this.
  10. So how then is a corporate witness accomplished? It is accomplished through the execution of the spiritual life.
  11. Husband and wife to grow and to use problem solving devices together; that is a corporate witness. When two people in the pressure cooker of marriage, that is a corporate witness.
  12. That is the supreme application of Bible doctrine and the means of the corporate witness. The means is the spiritual life and our execution of it and our application of it.

13. The advancing couple solve the problems of marriage, of family and outside influences as a team, applying doctrine to every circumstance. This is why God designed the first marriage.
14. The advancing couple can be mutual support for each other in spiritual growth, problem solving, raising a child in the ways of the Lord. The concept of the ezer. When one member of the team is not playing very well, the other picks up the slack.
15. There is a unique and intimate interplay between the husband and the wife with doctrine in the mix. Doctrine is the catalyst for the corporate victory. Without it, there is no corporate victory.
16. The corporate witness provides an elevated opportunity and an enhanced ability to apply the problem solving devices and to be a corporate witness. Together the husband and wife move forward and there is mutual support. When two are applying in one unit, you have something which is great.
17. God has provided this special authority relationship; He created for two human beings for just this corporate purpose. He provided the authority structure and the institution of marriage.
18. Husband and wife have a unique influence on each other; there is nothing like it. They demonstrate teamwork to the angels; what Adam and the woman did not.
19. Husband and wife had the privilege of applying doctrine. We have the privilege of seeing our spouse do the same thing. There is a great life as well; they advance as a team. It is a great tactical victory in the angelic conflict.
20. What a great thing it is to have a wife as an ezer. The symbol of authority over the head of the woman. It is a great thing when the husband demonstrates love and leadership. Both make mutual application of doctrine to marriage and to the circumstances of life. Satan despised this. Nothing makes him madder than seeing the corporate witness of a married couple. They are the highest witness of the Christian life. That is the guts of the corporate witness of marriage.

We now have the guts of the corporate witness. This is why Satan has a mission to overthrow the authority structure set up by God. The wife is the paramount demonstrator of authority orientation, which was the cause of the fall. When the wife rebels, Satan smiles. That is the example of a great failure of a witness.

The wife should study the wife of Job in the negative. Think about it when you are in rebellion. You probably have many reasons to be anti the husband's authority. Stay within the author envelope. You are being watched. Job was applying doctrine in his terrible circumstances; he lost everything and he sat on a pile of ashes and praised the Lord and everything. He still applied doctrine. He was an outstanding witness for the prosecution. His wife was a different story. She thought about herself only and was concerned for herself only. "Do you still hold on to your integrity, Job? Curse God and die." She questioned God's integrity and love. She was defeated. She lost everything. She lost all the material things in life and then she lost her corporate witness. Satan could not bring Job down, but he brought down Job's wife. This is the perfect example of a corporate witness which is broken.

Marriage is not just about sex and companionship. There is a very important aspect to marriage, which is companionship. But, it is more importantly about a tactical victory in the angelic conflict. We may not have a great physical relationship in marriage, but the tactical victory is greater. Victory in the corporate witness is a solidarity of doctrinal thinking; being of one mind concerning doctrine. That is demonstrated by the corporate use of the problem solving devices by the husband and wife.

There is no corporate witness in marriage between a believer and an unbeliever. This is another reason why you don't become unequally yoked. You take yourself right off the playing field unless you grow spiritually, in spite of the fact that you have no help. There is no spiritual life with an unbeliever, so there can be no corporate witness. The Christian husband and wife, therefore, have to go it alone in their spiritual life. The corporate witness in marriage is uphill all the way to the end. The believer married to an unbeliever becomes a sole witness. Like Job, a believer who stands alone. You can have some great impact; but you lose the great corporate witness.

A single, invisible hero has impact among the angels, and he reveals the intelligence, justice and righteousness and love of God. As married, you have the greatest opportunity for victory. That is the awesome spiritual aspect of the marriage.

There is another spiritual aspect. When two believers are married, but if one is immature, then the other must go it alone. There is little corporate witness in that respect. Just remember, as a believers with like minds, it is the best way to go. The issue of a corporate witness is tied to dual spiritual advance. Spiritual leadership or authority orientation cannot be understood in marriage, if one person is advancing, but the other is not. Spiritual dynamics in the Christian marriage is one of the greatest objectives in the Christian life. It is a unit of heroes; a company of heroes; invisible heroes. Where two people are closely connected in marriage, two sets of problems are involved; however, they can be solved corporately with doctrine.

Summary

1. A corporate witness is glorifying God in a way that Adam and the woman in the garden failed to do.
2. The greater the spiritual maturity, the more effective is the solo witness. It takes two solo witnesses to make up a corporate witness. You cannot be concerned about the spouse; you have to be the solo witness advancing, and pray that the other advances as well.
3. The greater the spiritual growth of the husband and wife, the greater the corporate witness, because of the angels.

1Cor. 11:11 Interdependency Lesson #638 December 2, 2007 Sunday 1

In most churches today, adoration is equated with emotion; and that is being self-centered; that is being centered on yourself and not on Christ. The only way to understand Him is to understand Christ through His Word.

We are now leaving the study of the angelic conflict. V. 11 takes a different tact: Yet, in the Lord, woman is not independent of man nor man independent of woman. In vv. 3–10 we have looked at the leadership and responder roles of the man and the woman. Here, Paul reveals the interdependency of man and woman. Is Paul now going soft? Is he the consummate politician, trying to head off any criticism? Paul is the straightest shooter anyone could imagine. Paul never leaves one subject in order to contradict it with another.

Man and women were not created to be independent of one another, either in marriage or outside of it.

Original sin was a failure of the corporate entity of Adam and the woman; a Christian marriage teaches the angels about God's love, justice and righteousness with their corporate witness..

The man and the woman, the husband and wife, are a team; and when one team member fails, they both fail. This can be seen in any athletic competition. One team member can blow it for the rest of the team. When either the husband or wife fails, it is a failure of the corporate witness.

Adam and Eve died spiritually as a result of their failure in marriage. This brought spiritual death to all mankind. When the team fails, there are a number of repercussions. You can regain the ground that the human race lost as a corporate witness. There can be setbacks during the game; but you can still be a winner. You can still pick yourself up and play to your maximum. A Christian couple as teammates must first grow spiritually together. In spiritual growth, two people in marriage become of like mind and it is most critical when there is the like-mindedness of the spiritual life. Without this, you lose the game; not just have a bad 2nd quarter. In marriage, when one fails, then the other is there to help them back up. One can uphold the other as a refreshment; with a doctrinal viewpoint. To bring the other one back when one of them is out of synch. This is not nagging; this is a reminder. When one is out of synch, then the other needs to step up. There is this double-ability here. When you get out of fellowship, you have a team support, mutual dependence which begins with Bible doctrine and extends to every other part of life. That is the corporate witness; encouraging one another in doctrine. Sometimes it is not spoken; sometimes, it is just stability in one person when the other is not. Solving problems together can begin with just one person solving the problems of their spiritual life.

There is a double-strength in Christian marriage and a double-vulnerability.

The first word is and it should be rendered besides. Plên (πλήν) [pronounced playn], which means save that, rather, yet, notwithstanding; 1) moreover, besides, but, nevertheless; 2) besides, except, but. Strong's and Thayer definitions. Strong's #4133.

There are two nouns here and two adverbs, but no verbs. Choris is repeated twice; an adverb. Choris = apart, without The literal rendering is Besides neither woman apart from man nor man apart from woman. So, why did Paul not use any verbs here? This makes this verse emphatic; it stands out. There is this interdependence; men and women cannot live apart from one another. A unique interdependence. There is also a symbiosis, which is a perfect word for the interrelationship between man and woman. It is the intimate living together of two kinds of organism where such an association is of mutual advantage. The man and the woman are the two organisms. We have souls, which makes us different from other living things. As a united couple, we are united for mutual advantage.

Christian marriage is the most spectacular relationship that can be, as long as both are growing. There is interdependency and the initiation-response. They must function as spiritually growing and functioning believers.

Ev Κύριος = in the Lord. This may be described as spherical: in the sphere of the Lord. This interdependency is the design for marriage which the Lord both sponsors and protects.

The man and the woman are indelibly linked; and this is how it has been from the very beginning. Gen. 3:22–23: And the man said, “This is now bone of my bone and flesh of my flesh; she will be called Ishshah because she was taken out of Ish [man].” For this cause a man will leave his father and mother and they will cleave to one another and become one flesh. This man and woman form a phalanx, a wall, which protects one another; and this includes close family relationships. This keeps away intrusions from family members.

Man, even with authority, never has the right to look down on the woman; interdependency precludes this. Man cannot disdain his own flesh. Man nourishes and cherishes his own flesh; and should treat the woman in the same way. Men and women have command over their own bodies, and they do not abuse their own bodies. The man and the woman present a shell to protect them from the outer world. Each gender is incomplete without the other. Each one brings something special to the team. Man lacks something alone; women lack when they are alone. When the woman came along, she fulfilled Adam; and Adam fulfilled her. When the team went awry, they went down the tubes.

The interdependence today is ridiculed; feminism, which bitterly opposes man’s leadership and the interdependency of marriage. “I am woman and I stand alone.” That is the mental attitude of feminism. We sleep together and we get up in the morning and go our separate ways. There is no interdependence; no mutual dependence. Most women respond more to their bosses than to their husband. A working woman might be tired of responding by the time she comes home.

Some today see marriage as anachronistic or some form of slavery. We have this opportunity beyond anyone else in this life. Being married and on doctrine, if we focus on doctrine, then everything else will fall into place. There is no one closer than your spouse, nor should there be. Continue to take in doctrine. Marriage is a necessity, as God’s design. There is the exception of the gift of celibacy, which Paul had. There are other benefits from this gift. Paul did not have a team, but his mission was overarching. Paul did not have time to build this interdependency. This marriage stuff takes time. Paul did not do this. That is not the norm. The norm is the interdependency of man and woman.

Counterfeit interdependency would be homosexuality, which is a huge attack on marriage. There is no interdependence between two men; and there is not authority orientation. Man is not designed to be a responder; and one must be a responder in a homosexual marriage. Adultery and fornication and lesbianism are all distortions of marriage. There is no independency with a one-night stand or with an affair.

1Co 11:11 Besides, neither is man without the woman, nor woman without the man, in the Lord.

1Cor. 11:11–12 Interdependency Lesson #639 Dec. 2, 2007 Sunday 2

Don't take the attitude that your married friends have everything going for them and you have nothing going on. You, as a single person, can respond to God; and you have the opportunity to develop your capacity. The interdependency always begins with the husband and wife growing spiritually. As soon as you move away from that, that is where the team falls apart. That is where the team begins to work at cross-purposes. When they grow together, there are two souls where there is integrity and capacity for life and love.

Sometimes, a relationship which begins with a burst of fireworks fizzles out; but that is a lack of character and integrity. This way, a relationship does not become boring or stale; but continues with great fulfillment.

When there is a constant change of partners, there is only self-gratification, egocentricity, and selfishness. There is no place in marriage for those characteristics. Do not automatically in your search choose looks over integrity. Beauty is in the eye of the beholder; what is beautiful to one person may not be beautiful to another. Do not look for material advantages over Bible doctrine. Some think, if I can just find that person with some material advantages; if they have all the things which I have wanted all my life. It would be wonderful if you partner had the great looks, the doctrine, and the material stuff.

Doctrine is primary and do not sell out for less. Do not sell out. It only takes one person. If that person is not on your horizon at this moment, don't sweat it. That person can come onto your horizon at any moment. As the woman originates from the man, so the man has interdependence with them.

Bobby can see everyone; he can see movement; he can recognize the shutters when they go down in the eyes. He sees us sleeping; ability to prop your head up when sleeping. That is why this auditorium was designed as it was designed, so that his predecessor could view the eyes of his audience. Bobby needs to exercise his gift and he needs to see the whites of our eyes.

1Cor. 11:11 Besides, neither [is] man without the woman, nor woman without the man, in the Lord.

V. 12 confirms the interpretation of v. 11. There is not a lessor status for the woman even though she occupies a subordinate role.

Tyranny is not independence. If you grow together, the husband understand leadership and the wife understands responsiveness. Eccles. 9:9 is the one way unbelievers can enjoy this life; marriage and the work that one does.

The first phrase is the woman originates from the man. Again, there are no verbs in this verse, so is an emphatic statement. There are 3 key prepositional phrases. The first is, εκ του ανδρος. The ablative singular from ανερ. Out of [from] the man. This refers to a beginning, an origin, a beginning. The woman out from the source of man. Gen. 2:21–22 is where this comes from. Woman is created for man's sake, which goes back to v. 9: For man was not created for woman's sake, but woman for man's. This is the woman's role as the responder. She is out from Adam, but she is definitely a part of Adam. There is this interdependence.

The second phrase deals with the woman. The connective particles ουτος και = even so, so also. They introduce a completion of the thought of the previous phrase woman out from the source of man, even so...

Then we have the phrase δια της γυναικος ever since, man was born out from a woman. Even our Lord had a human mother. The first statement of our Lord is found as the Seed of the woman. The point is, man cannot physically exist without being born of a woman. In the beginning, the woman sprang from man. Man owes both his existence, his birth, and his fulfillment to the woman. Even though man is created out of the woman, she is his fulfillment, his helper, his ezer. Man receives his biological existence from being born of a woman. God provides the soul life when the body emerges from the womb. We are all born from woman, but given life by God. The woman gives biological life, but not soul life. The two must be combined for the total life of a human being.

Εκ του θεου = out from the God. This is the third phrase; ablative case. All from the source of God. God is the overall causality of life. He is the sovereign causality of all creation. Without His creation, there is nothing, then and now. God's creation overrides the previous two prepositional phrases. Man from woman and woman from man; but God takes precedence over all.

We cannot forget for a moment the interdependence of man and woman; and this now includes the most important interdependence—God, Who is the ultimate source of man and woman. God has graced out both man and woman. The benefit includes the roles of initiator and responder and their interdependence; they go together. All from the source of God gives the total perspective here. God takes priority here.

Application for this Verse

Because man was created first, and woman second, he has priority. Therefore, she is the designated responder. However, man must never be contemptuous of her.

1. The woman has a certain equality even though she has a certain role. Man is born through woman. A woman should never bully a woman, show her contempt for her, or tyrannize her.
2. The interdependency is for him to revere her and to fulfill her.
3. God also designed a protection from the tyranny of man's authority.
4. Marriage is protection of the romantic love and of the nurture of intimacy.
5. It is the divine institution in which the interchange of man and woman is properly understood and exercised. If you understand marriage, it becomes the proper interchange of man and woman understood and exercised.
6. There is no artificial substitute for the marital relationship. Not homosexuality, not lesbianism and not just living together.
7. Marriage must be exercised according to the instructions found in Eph. 5:22–31. 1Cor. 11:11–12 gives us the rationale for the mutual exchange.

It is great to interpret these passages, but some of the real fun is coming up with the applications for them. The interdependence within the family unit, in motherhood and fatherhood. The mother in relation to her son; as the origin, the one who is the origin has the authority; and the mother has authority over her children. There are a lot of children nowadays running amuck (some of them in food fights). Mother and father named the child, which indicates authority. This is a sign of authority over the child. In the woman's capacity of motherly authority.

What is the relationship between the boy and his mother. Some women think they need to help their boy get in touch with his feminine side. That is a sure way to weaken his manhood. This destroys his manhood and destroys his leadership qualities. The woman brings a gentler side of life and life to her son, and she should do that. And she should give her son a perspective about the woman and how to respect her. This requires discipline. She teaches him how to respect her. The predominate way for her to teach is Bible doctrine.

Bobby's mother taught him more about Scripture at the beginning than Bob did. It is a great responsibility. It should never be taken lightly. His mom used to read him stories; and she made him learn Bible verses. Bobby hated it then, but he can pull them up now at will. She concentrated on how to be a man in the Lord. How do you treat women. That is needed today. What it means to love a woman. The mother must understand herself; the Biblical perspective.

Fathers should be illustrations of this in the home. The child learns his place; his mother teaches him and his father illustrates it to him. Children do need to be adopted. Without it, a child does not get the entire perspective. Sometimes, a single parent is the necessity.

The teaching of the mother and by the mother must include his masculine side and its relationship to her. There is no feminine side; he is a man and he must learn how to interact with a woman. A woman is not to feminize a man. Equality is not gained by feminizing the males of a country. One of the problems today is, feminism is, their boys are not raised to be leaders. They need to know how to love, respect and deal with women. In so teaching him, he begins to understand his role as a leader. In the meantime, the father teaches the boy masculinity from the male perspective. Boys today are confused because they only get teaching from the woman. The son needs to learn manliness and masculinity and see this in the husband's dealing with his own wife. Teach him and show him. A child does not learn this in prep school once a week.

The father teaches his daughter through virtue love and kindness; not with brutal authority or inappropriate authority. He needs to show this to his daughter and she will respond to this quality in her father. When the time comes, she will know how to respond to her husband and what to look for in a leader. Today, so many girls are clueless about leadership; they have never seen it; their fathers are not leaders; fathers may not be there.

When they are taught by the father love, and respect and shown what leadership is not; she will not need all this approbation from crappy guys. She will be secure in her father's love and protection. She will know what leadership is and she will value it. A daughter taught properly will recognize leadership and value it. Unfortunate men are not always available, or they do not know what to teach, or they are not leaders. Both men and women are necessary for the child's growth. You need the team.

There is no substitute. It is a Christian obligation as a corporate witness. Teach a child when he is young and he will not depart from it when he is old. You give the child the perspective from the male and female side.

1Cor. 11:12 For just as woman originates from man, so also man comes into existence through woman, but everything springs originally from God.

1Cor. 11:12

Lesson #640 December 5, 2007

Wednesday

The woman was created for the man's sake, and therefore, she is the ezer, the helper. This signifies her role as the responder. Adam's missing rib was returned to him as a partner in life. Yet, Adam had priority and authority in life. Every man has a mother, since that time, which confirms His true humanity, and yet a birth without a sin nature, so that He could be a mediator between God and man and so that He was qualified to go to the cross. He propitiated or satisfied the righteousness of God.

Man cannot physically exist without being born by a woman through that biological process. All men, apart from Adam, come from a woman. There is a mutual interdependence. There is an equality in this concept, which does not negate the initiator-responder rolls. These rolls and the interdependency and the origination all go together. And all things originate from God, which is from Whom we receive our human life, Who is the overall causality of life. He is the creator of all life. Creation by God overrides but does not negate the previous 2 phrases.

When Paul says all things originate from God, he is giving the Corinthians a reminder; to know Who the ultimate authority is in the universe. Paul throws in this fact, so that men and women do not get all uppity over what they are and can do.

Now, let's refocus on the man and the woman. There is a balance here: the woman originates from man, but all men come into life by means of the woman. These two phrases give a total perspective of men and women. Authority and authority orientation. There is an interdependency between the two genders. Woman cannot live without men and men cannot live without women. Both live in a protective envelop of authority and authority orientation. Marriage and family is one of the best ways to explain the interdependency of man and woman. Each gender is incomplete without the other. Each brings something to the table which the other one lacks. The mutual exchange and mutual respect. When they marry, they become a team, with one history and one destiny. They provide a mutual fulfillment for each other. Teamwork is critical for the husband and wife's role for motherhood and fatherhood.

The Mother to the Son

1. The mother has authority over the son while he is a child. She has priority over her child, even though he is a male. She and her husband named the child, which is also a sign of authority over the thing named.
2. So what perspective does a mother bring to her son?
  - a. She teaches him with the force of authority.
  - b. She teaches a gentler side of love and life; a feminine side, but not so that it gets him in touch with his feminine side.
  - c. She gives him a perspective about women in general and how to love and respect them (just as he loves and respects his mother).
  - d. She teaches him in relation to herself. He has no other contact with the female gender as a boy. He must learn from her how to treat a woman and how to have respect. Bobby's mom had an 18" ruler to pop him with.
3. The son's relationship to her as a child will be his model for his later relationships with women; particularly with his future wife.
4. What does he learn from his mother?
  - a. He must learn all about the responder and in learning about the responder, he will learn how to become an initiator.
  - b. Who she is in relationship to her as a leader. The parents have their own perspective of leadership to teach him.
  - c. He must learn gentleness, compassion, humility and these often from his mother.
  - d. Mothers are great teachers of young children, so she must also teach her son pertinent Biblical doctrines. Bobby has authority over men and women. However, mothers do have the authority over a son. If a son leaves home and is clueless about women, he will not be a leader but he will be a predator. He will have no respect, no compassion and no patience.

Negligent mothers will produce a tyrant or a whimp. The breakdown of society comes straight from the family.

5. The father with his son teaches masculinity to his son from the male perspective; something that no woman can give her son. In a divorce, a woman often gets custody.
  - a. Bobby is not talking about the macho male but the role men have in leadership. A boy learns leadership from his father.
  - b. The father must demonstrate masculinity and the qualities of leadership in relation to his own wife.
  - c. The boy needs a model from which to learn. No just do as I say, but do as I do. The father needs to spend time with his son on a 1 on 1 basis.
6. Father and daughter.
  - a. The father teaches his daughter as a leader should teach a responder; not in appropriately or brutally.
  - b. Treat her as he would treat his wife, in virtue love, and respect, and kindness and patience.
  - c. There must be firm leadership when necessary. Very tough when those big eyes are filled with tears.
  - d. If the man shows this leadership and virtue toward his daughter, if he is enough of a man with leadership, then, as a responder, this child will respond to these qualities in her father. Secondly, she will learn how to respond to these things in her husband. She will know what to look for in a leader. So many young girls today have no idea what to look for in a man. They want someone they can roll over and someone that they can push around.
  - e. If she gets this leadership from her father, she will not seek unrestrained approbation from boys or grow up to have a miserable series of bad relationships with men. A father has a lot to do with this.
  - f. This does not mean to just stand there with a shotgun when she comes home.
  - g. If he performs his role as a father, then she will learn security in her role with her father.
  - h. In he future relationships with men, she will settle for nothing less than the qualities which she finds in her father.
  - i. She will respond to this leadership. She will know what it is and value it. She will be able to recognize capacity in a man to love her; rather than spend time with a jerk with no capacity. She knows this because she has learned this from her own father.
7. Simultaneously, the mother teaches her daughter femininity. She teaches her how to be a responder and sh demonstrate the role of responder in her response in her role as a responder to her husband. These children learn more from watching that from hearing.
8. All of this is the importance of both parents in teaching their son.

- a. The son must learn to be a leader by seeing both perspectives.
  - b. As a leader, it is good to see the perspective of the woman who will be led. He needs to see both sides of leadership. Bobby has served with great officers and those who began as enlisted men knew what it was like to be a subordinate. These men led with greater understanding. It is the same for coaches who were players at one time. It is important to understand both sides of the coin. There must be a balance.
9. The daughter is in need of the perspective of both parents. This should be normal, but it is not today.
    - a. If she does not understand her role as a responder from both the father and the mother's viewpoint, she will fill the vacuum herself. She will respond to whatever is around her, because she will respond to what the rest of society tells her. Just look around and you can tell what she will be. Without both parents, she will have no strength of character.
  10. All this is why God has provided both a mother and a father for children; to teach both perspectives. Do not buy the idea that a child needs only one parent. If you are considering a divorce, think again and again and again and again.
  11. This is why God provided a mother and a father for a child, and they demonstrate in their own relationship, an initiator and a responder. It is all about teamwork. One may be a lineman and one might be the quarterback.

Each parent share the divine design of a husband and a wife; and this is part of their corporate witness to the angels. It is teaching your children. Bring them up in the ways of the Lord and he will not depart from it when he is old. there is nothing like a parent taching doctrine to a child. You can teach all different ages. Bobby has no clue how to do that. It really starts in the home. Bobby's mother taught him and she also taught neighborhood Bible clubs and many children believed in Jesus Christ through these classes. It does not matter how tired you are after work. The key to all this is the team advancing together spiritually. There is no substitute. Then the children can see two advancing together.

When a mother makes a statement, "I gave my child life" and thinks that means something. There is arrogance here. She is egotistically elevating herself her as a mother. All things original from God. Both the man and woman give biological life to their children; and the mother may be more invested in this way. However, at the moment of birth, there is no life without the source of God. Forget your role in childbirth and focus on your goal as a parent.

Focus on the training; do not focus on material things. If your children fail, the only place you should look is to yourself.

1Cor. 11:12 For just as woman originates from man, so also man comes into existence through woman, but all things originate with God.

The final distinction between the man and the woman is given in v. 13; and he does it with two questions. Paul first asks, “So, judge for yourself: is it proper for a woman to pray with her head uncovered?” aorist active imperative of κρίνω = to judge, to discern. Instrument pronoun of ἐν σοῦ. Discern by means of yourself.... Bounce this off the doctrine in your soul and determine if what I say is correct or not. In other words, you are going to believe based upon the discernment in your own soul. Is it fitting [or, proper]...? Paul has already given them this information. Paul has just answered this question for them. He was teaching the test in vv. 3–12. He should be able to answer this question immediately. Authority orientation is shown by the veil. It represented humility, decency, propriety in the culture of that day. They already know that they should do this. So, now, can they approach the throne of grace with anything but decorum, propriety and humility? This is proper and fitting. There is protocol. Do not ignore the conventions of propriety and decency. On the other hand, you do not take on an evil part of a culture, because you cannot make the discernment. Paul is saying hang on to the decency and propriety of the culture. Should you not also do that in the church? Of course you should. That is the whole point of this question. How could you not approach the sovereign of the universe apart from authority orientation. What are you women doing, coming into the church, and showing no authority orientation; showing no decorum, showing no respect. Just as you show respect and decorum in your society, so you behave in church. If it is true that there is humility in their souls, then they will exhibit authority orientation in all of their relationships. Then with the humility gathered from that approach, you can approach every other relationship with authority orientation. See how Paul is moving toward the inevitable conclusion.

The answer to his question is this: it is only fitting and proper for a woman to pray to God with her head covered, as a symbol of authority. Then Paul will illustrate the answer from nature. Paul will go to the natural head covering. Authority orientation in harmony with φύσις = nature. This will be the proof of the authority of the head covering. The head covering is the response of a grace orientated woman.

1Cor. 11:13 Judge for yourselves: is it proper for a wife to pray to God with her head uncovered?

Lesson #641 December 6, 2007

Thursday

it is a terrible inadequacy in your life to be without fixed norms and standards of Bible doctrine or if you have no criterion by which to make value judgments. Decisions based upon the norms and standards in your conscience, whatever they are. These judgments require you to compare your circumstances with specific criteria. However, with no norms and standards, then you have a shifting set of standards, a relativistic ethic, which defines the position of most Americans. Their norms and standards change based upon their moment by moment circumstances.

The standard we ought to have are the unchanging, absolute standards of Bible doctrine. Paul refers to that when he makes an appeal to the Corinthian women and he tells them to judge for yourself. This is a question asked by Paul to the Corinthian church, and it is based upon all that he has taught them in this letter. Each individual must come to his or her conclusion based upon the norms and standards in their souls. Their conclusion must be made on the standards of doctrine. Nothing should be relative in their conclusions. Those are the absolute, precise standards.

We should have implanted in our souls this doctrine. When it comes up, we too can make a value judgment based upon the norms and standards in our soul. Judge for yourselves, is it fitting (or proper)... Our society does not like value judgments, because the underlying principle is, there are no values. That is our society today. The plan of God is protocol with a fixed set of standards based upon Bible doctrine. It is in complete opposition to the lack of standards in our society.

Protocol is a fixed, long established code and convention mandating respect for authority and strict adherence to rank and precedence, and includes precisely correct procedure. God's protocol based on the system, order and precedence of His plan. We know what all of this is from the norms and standards of Bible doctrine in our souls. So we can make value judgments based upon the protocol in our souls. It is all a part of His system of authority. You cannot follow protocol without having respect for authority. The system of protocol begins in heaven but it has been delegated. He has also delegated in the spiritual realm, which information is found in the Bible.

Authority is delegated to the husband and to the pastor-teacher. We already have the authority and the authority orientation. The protocol of the plan of God is the value judgment which we must make. The protocol of praying with head uncovered. That doctrine is the basis for the Christian women of Corinth making judgments concerning women praying in church.

Remember, the deal was, there were women praying with uncovered heads. The veil illustration. It is fitting and proper. The attitude of prayer should always reflect authority orientation. The attitude of prayer reflects authority orientation in their souls.

1Cor. 11:13 Judge for yourselves: is it proper for a wife to pray to God with her head uncovered?

Paul is going to confirm this conclusion with another illustration. Paul will draw a conclusion from nature φυσος herself. The natural symbol of that authority is the length of hair. The last time that this was taught was a pretty long ago, and some of the guys had pretty long hair.

This is an illustration which will go beyond culture. This is a universal symbol which applies for all people during all eras of history. It is a wrap up of what Paul has been communicating since v. 3. Paul is linking the hair on the top of our heads with authority and authority orientation. The leader and the responder. The hair on the top of our heads is lined to that.

Paul assumes that there is this innate sense of protocol in the length of hair for men and women.

Introduction to this Long and Short Hair

1. Bobby is supposing that man and woman instinctively recognize this fact.
2. The man and the woman may not recognize how it classifies them, but inherently they recognize that it makes a difference of identification related to gender and the length of hair.
3. This is not just about long hair and feminine beauty. It goes way beyond the dictates of hair style.
4. This is a natural, no cultural. When Paul uses this illustration, Paul knows that they man and the woman will be. There is a distinction between the genders based upon the length of their hair.
5. There is a culture aspect to it as well.
6. The cultural aspect is the attitudes of people during the time when this was written.
7. That is what makes this an effective illustration. The cultural and natural aspects, just as the veil illustration was effective for them. This has a cultural aspect, but it transcends culture as well.
8. It is applicable to us as well. It is an effective illustration outside of the cultural example.
9. At the time that this was written, Jews, Greeks and Roman men all wore their hair short. The center of their life was their military. This was a warrior culture.

There was an eminent Roman author and satirist named Juvenal. He often ridiculed men with long hair. Literature reflects the culture of that time. These plays were quite popular. Long hair on a man then was considered to be feminine. Having said that, in all ages and in all societies, long hair on a woman has been considered an ornamentation. It was universally accepted as a norm for women. It was considered a mark of beauty; a natural as well as a cultural symbol. Paul was very attuned to the culture in which he lived. Long hair has always been a recognizable symbol of the woman. Paul had been throughout all of the Roman world, almost; and he understood the Roman customs.

Paul was able to connect their warrior culture and their support for this culture. Nothing stresses this sort of standard more than a military group. Greek and Roman culture defined during this time the significance of long and short hair on women and men. There were some exceptions, but, by and large, this principle was a solid part of their culture. The conquerors of the ancient world

How does Bobby know that the ancient world favored short hair on men. The coins of the woman times had the heads of Caesars and military. There were a lot of statues; and the Caesars were the pinnacle of authority.

What about Christians in that society? Were they revolutionary? There was some revolutionary thinking among the early Christians. Christians for the most part at this time period were not rebellious. They refused to give in when captured and they died. There were sculptures of Christians in the catacombs and these Christians had short hair. They were no long-haired revolutionaries.

The length of hair during the time was an indicator of the norms and standards of that culture and long hair on a male was considered to be less than masculine.

This would make a great dissertation to a PhD. The attitudes and norms and standards might be quite cute to examine together.

A few years ago in this country, the style of hair for men was very long; and it is that way today, to some extent.. Bobby remembers walking on the college campus and noticed it was that way.

The college students made up their own conventions.

1. Long hair on men or short hair on women is often a statement of individuality in opposition to the accepted norms of society. Anti-authority; anti-the conventions of the society in which they lived.
2. The length of hair stands out from the group who disapprove their appearance .
3. That is exactly why they wear long hair; to flaunt convention and rebel against the standards of that day.
4. A desire to be noticeably separate from their children in revolt accepted their anti-authority standards.
5. In their hair length they show antagonism.
6. Protest against societal establishment. In short long hair on a man and short hair on a woman are anti-establishment.
7. This type of individuality which rejects societal conventions, covers egocentricity.

If a man had long hair, it means that he accepts only his own authority. He will not accept norms and standards from anyone else. "Everything is relative; so I will make my own choices. Distrust authority. Since there is no humility in it, then it is filled with anti authority. It is anarchy of soul and rejection of authority. Short hair on a woman is a rejection of societal norms and it is against male. It indicates a reversal of roles.

This is an illustration of an authority oriented person; or someone who is disoriented to authority.

1Co 11:15 but if a woman has long hair, it is her glory? For her hair is given to her for a covering.

1Co 11:16 If anyone is inclined to be contentious, we have no such practice, nor do the churches of God.

1Cor. 11:14 The Long & Short of Long Hair #642 Dec. 9, 2007 Sunday 1

Bobby sings a chorus from the musical Hair. This was a product of the hippie counter culture and the sexual revolution of the 60's. Drug use, nudity, and anti-establishment themes were a part of this musical. Long hair was a part of that culture. The most visible symbol of rebellion at that time was long hair on men. There was also the unrestrained individuality and the reason for such nonconformist behavior was to show antagonism and protest against the establishment. Long hair in men was the symbol of anti-establishment thinking at the time. For those kids, anti-establishment thinking was a virtue. Extreme self-centeredness and egocentricity. Their scope rarely went beyond their own desires and self-gratification. There was an anarchy of soul which rejected all authority but their own. Long hair in men was an indicator of anti-establishment thinking. Many people destroyed themselves with that attitude and with the symbols of that attitude. Hair was not confined to just that time period in history. Here, our passage reads: Does not even nature herself teach you that if a man has long hair, it is a dishonor to him?

In the culture of that day, men wore their hair short, despite the revisionist history. The evidence is this. The art and the literature of that era confirm that fact. Juvenal wrote in that time, ridiculed men who had long hair in his plays. The statues at the time had mostly short hair. On the coins of the realm, there were stamped coins with pictures of the various Caesars, and they had short hair. They were the pinnacle of masculinity. The catacombs were caves where the Christians hid, because the Romans saw their religion as something which should be wiped out. Roman and Greek culture at the time was a warrior culture and their soldiers had short hair. The Roman army epitomized masculinity and they had short hair.

Long hair for men was outside the accepted standards of the society. The short hair of the Romans was a standard of their culture. Paul was a Roman citizen and he was very hooked into the culture of his day.

Paul just used the veil, which was a standard article of clothing. Paul understood the symbols of authority orientation and he also used these symbols elsewhere. Paul spent much of his time as a prisoner under the Praetorium guard, and he understood them and spoke of them. The military is always a very authority oriented culture. There are less structured military groups, like irregulars and

A revolutionary, at one time, was Che Guevara is an example of an anti-authority military man, and he has long hair. Paul's illustration of hair can be applied by all Christians at all times. People have a natural understanding of the gender specific short and long hair. We associate short hair with a man's masculinity; and long hair with women is for beauty and femininity.

The point of these next two verses is, long hair represents revolt against authority with men. This is Paul's illustration known and understood culturally at the time. It has a universal application to all of us. We innately and naturally associate long hair with women and short hair with men.

Our nation's founding fathers did have longer hair. What about that? Was Paul not quite right or were they not quite right? In one sense, our founding fathers were not authority oriented. They were in rebellion against the mother country, England, whether this is justified or not. They were anti-establishment in relation to the mother country. However, among themselves, they seem to understand authority (at least, military authority). Even though these were rebels, they were not trying to destroy England's power. The long hair was a fashion thing at that time. These styles probably came with them from England, which represents anti-establishment as well. Clearly, the founding fathers thought of themselves as being authority oriented; that was their heritage from England. It was difficult for them to separate from England. Probably, women still had longer hair. The long and short hair does reflect a certain attitude of people and cultures. The reversal of the roles of men and women can be readily observed by long and short hair. Hair length can definitely be an anti-authority demonstration.

Authority Orientation and Long Hair

1. Hair length as an indicator is not just of free-thinking, although they would want you to think that. Since the 1960's, this is how many view hair.
2. When you listen to just your own authority, that is self-centered and arrogant.
3. Arrogance is anti-authority by definition.
4. Such thinking always places one's own agenda above all others—including above God's plan.

Generally, long and short hair is an identifier of gender.

Often, long hair is an indicator of rebellion and anti-authority. If it represents arrogance, a man is likely to be self-centered and self-absorbed. The anarchy of soul leads toward tyranny of others. A man like this will not make a good bf or a good husband. He needs doctrine so that he can get his eyes off of himself.

The woman who rejects the authority of her pastor and her husband; arrogance in the woman. Authority orientation requires submission to some outside authority. Submitting to your own authority is not authority orientation.

The length of one's hair tells us something about the souls of the person with the hair. When those roles are reversed, there is often a reversal of hair length. Long hair on a man is a sign of emotional revolt and reversionism. He is wearing the women's responder. The man might wear long hair because the women like it. That, in itself, is a feminine response; possibly with some ego thrown in.

didn't Sampson have long hair? Wasn't he God's man? His long hair was a symbol of authority orientation. The Nazirites and Samson were clearly exceptions. They were personally directed by God to keep their hair long as a response to God.

Bobby was observing the length of hair of those who came in this morning. By and large, most of the men have shorter hair and most ladies have longer hair.

What is too short and what is too long? There is not an absolutely definitive answer to this. However, Bobby will, in the next hour, give the most definitive answer that he can.

1Cor. 11:14 Does not nature itself teach you that if a man wears long hair it is a disgrace for him,...

1Cor. 11:14–15 Long & Short Hair Lesson #643 Dec 9, 2007

Sunday 2

One with long hair who was sleeping under the flag pole. Bob told some deacon, you either find a home for this guy, or he moves in with you. This guy is apparently the head of the prep school or a teacher over there. He responded to authority.

Long hair on a man represents authority disorientation. A woman's long hair represents her authority orientation.

Let's explore the logic of long hair and short hair. Recognize that hair is a symbol of authority and authority orientation. It is a meaningful symbol and it represents the soul of the man and the woman. They reflect the attitudes of the soul. As believers in Jesus Christ, we have a witness before the world. Inherently, people recognize that long hair belongs to a woman and short to a man; and when the symbols get reversed, there is a reversal of souls in the culture.

The obvious question is, how long is too long and how short is too short. Bob simply said that in a marriage, the husband's hair should be shorter than the wife's hair. Bobby is going to take a bit different tact here.

1Cor. 11:14 Does not nature itself teach you that if a man wears long hair it is a disgrace for him,...

Having said that, what can Bobby say about the length of hair for a woman?

What About Long Hair and the Woman?

1. Long hair is correct for a woman because it reflects her authority orientation.
2. A woman's long hair is her natural adornment; her natural covering which sets her apart from man in a beautiful responding way.
3. Cross culturally andn throughout history, this is generally true.
4. Long hair is considered a womanly ornament. It is graceful, it is feminine and it is soft. It is the ideal covering for a woman.
5. A caveat: woman can have long hair and be none of these things. The symbol should reflect such an attitude, but it does not always indicate that.
6. Some women can wear relatively short hair and be stylish and attractive.
7. Here is the distinguisher, in Bobby's eyes: there is a point where a woman's hair becomes masculine, and at that point, it is too short. However, most of us can look at a woman with hair that is too short and say, that is too short.

8. A woman should be identifiable by her hair. So, Bobby's viewpoint of what is too short, is the look at the appearance and femininity. Shorter hair can be feminine. It should be recognizable as feminine.

What about Long Hair on Men?

1. Short hair on men represents being uncovered. This is a sign of the man's authority, which is divinely given to him.
2. Short hair represents a man's masculinity and leadership in relationship to the woman. It is masculinity and the opposite is not.
3. There is a point where a man's hair reaches a length where his hair takes on a feminine look. Upon observation, it becomes obvious. When it is too long, it takes on the appearance of femininity. It is an outward symbol of a reversal of roles. This becomes more pronounced with the increasing of length.

The gender of a man or a woman should be identifiable by the length of one's hair. These are symbols of different gender roles. Paul is using hair symbolically. Symbols of literal meanings, which is what Paul is going for here. Everyone in the society of Corinth and in the Roman culture understand long and short hair. When a Roman legion walked by, you knew these were men. The Caesar's wore their hair short, for the most part, and they represented authority. Both long hair and short hair represent different gender rules and it was understood in the time Paul wrote.

After all, I can wear long hair and be a great leader? Aren't there great soldiers who had long hair? Bobby is not going to deal with individuals throughout history. This is a divinely appointed role, and a symbol which reveals this role. A special appeal concerning the covering or the uncovering of the hair. Symbols in the society and what they mean here.

This is a cross-cultural symbol which made sense then and is still able to be understood today. And this was divinely inspired by God the Holy Spirit and such is the Word of God. If a woman wears relatively short hair, but is authority oriented and a responder, that is what counts. However, we should not view symbols as being insignificant. If a woman wears short hair, as a sign of her feminism or a sign of her independence from men or the sign she is a lesbian, she is in direct opposition to the divine design for women. A man with long hair, there is a lot less wiggle room and it is fairly obvious.

You know what is supposed to happen here; you know the man is the leader and the woman is the responder. What Paul is saying here is, here is an illustration of authority and authority orientation; and he is not railing against long or short hair.

A woman with long hair, this is a glory to her.

$\Delta\omicron\xi\alpha$  = honor or praise resulting in a good opinion which brings recognition and renown to a person. This fits many aspects of life. Anyone who has success in life or is victorious in some realm, has some form of glory; this occurs whenever someone has approval for someone else whose deeds stand out as having accomplished something great. Glory can also represent approbation, which can be a great pitfall when there is a lot of it or a great desire for it. Approbation only lasts until the next victory. He might be the victor on one day and the loser on the next day. When a coach does not have enough victories, he is gone. Δοξα here refers particularly to the woman. The woman here is associated with glory and she conspicuously dramatizes a doctrinal principle, which is the leadership and authority of the man.

There is leadership and response, and that is what is going on here. The beauty of long hair and that is the responsiveness of a woman. The woman is the responder to the man. Therefore, she is the glory of the man. What is the symbol of this? Hair. Responsiveness, glory, hair, women and men are all contained here. Our context has a whole different look. Long hair in itself is not an accomplishment. However, keeping it does require work. A woman might have short hair so you can blow and go. You don't walk into some place and say, "Look what I have grown!" For a woman, this can even be a symbol of pride; not a vainglorious ego-boost, but that the woman represents a picture of authority orientation, which represents the pride of the man. This is the definition of humility. The woman's pride is in the fulfillment of the plan of God for her life. You do not accomplish hair. It is a perfect illustration, as long as you understand what it means.

The long hair represents a woman's capacity to love and to respond to her husband. It just screams responsiveness to her man. It symbolizes her responsiveness to her husband and her acceptance of God's plan for her life. Don't get upset if your hair is shorter than the person next to you; as the idea is a symbol. If your hair at present length symbolizes beauty and femininity.

Outside Berachah, this is rejected. A woman can be a woman of accomplishment and still be authority oriented. There is nothing fleeting about the glory of the woman. In that glory and in that responsiveness, is the glory with an eternal value. When the woman fulfills her responsibility toward the Lord. What is important? The approbation for a few moments from this or that person or for the eternal value of one's life and actions? The long hair is a reflection of the capacity of the soul of the woman as a total responder who lives inside the divine design. This glory is a symbol to the world of her recognition of authority orientation. Then she is the glory of man and she glorifies God inside her plan. You cannot escape the roles which God has given man and woman. I don't care what kind of flack you get at work; you cannot escape the roles designated by God for you. They are real, they are absolute, and they are mandated.

Her long hair is given as an enveloping symbol. Περιβολιον = 1) a covering thrown around, a wrapper; 1a) a mantle; 1b) a veil. Why aren't women wearing hats right now in the church service? That is another big question to answer, but it is complicated. It is not necessary for a woman to wear a veil or a hat in church. The veil is a cultural symbol which meant something different than it does now. It is a meaningless symbol, Biblically speaking. Bobby will give a long look at why a hat is not for the ladies, but long hair is.

Wednesday

The man is not to become the ezer; this is for the woman. The man is not to have a feminine soul. He is the leader, with all the characteristics and qualities of a leader. It demands obligations of the man as the leader. It is a dishonor to the man to become a responder. The reversal of roles for the man and the woman. There is a correspondence between long hair on the man and rebellion. He shows himself to be a responder by growing the symbol of femininity. He is operating with the soul of a woman. He is to remain uncovered; without a veil. The analogy from nature is short hair.

There is a cultural analogy and a natural analogy. Simply by having short hair does not make a man a man; however, having long hair does indicate some femininity in his soul. Long hair is indicative of a responder. If a man has long hair, there is something in his soul which is not right. Short hair does not mean a man is right in his soul; but long hair definitely indicates a problem.

What is hair that is too long? What is the right length? What length is indicative of a responder. This answer is indistinct. There is no definitive length. The length that negates his masculinity is that which approximates that of a woman is too long. There is probably something to a man's hair being less than his wife's hair, but they can both be long. There is a feminine look in long hair; there is an innate feminine quality in long hair. When one recognizes this look of femininity, the hair is too long. This is a man with chaos in his soul; a soul in rebellion. That relationship between a man and a woman cannot be what God intended; it cannot be a good relationship without these roles being observed. A man with long hair flaunts the conventions of society in general. Bobby grew up at a time when long hair was in vogue; and the men were in rebellion against establishment. A man who accepts no authority but his own. That is total arrogance. When a man gets in that situation, you can see the arrogance come out of him.

We have had two mass shootings in the past 2 weeks. Two men who felt they were disrespected; and what happened? Arrogance. They decided that they were the authorities and that no one should cross them. This is how far their soul reaction took them. They were women in their souls. They reacted to their circumstances in the extreme. Both with long hair.

The man who wears his hair long because women like it is responding to a woman. It is more important to him how the woman views him as opposed to being a man, indicates that he is a responder in his soul. An anti-authority reactor. If you are anti-authority as a man, it is a dishonor. Every man with long hair is anti-authority. They have that bent. It is a dishonor to a man. To be honorable, they must fulfill their role as a man.

1Cor. 11:14 Does not nature itself teach you that if a man wears long hair it is a disgrace for him,

v. 15 addresses the woman and her hair length. The woman's modesty, her adornment which sets her apart from man is her long hair. It is a disgrace for her. Her long hair reflects her role as a woman. Her long hair is a sign of her glory. The Greek word is δοξα = a woman who conspicuously feminizes; she conspicuously dramatizes through a personal symbol the doctrinal principle of her role as a responder. It is a disgrace for her not to represent this. The length of hair is the symbol of her beauty. It is not just physical, but it is a reflection of faithfulness to the plan of God. It is a beautiful symbol.

How many times do you look in the mirror and say, "This is my symbol of the role which I play in the plan of God." Instead of looking at your hair and saying, "I wish it would do this, instead of that." Your hair is always beautiful. Long hair also reflects that great beauty of one's soul. How long is long and how short is too short?

When a woman's hair approximates that of a man, then it is innately masculine; and it is something which we innately recognize as masculine. A woman without the long hair means that her head is uncovered. The long hair is a symbol of her femininity. Short hair represents a woman who is out of synch with her role as a woman. It should be clear when you see it, that a woman's hair is too short. Her soul is in reaction; she is anti-authority. There is a connection between hair length and what is in the soul. Short hair on a woman represents something which is not conventional, which is not responsive, which is masculine. Under these circumstances, if a woman is unsure about the length of her hair, then she ought to examine her own soul. You don't first think about growing it longer, but you determine what is in your own soul. Whether a woman has long or short hair, the issue is what is in her soul. A woman can be rebellious with hair of any length.

A woman's long hair is a symbol to the world of her response to her husband.

The final phrase of v. 15 is: Her hair is given to her for a covering. Περιοβολαιον = a covering. This is a different word than is used in the previous verse, κατακαλυπτω, which means head covering. However, this difference in words does not mean that hair is the replacement for veils. This does not mean that the veil could be done away with. In that culture, the veil was necessary, even though she had long hair. If the long hair replaced the veil, it would defeat the whole purpose of the previous veil reference. The woman dispensing with the veil was an anti-authority act during that time period. The Corinthian women threw off the veil because they were now free in Christ and they were not wearing the veil in church. The world looked at these women and saw them as anti-authority. Throwing conventions aside is exactly the wrong message to send. You can throw aside conventions when they are evil; but we are not called to throw aside cultural norms.

The woman who threw aside her veil, and this was a violation of convention and culture and it appeared as though they had no authority orientation. Such a woman could have long hair and throw off the veil and still be authority oriented. Her rejection of the veil was a rejection of authority. The cultural symbol is the veil. But neither illustration excludes the other; and neither replaces the other.

Summary

1. Just as a woman has a covering in the physical realm, so she should have a covering in the spiritual realm, which is the veil in the worship service.
2. The hair in the natural realm is the veil in the spiritual realm.
3. Both illustrations represent authority orientation in all realms of life: cultural, public, church and home.
4. This is where the Christian woman's relation to God and to her husband and to society are all related. The relation is authority orientation.
5. Nature, doctrine and authority orientation meet in the male/female relationships. This is why it is such a great illustration.
6. Hair does not replace the head covering in the church in the time in which it is written, as it does today.
7. The hair and the veil, both of the illustrations, illustrate the importance of authority orientation in male/female relationships and in the church.
8. How important is this? If the woman does not recognize divine authority, neither will she recognize her husband's authority or a sign to anyone else.
9. The man's short hair or being uncovered. This is his own recognition of his own authority in the church and in the home.
10. It is also a recognition of his positive volition toward the epog.
11. It is a symbol of his capacity to initiate love toward his wife.

Bobby will get into why women are not wearing veils in public now in Berachah.

Symbolism is important. It indicates how you think and how other people think. This is Paul's doctrinal meaning in these illustrations.

A Contemporary Application for us. The question is not should this doctrine be applied literally; all doctrine should be applied in all eras. The veil had meaning in this previous century. The real question should be what is the principle that we apply today? We need to understand what we are to take from this? Do women wear veils in churches today. Paul tells these women, "you must wear the veil." Is this the literal meaning? The woman today does not have to wear a veil today; but some do, so why don't we have to do this. If you walk down the street today with a veil today, you will be taken for a Muslim. It no longer has that meaning. There is a doctrinal principle to be drawn from this head covering. We should understand why they had to do it then, but why we do not have to do it in the year 2007, even though we might be authority oriented. It is too complex to begin now, so it will be tomorrow night.

Lesson #645 December 13, 2007

flat tire

Tonight is going to be tougher than general, like last night.

The veil was worn in the ancient world as a cultural thing. A shaved head on a woman indicated that a woman was not authority oriented. In the analogy, it is not different from wearing the veil. The length of hair is one illustration and the veil are both illustrations.

There is a shame in having a shaved head for a woman.

1Co 11:6 For if a woman is not veiled, let her also be shorn. But if it is shameful for a woman to be shorn, or to be shaved, let her be veiled.

Honor and disgrace, dishonor and disgrace all are linked together here. Paul wants them not to be disgraced. He wants them to wear the veil. Clearly this is a problem. How would she be disgraced?

1. Cultural standard of a woman who is authority oriented.
2. This is a woman who sheds an article of clothing which is well-accepted. Shedding a veil does not seem to be a problem, but in this case it is a problem. Shedding the veil is going against the norms and standards of that day.
3. That article of clothing illustrated authority orientation. It was a symbol of excellent conduct in a woman. People often rebel against any norms and standard, whether good or not. The same thing was going on with the Christian women in Corinth, who were shedding this veil.
4. No Christian has a right to be defiant toward divine establishment. So many times morality becomes hypocrisy and then moves into the realm of
5. The veil is a custom that Christian women in Corinth ought to follow. But this also carries over to wearing the veil in church. It represents exactly the same thing. In the church, it is a veil which demonstrates authority orientation in the church.

Could this be a cultural norm and standard which was fading away? And Paul is dealing with a fading custom?

All of these illustrations represent authority-orientation. The women had simply thrown off their veils and they were sending the wrong message to others in Corinth, by throwing off their symbol of authority orientation. They read Galatians and they misunderstood their freedom in Christ. They realized that they were no longer under all of that. They were traipsing through town without their veils. The message to them was to put the veil back on, as it is a sign of honor and authority-orientation. And women keep your hair long and men keep it short.

What About Right Now?

1. This illustration of long and short hair applies as much today as it did then.

2. Hair is a natural illustration of authority-orientation. It hold true today. Long hair on a man, authority disorientation; short hair on a woman, authority disorientation, and rebellion.
3. This hair illustration has meaning cross culturally and across the eras of time. It does not matter the culture and it does not matter the age.
4. Hair length in every age separates men from women. It is a separator. A friend and Bobby were reviewing their associations with short-haired women and long-haired men, and every time, there would be a soul kink with respect to authority.
5. Hair length continues to carry an innate differentiation between men and women.
6. Hair length is a natural indicator of the leader, responder roles. This is what makes it a separator. If a man is wearing long hair to please a woman, he is responding to her, not leading her.

The hair is cross-cultural and good for all eras; what about the veil illustration? Paul is definitely mandating in this passage that Christian women wear a veil in the street and in the church. It is the correct thing to do; the spiritually correct thing to do. Is Paul looking us in the eye and telling the women to put veils back on? After all, this is divinely inspired Scripture. You cannot excuse yourself from doctrinal application because there is a cultural issue involved here. You cannot say, this is a cultural thing, so I will disregard it. There is always an application. So, how do we distinguish cultural from doctrinal principles? How do we know when a cultural principle is applicable to us or not. Is it necessary for us? We need to know what our obligation is, as authority-orientated women versus a cultural norm of the time. You do not get to ignore doctrinal principles. The woman must reflect in symbol and attitude and being authority oriented toward her husband. Symbols are important. Bobby, to explain this, must summarize our passage. The real concentration begins here. This issue of head-covering introduces a doctrinal principle for that time which may or may not hold true for today. Exactly what is that principle which is normative for us today? If by wearing a certain symbol, we can let people know we are learning doctrine and that we understand our role as women, that is a good thing. If it is the way to show we are authority oriented to God, to Christ, to man, isn't that a good thing?

Complex Explanation: How to Apply Doctrine Written 2000 Years ago with Ancient Culture

1. Paul was telling them to wear head-covering as a universal sign of male-female difference or
2. ...he was telling them to wear the proper cultural symbol of male/female difference.
3. In the first option, the universal sign, Paul would be commending head covering for all generations of the church.
4. If it is the second option, then Paul was saying, "Don't throw out the culturally accepted symbol of male/female distinctions.

5. That second option would be directed specifically to the Corinthian women in the time in which it was written. The first option to all of us and the second to a specific time and place?

Which is It?

1. We have already concluded from this passage that Paul did require Christian women in Corinth to wear a covering
2. The Christian woman was to cover her head as an acknowledgment of her role of a woman under authority. It does not matter the sign, the role is a doctrinal principle. Paul said, "Here is your sign, cover your head."
3. By wearing her veil, she symbolizes her role as the helper. The one who responds to his leadership and authority. These are doctrinal principles. That is what she is signifying with the veil that she is wearing.
4. The man is not to wear a covering because he reflects God's glory and divinely designated authority and leadership. So that is doctrine.
5. Paul is requiring apropos attire which reflects cultural norms and the divine design for men and women. The veil illustrated both.
6. In the time that this was written, head covering, the veil, was both a culturally specific symbol and a Christian worship requirement in the church.
7. Head covering or the lack thereof was the distinctive sign of men and women from that era. Hence it had specific meaning to that period. The cultural principle linked to the doctrinal principle.

Doctrinal Principle versus the Cultural Principle

1. The doctrinal distinction is true for all time, and there is a specific role for men and women as designed by God, leader responder. That is a divinely designed principle.
2. Head-covering was a sign of honor accepted in the Corinthian culture, which these Christian women were a part.
3. She was to wear the normal expression of male/female distinction outside of the church. You do not leave the cultural symbol off; you wear it outside of the church, which identified her as a authority oriented woman.
4. But in wearing the covering in church, she was also reflecting the Biblical doctrine of male/female roles. She wore it in the street and it was a symbol of that time.
5. Although the head covering represents male/female distinctions, one application is for that time only, the veil. Another application is for all time, including ours.
6. You are not a part of that culture, but we fall under the Biblical principle of authority-orientation.

Here's the Point Bobby is making

1. What is the application of the veil at our time?

2. To require women today to wear head covering as Paul did is to ask women to do something which has no significance today. If we walked out of the church with a veil, it has no significance in our culture (unless you are a Muslim). The symbol has to have meaning.
3. What was normal for them is abnormal for us. Now we are drawing that distinction. What is applicable to you in all of this? What is normal for them is abnormal to us.
4. Head-covering in public today does not mean what it did back in those days, except with Muslims, with whom you do not want to be identified.
5. Public head covering has no meaning for the culture in which we live.
6. Bottom line: veils are a dead issue today. Why does this matter? There are lots of churches which require head coverings for just this reason and places where culturally that is accepted, even in Christian circles. It has no meaning to day here.
7. In the tday, Christian women were to reflect their female role in the normal way of the society. Their veil identified them with honor and propriety, which is a good thing.
8. They were also required by wearing the veil to reflect the creative order and the authority-orientation stated from v. 3 on.
9. The universal principle is what we must reflect today; not the cultural symbol. Normative for all eras.
10. So, the doctrinal principle of this passage is valid today, even though the literal, cultural meaning of wearing head coverings in the church is not applicable. The veil is not applicable any more; the doctrinal principle that it represents has significance to us.
11. The universal concept of authority orientation of women, which is for us as well.

Today, we are to reflect the doctrine of authority-orientation. Bobby has given us a lesson in hermeneutics, a passage which is steeped in culture and yet has meaning for us.

1Co 11:14 Or does not nature herself teach you that if a man indeed wears long hair, it is a dishonor to him?

1Co 11:15 But if a woman wears her hair long, it is a glory to her; because the hair has been given to her instead of a veil.

Maybe the veil had meaning for that particular culture, but they were being exposed to others without that symbol. Corinth was a trading town and many cultures intersected here.

1Cor. 11:3, 6, 14–15    Lesson #646    December 16, 2007

Bobby will depart and go to a Christmas message for a few sessions. Christmas is a reminder of what we have every day as believers in Jesus Christ.

We are coming to the end of our study of authority orientation. Some will be glad for the reprieve and you may not like authority. During this study you must objectively consider this subject from the Biblical viewpoint. As a believer in Jesus Christ, you cannot afford to ignore the Biblical viewpoint. The Biblical view of authority stands in stark contrast to society's view of authority. It is an integral part of divine establishment. Without authority, our world breaks down into degeneracy and chaos. Despite the fact that there is so much anti-establishment thinking, we still live in a country of authority and law. Such thinking has taken its toll. It is everywhere around us, and it will be the unraveling of our freedom. There is a lot of anarchy in this country from the top down. Much of the world has distorted legitimate authority into dictatorships; or, in the other way, there is great anarchy. These distortions and confusions are all around us. So we must be very clear about the divine intent and use of authority. We have an obligation to exercise authority properly and to be authority oriented in all areas even as we are to our Lord Jesus Christ.

1Co. 11:3–15 is one of the most detailed messages on authority. The Bible carries its own absolute authority. Rebelling against that authority always begins with rebelling against God's Word. Being anti-authority is being anti-God. All authority begins with God. To the extent with which we are anti God's Word, we are anti-authority.

We began in v. 3:

1Co 11:3 But I want you to understand that the head of every man is Christ, the head of a wife is her husband, and the head of Christ is God.

The next set of verses concentrate on those final things. They are combined in v. 6:

1Co 11:6 For if a wife will not cover her head, then she should cut her hair short. But since it is disgraceful for a wife to cut off her hair or shave her head, let her cover her head.

The length of hair is related to authority orientation. The veil represents something in that time period. It represents her sense of propriety and her authority orientation, in that culture and in that day. An uncovered head represented her rebelling against and usurping authority. The veil is very culturally related.

It is just as disgraceful to remove this veil covering as it is to cut off the woman's hair. The doctrine which is being taught is cross-cultural.

why does hair length make a difference? Why didn't Paul just say, be authority oriented? It would not have been as effective as the illustration of long and short hair. When Bobby begins to look at a principle or a doctrine, often something will occur to him that has happened to him or to someone that he knows, which illustrates what he is studying.

The man has short hair in order to indicate that he understands authority; and the woman has long hair to indicate that she understands authority. A man with long hair indicates that he has abdicated his role as the authority figure. Authority and authority orientation is valid today just as it was 2000 years ago. A man with long hair has become a responder.

These are Paul's two illustrations. Both a veil and hair length are symbols: one cultural and one natural; and they both symbolize authority orientation.

The ladies of Corinth understood immediately the veil illustration; they were free in Christ, as Gal. 3:28 indicates. However, Paul is admonishing them to wear a veil. He is also saying, "Keep your hair long, women; and, men, keep your hair short." You must also be authority oriented at the same time. Reality must always be behind the symbolism.

Paul also understood that he was writing doctrine for all time, so he took a universal symbol of authority, understood then and now. We don't know about veils now; but hair does mean something. The principle of long hair and short hair represented the roles of men and women in that time. Hair is a natural illustration of authority orientation. It was true then and it is true to this very moment. This is despite that this distinction has been blurred.

Where is the dividing line between long and short hair? When the hair is long so that it makes the man look feminine, then it is too long; if the hair is short and makes a woman look masculine, then it is too short. Hair length reflects a person's thinking. The cultural is invalid today—the head covering in the society of Corinth. The universal doctrine is always valid.

What is our practical application from this passage? Women are not being directed by Paul to have a head covering, either in church or on the street. Authority orientation is represented by a symbol. Throwing off the symbol itself is an act of rebellion. Therefore, symbols must be taken very seriously. In our passage, long hair in the woman, short hair in the man. We comply with the hair length, but mostly with the authority orientation.

The doctrine is the universal principle of authority orientation. You must compromise the doctrine of leader and subordinate; initiator and responder. Authority orientation is a universal doctrine normative for all time.

We see all around us today the violations of this Biblical doctrine. What comes to mind immediately is a woman who ignores authority orientation and is ordained as a pastor; or a woman who has short hair to look masculine; or a man who wears his hair long. The man who wants to gain the interest of a woman through his nice long hair. Men who wear long hair as a symbol of his homosexuality or a woman who wears short hair to indicate that she is a lesbian. The Christian woman should avoid certain culturally driven fashions which contradict authority orientation. Do not dress in such a way to violate protocol or rebellion (like a whole generation of radical feminists or the hippie culture). Dressing erotically or provocatively in public. Of course, this is ambiguous. You may not intend eroticism; you may just have bad taste or inappropriate taste. Check your motivation; why am I putting this on. What does certain attire say about me as a Christian woman who is authority oriented? "Am I more driven by society than by the norms and standards in my soul?"

Paul says, "I want women to adorn themselves with proper clothing, modestly and discretely." Do not follow trends which reverse your role as a Christian woman under authority.

What symbol today represents anti-authority? Today, it is the peace symbol; and it was the primary symbol of anti-authority during the Vietnam war; and it is once again reappearing. Bobby has seen it as jewelry. Bobby knows what it represents even if she doesn't. It does not mean that to her, but it means that to the rest of society. It is a symbol; but symbols have meaning. Does it represent your attitude that you should have?

1Cor. 11:16

Lesson #647 December 16, 2007

If women are going to contest the clear and logical conclusions which I have drawn, and all that I have taught has failed, let me make one final, concise statement which sums up the whole thing. In the church, we have no other practice other than authority orientation (that's just the way it is, whether you like it or not). Paul is giving his final statement. Authority orientation always requires that the woman responds and move on. Authority orientation is the doctrine; get it? The thought-provoker is, do you really as a woman want to challenge or usurp the authority of your man? Not over a specific issue, but over who has the ultimate authority? It is not the veil; it is who is the leader and who is the responder. Those roles must not be reversed. Is that in fact what you are attempting to do with your man? Will winning the battle over who has authority, have you solved anything? Have you gained anything? If you have made your man into less than a leader on your insistence, have you really won anything? You have set up new and future problems. When he capitulates, you will not respect him and he will not respect you. Your relationship will sour. The constant fight; who is on top; who has authority. That is not what it is about. Get on with living. Get on with the roles which God has assigned to you. No wife is truly happy in the driver's seat of the marriage, leading. Ladies, if you discover that you can run rough shot over your man, then you are not getting what you want. You will not have a good marriage, and it is not because he is a wimp, but because you do not understand authority. No wife is a winner when she is uncovered. No man will every be a winner or have a great relationship in life unless he is a leader and has leadership qualities. Paul is now past making his arguments based upon culture and nature; here it is. Paul simply sums it up. He says, "Be authority oriented." Whether you agree with it or not, it is Bible doctrine. When you follow Bible doctrine you will solve both current and future problems. It is not what you think, it is what the Scripture says. This is tough for women who are not authority oriented or for men who do not know how to command respect.

But what if my husband is always wrong? He gets it wrong every time. You can argue about ideas; you can make your views known. But you cannot show disrespect for him as a leader. That is where it gets dicey. A thoughtful leader will listen to a woman's opinion and then make your own decision. You may or may not follow her idea; but you need to have the open mindedness to listen. If her idea is better, then you go with it. A woman is never wrong in following her husband's leadership (you aren't lemmings; you don't go over the cliff if he leads you there). If this man is not a leader, if you cannot follow him, then don't marry him. A man cannot simply cave in when you present a direct challenge to his leadership. He can change his mind over circumstances. He cannot succumb to insubordination when he has a mutiny on his hands. He may be thrown off the ship. If under those conditions, he has no leadership qualities, he will either become a tyrant or a wimp. Many men end up this way because they do not know how to lead. Doctrine develops the qualities of leadership in a man. You cannot exist in a relationship with a woman without it; you will be buried...or you will become a tyrant or you will become a wimp. Unfortunately, men have lost the high ground of authority and they further antagonize their wives by not being a leader. Most men do not even know there is an issue of authority; and most women do not know there is the issue of authority orientation. A man may have to rule with a velvet glove, but he must be able to say no. A woman can say what she wants, but once he says it is done, she cannot become passive aggressive or stiff-necked or vengeful or angry. A man must be unbending in the essentials; over principles; over doctrinal principles; but not brutal or unjust. He must be patient and kind, but firm. He must elicit a response from a woman and not a reaction. It is not so easy to get her to respond when she is reacting. You help the woman to turn a corner when it comes to reaction or response. Any kind of leader needs to be able to do this. As a leader, you have a responsibility in this realm. You can never surrender to her reaction. Say no when you have to; and otherwise, be patient, loving and caring. Ladies, remember, if the man does not stick with the principles of leadership, you still have an obligation to respond. The woman loses when she does not respond. You lose when you win. There are tremendous ramifications to authority-disorientation. You lose respect for him. You are a turbinate (which is a nice way of saying that you are a shrew or that other word—I think I got that word wrong).

You cannot depend upon human standards. When human standards are in contradiction to Bible doctrine, then you lose when human standards win out. The veil thing is a test of authority orientation to the women in Corinth. It is God's Word; end of story. The benefit from it as women and so do men.

God is at the top of the authority chain; and the man is below Him and the woman below him. If the woman does not respond to the Word of God, she will not respond to the man. If you cannot respond to the Word of God as your absolute authority, then you will not respond to authority in any other realm. What you will be is arrogant. The Word of God is reality; and everything which contradicts the Word of God is a false reality. Paul has laid down the Word of God here. Women, no amount of haranguing and nagging; and for men, no amount of pulling rank, will solve the woman's natural inclination to usurp authority. Gen. 3:16. Sooner or later, the woman will do this. Women, recognize this and confess it when you do this.

In the final analysis, the women of Corinth need to decide if they will subordinate themselves to the Word of God. If you do not know the doctrinal principle, then you cannot follow it. You can't say you love doctrine and listen just once a month. You cannot be authority oriented without doctrine in the soul. The Bible is your textbook.

First class condition in v. 16: based on the facts that Paul knows about the Corinthian believers, Paul makes these statements. He knows these women can be contentious. All women have the propensity and inclination to be contentious. The Greek adjective φιλονικος = contentious. This is the only place where this word occurs in the New Testament. This is a person who enjoys disputing; he is predisposed to disputing. He likes to argue for argument's sake. If you are a lawyer, it is an occupational hazard. Arguing for argument's sake is a person who is just contentious who just cannot afford to lose. His only aim is to win an argument, regardless of the cost. You examine yourself; does this fit? Am I contentious? You have no authority orientation if you are. Your soul is filled with negative volition and scar tissue. The man does not want his wife to respond; he wants to beat her down and win the argument. This principle of authority is divinely designed. Paul is confirming the authority vested in him. Paul is writing the very Word of God; the inspired Word of God. The man who writes the Word of God carries authority. We refers to Paul and any other person having authority in the church. Paul and a pastor-teacher are communicators of the Word of God, which gives them inherent authority in the church. Both have divinely given authority. Responding to doctrine is authority orientation in the male and the female. Paul is appealing here to doctrinal principles. The final translation of v. 16: I don't have this practice. There is no contentiousness in Christianity when it comes to authority orientation. This is a doctrine which applies to all the churches. Authority directs us in the way that our life should go. If we do not advance in the spiritual advance or bow to the authority, then we will be miserable as believers in Jesus Christ.

1Co 11:16 If anyone is inclined to be contentious, we have no such practice, nor do the churches of God.

1Cor. 11:16

Lesson #648 December 19, 2007

Wednesday

A second letter from this woman; and she wrote about the believing wife and unbelieving husband. This was about her mother who witnessed to her father for 20 years.

She writes about leadership. She knew that her husband did these things and that there are actually happily married couples out there. Her husband began working at age 13 to help his mother. Her background was different, living a charmed life, her parents being the Cleavers. A male friend told her that she was waiting for a man like her father, and he said I should just settle, because such men were not out there anymore. Outwardly, we appeared to be an unlikely match. He's a calm individual, any more relaxed and he would be dead. She has seen his leadership skills in action. If people know you are flexible, but consistent and fair, and are able to laugh at yourself, and function with poise, people will be drawn toward you.

A final translation of v. 16:

1Cor. 11:16: But if anyone presumes to be contentious [rejecting authority] we have not this kind of a practice [we don't do that] [and] neither do the churches of God.

The veil and the long hair are used to focus on conditions which affect all churches, even though they were things occurring specifically in the church at Corinth. This became a stigma at the church and the overall culture where they lived. It became a stumbling block to the outreach of the church at Corinth, because of the veil thing. The women were free and stopped wearing the veils; and Paul told them to put those veils back on. This principle of authority and authority orientation is important. There is dignity, decorum and protocol. This was part of the exhortation of this paragraph.

A Summing up of 1Corinthians 11:3–16

This paragraph is normative; it establishes norms and standards. It applies to all generations and all that we studied is applicable to us. We are in the society of the 21st century and we do not wear veils, but authority orientation is just as important today as then. So, there are critical principles in this paragraph which direct us. What are these attitudes, actions and doctrines?

12. There is, as you remember, a universal chain of command in this world: God, Christ, man woman.
  - a. We know right away that this is all about authority orientation. We know all about the authority orientation of Christ and how man and woman relate in authority orientation and the chain of command.
  - b. The principle exists as part of the plan of God for mankind and especially for Christians. There have been more revolutions in Berachah than you can imagine. There are a lot of empty seats filled before by those who were not authority oriented.
  - c. All believers are subject to the authority of Christ; His thinking and the execution of the Christian life which He pioneered. Bible doctrine is the mind of Christ. This is where we learn authority orientation. When it becomes a part of the soul; when we begin to apply it.
  - d. The woman is subject to the authority of the man. Especially husband to wife and the pastor of the church.
  - e. That means the man must initiate leadership; 18 year marriage which is very happy because he is a leader. A leader cannot be self-absorbed. Nothing good can happen when arrogance is involved. There is always reaction to someone else's arrogance. The man must initiate leadership while also being subordinate to Bible doctrine and growing to spiritual maturity. No man can be a great leader without spiritual growth. You grow daily and you develop these leadership skills. You don't have to think about these skills; they will grow in your soul. In the army, there were many classes of leadership skills.
  - f. As you grow spiritually, you grow the traits of leadership. Maturity, flexibility, endurance, decisiveness, poise, justice, assertiveness, compassion, humility and a sense of humor.

- g. The woman must respond to this leadership as well as to Bible doctrine, because she is the total responder. The woman is at the bottom of the chain of command, and she leads no one, apart from her children.
- h. As total responder, the woman is the most vulnerable to the problem of authority disorientation by nature. This problem and solution is being demonstrated through the rebellious women of Corinth.
- i. The bottom line is that men are the authority of the church and in the home. A man who is not a leader can abuse his authority. There are too many abuses of authority today. A leader must also hear; he must be able to make adjustments.
- j. They exercise their authority with loving, patient, enduring leadership. Will the woman react to you now and again? You bet.

13. The Genesis account

- a. Man was created first and then the woman. Adam's rib. As such, the man and the woman are interdependent.
- b. This sequence is reflected in our passage. The woman was created for the sake of man.
- c. The woman was created ezer; the helper. By definition, this is one who is under authority.
- d. The woman was placed under the authority of Adam. This model continues to this day. It does not matter if this is difficult and it does not matter if you don't like it. It is the Word of God. If you react, then you are reacting to the Word of God.
- e. Adam failed to properly exercise leadership and the woman responded to the wrong authority. Satan talked her into something and it is still happening. It brought appalling and continual consequences to the human race. They she turned around and God Adam to respond to her. It was Adam's fault; he was the leader; and he intentionally sinned.
- f. Only the authority orientation of the Lord Jesus Christ at the incarnation, the reason our Lord became flesh and lived among us. The greatest humility that ever existed was in Jesus Christ; and yet, He had the least reason of anyone to be humble. In the redemption solution, he solved our problem.
- g. The Christian man and woman in marriage now had the opportunity to retake the ground lost by the failure of the first marriage. We can take this ground lost by Adam and the woman.
- h. We do this by demonstrating the divinely inspired model where the first man and woman failed. As married, we are in a team. We succeed or fail as a team. When one falls, the other picks them up. In marriage, you are not on your own anymore, and you are interdependent.
- i. But following the initiator responder model, a couple can present that corporate witness in the angelic conflict. Adam and the woman lost their witness in the angelic conflict. We can win that corporate, tactical victory.
- j. In marriage and in the church, a man must conduct himself as a man. 1Cor. 11:4. We have the obligation to be a man; to not falter in that.

- k. A woman must not shun authority, which brings dishonor upon herself. Women don't make good men and men don't make good women.

- 14. God established equality and diversity between man and woman.
  - a. What is the equality between man and woman? They are both created in the image of God. Gen. 1:27 They have identical essence of soul. We all have volition, mentality, etc.
  - b. We both have equal privilege and equal opportunity; we are both given equal assets in the Christian life. We have our given roles in the Christian life, and these roles are enhanced by the Christian life.
  - c. Man and woman are mutually dependent. 1Cor. 11:11 the woman is not independent of man and the man is not independent of the woman. That is what makes this the greatest relationship of life.
  - d. Man and woman are designed for one another in the initiator responder arrangement in marriage.
  - e. There is also a symbiosis for mutual advantage in marriage to come together; combined as a team.
  - f. What is this mutual advantage? Can they just afford a bigger house? For believers, this is combining doctrinal application where before there was only one.
  - g. This is the basis for the corporate witness of the angelic conflict; the leadership in the man and the response in the woman.
  - h. In a Christian marriage, the advantage is illustrated as the husband and wife gain divine viewpoint advancing together and they fulfill their roles in life in relation to each other. This is why marriage is covered so heavily in both testaments of the Bible. Doctrine handles all of it. We can still be an individual witness, whether we are initiating or responding.
- 15. Both man and woman are assigned Scriptural gender roles. We are distinct in our genders, which is in contrast to what we have today.
  - a. The distinction is not to be blurred by the symbiosis of the man and the woman. There should be no blurring of these roles.
  - b. In appearance, they should be recognizable as masculine and feminine.
  - c. Their attitudes of authority and authority orientation must remain the priority of each.
  - d. Role reversal is destructive to the plan of God for their spiritual lives. This role reversal is destructive to their own spiritual lives. It is very destructive, despite of what the world says.
  - e. God is a God of protocol and manners; God has good manners; and of precisely correct procedure.
    - i. This procedure should be revealed in the believer's spiritual life. Everything in our life is protocol.
    - ii. This means that man and woman should always adhere to the conventions and protocol of the male female roles, which have been described in detail. No one should have any doubt in this area.

- iii. This means that the initiator responder relationship in marriage
- iv. A worshipful and peaceful decorum should be a part of the local church. We will examine the Corinthians completely out of line. They were drunk and disorderly at the communion table.
- v. Christian men and women should conduct themselves in a respectful, orderly manner; not only in attitude, but in their daily life.
- vi. A scattered, disorganized, disheveled person is a person who demonstrates by their person and attitude and appearance anti-authority.
- vii. A person who rebels against authority in life does not understand, much less live the plan of God. The plan of God is to understand authority orientation; otherwise there is chaos and anarchy.

This paragraph in this chapter has been one of the most important and far-reaching in what we have studied. We cannot grow one inch without have some authority orientation. If you are a man and you want the kind of relationship with a woman that you were meant to have, grow up spiritually and give your woman something to respond to. A woman who wants to have the kind of relationship that God has designed, then learn to give due respect to the authority set up by God. That is the key to all of it.

1Co 11:16 If anyone is inclined to be contentious, we have no such practice, nor do the churches of God.

1Cor. 11:17

Lesson #649 December 20, 2007

Thursday

This begins a new paragraph which goes until the end of the chapter. This chapter is two paragraphs, the previous one being authority and authority orientation. Now we are dealing with a new topic.

Paul will approach another problem, which is critical to us as it was to them. Since they are dead, it is more critical to us. There is no letup with the Apostle Paul. Each one seems to be more profound than the previous. These are subjects which we need to know, and these are practical doctrines which we need to use from time to time. This problem is directly connected to the worship of the Lord Jesus Christ and there is dissension among these 1st century Corinthians, and they have problems with, of all things, the communion table. This faction which exists in the Corinthian church, not unlike some rebellions which have occurred at Berachah. It is hard to imagine that there are factions about the Lord Jesus Christ around the communion table. Bobby could probably divide this into 20 good communion messages.

An outline of the new paragraph; the evolution of the dispute and how it evolved. This divisiveness is one of the worse possible situations in the life in any church. The gathering together of the Corinthian church has made them worse, not better. How could assembling for worship make people worse? Isn't it supposed to make people better? The problem here is, they have rampant mental attitude sins. Before the ritual, they had problems.

Their gathering for communion was quite different from ours. They had a very different protocol, and it was much more involved than just the ritual moments themselves. These people spent a lot of time together. They met at homes. Many members of the congregation were slaves, which limited when they could get away to gather. When they got together, they spent a lot of time together.

Paul makes it perfectly clear that this was an unsatisfactory situation that anything like this would go on. Breaches of communion etiquette are very serious matters; and to fail in this airship is a total failure and shut down of our spiritual lives. Nothing can be more important than the Lord's supper. You need to be free of mental attitude sins; and you need something upon which to concentrate. What did He do? Who was He? All of these problems were present at Corinth just as they are in churches today. We ought to be careful in Communion services. You can't think for a few minutes about the Lord Jesus Christ, and this is indicative of our spiritual lives. If you have no capacity for category #1 love, then that translates to every relationship in life. If you don't love Him, at least for a few moments, then you don't love anyone.

Vv. 18–19 defines the evil in that worship service. There were great rifts and divisions among these people. They had their eyes on one another and upon these other factions. One of the big problems is, they had their eyes upon each other, just as they had their eyes should have been on the Lord. Their souls should have been occupied with Him. They looked the part; they were very pious. We have already noted in 1Cor. 1 the different divisions and factions which existed in this church: the Paul faction; the Apollos faction; the Jesus faction; and the Cephas faction. The very pious ones who said, "We are of Christ; we bypass human doctrine." The stage has already been set from the very beginning.

One little area of antagonism, and bit of division, and it snowballs. What begins as an ember is about to make the church a smoking ruin. If you allow yourself one little antagonism, it will not stop there. Walk through life always upset, always smoldering; and it will be problematic to you in all areas. Their antagonisms carried over into the holiest aspect of worship.

Part 3: they were dishonoring at the communion table. Some were overeating; some were drunk; and others had nothing to eat or drink. Gluttons, drunks and those who had nothing. This did not begin in the ritual. This all occurred prior to the actual ritual. The Lord's table then was somewhat different from ours.

How the Lord's Table Different from Ours

1. There was a sit down meal; it was a formal meal; and some actual fellowship.
2. They had a long drawn out meal before they ever entered into the actual ritual and they called this meal a love feast.
3. Their routine here was parallel to the last supper of the Lord before He went to the cross.
4. For the Lord and the disciples in the upper room, they ate the Passover meal; they were all Jews, which was a full-scale, elaborate meal.

5. So, the Corinthians and all the other 1st century churches in compliance with this pattern, at an elaborate, full-sacle meal just as Jesus and the disciples did.
6. Only after this complete meal did our Lord institute the Passover; it occurred after the formal meal.
7. His pronouncement after the formal meal is what we do—the actual Communion.
8. After the formal meal, the Corinthians shared the communion. By the time that they got to the ritual, the damage had already been done. Their social life had gotten out of hand. We partake of the bread and the cup, but we do it in great moderation. However, they did not. The Lord's Tble is not about eating; it is about remembering. It is about what goes on in your soul.
9. At the earlier formal meal, the Corinthians had developed an extreme of disunity, when it should have been exactly the opposite.
10. If they were going to have this pre-supper to the ritual, then they should have come together in fellowship and in a unified setting. They should have remembered that Judas was the only disharmony. Judas was the betrayer. They knew that he betrayed the Lord. These Corinthians became a bunch of Judases. They were betraying the very memory of the Lord Jesus Christ.
11. In this fellowship of the formal meal, they should have been preparing their thinking for the collective worship of the person and work of the Lord Jesus Christ. They were not there is whoop it up. The Lord Jesus Christ was teaching; He was informing them about what was going to happen. The Lord taught them that the Passover was a ritual observed for over 1000 years and here they were at the true Passover.
12. This unifying meal became one of segregation and factions.

V. 22: Paul says, if you want a segregated meal, then eat one at home. Do not bring that attitude into the church. That is the opposite for the purpose of the love feast. When we sit in the auditorium, partaking of the Communion supper, we are remembering Him individually, but we are also doing this as a whole. We are all in Him, and we are remembering this fact together.

The Pre-Meal Problems

1. The pre-meal was a means to humiliate those who came without anything to eat.
2. Some who attended were slaves and others were just poor. There were more slaves in Rome than freemen. This must have been a potluck and those who brought nothing got nothing; how gracious is that?
3. This group of the slaves and the poor were left out altogether; and they got to watch the others eat.
4. You can imagine the resentment which that caused; class divisions; slaves versus free; poor versus the wealthy.
5. Do not ever come to the Communion Table with mental attitude sins. There is no room in the Communion table with any sin. This was their problem.

6. This formal meal had become a time when the less affluent were shunned and scorned by the richer believers. This burned Paul up. Jesus always had compassion upon the poor.

Vv. 23–25: Paul makes an appeal to these Corinthians to have the same attitude which our Lord and His disciples had.

What Paul was trying to Get Across to Them

1. This was designed for the Corinthians to understand the discrepancy between what they were doing and what the Lord intended for them to do.
2. These verses were designed to shock them into recognizing their arrogance.
3. They were so deep into this, they needed some help. They were contemptuous of communion and they did not even recognize it.

Communion Table

1. The Lord's table was not designed to be just some meal.
2. This was a memorial celebration instituted by the Lord Jesus Christ Himself.
3. The first communion table was done before the cross so that they would know where to focus. They were to focus upon His work on the cross. Participating in the wrong way at the Communion Table is an insult to the Lord Jesus Christ.

Paul then presents a solution to them. God never leaves us hanging; he presents the problem and the solution. Check your frame of mind; explore yourself. The believer needs to remove all of the sins and problems which he carries in his life.

Solutions

1. This necessitates rebound; the only way to approach communion.
2. You need to isolate the sin. You cannot keep rebounding all the way through the service. You move away from these petty problems. You memorialize the spiritual death that the Lord handles for us. The Corinthians were concentrating on each other.
3. Doctrinal preparation is required so that a believer will have a specific doctrine in mind for our Lord's service and work. Bobby's message during Communion is given so that we can think about what he is saying and that is what we ought to concentrate upon.

1Cor. 11:17 But in the following instructions I do not commend you, because when you come together it is not for the better but for the worse.

Phillips Brooks had taken a Sabbatical in the Middle East. He already had the reputation as being one of the most dynamic preachers in the country. He was staunchly anti-slavery, although his congregation was divided. He was called upon to give the funeral service for Abraham Lincoln. He was in Jerusalem, feeling much older than his 30 years. He spent time in the holy time and it had not brought him to motivation or sense of renewal. He had reached a crisis in his young life. He served the Prince of Peace and he had no peace in his soul.

There were huge crowds in Jerusalem celebrating Christmas. He borrowed a horse and road out the gates of Jerusalem and he found a very desolate land which had changed little since our Lord had walked there. It was a land filled with thieves and outlaws. He was able to spend many peaceful hours alone with his thoughts. He wrote into the nondescript village of Bethlehem and he found himself present at the physical scene of the birth of Jesus Christ. How could he not contemplate that this little insignificant town became the center of the universe. He came face to face with his own significance. You can read and study an event in book after book, but you get a feel for the place; and you form a picture in your mind, helped along by being there. He began to focus on the advent of the Lord Jesus Christ. God has sent His Own uniquely born Son to that place. Matt. 1:23: A virgin shall bear a Son, and He will be called Immanuel, which means God with us.

This man of great eloquence could not express the insight that he gained that night.

He put these things into words, and that night he penned the song, O Little Town of Bethlehem.

Our journey begins in Micah 5:2: But you, O Bethlehem Ephrathah, who are too little to be among the clans of Judah, from you shall come forth for me one who is to be ruler in Israel, whose origin is from of old, from ancient days. This prophecy was given by Micah in 700 B.C., naming Bethlehem as the birth of Jesus Christ, the Messiah.

A little village outside of Jerusalem by 5 miles. Samuel anointed David there; Jesse was born there. Bethlehem means house of bread. This is where David grew to be a man. He came to spiritual maturity in the fields of Bethlehem. 700 years after the prophecy of Micah, the

John 6:35: "I am the Bread of Life; he who comes to Me will not hunger; and he who believes in Me will never thirst."

After David passed by the scene, Bethlehem went back to being a small town. Micah called it Ephrath, which means birth; the place of the future where our Lord would be born.

Psalm 89:32–37

Psalm 132:11: Of the fruit of your body, I will set upon your throne. From your line, David, will come the King of Kings, the Lord of Lords.

1000 years later, Luke 2:4: Joseph went up to the city of David [Bethlehem] because he was of the house of David. Luke 2:11: Today has been born to you a Savior.

The village probably looked much the same in our Lord's day as they did in Brooks' visit. The child was conceived out of wedlock. The child was born in a stable, and in Him was the hope of all mankind. The unveiling of God Himself to all mankind; which will never be seen again until the 2nd Advent. This manger held the future ruler of Israel. Our Lord journeyed from Bethlehem to the cross to the resurrection to the ascension to the crowning of the King of Kings at the 2nd advent.

His origin is from of old, from the Ancient of Days. In the beginning was the Word and the Word was with God and the Word was God; and the Word became flesh and lived among us, and we beheld His glory...

This contrast came through to Brooks Philips loud and clear. Mary and Joseph were not widely known, but now, they are two of the most well-known people in all time. No other baby in history was comparable. This is what Philip Brooks remember in 1865; he remebered who he served as a pastor; Whose message he proclaimed. The greatest message that anyone could present to the world was presented at one time. Brooks realized that he had no right to be discouraged; that he had the greatest purpose that anyone could have. We share in this purpose. We mentally travel to Bethlehem, which we see in our mind's eye, through a portal in time, our Lord resting in a feeding troth in a forgotten little village. We are in need of a Savior; God in His grace has provided just that. There is salvation in no one else; for there is no other name under Heaven given among men by which we must be saved (Acts 4:12).

We can also look into the tomb from which our Lord Jesus Christ was resurrected; we can also glory in the moment of His resurrection. John 14:19, He told His disciples of His reaction: "Because I live, you will live also."

We step through the eyes of faith, from Bethlehem to eternity. We will all see the glorious return of Jesus Christ; we will not have to imagine that. Christmas takes on a deeper and more priceless meaning. The world has ruined this event with a coating of commercialism; ruined with eating, drinking and being merry at incessant parties.

The day of His birth is a day that we can be thankful for all of our lives. No matter how we live, no matter where we come from, we can look on this day and realize that is the moment that we secured an eternal future.

As we think over the Christmas holidays about whatever it is that we think about, unwrapping presents which we get or don't get what we want. We all have the greatest present, the life of Jesus Christ, because of His resurrection and ascension.

Babylon is mentioned first in the book of Matthew; even before Bethlehem. Babylon is related to captivity; Bethlehem the cross; Jerusalem the crown. Before there is the crown, there must be broken bread. Before the prince of peace can come, before the Bread of Life can return, the Bread of Life must be broken. There is no world peace until the Prince of Peace returns at the 2nd advent. The broken bread; His body which was broken for you at the cross.

The Bread of Life gives eternal life to those who believe in Him. There are many gems which can be mined from this little village of Bethlehem. We will continue with this virtual tour of Bethlehem. A scenario of the nativity.

There is a long, dusty winding road from Bethlehem to Jerusalem. Augustus Cæsar commanded that a census be taken in order to up his revenue. People went when Cæsar commanded, because he ruled with an iron fist. Most of those on the road were Jews. Some were older and this walk was difficult and they were probably bitching about this. "Curse those Romans; one day we will get rid of them." There was always a younger group; and they see liberation coming. They see the yoke of Rome being thrown off. They want the rebirth of a glorious Israel in the days of David and Solomon. They wanted to throw off the yoke of Rome by the coming Messiah. They expected a material Savior; a Jew who would liberate them from Rome, to make them a premier nation among nations. This was their chatter on the road to Jerusalem.

There was a young rebellious group plotting treason against Rome. Why wait for a Messiah; let's throw off the yoke of Rome ourselves. The wives resignedly followed their husbands to their place of origin tired of it all.

However, during this procession were two others. A man carrying a lot of luggage and leading a mule. He left his job in Nazareth, and his wife was close to delivering her first child. She was on the mule. After a very uncomfortable journey, they arrived at Bethlehem, which was where Joseph had grown up. There was an old Inn that Joseph recalled from his younger days. He forgot to make reservations. The innkeeper may have remembered Joseph; and he is no doubt concerned about Mary, being 9 month's pregnant. He offers them a barn full of animals. That was the night when God placed a kiss on the brow of humanity. In a feeding trough rested the Messiah, born to Mary. Little did all these groups of people realize that they were walking next to the One who would deliver them, but not in the way that they anticipated. At just the right time in history, Jesus Christ entered into the city. The unintended pregnancy; the no vacancy inn; the feeding trough which would be the crib for the baby Jesus.

All of this took place in this little village. The prophecy of Bethlehem in Micah 5:2. A branch from the stem of Jesse will bear fruit. This was the home of the royal ancestors of the Messiah. Some day this baby would walk the streets of Bethlehem as the King of Kings and the Lord of Lords. The fruit born from line of Jesse.

Ephrath. This quaint little town was known for being the grave of Rachel, the wife of Jacob. She died there giving birth to Benjamin. Rachel died and was buried on the way to Ephrath. Benjamin means son of my right hand. The place where Rachel died bearing the son of my right hand. Related to the glory of the Messiah. The Lord Jesus Christ would triumph after His resurrection and ascension. Bethlehem is an incredible panorama from Rachel to the birth of David to the birth of Jesus Christ. This is the gateway of the Messiah into this world. The world celebrates Christmas, because we know a king was born.

And you Bethlehem... Athens was the world's intellectual center. Rome the seat of world power. Corinth, Ephesus, Alendandria were centers of trade and learning. Historically, geographically and in any way, did Bethlehem have any call to human greatness. The cities which were great in man's eyes are nothing in the eyes of God. Bethlehem eclipsed all of these great cities, as in it was born the Prince of Peace.

God does not look for nor is He dependent upon the great and mighty things of this world to accomplish His purposes. This is His grace shining through to this little town.

We may think of ourselves as insignificant. But, remember Bethlehem, from a lowly place, the Person of greatest consequence came. We may have a greater effect upon this world than any president or ruler or corporate head. We have studied the angelic conflict and we know the great things can emerge from that which is small.

The shepherds and the angels were singing His praises and wise men arrived with gifts. The shadow of the cross of death hung over this little baby. He arrived in this little village to give His life for many.

Myrrh was a very bitter substance. Frankincense. Luke 2:12: And this will be a sign for you; you will find a baby wrapped in cloth and in a manger. The baby was wrapped in death clothes. The cloth pointed to the divine purpose for which this baby was born. This man was born to die; this is His divine purpose.

Then there was the manger, which is in every nativity scene. Mangers were a place where sheep were born. On that night was born a lamb who takes away the sin of the world.

And suddenly there appeared with the angels a heavenly host praising the Son of God. This is often the way that God does things. In the midst of so much speculation on this road to Bethlehem and a desire for freedom from Rome; and on this road to Bethlehem was the Messiah, carried in the womb of Mary. With God, we should always expect the unexpected.

We often pray on our knees that God would deliver us on our knees from some adversity in life, but how often do we believe that He will do that. We must always expect great things from God's grace. When we pray to Him, we can expect an answer. Quite often, it is suddenly; and we will be privileged in all of this to watch the grace of God. God sent into this world the solution. Unexpectedly and unannounced. Nothing is more startling than the work of God for us. In the right time, in the right place and in the right way.

The Communion Table is easy to understand, and yet so misguided. It is amazing that people would besmirch the Lord's table. They had deep-seated divisions, which caused the problems. It was also the love feasts prior to the ritual. This is actually a Biblical term and helps to explain how communion was handled at that time. Mostly the fault lies with the spiritual immaturity of the Corinthian believers. They had their eyes on other things than the Communion Table.

Outline of Paragraph

1. V. 17 gives the overall picture of this paragraph. The assembling of the Corinthian church for Communion made them worse and not better. That is a serious failure. Paul's overall attitude toward them was one of severe displeasure. Paul tells them that they are in line for the sin unto death, which is a serious reprimand. Do not corrupt the communion table. Do not fall into the pattern of the Corinthian church. When Paul says, "I have no praise for you" that is an understatement. He has had enough of these people.
2. Vv. 18–19: a new climate of divisiveness in the church. They are claimed a special leader, under whom they gathered. Now they have a new way of dividing into factions. In their factions, they had their eyes on each other. They were filled with mental attitude sins toward each other. They hated those in the other factions. The antagonisms multiplied as time went on. The leader cannot allow this antagonism to fester. There will be a mess; a non-functioning organization. This is why Paul is writing to them; he wants them to cease their antagonisms. They are deeply detracting and distracting from the Lord and the eucharist, and that is what they must correct.
3. Vv. 20–21: Paul states the problem: the church is not assembling with the purpose of the Eucharist, but they were assembling for the feast which came first, which had quite a formal spread. A pot luck and everyone participated. Everyone brought something. They were supposed to be fellowshiping over a meal before the Eucharist. There was no formal building. This meeting had nothing to do with the place where they met. This was supposed to be time for a little fellowship before they got together for the Eucharist. They had become quite stingy and the slaves and poor were being excluded and they were going hungry; and there was wine and some were getting inebriated. Disunity reigned. Paul said, you are worse off for this meal than going without. This was a time of segregation and resentment. One faction would begin to hate the other faction.
4. V. 22 Paul now condemns this situation in no uncertain terms. He wants them to understand not to bring their attitudes into the service. This situation was despising the Church of God. There was nothing right about what they were doing. Nothing could be worse than to drag some problem in with you and trying to go through the Communion service with it.
5. Vv. 23–25: Paul reminds them of the true purpose of Communion and the reason for their gathering at Communion. He explains what happened at the very last supper. He tries to show them the difference between what our Lord did and what they were doing. They needed to recognize their arrogance and childishness in all this.

6. Vv. 26–29: Here we find the correct reason for Communion. They proclaimed the Lord's death until He returns. To do anything else in the Communion service was shameful. What believers need to do is to examine themselves. Whether they are in fellowship or not needs to be determined and corrected.
7. Vv. 30–32: the judgment. If you want to go into sickness and death, then profane the Lord's Table. So, take a look at yourself, and rebound before beginning the Communion Service. Are you prepared to concentrate? You must concentrate and focus on the Lord. That is what the Communion Table is all about from now to the end.
8. Vv. 33–: "Eat your meals at home, Corinthians." This would be to keep them from being wasted, divided and filled with mental attitude sins.

When the Lord is absent, we need to consider Him often. We formally do this for a few months regularly. Thinking of Him is a manifestation of our personal love for Him. This is our occupation with Him; our gratitude for Him. This ritual is a formalized moment of what should happen in our soul frequently. We gather together to the Communion Table where we can all spend time thinking about Him. When we think of someone often; when our soul is occupied with this person; when you cannot put them out of your mind, that is a manifestation of an enduring love. That consistent memory of the one you love shows capacity for love.

It is a test. If you have no capacity for love, then you do not have the capacity to love anyone. If you can remove a person from your thinking, then you ought to suspect your love or your capacity for love. Our appreciation and our love for Him is manifesting in our thinking and our love for Him. You have capacity of thought and you remember them in your soul.

What is love? It is thinking and memory; this is where love resides. Communion is one of the great manifestations of love. That is worship. It is not centered on an emotional experience. You can turn on the television and find people dancing and singing and lifting up their hands; and what are they thinking and what are they doing? Nothing; absolutely nothing. We may or may not have an emotional reaction to Jesus Christ; but it is our thinking. For the most part, these are ignorant believers who are emoting and they call it worship. Paul is writing this to those people and to us.

What is worship. What should our worship be? Worship is the Lord's near presence in our thoughts. It is recalling in our thoughts the great grace and blessing which He has bestowed on us. It is gratitude and love epitomized. You can't do it unless you know what He has done for us. Sometimes, a loved one just comes into your mind, and they appear to you, and you have a few refreshing moments thinking about that person. They are in our mind and in our memory; they become a part of our activities for that day. Does the Lord deserve some thinking during the day? It is hard to think about the Lord in a very busy time. Do you ever bring Him to mind. Do you have pleasant and refreshing times of memory outside of the Communion Service? Does it ever happen at any other time? A person you love is in your soul; not just the way they look, but the way that they think. The depth of your thoughts reflects what is in your soul about that person. The depth of your thoughts indicate your capacity to love. It is not out of sight out of mind. If you never have a deep refreshing thought about that person, you do not know how to love them. If you thank God for His great grace, even if it is for just 10 seconds, then that is worship of the Lord. You can still have thoughts; He is still in your memory. His doctrine is infused in our soul. We have the capacity to love Him and to appreciate Him. We love Him; we appreciate His grace, and in a few short moments of prayer, we tell Him. He is always visually out of sight. We can only love Him in our thinking. He is a real person; He has done a real work; and He is a real object of love. He is just as real as someone else who might stand before you at a future date. If you never saw that one person again, do you realize that you would continue to love them. Do they love any less when someone is overseas? Capacity to love is in your thinking; it is in your soul. The depth of your thoughts indicates your capacity to love. This is personal love for God manifested.

One of the great tests in life, for the capacity for love, is when a loved one departs this life. You are in a state of mourning, and psychologists say that is a very healthy thing. Mourning for the believers in Jesus Christ is a reaffirmation of your ability to love the person that you have lost. You can love them because they are in your thinking; they are in your memory. That is capacity for love. They never leave you, even though you will, at some point, get on with your life. You will have a wonderful fragrance of memory. You will think of the depth of their affection for you. We all have loved ones that we have lost or are losing; and that is capacity for love and it is comfort for us in loss. Capacity is not how you act when you are with someone; it is how you think and how you operate when you are not with them. This is because love is in your thinking and in your memory of that person. Absence is the indicator of how fond your heart is.

Capacity for Love in Relation to the Loss of the Loved One

1. The pain you feel in your loss is a reaffirmation of your capacity to love.
2. If you do not have capacity then your memory of that person will be short lived or you will simply be hardened to it.
3. Or, you will attempt to disengage from the pain of loss by disengaging in the memory of the person.
4. Or you will make a substitution. You attach yourself to someone else to alleviate the pain of loss; you jump from one person to another to fill the void. Jump from one to another. You circumvent your pain by transferring your affection. This means to run from grief by running to a substitute.
5. When erasing the pain of loss in your soul is paramount and extracting yourself from the memory of the lost person is priority, then you have no capacity for love. Pain fades with time; it always does. You do not put away the memory to get rid of the pain.
6. You do not attempt to just extract yourself from the pain of loss. That is not what mourning is all about—to get over pain.

- a. Because the pain is a reminder of how great your love was. The more pain, the greater your love.
  - b. So at least for awhile, you endure and even engage the pain of loss to memorialize the love you had. Engaging the pain does not mean you behave in a masochistic fashion. If you did not love a person, then there would be no pain.
  - c. When you can endure and engage in that way, the memory becomes fragrant and not bitter. As a believer in Bible doctrine, our memory is sweet. We know the Lord gives and takes away; and our memory of that person becomes sweet.
  - d. The irony is that the memory of the one you have lost demonstrates capacity for love.
7. Now, when you put all of this together in relationship to Jesus Christ, you begin to realize what capacity for love for the Lord Jesus Christ actually means. Even though you don't see Him, you love Him. You do not dismiss or diminish someone that you love merely to alleviate the pain of the loss. There is something very empty and detached of someone who tries to counteract the pain of a loss by getting rid of the memory.

The Communion Service is a memorial for the Lord, Who is not here.

Military Communion coming up.

Our Lord is missing bodily from the earth. We are to remember His great grace and the blessings which He has bestowed upon us. The power of the spiritual life which defines us as believers is something else we need to remember. There are so many other details of our relationship with Him which are all a part of our thinking. It is hard to run out of memories of the Lord Jesus Christ when we have Bible doctrine in the soul. At the heart of Communion is Jesus Christ in our memory, and that content is knowing Him. We understand the depth of His love for us. We return this love when we understand how much He loves us. As we gain in knowledge and advance in the spiritual life, we know Him more and more.

Here is God's personal love toward every believer, since we possess the righteousness of God, He can love us personally. We develop capacity for love toward others. Communion is our memory based upon our personal love for the Lord Jesus Christ. We love because He first loved us. Communion are thoughts of adoration because of His person; appreciation for His work, cognizance of what He has done.

Focusing upon Jesus is a part of our daily life. The greater our ability to recall His person and His work, the greater the manifestation of His spiritual life in our spiritual maturity. In our everyday life, Jesus Christ should come to mind on a frequently reoccurring basis. It is like our love for a human person which we know. We have a busy day, but we think about the person that we love, and this person is ingrained in our consciousness. We could not forget them even if we tried. That could be love or infatuation (time reveals which it is).

Capacity for love is not the time that you spend together gazing into one another's eyes, but it is how you think of them when you are apart. That is real capacity for love. Our thoughts of them give us great joy. That is recognition of the reciprocation of our love. We have great joy in that.

Bible doctrine is infused into your thinking of life. Some empiricists only believe what they see; however, Jesus Christ is real, whether we see Him or not. Thought you not see Him, yet you love Him. We greatly rejoice with joy inexpressible. We have a great appreciation and love for Him and this love we have for him is daily, and the more mature we are, the more He comes to mind, and the more He enters our consciousness and our thinking.

Our capacity does not increase with the time that we spend with that person. Personal love for God is the source of our increasing capacity for love. He loves us, and we love Him. Hence we can have capacity for other relationships.

Bobby gave us some principles last night about capacity for love. Someone who is absent, but in our thinking. These principles apply to our relationship to Jesus Christ. When someone is absent or lost, but they remain in our thinking.

Capacity for love

1. One of the great human tests for capacity for love is to lose a loved one. But the pain we feel in the loss of a loved one is a reaffirmation of our capacity for love. The greater the love, the greater the capacity and also, the greater the pain when we lose them.
2. When you have no capacity for love, your memory for a lost loved one is short-lived. In the alternative, we will harden ourselves to that love, trying to get the pain over with.
3. The desire to forget is manifested in our thoughts and actions. We attempt to disengage in the loss by disengaging in the memory. If you can disengage the memory, then you figure you can alleviate the pain.
4. To alleviate the pain, we may rapidly transfer our love to another person. Rapid transfer of affection is a sign of no integrity and no capacity. Do not attempt to circumvent the pain by transferring your affection to someone else.
5. When extracting yourself from the memory of the one we have lost is your priority, then you have no capacity for love. One of the great descriptions that we find, lest we forget.
6. Do not attempt to just extract yourself from the pain of loss.

- a. The pain is a reminder of how great our love was. The terrible ache in your soul is a reminder of how much you have lost and how much you loved. This is what the believer in Jesus Christ recognizes with doctrine in the soul.
  - b. Hence the ache in our soul is not a bad thing. It is not to be turned away from; it is not a bad thing. This does not mean that you are morbid or that you masochistically revel in pain.
  - c. Pain is unpleasant. In this situation, it is reassuring that, if you have capacity, that love and pain frequently reside together.
  - d. At least for awhile, you engage the pain to memorialize the love. Enduring the pain of the loss.
  - e. Pain leads to a fragrance of memory rather than a bitterness of soul.
  - f. Appreciating the memory demonstrates capacity for love and it is a memorial to that person.
7. You do not diminish or dismiss the memory of someone that you love simply to eliminate the pain in your soul.
  8. Pain has a poignant quality to it in relation to the memory of a lost love.
  9. You can actually appreciate grief as it is reassuring of our capacity for love. You can appreciate grief
  10. This may sound strange to your ears, but because you honor and revere the memory of the love lost, you eventually accept the actuality of the loss and still retain the memory of that person. You do not squash the memory of a person that you love.
  11. To never lose the memory of a loved one in spite of the anguish is to honor that loved one. That is capacity for love.
  12. The memory of personal love will ultimately transcend the pain of separation.
  13. Enduring love (which is connected to capacity for love) is always a pleasant memory. Memory does not leave your soul, but the grief abates.
  14. It is our knowledge of doctrine that facilitates this memory and this capacity for love.
  15. The great comfort in grief; when the loss is a believer, part of the memory and the capacity is that they reside in heaven forever. The one we loved and lost, we will see again. The sad part, if they are not believers, we will not see them again.

If you are unable to do this, you lack capacity for love. When it comes to our worship in the Communion service, it will be flawed and fragmented. What comes to our mind; how long can we concentrate. Bobby gave the illustration of capacity to love another person. This translates to capacity for love for Jesus Christ. This requires a knowledge of Jesus Christ. When we understand Him like that, then we understand Him for Who He is and how wonderful He is. There is a love in our souls for Him and that love demonstrates a great capacity for love and life and for everything else. If we do not have capacity for love in the realm of personal love for the Lord, then we lack the ability to have a truly great human love relationship. We are all looking for love, but we will not find it without the capacity for love. That capacity will work its way out to every relationship in our life.

Bobby is going to address a specific problem in Berachah. Since the ritual of Communion is so critical for the loving memory of our Lord Jesus Christ, and because it is mandated, what about those who are not able to assemble for the ritual? This is a mandate and a moment to demonstrate our capacity for love. Those who listen to tapes on their own at some other location (or who have a DVD player or an MP3 player). The answer simple. You participate in Communion where you are. The critical part of the memorial is the memorial in your own soul. It is critical that all of us spend the time to give the due benevolence to our Lord.

How great is our salvation? Is it worth remembering? Think about what you have been spared. Think about how easy it is to unwrap the present which He has given to us. It is a test of our capacity to love and our capacity to appreciate Him. That is the mandate. Simply because we reside outside the walls of Berachah church, that does not exclude you from the mandate.

The passage about the failure of the Corinthians at the Communion Table is sad. They have abused all that it is. Everything which God has provided has been abused. God gave Israel rest I the Sabbath. It was the 7th day out of every work week. There was a break in the routine; a rest; and, also, a day to focus on Jesus Christ. In that way, there is a parallel to the Communion ritual. In Israel, the Sabbath became exactly the opposite. It became a form of oppression and a burden for all people. You can do this, but you can't do that. It became a day of legalism. And, it was considered, if you did not keep the Sabbath (as they saw it), then you were completely out of line. The perversions of the ritual of communion can be just as big of a problem as the Sabbath of Israel.

Some denominations have made the Lord's table a saving sacrament. This reoccurring ritual is necessary to them for salvation. They think of the door to salvation being opened by faith in Christ, but that there are other things which are necessary for gaining salvation. Communion can be perverted as a means of salvation.

We often want people to be believers so much that we overlook this or that fact. We are not their judge. We can never be certain that, at some point in time, they responded to faith alone in Christ alone. But the gospel does not include any form of human works, including baptism, the Lord's table or anything else. It all has to be based upon what Jesus did on the cross.

You need to be careful about some relationships. You cannot just accept someone who claims to be a Christian, and then decide to marry them. Infant baptism is wrong. The sprinkling means absolutely nothing. They have not exercised faith alone in Christ alone. The sprinkling, at best, confuses the issue. Communion proclaims to the world that you are a believer. Until the Lord comes, you are saying, I have a relationship with Jesus Christ. It also reveals to you your capacity to love (or your lack). It is not the ritual that saves; it is Christ's work which saves. Communion commemorates that. When you understand what Christ did for you, then how can you help but gain appreciation for Him. If you have personal love for the Lord, then you can concentrate upon Him. If you are able to do that, that reveals a capacity for love.

in Cleveland at 6 am; but in Humble by 9:00.

Once a year, Bobby gets to see faces that he has never seen before. Apparently, this is from people being blocked from the back rooms.

New Year's Eve Military Communion, beginning at 8:00 pm. That service is to look forward, to doctrinal thoughts for the New Year.

1Cor. 11:17–34 deals with the Communion Service, which Bobby has been setting up for the past week. Communion has a great and wonderful purpose in the Church Age. It was mandated by our Lord Jesus Christ at His last supper, shortly before Judas betrayed Him. This mandate is repeated in v. 24. This is now a ritual for all of us at all times.

Why do we observe the Communion Table once a month? This worship is not every emotionalism; that which is designed to make you feel good, but devoid of thought. Worship is thought and memory. When you are in a highly agitated state, there is no thought.

Holding your hands up, skyward, rolling your eyes and leaning your head back is not the Communion. We look back at what Jesus Christ did for us. Our memory is stimulated. Blood is an analogy; not literal blood.

Some churches have made the Communion a part of the salvation package, necessary for salvation. Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ and you will be saved; it is nothing more than that. Salvation by baptism, salvation by sprinkling (of a baby). Salvation is based upon faith alone; sacramental salvation is a perversion of the Lord's Table. The Corinthian church, a band of believers, have clearly abused the Lord's Table. This was just a few years after our Lord's mandate to observe this meal. Their problem was that they had become very careless and casual about the assembling for the love fest and the Communion Table.

What is the Communion Table All About?

1. The Lord's Table is the formal opportunity to recall the salvation doctrines. We have a life beyond what we could ever imagine.
2. We have intense identificaoin with the One whom we are united. We share His Sonship, His heirship, which He pioneered.
3. We can express love for Him. In fact, we ought to express love for Him. When we recall all that He has done for us in grace, then we have a wealth of reasons why we ought to worship Him.
4. Communion is a time to focus on His grace and our grace orientation is tested. How well do we understand God's grace? Do we know that God's grace provides us with every benefit of all the things that we have in Christ.

5. It is a moment—a moment in time to apply our capacity to love. If we cannot spend 30 minutes concentrating on the Lord Jesus Christ, but
6. Communion is our time of mediation and concentration. We must be able to do that. Yoga class is not the right idea of meditating; in Yoga, we mediate on ourselves. That is a true test of all that we are.

Do you understand why Jesus said, “This do in remembrance of Me.” These are serious moments in the life of the believer and they test the doctrine in our souls. The communion ceremony is our only formal corporate moment in our life. We focus on His grace and His thinking. It is not just 30 minutes once a month; there will be other times that you will think of our Lord. Vv. 17ff are designed to eliminate all misconceptions which we might have.

$\Delta\epsilon$  means now here rather than but. Present active participle of  $\text{paraggelô}$ , which is best rendered to command. This is a now here this; this is an emphatic phrase. This is hear this; I am commanding this. This is divinely inspired Scripture. This refers back to the authority of the person.

This begins with the demonstrative  $\text{touto}$ ; which is the first word. In the context, it is vague in its antecedent and in the context itself. So, what does touto actually refer to? Paul has stated his views on the subject of teaching. Now, commanding this, I do not praise you... Paul is not commanding that no one praise them.  $\text{Touto}$  is simply Paul moving onto a different subject, and we do not know what he is commanding us. The command is coming up; and he commands. This is Paul moving on. Paul is great upset about something. He is downright mad. We is sitting in Ephesus. Whenever Paul is commanding something, we know that we are out of line. Doesn't he ever let up? Doesn't he ever give us a break? Paul tells them that they are wrong; he is not there to praise them; he is there to bury them. He is linking the corruption of the Communion Service with those who have died. This is a serious matter! Any corruption of the communion service for us can lead to the sin unto death.

Back in v. 2, Paul says I praise you and here he says, I do not praise you. The purpose for the assembly of their church should be common to any church at any time.

Why We do not Assemble

1. We do not assemble for social life. They had communion every day, and, after while became factious. Normally we have a social life, 15 minutes between classes. But the primary function of church is up to bothers. This is not an assemblage so that we can meet people as singles or meet people as couples. We may meet some of the great relationships of our life here. That is a by product of personal compatibility. We do not assemble to feel good. The Corinthians if which is divine viewpoint in the spiritual life. The first question that we ought to ask is, am I in the plan of God or not? Maybe you are resolving to spend more time in Bible class? Without the constant, you do not stand a chance against the variables. Resolution to change our circumstances our meaningless unless we have the means to do so. The will of God, which is good, acceptable. Without this, our resolutions will mean nothing.

We are a believer making this assessment—where am I? How am I progressing in the spiritual life? What is my report card for last year? Am I glorifying God at all, or even a little bit? That is a worthy application. If you have been consistent in metabolizing doctrine in the past year, then you may have progressed more than you think. Moving to dependence upon doctrine and thinking divine viewpoint and using problem solving devices, as a spontaneous result of consistent spiritual advance. The variables are many. As we continue our spiritual advance, we must also expect testing. It is in this testing that we find evidence of maturity or lack of growth.

Your evidence testing; looking back and looking forward. Bobby is going to use evidence testing as a point of identification of our spiritual status, whether we are approaching or are on the high ground of spiritual maturity. We never stop advancing up the hill of spiritual maturity. There is a point at which we leave adolescence behind and move into maturity. Longer periods of time in fellowship; application becomes easier. Then we have come to move into the are of maturity; however, testing is inevitable when moving into maturity. Evidence testing involves personal testing. You cannot avoid all difficulties. Adversity is a necessary thing for us to understand where we are and where we have to go. Adversity + doctrinal application = accelerated growth. Divine viewpoint is being tested for application. When you apply doctrine and pass the spiritual test, you look down from the high ground of maturity to the adversity which is below or behind us. What makes our maturity apparent?

Adversity + application = blessing. Now there are two ways to identify our spiritual status for the coming year. Accelerated growth and blessing. One equation is accelerated growth and the other is blessing. Accelerated growth means blessing. The result is peace and contentment. That is the blessing, and it is a good reason for adversity and suffering. Why does the mature believer suffer? For accelerated growth. We are going to face adversity, so how should we look at it? If we see it as blessing, as accelerated growth, then we get the full impact. We do not run from adversity, but we turn into it with the problem solving devices. Doctrinal application manifests our inner strength, if we have any. As a person applies a solution from the doctrine in their soul.

1Cor. 10:13 is encouragement with regards to evidence testing. No testing or temptation will be too great for you. Spiritual strength precedes spiritual testing. Testing will not overload our capability to handle it. We are not pressed beyond the maturity level that we have attained. Passing the mosquito charge, then that is good; and as you can handle greater tests, things continue to look up. When you apply doctrine, you can bear it. When you rely on human viewpoint, when pressure crushes you, it is always your own negative volition which is the culprit. Right there, you have an indicator of a stalled advance.

A premier example of evidence testing. This is the evidence test of Job.

Job 1:1: There was a man in the land of Uz, whose name was Job. And that man was perfect and upright, and one who feared God and turned aside from evil.

Job was mature. His testing was recorded from start to finish, so that we can identify with Job one way or the other. We can see where he passed and where he failed and then make an assessment of our own lives.

This began with a conversation between God and Satan.

Job 1:8: And Jehovah said to Satan, Have you set your heart against My servant Job, because there is none like him in the earth, a perfect and upright man, one who fears God and turns away from evil?

Evidence testing also presents some as witnesses for the prosecution in the angelic conflict. We are a key witness for the prosecution, so that we must be ready to testify when we are called to the stand to give our testimony.

Job had no premonition of coming disaster. It blind sided him. Whatever we bring to the blind side is what we have in our souls. It is all we have. It will quickly reveal what we have in our soul. The point is, you have it or you don't. Once you are in the middle of this sort of testing; if you get bitter, remember, it is for your accelerated growth. In evidence testing you are actually privileged to be called to the stand.

Job 1:12: And Jehovah said to Satan, Behold, all that he has is in your power. Only do not lay your hand upon him. And Satan went forth from the presence of Jehovah.

Suddenly Job loses his wealth and children in chapter 1; then he loses his health in chapter 2. The final test is the test of friends who would influence him away from Bible doctrine, which is the rest of the book. These are the kinds of tests that we can expect as we mature. We have to be on the high ground in order to pass these tests. You can't say, I'll just stick it out on the low ground. What you get if you do not advance is divine discipline. However, that is just pain. Job's maturity was apparent; he obviously enjoyed all that God gave him. Prosperity did not go to his head. Job did not say, "Look what I have; I am living the dream; I've got it all." Doctrine kept him grounded in his prosperity. His capacity for prosperity indicates doctrinal strength in his soul. The same doctrinal strength which carried him in prosperity also holds him up in adversity. This glorifies God and it destroyed Satan's premise.

Job 1:11: But put forth Your hand now, and touch all that he has, and he will curse You to Your face.

This is Satan's point.

After losing his children and fortune, Job said the following:

Job 1:21–22: And he said, I came naked out of my mother's womb, and naked shall I return there. Jehovah gave, and Jehovah has taken away. Blessed be the name of Jehovah. In all this Job did not sin, nor charge God foolishly.

Adversity or prosperity, our focus must be on Him.

How did he do in the second test, when he got boils all over his body and was suffering great pain.

Job 2:7–9: And Satan went forth from the presence of Jehovah and struck Job with sore boils from the sole of his foot to the top of his head. And he took a broken piece of pottery to scrape himself with. And he sat down among the ashes. And his wife said to him, Do you still hold to your integrity? Curse God and die!

Job handled his loss of health and his wife in the same way. He used a doctrinal rationale and impersonal love with his wife, which accelerated his personal growth.

When you are betrayed by people, using impersonal love is a sure indicator of your maturity.

Job's 3rd big test is his friends showing up.

Job felt totally isolated here, but he forgot that he is never really isolated in the plan of God. He realized how cruel his wife had been; and he passed the first 2 tests and failed the 3rd. This is a setback. Every believer has free will and has the ability for failure. What the key is, is failure.

Job would recover from these reverses and successfully complete his evidence testing. This is probably based upon getting divine viewpoint at the end of this book. We are blind-sided by some testing, and we do not see it coming. Doctrine is the only thing which makes sense when it comes to undeserved testing.

How does this evidence testing accelerate growth?

1. It means dependence on Bible doctrine.
2. It purifies the soul from all human viewpoint.
3. It terminates wrong priorities in life.

what characteristics can you gather from Job and his testing? What can we take from this.

What do we learn from Job?

1. Maximum contentment in adversity; sharing the happiness of God. Contentment in the plan of God. When we execute it, we have maximum contentment in
2. Stability; mature believer views his life in the light of God's plan. This engenders confidence for God to provide solutions.

3. Great indicator of a great spiritual life.
4. We cannot lean on others under testing. Loved ones might encourage us and might now. We need to depend upon God.
5. Grace orientation is freedom from self-pity and egotism.
6. Maximum doctrinal orientation to reality. We have the ability to identify the testing.
7. Great decisions from a position of doctrinal strength. Our decisions are related to doctrinal
8. The optimum control of your life. You do not seek to coerce and manipulate others. Each believer is responsible for his own advance. No subjective comparisons with other believers. No demeaning of others to extol yourself. With Bible doctrine, you control your own life. You make decisions knowing that you bear the responsibility for those decisions.

Bobby's prediction for this next year for us is evidence testing. It will be an interesting year. It is a good thing in the coming year. It is an election year; another year of war; a year of possible health problems; a year of economic uncertainty. We might be taxed in our relationships. Friends and loved ones can distract us. We can go the way of the divisive Corinthians or we can follow the way that Paul gave them. Evidence testing and to glorify the Lord is what 2008 should be for us.

1Cor. 11:17

Lesson #653 January 2, 2008

Wednesday

These Corinthians know that they are going to be blasted by Paul for some failure. He is going to command them in something and he is not going to praise them. He is building up some drama and he is getting their attention. Sometimes, you don't tell someone what is wrong, but you build up to it. You don't tell them why.

People come to church for a variety of reasons. They want something positive in their life. Or they want to feel good or some social life with people who are not degenerate. Assembling for that reason is for the worst. The Corinthians are assembling for the worst, which is what Paul's overarching message is here. In this church, all the distractions which can be found in any church is highlighted by the Corinthian church. They bicker all the time, they bully, they judge, they foment revolution, they break into sects. They start by claiming different pastors. These people are excluding fellow believers from the unity of their own church. They assemble for the purpose of getting Bible doctrine. As they grow spiritually, there is a unity (a unity in diversity). As we listen to doctrine together, we become a unit. We have a great diversity; it is like the army. From very diverse backgrounds, but functioning as a unit. The Corinthians have distorted the most solemn phase of their worship service. This is the one place where there should be no divisiveness. It indicates as to how united this congregation is.

In the social time at New Year's eve was a testimony to likemindedness. A church starts with doctrine and it becomes a unit. The mission of the church, for growing, for serving God; it is all about the integrity of the church. The purpose and attitude for worship and metabolizing doctrine is lost in the case of the Corinthians; they are in carnality and even in apostasy. Can it get any worse? One person out of line can be handled; but the whole church getting that way is like a mutiny.

In WWI, the entire French army mutinied. They essentially laid down their arms. The German army could have marched right into Paris and taken it. They leaders straightened them out and got them to defend their own country. In a church, you can have a giant mutiny. In Corinthians, the church had become an undisciplined mob; all divided; filled with personal friction and theological error. So, Paul does not waste any more time with the spiritual morons. They are in a life threatening situation. We are part of a unit. We put this unit at risk.

1Co 11:17 But in enjoining this, I do not praise you, because you come together not for the better, but for the worse.

Apollos ran back from Corinth complaining. Paul says, in part, I believe it [that there are factions and divisions]. Paul is going to give them a point by point doctrine. In the first place is the same as saying point one. So Paul is going to list some things to indicate what is going wrong there. However, Paul does not go into the 2nd or 3rd place. He just says in the first place for emphasis.

He makes a statement about the basic function of the local church. This tells us what and why we assemble. Today, it may not seem quite as important to assemble. We are going to look at Hebrews 10:25:

There is a sense of urgency in this verse. The imminency of the rapture, which could occur at any time. Our Lord could return in a few minutes or a 1000 years from now. Every day is a day that the Lord can return.

...not forsaking the assembling of ourselves together... is the point of v. 18. The believer who does forsake the assembly has shown the basic sign of negative volition toward doctrine and the first move toward reversionism. I don't want to go; I'm tired; I am not that interested; it is irrelevant. It begins with a little negative volition and ends in a stampede from Bible doctrine.

We have all kinds of electronics today. Can't we just get an mp3 or a dvd? They could not do that in the time of John and Paul. Of course you can grow without being in Berachah. This is why MP3's and DVD's are made at Berachah. However, there is a limit to this use.

How Should the New Media be Used?

1. For those who live and work in Houston, TX: recordings should be used to review what we have already heard. Much can be learned from a 2nd hearing.
2. We don't meet every day, so these things can be used as a daily supplement when we are not here. It can be used to make up what we have missed, which is how all of this got started. Clark Mitchell, in the Quonset Hut in the 1950's, and Bob said,

'What's this?' and she said, "Just talk." Then Roger Lewis did this, being able to do about 300 a month.

3. The absentee believer can learn when they are not there. Or those overseas.
4. However, we still assemble ourselves together. One of those reasons is not for convenience sake. Sometimes you miss class and strange things. A time conflict. However, don't get weird about attendance. You can make it up. But do not forsake the assembling of yourselves together. Do not make lame excuses.

Making an effort to get to Bible class is a testimony to your positive volition. It makes a statement. Bobby literally has to drag himself to class on occasion. Attendance in itself is not what we are after; it is assembling for the doctrine.

The best environment for learning is Bible class. In your own living room, there are too many distractions. People all over in the auditorium are displaying positive volition. This is a mandate to assemble.

Someone asked, why do you go to Bible class so much? This was not a believer. "If there is a God, and if His Son is Jesus Christ, Who died for us, and I have a spiritual life, then is 7 hours out of a week really that much?" The most important aspect of your life should be reasonable.

For Bobby, it helps to have an audience. He knows when we are getting it and when we are not. A teacher needs to read his audience.

The next line of v. 25 gives one great reason why we should meet: encouraging one another. You may have sat next to someone in this church for 20 years and not know their name. In v. 24, it is about love and good deeds. You cannot express love if you do not see a person.

So, what is the encoring one another all about?

Heb. 10:25 ...not forsaking the assembling of ourselves together, as the manner of some is, but exhorting one another, and so much the more as you see the Day approaching.

1Cor. 11:18

Lesson #654 January 3, 2008

Thursday

1Co 11:17 But in enjoining this, I do not praise you, because you come together not for the better, but for the worse.

One of the basic problems at Corinth are the factions; and vv. 18–19 presents one of the most heinous areas of disunity.

Assembly is the mode of the church, even if there is the option of staying home. Even though we can grow in grace and knowledge at home through the electronic media, God's plan is for us to grow while assembling in the church.

This brings us back to Heb. 10:24–25. We see the day drawing near and the assembly of the church must be done, and with a certain attitude. This is not an attitude of divisiveness; it is exactly the opposite. When the assembly of the church breaks into this kind of a faction, there is a problem. The assembled group should be unified and encouraging to one another. There is a unity of purpose; the very notion of encouraging another believer. The assembled group should be unified. One believer is showing some love for another believer. This is not the phoney kind of love where someone comes up, saying, “I love you, brother.” It can mean almost anything; it is almost a cliché.

What does it mean to stimulate to love or to provoke to love. There are lots of reasons not to assemble; distance, long days and travel time and traffic. Are the hassles of our time really that different from theirs? They had to walk to assemble. It still took a lot of time and energy. Many of these people were slaves and poor and they had kids and they had very little time off and they had farms and lived out of town. Corinth was a big city and they had their own difficulties. There is a difference and they really did not have a choice. There was no other way for them to get doctrine. We can listen to doctrine anywhere. We can take communion anywhere. We as believers never have to darken the door of a church in the 21st century; we can grow in a satellite situation. However, assembling is just as important.

Reasons Why we Ought to Assemble

1. The discipline of an academic environment is the best way to learn. It is easier to keep your eyes open here than on your couch at home. There are many distractions at home: the refer, the cat, the dog, the phone, the door. Our electronic media keeps our momentum going. We cannot afford not to maintain our momentum, and the electronic medium can do this for us. Bobby has no idea how Bob could speak 8 or 9 times a week. It is truly amazing, with 11, 000 hours of teaching. It is no substitute for assembling yourselves together when that is available to you.
2. Associating with people who are of like mind. Growing up together spiritually. We are a family. Families grow up together. Siblings bond and grow up together. Even the advantage of being able to discuss doctrine with others. People without contact with other believers get some very weird ideas that, associating with other believers, would solve. We can make some of the greatest friendships of our lives in Berachah. We can even find a mate of like mind. It does happen. You cannot very well do that when you are not in Berachah. As a believer in Jesus Christ, you are bombarded hour after hour, year after year with human viewpoint. It is at work, on tv, at the movies, among your friends and family. All you hear is human viewpoint. You spend a huge portion of your life with unbelievers or believers who are negative toward doctrine. The time you spend listening to doctrine is minuscule compared to your life. The human viewpoint and the divine viewpoint that you hear are quite different in proportion. It is hard to fight against the human viewpoint which inundates you.
3. Making the effort to attend is also an advantage. It is a testimony to yourself as to the priority that you place on doctrine. It is also a testimony to the angels. You recognize, at times, that this is the place that you want to be. Bobby sat out in the auditorium for many years himself. For him, there was a great comfort; it was almost like having a shell of doctrine which you could pull over yourself. You demonstrate positive volition by being in class. There must be a desire, a motivation to learn and to apply doctrine. That is positive volition. That is why being in church can be so comforting. It is the anticipation. It is taking one more step up the hill. Assembling in a group and not in a church building falls under the heading of an assembly. The Corinthians did not meet in a church. When being in such a group, there can be problems with authority. However, usually, there is someone who handles the various things which are important in order to hear doctrine. Take in doctrine and do not split time with other pastors. Under whichever person you can grow with, that is who you ought to stay with. In all of these advantages, there is always the danger of falling into the same sorts of problems that the Corinthians fell into. As you take in doctrine, those problems are solved.

4. Encouraging one another is another good reason to assemble together. In the last years of Bob's ministry, Bobby would show up early and they would sit together and chat or he'd sit in the office, and then Bob would often go in early to the auditorium and he did so in order to be encouraged, simply by seeing people come in. He knew that he was not as sharp and that it did not come out as quickly and as sharply as before; but believers encourage one another. Bobby's hat is off to those who showed loyalty to Bob because of the loyalty he showed to us.

Stimulate is the Greek word παροξυσμος = to stir each other up. This is not an emotional stirring. It can be taken that way. That does not mean that you lean on one another or prop each other up. Our strength does not come from other believers. The main source of our encouragement is Bible doctrine in the soul; that is spiritual autonomy. Will doctrine in the soul sustain us without outside help propping us up. Others can stir us out of a spiritual stupor. Many times we can be encouraged in doctrine. If you have ever been motivated by another believer to get back to doctrine, or you are reminded where the solutions are, in self-induced misery. There is impact which believers can have on each other. Doctrine makes us spiritually autonomous. There is encouragement to get back on the road to spiritual maturity.

Encouraging does not mean counseling. Allow doctrine to do that. This does not mean to judge someone; and you do not need to point out everything which is wrong with someone; that is not encouragement. Encouragement is words of wisdom. The mature believer can demonstrate grace orientation and other problem solving devices. This can encourage other believers who are not that far along. You need someone like that in your periphery. When you forsake the assembling of yourselves together, that is hard to find. So often, by our own choices, we remove ourselves from those who can encourage us. You cannot get anywhere if you are isolated. You spend all of your time with those who have no divine viewpoint.

Houston may not be high on people's lists of geographical gems. A person Bobby knew pulled into Houston, into a hotel room, and cried. Bobby has admiration for those who decided that life in Houston, TX is where they wanted to be for doctrine. This does not mean that everyone needs to be there. Most who have come to Houston have prospered here as well. When you have doctrine in the soul, you are prospered and God often prospers you in other ways.

You do not find the encouragement at your own home as you do in an assembly. Outside the church, people do get stimulated and moved, but in the wrong way. They get inundated in human viewpoint; it is so easy. There is an advantage to being in church. Bobby has done it all; he has lived elsewhere for 20 years and he has been on tapes, in Fx groups, in DVD groups, and there is no place like home.

Bobby sees people who are in class night after night. They have an attitude of great love for the Lord. Personal love for God goes in every direction; it goes up and it goes out.

The 4th great reason to come to church, encouraged to love to do good deeds.

Heb. 10:24–25 ...and let us consider one another to provoke to love and to good works, not forsaking the assembling of ourselves together, as the manner of some is, but exhorting one another, and so much the more as you see the Day approaching.

1Co 11:18 For first of all, when you come together in the church, I hear that there are divisions among you, and I partly believe it.

1Cor. 11:17–19

Lesson #655 January 6, 2007

vv. 17–34: the Corinthians have brought themselves to a tangled web of their own making and they are able to get completely out of synch with the plan of God. We get an in depth look at the failures of the Corinthians. We are encouraged to take responsibility for our own actions. We are not to blame others so that we can excuse our own shortcomings. We are to look at ourselves in the light of the Word of God. It shows us what we are. It shows us how to make corrections by renovating our thinking through divine viewpoint. We are saved through faith alone in Christ alone.

Some people don't want to believe in Christ because then they might have to become a better person, go to church, be nicer to others. However, a believer starting out just needs to get with doctrine. The plan of God is the greatest life that there is. We see in the Corinthians just exactly what we ought not to be.

The entire Corinthian church has fallen into a dangerous apostasy. They have a corporate life and they show nothing which would attract unbelievers to Jesus Christ.

1Cor. 11:17 But in enjoining this, I do not praise you, because you come together not for the better, but for the worse.

They are assembling for the worse rather than for the better.

1Cor. 11:18 For first of all, when you come together in the church, I hear that there are divisions among you, and I partly believe it.

In the process of gathering they are tearing their church apart and they are dividing believers into warring factions. If they are assembling for the worst, what then is assembling for the better? This is assembling where doctrine is taught, and it is taught most efficiently to a group. No way can Paul wander from house to house to give individual teaching to families and to lay out the Word. If Paul simply keeps them all apart, then there would be no more corporate abuses; however, this is not the way things are done. We are a body; we are not independent of one another. There are important limitations to the use of the media that we have. Bobby can go house to house now and do it by means of the electronic media. Paul could not do this; but Bobby can. However, there are limitations to this. The classroom environment to the assembly is what God has designed. This is optimum. Enforced academic discipline where we sit right now. There are always problems when people gather; there are still personal advantages to us to be in a group. We are with people who have divine viewpoint. This is in contrast to the deluge of human viewpoint of everyone and everything all around you. This is the only time, apart from social life with believers, that you really have a chance to concentrate on divine viewpoint. There is a very good reason to be around people with a similar thought process. We are a family and we are among the company of mature believers in this congregation and we know blessing by association. There is blessing in this association.

When you separate yourself from those with doctrinal viewpoint, there is the danger of creeping human viewpoint. There is a certain amount of negative volition there. The very effort to get to church is a testimony to our own self of our own positive volition where we choose to make our own spiritual life first and foremost. There is a great comfort that we will be here no matter what. When there is no other way to receive and metabolize doctrine, then mp3's and dvd's come into play. If we are isolated with no church teaching doctrine, then we use this electronic media. If there is a right pastor, not in your city, then listen in a satellite mode. Your job may take you outside the environment of the local church.

What about those living in the city limits of Houston, TX. The media is good for off-days. It can be for review or for studies under Bob. Some do not assemble because they just use the media to get by more conveniently. It is a matter of priority. What takes priority in your life? This indicates just how positive we are toward doctrine (or how negative we are). However, that means you fall into the category of someone who has forsaken the assembling of yourselves together.

Heb. 10:24–25 ...and let us consider one another to provoke to love and to good works, not forsaking the assembling of ourselves together, as the manner of some is, but exhorting one another, and so much the more as you see the Day approaching.

The day drawing near is the day of the rapture. We first gather to encourage one another. As a mature believer you miss out on a great blessing. There is a tremendous blessing in encouraging another believer or being encouraged by another believer. By yourself, there is no one around to encourage and no one around to encourage you. A mature believer applying Bible doctrine. A mature believer can provide refreshment for another believer just when that information is pertinent. They can say something to you and it clicks. This sort of encouragement generally occurs only when there is a close association. You cannot do this where you do not assemble. Encouragement does not include butting in, bullying, interfering. God the Holy Spirit can do this and parents to children; but adult believer to adult believer should be with respect to privacy.

When you see someone who can handle difficulties, that is an encouragement. Always remember, this is the whole thing about assembling together; you must be able to see other believers to get this. The second advantage is found in v. 24: stimulating one another to love and good deeds. Love is the most misunderstood word in Scripture. What does it mean?

What does it mean to stimulate to love?

1. ἀγαπή begins as an expression of love toward God, which increases as we grow spiritually. When we find out more and more about God, we cannot help but fall in love with Him. We have thoughts toward Him and those thoughts should be love.
2. It is worship, respect, awe, enduring devotion, deference toward God.
3. Recognizing that God's love to us comes through knowing doctrine. You begin to understand just how powerful the Word of God is toward all of us. It engenders reciprocal love toward God. When we can love God, we are gaining capacity to love.
4. This is the epitome of the maturing process of the Christian life. Personal love toward God and impersonal love toward all mankind.
5. Such love motivates the believer to continue his advance. The more you love, the more motivated you are. The more motivated you are, the more you want to advance. The more you know someone, the more you want to want to know them and be with them. When the growth stops, then there are problems. Such love motivates believers to continue to advance.
6. In maturity, when you have personal love toward God and you reciprocate that love, this love is applied to all other relationships in life.
7. Maturity, when you apply this love to all relationships, that is where the stimulation for other believers comes from. Stimulate to love.
8. That love which stimulates exudes grace orientation and an attitude of humility. True love has an attitude of humility and not arrogance. You put the one you love ahead of yourself. That is what this sort of love is. This is what you gain as you gain capacity to love God.
9. Humility precludes sins of arrogance. Bitterness, guilt, vindictiveness, jealousy, judging, maligning, malice, revenge, vituperation, gossip.
10. Without these sins, a believer is a pleasure to spend time with. You look for these kind of people. It is a pleasure to be around a person who is non-judgmental; and there is no legalism with which to contend.

11. You can trust such a person and relax with them. That is what stimulates to ἀγαπή means. When a mature believer has these qualities directed toward another believer, the impact on those in their periphery, the impact is marked. It is rare to find another mature believer on the outside. They are at Berachah; but hard to find elsewhere.

1Cor. 11:19 For there must also be heresies among you, that the approved ones may be revealed among you.

1Cor. 11:18

Lesson #656 January 6, 2007

Someone looking over your shoulder and telling you what it means to be a good Christian and a bad one, and it often has to do with good deeds, and it is manipulation. They had everything in the Corinthian church that you will find in almost any church today. We are looking at grace orientation and doctrinal orientation. These are those who can stimulate to love. It is a wonderful thing to see believers growing in grace and knowledge. All good things happen to those who grow. The greatest life imaginable is that you as a believer can stimulate to love. When a mature believer has the qualities of personal love toward God. You realize that you have something from the Lord which is irreplaceable. All of these things are wrapped up into love for God. When people see that, when they see what the spiritual life can do, that is a stimulant. In fact, sometimes, it is an intoxicant. It is something that you notice and want for yourself. You see what ἀγαπή is in the life of the believer. What encouragement that is to see a believer expressing personal love toward God and impersonal love toward all mankind. If you do not have impersonal love, then people will drive you crazy. With whatever close association there is...marriage, work, business partner. When you have impersonal love toward all mankind, then you are stimulating to love.

When you, as a mature believer, apply doctrine and the problem solving devices of your life, and the immature believer who may be lacking, sees the advantages in his spiritual life. He has to be in the vicinity. You do not get to see the results of spiritual results in other believers if you do not associate with them. You do not get to grow together as a family grows up together. We are all part of the same and we are all indispensable body. We are all fulfilling the purpose of God for our lives. Only then can we stimulate to love. Encouragement comes when we continue to advance. When the person around us witnesses our stability. People like stability in a life which goes in 6 different directions. That is the result of what doctrine can do for your mental attitude and for your life. You cannot see this outside the assembly. This is the only way you can be motivated and encouraged in assembly. You can be motivated and encouraged by Bible doctrine.

When you are the person who can stimulate to love; and when you are stimulated to love; when you have that, you are also stimulated to good deeds; divine good deeds. Those deeds which can be manifested in the assembly. That is what this context is. We are stimulated not to forsake the assembling of ourselves together. There is a greater opportunity for divine good here than anywhere else. There is divine good in witnessing; those who are teaching in prep school are involved in divine good. Those who serve as deacons are doing divine good. There are opportunities for divine good and they open up. Sooner or later you will find your niche in the plan of God; you have a spiritual gift, how will you use it. Some people are prayer warriors, which is another reason for assembling. It is a powerful weapon. It is an association thing.

Now growth can occur outside of Berachah; but when you do not assemble, you miss out on one of the great advantages. Your association with someone in Berachah for good deeds are exponentially greater than somewhere else. It is doctrinal encouragement for spiritual growth which really counts. The stimulation which this provides can accelerate your own spiritual advance. When you apply doctrine... People watch other people; not just in airports. They may find someone attractive and they observe. They observe what goes on as far as you are concerned. You get an impression of those by talking to them. There is a reason for us to assemble. We can advance in an isolated situation. This passage makes it clear that there is an advantage to assembling together. Do not forget it and do not ignore it. There is an advantage to driving a long distance to Berachah. This is the added advantage to seeing other believers who are advancing and seeing it in yourself. It is the stimulation for your own advance. There is a comradeship found in Berachah like no where else. The enforced academic discipline is another great advantage over being isolated. It is conducive to greater concentration. There is no unnecessary movement; no refrigerators to wander off to, dogs barking, no babies squalling. There is no distraction at Berachah other than your own negative volition. This is why studying with electronic media, it is better to be in a group. If you are near an FX group or a DVD group, that is a legitimate assembly.

There is some sort of problem in the assembly of the Corinthian church. They reveal a disadvantage in an assembly. The Corinthian church is filled with factions and disagreements.

The Greek word for an assembled church is ἐκκλησία = church. This word is used in many ways.

Ἐκκλησία

1. Used in classical Greek for an assembly of citizens. Athens was supposedly a pure democracy and they assembled together to decide things.
2. The assembly of Israel when Moses received the Ten Commandments and gave them this and the rest of the Law. Act This was not meant to associate Israel and the church. Some try to use this passage to equate Israel and the church.
3. A general assembly of people. Acts 19:25, 29, 32
4. It has a technical use for the body of Christ. Believers in union with Christ, which is all believers. It is not just those sitting in the auditorium. Eph. 1:22–23 5:25–27 Col. 2:9–10 It is called the universal church.
5. Also used for the local church, which is what Berachah is. 1Cor. 1:2 1Thess. 1:1 Rev. 2–3

In our context, it refers to people gathering in the local church at Corinth. It was a local assembly.

Ακουω = to hear. Paul is persistently getting or hearing about divisions in the church, from many different sources. From various reports, from many people. Where there is a lot of smoke, there must be fire.

Σχιζματα = divisions, splits. They had wrong opinions about things; errant thinking which leads to divisions. In Berachah, they are the exception; in the Corinthian church, these were the rule. Among whom, we will get in vv. 21–22. Factions, cliques, separation by social position, thinking and by activity. This existed even at the Communion table, where it was most evident. Between rich and poor, slave and free; class warfare. That is the last thing which ought to be happening in any church. There should be no class, racial conflict. There are those with more and less money; those who are better dressed, those who are more class conscience; there are different races; none of these things should divide us.

Politicians foment class warfare all the time. You hear it in political speeches all the time. It is a means of gathering votes. Fomenting class warfare is done to gather votes. If this is wrong in the church, then it is wrong in society as a whole. Manifest in taxing the rich, redistribution of wealth. It has never worked and it has been shown over and over again not to work. Soviet Union, China, South American countries. The more socialism there is, the more divisive it is. This message resonates with many people. “Yeah, tax those guys; I want some of their wealth.” The politicians think that the rich are living off the poor or exploiting the poor. Big business and capitalists who grab all the money and hoard it and vote for me, and I will fix it for you. The haves are the ones investing in the economy and providing the jobs. When there are no haves, there are mostly have-nots, which is what happens in most socialized nations.

Wealth brings more wealth to a nation. The poor you will have with you always. The United States does not have the terrible poverty found in the 3rd world. There are times when the wealthy are dishonest and greedy and this can be a blight on a portion of society. When people seek to seize and appropriate other’s possessions. We have laws against this in capitalism. Capitalism channels greed for the overall good. The capitalist acquires that which others possess, which is done by exchanging. You get something by giving something. That is capitalism. You give money and our society has more consumer items than has ever been in the history of the world. Sin natures exist and corruption exists; this is true of every race and every social level. Individual corruption does not negate the virtues of capitalism. Politicians need someone to blame. It is a stimulation to hate. This is what is going on in the Corinthian church. When they come together to celebrate communion, they come in factions. They come to a love feast, but the rich get it all and the poor get nothing, and they are all out of fellowship by the time that they get to the Lord’s table. There have been factions in Berachah Church in the past. They have been crushed and driven out. There are churches all over Houston with old factions from Berachah. Bobby knows many of those people.

We have the unifying quality that no one else has.

1Cor. 11:18 For first of all, when you come together in the church, I hear that there are divisions among you, and I partly believe it.

1Cor. 11:18–19

Lesson #657 January 9, 2008

Wednesday

When a relationship hinders your spiritual advance, then you need to let it go. No relationship in the world is a step backwards. There are two sides to spiritual advance: sitting and metabolizing in spiritual advance; and then what happens out in the real world whether we function on the doctrine in our souls or function based upon the sin nature.

Class warfare, which is one of the things which we will see more and more of, based upon money and wealth; and racial distinctions; and these things existed in the Corinthian church. These people got divisive about spiritual gifts. Opposing factions and cliques formed. In the melee which followed, the other factions and church leadership was in the middle; and everyone was at war with one another. Apollos was run out of town. He got in the middle and had to leave. What is missing in the Corinthian church is what is missing in many of our own lives. Impersonal love is the secret to so much problem solving in life. Impersonal love is probably more important than personal love. Personal love lasts as long as someone is attractive; as long as you get along; until the veneer comes off (your or them). This is taken care of by impersonal love. The Corinthians did not have it. Many times Berachah church has sent churches out into the vicinity with divisiveness. The worse thing about all of this is the fact that it denigrates the Lord Jesus Christ; it discredits Him. He is denigrated as well when He is dragged into politics. Lawsuits discredit the name of Jesus Christ. They are filed in front of the entire community and all the dirt is seen by all. You do not air your dirty laundry in front of the entire city of Corinth. Impersonal love is the only remedy to all of that. It corrects and remedies such relationships and it revives relationships on the rocks. Wonderful fellowship in a social setting; 2 hours during Berachah's New Year's Eve.

These divisions were manifested in associations. All of this divisiveness took place in these associations, but it moved into the association, which is the Communion service.

There is a background to the Communion Service

1. Their assembly time lasted much longer and was much more involved than ours. Basically because of the nature of the church.
2. The church came together in the assembly for a meal. Many a problem has started over a meal.
3. The meal was patterned after the Lord's supper. His supper was with the 12 disciples in the upper room. It is what they patterned their feast after.
4. It was at the end of this supper, after Judas had been dismissed, Christ said, "This do in remembrance of Me." Separate and distinct from the meal, the last supper.
5. It was not until the end of the meal that Christ inaugurated the bread and the cup ritual.
6. They ate the meal first, which was the last Passover meal in all of history. This is the one in which our Lord instituted something entirely different.

7. This Last Supper was the model for the early church just like our Lord and the 12. It was a 2-part thing—a pre-meal, and then Communion.

These pre-meals were drawn out things. Many of the believers were slaves, so they could not easily get together. When they got together, the church spent as much time together as possible. They did not just stand around; they got their best chefs and whipped up some food. The church got used to having a meal before communion. Some had plenty to eat and some had practically nothing. There was alcohol; so some got loaded and they began to insult one another. There was social life dissention. As long as these long meals, believers got severely out of fellowship. There was no filling of the Holy Spirit. If you do not judge yourselves rightly, you will be judged.

This did not bode well for the ritual when there were those angry at one another. There was no unity in their Communion. This was about as far away from unity as they could possibly be.

At the end of v. 18, Paul says, ..in part, I believe it. This means that Paul does not want to believe what is going on, but he knows that some of this is true. Paul is prone to giving them the benefit of the doubt. There is the rumor factory. Unfortunately, for Paul, this stuff was checking out to be true.

When individuals get pissy with one another, the church leadership needs to step in, which is what was going on with Paul...he would have to step in.

1Cor. 11:18 For first of all, when you come together in the church, I hear that there are divisions among you, and I partly believe it.

There is actually a positive side to all of this, and Paul notes this.  $\Delta\epsilon\gamma\alpha\rho$  = it is necessary for. Then the present active infinitive of to be. It is necessary for there also to be... Airêsis in the accusative plural, and it can occasionally be rendered heresies but here it means factions with self-chosen views. They have opinions contrary to doctrine. It is what they choose to believe. That is human viewpoint. It is bolstered by a very active sin nature. This human viewpoint has manifested itself in all the in-fighting of the church.

It is necessary for there to be anti-doctrinal views among you? Would Paul say that? It is necessary for self-chosen views to be among them. Paul won't stop here; but he will explain why. This stuff often exists for a good reason; in other words, the existence is not all bad. The divisiveness is evil, but there is a good side to it. Man meant it for evil but God means it for good. There is a beneficial purpose. Hina, which introduces a purpose clause. This will be the beneficial purpose behind the factions and their false views. God turns this evil tendency of factions into a positive. God turns this evil tendency into a positive. Those who are approved are mature believers, and there are some mature believers in the Corinthian church. They have not given into the wild factions. They are not corrupted by the factions. They assembled and the factions were at each other's throats. They did not give in to the temptation to join up with the wrong-thinking, self-chosen group, the immature believer group with self-chosen views. Peer pressure place. The Corinthians cannot see it. As long as you are inculcating doctrine, your potential exists and you will grow. If you choose to indulge in a harmful, personal, social relationship, it will bring you down. Passing this test is important. Social life which blunts your spiritual growth needs to be set aside. It does not take much to move you into the realm of a social distraction.

What Bobby is talking about is what Bible doctrine or the lack thereof does for us as a believer. After all, it is our life. Without doctrine, we have no spiritual life. Paul knows what the social problems are and he presents the solution. What is the application; how does doctrine work?

We are born into this world, and we are born spiritually dead, separated from God, hopeless and with no future, and we are born with a sin nature. This sin nature was passed down to us through Adam. We can never lose the sin nature while we are in this life. We have a soul, and that soul is the image of God. We have mentality, conscience, self-consciousness, etc. Once we are born, we begin to grow. As the process of physical and mental growth continues, we are subject to exterior influences. We are raised in a certain environment and we develop trends of thinking. These are called the formative years. All this environmental and experiential input programs your soul. It creates the norms and standards of your thinking and of your conscience. It affects even how you think about yourself and it influences your volition, all which comes from the input of our environment. All of this input becomes the very fabric of our soul and life. It produces our outlook of life and our viewpoint of life. This is the human viewpoint aspect of life; the human viewpoint side. As we grow into adolescence and adulthood, we continue to learn and experience the human viewpoint side of life. All of this programming defines who we are in this natural realm.

There is parenting, and then interaction with others, and schooling; and all of this combines to define who we are in the natural realm (this is related, of course, to our innate soul). We can learn morality and establishment; and we will also learn immorality, dishonesty, verbal and overt sins; and this is the corruption of our conscience. The output here defines the trend of your sin nature. Bobby is saying that we are a blank slate. We get where we are by outside influences and volition. There is a continuous influence on our lives; all of it.

As a believer, there is another viewpoint: metabolized Bible doctrine, provided that you want to hear it. This is to help to explain what goes on within us as a believer in relationship to human and divine viewpoint. We have a sin nature; we have trends, which correspond to what we have learned in our adolescent and adult life.

Parental training comes into our consciousness for good and for bad. Some don't care about children; some had children too young; and some have carefully trained the child. Then there is divine establishment and morality. The source of this can come from parents and religious input. There is also our associations in life, other than parents. Siblings, friendships, etc. and they help to shape who we are. There are abuses in our life as well; things we are a victim of that we cannot help. Verbal, physical and even sexual abuse, and all is a part of a development of our perceptions and into this mix comes the factor, the old sin nature. This is all lumped together and this comes out to be our human viewpoint and how we live our lives. The blending of all of this establishes who we are as a person, the good and the evil, which we all have to a greater or a lesser degree. We can move toward criminality; we can move toward great morality and establishment orientation.

Then we have the other factor, which is Bible doctrine, and this is the other side of the equation, and it is the only side of the soul house which comes from God. It may appear to be outweighed, but it is not outgunned. Filling of the Holy Spirit and Bible doctrine is we should choose to use it.

Without the influence of Bible doctrine, then you just have the input from around you, and any one of them can be terrible influences. You can have awful influences in your life; you can have liberal Mindset from school, you can have lousy parents, and horrible associations in life; and these all gather to determine who you are. If you do not use the spiritual resources which have been provided for us; if you have nothing to fend off all of this; if you cannot fend that off, then you think and you act just like an unbeliever. Garbage in and garbage out.

Since we have a sin nature, even with the best influences in the world, it can be distorted by the sin nature.

1Cor. 11:18 For first of all, I hear that when you come together as a church there are divisions among you, and in part I believe it.

1Cor. 11:18

Lesson #659 January 13, 2007

Sunday 2

You have a soul and all of this input comes into this blank slate of the soul. However, the influence is not complete and overpowering, as you have volition which can counteract this input. All of this forms your thinking, good and bad. Do not ever forget that you have volitional aspect; you are not just a creature of environment or learning. In the realm of human nature with the input of human viewpoint, out will come human viewpoint.

The sin nature has a temptation aspect as well. Garbage in and garbage out. All of this makes up us. What makes us up? Sin nature, volition, soul and all the input. We have the advantage of Bible doctrine input and the filling of the Holy Spirit which empowers the doctrine to be metabolized, no matter what occurs elsewhere.

Let's take the negative side first. Human formative input is not removed any more than your sin nature is removed. Doctrine does not remove your formative input; it can't; it is part of your human experience. It is the way you make decisions; it is the way you act. Doctrine is an addition. You cannot purge your soul from all of this formative input. It does not matter if you are conscious for this thinking or not. Doctrine will not erase the human development; you will have the same urges, same propensity and the same destructive behavior. Whatever your weaknesses are, they are a part of your tendencies. Doctrine will not take us back to some pristine state where we have never been before; that it will free us from all outside, formative influences. You can escape this, and these things can be defeated by the grace of God, so that they do not control your thinking, actions or emotions; and this is the flow of Bible doctrine into the soul. This flow, which requires the filling of the Holy Spirit, you have hope. Confidence. You cannot reverse your bad decisions, but they are in the past. They can be defeated by the grace of God.

The Reformation Process of Doctrine

1. Doctrine gives us the divine alternative to human viewpoint.
2. Doctrine gives the different perspective, apart from the sin nature and apart from the human input and apart from the corruption of many years of human viewpoint.
3. This is generally true: doctrine sheds light on the darkness of the soul. It reveals just who you are.
4. Doctrine reveals who we are in the plan of God. This is also the real you in the plan of God.
5. Doctrine gives us the options and the means to overcome all human viewpoint and to resist the trends of the sin nature. Volition + sin nature + input results in specific trends. Doctrine is the render human viewpoint ineffective.
6. Doctrine overhauls our thinking. We have a way of thinking. It is all dependent upon thinking, input, the sin nature. It changes the way that we think.
7. It does not remove the experiences of our life...especially the terrible ones which haunt us.
8. The memory and the effects of the past are still operational.
9. They can still affect us, unless doctrine intervenes and permeates your thinking. That is our temporal salvation. That which changes us. It is like renovating an old house. The old house needs some things. It is old and antiquated. It needs walls knocked out, new countertops, new fixtures, etc. The old house represents us and all that we are from the human perspective. The old structure of the house, the framework, it is still there; just like our sin nature, our formative experiences, the trends of your sin nature are still there. The renovated house gives a whole new perspective—a whole new look—to the house. It is still the same foundation and the same basic structure, but it no longer dominates the view of the house. As a believer, we can be renovated. Rom. 12:2. And do not be conformed to this world, but be transformed by the renewing of your mind, in order to prove by you what is that good and pleasing and perfect will of God. The trends, the propensity, the darkness, the human input is all still there. Rom. 7:15: For I don't know what I am doing. For I don't practice what I desire to do; but what I hate, that I do. The old influences are still there.

How Does Renovation Occur?

1. As doctrine is inculcated, the old things fade away; they are overwhelmed. They are less apparent. Doctrine is the input and it is apparent by how it comes out. The old way of thinking, this human viewpoint, begins to fade, and it becomes less and less apparent. Through this entire pipeline comes a whole new way of thinking.

2. Doctrine becomes the main influence instead of the human viewpoint. Don't look down at someone because of the garbage in their souls; you have garbage in your soul as well.
3. Human viewpoint becomes less potent in your life.
4. As you mature, divine viewpoint begins to supercede the human viewpoint and the garbage. It does not happen overnight. Before you know it, divine viewpoint comes out more and more. It begins to supercede this other thing.
5. This means that you fall back on human viewpoint less and less, and you take in more and more doctrine. The old viewpoint the old problems and even the human good all fade away. As a believer, you have divine viewpoint and human viewpoint, and you will fluctuate between the two; it is inevitable.

Renovation of the Mind

1. When you continue with doctrine, gradually, imperceptibly to us, human viewpoint will be pushed into the background. It does not happen overnight. You can't go to 5 Bible classes and think that human viewpoint is gone. Even after 20 years, human viewpoint is not wiped out.
2. Your human propensities and trends learned and experienced over so many years are imprinted, and they will be renovated to a new way of thinking.
3. It always requires the inculcation of doctrine so that your thinking can be renovated. You can either renovate your thinking or you can live off of human viewpoint.
4. This renovation is manifested in your application of doctrine. It comes out.
5. The application supercedes the human influences of a lifetime. The propensities you will have for the rest of your life; those are your trends for life. Don't be discouraged here. You can still lapse into doing things which are hateful and destructive to yourself. When you fall back, don't say that doctrine does not work. In this situation, you have made the bad decision. As divine viewpoint pushes to the forefront, your spiritual maturity will reflect your divine viewpoint being dominant in your thinking. It involves consistency and metabolism of Bible doctrine. No matter what circumstance you find yourself in, no matter how askew that it gets and how that input affects you, you are in Bible class and you have the option and opportunity to suppress all of that and to think with divine viewpoint. The more you learn and apply, the greater your ability to resist the old viewpoint and trends; the more you are able to choose the spiritual options which you have. This is developing a conscience filled with doctrine. As you develop this conscience, as you make more and more good decisions, the old excuses, the old explanations, the old relativism, the old human viewpoint are all overruled and they lose their hold and they do not govern your thinking or your behavior. They are there, but they are pushed back. You do not cancel out the old thinking and trends, but you do not fall for them either. Your divine viewpoint is the active resistance, which is more effective. You go from "I won't do it" to "I don't want to do it."

One day you wake up and you operate from spiritual maturity. Now you cling to doctrine as your life. A life of human frustration and emptiness, as versus a life which is wonderful.

There will be times, as human beings, you will fall off the wagon and the old trends will reassert themselves. However, do not get discouraged because you do the very thing that you hate. Rebound and continue the process of advancing. One day you will wake up and you will no longer want to go back to the human viewpoint destructive ways.

The ones who are running the marathon see the results and they are on a runner's high, and they do not want to go back.

Dependent upon the depth of the human viewpoint thinking resident in your soul, and all those things which are corrupt; the maturity process can take a different period of time. It will happen. Just stay positive and consistent. Just have hope because you are in the process of renovation. When a house renovation is stopped midway, it looks worse than it did when you started.

Bible doctrine represents the very words of God. Maturity means there is little desire to return to the old ways of thinking. Continue to take in the Word, continue to rebound, and the rest will not go away, but it will fade, and it will become less and less the great temptation that it has always been. Divine viewpoint will define your thinking and your way of life. If you think your happiness represents your social life? When you realize what divine viewpoint does for you, you will not believe that you resided in that old mess. Bobby hopes we experience the runner's high.

1Cor. 11:18 For first of all, I hear that when you come together as a church there are divisions among you, and in part I believe it.

1Cor. 11:20

Lesson #660 January 16, 2008

Wednesday

There is some divisiveness and it occurs at the love feast prior to the Lord's Supper. There is the negative particle and the stative verb. Ouch estin simply means it is not and better rendered it is impossible. Therefore, when you meet together, it is impossible... There is a social gathering, which has become a distraction for a large number of believers in the church. It had become a real social nightmare. Their social lives and social standing have come into play here, retarding their advance. This social life was entirely contradictory to the unity of the church. There was no unity; there was no reverence. These were manifestations of the spiritual state of the church. This meal took on the character of a family meal where a squabble breaks out. For those who are in the conflict and those outside of it, there are uncomfortable moments and lots of mental attitude sins. They cannot even have the notion of a meaningful ritual. Communion cannot take place when these people are all out of fellowship and there is no occupation with Jesus Christ. Under the wrong conditions, a social life cannot exist. The wrong relationships take a believer out of fellowship. A little social life can go a long way to bringing you to a decision to supercede doctrine with something else. Then you return to the trends of the sin nature. Social intercourse of that type can only progress around the sin nature. This sort of social life is not worth anything, if it is a detriment to your spiritual life. The deeper the believer goes, the more out of fellowship they remain in this sort of social life. They are ultimately headed for a personal disaster. Intimate secular relationships have nothing that you need.

If you are having a relationship with someone who is not positive to doctrine, that relationship is destructive and that relationship will take you into pain and misery.

Bible doctrine is your lifeline to the spiritual life. You cannot allow the rate of learning doctrine become less the rate of forgetting doctrine. You would be letting doctrine be supercede by secular life. All the human viewpoint and formative input in your soul overwhelm divine viewpoint in your soul. You essentially have a negative balance of doctrine in the soul.

At Berachah, there are 4 hours a week offered to us to get divine viewpoint so that we can get doctrine and grow. That must offset 16 waking hours X 7 minus the 4 hours: 108 hours while we are awake during the week when we get human viewpoint. This means, we need to take in doctrine over the week in some other way, or to knock off the human viewpoint exposure.

When you are in school and you got 3 hours of lecture in a classroom, then you needed to get some study time in as well. We are mandated to think with divine viewpoint. We gather doctrine into our soul so that we can use it at other times.

A relationship with someone who is negative toward doctrine is a hotbed of human viewpoint. You have put yourself into harm's way. The option is to make certain that your rate of learning exceeds your rate of forgetting. While at work or at play, do you give one minute of thought to doctrine; is doctrine even remotely on your radar screen out in the world?

When you choose to supplement the human viewpoint which constantly assaults you with close interpersonal secular relationships is going to push you in a lopsided way. Doctrine can often be pushed into the background when in such a relationship, because of the impact of that relationship because you want to please that person. There are compromises. What do you get in return? Nothing which furthers your own spiritual advance. This is what is known as an empty manner of life.

What people tend to do is to compartmentalize. The human viewpoint coupled with the sin nature. When in the secular social life, you get mostly or all human viewpoint, and the trends of the sin nature are in full operation. In church, you take that as a separate compartment from what happens on the next day. We might rationalize in order to have our own way about this. Bobby is just there to teach us, not to judge us. Our function in life is between the Lord and us.

All of this formative input: parents, some establishment principles, associations in life (good, bad and indifferent), abuses (some much worse than others). All of these help to form our personalities. These might even continue to influence us. All of this human viewpoint is constantly bombarding us. Our conscience, volition, mentality is all taking this in all the time.

The only thing that we have to renovate our thinking is that tiny ratio of Bible doctrine. This indicates the ratio of doctrine to human viewpoint: 4 to 108 hours. We need as much doctrine as is possible, if you are serious about spiritual growth.

The filling of the Holy Spirit is much more powerful than all of this other stuff. It won't take will power to avoid some of this stuff, but you will desire to stay away from this stuff. Some of us have become numbed to divine viewpoint; and nothing numbs us faster than an interpersonal relationship with a person who does not take in doctrine. The more it progresses, the more it removes us from doctrine. You cannot afford to forget the doctrine you hear; you cannot afford to be inconsistent.

1Cor. 11:20 Therefore when you come together in one place, it is not to eat the Lord's Supper.

1Cor. 11:20 Personal Relationships Lesson #661 Janu.17, 2008 Thursday

Bobby was asked a question by someone who had a long term association with someone in the workplace. There were other questions.

What is an intimate personal relationship. This is a relationship which involves much time and effort. Those relationships that you cultivate; those that you work on. Those people with whom you have deep and personal conversations with. There are many types of relationships like this. There are confidants; those to whom you reveal yourself. There are those who are your consistent companions when they do not have to be your consistent companions. Bf and gf relationships. What is the key? Compatibility would be nice; it is a good start. Definitely is like-mindedness. For the believer, like-mindedness means the object of the relationship is divine viewpoint. Without divine viewpoint, there is no like-mindedness. Any compromise of standards will mean that a crash of the relationship after the first blush. That which does not stem from like-mindedness. If someone is not like-minded for you, then why do you give them the time of day. It is hard to be lonely sometimes; however, there are a lot worse things in life than being lonely. The quickest way to get distracted in this life is a personal relationship with someone who is not like-minded. You will meet people who have nothing but human viewpoint, which is involved in every realm of life. Some negative volition relationships are necessities. However, these are not the ones that you seek for companionship or love. The more you associate with human viewpoint, the more that it rubs off on you. Personal relationships with those with human viewpoint are invertible; but close personal relationships with those of human viewpoint are not necessary. How do you know when it is a go or a no-go for a relationship? (1) When you have such a relationship, you will need to evaluate your own personal circumstances. (2) You need to evaluate the person involved. (3) You need to evaluate your own areas of weakness. You cannot make these calls without doctrine application. These are times for spiritual growth or retrogression. Some of the greatest temptations you will have are in personal relationships. This is where all the problems come in, as well as all the great joys.

Never begin an intimate personal relationship unless you have evaluated the person, yourself and your motivation for this relationship. Then apply doctrine to the situation.

Think, think, think before you leap. Don't disregard that evaluation; act accordingly. Don't forget your evaluation. Sometimes you know in your gut what is right or wrong, and when you have a gut-full of doctrine, then you need to listen to it.

Rules of Thumb

Although there are no hard and fast rules, there are some rules of thumb to go by.

1. No close personal relationships with unbelievers. This is a recipe for bad influence. No unbeliever can think divine viewpoint.
2. What is the best way to tell if a person is an unbeliever or not? Bobby makes a suggestion here: ask them, "How do you get to heaven." This will tell you immediately what they think of Jesus Christ and you can tell immediately if works are involved. An unbeliever is going to simply lay out a system of works, if they believe in heaven.
3. You cannot allow any human association to affect your own divine viewpoint thinking. If so, you are out of here as fast as a lightning bolt. You cannot afford to retard or reverse the renovation of your soul. An inappropriate personal relationship will do that. Anyone who is anti-doctrine is unsuitable to be with you.
4. Best way to test: get in a conversation with them about the Lord Jesus Christ. The mention of His name is the greatest discriminatory; it is always a producer of emotion. Take a stand on Jesus Christ and your spiritual life. Then sit back and watch to see if they are indifferent, argumentative, or antagonistic.
5. If any of those 3 appear, then forget it. There can be no real intimacy of like-mindedness; it is impossible.
6. In order to have an intimate relationship with a person with human viewpoint, and you already know that they have human viewpoint; you then have to compartmentalize. This means that you keep your doctrine and spiritual life in church and your human viewpoint relationship out of church.
7. If you are afraid to bring up the subject of Jesus Christ to this person, for fear of offending them, or ruining the relationship, then you have a problem.
8. There is no basis to be intimate. One of the easiest ways to be drawn away from divine viewpoint is a relationship with someone of the opposite sex. You want to please that person; but when pleasing means you compromise Biblical standards, then human viewpoint wins. Refrain from the arm candy. Once it is a done thing, the emotion and the subjectivity make it very difficult to extract yourself.

How do you know if you are being adversely affected? Especially if you are an immature believer. This doctrine was inserted between points 2 and 3 of the previous doctrine (or 3 and 4?).

How do you know?

1. One good way to know when that relationship consistently kicks your sin nature into gear. It normally runs along the lines of your trends.

2. When you consistently make bad decisions which take you out of fellowship. If they help to take you out of fellowship regularly, then you know the relationship is problematic.
3. If you are tempted in the association, especially in your area of weakness, by the very nature of the relationship, and you easily concede., then you slide right back into your old patterns, the trends of your sin nature.
4. That destructive, personal intimate relationship will have no good ending for you.
5. If you find yourself out of fellowship much of the time while in their company, then rebound and remove yourself from their company. Rom. 7:15: I am not practicing what I ought to do, but I practice the things which I hate.... This let's you know that there are things which are out of synch.

The rationalization might be, it is only a dinner; and you may find them quite attractive and enticing. But this is how it starts. It is hard to make the choice where there is casual contact. When it is obvious that you have an unbeliever by the tail or someone who is not interested in doctrine, then you cut them loose.

You do not need an intimate relationship in order to present the gospel. When do you push it and when do you pull back? Be careful out there, because it is not going anywhere. If you take it somewhere, it will be destructive to your personal life.

Make good decisions from a position of strength. You are gaining a position of strength from Bible doctrine. Do not walk out of church and compartmentalize your life. What is the point of doctrine if you don't actually apply it outside of Berachah Church? We are in Bible class for a purpose; if you don't use it, it is pointless. You will have a life of great purposeless and misery.

The Corinthians are assembling to meet for the Lord's Supper, but Paul says they are not really meeting for the Lord's Supper.

In Acts, they daily gathered for a meal and Communion. In the early church, Acts 20:7, they met for the Lord's Supper on Sunday.

The biggest problem was a destructive social time. The early church associated the Lord's Supper with the Love Feast, which was a meal. It was about unity and brotherly love, supposedly. It was to be a time of fellowship, but it was exactly the opposite. A close personal relationship destroys our personal life; and their social lives were destroying their spiritual lives. This is what Paul is addressing.

Feb. 3rd business meeting instead of a 2nd service.

The Communion Table is the doctrine resident in your soul. It is a test of our spiritual standing and our capability to worship Jesus Christ. V. 20 reveals a test failure; if they fail here, then that means they have failed in their primary purpose of spiritual growth. If you are unable to concentrate, then what is in your soul? The problem is, when they assembled, their social life took precedence over all else and their spiritual life took a back seat. Their departure from spiritual momentum took place at a meal, which was their social life. This meal was the problem. It became the overriding factor in the assembly. Social life supplanted the doctrine which they had previously learned. There was no consideration of Jesus Christ. They ate a meal, but it was not what they were supposed to do. At the same time, they were fomenting factual squabbles amongst themselves. This pre-meal set the tone for their time of worship. It was immediately preceding Communion and it set the tone for Communion. This social gathering degenerated into a divisive, segregated groups of people with mental attitude sins. This intruded on the worship service of Communion.

The soul worship and the unity simply cannot happen under the conditions in which the Corinthians meet. Why is social life so out of line? These believers are rarely in fellowship, because they got out of fellowship when having their love feast. They remained out of fellowship, being conflicted and at odds with one another. They had mental attitude sins, verbal sins, and they committed overt sins.

The relationships could only progress around their sin natures. Doctrine could not be metabolized and they were starving for spiritual food in the midst of a feast. Carnality and human viewpoint always clash with metabolizing doctrine and divine viewpoint. Their relationship with the Lord cannot progress and their relationships with others simply was a manifestation of their sorry spiritual life.

Social life can be the greatest distraction of the spiritual life and spiritual growth. Be careful with whom you choose to associate; human viewpoint companions lead to human viewpoint thinking. It is never about whom you can please. Life is about pleasing the Lord and everything else false into place.

When they come together, it is not for the Lord's supper, it is for this social feast and all-out warring against one another. Ironically, this meal is called the agapê feast.

1Cor. 11:20 Therefore when you come together in one place, it is not to eat the Lord's Supper.

1Cor. 11:21: For in eating, each one takes his own supper ahead of others; and one is hungry and another is drunk.

Unbelievers have nothing but human viewpoint; and they certainly cannot have any Bible doctrine. A dear friend of Bobby's from the church wrote a book called "Love, sex and shacking." THE EARLY church linked to the love feast: they had the meal< which

The computer screwed up and died.

1Cor. 11:20 Therefore when you come together in one place, it is not to eat the Lord's Supper.

1Cor. 11:21: For in eating, each one takes his own supper ahead of others; and one is hungry and another is drunk.

John 13:34–35 capacity for love Lesson #664 Jan. 23, 2008 Wednesday

The last Passover. John 13:34–35 are the very words that our Lord spoke after Judas left. A new commandment I give to you, that you love one another: just as I have loved you, you also are to love one another. By this all people will know that you are my disciples, if you have love for one another." Are they supposed to make a public display of affection even if they really don't like one another. Bobby's been to a church where they stand up and turn around and say I love you. There is an attitude which is being talked about here. They were all intimate friends and followers of the Lord Jesus Christ. His expressed attitude toward them was a personal love for them.

Peter could not generate enough love to claim the Lord during the crucifixion. He is exhorting them to the same sort of personal love that He has for them, which requires a maximum of virtue which includes impersonal love. That virtue is the key for capacity for love. They were to acquire a proper mental attitude toward one another. Yet Jesus is exhorting virtue love of these believers for one another. Spiritual advance is the only way to gain capacity for love. In this passage, our Lord is actually instructing them to advance spiritually in order to fulfill these mandates.

Over and over again, our Lord demonstrated personal love and impersonal love with the disciples and with others in His close circles.

Bobby is going to give us a full-blown doctrine of personal love. Jesus is saying these things not just for His disciples but for us as well. Between intimate associates there is personal love.

Capacity for Love

1. Capacity for love is expressive thinking. When you begin to think with divine viewpoint, your thinking is expanded. It is no longer confined to the narrow pathways of human viewpoint. That is when capacity for love begins to happen.
2. In that sense, capacity for love has a similarity to occupation with Christ.
  - a. Occupation with Christ is a love which concentrates and focuses upon Him; you focus on doctrines of soteriology. God is absolutely perfect and He is infinitely worthy of our love. This love concentrates on the object of our love.
  - b. Our capacity for personal love entails our ability to concentrate on the object of our love. We are able with capacity to concentrate on the object of our love.
  - c. That person is part of our thinking all the time.
  - d. The ones you love personally are at the center of your existence. All of those are at the center of our world. In the same way, but not as intensive, the ones we love personally, our intimates, are at the heart of our existence. When you can do that, that is capacity for love.

- e. If our attention drifts and we become restless, which is a lack of capacity; if we cannot focus on that person and we cannot focus on them, we have no capacity. That is the story of so much romance.
  - f. Capacity for love means there is no intrusion into your bond from the outside world. You don't allow it. Your personal love does not change because of outward pressures or because of anyone else.
  - g. Capacity for love ; part of this is about teaching us if we have capacity for love.
  - h. Capacity appreciates and lauds the qualities of the object of our love. We are enamored of that person's qualities.
  - i. Capacity for love never takes the intimate relationship for granted. As you develop capacity, you develop it and you appreciate it and you nurture it. If you have no desire to do this, then you ought to question your capacity for love.
3. Capacity for love projects a relaxed attitude in the presence of the person whom we love. No insecurities. No need to impress or to gain approbation.
  4. Capacity for love is an acquired deference. It is acquired by spiritual advance. Personal love toward another person is an acquired deference. It is consideration for that person and maximum respect for that person and maximum admiration for that person. That is exactly the way we think about the Lord Jesus Christ when we are occupied with Him. Deference, consideration, esteem, honor, respect for that person.
  5. Capacity for love is not self-centered; it is not self-serving; it is not deceptive. Do you think you love someone when you are constantly deceiving them? Capacity for love is not uptight. Capacity for love is not agenda driven; you have a plan and you intend to impose it no matter what it takes. Capacity for love is not manipulative. Personal love without capacity does not need to be manipulative. It is not based on various lust patterns of the sin nature. Personal love is not a lust pattern. Capacity for love and the operation of the sin nature are not compatible.
  6. Lack of capacity is manifested by certain things: temporary infatuations, lusts (approbation, sexual, etc.), the need to lie (do you have to lie to the person you personally love?), unreasonable demands on the one you love, by self-justifications, by fake flattery.
  7. It is the staying power in a relationship.
  8. Capacity for love is the ability to put another's interests and concerns above your own. We wonder what others are thinking about us, etc. that is self-centered when it overrides the interests and concerns of the one you love.
  9. Capacity for love is developed to its fullest by utilizing its mechanics of the spiritual life. There is a certain amount of capacity an unbeliever can have and a certain amount of capacity that the believer negative to doctrine can have.
  10. Capacity for personal love is virtue dependent. If you do not have virtue, you do not have capacity for love; hence the importance of doctrine.

11. If you do have virtue, you are the world's greatest lover...and Bobby does not mean the world's greatest physical lover. A physical relationship, particularly premature one, masks the lack of capacity for love. You lose perspective; you do not know if they have any capacity. You cannot every step back to that pristine moment where you can determine if you can be a friend of that person. That is the recipe for never finding true personal love. There is no virtue to be found. You are not looking for it when you have a physical relationship. If you have no capacity, what do you bring to the table? You are looking for this person and you are not finding them. You are finding others with no capacity for personal love. This does not make for very good personal relationships. You are finding those with no doctrine and all human viewpoint. It is not possible. This is not the capacity which you need as a believer in Jesus Christ. What is the basis for your great friendships and relationships. If you have not developed capacity from virtue you will not recognize it in others. Our Lord demonstrated it and now the Apostles will know what it is. You may like what you see, but you won't know where it came from or how to reciprocate it. The one with capacity will recognize that you don't have it. You have to bring capacity for love to the relationship from your spiritual growth. If you don't have capacity, you will not develop it inside of a relationship. It comes from doctrine resident in the soul. You don't get that in a relationship. If you continue to seek relationships with those with no doctrine and no capacity, then you will not find real love. Looking for love in all the wrong places (human viewpoint). The more you associate with human viewpoint, the less capacity you will find.

Christ has a personal love for these disciples, "As I have loved you, love one another." His personal love is our pattern for personal love. This is a tall order. You will need to think with the mind of Christ in order to fulfill it. That is how you love one another even as the Lord has loved us. It is not to look for someone who is attractive but to gain capacity in your own soul. You will find someone who is attractive, but the most attractive quality in a person is their soul; and their capacity for love. That is the most attractive thing they have. The most beautiful people on the exterior are often those who are the most self-centered.

The content of our Lord's love and capacity is exemplified in a passage Eph. 5:25–30: Husbands, love your wives, as Christ loved the church and gave himself up for her, might sanctify her, having cleansed her by the washing of water with the word, so that he might present the church to himself in splendor, without spot or wrinkle or any such thing, that she might be holy and without blemish. In the same way husbands should love their wives as their own bodies. He who loves his wife loves himself. For no one ever hated his own flesh, but nourishes and cherishes it, just as Christ does the church, because we are members of his body.

You can't have enough intimate personal relationships, but you cannot have too many. Personal love can also decline or disappear even. Capacity for love can decline with spiritual decline. Virtue love also requires the application of impersonal love. Personal love will not carry the day; impersonal love is the basis for personal love among people. No greater demonstration of personal love than our Lord on the cross. Personal love depends upon attractiveness. You won't love someone personally unless you have some basic values in common. All of this can change. Their capacity changes. You may become quite disappointed with a person when you find out what their political viewpoint is. Personal love is all about attractiveness and capacity for love. Impersonal love has nothing to do with that. We have impersonal love for another believer because they are in Christ and a part of the body of Christ. There is the reason and the motivation for impersonal love. There is a reason for it. Our Lord loved everyone of us believers. Bobby is glad he does not know about our lives and that we do not know about his. We are all members of the body of Christ. Do we have any less obligation to love one another? Those disciples were His intimates. Our Lord needed impersonal love too, not dependent upon the personal attractiveness of the object but on the virtue of the lover. The one you love will not always be attractive; momentarily and for a long period of time.

You must maintain a relaxed mental attitude. No personal love exists there. You cannot love every person with personal love. You only love intimates with the same basic values, compatibilities, and like-mindedness. However, impersonal love can be used to supercede the obnoxiousness of the believers with whom you do not share these things.

Christ is commending us to love other believers in this John passage. All of this is not present in the unbeliever or in the negative believer. You will not find capacity for love in an unbeliever or negative believer. Divisiveness cannot exist where impersonal love is applied. Virtue love among believers drives out such divisiveness. Virtue love is based upon doctrine in the soul.

At the Last Supper our Lord announced that He did not want His disciples to become divided and fractured. The Corinthians are doing exactly the opposite, demonstrating no capacity; they were not fulfilling the Lord's mandates. We are also exhorted to love one another. This does not mean that you walk out into the parking lot, grab a random person, and say, "I really love you." because you don't.

1Cor. 11:20–22

Lesson #666 January 27, 2008

Sunday 1

The plan of God is all contained within the pages of the Word of God. We are to make application of His Word to our life. It should not seem to us to be a grey, dull purpose.

The Communion Table is a critical aspect of the worship service, so it is critical even for them. However, these believers at Corinth are incapable of making this a meaningful worship. If you do not have enough doctrine to concentrate during the Lord's Supper, you might as well eat at home for all the good that it does you. This will be Paul's recommendation in v. 22.

1Cor. 11:20 Therefore when you assemble, together in one place, it is not to eat the Lord's Supper.

The are accomplishing the form of the Last Supper but not the intent of it. V. 21 speaks of the love feast which occurred prior to the Lord's Supper. The conclusion of v. 21—some believers are hungry and others are drunk. The well-off believers brought a lot of food and drink, and they took their own supper first and they ate a lot. Possibly the idea was to leave others out of it. There was gluttony and intoxication. They were excessive in their love feast. Some believers were poor and some were slaves. When they arrived, they anticipated sharing a meal with those at the love feast. They got ignored, snubbed, and they went hungry. The well-heeled believers unpacked their food and wine, and commenced to gorging themselves. These believers lacked impersonal love and it was all human viewpoint. This is how these people lived, and human viewpoint spread like wildfire. They are negative toward doctrine, they are divided into factions, and they could only think with human viewpoint when assembling. So they capitulated to the trends of their sin nature. This is classic reversionism. They are falling back on their old input. We are born with a sin nature; we all have it. The input in our lives is the environment interfacing with our souls. As we grow, there are formative inputs. Most have parents or something similar to that and there is always input from those persons. We have are associations, those we are associated with in life. These associations can be good or bad. There are also abuses which we face and in some cases, it is very destructive, but, it is a part of the formative input. There is the current human viewpoint influences which we face each and every day. Sometimes we choose to be intimately involved with it and sometimes we don't. Religion which can bring with it morality. Many learn religion from morality.

The prior religious experience of the Corinthians was the phallic cult of Aphrodite. That experience was they had a great feast, and they feasted there to a point of gluttony and drank to a point of inebriation and they fornicated with some temple priestess to celebrate fertility. This is what temple worship was all about, and the more they went. What was occurring was, the more scar tissue that was formed on their soul, the more that they returned to their cultic religion. We understand it as destructive and immoral, but that was their formative input, which is a pattern of lasciviousness. It certainly appealed to their sin nature. Their pre-meal was becoming more and more like feasting at the heathen temples. This became very exclusionary, and everyone was out of fellowship. The hungry poor and the slaves were mixing to some degree with the well-heeled, but they were not included in this meal. Their class distinction far outweighed the doctrine of the believer in the body of Christ concept. This is social life and corruption; ;doctrinal standards are compromised. These kinds of people can only influence you to human viewpoint. If you seek human viewpoint, it will affect you and it will compromise your doctrinal standards. At the very least, it slows down your doctrinal advance.

Have you ever said no to an intimate relationship with human viewpoint. There is an association with corruption and human viewpoint in the church. What do you think that you oppose in this life? Human viewpoint is our opposition. It is that which corrupts your thinking. It corrupts the soul. When human viewpoint influences them the most, then you cannot advance. These Corinthians are more influenced by their temple feasts at this point, so they are falling back to their own formative patterns.

We all fall off the wagon now and again; we have a sin nature, which is a part of the cell structure of your body. As you depart from human viewpoint thinking and the more that divine viewpoint begins to inundate your soul, the more often you stay in fellowship and the more growth you experience. We can never equal the life which God has made for us. Bobby enjoys life much more because of Bible doctrine; he knows where to draw the line; does he slip? Of course he does, as do we. What we do is, we mount up again when we have fallen off, and ride. As we advance spiritually, it happens less and less. Human influence retards us.

1Cor. 11:21: For in eating, each one takes his own supper ahead of others; and one is hungry and another is drunk.

Now Paul will condemn this entire rotten situation.

There are two negatives in this one phrase.  $\Gamma\alpha\rho + \epsilon\chi\omega = do\ you\ not\ have$ . This is an intense phrase.  $M\eta\ ou\chi$  expresses and emphatic denial. It is so strong that it has a positive meaning. Surely, you do not mean that you do not have... There is a note of scorn in Paul's condemnation of them. He is emphatic and scornful. It makes an impact, which is what they deserve. They had corrupted the nature of Christian fellowship. Being with people of like mind is a good thing.

What passes for fellowship is just human viewpoint. They don't see it; they do not recognize their heathen practices. They are no longer fornicating, and that they see as being quite spiritual.

Here, the translator of the NASB adds a very nice touch with just one word. Bobby has found that the input of those in a committee when it comes to writing a book, and the suggestions are generally quite good. Here, the translators throw in this emphatic English interrogative: what? Is this what I taught you? Is this divine viewpoint? With one word, Paul and the translator get across the idea of divine viewpoint versus human viewpoint. What? What are you doing? What are you thinking? What is wrong with you? Why are you fomenting human viewpoint in your thinking? The rate of forgetting was exceeding the rate of their learning. They were getting negative returns on the inculcation of doctrine. The Corinthians are in the red when it comes to doctrine, but they ought to be in the black. The result is factions and dislike for those outside of their own little faction. It is social life reversionism. This one word conveys the disdain and disgust which Paul has for this situation. What? Do you mean that you don't have houses...?

1Cor. 11:22: What! Do you not have houses to eat and drink in? Or do you despise the church of God and humiliate those who have nothing? What shall I say to you? Shall I commend you in this? No, I will not.

1Cor. 11:22

Lesson #667 January 27, 2007

Sunday 2

What? Do you not houses in which to eat and drink? Paul has had enough of these people. He actually has some praise for them. This statement is directed toward the abusers, who we have already studied. They have big problems and this statement is directed toward them. They are the ones who do have houses in contrast to those who do not. If you are going to do what you are going to do, then just keep it at home. Paul is talking about the entire assembly.

What is Paul Saying?

1. If you are going to eat and drink to excess then home is the place to do it.
2. If you are going to involve yourself in this old life (gluttony and drunkenness), donot bring it into the church.
3. Even though Paul is saying, do it at home, these activities will still impact their lives negatively. It is not necessary to be exposed or to expose the trends of your sin nature to those who do not need to see it.
4. Do not flaunt what you have to the have-nots. This does not mean that you cannot dress well; you just do not flaunt it.
5. Do not involve others in the mental attitude sins. Do not take others down. This goes right along with love one another.
6. They do not need to observe your corrupted social life or to participate in your old social patterns.
7. Everyone has their own issues to deal with. We all have our own patterns and our old issues; we all have issues and background and human viewpoint in our lives. If you have a corrupted social life, do not drag other believers into it.
8. In effect, this is the old stumbling block principle. Use your own judgment, if you have any judgment at all. If you see this and if you are positive toward doctrine, then avoid it. There were no church buildings in those days. They assembled in private homes in those days. They were drunken and disorderly in someone's house. Those are bad manners. Paul tells them to leave it in their own home.
9. Paul is not suggesting that it is wrong to have a social life; but it is not wrong to have one. Paul is saying, be careful in the way that you do it. It can be one of the most wonderful things in life and one of the most destructive as well.

Do not expose yourselves unnecessarily to human viewpoint in order to have a good time. Do not over-expose yourself to human viewpoint in order to see and to be seen. Just be careful with whom you do this and be careful about your own motivation. Bobby likes to watch people, to see how they dress and act. It is all about motivation and it is all about who you choose to spend your intimate time with. If you are going to be out of fellowship, if you are going to be fractured, then leave it all at home. These reversionists are affecting everyone. Such a thing will cause a setback in your spiritual advance. Some people look to advance spiritually and Bobby knows they want to advance; and yet, you make choices in this life which is exactly the opposite. When you compartmentalize your life, you will not have the divine viewpoint that you have been designed to have. Paul's strong suggestion is, if you are going to arrive out of fellowship, then stay at home and be out of fellowship there. Do not bring your sorry mental attitude into the church.

If the Corinthian believers are so petty and so crass that they will not even share their food and drink with other believers, then stay at home and eat and drink—you do not have to share there. The purpose of the love feast is harmony and fellowship between members of the congregation. This launches them into the unity of the ritual.

There was a last supper where the disciples enjoyed their companionship and that of Jesus Christ on His final night with them. They did not realize this at the time, because they did not pay attention to doctrine. He passed around the bread and the grape juice and celebrated the Passover, converting it to the Lord's Supper.

Each one of us individually worship God when partaking of the Communion. We are assembled together worshipping together. If we have been out of fellowship and we are sitting at the same aisle as someone that we do not like, then we are out of fellowship while partaking of the Lord's Supper.

You cannot come into the Communion service out of fellowship and thinking about those you like or dislike. We celebrate the Lord's Supper in a corporate environment, and this is because we are all in Christ and it pictures the union of the body of Christ. We are many members and one body. We have a purpose as the body of Christ. As a body, we must be unified. We are a family and families have their squabbles, but as a family, there are times when we must come together. We worship individually and corporately. These doctrines should be manifested in Communion. How easy it is to fall into that pattern of human viewpoint. The corporate picture of union with Christ. Social life reversionism. That social life reversionism fragments our own souls as well as the souls of those at the love feast. They ate and drank to excess, which was the pattern of the temple of Aphrodite. They exposed those who were in poverty to humiliation. This is a lack of impersonal love. We are close to those with human viewpoint, and we judge based upon human standards. Social life reversionism. Lack of impersonal love. Instead of eating and drinking to excess, Paul offers an alternative to these people. If you are hungry and thirsty, take care of that at home, because you are profaning the entire occasion. Drinking and eating to excess is all about you and the Lord's Supper is all about Jesus Christ. Paul is saying, if that intrudes on your spiritual life, then you have a problem. This is a spiritual problem. Get your spiritual life together, and the rest of it will follow.

Then Paul says, You despise the church of God and shame those who have nothing. Present active indicative of καταφρονεω = to look down on, to scorn, to treat with contempt, to be contemptuous of. These people were being contemptuous of the church of God. How does this happen? Social life with those who have human viewpoint in their souls who viewpoint affects your thinking and actions. In their activities, they are

That we can simply name our sins to God is a wonderful grace provision. We don't have to go anywhere, beg for mercy, see anyone else.

In vv. 20–21, Paul has told these people that their rate of forgetting doctrine has exceed their rate of metabolizing doctrine. For these people, there is very little doctrinal input. There is a negative balance of residency in their souls, with the result that human viewpoint rules their lives (or ours). Consequently, their thinking and activities are completely corrupted and distorted. Social life reversionism. The church is instituting the Love Feast. Now, most people, we do not have a natural affinity for. That is where impersonal love must kick in; the tolerance which we need in order to deal with these obnoxious people. These Corinthians are nothing if not obnoxious toward one another. Paul is looking to foster some sort of harmony and fellowship among them, as they are about to partake in the Communion supper, which requires them to be in fellowship.

They have reverted to the formative input of their past. There are others who are appalled by what is going on, in reaction. They are falling back on their old trends as well. Their old ways are the Temple of Judaism. They see this immorality and they are shocked. In the middle of all of this are these slave and poor believers who are ostracized, and their sin nature trends are functioning as well. They are humiliated and rejected as a part of the Love Feast, and they are falling back on their own formative trends. They look at each other in the love feast are despise one another. They are about to go into the Lord's Supper. They are not ready to worship our Lord and they are corrupted, factional, arrogant, self-absorbed, and they can only see their own viewpoint. They can only understand their own argument against those who piss them off. These people are in grave danger of the sin unto death. What a finale for this sort of reversionism, as they approach the Lord's Supper.

Gal. 6:7: Do not be deceived, God is mocked. Whatever a man sows, so will he reap. This is a marvelous verse for anytime that we see human viewpoint seeping into our souls. The Corinthians have perverted social life and it has deeply influenced their spiritual life. When you mock God, there will always be unpleasant repercussions. God is mocked by those who profess to love the Lord and yet continue to live their lives outside of the spiritual life. They are not in fellowship, they are not advancing spiritually. This is why social life reversionism is such a great illustration here. People in social life are looking for some little bit of pleasure, and yet out of fellowship, outside the bounds of the spiritual life, this pleasure which is sought returns in emptiness, without benefit, without filling that black hole within you. What you sow is what you reap. You cannot mock God and sow pleasure. It is the law of volitional responsibility. When you have the truth, you are mocking God.

Paul has laid out the situation for these Corinthians and now he is going to give them the solution. He transitions to the last Passover supper which will then be normative for the Lord's Supper. This is a wake up call for the Corinthians, so they can compare what they are doing with what the Lord's Supper is all about. There is a reason why Paul makes it clear to these hard-headed Corinthians specifically where this originates. Paul is reminding them that Jesus Christ is behind what he is saying to them.

1Cor. 11:20 Therefore when you assemble, together in one place, it is not to eat the Lord's Supper.

1Cor. 11:21: For in eating, each one takes his own supper ahead of others; and one is hungry and another is drunk.

1Cor. 11:22: What! Do you not have houses to eat and drink in? Or do you despise the church of God and humiliate those who have nothing? What shall I say to you? Shall I commend you in this? No, I will not.

εγο + παραλαμβανω = I recieved. Aorist active indicative. What Paul received came at a point in time. Paul received this message at a specific point in time.

The genitive case indicates source, and this message comes from the source of the Lord. It came from a point in time. This message came from a specific person from a specific point of time. He will claim direct authority from the Lord in what he is about to say.

The Corinthians are out of line; they are berserk; they are factionalized. This is to really grab their attention. At this point, they are screwed up, that he has to let them know that this is from God. This has an impact which no other verse has. Paul is claiming direct authority from the Lord. What does it actually mean?

A debate about how Paul received this information from God. If Bobby said, "I have a message from God for you specifically." we might wonder exactly happened to Bobby. In any case, Bobby thinks the text tells us here just how Jesus Christ spoke to him or communicated this information to Paul.

Many authors of Scripture did not witness all of the events which they write about. How did Moses write about creation? It could have been passed down by oral tradition. How did Paul get this information? Was it direct communication from God? This has a lot of theological ramifications as well. We can rest assured that what follows is divinely inspired. All of us should recall 2Tim. 3:16: All Scripture is God-breathed. This is an exhale from God Himself.

What does it mean to be God-breathed. God so directed the human authors of Scripture, without intruding or destroying their individuality [He did not make them autonomans], nor did He change their personalities, or their literary style [there are many different literary styles in the Bible] [John's writings are simple Greek; Paul's are wonderful prose], God's complete thought was recorded on the pages of Scripture, without error in the original manuscript.

How did we get this Bible? Throughout the centuries, this Bible was copied over and over and over again by hand for many Millennia. They passed it on, without printing presses. So the epistles got passed around. They copied it. When 10 people copy a paragraph, it does not necessarily come out exactly the same. Through all of those centuries and all of that copying, we have essentially the autographs. There are centuries of study which scholars have done. And the theology has not changed one bit. There are about 5000 copyist errors and not one of them makes a difference in theology. Paul is writing divinely inspired Scripture; it is God-breathed and what we have in front of us is God's word. The Bible is also infallible; it does not record error. There are sins, bad choices, etc., and the Bible records these things accurately. When the Bible is properly interpreted, Scripture never teaches error. When error occurs, it is when Scripture is ignored or manipulated. There are means and methods involved in properly interpreting the Word of God. One must understand literary styles. We must look at the information in Scripture and grow from it. When Bobby teaches without error then we are getting the Word of God. We get enough correct doctrine in Bible class to grow.

Paul is saying, "I got this message from God and I am giving it to you, so you ought to listen." Paul is making it clear to them that, this is not just Paul's opinion.

How did Paul get this? Bobby thinks that Paul did not get this information from others (however, this is possible). John and Peter were there, and Matthew. They were all at the last Passover. Did Paul get it from them? This would not change the divinely inspired material here. However, Bobby thinks that this came from Jesus directly.

This is punctiliar action sarte. Historical events may be learned from several sources, and these accounts are corroborated. Historians compile information and write it as they understand it. The preposition απο means from the immediate source of. This was therefore not relayed to Paul by another Apostle. This revelation did not come from someone who witnessed the event. The aorist tense and the preposition απο together indicate that Paul got this directly from the immediate source of Jesus; it was some point of time. The Lord appeared to Paul on the Damascus Road. We do not know how many times the Jesus appeared to Paul. This was one of those times.

Reflections on a Higher Call is a newsletter which Bobby received in his email. David Atchison wrote it entitled Traveling Companions. Who are you listening to these days? He who walks with wise men will be wise, but the companion of fools will suffer harm. Too much time with people who lack judgment will rub off on you. Are my standards inviolable? Do I have standards? Relative standards are no standards. Situational ethics. These are human viewpoint standards. Sometimes you must serve clients who have no regard to God or morality in general. Acknowledge that God strategically places believers where His guidance and influence is desperately needed. Can you exert that kind of influence? Some people do not want to be ridiculed or rejected. This is a critical issue, because we are called up to demonstrate impersonal love toward every person that we interact with. It is easy to live a spiritual life in your own mind; but how well do you lead this life in front of others? Prov. 19:20: Listen to advice and accept instruction. In the end, you will be wise and spiritually mature. You listen to fools, you become a fool; listen to wise and you become wise. Who do you intimately associate with? It is easy to err to one extreme or to the other. Take the initiative to find traveling companions who are followers of doctrine. Who can you listen to today?

You ingest the body and the blood the Christ is transubstantiation. Consubstantiation: Christ is still in the elements, but without a mystical transformation of the elements. Calvinist view: the dynamic presence in the elements; His sacrificial death is made effective by partaking of the elements. The Catholics, Martin Luther and Calvin all got it wrong. Zwingli got it right, where Communion is a memorial. The elements trigger our memory.

Paul receives a message which he must relay to the Corinthians. Απο + the genitive singular κυριου = from the source of the Lord. Over what period of time did Paul receive this message from the Lord? Παραλαμβάνω aorist punctiliar action sarte; message was received at a point in time. It came from a specific person from a specific point in time. Whatever is received of the Lord; that message is always divinely inspired. What Paul has received is a divinely inspired message directly from the source of the Lord. Paul's objective is to attribute divine authority to His account. The chain of evidence goes from to the Lord to Paul and to us. This is the chain of evidence, which chain must be preserved. Evidence is no longer usable without an unbroken chain of custody. All are trustworthy servants. All that Paul taught is from the Lord and however Paul received it, it is divinely inspired. This gives supremely added weight to Paul's reprimand for their actions. Paul wants them to know that this comes from the Lord.

This message comes straight from the right hand of God the Father. No greater authority exists. This is serious that Paul would make this statement. The idea is, sit down, shut up and listen. There should be no doubt that this is an inerrant account for the first Communion.

1Cor. 11:23 For I received from the Lord what I also delivered to you, that the Lord Jesus on the night when he was betrayed took bread,

The attitude among the disciples was great solemnity. This was a very poignant memorable moment in their lives. This was a short time before the greatest event in the history of mankind. Jesus is spending the final moments of His life with these men. It was your last night on earth before going to heaven. Jesus knew this would be the last moment that He would spend with these men on earth. These are His intimate friends and disciples. These 11 men and Paul would spread Christianity throughout the world and change the world. They would go to the uttermost parts of the earth.

What a contrast this is to the revelry of the Corinthians and what they did at their love feast and then at the Lord's Table. There is quite a contrast. There was a grave situation. A great unity among the disciples. The unity of the Lord with the disciples. These Corinthians are showing disrespect toward some and humiliation toward others; some are drunk and some are still hungry. Now it is the Corinthians who mocked the work of Jesus Christ. Beware, God will not be mocked. Why would God bring the sin unto death to people who were a little drunk and a little gluttonous at the Lord's Table. This was incredible disrespect. The last supper was a tender moment. He was about to sacrifice Himself for all the sins. For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son,... He looked at these men, and these men represented every man, woman and child that He would die for. That is impersonal love; sacrificing Himself for the benefit of all of us. He was also demonstrating great personal love for these disciples. These are His intimate associates in his personal life. That love feast was cruel and a blasphemous imitation of this personal love which our Lord expressed for His disciples.

This Corinthians were divided and factional. Judas was there for the meal; and the Lord told Judas, "Go do what you intended to do." Even though Judas was there, he did not share the harmony and the unity of that situation. Unlike Judas, these Corinthians are believers in Jesus Christ. Their attitudes and actions are indistinguishable from what Judas did. They are betrayers of the Lord Jesus Christ. This is why we ought to come into the Communion Service with our minds clear, so that we can be occupied with Jesus Christ. In essence, when we take the Communion message, we are there, thinking about what He would accomplish right after.

Believers who approach the Communion Table with hatred are not grace orientated, they are not doctrinally oriented; they are a Corinthian. When you cannot concentrate, you betray the Lord and His memory. If you are in that mode, you are on the road to reversionism.

Παραδίδιμι = to betray, being delivered up. Being betrayed is the act of Judas; but being delivered up reminds us that He was delivered up for us all. He was betrayed and would be crucified, but He was delivered up for us all. Imperfect tense. During these moments when our Lord was instituting the Lord's Table, Judas was betraying Jesus to Ciaphas. While Jesus did this He knew He was being delivered up. These are the circumstances preceding our Lord's being delivered up. Paul said, "What are you Corinthians doing?"

Their behavior was exactly opposite what it ought to be during the Communion Table. If you knew with certainty that the Lord was speaking directly to you, would it make a difference in your actions? If you knew the Lord was giving you a specific mandate, would it make a difference. Every page is from God. This message is designed for doctrine, for reproof, for instruction in righteousness. We cannot afford social life reversionism. We should get the importance of the Communion moments; and no social life should affect our relationship and advancement negatively.

Matt. 26:26–28: Now as they were eating, Jesus took bread, and after blessing it broke it and gave it to the disciples, and said, "Take, eat; this is my body." And he took a cup, and when he had given thanks he gave it to them, saying, "Drink of it, all of you, for this is my blood of the covenant, which is poured out for many for the forgiveness of sins.

The bread was in front of them on the table.

Matthew, Mark and Luke write the exact same account, but they did not sit down together and decide what they were going to write. Jesus began this sequence of events by picking up some bread, which He broke and began to pass out. As the Passover meal, this would be unleavened bread. This had great meaning in looking back over the Old Testament age.

These disciples were transitioning in this moment as well; from being disciples to being Apostles.

1Cor. 11:24: and when He had given thanks, He broke it and said, "Take, eat; this is My body which is broken on behalf of you; do this in remembrance of Me.

1Cor. 11:25: In the same manner He also took the cup after supper, saying, This cup is the New Covenant in My blood. Do this, as often as you drink it, in remembrance of Me.

Unleavened Bread

There are 4 accounts of the initiation of the Communion Table: Matthew, Mark, Luke and 1Corinthians, and each of these compliment one another. Matthew's gospel was about the first gospel written about 50 A.D. Mark wrote about 55–59 A.D. Luke was not an eyewitness and he wrote his about 58–60 and these were all written independent of each other. Luke was an historian and he used various sources from which to write his gospel. He was a very careful historian and he consulted several eyewitnesses directly. He had contacts in the Herodian court and could obtain court records. His gospel gives a more comprehensive grasp of the times. Each gospel was written from a slightly different perspective, from a slightly different angle. Matthew concentrated on the teaching ministry of Jesus Christ, and his primary audience was Jewish Christians; and his primary goal was to relay our Lord's teachings. Mark concentrated more on what our Lord did. He focused on Jews and Gentiles. Luke emphasized the universal message of the gospel, primarily for Gentile consumption. Luke has close contact with Paul, at least for a time. All of these accounts were done under the control of the Holy Spirit. It would have been easy to write accounts which did not jive. This is a great proof that these were written under the control of God the Holy Spirit. Their content is complimentary. Paul wrote the 4th account of the Last Supper and first Communion; and Paul probably received this as a direct revelation.

The ritual looked backwards. 4–5 B.C. to 30 A.D. was the Dispensation of the Hypostatic Union; and our Lord fulfilled all of the rituals of the Old Testament. He enjoyed the final Passover meal with His disciples. This was a transition period. There was a Communion ritual which replaced all of the rituals of Israel. The details all agree, although there are differences between what Paul writes and the gospel accounts. Bobby is going to show us the differences in the accounts.

For I received from the Lord what I also delivered to you, that the Lord Jesus on the night when he was betrayed took bread, and when he had given thanks, he broke it, and said, "This is my body which is for you. Do this in remembrance of me." In the same way also he took the cup, after supper, saying, "This cup is the new covenant in my blood. Do this, as often as you drink it, in remembrance of me." (1Cor. 11:23–25).

Matt. 26:26–29: Now as they were eating, Jesus took bread, and after blessing it broke it and gave it to the disciples, and said, "Take, eat; this is my body." And he took a cup, and when he had given thanks he gave it to them, saying, "Drink of it, all of you, for this is my blood of the covenant, which is poured out for many for the forgiveness of sins. I tell you I will not drink again of this fruit of the vine until that day when I drink it new with you in my Father's kingdom."

A little more detail, with the same exact words, but Matthew leaves off the remembrance clause. The remembrance is for the Church Age; and they do not know about the Church Age fully, so Matthew left it out. Matthew gives our Lord's actions, taking the bread, breaking it, and giving it to His disciples. Matthew adds that this is for the forgiveness of sins. There is a content of memory. Matthew gives the reason for the atonement.

Mark 14:2–24: And as they were eating, he took bread, and after blessing it broke it and gave it to them, and said, "Take; this is my body." And he took a cup, and when he had given thanks he gave it to them, and they all drank of it. And he said to them, "This is my blood of the covenant, which is poured out for many."

Matthew said, "Take, eat, this is My body." Mark just has "Take, this is My body." The blood of Christ, is the blood of the covenant, which is poured out for many. Each author has a different angle and recalls a slightly different aspect.

Luke 22:19–30: And he took bread, and when he had given thanks, he broke it and gave it to them, saying, "This is my body, which is given for you. Do this in remembrance of me." And likewise the cup after they had eaten, saying, "This cup that is poured out for you is the new covenant in my blood. What Luke writes is identical almost to Paul, and this makes sense, as they traveled together. Luke has the remembrance clause with the bread, and he does not repeat it with the cup, as he writes with ellipsis.

One phrase runs through every account: This is My blood of the covenant. This is an amazing phrase which Bobby has studied for about a week.

The agreement in these accounts is amazing. They wrote in different places at different times and they agree.

Paul is reminding the Corinthians of the solemnity of this occasion. Paul is the only one who says, Jesus took the bread off the table. Since this was the Passover bread, it was unleavened. We have gone through the 4 views.

There is another controversy is, is it necessary for us to use unleavened bread for the Communion? To answer this, we need to understand why unleavened bread was used in the first place.

Unleavened Bread

1. Unleavened bread eaten at Passover was a memorial; it commemorated the Jews hasty departure from Egypt in the exodus. They had seen 10 plagues and when the firstborn died, pharaoh wanted them out quickly.
2. They had to move out quickly before Pharaoh changed his mind. The Jews threw things into wagons, went into Egypt for some gold and things, and left.
3. In their haste, they had no time to put leaven in the bread. They normally put leaven in the bread and baked it. No time for that here.
4. Eating unleavened bread was a part of their feast. No time to bake leavened bread while leaving. Every time they ate this unleavened bread, they thought about what happened.
5. They could picture the solidarity and unity of their deliverance.
6. Hence, unleavened bread was designated by the Law. This time was set up as the feast of unleavened bread.
7. The first day of the 7 day feast was Passover. When our Lord shared this supper with His disciples, He was eating Passover. Our Lord Jesus Christ fulfilled to the letter the Mosaic Law. He fulfilled every bit of the Law. To understand negative volition, think about pharaoh and then about the pharisees.
8. Unleavened bread was not just a picture of the deliverance; it was something more.
9. It had a theological meaning. It was a picture of their deliverance from the slave market of sin. Redemption; that is what redemption is.
10. Hence it represented their fellowship with God as a redeemed people. He physically redeemed them from the Egypt and from the slave market of sin. It fits together so well.
11. Therefore, the same unleavened bread eaten by Jesus and the disciples was an act of fellowship with significant salvation meaning.
12. This foreshadowed the redemption that Christ would bring to all mankind. Our Lord would be subjected to illegal trials, beaten to a pulp, and died for our sins. This transitioned us from the Age of Israel to the Church Age.
13. There are no accidents in the Scripture or what our Lord does or in our life. We are not a stumblebum walking through life with no purpose. As we mature spiritually, we begin to see every part of our lives has a purpose. Bobby can see all sort so decisions and actions which put him in the pulpit in Berachah.
14. Unleavened bread was the picture from the Old Testament feast of the passing over of sins. This was our Lord saying, "This is My body given for the forgiveness of sins."
15. These Jews were adherents to the rituals of the Mosaic Law, so they understood to some degree what Jesus was doing. They knew and now we know.

16. In the Church Age, we do not observe their commemorative feasts, the feasts of the Mosaic Law, which includes the Feast of unleavened bread. We do not partake in those rituals because Christ fulfilled the Law in every respect. The Law itself was a testimony that they needed a Savior. Every sacrifice told them that redemption came through blood. We do not do those rituals in this age, because there is only one ritual which looks back.
17. The New Testament never mentions using unleavened bread for Communion.
18. It simply says, bread which represents His body given for us.
19. Therefore, unleavened bread is not a necessity for Communion in the Church Age. But you ought to understand what the bread stands for. The type of bread is not necessary for our remembrance of Him. Just know what it means. It is the same with the cup, wine or grape juice. The significance is what is important.

Judas was present as the Passover feast. All 12 were at this meal. John 13:27: After the morsel, Satan entered into him [Judas] and Judas was therefore an unbeliever. And Jesus said, "What you do, do quickly." Jesus needed Judas out of there while He instituted the Communion to memorialize this.

There is no meaning to the unbeliever in Communion. This ritual only has meaning for the believer, Who has appropriated the blood of Christ. This is the pattern for our Communion. Ευχαριστω = eucharist, to be mindful of benefits, to be grateful, to be thankful. Our Lord gave thanks. Can you imagine our Lord giving thanks, understanding what He was about to face. He gave thanks for His sacrifice. The broken bread represented our Lord's body being broken on the cross. This indicates how much He loved us, that He gave thanks for being slaughtered for us. The physical beat down was nothing in comparison to the pouring out of our sins on Him.

After He gave thanks, He broke the bread and gave it to the disciples. He will then explain to them what is being done. "This is My body which is for you." This is a representative analogy which is a memorial view. The bread is like a statue in a park which represents a person. It is an inanimate statue which personifies someone.

Sam Houston on his horse on Main, and this represent his work. He was a soldier and a statesman. This is a memorial which stands for something, just as the broken bread represents our Lord's death for us. This is not just His physical, bodily suffering, but the real horror of bearing our sins in His body on the cross.

Why Was it Necessary?

1. Christ had to have a body to give for us.
2. He had to be human in order to die and to suffer.
3. He had to be God in the flesh to receive the imputation of the sins of the world.
4. He had to become man to be a Mediator between God and man, equal to both parties.
5. John 1:14 He became flesh and dwelt among us.

1Cor. 11:23 For I received from the Lord what I also delivered to you, that the Lord Jesus on the night when he was betrayed took bread,

1Cor. 11:24: and when He had given thanks, He broke it and said, "Take, eat; this is My body which is broken on behalf of you; do this in remembrance of Me.

1Cor. 11:25: In the same manner He also took the cup after supper, saying, This cup is the New Covenant in My blood. Do this, as often as you drink it, in remembrance of Me.

Lesson #673

1Cor. 11:25 February 10, 2007

Sunday 1

The parting of the bread is what Bobby covered; in the same way, He too the cup also after supper, saying, "This cup is the New Covenant of My blood. Do this as often as you drink it, in remembrance of Me." Too much wine was at the Love Feast prior to the Communion. Not much memory involved when drunk. These Corinthians were involved in conduct unbecoming a believer. Today, this is not that much of a problem. It did happen then; a hangover is more common today. Inebriation does have an application however: approaching Communion without any recall is tantamount to a total lack of respect for the Lord. If you have no love for the Lord, how do you think you will function in interpersonal relationships. If you stumble into Communion with a hangover, your miserable indiscretions, from whence you have come and where you are going, you must rebound and prepare to concentrate. What you are doing without rebound is profane, like those who showed up drunk to Communion at the Corinthian church. It would be like one of the disciples saying to Jesus, "Pass me by with the cup and bread." Our concentration upon God should be as if it is the last time. Individually, it occurs in our soul. If it were not so important individually, then Bobby could do this for us. He is not our substitute. The only substitute is Jesus Christ. When you fail to concentrate, that is what you do and what you are saying, is like one of the disciples saying, "I'll sit this one out."

v. 25 was a repeat, except with the cup. Jesus blessed the cup and distributed it to the disciples. Where the bread represented His humanity, the suffering for our sins in his body on the cross. The cup represents the New Covenant in His blood. Bobby will explain this New Covenant.

1Cor. 11:25: In the same manner He also took the cup after supper, saying, This cup is the New Covenant in My blood. Do this, as often as you drink it, in remembrance of Me.

Lesson #674

1Cor. 11:25 February 10, 2007

Sunday 2

The Blood of Christ/Covenants

The cup represents the New Covenant of His blood. We need to know that the blood represents. There is the complete book "The Blood of Christ" which teaches that the blood the Christ is linked to the Old Testament blood sacrifices with Christ on the cross.

That is the complete picture throughout history of the work of Christ. The past ages which pointed toward His work and the present age.

These books are there for us to study when we do not have Bible class. If we come for Communion but we have no doctrine in our soul, and we come and we cannot even remember the Communion message for even 5 minutes, let me suggest, there are at least 5 soteriological books back in the Library: King of Kings, Slave Market of Sin, The Levitical Offerings, etc. Reading some or all of these books would give the complete work of our Lord. If your mind is blank while sitting in class with the cup in your hand, read one of these books.

Bobby will give us what His blood is and what it accomplished on the cross.

Blood of Christ

1. The blood of Christ is not literal blood; it is not the literal blood which runs through your veins. Bob got more flack for writing this book. Some hated hearing it called figurative blood, some wanted to carry a pot of blood into heaven. However, in the soteriological class that Bobby took, it was taught exactly the same. How can you remember anything about the blood of Christ if you do not know what it is. Jesus Christ did not bleed to death on the cross. There was blood certainly, from the thorns, from the nails, from the punching, from the beating of His back, but that is not what saved us. Jesus Christ died physically when He gave up His own spirit. He did this after His work was complete. Literal blood and the cross should never been seen as the same. Bobby brought the book to his seminary professor and said, "This is what you just taught."
2. The picture of spilled blood is a universal image of death. This is why this is so apropos as an analogy of blood. His blood is always associated with death. Christ's blood is the picture, the analogy of His spiritual death on the cross. He did not bleed to death. Blood is an analogy to this death.
3. Our Lord died twice on the cross. We died spiritually in Adam; we all died in Adam; but this is not physical death. Our spiritual death had to be handled. His spiritual death was His separation from the Father while He was bearing our sins on the cross. Death is simply separation. That is the fundamental meaning. Physical death separates our body and soul. Spiritual death is separation from Jesus Christ. Eternal death is separation. This was a separation from the Father while bearing our sins. When He imputed all of our sins to Jesus Christ, God the Father had to turn His back on Jesus; and they were separated. This is why Christ screamed on the cross. Whenever you see this phrase, the blood of Christ, it is an analogy.
4. His physical death followed His spiritual death. He experienced physical death just as we will experience it. He did not die from a loss of blood. He died by dismissing His own Spirit. John 19:30 He called out, "I thirst." Some sour wine was sopped up and put in His mouth. Why did He need this? So that He could loudly call out "Tetelisti." Then He bowed His head and gave up His spirit. Literal blood was not a part of either of His two deaths. If His blood does not refer to literal, physical blood, then it is an analogy.

5. His blood is connected with the fact that Jesus Christ, as the Lamb of God, is the fulfillment of the Levitical offerings. These were literal blood offerings, and they were a bloody mess. Once the throat was cut, there was blood everywhere. It was terrible to see, but that was the point. Nothing compared to His death. Bobby would hate to take his favorite bull or goat to the altar and see it killed. The blood sacrifices confirm one thing: it was not that Jesus was a cruel or bloody God. The blood sacrifices that sins could be forgiven only on the basis of shed blood. Graphically it was so depicted, and this was the picture for all of them. The Jews saw the animal blood all over the altar and graphically viewed the price of their sins. Their sins were ritually forgiven. The physical death was a picture of forgiveness of sins.
6. That literal shedding of the blood required in the Mosaic Law always pointed to the blood of Christ.
  - a. The literal blood pointed toward the figurative blood or the death of Christ. This was a beacon or a finger which pointed toward the future, pointing to the spiritual death of Christ, our substitutionary spiritual atonement.
  - b. The sacrifice of the Lord Jesus Christ was the real forgiveness of sins. His blood was retroactive on the cross; for the Jews first and also to the Gentiles.
  - c. His blood was an analogy for the real forgiveness of sins.
  - d. Just as the real shedding of lamb's blood represented the forgiveness of sins, so the figurative shedding of the blood of the Lamb of God is the actual forgiveness of sins. The Jews at the cross should have looked at the cross and have seen this; they should have gotten it and some did. There was their Messiah on the cross.
7. How did the Old Testament sacrificial lamb represent the work of Christ? What did the Jews see when they saw the lamb slaughtered. The priest would accept a lamb, a bull or a goat and place him on the altar and place his hand on the offerer and on the animal, which represented the transfer of sins. The gesture was symbolic. It illustrated the transfer of sins to the offered animal.
8. When the lamb was then slaughtered—the priest cut the throat—and the literal blood poured out on the altar, it illustrated Christ's future substitutionary death for sins. This animal blood could not forgive sins.
  - a. The literal blood of the lamb represented the figurative blood of Christ. There are a few layers of representation here. Literal blood on the altar; represents the blood of Christ, which is not literal.
  - b. Christ's blood was the analogy to the real payment for the forgiveness of sin. Literal blood in Israel represented the future forgiveness of sins; the blood the Christ represents the real forgiveness.
  - c. The blood of the animals was literal. The judgment and transfer of sins was all symbolic. It was a picture. It was done over and over again for 1500 years or so. Probably longer.

- d. On the cross, the blood was symbolic. Literal on the altar. The substitutionary death of Christ and judgment of sins and transfer of penalty was literal.
- e. Christ as our sacrificial lamb shed His blood for the remission of our sins. We should be able to make the symbolic relation. We should be able to see this and have the completed picture of our atonement. His spiritual death is our salvation. His was the real sacrifice. Matt. 27:46. It is inked with this, the New Covenant of the blood. This is a new idea using old terminology. Why do you use old terminology. This helps to make a transition to a new idea from an old one. Christ used the New Covenant idea. What the disciples understood was covenant, and Old Testament word. It is the background for Christ's use of the term and Paul's use of the word in our passage. The disciples came from this usage and environment.

Covenants

1. Covenants were God's agreements with Israel.
2. Israel understood its relationship with God. This was a legal term. It was a contract, as a lawyer would understand it.
3. When our Lord pronounces the New Covenant in My blood, the disciples understood the meaning of a covenant. This was a specific reference to a covenant which the disciples knew.
4. Definition: an agreement between two parties (a contract); in the national sense, between nations, it is a treaty or an alliance. It is a contract between two people or a treaty or alliance on a larger scale. They were an integral part of Israel's history. A part of their spiritual and national history. In the Church Age, we are a body of believers; separation of church and state is valid; but then, that nation and the relationship to God was amalgamated. God dealt with His people through several covenants. He made a treaty with them. He made a personal covenant with them. This is how God dealt with them. We have an entirely different relationship with God today. First made with Abraham, reiterated as a land contract, and a kingdom contract with David, and a new covenant relationship with the King of Kings. The entire Jewish history was about several covenants.

This is a great transitional phrase.

Covenants

In 1Cor. 11:24, our Lord has completed the breaking and passing out of the bread. Jesus gave thanks for the breaking of the bread, which stood for the breaking of His body, He gave thanks because this would result in the salvation of the many. He bore His sins in His body on the cross that we might die to sin and live to righteousness. This was instituted, that His disciples might look back upon what was done on their behalf. With His death, spiritual death is no longer our end; and physical death no longer leads us to the Lake of Fire. Physical death and spiritual deaths are no longer issues.

1Cor. 11:24: and when He had given thanks, He broke it and said, "Take, eat; this is My body which is broken on behalf of you; do this in remembrance of Me.

Only half of the ritual is completed when the bread is eaten. There is the same command do this, which is applied to the cup. This cup is the New Covenant in My blood. This is a very technical phrase, and this will explain exactly what He did and exactly what He promised to Israel and to us as Church Age believers.

In a cup, normally a liquid is poured out down our throats. From this cup is poured our Lord's blood—not His literal blood, but it is a representation of His blood. This is His figurative blood; His metaphorical blood. This is life-giving to all mankind. The Lord Jesus Christ shed His blood for us. Heb. 9:22: And according to the Law (Hebrews is written to Hebrew believers) almost everything is purified with blood, and without the shedding of blood there is no forgiveness of sins. Shed blood is a universal image for death. The shed blood of the sacrificial animal is the animal's death. The Levitical priest laid his hand on this doomed animal. The priest lays his hand on it, and on the head of the one who offers this lamb. The sins are transferred from the offerer to the offering. The offerer's sins are symbolically forgiven. The animal was innocent; this animal did not deserve death. Our Lord died for another's sins. These sins were no longer the sins of the offerer but they were placed upon the offering. It was a gory sight and not anything that any of us would want to watch. The Jews saw this animal blood pouring out on the altar. The literal spilled blood is the sacrificial death of the animal, which is the substitutionary death for the sinner. Israel understood the significance of blood and they understood the pouring out of the blood on the altar. It was all a part of the promise of the Mosaic Law. This Mosaic Covenant pointed toward our Lord Jesus Christ. Their sacrifices in Old Testament Israel. Knowing that you were not redeemed by silver and gold and other perishable items from your empty manner of life... This is the connection between the sacrificial animals and the sacrifice of the coming Messiah. Every time that Israel sacrificed an animal, it pointed directly to what would happen when Jesus came. Yet, Israel looked for the king and not for the slaughtered animal. The literal shedding of blood pointed to the sacrifice of the Messiah. Just as the real shedding of lamb's blood represented forgiveness of sins, no lamb's blood can be efficacious.

Our Lord's blood was an analogy as well. His shed blood was an analogy to the real forgiveness of sins which Christ gave us from the cross. It is a representative analogy for his Substitutionary spiritual death. How does Bobby know this? Many Christians think that this is literal blood and they see the literal blood and somehow cleanses us from sin.

Theological definition of death: separation. Physical death means the separation of the body from the soul. For a believer, the separation from the soul and spirit. There is spiritual death, which is separation from God, that we are separated as sinful human beings from God. Then there is eternal death, which is separation from God for all eternity. Death is not the end, but the beginning—of either eternal life or eternal condemnation. The Lord Jesus Christ experienced the first 2 deaths on the cross; His spiritual death was His separation from God the Father when bearing our sins on the cross. Our Lord never sinned; He lived a perfect life, and yet, He was separated from God on the cross. When God the Father imputed all of our sins to God the Son, He had to judge these sins and separate from His Son. God cannot have contact with sin.

Our Lord screamed "My God, why have You forsaken Me?" and then He said, "It is finished." Then He bowed His head and gave up His Spirit. He gave up His life intentionally as an act of volition; because His work had been completed. If literal blood is not a true substitute for our sins, our Lord's literal blood is not a substitute for our sins. The lamb gave its life for the sins of the offerer. The literal blood of the lamb pictured the remission of sins. There is an exact parallel. No Jew of Israel should be confused by this.

Covenant is terminology which Jews understood. Covenant is an Old Testament term, so the covenant should be understood with Old Testament history.

What is the Context of Covenant

1. Covenants are a part of Israel's personal relationship with God.
2. Israel understood her relationship with God by means of a covenant.
3. When the Lord Jesus Christ made this statement, His disciples were fully aware of the meaning of a covenant. It must have shocked them to hear, "This is the New Covenant of My blood"
4. A covenant is an agreement between two parties; it is a contract. For nations, it is a treaty or an alliance. It applied personally to the Jews and to the nation as well.

When our Lord mentioned a covenant, the disciples should have understood what our Lord was saying, that He would be their substitute.

Historical Background

When Israel was formed as a nation, the covenant format was already in use. When a lawyer wants to make a contract, there is a format already set up, which a lawyer can pull out of his computer. You might hate history, but now your life does depend upon it. You need to understand the present in order to understand the past.

1. A covenant was a custom of city-states of the ancient near-east to make treaties with neighboring tribal groups. City-states were the national entity of the day. There was the walled city and the surrounding area.
2. A powerful city-state exerted great influence on a weaker tribal group, and these tribal groups are not going to be as well organized. Hence the city-state would initiate a covenant or a treaty, and this would often keep them out of war. Wars were damaging and expensive, so they stayed out of it if they could.
3. This agreement was for the mutual benefit for both parties. Economic, a mutual defense against common enemies, etc.
4. Both parties got something out of the covenant. It was a negotiation between parties. There is an isagogical model for the covenants of the Old Testament. There is an historical background. Suzerine-vassal (a sovereign-a subject, a subordinate) covenant. A document or contract was drawn up. It was put in writing. Some of you may care less about the format of this Suzerine-vassal treaty. For some, after the first paragraph of a contract, you are bored. God used this exact same format when making a covenant with Israel.

The Suzerain-Vassal Treaty

Archeology has discovered many things in the past century which has borne out all that is found in the Bible. We are dealing with the New Covenant of My Blood and we will stay here for awhile. Jesus Christ is the center of history. His blood represents His spiritual death for our sins; and our Lord makes this statement during a transitional age. What does this covenant have to do with us? We had the Old Covenant and now we have the New Covenant. This is a dispensational phrase. It is central to our understanding as to how that work is efficacious. You cannot begin to understand this covenant treaty without understanding what is found in the Suzerain-Vassal treaty.

The Format of the Suzerain-Vassal Treaty

The Suzerain is the ruler, and he initiates the contract. He goes to his filing cabinet and pulls out a contract, which will be modified for this particular situation. However, the contract is no good unless the vassal gets something out of it too.

1. It begins with a title, which identifies the author of the covenant. Who is the Suzerain? This is the preamble.
2. Then there is an historical prologue, which defines any previous relations between the parties. It tells what has transpired between these parties in the past. Past benefits already bestowed upon the vassals by the king. He tells them what a good guy he is. Look at how nice I have been to you before; I did not wipe you out with my great armies. This is a bargaining chip; and it is a bit like extortion.

3. The acceptance of these benefits puts the vassal under a perpetual obligation to the suzerain.
4. Once the vassals were convinced of their past and future benefits with the king, there are provisions of the alliance are drawn up. These are the stipulations. The Mosaic Law is simply a covenant. The suzerain draws up the covenant with these stipulations. What was required of these vassals by way of obedience?
5. Then, like any good contract, there was a signing and there were witnesses to the contract.
  - a. A long list of gods were invoked from the pantheon of national gods. Once the treaty was settled, a long list of gods looking down were invoked as witnesses. The idea is, go against the treaty, and these gods could mess them up.
  - b. The vassal swore allegiance.
  - c. To the vassal, benefits were outlined.
  - d. Curses were also enumerated to those who violated the covenant. This is the carrot and the stick of the covenant; the benefits and the curses. The blessings and the cursings.
6. Then copies were made of this covenant were made with all of its provisions and stipulations was placed in the temple of the gods. This was a storage place for it.
7. Periodically, the document was to be taken out and there was to be a public reading to remind the vassals of their obligations. It might be done once a year. This was like a contract renewal. There was no free-agency or negotiations going on.
8. There were ceremonies associated with the ratification of the treaty or covenant. These ceremonies involved the slaughter of animals on the altar which sealed the deal. These were sacrifices to the god—the witnesses—so that they would look favorably upon the treaty and the parties to the treaty.
9. The Mosaic Law or covenant was given to Moses. He went up to Mount Sinai and he recorded the Law in Exodus, Leviticus and Numbers. God gave the Jews a contract which they understood in the context of the day in which they lived. When Moses and the Jews picked up all of their stuff, there was no time for their bread to rise, so they had unleavened bread. “This is My nation, the one which I promised to Abraham.” says God. There was a spiritual code, which was found in the 1st service this morning. All the ceremonies which looked forward to Jesus.

This Mosaic Covenant was in line with what the people understood. They understood the purpose of this covenant; they had seen it before; it was the legal format of the time. They were making an agreement with their God, their Suzerain.

How the Mosaic Law Matches up with the Suzerain-Vassal Treaty

1. There was a preamble: Ex. 20:2 Deut. 1:1–5

2. Historical prologue; what God had done for Israel and where they had come from as a nation. Ex. 20:2 Deut. 1:6–3:29 Joshua 24:2–13
3. The stipulations, which are the guts of the treaty; what they were supposed to do. Ex. 20:3–17,22–26 Those are the basic stipulations, but there are detailed one as well: Ex. 21–23 25–31 (these are some of these; there is more here)
4. Provisions and depositions of the covenant: Ex. 25:16 Deut. 10:1–5
5. The public reading requirement which took place every 7 years. It was kept in the Ark of the Covenant. Deut. 31:10–13
6. The witnesses; no list of gods, of course. Joshua 24:22 and others as well. Many applications to the Law in the book of Joshua. The application to the Law is all there.
7. There were curses and blessings in the Law. Lev. 26:3–13 Deut. 28:1–14 Lev. 26:14–20 Joshua 24:10

We can date the Mosaic Law based upon the Suzerain-vassal treaty to the 2nd millennium B.C., when this treaty was well-known. A circa date is applied this way. It is interesting to see how scholarship has dealt with the Bible. The Bible is not a legal textbook a book of history, or a scientific textbook, but it contains these sort of references and where these are found, they are true. Scholarship has also perverted the Bible as well; including those who have presupposed the Bible not to be true or the Word of God to begin with.

This Suzerain-Vassal treaty provides a marvelous backdrop for God's covenant with Israel. This makes Israel a client nation to God. There is great blessing to the nation when it honors its obligations; and cursing when they do not.

721 B.C. and 586 B.C. are examples of Israel turning away from their covenant, and the 5th cycle of discipline is a part of the cursings. Here is what you do and here is what you don't do; and when God lays these down, Israel has to obey them. We are no longer under the Law in Rom. 10:4. The pivot of mature believers who take in doctrine into their souls; and a client nation is blessed by God's grace in association with these believers. The salt of the nation is needed more than ever before.

We have energy problems you cannot believe; military problems, internal problems; no one can defeat our nation militarily at this time, but we can be destroyed from the inside. We are not the nation Israel; it is no longer a client nation to God. There have been many client nations in the Church Age. They are not client nations under the Mosaic Law. Israel was blessed by their adherence to the covenant.

The Mosaic Covenant is a conditional covenant, and both parties had to fulfill certain obligations. There were conditions laid down by both. Israel needed to know the requirements of their Suzerain in order to fulfill them. Israel must understand the provisions which God has made and what He expected of them.

There were special blessings provided for Israel if they fulfilled their obligations, and cursings when they did not, it was only fair for God to give this covenant to Israel in writing. The blessings and cursings came from the Mosaic code. There was a spiritual aspect to the Mosaic Law which is not found in the secular Suzerain-vassal treaties. This aspect proclaimed the grace of God as the way of salvation; and it revealed the Messiah Who would die for us and for Israel. The Mosaic Law gives specific instruction as to how to build the Tabernacle. Every aspect has doctrinal applications. The artisans who put together the Tabernacle and the furniture, were endued by the Holy Spirit. The Mosaic Law declared faith as the non-meritorious way of attaining blessing from God. The stipulation was unconditional. The Lord Jesus Christ provides everything, and the Mosaic Law pointed toward this. This is entirely grace.

Israel has the Mosaic Law and they have a New Covenant. There are unconditional covenants to Israel, like the Abrahamic covenant. There is also the New Covenant in Jer. 31 which points to here. The reference to the New Covenant is a reference to the past and to Israel's future.

The Suzerain-Vassal Treaty

The New Covenant in My blood is the topic. This is a very technical subject, which is all about covenants, which may not interest us. Nothing to do with our spiritual lives and we're not in Israel, etc. would be typical complaints. This encompasses the entire spectrum of the work of Christ on the cross. The blood of Christ is a metaphor the saving work of Christ on the cross. In the Levitical offerings of Israel, the lamb gave its life on the altar for the offerer, and their sins are transferred to the lamb. Sins had to be forgiven on the basis of blood.

Perhaps the pain we have in our own lives gives us some appreciation as to the pain Jesus Christ endured for our salvation. The figurative blood of Christ did the real sacrifice for the remission of our sins. The blood of Christ is a metaphor for the spiritual death of Jesus Christ.

The 2nd part of this phrase is the New Covenant; which was understood by the Jews and we find it in Jer. 31:31–34. They understood the New Covenant from Jer. 31. This terminology was heard by the disciples at the Last Supper. It is important that we remember that this terminology provides the disciples a transitional link from the Age of Israel to the Church Age. Actually, to the Age of the Crucifixion/Resurrection or the Age of the Hypostatic Union. This is a keynote dispensational concept.

How does Israel relate to the church? The covenant theologian tells us that we are just spiritual Israel, which leaves out any future for Israel. The new covenant is a guarantee of a future for Israel. This phrase encompasses a great deal of Old and New Testament history. The atonement of Christ is connected to every dispensation. The atonement of Christ is linked to every dispensation. This terminology has special meaning for all the disciples who hear it.

When you sit in this auditorium, and something hits you between the eyes, you might not want to hear it; but the applications can sting.

We must first understand the covenant concept.

What is a covenant?

1. This is a contract; an agreement between 2 parties.
2. In the national sense, it is a treaty or an alliance.
3. The covenant concept was a central part of Israel's national history. This is how God dealt with His nation—through His covenants.

We will see how God dealt with Israel with a covenant. Lawyers from the 2nd millennium B.C. would recognize the standard verbiage found in the Mosaic Law.

History

1. It was the custom of the city states in the ancient near east to make treaties or covenants with neighboring tribal groups. The city-state is not just the city and all within the walls, but there are often outlying areas which are included. Babylon was the seat of power for the Chaldean empire, which even stretched all the way to Jerusalem, which is the book of Daniel in 605 B.C., where Daniel moved to Babylon and lived for the rest of his life. Israel chose to make a covenant with Egypt. When Israel made a covenant which was against God's will (with Egypt), God dispersed them.
2. A powerful city state could have a great influence on a weaker group. The way they really wanted to do this by a covenant. Wars were expensive and destructive.
3. This treaty was of mutual benefit between the city state and the other group. This was for the benefit of both. Contracts do not just favor one party. The contract gave benefits to both parties, which is why both parties signed onto it.
4. Both parties were to get something out of the covenant. It was a negotiated deal between the two parties.
5. There is a model which is the basis for the Mosaic Law. It is called the Suzerain-vassal treaty. This is how God relates to Israel.

Suzerain-Vassal Treaty

1. To initiate a covenant in the Suzerain-Vassal treaty required documents to be drawn up. The suzerain is the man in charge.
2. The document began with a preamble or title.

3. The Mosaic Law also had a preamble in Ex. 20:2a "I am the Lord your God." Nebuchadnezzar might initiate with, "I am Nebuchadnezzar, your lord."
4. Then there is an historical prologue. The suzerain writes down what he has done for the vassals in the past. These are the benefits bestowed in the past.
5. The Mosaic Law also has an historical prologue. Ex. 20:2b God says, "I am the Lord your God and I brought you out of Egypt."
6. Now, there are provisions drawn up; the stipulations. The future obligations of the vassals.
7. The Mosaic Law also had stipulations. The feature most people think of is, the Ten Commandments.
8. There are witnesses to this. Someone has to view the signing. In the Suzerain vassal treaties, there were a long list of gods who are worshiped. The target vassals accepted the oath by allegiance.
9. To the vassal, blessings were promised. In the Mosaic Law, we have some of the blessings found in Leviticus 26:3–13.
10. But, curses were also enumerated.
11. In the Mosaic Law, God and the people were the witnesses. Joshua 24:22 Joshua chared with taking the children of the original generation into the Land. Joshua tells them, "You are witnesses to yourself." And the children of Israel said, "We are witnesses." The stones were His witness as well. A monument built as a witness to
12. Once this was done, then this was placed into the sanctuary of the gods.
13. In the Mosaic Law, it is the same thing that existed in the Ark of the Covenant.
14. Periodically, this contract was taken out in order to remind the vassals of their duties and agreement.
15. Deut. 31:1–13 the people were to have the covenant read to them every 7 years.
16. There were ceremonies associated with the ratification of the treaty.
17. The form of this treaty provides a beautiful relation.

God is the originator of the Suzerain-Vassal treaty. There is a cursing for a nation which does not obey the agreement of this covenant. There is a nation, but it is not a client nation today. Israel was blessed by their association with God. The Mosaic covenant had a list of agreements and conditions.

what was expected of these Jews in Israel, as related to their Suzerain, the Mosaic Law was given in this same format. The Mosaic covenant the grace of God was presented as the way of salvation.

Summary

1. The blood of Christ is depicted by the animal sacrifices.
2. The precise layout and the furniture of the Tabernacle taught the blood of Christ.
3. There was the ceremonial clothing of the priests.

4. There were rituals which the priest performed. The Mosaic Law also claimed faith the means of attaining a relationship with God. Entering into the Lord's blessings. The Mosaic Law shows us that we cannot do it; we do not have the ability to fulfill the Mosaic Law. We all fall short of divine righteousness. Hence the Levitical sacrifices. Since we cannot fulfill the Law, we sacrifice an animal.
5. There was also a spiritual code in the Mosaic Law which pointed toward the grace of God.

The Mosaic Law was conditional, and it contained rituals which allow us another route to a perfect God. Every regenerate person fell under the unconditional covenants for Israel.

The New Covenant of My Blood

Suzerain-Vassal treaties between individuals and nations.

Each dispensation has a different sort of leadership. Preamble is Ex. 20:2a; the prologue is Ex. 20:2b (which is what God has done for them in the past). Provisions and stipulations which were the obligations of the vassals (the Ten Commandments are examples of these). The oath and the witnesses, which is the oath taken by the people. Joshua 24:22. They are witnesses to themselves that they themselves are under the oath. "As for me and my house, we will serve the Lord." When accept Jesus Christ as Savior, we have mandates in the Scripture, and we have taken an oath to grow in grace and knowledge of our Lord Jesus Christ. And if we do not do this, we let our own selves down. Joshua knew there is nothing greater than this pledge.

For Joshua, there was the construction of the altar, which is Joshua 24:20; and a copy of the Law was put into the Ark. He lived in the Holy of Holies, as they moved through the desert, and the Law moved with them when they moved.

Periodically, the Suzerain-Vassal treaty was taken out and re-read. The Mosaic Law was also read to the people every 7 years. God expects for us to fulfill His mandates. These sacrifices which point toward the Lord Jesus Christ was their spiritual code. Jesus Christ fulfilled the covenant; He was the fulfillment of all these covenants.

Like a Suzerain-Vassal treaty, there were terms and conditions, and both parties agreed to contract. Each party has an obligation. God will keep His side; and certain conditions which the Vassal must fulfill. The blessing and the cursing came to them. The Mosaic Law had a condition; and it was conditional because the vassals have obligations to the Suzerain.

There is a spiritual code and there is an unconditional aspect to this spiritual covenant. All of the ceremonies and all of the other things pointed toward God, Jehovah, and toward salvation. Every time there was a sacrifice, every time they set up a sacrifice, and when they looked at these things, they were looking at God, Christ and His salvation.

What was the Mosaic Law? Stipulations, mandates; here's what you follow. It showed that no one had the ability to keep all of the provisions of the Law. This is because the Law came from God and was therefore perfect; we are not perfect. No one could meet the standards of the Mosaic Law. The Law could not save because no one could keep all of the provisions.

Therefore, someone needed to fulfill the Law, because we could not. The one who would propitiate sins and satisfy the righteousness of God. All of these sacrifices and rituals pointed toward He Who would keep the Law.

There is one condition for salvation: non-meritorious faith in Jesus Christ. What did Joshua tell those people? "Swear an oath" and they said, "We swear." This is the moment of faith; and there is also content to that faith.

For the regenerate person, there was no removal from the covenant. Our covenant and Israel's covenant. Simply put, this is the salvation package revealed in the spiritual code of the Mosaic Law.

The spiritual code revealed the spiritual life of the individual regenerate Jew. That was their spiritual life. It was consummated every time they took a lamb to be slaughtered. Every part of the ritual and every cultic activity and all that they did was a part of the spiritual life. All of the feasts and all of those things revealed to them the gospel. The artisans who constructed the Tabernacle were endued with the Holy Spirit. David also had this. We have the filling and the new dwelling of the Holy Spirit.

Israel, as a whole, was supposed to be a client nation; they were to be regenerate. All of those who left Egypt painted the flood on their tent doors.

There were other unconditional covenants given by God

Unconditional Covenants

1. This began with an everlasting treaty which God entered into with Abraham.
2. That covenant represented only God's provisions from His grace. There are no obligations of Abraham.
3. This everlasting treat extended to Abraham's progeny.
4. There was a stipulation; the stipulation for entering into the unconditional covered.
5. The central statement in Gen. 12:1-3 is called the Abrahamic Covenant. These contain the benefits to the Suzerine. Abraham is the vassal; God is the Suzerain. God gives and Abraham gives nothing.

Abrahamic Covenant

1. Faith in Christ is the only condition of the covenant. God chose Abraham as a believer.
2. This covenant established the Jewish race based upon faith in Christ.
3. There was a promise: a future nation Israel as a client nation before God.
4. The nation Israel as a whole, at its inception, fell under the freedom and establishment.
5. The Mosaic Law had application to believers and unbelievers. It pointed toward salvation and the nation had to be governed, which means believers and unbelievers.
6. However, the promises of the unconditional covenants were made to
7. The exception was the anti-Semitism clause in Genesis
8. To fulfill this covenant,
9. The unbelievers are a part of the Jewish race, and God tells them that He would

There is this anti-Semitism clause, which is for believers and unbelievers both. The fulfillment is only for believers. In the time that we live, there are a lot of unbelieving Jews.

There are other parts of the Old Testament. There were 4 other unconditional benefits of the covenant

God Elaborates

1. There will be personal blessing. God will bless Abraham and make his name great. This is unconditional; meanings it will happen.
2. There was a territorial part: there was land to go with it. Palestinian covenant. This is also unconditional. Israel only has a small portion of this area today. God will fulfill this covenant. We can bet on it. When He returned
3. A national blessing. 2Sam. 8 and it was directed toward one man, David the King will come and reign for 100 years.
4. The Lord Jesus Christ is the basis for any unconditional covenant. There was a universal blessing. Gen. 12:3b all the families of the earth is mankind.
5. The seed of the woman; the humanity of Christ was come from Abraham, Isaac and Jacob and the entire world would be blessed through this descendant of them. Gal 2:14 relates this covenant to us. What is the blessing of Abraham? It is given to Abraham because he is a believer. The only way we receive these blessings is through faith alone in Christ.

In the Church Age, we are not governed by covenants. The greatest blessings will be Psalm 89:33–34: but I will not remove from him my steadfast love or be false to my faithfulness. I will not violate my covenant or alter the word that went forth from my lips. Once for all I have sworn by my holiness; I will not lie to David. His offspring shall endure forever, his throne as long as the sun before me. Like the moon it shall be established forever, a faithful witness in the skies." Selah. But now you have cast off and rejected; you are full of wrath against your anointed. You have renounced the covenant with your servant; you have defiled his crown in the dust. You have breached all his walls; you have laid his strongholds in ruins. All who pass by plunder him; he has become the scorn of his neighbors. You have exalted the right hand of his foes; you have made all his enemies rejoice. You have also turned back the edge of his sword, and you have not made him stand in battle. You have made his splendor to cease and cast his throne to the ground. You have cut short the days of his youth; you have covered him with shame. Selah.

This is some oath; it is the oath of the great God. Covenant. Land covenant.

we are coming to the New Covenant of My blood.

1Cor. 11:25: In the same manner He also took the cup after supper, saying, This cup is the New Covenant in My blood. Do this, as often as you drink it, in remembrance of Me.

Les #679      1Cor. 11:25 The New Covenant of My Blood 2/24/08      Sunday 1

No other religion or philosophy or ideology has its underpinnings in the grace of God as does Christianity. No other religion understands what we understand. We will study the unconditional covenants to Israel, which were given solely by the grace of God.

The New Covenant of My Blood is a pivotal phrase in Scripture. When you understand this one phrase, you need never go blank when partaking of the cup of blessing. This is our Lord's legacy to all of us. In this one phrase, the cup of remembrance is connected with His Own blood, which He then connects with a New Covenant. This is a phrase which is pregnant with meaning. With this one phrase, He links His atoning work on the cross with a covenant concept. Covenant is an Old Testament term, which is used to define God's relationship with Israel throughout the history of Israel.

Mosaic Covenant given to Moses just a short time after Moses led them to Mount Sinai. This covenant was patterned after the Suzerain-Vassal treaties of that day. The Mosaic Law epitomized divine establishment as well as morality. The government and the divine establishment codes are conditional stipulations. They are agreed upon by both parties, as per the Suzerain-Vassal treaties. God provided blessing or cursing based upon Israel's adherence. In all the Law, there are the animal sacrifices, the construction of the Tabernacle, all of which spoke of the spiritual life of Jesus Christ. There was the priestly clothing and all of the rituals which they partook. These procedures and rituals were to be followed exactly by the children of Israel. Did the Jews earn the right to be liberated? Were they so deserving that God looked down and decided, "Hell, these people are just too damn good; they get freedom."

The spiriual code looked toward the Messiah. No conditions can be on the grace of God. The 2nd type of covenant is the unconditional covenants which God had given to Israel. There are no obligations placed upon man when it comes to the fulfillment of the unconditional covenants. This treat could only be based upon God's work, and never upon man's work. Abram's permanent blessing, "I will bless you and make your name great." There are no conditions here; it is a statement of fact. This covenant extends not just to Abraham, but to all Jews throughout history. God gives Abraham His righteousness, and then He can bestow blessings upon him because His righteousness resides in Abraham. Abram is born again through the non-meritorious function of faith. Faith is appropriating the work done for us. We simply believe that it was done. There is nothing that we do to earn the favor of God.

It is not physical birth which defines the Jew who receives the unconditional covenant from God; they were a new racial species based upon regeneration. In the Abrahamic covenant, the future client nation of Israel was promised. God promised Abraham that he would be a great nation. Faith is not a condition for blessing; it is an acceptance of a work already done on our behalf.

There were several elaborations on this covenant to Abraham. Deut. 28–30, which is an elaboration on the real estate gift from God to Israel. Sometimes this is called the promised land, as it was promised to the Jews. Whatever God promises stands in perpetuity. Once God gives you something, it is yours. When we are given something from God, it is forever. The Jews still have the promises of the unconditional covenant.

2Sam. the Davidic Covenant, which provided for the establishment of the royal dynasty. The throne was promised to David and his progeny and this throne would some day be occupied by David and his progeny. The Lord Jesus Christ fulfills the Palestinian covenant and the Abrahamic covenant. "In you, Abraham, all the families of the earth will be blessed." This is a promise made of all of us.

Some mistakenly think that, if we have taken over these covenants, then we are now heirs to the Abrahamic covenants, and the Jew is no longer in play. But this is incorrect. That Jew in this dispensation is apart of the church; but in the future, God's promises will be fulfilled to Israel. The covenants are a wonderful springboard to understanding dispensational. God promised way back to Adam that the seed of the woman that this seed would be passed down.

When we believe in the finished work of the Messiah, then we enter into a covenant promise with God as well. It is the central event of history. There is only one thing which underlies the promises of the unconditional covenants: the blood of Christ.

For where a covenant is made, there must be the death of the one who made it. This is a legal will, essentially. This sort of covenant is not valid until there is a death; the death of the one who made it. Who made the unconditional covenant. God made it. However, God cannot die; He is incapable of death.

That covenant, He designates the New Covenant of His Blood. This covenant covers all time and extends all the way to the end of time.

The Jews also had a New Covenant, and this was a promise made to them, which became particularly important. Very few statements of our Lord were revealed before He went of the cross. The New Covenant to Israel is not the same as the New Covenant of His Blood. The first is given to Israel and the second is universal.

700 years before our Lord speaking about the New Covenant of My Blood, Jeremiah spoke of a New Covenant to Israel before the 5th cycle.

Jer 31:31–33: "Behold, the days are coming, declares the LORD, when I will make a new covenant with the house of Israel and the house of Judah, not like the covenant that I made with their fathers on the day when I took them by the hand to bring them out of the land of Egypt, my covenant that they broke, though I was their husband, declares the LORD. But this is the covenant that I will make with the house of Israel after those days, declares the LORD: I will put my law within them, and I will write it on their hearts. And I will be their God, and they shall be my people.

God said, "I took these people by the hand and led them to His covenant." All the rituals pointed toward the unconditional covenants. Israel had broken the eml over and over again; they were not fulfilling their client nation. Although I was a husband to them, I could not have loved them more. Here, Jeremiah lays down the New Covenant.

The Jews are about to go out under the 5th cycle of discipline, so God has to reassure them that He is not done with them. He still gives them promises. That is the grace of God. This will all be fulfilled after the Tribulation and at the Millennium.

"I will put My Law within them." The Law used to be written on stone tablets. There is only one way which God can forget the sins of the Jews—the sacrifice of Jesus Christ.

1Cor. 11:25: In the same manner He also took the cup after supper, saying, This cup is the New Covenant in My blood. Do this, as often as you drink it, in remembrance of Me.

The New Covenant of My Blood

You may think, why study Old Testament covenants, but this is the basis of the grace of God and fundamental to the faith. This was the grace of God. These Jews were about to be deported and God had not forsaken them. No matter how bad things are, and no matter how far out of line that you get, the grace of God is still in action. God will still spank us, and we are His sons; but we remain related to Him. However, His grace never fails.

God has never rescinded this covenant which He made to Israel. God brought Israel out of slavery and they are about to go back into slavery, and God reassures them that He will maintain a covenant with them, despite the discipline.

Jer 31:31–33: "Behold, the days are coming, declares the LORD, when I will make a new covenant with the house of Israel and the house of Judah, not like the covenant that I made with their fathers on the day when I took them by the hand to bring them out of the land of Egypt, my covenant that they broke, though I was their husband, declares the LORD. But this is the covenant that I will make with the house of Israel after those days, declares the LORD: I will put my law within them, and I will write it on their hearts. And I will be their God, and they shall be my people.

The New Covenant to Israel

1. In those days, means that this is future. We will be a part of this.
2. He will destroy Israel's enemies.
3. He will rule over and restore Israel as the King of Kings, Lord of Lords. This covenant wraps up all the previous covenants. We have a spiritual life like no previous group of people in history. However, we are not promised a land or a king; we share His Kingship. Israel still has her promises
4. God will make Israel as a client nation a blessing by association to all the earth. Zech. 8:23.

Why Does Jesus Use this Language—the New Covenant of My Blood?

1. Jesus means to say that His blood (figurative language for the death of Christ for us on the cross), Jesus uses New Covenant in a general way, but in a very specific way.
2. Jesus is speaking to the Apostles to the church; at this time, they are His disciples. They would understand some day what this reference is.
3. The redemptive requirement is fulfilled. He is saying, I am going to make a new will and I will simply reiterate this will to you. I will die for you, which is the reference to His blood. When He dies for us, the covenant kicks in. Salvation, propitiation, redemption all kicks in. The wrath of God is propitiation. The wrath of God was directed toward Jesus Christ on the cross. It clicks with the disciples. "I am the New Covenant." This is the basis for every underlying covenant in the New Testament. It is mankind's covenant. The Jews understood this reference in their context, but they would soon understand this is a much greater context. This is the transition, from the Age of Israel through the Hypostatic union. The resumption of the unconditional covenants.
4. The term New Covenant had a special meaning to the Jews. The disciples were regenerate Jews. It would have an even more special meaning in the years to come.

Why Did God Make these Covenants

1. God wanted to reveal His intentions toward Israel on this earth. Israel was a theocracy, ruled by God directly. Even though Saul made a mess of things, God still had a covenant with Israel. This was why God made a covenant with David.

2. The covenants revealed God's method for redeeming and blessing Israel. This is the cross. The grace of God, the epitome of the grace of God; the spiritual code, the Davidic covenant all based upon Jesus on the cross.
3. It was revealed by the covenants which provisions and the basis for man to have a faith relationship with God. These covenants epitomize the grace of God. When we look at the history of Israel, we realize just how little they deserved it.

These disciples understood the analogy which was being made; this was the destiny and history of the Jewish nation, all bound up in the covenant to the Jews.

Jesus was sitting in the upper room with the 11 disciples; the God of the Universe, localized in one room, and here He is, referring to a New Covenant. The Messiah reassures them, before a very dark hour, that this is what He would do. He reassures them using covenant imagery and language. In 70 A.D., the Jews would be spread across the face of the earth. By far, more Jews live outside of Jerusalem than in.

What Jesus was doing

1. Jesus was rephrasing that which He spoke through Jeremiah. The Lord was a great word smith.
2. Jesus was confirming to them an eternal relationship with His redeemed people, based upon His blood. We are also His redeemed people. The cross crosses dispensational lines; the cross is for everyone. He is confirming an eternal relationship with His people.
3. There was nothing conditional about this covenant. The cross was the provision and non-meritorious faith was the only entrance. The Lord took words from the past, which He spoke during the present, telling His disciples of what would happen in the future.

Jesus indwells this body of ours, which is the sign of a new covenant. This is the New Covenant. For the disciples, the Old Testament was their Scripture. This was the Scripture of our Lord Jesus Christ. 300 years before the appearance of our Lord, the Old Testament was translated into Greek, and this was the Bible of the Jews at that time. They understood from this Testament that Messiah had arrived.

The genealogy of the Lord Jesus Christ. The genealogies of Matthew and Luke tell us. The one sitting in front of them was the promise to these Jews.

People like to say that this is some lowly carpenter. The Romans put "King of the Jews" on His cross as sarcasm, but it was true. These men would understand that He was the future Millennium ruler. They knew that Israel would also possess the land promised to them as well.

Jer. 31:34–37: And no longer shall each one teach his neighbor and each his brother, saying, 'Know the LORD,' for they shall all know me, from the least of them to the greatest, declares the LORD. For I will forgive their iniquity, and I will remember their sin no more." Thus says the LORD, who gives the sun for light by day and the fixed order of the moon and the stars for light by night, who stirs up the sea so that its waves roar-- the LORD of hosts is his name: "If this fixed order departs from before me, declares the LORD, then shall the offspring of Israel cease from being a nation before me forever."

The New Covenant of My Blood

What about new covenants in the Church Age? The book of Hebrews cites the New Covenant and makes a very big deal out of it. The Tribulation is the resumption of the Age of Israel. There is no way you can know where you are going unless you know where you have been. We are a progression of God's plan for Israel. But what is the relationship between God's plan for Israel and God's plan for us? We need to know how we fit in. It is sort of like the United States of America. There has never been any nation on earth the likes of what we have today. We live in a window of freedom and prosperity as has never been known before, just in the past 50 years. Everything needs to be changed; everything needs to be turned around; complaints about nothing. People do not appreciate where they are unless they know where they have been. Part of this confusion is this statement which the Lord has made. Jesus was not confused about this; He knows exactly what He is speaking about.

This last supper appears to be applying the covenants of Israel to the church. But, bear in mind, the covenants belong to Israel. We do not live under covenants. The conditional covenants and the unconditional covenants were all given to members of Israel.

The Mosaic Law was essentially a written constitution for Israel. It defined the theocratic government of Israel. We still live under divine establishment. We think our constitution is the greatest document of human freedom ever written; but the Mosaic Law trumps ours. Ours is great from a human standpoint; but the Mosaic Law was written personally by God. We can look at this document at any point and recognize that it defines divine establishment that was a revelation for all humanity. Secondly, it was the first written expression of God's will for man given in an organized, detailed form. It had not been codified before. It was conditioned upon their response. It was designed for individual response to God's theocratic rule. The Mosaic Law was never given as a means of salvation, even though many have tried. Salvation in every dispensation has always been by faith alone in Christ alone. The only difference is the name that Jesus is known by. The Mosaic Law pointed toward the Messiah and His future work on the cross. It was important that Israel knew what was coming.

The Mosaic Law contrasted man's inability to keep the law. This shows man that he has no ability to approach God's righteousness. It was the absolute standards of God laid down for His people. No one had been able to keep it. Every time the lamb was put on the altar and slaughtered, it was clear that they could not do it. The grace of God was pictured. The blessings of His grace would be revealed in another covenant. This covenant was made with regenerate Abraham. There were 4 blessings promised to Abram and his progeny: Abraham was promised great personal blessing from God and it would be fulfilled during Abraham's lifetime (Gen. 12:1-3) and with this covenant came a new name; he went from Abram to Abraham. Abraham amassed a great personal fortune, which was a part of his blessing. He was known in the time during which he lived. They knew him in the era in which he lived. He also received a real estate endowment. He had a nice piece of real estate and Abraham lived in a tent throughout the Land of Promise. There was a line of kings as a part of this promise, which included the line of the Messiah; an eternal kingdom. The throne of Israel would be in the family of David, which was established forever. Abraham would be a blessing to all the nations of the earth. This was Jesus, Who came from the line of Abraham. Joseph was not the father, but as a man had to be related in the genealogy for the proper conferring of the promise to Abraham.

In contrast, the Mosaic Law showed Israel how short they fell of righteousness. The Abrahamic covenant emphasized the means. The Abrahamic Covenant was not fulfilled during his lifetime. Abraham would have his covenant fulfilled throughout the history of Israel. Because of their failure to obey the Law of Moses, they were sent out of the land. Was this 5th cycle the end of the covenant for Israel? Nope. It just means that Israel is under discipline. Jerusalem is about to be leveled. Jeremiah announced this new covenant right before it happened. Jer. 31. This was directed toward the Jews when outside of the country. He looked beyond their times to the regathering of Israel.

Israel, at this moment, is under the 5th cycle. There are 4 million living in the land today, but it is not the client nation. Why doesn't Bobby assert that this will be the Israel which will launch into the Tribulation as the client nation. In the Millennium, all of the promises to these covenants will be fulfilled. The pronouncement in 1Cor. 11:25 does not removed these covenants and pass them along to the church. The covenants belong to Israel through Abraham. We are related to Abraham as his spiritual seed, to some degree.

The New Covenant to Israel

1. The seed of the woman will return to the earth at the 2nd advent. Jer. 31:31.
2. The Lord Jesus Christ will restore Israel from the 5th cycle of discipline. They went out in 70 A.D. and that is still in effect. They will not be a client nation again until Jesus regathers them.
3. The fulfillment will be Jesus as the Lord, fulfilling all the unconditional covenants as the ruler in the Millennium.
4. He will also make Israel a blessing by association. Zech. 8:23.
5. This is the future fulfillment of all the previous covenants. Jeremiah gave them a new Covenant so that they realize that they were not left to rot.

There is no race today in the Church Age. However, in our passage, this is a different covenant. This is not the New Covenant of Jeremiah.

What Did Jesus Mean?

1. His blood at the cross is a New Covenant.
2. Jesus confirms an eternal relationship with all of His redeemed people, regardless of the dispensation.
3. He will unconditionally fulfill the redemptive requirement for all mankind in His blood.
4. He is also making a reference which would catch the attention of His Jewish disciples. These in part was what He was saying.

More Points

1. The New Covenant was very explicit.
2. Where a covenant is, there must also be death.
3. The disciples sitting there get a little of the meaning, hearing the word New Covenant. This blood is all of mankind's atonement, which they may not have understood. Our Lord connected this with something that they never connected it with.
4. There is a continuity between the unconditional covenants to Israel and what was being spoken of here. He said New Covenant and they began to get it; and then He said, "Of My blood" which may have thrown them off.
5. Christ fulfilled the old covenants. He is also the benefit of redemption for all mankind.

Christ now links this covenant with the cup of remembrance. We drink the cup of remembrance. It is His blood which guarantees two things. The blood of redemption is salvation for all mankind. This does not transfer the old covenants or put them together, but it is a link. All that came before and all that came after is centered there. Jesus said this in one term: the New Covenant of My Blood.

Bobby asks, "Why did our Lord not just cite his blood here and why tie it to the covenants? Why did he have to throw in the term New Covenant?" Covenant theology could not cite this as some sort of a proof text. Remember that His audience were all Jews, but Jews in a New Age, the Age of the Hypostatic Union. This was a wonderful age; the age of a window of a time when our Lord walked on this earth. This was a short 32 years. Shorter dispensation is the Tribulation. This was the greatest dispensation of history.

This separates two great dispensations. This is the central moments of all human history. It is the transition dispensation, and during this when our Lord initiated the Lord's Table. Jesus was looking at these disciples and He knew that they were slow to get things. Jesus makes this announcement, as these Jews had been brought up in the covenant concept. They were undoubtedly familiar. In this announcement, the Lord makes a distinction. He said, "This is a New Covenant in My blood." This was terminology that they did not know. The transition from the past to the future. The Age of Israel transitioning into the Church Age. The New Covenant of My blood encompasses all of God's redemptive activity, while picking up some of the part.

Conclusion

1. Jesus Christ was the Messiah of Israel and He fulfilled these promises to Israel.
2. When the disciples heard this, Israel's future was guaranteed.
3. For the church, it is our reminder of His redemptive work. We look forward and He looks back. This was not for the Jews only. It was for all mankind. It was as the promise of an eternal future to all who believed in Christ.
4. This is something for all to remember and to celebrate in the Church Age in the ritual of communion. This transitions from the Passover of Israel to the Communion of the Church Age. It is the promise connected to the fulfillment and to the future.

The New Covenant of My Blood

The New Covenant to Israel was given specifically to the nation Israel. It was a very propitious time when Jeremiah made the announcement of this New Covenant. Daniel had already been taken as a hostage. He was already ensconced in Babylon and he would have a lot to do with keeping Israel on the right track. This New Covenant reiterated all of the old covenants.

On the night Jesus was about to be crucified, and He proclaimed a New Covenant of My Blood. This particular pronouncement was a transitional age; the age of the hypostatic union, which lasted about 30 years.

The covenant to the church is called the better covenant. So, we have a continuity of covenants possibly going right through the dispensations. When the church is removed, then we have the Tribulation. This is the final 7 years of the Age of Israel. It is a very interesting study as to how we get these additional 7 years, which Bobby will cover in v. 26. It is the prophecy of Dan. 9.

The Mosaic Law comes back for the Tribulation. It is a part of the last 7 years of the Age of Israel, which is the Tribulation. There is a resumption in the Temple of Jerusalem the animal sacrifices. At 3.5 years, the abomination of desolation will be put up in the Temple, which is a statue of the Roman dictator. This is the time of Israel's trouble. Some will head to the hills and massacre after massacre will take place.

The New Covenant to Israel will be fulfilled, which is the future of Israel, promised around 586 B.C., to be fulfilled in the Millennium. There are no covenants per se in the Church Age. There are covenants throughout the Age of Israel; but there is this non-formal better covenant. This means that this is a new relationship. God made formal covenants with Adam and Noah as well, which carry through even into the Millennium. However, no covenants in the Church Age. Covenants belong to Israel. New Covenant to Israel. Age of the Hypostatic Union. Millennium is the kingdom promised to Israel. This is how God communicated His plan with Israel—through covenants. However, He does not communicate with us in this way.

We are administered each one of us in the Church Age individually, by the filling of the Holy Spirit. Jer. 31 lists this New Covenant.

What is this New Covenant to Israel?

1. This New Covenant of Jeremiah replaces the Mosaic Law. It will be a law engraved on their hearts.
2. Israel's new covenant is a follow-on to the other unconditional covenants. It defines them, guarantees them, and looks to the future.
3. Israel's New Covenant deals with the national future of Israel and the fulfillment of all the promises of the Abrahamic, Palestinian, etc. covenants. But the New Covenant to Israel does not apply to the church.
4. The baptism of the Holy Spirit in the Church Age never before occurred in any other dispensation. It occurred on the day of Pentecost. The nation Israel no longer represents God on earth; we, as individuals represent God on earth. All the great Old Testament heroes have nothing like we have. We have such greater knowledge; and we know God so much more better. We have Him defined so well in the New Testament. It is a whole new relationship.

The word New Covenant certainly triggers something in every Jew. New Covenant to Israel is not the same as the New Covenant of My Blood. Our Lord meant for them to think. He could have just said, "This is the cup of My blood." But He threw in the covenant, which struck a chord with the disciples.

What is this New Covenant of My Blood?

1. New Covenant in My Blood is a statement of the substitutionary sacrificial death of our Lord Jesus Christ. This phrase was never said before. Then He says, "Remember this, every time that you drink." Religion today is just filled with all of these rituals today, designed to please the gods or to represent the gods. We have one ritual. We are to recognize those moments when our Lord died for us.
2. His death is efficacious for all people in every dispensation of human history. This is the New Covenant in His Blood.
3. So the New Covenant in His Blood transcends every dispensation, whereas the New Covenant to Israel goes to just one dispensation. This covenant links all dispensations to the only means of salvation.
4. In every dispensation, there is but one way to be saved: faith alone in Christ alone, based upon His death on the cross. The means of salvation is faith in Christ.
5. This is clearly revealed in all dispensations. His substitutionary death guarantees everything. He is our Savior and the basis and grounds for all that we have.

6. In the Age of Israel, this term, New Covenant in My Blood, is revealed in the Mosaic Law. The blood of Christ was revealed by the blood sacrifices. The disciples heard this and immediately connected this to the animal sacrifices.
7. The New Covenant in His Blood is the pivotal fact and statement of history. This links us all together, even across dispensations. Salvation is the same in every dispensation.
8. The New Covenant was a term that the disciples understood. For most of us, at the beginning of this study, New Covenant probably meant very little; but Jesus' disciples did understand this.
9. This drew their attention to Jesus sitting before them. All of the rituals performed over 1000's of years. These men, whether they knew it or not, were transitioning to the Church Age. They were being given a ritual for the Church Age only.

So what was this Transition Period?

1. These disciples were the men who would introduce the Church Age to the Jews and Gentiles throughout the entire earth. They would explain salvation and then the mystery doctrine.
2. The foundation of the Church Age was the New Covenant in My Blood. Not only the Church Age, but the salvation of those in every age. That was the transition and the unifying factor.
3. But the disciples also introduced to the world the unique ministry of God the Holy Spirit which defines the Church Age. This is the bedrock of mystery doctrine. This is the only way that we can utilize the problem solving devices.
4. That was the design that God had for the administration of the church. God had different administrations for different eras. These men revealed the design which God had for the church.
5. The disciples would not introduce a New Covenant to the church. That was not their purpose. They were transitioning from a covenant concept in Israel to a new relationship with the Lord Jesus Christ, one guaranteed by the Lord Jesus Christ. It was the harbinger of a new relationship between us and the Lord Jesus Christ. What our Lord did by mentioning a New Covenant was not to introduce a New Covenant to the church, but it was a phrase, but it was the harbinger of a new relationship between God and the in this one phase, He summed up all of salvation history. This is all we need to know about the history of mankind and what Jesus Christ does for all of us.
6. The New Covenant in My Blood was a transitional statement from the Age of Israel to the Church Age, as it passed through the Hypostatic union. It was the trans-dispensational promise. And the new relationship between God the believers in the Church Age is what is being promised.

We will look at several chapters of Hebrew next; and it was written to Jews who were 30 years into the Church Age, and they were still confused and scratching their heads. The Levitical priesthood was still making sacrifices. Probably before the Nero persecutions, which was 65 A.D. They were still confused about our Lord's sacrifice; and about the sacrifices which they offered. The writer of Hebrews will take them by the hand and walk them through the changes. We will be transitioned into the Church Age via the book of Hebrews.

The New Testament [Covenant] of My Blood

A recent article tells us that evangelical Christians make up the largest religious grouping in the United States.

We are going to be studying 1Cor. 11:25 by way of the book of Hebrews, where the covenant concept is covered. The question is, do covenants belong to the church? Do they belong to Israel and the church? You may not be very interested, but we are studying Biblical history from the standpoint of the divine perspective. We get the panorama of divine history and we get to see where we fit in. "Don't look at me and say, oh no, the covenants again!"

The questions posed must be understood from 1Cor. 11:25 and what did our Lord mean? This verse belongs to the Church Age and it is for us to obey. It uses the term New Covenant, which is definitely an Old Testament concept. The Old and New Testaments meet at this term. We have a test coming, which is coming up next Sunday morning, which is Communion. To understand the New Covenant in My Blood is to pass the test.

We must understand these terms in the context of dispensations. 586 B.C. is where this begins. Jeremiah, prior to or around the time of 586 B.C., made a prophecy of the New Covenant in Jer. 31:31–34, and this covenant was all about Israel's future. Israel had utterly disregarded the Mosaic Law and they had become apostate and heretical. They were about to fall under the 5th cycle of discipline. They would soon spend 70 years in horrific slavery to the Chaldean empire and they would wonder if God had forgotten them; were the covenants no longer valid. The answers, of course, are no. God's covenants with Israel could not be cancelled. The grace of God; and God is immutable. He gave His Word to Abraham and to the progeny of Israel. Jeremiah's prophecy was to assure them of their future.

God's covenant with Abraham was made with a believer in Jesus Christ. This is why God changed his name from Abram to Abraham, to indicate that he was a believer, a regenerate man, newly born. When Jeremiah spoke of this New Covenant, he was reminding Israel of their covenants with God, and to make certain that they knew that God still had a covenant with them. Jeremiah tells them this prior to the 5th cycle of discipline.

Daniel became the Prime Minister of Chaldea at this time, and he prayed to understand the future of Israel. Dan. 9:24–27 is where he receives a vision from God. This vision would confirm the details of Israel's future under the New Covenant. This even gives us a timetable which is to the day. The Church Age will terminate at a time unknown; however, once we are taken up, then the clock starts,

Our Lord sat before the disciples and He spoke of a New Covenant in My Blood. This can be confusing to those who understand God's covenant relationship with Israel. What was He talking about? Israel understood the New Covenant given to them and these men were Jews. You cannot understand this term without understanding the dispensation of this disciples, and from whence they had come and where they were going. With these words, Jesus encompassed all of the covenants in the past and those which would come to pass. The means of salvation is the same in all dispensations. The blood of Christ is the means of our salvation. We are all covered by the New Covenant of His Blood. That was the universal impact of Christ's statement. The blood sacrifices of Israel would be hereby linked to the sacrifice of Jesus Christ on the cross and linked to our Communion, which is linked to the Passover, which is linked to the covering of animal sacrifices. This New Covenant in My Blood could not be simply applied to the New Covenant of Jeremiah, but it is even more universal. These words had a unifying affect and it also differentiated out dispensations.

A covenant is simply a relationship between two peoples or a treaty between nations. The New Covenant which our Lord speaks of is a relationship between two entities. The reality of His blood is His sacrifice on the cross. This is new; it is not the old relationship between Israel and God; nor is this about the relationship between God and Jews and the animal sacrifices. This new relationship is with the church and a new relationship predicated on a new spiritual life. Jeremiah covenants had meanings for all mankind but it also had a meaning for the church. It calls to mind a certain terminology but it looks forward to our Lord on the cross. Our Lord take the cup and He holds it up and He says, "This cup is the New Covenant of my blood." The disciples here this and they think about Israel's covenants. They had just completed the last legitimate Old Testament ritual which would take place. The New Covenant reference had great meaning for them. This New Covenant in His Blood was not a reference to Israel. Unbeknownst to the disciples sitting there, after they took part in the last legitimate Passover meal—our Lord would be crucified as the true Passover—the new ritual launched by this phrase would replace all the sacrifices of Israel. It prophesied it. There is a shift. These 11 disciples would introduce a new relationship with Christ which would characterized the Church Age. They were to transition from the Jewish disciples to the Church Age Apostles, and this would be related to the New Covenant in My Blood.

Of course, they would give the gospel, Who He was and What He accomplished. They also spread some basic doctrine. All these men did one thing; as they taught, they also spoke of the distinctions of the Church Age. They spoke of the unique ministry of the Holy Spirit. These disciples would shortly see our Lord Jesus Christ on the cross, and they would eventually understand that He was the Passover Lamb, the Savior of all mankind. The Church Age would begin. All of this would begin and it transitions with the New Covenant of My Blood. It was not a formal covenant but a new relationship with the Lord Jesus Christ. It is a new relationship with Jesus based upon the blood of Christ. He would die and be resurrected. He used a spiritual life which carried Him to this point and through the cross; this was the prototype spiritual life. All of this was happening at this one moment. The old covenant and this new relationship. This was in a way that had never before been seen or heard of in the Old Testament. Some in theology think, this church has a new covenant and that the church now has assumed a covenant relationship with God instead of Israel. The disciples did not teach that the church usurped Israel's relationship. The relationship between Christ and the church was founded in His blood. This was also a transitional statement, taking us from one dispensation to the next. We have that new relationship. They did not have the relationship of their forefathers of Israel, but a new one, which would be established by the blood of Christ and our relationship to God the Holy Spirit.

We will begin to spend some time in the book of Hebrews and we will see how regenerate Jews are transitioned from the Age of Israel to the Church Age. Now, the new regenerate Jews are confused. They have heard about this new relationship with Christ, but these old sacrifices are still occurring in the Temple. They knew, we are Jews, and they were confused as to what they were to do. They faced a dilemma. The disciples just did not know. What would happen would confuse them. When Hebrews was written in 64 A.D., they were told that they had a new relationship with Jesus Christ, and it abrogated the covenants to Israel.

1Cor. 11:25: In the same manner He also took the cup after supper, saying, This cup is the New Covenant in My blood. Do this, as often as you drink it, in remembrance of Me.

Dispensations

There were several songs in between dealing with the history of Texas (Aggie war hymn and some other one). March 6 is the anniversary of the fall of the Alamo and it defines liberty because war defines liberty. They lost at the Alamo, but they won. Apparently nearby. We have more freedom in this state than almost any other state in the union; and in part, because of believers at Berachah. The US has more freedom than any other nation in history; and Texas more than any other state in the union.

In the book of Hebrews, we will see how regenerate Jews are transitioned into the Church Age. A future is guaranteed by the blood of Christ. This is a phrase for the future of all mankind. Without the blood of Christ no one can have a relationship with God. A future for client nation Israel which is separate from us, and this is a foundational statement for dispensationalism. That is the heart of the matter.

What is a Dispensation?

1. A dispensation is a period of human history defined in terms of divine revelation. We can define periods of history in a variety of ways.

2. According to the Bible, history is a sequence of divine administration. How does God relate to His people during a specific time in history.
3. These consecutive periods of time in history reflect an unfolding of God's plan for mankind.
4. The dispensations constitute the divine viewpoint of history and the theological interpretation of history. That is what makes dispensations important to us. There is a certain art and science of the interpretation of Scripture, and you cannot properly understand history and the Scriptures apart from dispensationalism.
5. Each dispensation represents the progress of divine revelation from the creation of man through to eternity. This is a progression of administrations.
  - a. Age of the Gentiles: there was just one race on earth, and gentiles might be one reasonable term for it.
  - b. Abram came along and he lived in the Ur of the Chaldees. God made a covenant with Abraham, because he had become the father of the Jewish race. 400 years later, we have God taking Israel out of Egypt; and God gave Israel the Mosaic Law.
  - c. We go down through the ages of history and come to our Lord Jesus Christ, which is about 5 B.C. This Age is short and a central point of history and a transition from the Age of Israel to the Church Age.
  - d. We are the church, which began on the Day of Pentecost. It runs until who knows when. It is over when our Lord comes and meets us in the air, and resurrects every believer and we go to meet Him in the clouds.
  - e. After the rapture of the church, Israel begins a 7 year dispensation called the Tribulation. Satan will do his best to destroy the Jewish race. Much worse than even the holocaust.
  - f. At the 2nd advent, the Lord will destroy the enemies of the Jews at the Battle of Armageddon. Then the Millennium occurs. 1000 years of our Lord reigning on this earth.
  - g. At the Millennium, the Jews will have all of these covenants fulfilled.
6. There is a continuity in the dispensations. Salvation is the same in every dispensation. That is the point of continuity. Slaughtering a lamb at the altar is a picture of salvation. The New Covenant in My Blood is a central statement of history.
7. But there is continuity and also discontinuity. There is a contrast in the administration of the ages. This means, how does God administrate the eras of history. What is the profess of nations Israel was administered by covenants; but we are administered by the filling of the Holy Spirit in our age. Paul brought to us the mystery doctrine.
8. Each administration reflects the progress of God's plan in history. This final 7 years of the Tribulation are the last 7 years of Israel. God has to fulfill these covenants which He made with Abraham. All of these covenants are the different administrations.
9. This doctrine is the vehicle by which believers living at a specific time in history can orient to God's will, His plan and His purpose for our lives. A lot of Christians have no idea as to what is unique to them in this dispensation. What God has provided for us to execute His plan, and it is far beyond what anyone else has had. Each covenant must contain a promise of salvation and the means of this salvation. The gospel is first given in Gen. 3:15. Adam had a covenant; and Noah also received this promise in Gen. 6:18 9:21 or something like that. Abraham received the promise in Gen. 12:1–3. David in 2Sam. 7. All of these promises are there within their dispensations. All of these covenants point toward the Lord Jesus Christ. But each covenant also corresponds to a different dispensation institutional structure for the administration of God's plan in human history.

- a. The first covenant is the initiation of human history, sometimes called the Adamic covenant. It was a personal covenant given to Adam. It was the salvation promise through the seed of Adam, which refers to the Lord Jesus Christ.
- b. Noah received the promise of the Ark. This promise indicated that the line of Christ would be preserved. There were a group of polluted mankind and without a pure race, Jesus could not come. Promise of the Savior.
- c. Israel got the Mosaic Law, which was the administration of Israel and the spiritual law. All other laws come from God's Law. Great law reflects divine establishment.
- d. The ultimate kingdom promise of the Millennium, the new kingdom promise to Israel where Jesus Christ would rule Israel directly on earth.
- e. The only age lacking a covenant is the church. There is not formal covenant relationship between God and the church. The church is not an individual. It is made up of individuals. The church is not an individual or a nation; it is a living organism. There are no racial or gender distinctions. Today there is no boundary or racial barrier. We are the church; we are every race. Equal privilege and equal opportunity.

Church Age Distinctives

We will be there in the Millennium, and we will rule with Christ.

1. The church's leader is Christ Himself. There is no Moses no David; no one intercedes between us and Christ.
2. The church has a baptism into Christ. 1Cor. 12:13 and it is unique. It began on the day of Pentecost. Every time a person believes in Jesus Christ, they receive the baptism of the Holy Spirit.
3. The church has an internal empowerment initiated by Christ, according to John 7:37–39 1Cor. 6:19–20. That is the power of the Holy Spirit, all of which became operational after the day of Pentecost.
4. There is the administration of the dispensation. We have such an administration in our government which is changed every time a new president comes to power. The program of the church is unique from all other dispensations.

The church is Christo-centric and it is administered by precedent. In the Age of Israel, they were administered through covenants. The precedent of the Lord Jesus Christ is what guides us. The proto-type spiritual life initiated by the Lord Jesus Christ is what we function under.

Our Precedence

1. The precedence was set by the Lord Jesus Christ during the hypo-static union. Heb. 6:20
2. The task of the present age is to be imitators of Christ. 1Cor. 11:1 Eph. 5:1 We are to glorify God in our bodies, but this could never be said in any previous dispensation. They had no Holy Spirit; no indwelling of the Holy Spirit. A few men had the indwelling of the Holy Spirit for a short period of time. No one had what we have.
3. We share all that Jesus has. He is a royal priest, and we share this. We have a new relationship in His blood. We are a priest, an adopted son; and we have an inheritance which no one else has ever had. Wherever you go and whatever you do, you are and have a new relationship and to whom much is given, much is expected. We are unique.

Moses longed to see the day in which we live. Every day that we sit in Bible class, we are one step nearer to fulfilling the objective. We are also the ambassador of the Lord Jesus Christ. Did you ever think that your actions make a difference. We have a new relationship and we need to live it. We are not ruled by covenants but by God the Holy Spirit.

Heb. 1: March 5, 2008

Wednesday

we know that a covenant is an agreement between two parties. Covenants are the way that God interacts with Israel. He promised a land and a king and a kingdom, and that they would bless all of the Gentile nations. Covenant had a great deal to do with the history of Israel. At just the right time of history, a time of God's own choosing, a time which was perfect, for the advent of our Lord Jesus Christ. Then He spoke that phrase a New Covenant in My Blood. His death on our behalf would occur just a few hours later. This verbiage would evoke the thought of a New Covenant mentioned in Jer. 31. That New Covenant was not the same as our Lord's statement sounds the same. New Covenant in My Blood conjures up thoughts of Jeremiah's New Covenant. Jesus was the fulfillment of the promise of the Abrahamic covenant. He is the only means of our salvation, and the salvation of all mankind. Our Lord was making a statement of the continuity of every dispensation. The means of salvation is the same, regardless of the dispensation. It will be the same for the last sinner who believes.

To understand the concept of a new time period, we will examine the book of Hebrews and see the transitioning of believers who are Jewish into the Church Age. The continuity of it and the non-continuity of it is dispensationalism as we know it.

Dispensation

1. A period of human history defined in terms of divine revelation.
2. According to the Bible, history is a sequence of divine administrations. Each one has its own unique qualities. We can call this how God administers this dispensation.
3. These consecutive eras reflect the unfolding of God's plan for mankind. Each increment is one more progress in the history of mankind. It takes us from the creation of man, to the patriarchs, to the nation Israel and finally to the Church Age.
4. Adam and Noah and the patriarchs (Abram prior to regeneration).
5. At the exodus, the nation Israel is born, which is when a new age began. When a covenant is given, a new dispensation is begun. Our Lord in His 32 years on earth. The church is the only dispensation from the exodus to the end of millennium which has nothing to do with Israel. We take the Millennium as a literal 1000 years where the unconditional covenants to Israel will be fulfilled. The Temple will be built in the Tribulation, but it will continue in .
6. Theological interpretation of history? Hermeneutics is interpretation of Scripture; and this is based upon understanding of dispensations. Those who try to make the church as the follow on to Israel, confuses some, and their theology is skewed. Some of Christian theologians do not understand that the Millennium is a continuation of the Age of Israel.
7. Each dispensation represents the progress of revelation.
8. There is a continuity in the dispensations—the work of Christ for our salvation. The sacrifices done in Israel did not save.
9. There is a contrast in the administration of the dispensations. Israel is administered by covenants. The final millennium is the fulfillment
10. So this doctrine is the vehicle by which believers living in a specific time in history can do
11. Adam and Noah and Abraham all received covenants. To national Israel and to Israel in the tribulation and the millennium. The prophecies

The Church and How it Relates to other Dispensations

1. The church is Christocentric.
2. It is not administered by covenant, but by precedent.
3. Jesus Christ set this precedent during the age of the hypostatic union.
4. The task of the present age is to be imitators of Christ.
5. We in the Church Age learn Bible doctrine or mystery doctrine, which is one of the ways that we are administered. The Old Testament saints had no idea as to what would be taught. The universal filling ministry of the Holy Spirit. We have more than Moses or David had; and we have it for our entire Christian lives.
6. All of this is the operational spiritual life in the Age of the Hypostatic Union. .

There are certain Biblical keys to the place of Israel. There is a change in the covenant and the change of the priesthood. This all takes place in Hebrews. We have the unique advantage of being priests in this time period. Noah was a family priest; Adam was a family priest. We have direct access to God. The Levitical priest had to go through a series of... We have direct access to God, as we are priests. We are under the priesthood of Christ and not the Levitical priesthood. There is no more a need for the Mosaic Law, because our Lord has already been sacrifice. He is our great High Priest. We have direct access to God, the great high priest. The book of Hebrews reflects this.

Heb 1:1–2: Long ago, at many times and in many ways, God spoke to our fathers by the prophets, but in these last days he has spoken to us by his Son, whom he appointed the heir of all things, through whom also he created the world.

We will stop at some time and look at Daniel's prophecies and in order to put some time on this. God speaks through one voice, and that of His Son. In the Old Testament, there were many prophets who spoke.

This essentially reflects the dispensational approach.

1. The promise of salvation through Christ is continuous through the Bible.
2. This promise comes through the promises; but directly through Christ.
3. Jesus is the fulfillment of the covenants.

Hebrews was written to Hebrew believers about 30 years after the Church Age began. It was before 64 B.C.

Transitioning to the Church Age

1. There were sacrifices still being offered in the Church Age.
2. These Jewish believers needed to know that this is a different dispensation.
3. These Jews of the early Church Age were very confused. These Hebrews needed to be transitioned just like the disciples were transitioned into the Church Age.
4. This teaches Israel about their future progeny and it teaches that God has something far greater for Jews who eternal life in Christ. God has provided equal privilege and equal opportunity in the Church Age. In Israel, it was about race. But Israel always had a little problem with the goyim; with the Gentiles. We are so much better off in the Church Age.

this was a time that these Jews needed to understand that they were no longer in the Age of Israel. Titus would march in and destroy their Temple. At the 2nd advent, Israel will be gathered as the second we are unique; we are the pinnacle of progress of revelation. We have this privilege. To whom much is given, much is expected. We have rebound, the grace of God, and the mystery doctrine to continue to grow spiritually. We need to know how much we have as believers in the Church Age. We will rule. We are under the better covenant that Hebrews speaks of.

Heb 7:22–24: This makes Jesus the guarantor of a better covenant. The former priests were many in number, because they were prevented by death from continuing in office, but he holds his priesthood permanently, because he continues forever.

His disciples watch our Lord's life and they saw Him execute His life we are the recipients of the greatest life that this world has ever known. We are guaranteed a better covenant. A new covenant exists, but it is not a formal covenant. It is better than what came before. This new relationship does not include the transfer of national promises to the church. We do not need these promises because we have something which is so much better.

The word covenant is used over and over again in the book of Hebrews, but not elsewhere in the New Testament. This is because the church does not become some sort of a spiritual Israel. The author uses covenants in a way that the Jews understood. It is their heritage. Just like the constitution is our heritage. Someone speaks of violating our constitution, it is a part of our heritage. When they hear better covenant, they know that here comes a new administration and a new relationship.

Lesson #686

Heb. 7:22–24 1:1–2 March 6, 2008

Thursday

The immediate context begins around v. 11, and it is a comparison between the old Levitical priesthood and Christ. This priesthood was administered through the tribe of Levi, and the Mosaic Law gave the outline of what their duties were. From the very beginning, this was clearly an imperfect priesthood. All of the Levitical priests were imperfect. Heb. 10:1 indicates that they are fallible. The Sacrifice had been made, so there was no need for the animal sacrifices. This had been done. His sacrifice was the only sacrifice which could make an atonement for sin. His work is finished; it was completed on the cross. Israel no longer looked forward to Christ's work on the cross. He is the end of the Law. The result of the

Jesus Christ, our High Priest

1. We now have a great High Priest Heb. 4:14–15
2. He is the great High Priest because He died and was resurrection and He ascended and He is now seated on the right hand of God.
3. There, at the right hand of the Father, He makes intercession for all believers of the Church Age. This includes believing Jews who lived past Pentecost. All believers in the Church Age.
4. The priesthood of Christ is the perfect priesthood; the Levitical priesthood was imperfect. He is the only one without a sin nature.
5. Church Age believers share this priesthood, since we are placed into union with Jesus Christ.
6. He is the High Priest; we are a kingdom of priests.
7. Therefore, we are royal priests. He is the great high priest.

8. The Levitical priest was born into the priesthood. Each was a priest because he was in the tribe of Levi, a descendant of Aaron.
9. Church Age believers are born-again into the royal priesthood. We are not physically born into a priesthood, but we are regenerated into a priesthood. Faith alone in Christ alone is the only qualification to be a priest.
10. As priests, each one of us represents ourself before God. This is an awesome responsibility. Most Israelites looked to the priests to offer up their sacrifices. They stood between the Israelite and God.
11. As royal priests, we are mandated to pray without ceasing. It means consistency. For most of us, this means a scheduled prayer time. This can be done at any time, in a car, with your eyes open. As royal priests, our prayers are offered to God. We pray to God the Father, through Jesus the Son. We have a direct channel to God because we are priests.

These Jews, they must realize that this is an entirely different procedure from which they came. The old priesthood is gone. Their priests and High Priests were fallible men. But they were no different than any other Israelite. They were just as fallible as anyone who brought a sacrifice to them. No imperfect human can make an efficacious sacrifice for another fallible human. Their doctrine came from their rituals. They understood everything that they needed to understand through their rituals. This was how they knew salvation. Faith alone in the Savior, Who makes atonement for all of us. It had to be a perfect person.

Jesus has become the guarantor of a better covenant. This covenant concept had a great meaning for the Jewish believers. Covenants are given very little coverage in the other books, but it is a major topic in the book of Hebrews.

The occasion for this book, believers were still offering up sacrifices to God. The ceremonies were continued. They were confused and they needed to understand. The rituals of the Jewish Temple were now obsolete. This was their heritage. It had been done for hundreds of years. Should they abandon the Temple? That was their heritage. They were no longer under the Mosaic Law. They had a better covenant. This is the New Covenant in His Blood.

The better covenant guarantees a new relationship with all believers. This is a new relationship between God and man, and this new relationship is for a new dispensation. Their relationship is the same as ours today. Therefore, the book of Hebrews is addressed to us as well. Unfortunately, there are Christians today who still hold to the Mosaic Law.

The writer of Hebrews uses a familiar language for these Jews. They are as steeped in their covenant relationship with God as we understand our own constitution. Someone was now addressing their situation. What we do now, boss? They were making a word association and this is why the author speaks of a new covenant.

This better covenant is a transitional phrase to the Jews at this time. The New Covenant in My Blood was the transitional phrase for the disciples. Christ, as the New Covenant, is the assurance of a new relationship based upon being in union with Christ. This is not a promise of a future kingdom relationship with Him. We know the dispensational layout, which does not put believing Jews of the Church Age into a continuation of the Age of Israel.

The New Covenant to the Church

1. The better covenant is a brand new relationship of the church, based upon and predicated on the new ministry of God the Holy Spirit.
2. This better covenant is accomplished by His work on the cross.
3. This was based upon the spiritual life which Jesus Christ test-drove.

No other dispensation has the resources which we have we have the f the. We have so much simply by living in the Church Age.

The New Covenant in His Blood

1. A limited term, defining their relationship with Christ. It does not refer to the New Covenant with Israel.
2. The better covenant arises from Christ's priestly sacrifice; this is His blood, the better covenant.
3. The sacrifices of the Mosaic Law are inferior and defunct.
4. The result is a new dispensation administered by the great High Priest.
5. The Church Age has a better spiritual life, poereed after the precedent of the Lord Jesus Christ. This includes the power of the Holy Spirit.

They understood, to some degree, the reference to the New Covenant; and they new that it was not new for Israel but for the Jews in the church. All those sacrifices over all those centuries could not redeem man from sin. Only He could redeem them. Not the blood of bulls and goats. The old priesthood made these sacrifices and followed the Law. He pioneered the new spiritual lie as him into in #### this Chapter Reveals

1. The abolishment of the old priesthood.
2. The new High Priest, Jesus Christ. He is the infinitely superior High Priest.
3. However, that priesthood continued to operate in Jerusalem in the Temple. The writer of Hbfws has to make this serious to them.
4. The Lord Jesus Christ is the new High Priest. His priesthood is after the order of Melchizedek. He was a king-priest, great than that of Abraham, who was a family priest. There were Levites, but they were inferior. We have a uniqueness.
5. The priesthood of the Lord Jesus Christ replaces the old priesthood. He is the guarantee of our new relationship with Him.

In this change of dispensation, we cannot forget God's immutability. This is why many people think that God changed the covenant. The change in priesthood does not change the unconditional promise made to Abraham obsolete. We are in a new administration. Once God promises something, He cannot renig on this promise. No one can remove this salvation because God placed us there. It is one of the 39 irrevocable absolutes. God gave Abraham promises that never become obsolete. They were given to Abraham and Israel in perpetuity. What God promises, He does not turn around and give it to someone else. National Israel is not left behind, despite their many spiritual failures. Jews are under the 5th cycle of discipline at this time. The Lord will regather these Jews and He will provide the fulfillment. That is the promise of the New Covenant to Israel. Our covenant is a new relationship with the Lord Jesus Christ. It is all our and it can never be taken away. This takes us through past history and through present history, and it does it in one fell swoop.

Heb 7:22–24: This makes Jesus the guarantor of a better covenant. The former priests were many in number, because they were prevented by death from continuing in office, but he holds his priesthood permanently, because he continues forever.

Dr. George Meisinger from Chafer Theological Seminary President coming to speak after class.

He apparently was in class in the 60's and he eventually got the epoint that the languages were important. The first time he heard Bob, it really made him mad. He hammered legalism and he hammered him. He refused to listen to him for a whole year. There was another guy who kept after him, from his Greek class, and he showed up, just to get the guy off his back. He kept going back, even though he did not like the preacher at all. Eventually, he even got so that he liked him. He and his wife even lived with Bob and Betty at that time in 1965.

A group of pastors met in Huntington Beach and decided that there was a need for a Seminary which there were not so many extra classes which drew off your time, energy and resources. Last April, they moved from Southern California to Albuquerque, which he saw as some backwater town. The city now has a million people and the cost of living is much lower than southern california. In California, people had to work 40-50 hours a week to make it, and they could only take 1 or 2 classes a semester. Now they can work less, study more, and graduate in a more reasonable amount of time. Why should someone with the gift consider Chafer Seminary? Why do we request prayers? When you look around the theological landscape, there are hundreds of theological seminaries. A man with the gift should consider a seminary because God uses equipped men. Moses spent 40 years in the desert in Midian. Paul spent 3 years in the Arabian desert and 10 years in the local church of Antioch, and then God launched him into his missionary work.

Luther spend years upon years wondering how is a man justified before God. Charles Ryrie, Dwight Pentecost, etc. There are different levels of training and some are trained to teach in high school, college, elementary school. Many schools do a good job for training men for the ministry. However, they believe 4 solid years of Greek, Hebrew, and Systematic Theology; and then there are other classes as well. Each man has a choice to make. He can be content to be something less than he can be; or he may aspire to be the best that he can be. There will be many sacrifices of time and of finances and long hours of studying Greek, Theology and Hebrew. Sacrifices of being away from his family. It is important that a wife will support and encourage him in all of these hours away from her. Some wives are not willing to make the kind of sacrifices that the husband is willing to make. There will be blood, sweat and tears in a good seminary. But this allows a pastor to dig into the Word for himself. He does not have to depend upon commentaries or church dogma. The prepared pastor will be personally satisfied and content. He does not go into his study with the feeling, Oh, God, another day. He is enthusiastic, because he has the tools to get into the Word. It is a super blessing to see others who grow and they become productive, as God uses us as an equipped servant.

An overview of what things would be like in the first year. With no language background, you will go through half of Chafer's Systematic Theological book, and with no language background, you only start Greek. If you have a background in the languages, then you do both languages. Both languages in the 2nd year no matter what. In the 3rd year, there is Biblical theology. You want to find out all to the book of Hebrews has to say about the covenants. Then you go to Galatians and 1Corinthians, and you learn what they have to say about that topic under their context. Might be the Holy Spirit or Christology. In the 4th year you move into systematic Biblical theology. You take what the individual books say and you pull it into a category. This allows you to have the complete picture of that doctrine. If someone raises their hand and asks a question, then you can come up with an answer. The final step is to take the Word and see how it related to God's world. What does it say about the sciences, entertainment, social sciences, etc. The people in the seats can take the Word and go home and now they have answers for their lives. So they can deal with the heartaches and problems in their lives. God has given us everything which deal with life. We do not need extra taboo lists and other things which Christians tend to create.

If you have the spiritual gift of a pastor-teacher or an evangelist, and you want to become the best, come to Chafe Theological Seminary. God has called you and even in the womb, He has begun to shape and fashion us. Some musicians are born with perfect pitch; IQ too. At the 2nd birth, there are other gifts and abilities. The choice today is, do we develop these gifts to the maximum. So many have called George about the seminary and when they find out about the Greek and Hebrew, they hang up the phone.

Sharpen the abilities which God has given you.

A pub owner in Ireland refused to have Danny Boy played in his pub on St. Patrick's Day and gives several reasons. He said it was depressing, but these are the greatest lyrics of all.

New Covenant in My Blood is a transitional statement. Israel already had received a New Covenant from God and this covenant was about their future. The better covenant is found in Hebrews, and this book was written to Jews in this age. This is a transition from that age to the Church Age. This initiated the Communion ritual. This portends a better covenant to all of us. We are born into the Church Age and are a part of this New Covenant in His Blood.

Heb. 7 is a great passage on this topic. Salvation is the same throughout every dispensation. It runs from Genesis to Revelation. That is the continuity. There is also a discontinuity. The spiritual life of the Jews is outlined in the Church Age. The abolishment of the old levitical priesthood is revealed in Heb. 7, and in favor of an infinitely superior priesthood. Jesus Christ is an infinitely superior High Priest of the Church Age. He is a priest after the order of Melchizedek. He is a type of Jesus Christ, and reveals the great High Priest to come. All believers in the Church Age are now royal priests in union with the King Priest.

The problem for these Jews to whom this book is addressed, there was a still functioning priesthood offering up animal sacrifices in the Temple. These Jews were confused and they needed to understand that the priesthood and the rituals of the Mosaic Law were truly obsolete. Christ was the end of the Law to all who believe. What better way to get across this message to these Jews but to use the old terminology of covenant and indicate the change which has taken place. Now there is a New Covenant; a new relationship for all Church Age believers. They must leave the Mosaic Law behind. They must understand the uniqueness of the Church Age. We have a uniqueness which no other dispensation has.

Heb 7:22–24: This makes Jesus the guarantor of a better covenant. The former priests were many in number, because they were prevented by death from continuing in office, but he holds his priesthood permanently, because he continues forever.

Lesson #688

Heb. 7:22–24 March 9, 2008

Sunday 2

Hebrew was written to Jews during the early Church Age. They knew that there were sacrifices going on in the Temple; but they also understood the meaning of these sacrifices. They were confused. "How are we supposed to live in this Age?" Their understanding will help our understanding in the Church Age.

Thomas Paine had a negative view of the sacrificial death of Jesus Christ. Bobby quoted this in the communion service.

We look back in our Communion to Jesus Christ on the cross. These sacrifices were their history and heritage. These Jewish believers needed to understand that they were no longer a part of Israel. There were still Jews gathered in this land. There was still a temple at this time. There was still a future which was promised in the New Covenant to Israel which Jeremiah spoke of. Every race is part of the church. The nation Israel has a future, but the Jews of the Church Age were not connected to this future any longer.

Jesus was taken up to a high mountain and tempted. From that time on, He was empowered by the Holy Spirit. The Holy Spirit was given to us on the day of Pentecost and we have the same Spirit which empowered Him. The spiritual life is centered on the power of the Holy Spirit. No longer is the priesthood the imperfect Levitical priesthood. Now we have direct access to the great High Priest. The unconditional promises made to Abraham and to his descendants do not change. They were given expressly to Abraham and his progeny.

So, what does become obsolete? The Mosaic Law becomes obsolete. The Mosaic Law which governs the nation. That spiritual life is no longer a part of the age in which we live. This is because Israel has been set aside temporarily. The cross was the center. The church followed the cross. Israel had been temporarily set aside. This is not the New Covenant of Jeremiah. This is the new relationship of the Church Age.

How do we know that the church does not take on itself all of the promises of the Age of Israel? This is because God is immutable. Didn't God become disgusted with Israel and toss them out? Doesn't that mean He changed the Old Covenant to the New Covenant? Isn't Israel completely defunct? God's promises never change. He can never default on His promises. Certainly the divine outline of history progresses. History progresses, but God does not withdraw His promises. God is immutable and His promises can be depended upon.

All of the dispensations move toward the same objective. The promises of God do not change. God's plan for Israel is her irrevocable plan. God's plan for the church is irrevocable as well. Israel will return to the stage of divine history. Covenant theology completely overlooks the place of Israel in the Tribulation and the Millennium. The Tribulation is the resumption of the Age of Israel. Dispensational doctrine is critical to properly interpreting the Bible. Israel has not lost the promise because of her past failure. Let's thank God that He does not negate our salvation because we fail. Will He negate His promises to Israel? He is either faithful or He is not. The New Covenant to Israel is still their future.

We have a New Covenant, a new relationship, as the church; and so does Israel, beginning with the resumption of the Age of Israel. These are different covenants.

Heb. 13:20–21: Now may the God of peace who brought again from the dead our Lord Jesus, the great shepherd of the sheep, by the blood of the eternal covenant, equip you with everything good that you may do his will, working in us that which is pleasing in his sight, through Jesus Christ, to whom be glory forever and ever. Amen. Bobby says this at the end of a wedding service. Both of these people have eternal life and a mission by the Word of God. The blood of His eternal covenant and why not remind the bride and groom of the uniqueness of their spiritual life.

The words eternal and better go together. They refer to the same covenant which God has made with those in the Church Age. This is not a formal covenant as God made with His chosen ones in the past. Why did the author of Hebrews use this word if this is not a formal covenant? Why would he use a word which is so Old Testament.

Why Does the Author of Hebrews use the Term Covenant?

1. The word covenant is not to propose a new formal covenant between God and the church. This is not a transfer of the covenants made to Israel. This is not proposing a New Covenant relationship in the Church Age.
2. This emphasizes, using Jewish terminology, the continuity of salvation for Israel and the church and indeed for all mankind for all times. He uses covenant to trigger thoughts of God's relationship with Israel.
3. This is also used to distinguish between the distinctions of worship in each dispensation.
  - a. A change of priesthood from Levitical to the Great High Priest, which is Christ.
  - b. There are no more blood sacrifices.
  - c. Christ is the true blood sacrifice and He will never be sacrificed again. Why would anyone want to continue to sacrifice animals? This is a great salvation message as well.
  - d. This is a change of administration and function as well.
4. This reminds these Jewish believers that the Lord Jesus Christ is the guarantee of the New Covenant to Israel. These Jewish believers were certainly concerned about their nation and where it was; and in 7 years, there would be no nation Israel. Titus in 7 years would level the Temple. This is when Masada takes place. This is when Jews jumped to their deaths. This is when Jewish are sent all over the earth as slaves, and remain scattered. But they will never be completely destroyed. This should remind believers that Jesus Christ is the guarantee of God's covenants to Israel. The nation that they love so much will not be wiped from the face of the earth.
5. This covenant language indicates Christ's prototype spiritual life, the new relationship. A better covenant. Covenant triggers for these Jews. This is something that the old nation never had. The author's intent is to compare the inadequacies of the Old Testament relationship with the promises of Jesus Christ in the new, based upon His death on the cross.

The Ten Commandments are a part of the theocratic government of Israel. There is no nation of Israel today. The same God governs us. This is the intent of the author of Hebrews. That mystery doctrine never before understood or even presented in the Old Testament is now understood.

The Jews now in the Church Age are being informed as to the changes of dispensation and what the change means to them. They are a part of a new administration. We call a new presidency a new administration. This is what is occurring here. There are points of continuity and points of discontinuity. The author of Hebrews say, "It's gone; forget about it."

God says, "In case you don't get this, try worshiping without a nation; try worshiping without a nation Israel." The old Mosaic Law is gone; and with it, the sacrifices of the Temple. Why would anyone want to rely on a Levitical priesthood when they have such a superior High Priest. They had an old fallacious, faulty priesthood, and it is now gone. Remember, there were those in this priesthood who persecuted Jesus Christ. All the new Christians, for the most part, were Jews, even though the nation Israel rejected Him as a whole. The pharisees and priests and scribes and sadducees rejected Him.

The Age of Israel ceases with the 1st advent. One of the great prophesies of the Old Testament is Daniel 9, where we have the timetable for Old Testament Israel to transfer into the Tribulation. We know the events and the clock which tells us when everything will occur, once the Church Age ends. We will know all of these things to the very day.

The living organism replaces the nation Israel. We are a body of many members. We are not a nation but a living organism. Perhaps this was used so that there could be mistaking that we are a continuation of some sort of the nation Israel. We are priests reporting directly to the Lord Jesus Christ.

The New Covenant in His Blood is cross dispensational. It is cross-dispensational; and the focal point of all dispensations. This reminds the Jews in one word of Gods new plan for them in this new dispensation. The Lord Jesus Christ guarantees a New Covenant relationship and he has brought it about His new action. The new relationship is valid. This contrast is clearly seen in Heb. 8, where we will start next lesson.

Heb 7:22–24: This makes Jesus the guarantor of a better covenant. The former priests were many in number, because they were prevented by death from continuing in office, but he holds his priesthood permanently, because he continues forever.

Lesson #689

Heb. 8:4–6 March 12, 2008

Wednesday

Bobby could continue to loop back and back and back on this particular covenant discussion and how these covenants are all related. However, he cannot spend the rest of our lives on covenants. We will see exactly what Israel's future is. It is terminated for a period of time, but things will kick in at some point.

This period in which we live has been hidden from all previous dispensations and it just happened. God realized that He could keep this age hidden, as His Son would be here with many signs and wonders; and that the Apostles, witnesses to Him, would also be here with many signs and wonders. Therefore, God knew that this age could be easily set up on the fly by His servants.

As a priest, we have a direct line to God. Jesus is our High Priest and He makes intercession for us; and He is also the Mediator of a New Covenant. Our Lord Jesus Christ, as the Mediator of the New Covenant, is a true priest. All the High Priests were all men and they could do nothing. Only Jesus could make the true sacrifice. The Levitical priesthood could never do this.

Jesus is a priest after the order of Melchizedek. He was a unique priest in the annals of history; in fact, he was a king-priest, and a type of Christ. The Lord Jesus Christ is the guarantee of the New Covenant. He has brought this all about by His own actions. No Levitical priest could make such a sacrifice.

There were priests at this time who continued to offer us sacrifices in the Temple. Jesus would never do this, because He was the sacrifice. Even Caiphas the High Priest brought in animals to be sacrificed, and he demanded Christ be crucified. These priests are still doing something which looks forward to Him, and He has already come and He has given Himself as a sacrifice for us.

The Levitical priesthood is now obsolete. Christ is the reality and His priesthood is superior. He is the sacrifice; He is the reality. He brings a new relationship in that covenant with us, apart from the Law. The Law is no longer valid. So many believers today want to return to the Law. We do not live by the Law today; the Law is dead.

Now, He has attained a much greater ministry. Mediation would be understood by any attorney as a legal difference. It is legal terminology. This is how mediation and covenant go together. Our Lord is resolving the relationship between God and man. There is a perfect illustration of what our Lord does on the cross on our behalf. It is a great concept.

This mediator function is enacted on better promises. The new relationship is the contrast. If the first covenant had been faultless, there would have been no occasion sought for a New Covenant enacted on better promises. If the Mosaic Law could save, the sacrifice of Jesus Christ would not be necessary. Why would Christ come and sacrifice Himself if the old Mosaic Law was still in effect and if there was some sort of efficacy in it.

The pharisees tried and some felt as though they were doing okay. They were looking for messiah to rescue them from the Romans. These Jews believed that the Mosaic Law were efficacious and these are the same Jews who crucified Jesus Christ.

No one who is without righteousness can have a relationship with God. Relationship with God is for believers only. You have his personal love, etc. We have the filling of the Holy Spirit. This is our fellowship; this is our relationship. All that God can do is condemn, when others lack His righteousness. When you are convicted, you are being dismissed by the Judge. That is not a relationship. You will be separated from the Judge. Just as someone who is before a human judge and is sentenced to jail; he has no continuing relationship with the judge. He is separated from the judge.

As soon as Adam sinned, the relationship was broken. All God does in grace is provide a means for a relationship. This goes all the way to the beginning and all the way to Israel, to the Church Age, the Tribulation and the Millennium.

Therefore, we need a High Priest Who can mediate between us and God. We cannot mediate our own covenant. No one can mediate their own covenant. God always gave the covenants to Israel. When the Savior came, the Law no longer need to point to Him; because He has come.

His ministry was only for 4 years. He lived for 30 years. He did not have a long public ministry; He lived in Egypt and we have no idea what He did. His public ministry only last for 4 years. He walked a road to Palestine. The priests and sadducees wanted to kill Him. This ministry culminated in His great sacrifice.

This paragraph is a comparison between the real and the shadow; the images and our real High Priest. He completed a more excellent ministry. This better covenant of Heb. 8:6 is the New Covenant in His Blood.

There was a priesthood in the Old Testament other than the family priesthood and other than the Levitical priesthood. There was another priesthood which pointed toward Christ. This was the priesthood of Melchizedek.

Heb 8:4–6: Now if he were on earth, he would not be a priest at all, since there are priests who offer gifts according to the law. They serve a copy and shadow of the heavenly things. For when Moses was about to erect the tent, he was instructed by God, saying, "See that you make everything according to the pattern that was shown you on the mountain." But as it is, Christ has obtained a ministry that is as much more excellent than the old as the covenant he mediates is better, since it is enacted on better promises.

Melchizedek

1. Melchizedek was unique; no one like him.
2. Melchizedek had an eternal priesthood.
3. He was symbolically connected with the future Head of God's people. Psalm 11:4.
4. He was a union of priest and king.
5. He was called the priest of Et Elon = priest of the Most High God.
6. He was also the King of Salem, which later became Jerusalem. He was a real person. He was not just some symbol.

Gen. 14:17–20. He was a contemporary of Abraham. Abraham had just rescued Lot from some raiding kings. Abram heard about it. He assembled over 200 men and he took off after this raiding party. Abram had a lot to defend. He was a rich man. After this triumph, Abram went by Jerusalem. Lot was allied with the King of Sodom; and Abram went by Salem and the King of Salem went out to meet Abram and he brought out bread and wine to Abram, which were staples of the time.

The Bread and the Wind of Melchizedek

1. These were to celebrate God's deliverance of Lot.
2. Melchizedek blessed Abram with bread and wine. There is a similarity here to our Communion.
3. Melchizedek ministered to Abram as a priest.
4. What did Abram do? He tithed to Melchizedek. He gave him a tribute. Melchizedek is a type of priest. This is the absolute and total picture of Jesus Christ in the Old Testament.
5. This means that Abram saw Melchizedek as a true priest. This was not just an act of kindness; this was an act of intercession. This was not the first Communion; but it was a symbol of the priesthood of Mel.
6. This blessing and Abram's offering meant that Melchizedek, meant that Abram recognized that Mel was superior to him.
7. There is nothing about Melchizedek and how he became king and who his ancestors are or anything about his background. This allows the writer of Hebrews to make a comparison between Jesus Christ and Melchizedek.

How was Melchizedek Unique

1. He was a royal priest.
2. The Levitical priesthood was not royalty. The line of Judah was royalty. They did not come together.
3. Abram was a family priest, but he was not a king.
4. David was a king but he was not a priest. Not even Moses has this unique status of Melchizedek; he was both a king and a priest.
5. The perfection of his priesthood is that it stands forever.
6. Melchizedek as a king was superior to the Levitical priesthood.
7. As a priest, Melchizedek was superior to any king of Israel. He was superior to everyone.
8. Psalm 110:4: You are a priest forever according to the order of Melchizedek.

Melchizedek and Christ

1. Melchizedek represented the superiority of the priesthood/kingship which He was.
2. As a king priest, He was a type of Christ.
3. Christ is the great High Priest and the King of Kings.
4. Melchizedek as a type of Christ is a union of priesthood and kingship. Zech. 6:13
5. Christ has a priesthood which is superior to the Levitical priesthood. We are a new priesthood; a new dispensation and new relationship. We ourselves follow after this priesthood. "What are you doing going down to the Temple to those priests; you are superior to them."

We are finding a contrast between the old covenant and the old priesthood with the better covenant and a new priesthood. This is really a study of dispensations. We are now looking at the old covenant, which is clearly the Mosaic Law. The old priesthood is the Aaronic priesthood. The sacrifices of the Mosaic Law and the Day of Atonement and the feasts were mere shadows of what would be revealed in Christ. The old priesthood was imperfect and they could not mediate peace with God for themselves or for others. No longer are the sacrifices at that conditional covenant valid. This was written around 60–64 A.D. and the Jews are quite confused, and they are about to see the 5th cycle of discipline descend upon them. They need to know that they are no longer Israel but they will be the church. God allowed this to happen to nation Israel and to the Levitical priesthood in order to wipe all of these things out. These new Apostles just needed to communicate the Church Age doctrine to the believers of that time period.

The author of Hebrews also point out that Jesus Christ could not be a Levitical priest. He is the fulfillment of the picture presented by the Old Testament sacrifices. He is the true sacrifice and the new priesthood. Why would he go back to the old. He is the High Priest that the Levitical priesthood was the shadow of. These priests foreshadowed the ultimate reality. Psalm 110:4 11:1, 15, 17 Jesus is a priest after the order of Melchizedek.

Melchizedek

1. He was a priest of Salen and the priest of the Great God or the Most High God (El Elyon) and that twas before Abraham was Abraham.
2. Melchizedek ministered to Abram, as Abram returned from rescuing Lot. There were these type would would get looped and go out raiding and they would kidnap people, so Abram rescued Lot.
3. Melchizedek came out and ministered to Abram with bread and wine.
4. This blessing and offering of Melchizedek meant that Melchizedek as a king and priest was superior to Abram.
5. Abram recognized that Melchizedek was superior because he paid Melchizedek a monetary tribute. Abram knew that he was greater than the founder of Israel. Melchizedek was a king and a priest in combination.

How was Melchizedek Unique

We get theological information that most believers have not even a clue about; it is not even taught in many seminaries. Bobby wrote a very long masters thesis as to how the New Covenant to Israel was not the New Covenant to the church.

1. The Levitical priests were inferior because they were not royalty.
2. Abram was a family priest. Until the Levitical priesthood, Abram was.
3. The old covenant made David a king, but he was not a priest. Aaron's tribe was not royalty.
4. Melchizedek was both royal and a priest. He was a type of Christ.

Melchizedek was a Shadow of Jesus Christ

1. Melchizedek was a shadow of Jesus Christ in the Old Testament. The ehp is always superior to the other priests. Revelation calls our Lord the King of Kings and the Lord of Lords.
2. So the Messiah is a union of kingship and priesthood after the order of Melchizedek.
3. The perfection is confirmed by the fact that His priesthood is eternal. Heb. 7:17, making it greater than Melchizedek's.

Jesus Christ provides a better covenant than the Old Testament Law. He brings a new relationship apart from the Law. This is why Christ's king-priesthood was superior to everyone else; and why Melchizedek's priesthood was superior to all other.

Why Does this Matter?

1. The Levitical priesthood could never affect true reconciliation to God.
2. Therefore, the Levitical priesthood was preparatory for the future.
3. In its rituals, we have reconciliation and propitiation, but not the fulfillment of these. Only Jesus Christ could fulfill these things.
4. The Levitical priesthood taught that blood, death, and substitution was necessary for the atonement of sins. The priests were also the teachers of Israel. The Levitical priesthood did the rituals and they taught what was meant.
5. What did the rituals teach?
  - 1) An innocent victim in the sinner's place. There was no sin there in the lamb. The lamb became the substitute for that sinner. The sins were transferred.
  - 2) The animal was a substitute for the person making the offering. Redemption, propitiation, salvation. When an individual Israelite saw this sacrifice, he would believe in Jehovah Elohim and he would receive eternal life.
  - 3) The shedding of blood on the altar portrayed a death of a substitute for the sinner.
6. What did these sacrifices do?
  - 1) They awakened the expectations of a perfect priesthood represented by Melchizedek.
  - 2) That was a perfect priesthood that could make efficacious sacrifice for sinners. The expectation of a perfect priest who could make sacrifice for sinners.
  - 3) That perfect eternal priesthood is understood in the unique person of Jesus Christ, Who is the King. This fulfills the Davidic covenant.
  - 4) This is who Melchizedek was—a priest-king. The Levitical priests could never match this.
  - 5) We in the church age are royal priests after the order of Melchizedek.
  - 6) This is indicative of the better covenant; the new relationship.

We are a royal priesthood and we have direct access to God and we will rule with Him as resurrected Church Age believers. This is how unique we are.

Jer. 31:31–34 are the better promises. This is quoted in the Greek of Heb. 8. When an Old Testament passage is quoted in the New Testament, it has a special meaning in the Church Age; it is brought in to have a new meaning for the Church Age. It is always in the context of the Old Testament. It is always within those confines. There is always a connection.

Jer. 31:31: "Behold, the days are coming, declares the LORD, when I will make a new covenant with the house of Israel and the house of Judah,

This is a prophecy that days are coming when the Age of Israel resumes. These Jews at this time needed to know that God is not forsaking His people, even though Nebuchadnezzar would conquer them.

Heb. 8:8: For he finds fault with them when he says: "Behold, the days are coming, declares the Lord, when I will establish a new covenant with the house of Israel and with the house of Judah, days here are a succession of days. 586 B.C. and 70 A.D. a dual meaning. This succession of days will deal with a crisis coming to Israel. Israel is being promised a deliverance. All those promises given to Israel have yet to be fulfilled. Israel is in a diaspora today. The nation Israel today is not the Israel of the Bible. Israel in the Bible is a place of believers in Jesus Christ. This is yet future because these covenants have not yet been fulfilled. They have never occupied all the land. They have never had a king-priest who will reign forever. Right before the 5th cycle of discipline, Jer. 31 and Heb. 8 are written.

You are Jews and you hope that at some point, God will revive Israel; and this is a guarantee that He will. If God promises you a union with Christ, the promise carries forever. The faithfulness of God is quite wonderful.

This study of covenants allows us to see the faithfulness of God over time. Our promises are different from those made to Israel. There is the New Covenant to Israel and to us, the New Covenant in His Blood. All these covenants will be fulfilled. This days will lead up to a rule of 1000 years, where all the covenants will be fulfilled.

Jesus Christ will return and He will destroy the enemies of Israel. This will be followed by the removal of Satan from this world. When he is incarcerated at the beginning of 1000 years, there will be perfect environment in the Millennium. All of the Jews in Israel will be believers beginning the Millennium. The nation which will be regathered will be the fulfillment of a regenerate nation.

There will be actually those who enter the Millennium who are believers who procreate—they will not have resurrection bodies, and some of these children will say no to Jesus Christ. The Jews rejected the Messiah even though the Bible predicted Him. The Pharaoh of Egypt saw 10 plagues and was still negative.

Lesson #691

Heb. 8: March 16, 2008

Sunday 1

This is called the beginning of holy week.

Jesus said, “Do this in remembrance of Me” and “This is the New Covenant in my Blood.” The most holy part of this week is the crucifixion and the resurrection. That is the basis of our salvation, as He paid for our sins and He became our substitute. What greater way to celebrate this week than with the Communion.

What is the difference between the dispensation of the church and the Age of Israel. The church is a living organism of individuals; Israel is a nation made up of individual believers. At the moment we are saved, we are placed in union with Christ. The church has the ultimate divine truth in Jesus Christ. The modus operandi of the spiritual life of the individual Israelite was not the same as the Church Age believer. We are a unique product of God’s grace.

The nation Israel also shared in God’s grace; that is universal in all dispensations. Salvation is the same in all dispensations. Grace was manifest in the Mosaic Law, which defines the rituals and all of the doctrine which they needed. They learned doctrine through the feasts, the special days, the priests. God’s grace was manifested to a king. The Jews have been in crisis for centuries, but God has seen to it that they stay alive.

The Mosaic Law was violated in every possible way. The vassals revolted against the suzerain. 721 B.C. the northern kingdom of Israel was taken out by the Assyrians. Chaldeans took out the southern kingdom. They did experience slavery under the Chaldeans, but they would be restored to the land in freedom. Even in spiritual failure, God still accepts. Just as God’s Word is true and faithful to Israel, it is also true and faithful to us.

The promise of a new future is the New Covenant made by Jeremiah in 31:31–34. This promise was made when thousands were taken into captivity. The Palestinian covenant, the Davidic covenant, etc. were all reiterated in the New Covenant. Daniel reminded the Jews in Babylon what God would do for them. Bobby will cover this in the not-to-distant future.

Let’s move to 30 years after our Lord’s birth, around 32 A.D. when the Church Age began. At that moment, a new relationship existed between man and God. This relationship was not defined by a formal set of covenants as with Israel. It is defined by the mystery doctrine. It includes all the resources and the spiritual life. All of this comes under the heading of a better covenant. Why do we have this terminology of the New Covenant in My blood? Does this mean that the church is now spiritual Israel? Our promises are not Abraham's promises. He is promised a land this epistle is addressed to Jews. The Jews during Hebrews are a group of confused Jews, so the author of Hebrews has to explain to these Jews what their place is.

Jer. 31:31: "Behold, the days are coming, declares the LORD, when I will make a new covenant with the house of Israel and the house of Judah,

God promises a New Covenant to northern and southern Israel, even though they were about to go out under a Chaldean attack.

The writer of Hebrews deals with Israel's rebellion. Israel had become apostate. The writer just takes this word for word. Days is in the plural, referring to a succession of days. This is encouragement to the Jews to two generations almost 600 years apart. God's grace is persevering through the final crisis. The Jews are scattered throughout the earth still; they have been persecuted throughout human history. There was the holocaust; they will continue to be persecuted. Yet this new covenant to Israel and they are promised a national deliverance from this crisis.

This promise is quoted at a time before Israel would be disbanded as a nation; but they were no longer God's special people. God promises them that they will be delivered. Israel will resume being a nation. The encouragement here for the nation Israel is also encouragement for the individual. In the Church Age, there is no such thing as race or gender. Things are given to us assure us of God's faithfulness.

Ἐρχομαι a future event which is regarded as so certain that it is already happening, given in the present tense. A futuristic present. An absolute promise. There is the certain reality of the Millennium reign of Jesus Christ, and that is the certainty that the Jews ought to have. Jesus Christ will rule as a monarch over all things. When the Millennium starts, everyone in the Millennium will be a believer. The unbelievers will all be wiped out at the Battle of Armageddon. We will all be resurrected at that time, and guarantee of our resurrection is that of Jesus Christ. In union with Christ means that we will share His body and share in His eternity and we will share His kingship. We will share this kingship and therefore rule with Him. This is a covenant promise to Israel and a promise to us. We share everything that He is and everything that He has, which guarantees our future.

Heb. 8:8: For he finds fault with them when he says: "Behold, the days are coming, declares the Lord, when I will establish a new covenant with the house of Israel and with the house of Judah,

Lesson #692

Heb. 8:8–9 Jer. 31:31–32 March 16, 2008

Sunday 2

The purpose of this quote is to give the Jews a purpose. They will be taken into captivity for 70 years to Babylon; and they can look to this covenant while being in exile. It should be no surprise to any of them that Zerrubbabel was allowed to return to the land to rebuild Jerusalem. This New Covenant is promised to Israel, but we are dealing with it in the book of Hebrews, which is written to the Jews of the Church Age.

Jer. 31:31: "Behold, the days are coming, declares the LORD, when I will make a new covenant with the house of Israel and the house of Judah, συντελω = to carry out, to fulfill, to complete a project. Bobby would work on a book and it seemed as though he could never complete it. However, this is an event which is fully expected to be completed in the future. The 1000 years of the Millennium is the succession of days. This is an unqualified assertion of doctrine. He initiates and he fulfills the New Covenant to Israel and all of the covenants. This New Covenant in Hebrews refers back to the covenant made to Israel.

This is not the covenant to the church as some sort of a substitute for Israel. There is a branch of Christianity which believes that Israel got so far out of line that all the promises made to them are transferred spiritually over to us, as the spiritual Israel. God does not go back on an individual promise made to anyone. God knows everything from eternity past when He makes a promise to anyone or to any group. The author of Hebrews is still referring to the New Covenant of Israel.

Heb. 8:8: For he finds fault with them when he says: "Behold, the days are coming, declares the Lord, when I will establish [or, effect] a new covenant with the house of Israel and with the house of Judah,

Israel continually violated over and over again the Mosaic Law; they kept going after other gods; they chased after the God of their neighbors. God is not mocked, which the prophet Hosea says to them (which is repeated in Galatians). You do not get to just chase after another God. Whom He loves, He chastens. God wants to redirect our lives in the way which He wants us to go. It is what we learn here and apply here which makes things better. Expect that if we just go off on our own merry ways, that we will pay the price for mocking God. Remember that the price you pay is for your benefit.

Israel did it the hard way, and they did it the hard way so many times that God interdicted the old age with a new one. God has a future for us and a future for Israel.

Many take this to mean that we take over the promises which God gave to Abram are now ours; which is a false doctrine.

Jer. 31:32 not like the covenant [the Mosaic Law] that I made with their fathers on the day when I took them by the hand to bring them out of the land of Egypt, my covenant that they broke, though I was their husband, declares the LORD.

The author directly lifts this verse. Ποιῶ = to make, to produce, to put forth. Aorist active indicative. This was not like the covenant which I made with these people when I took them by the hand and led them out of Egypt. It is not Moses who took them out of Egypt by the hand but God. This is an anthropomorphism where God does not actually have a hand. This was given to Jews in the time of their childhood. You take a child by the hand to lead them. When you are with a child in a crowd, you grab his hand to lead him and to keep him safe.

Metaphor

1. God treated Israel at its inception of her nationhood as a minor.
2. She was placed under special written laws and regulations until maturity cured.
3. All during the time of Israel, God regarded them as an immature nation and they lived up to this.
4. In the Millennium Israel will be regarded as a mature nation. The law will be written in their hearts at that time, meaning that they are mature.
5. The very nature of the content of the Mosaic Law is compatible with the child metaphor of the Mosaic Law; the Mosaic Law takes them by the hand and it leads them in their spiritual life. It leads them in the laws of divine establishment.
6. The Tabernacle, the animal sacrifices, the Temple, the Levitical priesthood, the holy days, were shadows and visuals and explained what was going on.
7. The Mosaic Law was a children's book; this is what they learned from. In prep school, there is a whole department which puts together visuals for children. Israel had all of this doctrine. They learned all this doctrine, the do's and the don'ts. Just like children, you have to spell it out. The absolutes. The Mosaic Law is filled with absolutes.
- 8.
9. The system of rewards and punishments, cursing and blessings of the Mosaic Law are typical of the way children are raised; do right and you are rewarded; do that and you are disciplined. Egypt had one of the great armies of the ancient world. The Jews were not soldiers, and they fell apart when the Egyptians charged them in their chariots. They got out of slavery because God brought them out. This was apart from any ability on their own. We are in slavery to sin and death and the only way out for us is by Jesus' death on the cross.

Liberation theology looks to man today, which is found in South America, and revolution is allowed under that theology. There is no freedom there; you will know the truth and the truth will set you free. In this nation, we could lose this freedom in a short amount of time. Do not let any man tell you that he is a liberator or he knows how he or some group can free you. That is a lie. Jesus Christ is the only liberator. It was God's grace in the unconditional covenant to Abraham which made the nation Israel inevitable. They had to be liberated in order to fulfill this promise. These children did not get the do's and don'ts of their upbringing. How can anyone in that desert march not understand the grace of God, starting from the moment which they left Egypt. They got food and water which they did not deserve. The redemption from slavery was a picture of our redemption from slavery.

Aorist active indicative of ἐμμενω = to stand firm, to remain, to persevere. One generation of believers can get it; the next generation does not. That is functioning without knowledge of God's grace when one is emotional without having any doctrine in the soul. Israel went out under the 5th cycle of discipline with no doctrine in the soul. If you put your hope in someone to be elected, that you will be disappointed. We have direct access to God. The nation hinges upon what we do and what we learn. We get caught up in the world around us; we got caught up in human viewpoint. But we are not like everybody else. We do not have to be led by the land; we have the filling of the Holy Spirit. We are mature as believers. We know all of it. We see the whole picture. Israel just sees a few rituals.

The Israelites needed a new covenant to sustain them, but they were out of line and so they needed to be disciplined as well. God's promises are faithful. We have volition and God provided us with a spiritual life. We need to use it. God cared for Israel but He punished them, because they would not learn in any other way. Israel went apostate. 70 years after 586 B.C., God will bring them back into the land.

Heb 8:9 not like the covenant that I made with their fathers on the day when I took them by the hand to bring them out of the land of Egypt. For they did not continue in my covenant, and so I showed no concern for them, declares the Lord.

Lesson #693

Heb. 8: Jer. 23: March 19, 2008

Wednesday

We are going to stay with Heb. 8 and Jer. 31; the New Covenant to Israel defines their future. There is still some application to us from Jer. 31, even though that is from the Age of Israel. The Jews to whom Hebrews is addressed, need to understand what their place is during the Church Age. Where do they fit in this Church Age? What is their relationship to a future Israel? There is a New Covenant, but what does that mean for them? These are believers in Jesus Christ and they are members of the body of Christ.

There should be no divisions between believers in Jesus Christ. We come from different backgrounds and different socialization. However, salvation and Bible doctrine are the great levelers of our society, and they are the true source of any racial harmony. The only real achievement of racial harmony comes right here in Bible doctrine. The true relationship status between believers is found in Gal. 3:28. We are studying the Jews relationship to the church; it is a racial thing. There is neither Jew nor Greek, slave nor free [rich, poor, middle class], male nor female, for you are all one in Christ Jesus. It does not matter what the color of your skin is or what your social status is, if you believe in Jesus Christ, you have equal privilege and equal opportunity. We have all the opportunity to live the Christian life. The spiritual life has implications for every aspect of our life. Everything is all wrapped up in what God has given us in our spiritual life. This harmony between believers is only through spiritual growth and the execution of our spiritual life. Any pastor, whether Black or white, who teaches separation, is ignoring our unity in Christ. It should not be preached otherwise, no matter what the history or what the cultural differences are. Prejudice, hatred, anger, etc. all finds its solution in true Christian doctrine. This is one arena when racial differences should not be drawn; and if such separation is emphasized over our unity in Christ, it is apostasy. There is no Black, brown, yellow or white; we are one in Christ.

The Jews here are one with the Gentiles, no longer a part of the Jewish Age, but of the Church Age. Bobby wishes that every pastor in America should teach this passage after seeing what has occurred over the past few days [Obama's pastor Jeremy Wright's outrageous comments were made public].

Heb. 8:8: For he finds fault with them when he says: "Behold, the days are coming, declares the Lord, when I will establish [or, effect] a new covenant with the house of Israel and with the house of Judah,

Futuristic present is used here in Heb. 8:8; it is certain because the Lord has said it. You can only have certainty in the area of our spiritual life; these days include the return of Israel to Jerusalem. That is the direct reference from Jer. 31:31. The ultimate fulfillment for this passage will be when God effects a New Covenant with the house of Judah and with the house of Israel. The Assyrians marched into Samaria and took them captive; and the southern kingdom would be removed in 586 B.C. This New Covenant refers to a specific covenant between God and Israel. This is not a covenant between God and the church as some sort of spiritual Israel. The New Covenant is in contrast to the Old Covenant.

Jer. 31:31: "Behold, the days are coming, declares the LORD, when I will make a new covenant with the house of Israel and the house of Judah,

Heb 8:9 not like the covenant that I made with their fathers on the day when I took them by the hand to bring them out of the land of Egypt. For they did not continue in my covenant, and so I showed no concern for them, declares the Lord.

It is reiterated in Heb. 8:9 that this is all about Israel; the Jews hearing these words would understand this. "Yes, God has a future for your nation; no, this does not include you, since you are a part of the Church Age."

It is a marvelous metaphor for God to take Israel by the hand and to lead them. God gave them their spiritual code, which is the Mosaic Law, which is God's leading Israel along by hand. He lived in the Tabernacle and He was with them and among them and led them hand through the desert, and He led them by the hand; and His Shekinah glory dwelt in the Temple when it was built. For they did not continue in my covenant, and so I showed no concern for them, declares the Lord. Israel did not stand firm with the Mosaic Law; they became reversionists; they did not live under the spiritual code under the Mosaic Law; and they ended up under the 5th cycle of discipline. God disregarded and He punished them. Punishment is not forgetting Israel; God did not remove them from the unconditional covenants. God still loves Israel even though He is disciplining them. You can trace the history of the Jews since 70 A.D., and they are the most persecuted people of history. God still loves them. They have not been disinherited. God has not given up on Israel. The Jews are protected under the anti-Semitic clause of the Abrahamic covenant. "I will bless those who bless you and curse those who curse you."

The Mosaic Law was a teacher; it was a teacher of children.

Jer. 31:32 not like the covenant [the Mosaic Law] that I made with their fathers on the day when I took them by the hand to bring them out of the land of Egypt, my covenant that they broke, though I was their husband, declares the LORD.

Heb 8:10 For this is the covenant that I will make with the house of Israel after those days, declares the Lord: I will put my laws into their minds, and write them on their hearts, and I will be their God, and they shall be my people.

Διατιθεμι = to ordain. God ordains a New Covenant with Israel. Just as God freed the Jews from slavery, something where they could not free themselves. God freed these Jewish slaves; not Moses. It does not matter what your circumstances are. In the future, God will provide for them what they could not provide with their own ability.

In slavery to Egypt, Exodus emphasizes just how unable the Jews were to free themselves.

In the Tribulation, the entire world will encircle Israel to destroy Israel and to wipe them off of the earth. They will be aided by a Jew, who is the Jewish dictator of Israel at that time. Every time a holocaust comes up, Satan is behind it. Satan seeks to destroy Israel, as that means God's promises cannot be fulfilled.

Jer 31:33 But this is the covenant that I will make with the house of Israel after those days, declares the LORD: I will put my law within them, and I will write it on their hearts. And I will be their God, and they shall be my people.

Is deliverance important? Of course; but notice the emphasis: I will put My law within them and I will write it on their hearts.

Present active participle of διδιδμι = I will cause to put. God will be the direct cause of putting His Law in their minds and hearts. This is a grace operation; this is GAP. In the Old Testament, there was no empowerment. That is something which we have which makes us unique. In the Millennium, doctrine will no longer be etched in stone, it will be engraved upon the right lobes of Israel. Throughout the Millennium, there will be universal knowledge of God. This occurs through the ministry of God the Holy Spirit.

Doctrine is given to us from the pulpit.

How is Doctrine and the Holy Spirit Involved in the Millennium?

1. The believer's post-salvation growth will include the filling of the Holy Spirit. Otherwise, it would not be etched upon their hearts.
2. Unlike the Spirit's filling in the Church Age, There will be revelatory prophecy, dreams and visions in individuals. It is all internal.
3. These dreams and visions will be received directly from the Holy Spirit to the mentality of the soul.
4. In our dispensation, we get this through the teaching of pastor-teachers.
5. This is much the same as the prophets of Old Testament Israel as they received their prophecies; but only a few actually received this. This was given to these men directly from God. Daniel is a perfect illustration of this. Dan. 1–6 is all about Daniel and his background, and Dan. 7–12 is revelations from God.

6. This revelatory state may include extreme but temporary emotional excitement; even ecstasies. Joel 2:28–29. Animal sacrifices will also be authorized for the Millennium. This will be done

Animal Sacrifices in the Millennium

1. This is done as fragrance of memory.
2. This remembers the cross; it looks back on the cross, on which their Messiah was crucified (which Jesus they now recognize).
3. This is their memorial to the fulfillment of all the covenants made to Israel.
4. Sacrifices are a retrospective memorial to Jesus Christ.
5. This is comparable to the Eucharist in the Church Age.

Lesson #694

Heb. 8: March 20, 2008

Thursday

Bobby got some pithy little statements, and some are corny. “Many folks want to serve God, but only as advisors.” “God did not create anything without purpose, but mosquitos come close.” “He who angers you controls you.” “If God is your co-pilot, swap seats.”

We have been studying all around the New Covenant as of late. This is not the same as the New Covenant in His Blood. The New Covenant is made with the house of Judah and the house of Israel.

This New Covenant is made because these Jews are the most insecure people in this earth. Because they have spent so much of their time under the fifth cycle of discipline that they lack security; but God’s covenant to them is their security. The New Covenant lets the Jews know that He will rescue them from utter and total destruction from Satan’s minions during the Tribulation.

Heb 8:10 For this is the covenant that I will make with the house of Israel after those days, declares the Lord: I will put my laws into their minds, and write them on their hearts, and I will be their God, and they shall be my people.

God will put His Law into the minds and write His laws on their hearts. These laws will be engraved in their souls during the Millennium. There was no gap in the Age of Israel, but we have that now due to the Holy Spirit.

Summary

1. The Millennium grace apparatus for perception includes the filling of the Holy Spirit. It also has a different ministry which we do not have.
2. The Holy Spirit in the Millennium will bring revelatory prophecy, dreams and visions into the minds of individual believers.
3. This is similar to the way that Old Testament prophets received their information.

4. This special revelation will be in synch with what has already been revealed in the completed canon of Scripture. There will be no departure from the existing canon of Scripture.
5. The dreams, the visions and the prophecies may contain doctrine beyond what our current Bible reveals. What is in our Bible is exactly what God wants us to know.
6. In the Millennium, the Lord is present; He is on the throne before the entire world. This is a new administration. There is a new revelation. Israel had the Mosaic Law. We have the mystery doctrine, given to us through the Apostles and other writers of the New Testament. There will be new revelation in the Millennium.
7. A new dispensation requires knowledge of any new modus operandi of the spiritual life. There will be a different (perfect) environment in the Millennium.
8. In the Millennium such new doctrine is valid because it comes directly from the Holy Spirit to the mind of the believer. He will not contradict what has come before. There is always continuity
9. Today, we are limited to what the Holy Spirit reveals to us through the completed, written canon of Scripture. Our doctrine comes through Bobby and the power of the Holy Spirit.
10. Today, we do not get special revelation from the Holy Spirit. We will not be in the Tribulation for those horrible 7 years of Israel's trouble. All that we need is contained in the mystery doctrine. Many new cults have begun with a special message from God (Christian Science and Mormonism; Islam). When someone has new revelation, but it is different and contradicts Scriptures. Anything which is outside of Scripture is directly from the mind of man. Whatever comes opposed to Scripture is from Satan.

Jer 31:33 But this is the covenant that I will make with the house of Israel after those days, declares the LORD: I will put My law within them, and I will write it on their hearts. And I will be their God, and they shall be My people.

I will be their God and they will be My people. This is a future assurance. This promise of a New Covenant to Israel was made right before they were ready to be taken out by the fifth cycle of discipline. They were believers in Jesus Christ and they were about to see their nation taken apart. It is possible that we will view this with our nation as well.

We have everything that we need; we do not need to fear anything. In a few short years, they will see the destruction of everything that they know. If the US is destroyed with all of its freedoms, then you are left with doctrine in your soul.

Some believers were skeptical; they did not know what to think. When they saw their nation being destroyed, then they knew that they had to hold onto God's Word.

Sometimes it takes devastation in order for truth to take hold. There is a time coming when Israel will see the fulfillment of every promise made to them.

Jer 31:34 And no longer shall each one teach his neighbor and each his brother, saying, 'Know the LORD,' for they shall all know me, from the least of them to the greatest, declares the LORD. For I will forgive their iniquity, and I will remember their sin no more."

everyone will know what God is doing; everyone will know what He is saying.

Heb 8:11 And they will not ever teach, each one his neighbor and each one his brother, saying, 'Know the Lord,' for they shall all know me, from the least of them to the greatest.

Διδάσκω = to teach. We also have 2 negatives: μη ουκ and a double negative means an emphatic denial. There will be no teaching about Jesus Christ; there is not teaching then about the Lord.

they will not have to teach their fellow citizens

What We do not need to Teach in the Millennium

1. Everyone will already know God.
2. He is on the throne of David and He will reveal Himself to II.
3. They will all observe Him, know him...
4. The Millennium is the greatest period of saturation of Bible doctrine in all of human history. How could anyone be an unbeliever then?

There is the rapture of the church; the 7 years of the Tribulation. All unbelievers begin the Tribulation. There is a lot of evangelism, and the Jews beli. Then we have the 2nd advent which ends the Tribulation. The Jews are about to be annihilated, and Jesus wipes out every unbeliever from the earth. The Millennium begins with believers only. We will be in resurrection bodies, and they will not. They will take their sin natures into the Millennium with them. There will be perfect environment, no more poverty, no more war, no reason to complain about anything external. The weath and environment will be perfect. Bu they will reject because their eyes will be on their environment. Prosperity can be a big problem. Negative volition is what occurs. They reject Jesus right beofre their eyes, not seeing the source of their prosperity.

Some people are stupid and some are smart; some are the least and some are great. There will be a variety of responses.

Application for Us

1. Perfect environemtn, perfect government, perfect justice does not change the hear of man with a sin nature.
2. Perfect environment still requires capacity for lilfe in the soul in order to enjoy it. Capacity for life is necessary to enjoy anything. Bible doctrine gives us capacity.
3. Perfect environment demands doctrine in the soul. Then we can share the happiness of God. The soul is important in crappy environment and in perfect environment.

4. We need doctrine just as much in good environment as in terrible environment.
5. In terrible environment, you actually can recognize your need.
6. The solution to man's problem is not a good environment or by hitting the lottery or even defeating terrorism. The solution is in our soul. Salvation and spiritual growth. Some of you wish you had more or a greater environment.

Lesson #1

08 Easter Special March 23, 2008

Sunday 1

Easter message (perhaps communion?). John and the first miracle. Keeping the Sabbath and the changing of the water into wine.

The Temple was filled with loan sharks charging high fees. There were lamb inspection stations which was a scam; if the lamb did not quite meet their standards, the lamb would be rejected and a lamb would be sold to the offerer for an exorbitant amount of money. This is like churches today which constantly demand money. Priests constantly made money from the worship of God. The priests were corrupt.

Our Lord walked into the Temple with great intensity and He was anything but meek and mild at that moment. He made a whip and he used it to drive out all of the livestock which was being sold. He did not heed any of their cries of injustice, as He is perfect justice. Then, with a voice of incredible authority, he tells these religious racketeers to get out. John 2:16 says, "Take these things away. Stop making My Father's house and house of merchandise." This was a spectacle. It was something to see. He removed all the trash from His house. Makes you wish He could go to Washington and do the same.

The Old Testament was the Bible of the Jews. He often quoted from it during His ministry. The rabbis, the religious leaders, His antagonists, had superimposed upon them the rot of their legalistic interpretation. Their humanistic writings and false teachings had been imposed upon the Scriptures. "Twisting the Scriptures to justify their own thoughts and their own actions; that is mocking God, and when someone does that, then the chickens come home to roost.

The Sabbath had been turned into a quagmire of legalistic interpretations. "The Sabbath was made for man, and not man for the Sabbath." Many pastors today want to keep their flock in line with legalism. Their oppression concerning the day of the Sabbath was in direct violation of its purpose. Matt. 12:10: the Messiah performs a miracle that they interpret as a violation of the Law. And a man was there with a withered hand. And they asked him, "Is it lawful to heal on the Sabbath?"--so that they might accuse him.

Jesus reasons with them. He knew their greed and they put money before the Sabbath. He gave them an example of their legalism and His grace. It is grace that separates Christianity from every other religion on this earth. Christianity is the only one by which we are saved by grace.

Matt. 12:11 He said to them, "Which one of you who has a sheep, if it falls into a pit on the Sabbath, will not take hold of it and lift it out?"

Jesus understood their greed. Grace Jesus standing between God and man. They would rescue a sheep, but they would not care to heal a man on the Sabbath. Jesus created the Sabbath; He created the Mosaic Law. Keeping the Sabbath had become their God.

Matt 12:12–14: Of how much more value is a man than a sheep! So it is lawful to do good on the Sabbath." Then he said to the man, "Stretch out your hand." And the man stretched it out, and it was restored, healthy like the other. But the Pharisees went out and conspired against him, how to destroy him.

According to tradition, the temple could only be cleansed by members of the Sanhedrin, the religious leaders of Palestine, who were corrupt. Or by a prophet or by the Messiah, according to Mal. 3:1–3. In this Temple cleansing, Jesus just introduced Himself as the Messiah. This was the beginning of the revelation of the Messiah. It was the beginning of many people believing on Him.

They ask Jesus for a corroborating sign of His Messiah-ship. "How can you prove it? Give us a sign." Asking for a sign was just evidence of their unbelief.

Matt. 12:39: our Lord pulled. The sign of Jonah was given instead. Jonah was swallowed by a great fish in its belly. He was thrown onto the land near Nineveh. Jonah did not want to be there; but he had to be. The plan of God included the resurrection. In their thinking, only the Law could save them.

Matt. 12:39–40: But he answered them, "An evil and adulterous generation seeks for a sign, but no sign will be given to it except the sign of the prophet Jonah. For just as Jonah was three days and three nights in the belly of the great fish, so will the Son of Man be three days and three nights in the heart of the earth.

Jesus was resurrected from the grave of Joseph. We will be in heaven for eternity because Christ was resurrected. Because He lived eternally, we will live eternally. This begins with faith alone in Christ alone.

John 2:18–22: So the Jews said to him, "What sign do you show us for doing these things?" Jesus answered them, "Destroy this temple, and in three days I will raise it up." The Jews then said, "It has taken forty-six years to build this temple, and will you raise it up in three days?" But he was speaking about the temple of his body. When therefore he was raised from the dead, his disciples remembered that he had said this, and they believed the Scripture and the word that Jesus had spoken.

Didn't the Lord just cleanse the Temple? Now why is He talking about. It took several decades to build this temple; are you going to raise it up in 3 days? He was telling them that the Temple was His body. He would die; these religious types would kill Him. They did not understand when He said, I am the temple.

We have salvation because He died and because He was raised again. What good is there? He was resurrected and He still lives. That is what we are celebrating today is the resurrection.

Lesson #2

08 Easter Message March 23, 2008

Sunday 2

John 2. We have gone through several miracles. The cleansing of the Temple, where our Lord announced Himself as the Messiah. The Pharisees were His great opposition. Our Lord is giving them a sign, which is the sign of Jonah. The sign of 3 days and 3 nights in the tomb. The Jews answered and therefore said to Him, "What sign will you give to us?" "Destroy this Temple and I will raise it up." Jesus had just ruined their cash cow, their racket.

John 2:18–22: So the Jews said to him, "What sign do you show us for doing these things?" Jesus answered them, "Destroy this temple, and in three days I will raise it up." The Jews then said, "It has taken forty-six years to build this temple, and will you raise it up in three days?" But he was speaking about the temple of his body. When therefore he was raised from the dead, his disciples remembered that he had said this, and they believed the Scripture and the word that Jesus had spoken.

Jesus was physically very powerful. He was true humanity, but without the sin nature embedded in every cell. He had no business asserting Himself with God the Father, in the eyes of these religious types.

Most of the world thinks of Jesus as a man, a good man, a man who did nice things for people. If this is all Christ was, then we are wasting our time. He is God and man in one body. How could He be a good man to deceive everyone in this way? He is either God or a tremendous liar.

This statement makes these Jews angry. Why is this interloper screwing up our enterprise in the Temple.

The name of Jesus Christ is the most talked about person. His name is more well-known than any other. Rarely is someone neutral. Usually there is a strong reaction. No other human being has ever experienced being brought back from the grave. No one else has been resurrected; no one else is called the Son of God. So this sign of the Temple of His body being raised in three days was the key to His true identity and His true significance.

John 2:23 Now when he was in Jerusalem at the Passover Feast, many believed in his name when they saw the signs that he was doing.

No one had ever before spoken of the Temple as His Father's house. No one in the Old Testament would ever say something like that. Who was He? Jesus did not care that this bothered these religious types.

Jesus was not really addressing these religious types who had rejected Him; He said these things for the others who are standing there; He said these things for us off in the future.

The religious leaders thought the destruction of the Temple destruction was the brick and mortar building before them. The body houses something holy. We, no matter how rotten we are, house God the Holy Spirit; and if we named our sins, we are filled with the Holy Spirit. If His resurrection was false, then there is nothing special about Jesus. The idea that His body would be torn down is not that bold of a statement. The idea that the body would be resurrected 3 days later. This is the ultimate proof of His divinity. John 20:8–9: Then the other disciple, who had reached the tomb first, also went in, and he saw and believed; for as yet they did not understand the Scripture, that he must rise from the dead.

Matt 16:21: From that time Jesus began to show his disciples that he must go to Jerusalem and suffer many things from the elders and chief priests and scribes, and be killed, and on the third day be raised.

Matt. 17:22–23: As they were gathering in Galilee, Jesus said to them, "The Son of Man is about to be delivered into the hands of men, and they will kill him, and he will be raised on the third day." And they were greatly distressed.

These disciples were still clueless; all they could think of is themselves and how much they would miss Him. They had not yet gotten the point about His death and resurrection.

There was a lot that His disciples did not get. Following Him around did not reach these disciples; seeing all of His miracles did not reach them; doctrine in the soul is what reached them. Most of them died as martyrs for Him.

These disciples denied Him, and scattered like scared rabbits. When they gathered on Pentecost, they were bold, and the scattered throughout the world to teach Christ.

The Bible is the only objective knowledge. Do you think that someone made this stuff up in some hallowed hall of theology? Many men and women have made up their religions. We must believe in the divine authority of His Word of Truth. It is the Living Word.

Angels arrived and said, "He is not here; He has risen."

Once a year on the Day of Atonement, the High Priest killed a goat. He entered into the Holy of Holies and sprinkled blood onto the Mercy Seat. This is a picture of the blood of Christ which covers our sins.

The High Priest went in on behalf of the Jews. When he emerged alive indicated that God accepted the sacrifice. This is like the resurrection of Jesus Christ. So many had died going near the Ark of God. The priest emerging from the Tabernacle was like Christ emerging from the tomb. Christ was the only one who could die on the cross. He was the one to emerge from the tomb.

At the empty tomb, on the morning of His resurrection, our Lord revealed Himself first to Mary Magdalene. He spoke to her. This was not an apparition.

John 20:16–18: Jesus said to her, "Mary." She turned and said to him in Aramaic, "Rabboni!" (which means Teacher). Jesus said to her, "Do not cling to me, for I have not yet ascended to the Father; but go to my brothers and say to them, 'I am ascending to my Father and your Father, to my God and your God.'" Mary Magdalene went and announced to the disciples, "I have seen the Lord"--and that he had said these things to her.

Jesus emerges from the tomb as the acceptable sacrifice. We know and they knew that He was made an acceptable sacrifice. He was seated on the right hand of God as our High Priest still making intercession for us. His return as He promised is now possible. His future is always a great concern for people. What is our security. The Bible declares the promise of better days. Even a time when the world will enjoy perfect environment. At the same time, Satan will be bound. They will remain there for 1000 years. This all hinges on the return of our Lord Jesus Christ. If He did not rise again, then He cannot return. If He does not live, then every promise that He made cannot stand. His resurrection determines our future.

Raising Him from the dead means that we no longer need to be concerned about a future. We have all wondered. What is it like when I cross over the river? What is this immortality. Death has always been the master since the fall of man. If man dies, will he live again? It is the all-time disturbing and oft-repeated question. 2Tim. 1:10: But now has been revealed by the appearing of our Lord Jesus Christ Who has abolished death. Jesus Christ challenged the mastery of death. His resurrection was the final and complete manifestation of His sacrifice. We celebrate His death and resurrection. This is not some fairy tell, some time-worn dogma, some point of doctrine; this is a truth which has been expressed for centuries.

If we leave the Savior buried in a tomb, then we are lost. Christianity becomes just one more religious hoax (and all other religions are hoaxes). It would topple and fall over without the resurrection. We have the best of reasons to celebrate today. No other moment in time has more import in our life than this truth. If Christ has not been raised, then our teaching is in vain, and your faith is in vain. Our salvation is worthless without a living God sitting on the right hand of God.

There are no atheists in a foxhole. Death is so near and they are afraid. Our prayers reach into heaven because He lives. We have royal access. The Living Christ is our Intercessor. If He is still dead, we have no hope. "I am with you always, even to the end of this Age." These words gave his disciples fantastic confidence. These words are meant for you and I. Christianity is not a lifeless or a lonely experience. No believer walks by Himself. He is risen and He will be with us until the end. And there is no end. When our life is over, it is just beginning. That is the impact of this day.

The unconditional covenants are suspended at this moment, and Jews at this time in history are not recipients of those covenants. The writer of Hebrews is trying to get his readers to look forward. The promises are not abrogated by the Church Age; these unconditional promises are still in existence, but not for this dispensation. The Church Age must run its course, and the fulfilment of God's promises are yet to come.

Heb 8:8 For he finds fault with them when he says: "Behold, the days are coming, declares the Lord, when I will establish a new covenant with the house of Israel and with the house of Judah,

God has found fault with Israel, but there will be a time to come after the fifth cycle of discipline when they will be regathered and the covenant to Israel will be fulfilled.

Heb 8:9 not like the covenant that I made with their fathers on the day when I took them by the hand to bring them out of the land of Egypt. For they did not continue in my covenant, and so I showed no concern for them, declares the Lord.

The Israelites did not continue in God's covenant and they were stubborn, stiff-necked people, and they refused to obey the divine mandates of the Mosaic Law, and they went whoring after foreign gods.

Heb 8:10 For this is the covenant that I will make with the house of Israel after those days, declares the Lord: I will put My laws into their minds, and write them on their hearts, and I will be their God, and they shall be My people.

V. 10 begins the description of the New Covenant which replaces the old one. Ultimately the crisis of the Tribulation will come to pass, and this will be followed by the fulfillment of God's covenant to Israel. One aspect of the covenant is still in effect today—God still blesses those who bless Israel and He curses those who curse Israel. The anti-Semitism clause is still in effect.

Even after God took them out of Egypt by the hand, they rebelled, and God still stands by Israel. Doctrine will be engraved directly into the left and right lobes; upon their hearts and minds. This will be done through revelatory prophecy, dreams and visions to individual believers. They will receive doctrine directly from the Holy Spirit.

All of these covenants will be fulfilled in the Millennium. He will wear the crown, as was promised to David as David's greater Son.

Heb 8:11 And they shall not teach, each one his neighbor and each one his brother, saying, 'Know the Lord,' for they shall all know Me, from the least of them to the greatest.

We are charged in this dispensation to teach, but not in Heb. 8—they will already know of God, from the least to the greatest. Bobby will be out of a job at that time.

The Millennium will be the greatest period of teaching and saturation of doctrine in all of human history. God will communicate individually to all believers, from the least to the greatest. This will be a great leveling of all. This is perfect environment and what better environment to learn in than perfect environment. There will be no external problems; but there will be problems. Some children of the original believers and their children will reject Jesus Christ. Jesus Christ will return and He will arrive and we will meet Him in the clouds and so shall be forever be with the Lord. At the 2nd Advent, He touches down on the Mount of Olives.

It is an interesting thought as to what it will be like when every believer is removed from this earth. There will be no salt of the earth, there will be no client nations. It is called the Tribulation because this time period begins with only unbelievers. Who knows what kind of chaos will happen? Will there be people who fly out of airplanes or out of cars? Families will be broken up. They will go into the Tribulation and there will be great chaos. God's grace is still here, and there will be great evangelism. You will begin to have believers.

There will also be a parallel group of unbelievers at this time as well. There are believers who are fully aware of just exactly how long this dispensation will last. The last 3½ years will be concentrated evil. At the end of these 7 years, the Lord will return. Some will be told to head for the hills. When the Lord returns, this will be the great Armageddon. He will destroy every unbeliever on earth. The Tribulation begins with only unbelievers and the Millennium begins only with believers.

Perfect environment and universal knowledge of Jesus Christ will not be enough. There will be those who still reject Jesus Christ. You have to ask yourself, how can that be? Jesus Christ is present; perfect environment; how easy is that? They get their eyes on their own environment; they get immersed in other pursuits in life.

We reject or we neglect doctrine, and in the end, that all amounts to the same thing. Without doctrine, you get your eyes on yourself, and there you have it...you reject it. You live in the realm of human viewpoint. You reside in the realm of syncretism. Liberation theology is one of those Syncretism. Christians get involved in that, and that results in divine discipline. We become aimless and miserable. No amount of prosperity or self-indulgence or rationalizations can deal with this.

Prep school kids were asked to name some of the problem solving devices. A few answers, and one young man said, "the colonel said that sex is not a problem solving device." Only doctrinal education is going on in the prep school. Perfect environment does not mean perfect Christians or perfect marriages. Sex is designed for personal love and intimacy in marriage. Outside of marriage, it becomes a problem-solving device. If you don't think so, ask either of the governors of NY. There will be no difference in perfect environment.

Perfect government and perfect environment does not change the heart of man. Imperfect human beings in perfect environment. Capacity of the soul is required in order to enjoy perfect environment. Doctrine is necessary under both conditions, now and then. It is not the solution to anything, and it is not a problem solving device either. It is always doctrine and capacity for life which count.

The Ingredients of Perfect Environment

1. There will be no Satan, no demonism and no religion. Satan will be bound and thrown into hell for the Millennium.
2. There will be a perfect system of free enterprise.
3. This will perpetuate the greatest period of prosperity in all of human history. There will be no poverty. That will be the only time in history when there is no poverty. Poverty will be with us always. The Scripture demands that we deal with those in poverty, but don't ever think that you can solve that problem.
4. There will be great social life.
5. There will be no such thing as a person in privation. The external problems that we know now will not be a problem now. All of our concerns today will not be a concern. All the external concerns will be gone. There will just be the internal conflict.
6. There will be no necessity for welfare.
7. The budget will be balanced; ours as well as the nation's.
8. There will be no warfare. There is a war going on someone in the world. Last time Bobby looked, there were 50 wars going on in the world.
9. There will be perfect freedom for all. Freedom will not be an issue, except the freedom in our souls.
10. There will be absolute security under the reign of Christ. We will not need to worry about burglars. God provides security for us in every way. The environment will not be a threat.
11. There will be a perfect administration of justice. There will be no injustice. There will still be in the human race the old sin nature. Perfect environment cannot overcome the human flaw; the old sin nature. There will be those just as unhappy with their perfect environment as Al Gore is with our imperfect environment today.

We might be worried about the next 5, 10 or 15 years, but these things are insignificant in the light of eternity. Our only job is to utilize doctrine to solve these problems. When we begin to understand what our spiritual life give us and what this life is all about, then we have capacity for everything else. Then we really begin to enjoy life. All the things which we want and all the angst and all of it is put into perspective. We have the most wonderful life because we have perfect environment in our souls because of Bible doctrine. When we put this into perspective, everything else fades.

Environment is not the solution to man's basic problems. "We have seen the enemy and the enemy is us."

Jer 31:34 And no longer shall each one teach his neighbor and each his brother, saying, 'Know the LORD,' for they shall all know me, from the least of them to the greatest, declares the LORD. For I will forgive their iniquity, and I will remember their sin no more."

Heb 8:12 For I will be merciful toward their iniquities, and I will remember their sins no more."

What does this mean?

1. This is the grace of God toward Israel; they do not deserve it; none of us do.
2. All of their failures under the Mosaic Law and all of the problems of discipline and the fifth cycle of discipline will be forgotten.
3. All past failures of Israel are blotted out forever. They will be His people and He will remember their sins no more. They get a completely new start in the Millennium. God led them by the hand out of Egypt, He gave them the Mosaic Law, and the Land of Promise, and they blew it. They get a new start as a nation.
4. Evangelism will continue in the Millennium for those who reject Christ. God never gives up on anyone until the day that they die.
5. Those who become regenerate who accept Christ as Savior will inherit the promises of Abraham. Those who do not believe are not under the promises of Abraham.
6. All of this is based upon one thing: on the work of the Lord Jesus Christ on the cross.

All of this got started with the New Covenant in His Blood. The extended quotation of Jer. 31:31–34 in Heb. 8:8–12 confirms the re-establishment between God and Israel and this was first administered to the nation as whole through the Mosaic Law.

Jer 31:35 Thus says the LORD, who gives the sun for light by day and the fixed order of the moon and the stars for light by night, who stirs up the sea so that its waves roar-- the LORD of hosts is his name:

Jer 31:36 "If this fixed order departs from before me, declares the LORD, then shall the offspring of Israel cease from being a nation before me forever."

this is an iron-clad promise. If those things which God runs—the sun and stars and moon—are guaranteed just like His promises to Israel.

Lesson #698

Heb. 1: March 27, 2008

Thursday

We should start putting together all of these covenants. This is not well understood even in many seminaries. It is even more difficult for a covenant theologian to try to explain. The promises given to Abraham are still valid and Israel will be restored beyond the Church Age. So few people in Christianity today understand this. It is a tall order to get every Jew into the land of Israel, but Jesus is able to do this. All unbelievers are thrown into the Lake of Fire. The Abrahamic covenant and the Davidic covenant and the New Covenant are all parts of the same covenant. What God promises, He delivers on this promise. God's covenants to Israel are irrevocable. As long as God is in heaven, Israel has a valid covenant promise which cannot be abrogated. God's immutability and omniscience see to this. God's promises to us are just as iron-clad. The New Covenant is the grace of God toward Israel. All of Israel's failures under the Mosaic Law will be forgotten. All of its spiritual apostasy will no longer be remembered. A regenerate nation will be regathered at the end of the Tribulation to receive her king. All of this is based upon the work of Jesus Christ.

For Jewish believers who first receive the book of Hebrews, were very confused, and this promised that these promises would be fulfilled. However, these promises would not be fulfilled to the recipients of the book of Hebrews. This New Covenant dispensation is a separator. There is a new ritual and a new relationship with Christ and it all hinges upon a New Covenant in My Blood. Only the mystery doctrine and the filling of the Holy Spirit. This New Covenant citation is not directed toward Jewish believers in the Church Age; and they should be glad for this, as they have so much more in the Church Age. Vicariously, we know that we have exactly the same thing.

There is a school of theology which takes this citation of Jer. 31 as proof positive that Israel's promises are passed along to the church. Where Bob went at Trinity, there were covenant theologians and dispensationalists; and the former came out more confused than when they went in. The New Covenant was one of the centerpieces of their new theology. The New Covenant is no longer Israel's.

Heb 8:8 For he finds fault with them when he says: "Behold, the days are coming, declares the Lord, when I will establish a new covenant with the house of Israel and with the house of Judah,...

Heb 8:10a For this is the covenant that I will make with the house of Israel after those days, declares the Lord...

Both of these verses speak specifically of this covenant being made with the house of Israel and the house of Judah; and that they would be fulfilled after those days.

Now we know more than many well-known professors. Bobby was the only dispensationalist out of the 10 PhD candidates. The rest were all covenant theologians. The meaning of these verses is a two-edged sword.

What Does This Mean?

1. The New Covenant reference is God's reassurance of His fulfillment of His covenant to Israel. The King had been rejected; His disciples knew that He was the Messiah and hadn't they seen every aspect. When He said a New Covenant in my Blood, for the Jews, they made the association with the term. The King would be the King of Kings.
2. The New Covenant in His Blood is an assurance that the blood of Christ is efficacious for all mankind. When He added the words in My Blood this was a reference point for believers in both dispensations.

3. It is the assurance that the covenant in His blood is an eternal one. The New Covenant to Israel is a 1000 year reign. This is unconditional for all mankind for the New Covenant in His Blood.
4. The New Covenant in His Blood provides the blessings of salvation for all of us and a spiritual life; our spiritual life.

The Jewish believers who received this epistle, these words about the New Covenant would have very special meaning for them.

What is the Special Meaning for Jews?

1. To the Jewish mind, a covenant was central to God's purpose for Israel. It defined the relationship of God and the nation.
2. The fact that the New Covenant was Israel's promise would reassure these Jews that God had not forgotten the Jewish nation, even though this covenant was not for the Jews of the Church Age. There was still a covenant to Israel, but not to the Jews of the Church Age. The New Covenant to Israel was not their covenant.
3. So blood also served to proclaim the efficaciousness of God's redemptive activity.
4. It served as an effective indicator of something new; a New Covenant in My Blood. This was something new that was about to happen. Jesus was initiating a new ritual at that time. This was going to be the
5. Hence the covenant concept coupled with the reference to His blood, provided an effective transitional bridge between the Age of Israel and the Church Age. That Hypostatic union.
6. His blood was the guarantee of future blessings of the unconditional covenant to Israel; of salvation for all in every dispensation and for Church Age blessings. These are the big 3.

In Heb. 10, the author was making a strong differentiation between the old Age of Israel and the Church Age.

Heb 10:4–7: For it is impossible for the blood of bulls and goats to take away sins. Consequently, when Christ came into the world, he said, "Sacrifices and offerings you have not desired, but a body have you prepared for me; in burnt offerings and sin offerings you have taken no pleasure. Then I said, 'Behold, I have come to do your will, O God, as it is written of me in the scroll of the book.'" the blood of bulls and goats cannot take away sins. When He comes into the world, the Lord says, "Sacrifices and offerings, You do not desire." These sacrifices can never satisfy the righteousness of God. God is not looking for these rituals. Instead, Jesus Christ is supplied with a human body. God took no pleasure in various animal sacrifices. Jesus Christ was born into this world and He died on the cross. There are to be no more blood sacrifices. Only the blood of Christ. That is something new. He is the sacrifice. Everything that the old sacrifices pointed to was right in front of them. New Covenant in My Blood is the transition. Christ is the end of the Law, the end of the dispensation of Israel.

What is this change?

1. Church Age believers share the greater priesthood of the Lord Jesus Christ. Heb. 7:17 covered Melchizedek.
2. Church Age believers are empowered by the Holy Spirit just like the humanity of Jesus Christ in His hypostatic union. The Apostles were constantly teaching and they were evangelizing and giving the mystery doctrine. Church Age believers find out that they are so empowered just like Jesus Christ in His Hypostatic Union and they find out that they have the mind of Christ available to them. This is what happened in the first 30 years of the Church Age. There was a transition time.
3. Church Age believers have a new spiritual life. It is no longer based upon the imperfect Mosaic Law. They learn from the mystery doctrine what is now. Now these disciples can look back to the ministry of the Lord Jesus Christ and they can see How He operated under the power of His humanity. He suspended the use of his divine faculties during the time of His ministry.
4. The blood of Christ provided redemption for men of all dispensations. We are reconciled to Him on the cross so that we might die to sin and live to righteousness. We have a spiritual life.

These Jewish believers should now understand the source of their blessings and they understand the blood of Christ and the entire scope of its meaning.

The Scope of the Meaning of the blood of Christ

1. The blood of Christ was efficacious for their salvation as well as for Israel's salvation.
2. This fulfilled the New Covenant to Israel.
3. For reassurance that the New Covenant to Israel was still a future reality even if the nation had been temporarily set aside for the church. They could rest assured that God had not forgotten the nation Israel. There was still a nation Israel and there were still Jews who saw themselves as being in the Church Age. They did not grasp the fundamental change of their time.
4. This was also an indicator of a change in dispensation.
5. These Jewish believers had received a new relationship with God as Church Age believers. This is not the old covenant relationship.
6. They had received His prototype spiritual life which was pioneered for them during the time of the Hypostatic Union.
7. The life of Jesus was the prototype of the believer's life in the Church Age.

The blood of Christ is the basis for what is new. It reminds them of Israel's future kingdom, of the substitutionary death on the cross.

Heb 9:14 how much more will the blood of Christ, who through the eternal Spirit offered himself without blemish to God, purify our conscience from dead works to serve the living God.

This is an incredible phrase here. This links the blood of Christ. He offers Himself through the eternal Spirit.

What is meant here?

1. Christ's perfect life and death were accomplished through the Holy Spirit. Matt. 4:1
Luke 2:40 Acts 10:38
2. It is the power of the Holy Spirit through which the Lord Jesus Christ accomplished every phase of His ministry, including death on the cross. We think of the Lord Jesus Christ as the great loner, but He was empowered by the Holy Spirit exactly as we are empowered in the Church Age. All we have to do is utilize the power of the Holy Spirit and knowing a little doctrine. Bobby is gagged by talk radio and how much they talk about love and how nice Jesus was. We have the same power in us as He had.
3. The Holy Spirit remained with the Lord even when the Father had to turn His back on the Son as he bore the sins of the world in His body. The Holy Spirit still sustained the Lord Jesus Christ when He was screaming on the cross.

How did this happen?

1. The humanity of Christ remained perfect while being judged for our sins on the cross. He was only acceptable this way.
2. Jesus Christ was not a sinner; He was a sin offering. Like the animals sacrificed.
3. When our Lord went to the cross, He received the imputation of our sins as a perfect person without a sin nature and without ever having committing one person singular.
4. None of the sins which were imputed to Him were antecedently His own. They did not belong to Him.
5. All the sins of the world had no affinity with anything in our Lord. They were not His sins.
6. As He hung on the cross, He was still the spotless Lamb of God who did not deserve the punishment for these sins.
7. The cross is the only time in history when spiritual death occurred and perfect continued simultaneously. His death was substitutionary, and He remained perfect even as He died this spiritual death.
8. This is why the impeccable humanity was totally acceptable to the Father's perfect righteousness. Perfect man and God.
9. As our substitute who bore our sins, God the Father had to turn His back on the sins themselves. Spiritual death is separation. Christ was made sin for us; He did not become a sinner.

What was our Lord's intent of saying, "This is the New Covenant in My Blood" ? The promise was that God had not and would not forget His promises to His people. His own people were rejecting Him. In less than 24 hours, He would be convicted for no crime and put on the cross. It was His substitutionary spiritual death which would guarantee Israel's future as a regenerate nation. This New Covenant guarantees that Israel, after being destroyed, would still have a future. He guaranteed a kingdom to them.

Secondly, this had a wider meaning; it had impact. Thirdly, this indicated something new; a new covenant. Something in God's plan for His people. Jesus was instituting a new ritual and the New Covenant in His Blood was the center. The bread is there as well, but the blood spoke of His atonement. These believers would be priests and ambassadors for Christ and they would receive an operational spiritual life pioneered by the Lord Jesus Christ. This is something that no one could imagine. It was His life which is now the precedent for the Christian way of life. No one else has had the unique empowerment of God the Holy Spirit. Some believers had the Holy Spirit for a specific period of time; and we have this which the average believer did not have.

Fifth, these Jewish believers were to understand their new status. Christ Himself was the New Covenant; this was not a covenant written in stone. This New Covenant in His Blood is the only means of salvation for all mankind. All of this is confirmed through the blood of Christ.

Heb. 9:14: ...how much more will the blood of Christ, who through the eternal Spirit offered himself without blemish to God, purify our conscience from dead works to serve the living God. The blood of Christ is important to us. His perfect life and He was empowered by God the Holy Spirit. The Spirit powered not only His death, but His resurrection. He did not use His deity unless this was a part of God's plan for that point in time. His humanity remained perfect even while being judged for our sins. He was never a sinner; He was a sin offering. He committed not one of these sins; these are our sins poured out on Him. He was still a perfect person. He was born without a sin nature and He lived His entire life without person singular. The cross is the only time in history when spiritual death occurred and perfection continued. We are spiritually dead when born into this world.

The Lord Jesus Christ had to die spiritually in order to be our substitute. This is why He came to this earth. There was no other way to satisfy the demands of God the Father. That is when the Father forsook the Son. The Son was totally acceptable to God the Father as a sacrifice. His perfect righteousness and His perfect justice. No other way could His perfection be satisfied. This is how we are reconciled and redeemed. He had to be perfect humanity and He had to accept our sins when on the cross. He was the go-between God and man. As our substitute, He bore our sins. Christ's perfect life and death were inexorably tied to God the Holy Spirit and in conjunction with the eternal Spirit is our precedent for today.

The Spiritual Life of Jesus Christ

1. He had the prototype.
2. We have the operational spiritual life based upon the filling of the Holy Spirit.
3. That means, we have the same power which sustained Jesus Christ even on the cross. This same power is available to us.
4. The omnipotence of God the Holy Spirit is now available to every believer. This is not just to a couple of us, but to all of us. This is for our own operational spiritual life. Our conscience is cleansed of dead works. We have new norms and standards. We understand as we believe in Jesus Christ.

Human Good

1. You cannot keep a tally on the good works that you have done. You cannot present this tally sheet to God. Dead works cannot be added to faith alone in Christ alone.
2. Dead works are anything that you add to spirituality.
3. Dead works are the human good of the believer who functions outside the operational spiritual life.

Pre-salvation sins are forgiven; post-salvation sins are removed temporally. The Church Age believer can be supported by the same principle by which Christ in hypostatic union. He gained in stature and knowledge and we have that same power which He used to grow. We metabolize doctrine and we mature. We can produce divine good. No one else can. We are unique in this aspect. We serve the living God. Cleanse your conscience from dead works to serve the Living God.

The Levitical priesthood was dedicated to spiritual service and we, as a family of priests, also are dedicated to spiritual service. You had to be born into the Levitical line in order to have this service. There is no longer a specialized priesthood. The priesthood of a few based upon physical birth is inferior. We follow the Lord Jesus Christ, we serve Him through the power of the Holy Spirit, and it is Christ Himself. Heb. 9:14 our conscience is cleansed from dead works. All wrapped up in the New Covenant in His Blood.

Heb. 9:15–16 1Cor. 11:25 March 30, 2008

1Co 11:25 In the same way also he took the cup, after supper, saying, "This cup is the new covenant in my blood. Do this, as often as you drink it, in remembrance of me."

Heb 9:15 Therefore he is the mediator of a new covenant, so that those who are called may receive the promised eternal inheritance, since a death has occurred that redeems them from the transgressions committed under the first covenant.

The impact of the New Covenant is the New Covenant in His blood. The mediator removes the estrangement and brings them to a common goal. He is a mediator of a New Covenant. Christ brings together two estranged parties in a common goal. God and man are the estranged parties. We are born estranged. Jesus mediated between the perfect righteousness of God and our sin. A mediator must be equal to both parties, which means that Jesus Christ had to become man. He had to become man in order to mediate for us. He had to be man in order to be an acceptable sacrifice. In hypostatic union, he is the only one qualified to be the mediator. The New Covenant in His blood. We as believers have the same goals as does the Lord Jesus Christ. We have the ability to achieve these goals for His glorification.. That is achieved the grace way. This does not mean that we fulfill these goals. Our conscience is cleansed of dead works. Our unique assets for living the spiritual life. The author of Hebrews is not using New Covenant in order to set up some administration to the church. Israel was administered by covenants. We are not governed by the Mosaic Law; but Israel is.

New Covenant is a play on words which would be familiar to Jewish Christians. This would show these Jewish Christians the basis of their new life. They were now priests and even more so than those of the Levite family. They were royal priests; they shared His Kingship and shared His Priesthood. These were racially Jews and they did not change to Gentiles; but race does not matter. It did not matter and it still does not matter. The Jews and Gentiles are unified in Christ. When they believed in Jesus Christ as Savior, they had it but they did not know it. As we examine this passage, we should also recognize that this covenant in His blood that Israel still has a future. The Jews in Israel are not representative of the eternal Jewish nation because these are not believers. Israel will come into existence when God regathers the Jews Himself. The great holocaust ever will occur during the Tribulation. Israel has a future. God has not forgotten them. All of this is mediated as a New Covenant. All of this is insured by the blood of Christ.

Heb. 9:15: Jesus is the Mediator of a New Covenant, so that those who are called [believers in Jesus Christ] may receive the eternal inheritance which has been promised [salvation by faith alone in Christ alone], because a death occurred which redeems them [believers] from the transgressions committed under the first covenant [the Mosaic Law].

Jews have the same destiny as Gentiles have in Christ and this was all brought about by the New Covenant in His Blood. There is an eternal inheritance to Jews from the Abrahamic Covenant. However, all mankind is the beneficiary of the New Covenant of Christ.

The New Covenant in His Blood

1. All mankind in essence receive a New Covenant relationship with God in Christ.
2. This is not the New Covenant as promised to Abraham. That is for Israel alone.
3. The New Covenant in His blood is not a specific reference to the New Covenant to Israel. There is no formal New Covenant to the church.
4. There is only a New Covenant in the sense of the redemptive work of Jesus Christ. This is the New Covenant in His blood, which gives us salvation.
5. Also the New Covenant in His blood guarantees the spiritual life to believers in the Church Age. He made us adequate. The Mosaic Law just shows us how far we have fallen. Our righteousness is completely relative. On one side of the ledger is our human good and on the other is our sins. The letter kills; the Law condemns every person.

The Holy Spirit through dreams and visions implants directly in believers divine viewpoint during the Millennium. We receive this from a pastor-teacher as he fills our soul with doctrine. The Age of Israel is administered by covenants. Our dispensation is governed by the filling of the Holy Spirit. How do you know how you are governed unless you know Bible doctrine. You cannot know what it is all about unless you understand the doctrine in the New Testament. It is amazing how some people think Christianity works. Give me some positive thinking, let someone pump me up in life, because I am a negative thinking. The Word of God lives and abides forever. If our purpose in life is not the mystery doctrine, then our life is worthless and pointless. Everything else falls right into place. When you take advantage of the New Covenant in His Blood; when you take advantage of that which He has provided; when you metabolize doctrine in your soul, you do not need a lot of social life or money; you need what you have in your soul. Christians want to push and pull and they want to explain to God what they need and want. They put the cart before the horse. The cart is how they think they should be living. The horse is Bible doctrine.

2Cor. 3:6: ...who has made us competent to be ministers of a new covenant, not of the letter but of the Spirit. For the letter kills, but the Spirit gives life.

Jesus Christ pioneered the spiritual life.

Heb. 9:16: For where a will is involved, the death of the one who made it must be established.

A covenant here is understood as a legal will, the beneficiaries of this legal will are those who receive the benefits. He wills to us all that we have. These are distributed at the death of that person, who, in this case, is Jesus Christ. His legacy is distributed to us.

1Peter 1:4: ...to an inheritance that is imperishable, undefiled, and unfading, kept in heaven for you,

Heb. 9:17–18: For a will takes effect only at death, since it is not in force as long as the one who made it is alive. Therefore not even the first covenant was inaugurated without blood....

We are all trust fund babies. That inheritance is our spiritual life. How many trust fund babies do not use their inheritance. We will have the final inheritance. How do we use it now?

This is the end of our study of the New Covenant in His Blood. This is the entire spectrum of the progress of redemptive history in this world.

Lesson #701

1Cor. 11:26 April 2, 2008

Wednesday

When Jesus instituted the Passover ritual, He made a specific reference to the New Covenant in My Blood. He was about to die; He knew it, but the disciples did not seem to grasp this. The Mosaic Law rituals involved blood, and they would be drawing to a close.

All of the animal blood which was shed was to portray Jesus Christ. The Lord Jesus Christ the night that He lifted the bread and the glass, He had arrived at the point of truth, the reason for which He came to this earth. The substitutionary spiritual death was what the Levitical rituals looked forward to. This is the only ritual which belongs to the Church Age. This ritual has never belonged to Israel—the cup and the bread. This ritual could not go into effect until He died. When He died, a new dispensation administered by a new covenant took effect.

What was that New Covenant?

1. The church was never under the Mosaic Law. Gal. 2;19 Rom.
2. We do not live under of any of Israel's covenants.
3. The church is no longer governed by a formal covenant, as was Israel.
4. The church is administered by the mystery doctrine of the epistles. Mystery doctrine is the way that we live in the Church Age.
5. So that is a metaphorical covenant of the church, the mystery doctrine, initiated by the blood of Christ and the New Covenant in His Blood.
6. The church's New Covenant is that which the blood of Christ provided.
7. That covenant is the blessing of salvation. The individual indwelling and filling of the Holy Spirit. The mystery doctrine. Only in this sense do we have a better or new covenant.
8. Israel had only their old formal covenant relationship with God. We are a corporation. We are in union with Christ. We have 39 irrevocable absolutes. A change of dispensation never means a change of salvation.

Some Final thoughts on the Book of Hebrews

1. The book of Hebrews is addressed to Jewish Christians. As such, it has the preponderance of the usage of the term covenant. This word is rare in the rest of the New Testament.
2. This term makes sense in the book of Hebrews, since it is directed toward the Jews.
3. The subject of covenants is not a man part of the New Testament. It is found in Hebrews to show the plan of God for all ages.
  - a. It shows the continuity of God's provisions.
  - b. A reference to Old Testament covenants.
  - c. An analogy for us.
  - d. The term covenant is used sparingly in the rest of the New Testament.
  - e. Why don't they use covenant as much? It did not apply as an administrative principle of the church.
4. The central theme of the Church Age is the mystery doctrine; not covenants. There is a comparison in the book of Hebrews between the old system and the new. The Jews were confused about the Mosaic Law and how it related to them. Covenants were points of reference for them.

5. Heb. 8 illustrates what they have gained in Christ. Now they need to know what they have in Christ.
6. This in no way construes the inauguration of the Church Age New Covenant.
7. It is true that certain promised spiritual aspects of the New Covenant are present in the church. We are not governed by covenants but there are aspects of the New Covenant which are contained in Church Age doctrine. Doctrine is written on our hearts rather than upon stones. Part of this will be given to Israel in their New Covenant.

Now we have the full spectrum of the “New Covenant in My Blood.”

Paul will make an interpretation of something here. This is not some human approach putting on this his own little spin. What He writes is divinely inspired. We do not look at this and say, “Paul is just giving his opinion; we don’t need to take this seriously.” If Scripture is not the Word of God, then it falls into allegorical and humanistic interpretation, which is rampant in many theological approaches. One of these approaches is called Liberation Theology.

Bobby is going to give us a false theology. This is an example when someone distorts the Scriptures and makes it a humanistic interpretation. A presidential candidate has been brought up in a church teaching liberation theology. What do they really mean? So much of Christianity today does not take the Bible as the divinely inspired Word of God. This is done so that we are taught just how important it is to understand and appropriately teach the Bible. When you take the Scripture as not the Word of God, then you can do all kinds of damage to it. It will be helpful to see this sort of distortion.

Liberation Theology

This is theological, ideological.

1. Liberation theology is an attempt to unite the Word of God with social and political concerns. Liberation theology is a perfect example of Syncretism.
2. It is not based upon the literal interpretation of the Bible. It is based upon a subjective view of God. In general this type of theological theory is the foundation for all social gospel. This is the gospel of social interaction of people, of economics, of politics, and syncretistic, humanistic theology. Liberation theology is just one branch of this liberal theology. This is liberal as a theological and not political term.
3. Liberation theology assumes that God cannot be understood in objective language or by divine revelation or in a list of doctrines. In other words, Bobby cannot teach Who and What God is in objective terms, according to liberation theology. This assumes that God cannot be understood in this way.
4. So God is defined through an allegorical interpretation of Scripture. This is the type of interpretation that this approach takes.
5. God cannot be understood in objective terms; He cannot be understood in terms of doctrine. He is only understood in the course of human history, in human events and related only to our experience of those events. The liberation theologian takes his own experience and the events of his life and interprets the Bible according to these events. You begin with yourself to understand God instead of the other way around. They attempt to find God through man and human history.

6. That finding God through human experience opens the door to all sorts of interpretations of God based merely on man's conception of God. There is an entirely different approach to interpreting the Bible. They think about their own experience and they put themselves into what they read.
7. Liberation theology interprets God in human history as a God of emancipation. However, they see Him in the socio-political sense; not in the spiritual sense. Liberation theology was born after Vatican II in Latin America and it had a fertile ground there as there was always a revolution going on there. They desired to be liberated. That approach to Catholicism spread to Asians to Blacks to Hispanics to native Americans. It can be found in all groups who consider themselves to be down-trodden and needing emancipation. The liberation theologian interprets God in human history as a God of emancipation in the socio-political sense. This is what the pharisees did when looking for the Messiah. They wanted Him to be the emancipator from Rome. Liberation is emphasized and not salvation.
8. The Christian experience in liberation theology becomes a permanent cultural revolution instead of an epistemological rehabilitation based upon the words of the Bible.
9. Hence, the Bible is interpreted as symbolic and not necessarily as literal.
10. In this way, salvation is equated with the process of human liberation. Salvation is human liberation from oppression and injustice and the evils of capitalism. There is oppression and injustice in this world; but that was not the purpose of Jesus Christ. This cannot be had in the Devil's world. There is no such thing as a perfect freedom in the devil's world. The truth and true liberation is in the soul. There is no race in Christ; there is no social status in Christ. It has nothing to do with human history and human events.
11. The blood of Christ no longer represents His substitutionary spiritual death. That is salvation. When salvation become liberation from oppression and injustice, we miss the real liberation.
12. The cross becomes just a symbol; a symbol of Christ identifying with suffering mankind. Did He identify with suffering mankind? There is some truth to that. However, He suffered for us for our salvation and spiritual liberation; not for our social liberation. We are free from the power of sin and death rather than free from oppression and injustice. Some have the experience of injustice and oppression, but that is not the Bible. This is pure humanism; it is not the salvation plan of God as the Bible presents it.
13. There is a lot of humanism and socialism and Marxist doctrine incorporated into liberation theology; that is part of the syncretism.
14. The history of salvation is a human class struggle; Marxist philosophy, symbolized by the struggle of Christ and the pharisees. He struggled with the pharisees, so we struggle with class warfare. That is their point of view. In class warfare, one class is good and the other is bad. However, every race, every person and every class of people have sin natures.

15. Sin in liberation theology is defined in terms of man's inhumanity to man. It is a sin and there are horrible abuses, but this is too narrow of a definition. Sin encompasses much more than man's inhumanity to man. Sin encompasses everything in our soul which is in opposition to the will of God as found in the Bible. It is turned into a revolutionary theology.
16. For liberationists, the Bible illustrates the quest of human dignity and human justice, which are worthy goals.
17. They take Israel's liberation from <sup>b</sup>vegypt in the exodus and Jesus' life and death, all as prototypes for the contemporary human struggle for liberation. They do not see His life as the prototype for our spiritual life. We have something which is so much greater. What Christ pioneered is so much greater and it is not about class struggle.
18. Biblical events signify a human struggle for justice and human dignity; it is humanism. They are altruistic. They truly want to help mankind. They are not necessarily phoney; just misguided.
19. Therefore, for all practical purposes, liberation theology equates loving your neighbor with loving God. You begin with yourself and move toward God. The emphasis is upon community activism. This is not to denigrate the social work which they do. It is the wrong emphasis.
20. You do not begin by loving your neighbor in order to love God; we are to love God in order to love our neighbor. Doctrine first.
21. Developing love begins with knowing God through metabolizing Bible doctrine. How we love God and how we reciprocate His love. The more we love him the more we know Him. This is objective revelation about God. We must begin with objective knowledge and then we can reciprocate that love.
22. Then maximum love is expressed in impersonal love and personal love toward others. The starting point is different. They reverse our point of reference. There is nothing wrong with compassion for the downtrodden and there is nothing wrong with freedom for all. However, there is a freedom of soul where we are liberated in the soul.
23. Liberation and social justice is not the central theme of Christianity. It is salvation by faith alone in Christ alone. We are not saved by our own good works toward mankind. We would certainly wish that anyone being treated unjustly and is in poverty, that this could change; and we are mandated to show charity. This is a result of doctrine in the soul.
24. Liberation theology demands loving people first; not loving God first. In fact, loving people is loving God.
25. Hence the main objective is not growing spiritually, but compassion toward the poor, community service and political change. Much of that is fine, but this is not the main objective of Christianity.
26. In other words, this is human good, not divine good.

27. The heresy of this theology stems from the departure from literal, Biblical interpretation. They have presuppositions and we must understand these in order to see where they are coming from.
28. Liberation theology denies God's self disclosure in objective terms. It is subjective to them.
29. This means that liberation theology makes the temporal processes of history become absolutes.
30. The process of social justice and liberation become divine.
31. Liberation theology is equated to God's salvation work in history; and not the cross as in substitutionary theology.
32. The conclusion: it becomes very difficult to distinguish between theology, ideology and secular humanism. They are mixed together; some truth and some falsehood; it is syncretism.

Paul's interpretation is divinely inspired. V. 26 explains why we continue communion.

1Cor. 11:26 For as often as you eat this bread and drink the cup, you proclaim the Lord's death until he comes.

Lesson #702

1Cor. 11:26 April 3, 2008

Thursday

the Corinthians have completely distorted the Communion service. They have taken the Lord's table and they have turned it into a nightmare of divisiveness and apostasy. They should have been commemorating the Lord's death for their salvation, but they did not. Instead, they had a love feast where there was corrupted social life which precluded meeting with the Lord in fellowship during Communion. They discriminated against the slaves and the poor. They made a mockery of the only ritual that they were to participate in.

In vv. 24–25, Paul recites the words of our Lord, so that they would know exactly what this was to be. In v. 26, following the Lord's words, Paul himself has a few things to say. Paul shifts to his own take on the communion ritual. This is something which the Corinthians need to understand. They need to understand the gravity of the ritual. Paul reveals in v. 26 an interpretation of the Lord's words and a time frame for the observance of the ritual of the Lord's table. This is not some human addition to the Lord's instructions. He is not a member of the press trying to engineer a desired result from his readers. He is not a politician manipulating his constituency. Any interpretation which he makes is the interpretation of God the Holy Spirit. It is the Holy Spirit Who inspires the writings of Paul. We proclaim the Lord's death when we eat and drink.

We begin with the explanatory conjunction γὰρ = for, the fact is, indeed. The adverb is the adverb of time ὡς = as long as. Paul is not giving a timetable here; he is not specifying how often we are to observe Communion. We must keep the memory of the Lord's work always current in our minds. We must continue to remember and think about. Don't let your thoughts of Him lapse. He is not setting a time frame for doing it. There is a duration of time in hosos. We know that a duration of time always has a termination point. So there is a termination point for this ritual of eating and drinking. He is talking about a final termination of this particular ritual. The termination point will be when our Lord returns. The rituals of Israel terminated with the 1st Advent of Christ. The change of ritual coincides with the change of dispensations. When Jesus instituted this Communion service, He would be on the cross within 24 hours. When the ritual changes, it coincides with a change of dispensation. There is a new ritual with the church, the ritual of eating and drinking; but even that will have a termination point. This will coincide with a dispensation. It ends with the rapture of the church, which also ends the Church Age. At that point, the Age of Israel resumes.

Age of Israel with the Mosaic Law rituals. They came to a screeching halt at the new dispensation. Our Lord instituted the transitional which is to be practiced. At some point in the future, the church ends, which is where the Tribulation begins. The ends the new ritual. Israel was entirely administered by the Mosaic Law. We are administered by the mystery doctrine and the filling of the Holy Spirit.

The change of ritual; the termination point of the Communion ritual. V. 26 speaks of this termination point, which is not the end of the Communion service, but the end of the Church Age. We will move into an area of prophecy. We can read book after book on prophecy and we see all kinds of people who claim to be prophets on tv. There is a change of ritual and a change of dispensation. You cannot miss God's hand in it when it comes to prophecy. Prophecy is a precise time schedule for Israel. They are on a time schedule; we are not.

Israel's clock begins in Daniel and with the fifth cycle of discipline. Israel went out under the fifth cycle of discipline under Nebuchadnezzar. He moved all of those that he did not kill to Babylon. Jeremiah gave this prophecy as an encouragement.

There were survivors of this holocaust. One of them was Daniel, who ended up in Babylon. There was 70 years of captivity. Many of these Jews did what many Jews have done since. They began as slaves, as captives, and they became very prosperous. They assimilated themselves into the culture. They have done this in previous diasporas. There were hundreds of thousands of Jews in Germany and they had become great citizens of German around WWI. Many were even high up in government. They were shocked to be persecuted in 1933. For all practical purposes, they were Germans. As has always been the case, Satan would not allow the Jews to be. This was exactly what the Jews did during the Babylonian captivity. Daniel was a prime minister; he was fully ensconced in great comfort. However, He never forgot the great doctrine in his soul. Even as a ruler in a Gentile empire, he still had a strong desire for the Word of God. Daniel would not let the Jews forget. He looked forward to the coming Messiah. The Abrahamic covenant; Israel had a promised land and they were not in it. Jerusalem lay in ruins. Daniel knew there was a promise; he knew God would deliver.

in a dream, Daniel received a prophecy. God answered his prayer request. This prophecy is recorded for us in Scripture. To Daniel 9:24:

Dan. 11:24: "Seventy weeks are decreed about your people and your holy city, to finish the transgression, to put an end to sin, and to atone for iniquity, to bring in everlasting righteousness, to seal both vision and prophet, and to anoint a most holy place.

Dan 9:25: Know therefore and understand that from the going out of the word to restore and build Jerusalem to the coming of an anointed one, a prince, there shall be seven weeks. Then for sixty-two weeks it shall be built again with squares and moat, but in a troubled time.

Dan 9:26: And after the sixty-two weeks, an anointed one shall be cut off and shall have nothing. And the people of the prince who is to come shall destroy the city and the sanctuary. Its end shall come with a flood, and to the end there shall be war. Desolations are decreed.

The Messiah will be cut off and He will have nothing. That is Jesus, Who came unto His people and is killed. The prince who is to come is not the Messiah is a future prince, the opposition to the Messiah.

Dan 9:27: And he shall make a strong covenant with many for one week, and for half of the week he shall put an end to sacrifice and offering. And on the wing of abominations shall come one who makes desolate, until the decreed end is poured out on the desolator."

We have rituals which have resumed at this point. No more sacrifice and grain offerings. Then one will come who makes desolate.

This prophecy was given 600 years prior to the 1st advent. There has been more ink spilled over this prophecy than any other prophecy. God reveals to Daniel His plan for Israel's future. This is the history and the destiny of Israel. What will happen to Israel. There are some very grim aspects to this prophecy; but all of God's prophecies would still be fulfilled.

There were those like Daniel who had not assimilated himself into the culture and He remained apart from the culture.

So we need to begin at the beginning; with the 70 weeks. Daniel was sleeping one night and dreamt this during a time after Israel had been in Egypt. There was a 70 weeks to come to pass. Actually, 70-7's (of years).

How does Bobby know that this is years? We must deal with this in the context of the Old Testament.

How were weeks defined?

1. Heptad simply means 7. However, this does not simply mean
2. Gen. 29:27: Complete the week of this one and this is to be understood as 7 years.
3. This is defined at the end of v. 27 as 7 years.
4. One heptad is equal to seven years.
5. 70 heptad's is 70X7 years.

6. 490 years.
7. The termination of the Babylonia captivity and the Age of Israel would have exactly 490 years left.
8. So the ticking clock of Israel is counted down from 490 years to the end of the dispensation. Israel from a certain period of time had exactly
9. The clock ticks off the years. At the end of this time, 6 things will be completed, which is what is found in the rest of v. 24. The Age of Israel will stop at the 2nd Advent. What is missing in this prophecy is the Church Age. The termination point.

1Cor. 11:26 For as often as you eat this bread and drink the cup, you proclaim the Lord's death until He comes.

Paul is saying that this ritual will continue until the Church Age is over.

Lesson #703      Daniel 9:24–27   1Cor. 11:26   April 6, 2008      Sunday 1

Bobby is talking about possibly going through the history of the Bible.

Since we began studying 1Cor. 11:20 and on, Paul has been dealing with problems dealing with the Communion and how this has been completely abused by the Corinthians. This again reveals factions and divisions within the Corinthian church. It had become a huge party which excluded the slaves and poor who are a part of this congregation; and there was an epidemic of mental attitude sins at the Communion Table.

Paul will continue to reprove the Corinthians throughout this chapter.

1Cor. 11:24: ...and when he had given thanks, he broke it, and said, "This is my body which is for you. Do this in remembrance of me."

1Cor. 11:25: In the same way also he took the cup, after supper, saying, "This cup is the new covenant in my blood. Do this, as often as you drink it, in remembrance of me."

Paul gives a time frame for this ritual. If they understand the gravity and the necessity, Paul hopes that they will get back in line. V. 26: Every time that you celebrate the Communion service. Of course it is a memorial to the souls of the Corinthians, but this is also a proclamation to the rest of the world. The time period during which this is to occur is until He comes. This may seem so distant and so nebulous, that it may have little meaning to us. Our Lord could come back at any time—today, tomorrow, or a thousand years from now.

We ought to remember when we celebrate Communion how important it is to memorialize His saving sacrifice.

When Paul wrote this epistles, Jesus had ascended about 30 years previous, making intercession for us. Perhaps His making intercession for me may be why it is taking Him so long to return?

The Communion ritual is exclusive for Church Age believers, and it was instituted by our Lord at the last Passover, which took place during the Last Supper, and it became the first Communion ritual. This ritual replaced all the Old Testament rituals. This new ritual was an indication that we were moving into a new dispensation. The Church Age is given one ritual. Baptism is a ritual. Baptism did take place during the pre-canon period, but it seems to occur less and less in the epistles. It is questionable as to its importance.

Now, if this ritual of Communion ends, then that would also indicate the end of this dispensation. Where there is a change of administration, there are a host of other changes, which include a change of rituals. What was instituted at this Last Supper was a new ritual never celebrated before: the Church Age Communion ritual. At some future time, the Lord returns and we are resurrected, and then we go into a new dispensation. Every time there is a dispensational change, there are changes in rituals. The termination point of a dispensation coincides with a change of ritual.

Until He comes will be explained by Daniel, in Dan. 9:24–26, and we will get the time clock from this passage, even though the Church Age is not mentioned. We do not have a time clock for the Church Age, despite that boatload of crackpots who are making predictions.

If you ever stumble into a prophecy conference and you are given a list of prophecies for this dispensation, they are incorrect and you might as well wander out. There are no list of events which herald the rapture. So many want to associate some dictator with the anti-Christ, and say, "The rapture's coming." The alarm is set, and it is set for our exit; we know it will go off, but we do not know when. Israel knows exactly and precisely when their future will unfold.

The first 6 chapters of Daniel are when Daniel was taken captive in 605 B.C., we remained with some aristocratic Jews. Nebuchadnezzar returned in 586 B.C. to level the city.

Now, after this, the Jews adapted will to the situation and many were living very comfortable lives and they were prosperous and living comfortable lives. In Babylon, at that time, the Jews were living in prosperity in Babylon much as they do in the US today. This was due, in part, to God's grace. Daniel became prime minister. Daniel continued to pray for insight into the fulment of God's unconditional covenants to Israel. He prayed to understand the future of Israel. Of all the prophets in the Old Testament, he is the only one named without a load of sins and problems. Bobby has had to study this very hard to understand this.

70 sevens [of years] are decreed concerning Your people and your Holy city.

Daniel 9:24: "Seventy weeks are decreed about your people and your holy city, to finish the transgression, to put an end to sin, and to atone for iniquity, to bring in everlasting righteousness, to seal both vision and prophet, and to anoint a most holy place.

Daniel knew that this would happen, but it was far into the future. The exact amount of time before our Lord arrives is given. 600 years before Christ, this book was given.

Daniel 9:25: Know therefore and understand that from the going out of the word to restore and build Jerusalem to the coming of an anointed one, a prince, there shall be seven weeks. Then for sixty-two weeks it shall be built again with squares and moat, but in a troubled time.

The Messiah being cut off and having nothing would be the crucifixion. After this, we have that which is future for us.

There is a prophecy of the Messiah Himself; a prophecy of the remaining age from Daniel to the end of the Age of Israel. There will be events which lead up to these last things.

Daniel 9:26: And after the sixty-two weeks, an anointed one shall be cut off and shall have nothing. And the people of the prince who is to come shall destroy the city and the sanctuary. Its end shall come with a flood, and to the end there shall be war. Desolations are decreed.

There is great accuracy in this prophetic passage. It was a great encouragement for Daniel and for those who shared this same view. So, certain Jewish believers and Daniel were all encouraged by this prophecy.

Daniel 9:27: And he shall make a strong covenant with many for one week, and for half of the week he shall put an end to sacrifice and offering. And on the wing of abominations shall come one who makes desolate, until the decreed end is poured out on the desolator."

1Cor. 11:26 For as often as you eat this bread and drink the cup, you proclaim the Lord's death until He comes.

Lesson #704

Dan. 9:24–25 April 6, 2008

Sunday 2

A portion of Daniel is about what has already happened and a part is about that which is about to come. This does have an effect for us. He is one of Bobby's favorites. Daniel was a man for the crisis. Most of the prophets of Israel spoke them Israel needed it; but Daniel was taken captive at a very young age, and he had been torn away from his people and culture; and he prophesied from the Chaldean empire. He was not swayed by the Chaldean religion or by the culture of the Chaldeans. He was to rescue his people from the inculturation that they were undergoing. This prophecy was a time clock for Israel of what would happen in the future.

We begin with the 70th week of Daniel. Your people = Jerusalem; your city = Jerusalem (which, at this time, had been leveled). The numbers are problematic.

Heptad = weeks refer not to a literal 7-day week, but to a period of 7 years. Gen. 29:7 is a parallel usage. So this means 70 7's of years, which is 490 years. Daniel in a foreign land has received a 70 week vision, which is 490 years. Daniel knew there was a history and that Israel had a destiny. There were be a point at time where the clock would begin to tick.

by the time these 490 years are completed, there is be 6 things which are completed, and they are all listed in v. 24:

6 Things to Complete

1. To complete the transgressions of Israel. הֵלֵךְ
2. The baptism of fire, which is the identification of all unbelievers with Satan and his angels. This puts an end to sin. Matt. 24:36–39 Rev. 19:11–16 Satan will be bound for a 1000 years.
3. To make atonement for iniquity: the verb is כָּפַר which is the Day of Atonement. This is our Lord's death on the cross. The only means of atonement for sin is Christ's blood. This is how God dealt with a guilty people. Jesus made atonement for their sins. This plays out when Israel is regathered and there is a reconciliation between Israel and God, their Messiah. All of this is based upon the blood of Christ on the cross.
4. To bring in everlasting righteousness. בא which means to cause to come in.
5. To seal up both vision and prophecy, all of which will occur before the end of 490 years.
6. To anoint the most holy place. מָשַׁח which means to dedicate. The site of sacrifices, which will get underway at the 2nd advent. All 6 of these will occur at the 2nd Advent.

Daniel 9:24: "Seventy weeks are decreed about your people and your holy city, to finish the transgression, to put an end to sin, and to atone for iniquity, to bring in everlasting righteousness, to seal both vision and prophet, and to anoint a most holy place.

The Jews need to understand and to implant this eschatological doctrine in their souls. They must expect that God will fulfill this prophecy. They need to know and believe that God has not forgotten them. They do not deserve God's grace here. This verse reveals the detailed time-fulfillment. The future to the nation of Israel and the appearance of the Messiah. V. 24 tells us how long the clock will tick and what will happen. V. 25 tells us when the clock begins to tick. If we begin at the wrong time or do not get the time frame right, we cannot see the proper progression of this prophecy.

There will be an issuing of a decree to rebuild and to restore Jerusalem. What will be rebuilt are the plaza and the moat. This is the street and the wall of Jerusalem. You need to have streets and a wall in order to have a true city. Daniel was speaking of a reconstructed city.

What decree is issued and by whom and at what time? This is critical; this gives us the exact year. There are several decrees. There were several decrees made by Persian rulers. Ezra 1:1–2 6:3 Neh. . There were 3 returns to Jerusalem. There was the return under Zerubbabel, one under Ezra and one under Nehemiah. Whose decree was it and how did it happen? By 539 B.C., Cyrus the Great, a Persian, had conquered the Chaldean empire (the Babylonian empire). Daniel was still the prime minister at that time. He survived another power change; another conquering. The Jews were still in Babylon, and they were still captive, essentially. However, they have new rulers.

140 years before this happened, when Judah was still the southern kingdom, Isaiah prophesied that a man would issue a decree to allow the Jews to return to the land, and the Jews were not even out of the land. Isaiah 44:28 45:1 calls him by name. It was Cyrus the Great who conquers Babylon and he is the one who sends some of the Jews back. He had a military reason for doing so. He was gobbling up land and he had his eye on Egypt, but he was not quite ready to go down there. He had a big idea. He would send these Jews back to Judah, and they would become a military buffer for him. This bought him time to take care of business elsewhere. They accomplished the buffer. This had never happened to a subjugated people before. Some of these men had become very successful and wealthy. There was also a spiritual reason. This was God at work for Israel. Ezra 1:1 tells us how God worked through Cyrus: In the first year of Cyrus king of Persia, that the word of the LORD by the mouth of Jeremiah might be fulfilled, the LORD stirred up the spirit of Cyrus king of Persia, so that he made a proclamation throughout all his kingdom and also put it in writing: Cyrus is thinking about doing this thing, and here is the prophecy which urges him to do the same.

Now, not all of the Jews wanted to go. These Jews had rejected doctrine and God's unconditional covenants to Israel. They had assimilated into the culture and covenants and Israel. However, this is not the decree we are talking about. There are 3 decrees and only one of them is the correct decree. Cyrus's decree here was to rebuild the Temple. He was not decreeing for the rebuilding of the plaza and the moat.

The Temple had to come first, because the Temple represents God in Israel.

Daniel 9:25: Know therefore and understand that from the going out of the word to restore and build Jerusalem to the coming of an anointed one, a prince, there shall be seven weeks. Then for sixty-two weeks it shall be built again with squares and moat, but in a troubled time.

Lesson #705

Daniel 9:24–26 1Cor. 11:26 April 9, 2008

Wednesday

1Cor. 11:26b: We are to proclaim the Lord's death until He comes.

This was to be a repetitive ritual (Communion) until He comes. At that point, the ritual terminates. There are actually two returns of Jesus Christ. He first returned for the church for the exit resurrection. He returns, but not to earth. He does not actually touch planet earth. 2Thess. 4, we go to meet the Lord in the air. This entails removing the entire church from the earth, thus ending the entire Church Age and beginning the Tribulation with only believers. The key phrase is to meet the Lord in the air. We will all be involved, either dead or living.

The second return is called the 2nd Advent and He actually touches down. This ends the Tribulation and begins the 1000 year reign. He rules on earth. Therefore, we need to ask, which return is denoted in v. 26?

Age of Israel and at Pentecost, the Church Age begins; and then there is the exit resurrection. Sandwiched between the resurrection and the exit resurrection is the church. This prophecy of Daniel has nothing to do with the Church Age. It is the panorama of the Age of Israel and the fulfillment of the unconditional covenants. This prophecy does tell us something about the duration of the church. We continue the Communion ritual until He comes. We can now see the time frame and the rest of events which will occur. This prophecy has been partially fulfilled and will be completely fulfilled in the future. Unlike the church, Israel knows exactly the dates and the time for specific events to occur.

70 weeks is 490 years. From some point of the fifth cycle of discipline there are 490 years remaining. God will complete the transgression of Israel. The 5th cycle of discipline will be completed. The Jews will continue to survive, even though this is the Church Age. The 2nd advent will occur 490 years after the clock starts. He will make an end to sin, which is the baptism of fire, which is Matt. 3:11–12. Satan and his angels are removed from the earth and bound in Hades for 1000 years. All Tribulational unbelievers are identified with this defeat of Satan (Matt. 24:36–39) and they will be tossed into the Lake of Fire. They will be first annihilated at the battle of Armageddon.

The blood of Christ is the source of the future of Israel and the fulfillment of Daniel's prophecy, which requires the New Covenant of His Blood. They will all be with resurrection bodies, so they will have no sin. The 5th event is to seal up prophecy. The last prophecy will be sealed up with the 2nd advent.

Daniel 9:24: "Seventy weeks are decreed about your people and your holy city, to finish the transgression, to put an end to sin, and to atone for iniquity, to bring in everlasting righteousness, to seal both vision and prophet, and to anoint a most holy place.

This is addressed to the Jews and the decree will start the clock ticking. It is about restoration and building. It is the rebuild Jerusalem; plaza and moat. This is to rebuild Israel in 539 B.C. Cyrus was a Persian ruler, and their empire had conquered the Chaldean empire. Daniel's job as a prime minister just carried over. Daniel had institutional knowledge of all that went on, so he knew how to govern the old Chaldean empire. Cyrus's decree was to build the Temple but not to build any defensive systems. Israel would gather around the Temple. Cyrus wanted them there and knew they would gather around the Temple.

Ezra 6 a decree of Darius in 458 B.C. Ezra was the next man sent back and there was a great spiritual awakening which took place and many Jews responded to his teaching and preaching. This was about the Temple and the renewed worship in the Temple.

There is then a 3rd decree, and by process of elimination, this is the one. This answers the description of Daniel's prophecy. His name is Artaxerxes Longimanus. He was a grandson of Xerxes. This decree sent Nehemiah this time to rebuild the city wall (Neh 2:1–6). This was certainly miraculous. This was completed in a record number of days—51 or 52 days. They were under great duress. They needed protection. God delivered the Jews. He used different emperors in order to do this. The decree which began this time clock saved Israel. They could have been wiped out. This is found in Freedom through Military Victory.

Daniel's Prophecy

1. Neh. 2:1–8 this decree was made in the 20th year of Artaxerxes reign.
2. Because of this statement, the time of his decree can be precisely determined to the very year of 445 B.C.
3. In the date of this decree is what started the 70 weeks of Daniel's prophecy.
4. 445 B.C. begins the 490 year clock.

There will be 7 + 62 weeks until another event occurs. The time span for Messiah the prince is 7 + 62 weeks. This is a pivotal fact of the prophecy. This is history for us. It was prophetic for Daniel, but history for us.

More Time line Stuff

1. According to Daniel, the time lapse is 69 weeks, for 69x7 years.
2. Each week is 7 years and this gives us 483 years.
3. So 483 years is the number of years in this 69 weeks of v. 25
4. So the Messiah comes 483 years after the decree after the decree of Artaxerxes Longimanus.

490 years – 483 years is the 7 missing years, which is significant. This is a missing week from Israel's time clock.

More Date Stuff

1. The number of days in a year is based upon a lunar calendar of 360 days in a year.
2. 483 years X 360 days = the number of days for the lunar calendar 173,880 days.
3. 173,880 days are the number of days in this 483 years.

4. Neh. 2:1–8 not only was the decree made in the 20th year, but it also gives the very month it was made in: Nisan.
5. Nisan approximates the month of March.
6. The 1st day of Nisan corresponds to the 14th of March for us.

Our Own Calendar

1. We have 365 days in our calendar.
2. 476 years from the starting point to the crucifixion.
3. Only one year is counted between 1 B.C. and 1 A.D.
4. So there are 476 years X 365 days = 173,740 days. We are short.
5. Leap year. 116 days for leap years for the 476 years,
6. Also, we have to add the days between the 14th of march to the date of April the 6th, which was the Palm Sunday date that our Lord entered into Jerusalem. 24 days.
7.  $173,740 + 116 + 24 = 173,880$  days. This takes us to the day our Lord entered into Jerusalem.

Jesus called this your day of the king in Luke and the time of your visitation. And Zech. 9:9 and He entered as a king and they rejected Him. This is the fulfillment to the very day. The pharisees studied the Scriptures religiously and they could have known this.

Daniel 9:25: Know therefore and understand that from the going out of the word to restore and build Jerusalem to the coming of an anointed one, a prince, there shall be seven weeks. Then for sixty-two weeks it shall be built again with squares and moat, but in a troubled time.

Daniel 9:26: And after the sixty-two weeks, an anointed one shall be cut off and shall have nothing. And the people of the prince who is to come shall destroy the city and the sanctuary. Its end shall come with a flood, and to the end there shall be war. Desolations are decreed.

Lesson #706      Daniel 9:25–26    1Cor. 11:26    April 10, 2008      Thursday

The prophecy of Daniel was written to Israel. How do you know that 70 weeks is 70 x 7 years? If this was 70 weeks, there would not been enough time to even get to the decree. Bobby keeps saying 490 years. In the Hebrew, the term could mean 70 weeks or 70x7 years.

Freedom through Military Victory has Nehemiah building these walls. Daniel and the people who heard him were looking forward to the 490 years, even the start gun. It is interesting, how much of this did Daniel understand? Obviously, this is what God wanted to communicate. We know that Daniel understood that 69x7 years would go by and Messiah would come. He also knew that Messiah would be cut off and have nothing. Bobby suspects that Daniel understood that this means death. Daniel was familiar with the prophecies of Isaiah and the suffering Servant of Isa. 53. There are other details which Daniel did probably not understand. The decree in question occurred several decades later and Daniel was dead by then. Daniel did not know that these 490 years would be interrupted at 483 years. In fact, no one in the Old Testament knew about this. There was nothing of the Church Age in the Old Testament. Only Jesus Christ Himself would begin the process of introducing the Church Age to the Jews. He did this by setting aside the Passover for the Communion. The Lord introduced a continuing future as well. He also introduced a continuing future as well. We know some of the details because we now have the New Testament. Some is in Matthew and elsewhere. Daniel lacked this information, but he have it. Daniel did not know about this gap of the Church Age. We have a clearer picture of all that Daniel prophesied. We look back and we have the vantage point of history. We can look back on events which have already happened. For Daniel, it was all future; and for us, half of it is Israel's history. We have much more information about the future and prophecies which Daniel did not have. The discipline of eschatology was the very last discipline to be developed in the theological sequence. It was so overlooked because it requires a number of passages to be brought together and correlated and synthesized. Dispensations allows all of this to be put together with few problems. We have the entire picture, something which Daniel did not have.

What is it that we know about this prophecy?

1. We know the actual time of the Messiah's appearance. His birth, His entering Jerusalem to the very day (Palm Sunday) and we know when He died. We know the actual date. He died on the 14th of Nissan. That was designated as the Passover in the Mosaic Law, the date of every Passover. Our Lord died on the Passover. What was He doing at Communion? He was eating the final Passover meal.
2. We know who made the decree that Daniel prophesied. It was the Persian emperor Artaxerxes Longimanus. We know this because his decree required the rebuilding of the wall of Jerusalem, which fits Daniel's description. The plaza and the moat were to be rebuilt. That is what Artaxerxes ordered.
3. We know from Neh. 2:1-8 that this decree was made in the 20th year of Artaxerxes decree. This was in the month of Nissan (March/April of our calendar).
4. That is our numerical baseline from which we can start our prophecy.
5. Since we can calculate in retrospect the number of years to the day, then can we not trust the rest of this prophecy to be just as accurate? Bobby would trust it. When we see how accurate this is, then it should be obvious that this is Word of God. Such a calculation proves the divine origin of this prophecy.

14 Nissan 445 B.C. until Messiah would come is said to be 69 weeks = 483 years. Multiply by 360 to get the number of days: 173,880 days. Then we go to the Gregorian or Julian calendar and we calculate each year as 365 days + a leap year every 4 years. Then we figure how many years there are from the decree until the Messiah came. 445 B.C. to 476 years which is multiplied by 365 days which gives us 173,740 days. There are 116 days for leap year days. Also, we add in the days between March 14 to April 6th, which was Palm Sunday in 32 A.D., which gives us an additional 24 days. We put these together and come out with 173,880 days.

We can see that this is a partial fulfillment of Daniel. These are not original to Bobby and they were first made by Sir Robt. Anderson who died in 1918. He was English and greatly interested in prophecy. So, we know the eschatology is a relatively new discipline.

Some see his calculations as incorrect. Some see it as a problem because of the 445 B.C. start day. Over 100 years, there might be new information. What different year? What year was the 20th year of Artaxerxes. So, why do we use Anderson's dates if there are problems? This was a man who did not have all of the information. The day He entered Jerusalem was the day we are talking about.

This has to be years here because this fits in with the week of the Tribulation, which is 7 years.

Harold Honer is or was a professor at Dallas Theological Seminary. He says new evidence places this start time is 444 B.C. and he claims it did not occur until 1 day of Nissan. This gives us a new start point to the prophecy. That means we have a new terminus to the calculation. But in Honer's calculations, beginning with the 5th of March, 444 B.C. and running through the same sort of calculations, the terminus point was Psalm Sunday 33 A.D. Same day exactly on both calendars. This would be 30 March 33 A.D. This is equivalent in the Hebrew calendar to 10 Nissan, which was in fact the Palm Sunday day of 33 A.D. That would put our Lord's crucifixion on 14 Nissan 33 A.D., which is Passover by the Levitical law, which I think he said was March 30, 33 A.D. He is the Passover Lamb. Even though the start point is different, we still end upon on Passover.

Bobby's point is not to quibble about calculations. He prefers the latter set of calculations. Jesus Christ controls history to the day; to the minute. Only God could reveal and execute this prophecy. Ezra went back in 458 B.C. and he got the Temple worship going again. He went with a small contingent. Later Nehemiah went back. All of these men trusted in the covenant of God to Israel.

God has sovereignty over time and nature; He controls the very time in which we live and all history. Our free will is truly free and we can still make dumb decisions. God did not determine that we should be idiots; this is something that we manage all on our own. The course of history did not change. Daniel called it and it happened just that way. So did God change His mind about Israel, even though they had become apostate? No. The future will continue to roll on exactly as it is supposed to.

Bobby has been thinking about this, and even though it is just a few verses in the Bible; and when we read this, how can we doubt God's plan? We fail to execute this plan and to embrace our future? God is not visible to us and there are no visions; but His Word stands forever. Sometimes, we don't think that God comes through for us in the way that we want Him to. How often we think, I know what God ought to do for me. Israel wished for a lot of things. All we need to do is continue with positive volition toward His Word.

Renewed confidence every day and to execute the spiritual life every day. The payoff is to look back at our own lives and to see His hand in it. Is His hand any less on us than it is in Israel's history. It is a great encouragement to recognize what God has done in our lives.

Daniel 9:25: Know therefore and understand that from the going out of the word to restore and build Jerusalem to the coming of an anointed one, a prince, there shall be seven weeks. Then for sixty-two weeks it shall be built again with squares and moat, but in a troubled time.

Daniel 9:26: And after the sixty-two weeks, an anointed one shall be cut off and shall have nothing. And the people of the prince who is to come shall destroy the city and the sanctuary. Its end shall come with a flood, and to the end there shall be war. Desolations are decreed.

God's plan is always there for us for our greatest happiness. Whatever our circumstance is, we have a future. We always have the choice to remove ourselves from the plan, even in the face of so much evidence.

When Jesus came into Jerusalem, the pharisees did not say, "Oh, this is God's plan." Instead, they said, "Let's kill Him."

Every day, we are neglecting/rejecting Bible doctrine or we are growing. But all that is left to us is to face our Lord at the evaluation seat to answer question. Were our pursuits for our lives that much better? The most sincere person in the world is a woman telling a lie, Bobby heard in a movie the other day. We are idiots if we mock Him and His plan. However, we have rebound and we can get back into fellowship. This is His plan for all of us in the Church Age. There is nothing more exciting than being in the plan of God. There is no greater life that you can live than being in the plan of God. There is not greater spiritual life that what God has give to you. There is no comparison between living in His plan or living outside of His plan. The same God which brought Daniel's prophecy to fruition is the God Who will bring our own futures to pass. He knows as much about us as He does about His plan for Israel.

Lesson #707

Daniel 9:25 1Cor. 11: April 13, 2008

Sunday 1

490 years until the greater Son of David sits on the everlasting throne of Israel. This prophecy of Daniel was given while the Jews were under the fifth cycle of discipline and they needed some encouragement.

The clock of Daniel would begin ticking with a decree.

We look back on v. 25 in retrospection and the decree for Jerusalem to be rebuilt with a plaza and a moat. 1 Nissan 444 B.C. was the starting point of Daniel's prophecy. We can watch the course of Israel's history. The time between this decree is 7 weeks and 62 weeks, 483 years was exactly 173,880 days, which takes us to the date 10 Nissan 33 A.D., when our Lord made His triumphal entry into Jerusalem. However, the clock stopped at that palm Sunday because Messiah the prince had come. He was rejected by the Jews and crucified on 14 Nissan 33 B.C., which is the day of the Passover. He was eating the Passover supper with his disciples. This would have been the night before His crucifixion, which is part of the same day in the thinking of the Jews. It would be 7 more years before He would sit upon Israel's throne, but these 7 years have not been accounted for yet.

There are 7 unaccounted for years; the 69 weeks were fulfilled. Jesus is not currently on the throne of David in Israel. 50 days after His resurrection, Pentecost and the beginning of the church. 37 years passed into the Church Age, and then in 70 A.D., Israel the nation was decimated Jerusalem. By this time, the Jews had been scattered by the legion of Rome. The unconditional covenant had not been fulfilled. The clock had temporarily stopped at 483 years, and 2000 years later, the clock is still on pause. There are still 7 years left on Daniel's clock, during which the fulfillment will take place. On the day of Pentecost, the clock stopped ticking. We know the event which will begin the clock ticking again: when the Lord returns at the rapture. When that ritual ceases, the Lord has returned. The final 7 years after the church If the previous 483 years is accurate, can we not reasonably conclude that there are 7 years to come which are also equally predicted?

Daniel 9:25: Know therefore and understand that from the going out of the word to restore and build Jerusalem to the coming of an anointed one, a prince, there shall be seven weeks. Then for sixty-two weeks it shall be built again with squares and moat, but in a troubled time.

Lesson #708

Daniel 9:26 1Cor. 11: April 13, 2008

Sunday 2

Eschatology is one of the favorite topics of some believers. Some of these believers do not like plodding ahead day by day with Bible doctrine, which requires consistency. Prophecy coincides with our passage 1Cor. 11:26. There will be a time when the rapture of the church will come, and some of us may be alive and some of us may be dead. There will be one generation of believers who depart this life not tasting death. When it happens, we will return as well, receiving our resurrection bodies when we meet the Lord in the air.

What happens after the church leaves this earth?

The Anointed One will be cut off and have nothing; and the people of the Prince Who is to come will destroy the city and the sanctuary. The end will come as a flood. The 62 weeks refer to what? There is 7 weeks from the previous verse to add to the 62 weeks. The overall period is still 483 years.

There are two terrible events: Messiah will be cut off and have nothing. His initial appearance is His birth. He will be cut off after His triumphal entry into Jerusalem. He did not receive His kingdom; the King of Kings. For centuries, Israel had slaughtered a Passover lamb and celebrated their redemption from Egypt, which represents Jesus Christ being slaughtered for their redemption. 14 Nissan was prophesied by Isa. 53, which tells us exactly what would happen, along with Ezek. 12:10. The pharisees knew the book of Isaiah; they knew the Suffering Servant.

The Hebrew word for cut off is used for the death penalty used against a criminal. The pharisees despised Him. They heard His messages and saw His miracles, and they were blinded to the truth. All they could do is plot to kill them.

The Jewish religious leaders should have known Who they were crucifying. He was right in front of them and He fulfilled to the letter every prophecy, which is why Christ could say, “Forgive them for they do not know what they are doing.”

The kingdom promised in the unconditional promises would not come to pass. Jesus was cut off and He had nothing—He had no kingdom. He came to His own and those who were His did not receive Him.

The 2nd event is the people of the prince will come and destroy the city and the sanctuary. Daniel, before the Temple is rebuilt, tells us that it will be destroyed. It would be destroyed, even though it was being rebuilt. Everything which follows is a shift. The first event occurred in 586 B.C.; Jerusalem was destroyed by Nebuchadnezzar and Daniel is promises that it will be rebuilt and then it would be torn down. Luke 21:24 the Lord added that the Jewish people would also be decimated. The rest would be taken captive and scattered all over the world. And He prophesied this when it was still future. Matt. 24 and Luke 21 cover the same subject, which is called the Olivet discourse. 37 years after the crucifixion of Jesus Christ, the destruction of Jerusalem and the Temple were destroyed by Titus and not one stone was left upon another and the Jews were slaughtered, with the captives being scattered.

The Jews are still scattered all over the earth and there are only 20 million Jews on this earth today. The Roman destruction of Jerusalem was promised. Israel was no longer a client nation. If this is the case, there must be another future catastrophic event which will be fulfilled by Daniel. Israel has never been regathered, but there is another future fulfillment of this prophecy, beyond the attack and destruction of Titus. There will be a future crisis for Israel. How does Bobby know this? How do we know there is a future 7 years?

If the 70th week immediately followed the 69th week (i.e., the additional 7 years), then a certain event would have occurred within 7 years of the 1st advent. There would have been the inauguration of the kingdom of the Messiah. These 7 years are still awaiting fulfillment, which means there is a gap between the 69th and 70th weeks. In this gap, we find the Church Age. The Age of Israel has 7 more years to come to pass, 7 more years to be fulfilled. The church intervenes between the 69th and 70th weeks. Even though there is this gap, God promise to Israel is still valid.

So many Christian theologians see this is the end of Israel and that promises to Israel were transferred to the church. They lump the 2nd advent and the rapture together. That is sloppy scholarship. The world has not seen the last seven years.

Daniel's final week

1. We understand the fulfillment for the 70th week and that is future to our age. We believers will not be here on earth. All members of the church, living or dead, will be off the earth. This is when the Judgment Seat of Christ occurs. We will reside for 7 years with the Lord and then we will return with Him and we will rule with Him. There are 7 years which take place on earth.
2. The Church Age must be completed before the final week of Daniel takes place. That is what dispensations tell us. The proper sequence is put to the time frame of history.
3. The final 7 years of Israel will then be completed.
4. The kingdom promised to Israel cannot be fulfilled until the Messiah's kingdom is initiated, which will be after the 7 years of crisis. The end of the Tribulation will be the termination point, which leads to the kingdom.
5. At the end of the crisis, the return of Jesus Christ to the earth, the 2nd advent, will begin the Millennial kingdom. The rapture is not an advent. He does not return to earth at that time. We meet the Lord in the air and so we will ever be with the Lord.
6. He was here as the God-man Savior and the 2nd advent, He will be here as the King of Kings, Lord of Lords.

The greatest crisis will come to pass; war will continue until the end. The Church Age, the return of Christ for the rapture, 7 years, and then He returns to the earth. The overall description of these 7 years are war and desolation. Revelation and Matthew and Luke tell us what will occur during this time period. These are the worst years we will ever see.

What makes us think that we can somehow achieve world peace. We will not achieve world peace because we have a sin nature. There will always be war because men have sin natures.

We must protect ourselves because Jesus has told us that war will continue. It is the 2nd advent of Jesus Christ which ends the crisis of tribulation. War will end with the Lord making war, called Armageddon. He will totally destroy the armies of Israel in order to bring in His 1000 years of peace. No more war in the Millennium. But prior to that, there will be war.

Jesus will become the literal Prince of Peace. He was the Prince of Peace at the 1st Advent, as our Redeemer. When He returns, there will be the event of world peace.

The 70th week will not occur right after the 69th week; it cannot occur until Jesus returns. The clock stops at 69 weeks when the Messiah is cut off and has nothing (He has no kingdom).

Destruction of the city and the sanctuary will occur. This is not the Prince of Peace, but the prince of the people. The 7 years in which the prince to come is called the Tribulation. This is when Satan attempts to eliminate all of the Jews. It is the final 7 years of Satan. He will pull out all the stops. The Holy Spirit will not be around to restrain Him. The Holy Biblical eschatology is what we are dealing with. What is God's plan for the future and what does it look like and when will He return? Bobby is not speculating about the future. The only true eschatology is in the Bible. All the dependable answers to the questions of eschatology come from the Scripture. None of the prophecy deals with the Church Age. There still is a timetable, which is for the future of all God's people. Bobby is giving us this look of eschatology so that we know our place in history. This is so that we know what has come before and what is ahead of us.

Therefore, we need to see the statement of 1Cor. 11:26, in order to get our place in history. The context of v. 26 is the Communion at church. The future of Israel has a bearing on the future of the church. They coincide and they interface. We are not out here on our own. One dispensation must end before the next dispensation begins. We have looked at the Age of Israel from the time of the Exodus until Jesus Christ appeared. When the Age of Israel ended, the ritual of the Tabernacle and the Temple. Rituals go with each dispensation. The Communion ritual ends when He comes. This Communion ritual is given specifically to the church, and that is why Paul tells us that this is the endpoint for this ritual.

Daniel gives us what precedes and what follows the church. Daniel looked forward 70 weeks, which is 490 years. 70 weeks have been decreed for your people.

Daniel 9:25: Know therefore and understand that from the going out of the word to restore and build Jerusalem to the coming of an Anointed One, a Prince, there will be seven weeks. Then for sixty-two weeks it shall be built again with squares and moat, but in a troubled time.

From the time of the issuing of that decree until Messiah comes, 483 years will pass. The order was issued 444 B.C., I believe.

Daniel 9:26: And after the sixty-two weeks, an Anointed One will be cut off and He will have nothing. And the people of the prince who is to come will destroy the city and the sanctuary. Its end will come with a flood, and to the end there will be war. Desolations are decreed.

Jesus was the Passover Lamb, slain; and the unconditional covenants to Israel were not instituted after His triumphal entry into Jerusalem. In that sense, He was cut off and He had nothing. However, the promise to Israel was not abrogated; it is, in fact, guaranteed by the New Covenant in His Blood.

Then we have the very strange prophecy: And the people of the prince who is to come will destroy the city and the sanctuary. Daniel gives this prophecy while the city is in pieces; and he is promising that the city will be destroyed again in the future. Daniel's rebuilding prophecy was fulfilled. The Temple was rebuilt, beginning in 516 B.C. (?). 444 B.C. the rebuilding of the city. Jerusalem had been rebuilt and the Temple was still in existence

This new destruction is a shift, which takes place after the 1st Advent of Jesus Christ, meaning that this destruction is future. There was a destruction of the Temple in 70 A.D., which was a massive destruction. The legions of Titus and the legions of Rome came in and destroyed Jerusalem and took the survivors and made them all slaves.

Bobby spoke to a Christian several years ago who was anti-Semitic, despite Gen. 12:3, based this upon, the Jews in Israel are not really Jews. How do we know they are really descended from Abraham, Isaac and Jacob?

Israel today is not the promised kingdom of the Messiah. The full land has never been occupied; the Jews do not occupy all of the land promised to them in the Palestinian covenant. That is the dispute in that land today—who owns this land? The Messiah has not returned to sit on the throne. This is the only democracy in the Middle East, although Iraq is trying.

The prince of destruction is still to come. How do we know this is still future? Daniel's prophecy is of 70 weeks, 490 years, but only 69 weeks have been accounted for so far. If the 70th week had occurred, a certain event would have occurred. If the 70th week would have occurred, the Messiah would have been on the throne.

There is a gap between the 69th and 70th week, which is the gap where we are. Israel's clock stopped at 69 weeks. 7 years to remain to be fulfilled. The promised fulfillment of the 70th week is still future. This will occur after the church, which is still in progress. After the 483 years when the Messiah was cut off, and after the Church Age, however long it runs, then is the completion of the final 7 years of Daniel's prophecy. We will be raptured and during this 7 years, we will be evaluated. In between the rapture and the 2nd advent is the Tribulation. During this 7 years, there will be no Communion. If all the believers are raptured, then there will be very little reason to share Communion.

There will be some rituals which will be restored. Daniel's final week. V. 26b: Its end will come with a flood, and to the end there will be war. Desolations are decreed. There has never been any lengthy period of time when there was no war. When Jesus returns, then and only then will there be peace. He brings peace by destroying His enemies. That is a Biblical principle.

Lesson #710

Daniel 9:26–27 1Cor. 11:26 April 27, 2008

Sunday 2

At the end of the 7 years, the crisis ends with the return of Jesus Christ. There will be enemies on all sides of Israel. Jesus Christ will annihilate all of Israel's enemies at this time. Jesus Christ will destroy all of the armies which oppose the Jews and He will remove all of the unbelievers from the earth, setting them up for eternal judgement. There will be a kingdom of peace, and Jesus Christ will become the Prince of Peace by destroying all of His enemies.

This prince who is to come will come onto the scene after the rapture of the church. Satan knows that if he can somehow block the fulfillment of any of God's promises, he becomes successful in his endeavor to discredit God. Satan wants to do this to discredit God and Satan is the father of anti-Semitism. Those who are anti-Semite fall right into the cosmic system. They oppose God and His plan. When our nation stops supporting Israel, we will receive the cursing found in Gen. 13. This 7 years is the culmination of Satan's great schemes against God.

The prince who is to come is a direct arm of Satan.

Daniel 9:26: And after the sixty-two weeks, an Anointed One will be cut off and He will have nothing. And the people of the prince who is to come will destroy the city and the sanctuary. Its end will come with a flood, and to the end there will be war. Desolations are decreed.

V. 27 gives us a clue about who this prince is. He will make a firm covenant with the many for 1 week, but in the middle of the week, he will put a stop to sacrifice and grain offerings. In other words, during the Tribulation, there will be a resumption of Mosaic rituals. There is a covenant signed at the beginning of this 7 years, and it will be a 7 year covenant. The Jews sign a peace treaty with this prince, and suddenly and without warning, he stops sacrifices and grain offerings. In order for him to stop such a system of offerings, there must be a system of offerings occurring. This is the final 7 years, the 70th week of Daniel; no more Communion, but a restoration of the Levitical rituals.

What is this covenant all about? The covenant must be a religious covenant allowing Israel to practice animal sacrifices. There is possibly an allowance for the Jews to build a Temple, and it can be constructed quickly. Understand, there is a problem for the Jews. There are Jews in the land of Israel, but there are no animal sacrifices and there is no Temple. We know where the Temple is located. What is there now is the Dome of the Rock, a Islamic mosque. Such an act would unite Arabs. It would unite the Islamic world if the Dome of the Rock was razed and a Temple was put up. This sort of thing will unite the Arabic world, strongly united against Israel. There are huge numbers of Muslims in Russia and in Europe, and they may drive this attack upon Israel.

Jerusalem is, in many ways, the center of the earth, and what happens there has impact upon the world. Oil is just a vehicle to keep the world's eyes on the Middle East. Whoever this prince is who will come, he must be extremely powerful; he must carry tremendous influence throughout the world. He must be a religious figure as well as a leader of great stature. His protection is the only way that Jews could carry out such a plan to reconstruct the Temple and to restore animal sacrifices. These events are not about current events. We can speculate all day long on whether or not the events in the Middle East are lining up with the events of Daniel's 70th week. Some say it was Hitler, some say the pope, some said Napoleon.

This leader will get concessions and this pact will not go unnoticed. Every news network will carry news about this covenant. This is not some local treaty with local repercussions. This treaty has a worldwide impact. There will be repercussions for everyone. Everyone will be affected. It may be about oil, but it will probably be about religion, as religion is the devil's ace trump.

Perhaps this worship will be ceremonial for the purpose of historic curiosity. Tourism. Maybe the events of the rapture make these people think, we ought to do something here to appease God, and so they allow animal sacrifices.

We are in a religious war right now. Every terrorist in the last 40 years has been Islamic. It is a religious war. They want to impose Islam. It is not just about power; it is about imposing religion.

For the final 3.5 years, there will be no treaty. Things were tame until this midpoint; or at least, by comparison.

Who is this prince to come? What clues do we have as to his identity. We cannot identify this guy by name. Isaiah identified Cyrus as the one who would make a decree. But no prophecy in Scripture identifies this person; nor can we set a date for his appearance. He will be in power at the date of the rapture. We don't know exactly where he will be, and he may be a man of minor power at this time; and he may suddenly take over a great deal of power. His power will greatly increase as the 7 years progress. His power may increase to the point where he can do whatever he wants. However, no one knows the day or time of the rapture.

Bob took the conditions of his time and superimposed them upon eschatology as illustrative.

Daniel 9:27: And he will make a strong covenant with many for one week, and for half of the week he will put an end to sacrifice and offering. And on the wing of abominations will come one who makes desolate, until the decreed end is poured out on the desolator."

We know that this is a prince of the people who are about to destroy Jerusalem. In order to understand this, we will need to examine a previous prophecy of Daniel's back from chapter 2. Nebuchadnezzar had a dream, and there was this huge image, and it was composed of various materials, and it disturbed him greatly; and Nebuchadnezzar calls in all of these various soothsayers and religious types. None could interpret this dream. So he finally calls in Daniel. Bobby will summarize.

This image describes the empires of history during and after the time of Daniel. Chaldean empire, and then the Persian empire (an empire of the near future, which would destroy the Chaldean empire); the Græco-Macedonian empire under Alexander the Great; the iron empire also known as the Roman empire. These are historical empires which live throughout the Age of Israel. Daniel's prophecy was made with reference to Israel, its future and destiny.

The church began during the Roman empire, which began before the church began. The Roman empire continued. None of Daniel's prophecy had anything to do with the Church

Age. The 5th and final empire from Daniel 2, that empire can not yet have come into existence. It is involved with the Age of Israel. This empire has to come along after the Church Age. Or at least, the fulfillment of it. The 5th empire is in the 70th week; the others are in the 69 weeks. The others are history and this 5th empire is future.

The 5th empire is described as Iron and Clay. The Roman empire is called the empire of iron; and this 5th empire is somehow related to the Roman empire. It is also called an empire of clay, and there is apparently a future revival of the old Roman empire and dispensationalists call this the revived Roman empire. It should have roughly the same area and people as the ancient empire. These empires are separated by the Church Age.

The feet and toes of the iron of clay. The old empire would crush everything in its path and the old Roman empire conquered all over. The British Empire may have rivaled this in land mass, but not in period of time.

The empire is made up of 10 toes of iron and clay. Daniel 2:42: ten nations within the empire, ruled by 10 kings. This new empire will be strong iron, but brittle, like pottery. The 10 nations will combine like a federation. Iron and clay do not really go together and they will not adhere to each other in this nationalities. There are 10 kings which are not really unified. The separated iron will dominate the brittle portion. The prince who will come will subjugate the others. This is how he progresses in gaining power.

1Cor. 11: April 30, 2008

Wednesday

There is a switch in Daniel from history to eschatology. All of it was eschatology for Daniel; but for us, it is half and half. Dan. 9:26b: And the people of the prince who is to come will destroy the city and the sanctuary. Its end will come with a flood, and to the end there will be war. Desolations are decreed. The Messiah will be cut off, and that moment brings a halt to the clock, at 69 weeks. There is a gap between the 69th and the 70th week. That gap is positioned between the first half of v. 26 and the 2nd half of the verse. Daniel had no idea that there would be a time lag in this 70 weeks. We are in this gap, which is the Church Age. We know our position in this time period. After the Church Age gap, comes the final week of Daniel. No one knows or can know when the Church Age will end. There is no prophecy concerning the Church Age. The Church Age must end before Daniel's prophecy can be fulfilled. At the exit of the church, Israel's clock resumes. The clock begins the moment that the church exits this earth. This is going to be a terrible time during the history of the world. There will be unparalleled savagery. It does not matter that some think that we are evolving into better homo sapiens. It does not matter that some think that we are evolving to a point where there will be less war. Satan has seen time and history pass; he has seen the strategic victory of Jesus Christ pass. Satan rejoiced when the Messiah was cut off; but he also became aware the this was the strategic victory. Satan, as time goes on, he realizes that his own time is limited and he becomes more and more desperate. His last gamble is a scheme which he has had for centuries; to destroy the Jews; to wipe them off the face of the earth. For God not to fulfill these covenants, he must destroy Israel. He will direct tremendous energy toward the destruction of the Jews. There will be terrible anti-semitism. What will happen will be many times worse than the middle of the 20th century. There will be no other time like it in the history of the world.

The 2nd half of v. 26 and v. 27 will be all about the 7 years. The city of Jerusalem has been rebuilt, but the Temple of God has not been rebuilt. In order for this prophecy to be fulfilled; in order for the Temple to be destroyed, it must be rebuilt at a future time.

There are different elements of this statue and they are interpreted as 5 great empires. The Chaldean, Persian, Græco-Macedonian empire, and the Roman empire; the 5th empire is that of iron and clay, which is the one we are interested in, because it is yet future. All of Daniel's prophecies are directed solely toward Israel. There was no thought of the Church Age. Daniel's prophecies were a part of the Age of Israel. All the empires of Daniel 2 must be contained with the Age of Israel.

The Age of Israel began at the Exodus; and within that age was the Chaldeans. The peak was about 506 B.C. 538 B.C. Chaldean empire. Then comes the Græco-Macedonian empire, a height under Alexander the Great around 313 B.C. 40 or 50 B.C. is the great empire of Iron; the empire of Rome with the first great Cæsar, which is Julius Cæsar.

The Roman empire began in the Age of Israel; but it did run into the Church Age. It ended around the 4th century A.D. No one of these empires can begin in the Church Age. Rome overlapped, but it began in the Age of Israel.

We do not know when the church will end. How many empires are left? There is one 7 year period; the rapture and the continuation of the Age of Israel.

Eschatology and the Empires

1. Since none of Daniel's prophecies for the Age of Israel; the 5th empire cannot be in the Church Age. There was no prophecy of a 5th empire to begin in the Church Age.
2. The 5th empire must begin in the Age of Israel. They must all fall within the 70 weeks.
3. So the time clock of the prophecy cannot run during the Church Age. The time of Israel came to a screeching halt when Messiah was cut off.
4. Hence, the 5th empire cannot be a part of the Church Age.
5. That empire will begin at the end of the Church Age.
6. The time of the prince and his people will be in the future, the feet and toes of iron and clay.

There are similarities between the 5th and 4th empires. There are 10 toes made up of iron and clay. Revelation has much information here. These toes represent 10 nations within the empire ruled by 10 kings. Similarly, the Old Roman Empire was made up of groups of conquered peoples. According then to Daniel 2:43, the nations will combine as a confederation. However, clay is brittle. Pottery shatters. Furthermore, iron will not adhere to clay. So there are 10 kings loosely connected and feuding within the confederation. The strength of the iron will dominate the brittle clay. Hence the prince who is to come brings the people of the Old Bemoan Empire under his control. These are those who live in the same land area of the Old Roman Empire. The prince becomes the powerful dictator of that future empire. This is a future empire which is truly strong. This empire; this leader; this prince; must also be a great religious leader. The people are a part of the same general area and it is therefore called the revived Roman Empire.

Daniel 9:26: And after the sixty-two weeks, an Anointed One will be cut off and He will have nothing. And the people of the prince who is to come will destroy the city and the sanctuary. Its end will come with a flood, and to the end there will be war. Desolations are decreed.

V. 27 describes the activities of the prince. There is 1 week, which deals only with Israel. The content of the treaty is revealed here; and that content concerns worship, sacrifice and grain offering. The logical place for the worship is in Jerusalem on the Temple site. In order to make such a treaty, this prince must be quite powerful. He must have tremendous influence throughout the world. Any treaty made in the middle east requires power and leverage. For someone to do this, he must be extremely powerful and a religious figure as well. Somewhere, somehow, the Jews will be able to worship on the Temple mound. There would be all-out war if they tried that today.

He leaves these Jews high and dry suddenly and then in these last 3.5 years, he leaves them unprotected. Rev. 7:14 and Matt. Names this as the Great Tribulation. There will be kings from all compass oints which bear down on Israel.

The time is also terrible because the church has been removed. There are no more believers on earth when this age begins. Our departure will leave this world in a frenzy of confusion and a mass of destruction. Millions of people throughout the earth will suddenly disappear. This will bring great chaos. Cars and buses going down the street without drivers. Children without parents and wives without husbands and vice versa. Incredible chaos. This all begins the very moment that we depart.

What will be even worse; people will look around and be in despair, seeing their believing friends taken away suddenly. Those who think they are saved by their works will have a rude awakening. There will be a total catastrophe for everyone who is left. What happens after that? The events will be explained, spun; and the rapture will fade away. Skeptics will rationalize this event away, just as Christianity is explained away to day. There will be excuses made as to why some were left behind. Questions about what really happened. They will come up with some way to rationalize this away. These rationalizers will come under strong delusion. We see this sort of thing all around us right now. Imagine what it will be like when there are all 100% unbelievers everywhere. Someone tells a lie and it lines up with your belief; you then just choose to believe the lie. The truth is hard to face. They have a hard time facing the world in hunger, in chaos, in genocide. It is easy to believe lies. Facing the truth means that they have no answer. They can delude themselves as to how to handle the situation.

They will spin facts to fit their own conceptions and ideas. This is how things should be. They hype what they are going to do. It does not work, but they won't admit it. Minor happenings are seen as major and vice versa. The manufacture problems which they solve; and do not solve the problems which are there and real.

This is also the case of the believer who does not execute the spiritual life; they too become subject to strong delusion. They deaden their souls to the realities of failures and flaws. Such a believer glosses over what he knows to be true about himself; and if they don't admit it, they don't have to fix it. If they don't get with doctrine, then they just make up their own solutions.

Some will see with their own eyes. Theirs will be empiricism when it matters. Even when they have objective proof right in front of them, they refuse to think about it. They will deaden and harden their own souls. They will delude themselves in exactly the same way as pharaoh did. Pharaoh saw 10 plagues from the hand of God and denied them all.

These delusions which these people have are the exact same delusions which Satan has. How does he think he can defeat God?

The worst thing which can happen is the Holy Spirit, Who restrains the full power of Satan and negative man; but He will be withdrawn as we are withdrawn. His common and efficacious grace is still here. But the Holy Spirit opens the way for Satan and his minions to fire up the Tribulation.

Daniel 9:27: And he will make a strong covenant with many for one week, and for half of the week he will put an end to sacrifice and offering. And on the wing of abominations will come one who makes desolate, until the decreed end is poured out on the desolator."

1Cor. 11: May 1, 2008

Thursday

One of the central figures of the Tribulation is the prince who is to come. He is a key figure in all of this. What we know about him will help us to understand the entire spectrum of eschatology. Tonite will be a summarization of who the prince is and what he does.

Summary of the Prince

1. He is a figure strong man; a religion figure with world-wide influence; and a very prominent person.
2. He is the ruler of the 5th empire revealed in Dan. 2.
3. His kingdom is called the feet and toes of iron and clay. Dan. 2:41 Each empire is described as a body part as well as a certain element.
4. The element of iron in the image; this common element connects the 4th and 5th empires. The 4th empire is the legs of iron, which is the old Roman empire. The 5th empire may be called the revived Roman empire. This covers the same geographical area as the old empire, roughly.

5. The feet and toes represent 10 nations within the empire, ruled by 10 kings. The prince will rule over these 10 nations and 10 kings. With this powerful confederation, he will project his power throughout the rest of the world. Apparently the other kings are powerful in their own right; but the prince will dominate them.
6. In this attitude, he is set to make a treaty, a covenant with Israel. Dan. 9:27a He will make a firm covenant with the man for one week, but in the middle of that week, he will put an end to sacrifice and grain offering.

What is the Treaty all about?

1. This treaty allows Israel to sacrifice animals in the Temple in Jerusalem; and this will be a part of their worship.
2. The prince's interest is in religion as a tool. He uses religion.
3. He will be the master at using religion and how religion is used to day will seem silly and small compared to him.
4. Once the Jews have furthered along the prince's plan, he will abandon them; he will leave them high and dry.
5. The treaty is broken half way through the Tribulation. The second half is called the Great Tribulation. The Tribulation is ratcheted up.
6. This will be the last great push of Satan to wipe out the Jews. He wants to destroy the race which was promised the unconditional covenant.

Once the Holy Spirit's restraining ministry is removed, the world will go crazy. This is a devastating period of time. Where there is chaos and devastation, there is opportunity for anyone ruthless enough or unscrupulous enough to take advantage.

Throughout history, the Jews kept trying to make treaties with people who were not good for them and they continually had problems because of this.

The Prince to Come

1. The prince who is to come, the dictator of the revived Roman empire, is the prince of the feet of the image. This image provides a look at his power position in the world.
2. He is a king who is insolent and he is skilled in intrigue and his power is awesome. Dan. 8:23–24. He is a part of Satan's power.
3. The prince will oppose the Prince of Princes Dan. 8:25
  - a. The Prince of Princes is a reference to Jesus Christ.
  - b. The prince is opposed to Christ.
  - c. He implants evil concepts in the minds of those over whom he rules.
  - d. We will also make an alliance with the Jewish dictator of Palestine.
  - e. He will make war against believers in the great Tribulation.
4. The prince is also called the man of lawlessness. 2Thess. 2:3–10

- a. Literally, this man of lawlessness means that he is a man without law; he is a man of rebellion. There is not rule of law in his empire other than himself.
  - b. He embodies rebellion against God's plan and against the laws of God. He opposes the Law of Moses now operational in the Land of Promise.
  - c. He is a law unto himself; he is law. That is his colossal arrogance.
  - d. He is the one who initiates the chaos in crisis. Chaos follows him wherever he goes.
  - e. As a lawless man, he embodies the entire evil of Satan's plan.
5. He is also called the scarlet beast in Rev. 17:3. Each one of these titles tells us something about the prince himself. The scarlet beast is an interesting name because it deals with religion.
    - a. The tool he will use to advance himself is a one-world religion.
    - b. Under him, all religion will be unified and centralized.
    - c. This coalition of religion will be brought under the auspices of this one man. He will reduce all religion to its lowest common demonimator. Humanism, relativism and salvation by works.
    - d. In Rev. 17–18, his religion is called a harlot; a counterfeit religion.
    - e. Rev. 17:3 pictures the harlot as riding the back of the scarlet beast.
  6. The prince is said to have 10 horns. This is a figurative meaning.
    - a. Horns in the Scripture denote power, and he is a man of great power.
    - b. The 10 horns of the prince of Dan. 7 correspond to the 10 toes of Dan. 2.
    - c. These horns signify the 10 nation confederation over which he rules. Each horn is one of the enations over which he rules.
    - d. The beast with 10 horns dominates the 10 toes and gains ascendancy over the revived Roman empire.
  7. He is also called the little horn.
    - a. the little horn is the one who emerges out as the dominant one.
    - b. He becomes a hero to the world and a hero to Israel.
    - c. He poses as a savior for all the world's masses. People want to follow someone like that. He will be very charismatic. Recall there is chaos going on throughout the world. Confusion to the maximum and this man will solve all of our problems; everything is going to be alright.
    - d. He will appear to the world as an angel of light; but he is anything but an angel of light. Satan is also called this and the great deceit ver.
    - e. it is the prince who is the one who desolates the Temple sanctuary.
  8. The prince is depicted as rising out of the turbulent sea of nations.
  9. He is given the power to persecute and to overcome the saints. There will be great evangelism at this time.
  10. He will dominate as a world leader at this time.
  11. In short, this man, the prince, the scarlet beast, is the one commonly called the anti-Christ (meaning instead of Christ). He is a substitute who both opposes and at the same time imitates Christ. He is cultured with great political skill. He is elite; he has great political skill and enormous charm. Satan backs him to the hilt.

12. He will be Satan's counterfeit messiah, the great savior of the world.
13. As such, he will appear as a friend to the Jews when he makes this covenant with the Jews at the beginning.
14. One of his first acts after consolidating power will be to set up great terms of peace; to achieve great unity. His rise in the chaos is a fortuitous time to make international proposals and covenants. The people who are left behind are looking for solutions; someone to get them out the situation that they find themselves in. This man presents himself as the great mediator. He is the anti-Christ. Many seem to come close to fitting this profile.

Where is Israel during all of this upheaval? Israel will be ruled by a Jewish dictator who is called the false prophet. He is the one with whom the prince makes the covenant. This false prophet will become a part of the network. The ruler of Israel at this time becomes a minion of Satan himself. This one Jewish dictator is a central figure; and the false prophet will make a treaty with him for this reason. He is also called the willful king as well as the useless shepherd. Rev. 13:11 describes this false prophet and he has 2 horns and he speaks as a dragon.

The False Prophet

1. He is said to have 2 horns and he speaks as a dragon.
2. He is not lamb; he is fierce to say the least.
3. He is clever enough to dupe all the Jews to think that he is the returned lamb of God. He is seen by many as the Messiah and the Jews believe him.
4. His power is derived by the anti-Christ and he will be indwelt by the real dragon. He will wield all the might and all the intrigue of the real dictator, Satan. He emulates the Messiah. He can show the claims of Messianic deity.

There seems to be a rift between the false prophet and the prince who is to come; and in the end, Satan cannot control the ambitions of those who serve him. He cannot defeat God because he cannot control his own people. And Jesus Christ controls history.

After 3.5 years, the prince will break the covenant and then what will happen?

1. He will call a halt to the Jewish ritual system in the Temple.
2. No more sacrifice and no more grain offerings.
3. He also demands that a statue of his be erected in the Holy of Holies in the Temple.
4. All who fail to bow down to this image will be killed. Either worship him or die.
5. Matt. 24 describe this abomination. Which was spoken of by Dan the prophet.
6. The statue of the prince is the signal for the Jews to flee to the mountains for the next 3.5 years; they are to stay gone for 3.5 years.

At the end of this great horror will be the return of Jesus Christ. Those who recognize what is going on at the beginning of this period will be preserved. All of the armies of the earth will be converging on Palestine, all vying to be the great power on this earth. Jesus Christ will come and rescue and regather the Jews. Then will be fulfilled all the unconditional covenants. He will give those Jews hiding out all the land which He has promised them.

Daniel 9:26: And after the sixty-two weeks, an Anointed One will be cut off and He will have nothing. And the people of the prince who is to come will destroy the city and the sanctuary. Its end will come with a flood, and to the end there will be war. Desolations are decreed.

The return of Jesus Christ will be a mystery to everyone but Him. Christian prophecy has been the subject of ridicule over the past. Anything which comes to pass which is similar to this is purely coincidental. Do not believe those who say that they have received a special message.

3 Quick Points

1. The Church Age is not revealed in prophecy; our age is revealed in the mystery doctrine. We do not need to know the time schedule. We know what we have in our own age.
2. All prophecy in the Old Testament and in the New Testament deal with the Age of Israel.
3. Such prophecy includes confirmation of the rapture, also called the imminency of the rapture; and the progress of the Tribulation; and the 2nd advent. It includes the Millennium reign of Jesus Christ.

No more Communion in the Tribulation or the Millennium.

Daniel 9:27: And he will make a strong covenant with many for one week, and for half of the week he will put an end to sacrifice and offering. And on the wing of abominations will come one who makes desolate, until the decreed end is poured out on the desolator."

1Cor. 11:26–27 May 4, 2008

Sunday 1

The change in dispensation will coincide with a change in ritual. We continue this ritual until the end of this dispensation. We know when the Church Age began, the Day of Pentecost; but we do not know the termination date. No one knows the day or the hour. Setting dates for the rapture is an exercise in futility. This has been a problem for hundreds of Biblical codebreakers and so-called experts in eschatology. Nothing of the Church Age is revealed through Biblical prophecy; and there are no Daniels in the Church Age.

All prophecy in the Old and New Testaments deal with the Age of Israel. Much of the New Testament eschatology deal with the eternal state. We are a special group of people with a special spiritual life which was not available to others before us.

There are two advents of Christ; the 1st advent is historical and the 2nd will be at a time yet future. The rapture is not labeled as an advent. An advent requires Jesus Christ to set His feet upon the earth. In the rapture, we will be received into heaven.

The last 7 years of the Age of Israel will pick up at the end of the Church Age. When the rapture occurs, there will be a change in ritual. Something else will replace Communion during the 1000 year reign in the Millennium. The sacrifices of Israel will resume in the Temple in the Church Age in Jerusalem. This is the subject of the covenant of the prince who is to come, the anti-Christ. Our Lord ended all of the Levitical rituals at the cross. When He returns, the prince of peace will utterly destroy militarily of armies which threaten Jerusalem; which threaten God's people, Israel. Peace through strength and peace through war.

Old Testament rituals will resume in the Tribulation and continue in the Millennium as a memorial to what He has done. The return of Jesus Christ and the fulfillment of His unconditional promises to Israel. In the Tribulation and the Millennium the Church Age ritual will be superceded and the old rituals will be resumed. They will worship in the Temple and they will worship the One :Who is present and on the throne. Israel will look back and they will look at the present.

Καταγγελλω = to proclaim, an active proclamation of that which it commemorates. We often make a proclamation by speaking or writing. We participate in that memorial and we proclaim His death by eating and drinking Communion. Therefore, unbelievers hear and see the proclamation of faith alone in Christ alone.

1Cor. 11:26: For as often as you eat this bread and drink the cup, you proclaim the Lord's death until he comes.

We have a warning in v. 27: reading the Bible is fine; but do not think that you will grow to spiritual maturity where you read the Bible and grow to spiritual maturity by trying to figure it all down. You will not be able to understand what is there.

The Greek conjunction ὅσπη which brings us to a conclusion. What follows is the main verb, which is found in the 2nd half of the verse. Future active indicative of εἶμι which means he will be. The antecedent of he goes back to the beginning of the verse, where we have whoever. We are included in this verse. This refers to all Christians who participate in the Communion Table.

Αναξισιος = unworthily, carelessly. This is an adverb and it is found only here. A hopoxlegomena. It is implied in a later verse. This is not how we feel about our lack of virtue before the Lord. We may degrade ourselves continually for this or that. We do not merit participation in the Communion Table. We are all unworthy of taking Communion.

We are unworthy because of our status, whether we are in or out of fellowship. The cross makes us worthy; we are worthy by virtue of being in Christ. God provides us a way to gain His approval. At the cross of Christ, we are put into the top circle, which is an eternal relationship with God. We cannot be removed from the top circle; that is one of the 39 irrevocable absolutes. That is the key to our spiritual life. Unfortunately, the Spirit comes and goes, based upon our volition; not based upon Him. He leaves when we sin; and returns when we name our sins. When out of fellowship, we are not in a status where we can take Communion. Our status has everything to do with ἀναξισιός, which is a serious breach of protocol. This is not something to be taken lightly.

We are taking Communion in Berachah and remembering the cross and filled with the Holy Spirit. We are making application of remembering His death for our sins. This is a microcosm of our spiritual life. We must rebound to be filled with the Holy Spirit. When we sit in church and take Communion, we are mirroring our spiritual life. The Corinthians are making a mockery of this. God is not mocked. There are serious consequences to mocking God. This is more than just being some ritual; this is at the center of our spiritual life. Do not ever take it lightly; He doesn't. This unworthiness is a serious breach of protocol.

The Jews were just treating the Communion as a continuation of the Love Feast; or it was sort of a second love feast. The Corinthians are a great example of everything which goes wrong in the Christian life.

We know from the Communion service what shape our Christian life is in. This is why Bobby says that this is a test of our Christian life; this tells us about our entire Christian life. We can exit Berachah next Sunday after Communion and know what shape our spiritual life is in.

1Cor. 11:27: Whoever, therefore, eats the bread or drinks the cup of the Lord in an unworthy manner will be guilty of profaning the body and blood of the Lord.

Lesson #714

1Cor. 11:27 May 4, 2008

Sunday 2

Communion is a picture of us and our spiritual life. As we utilize the rebound technique; and that in essence is our spiritual life. God's grace has given us every resource to do this. Just as we do that, so we must remain filled with the Holy Spirit. We apply soteriological doctrines from our soul to our life. We must realize that what happens in Communion is who we are and where we are spiritually. If we cannot concentrate on Jesus Christ, that should be telling.

We are getting a bit of a warning here. An unworthy manner is simply our status of being out of fellowship.

Greek word for guilty is ἔνοχος = 1) bound, under obligation, subject to, liable; 1a) used of one who is held by, possessed with love, and zeal for anything; 1b) in a forensic sense, denoting the connection of a person either with his crime, or with the penalty or trial, or with that against whom or which he has offended; 1b1) guilty, worthy of punishment; 1b2) guilty of anything; 1b3) of the crime; 1b4) of the penalty; 1b5) liable to this or that tribunal, i.e. the punishment to be imposed by this or that tribunal; 1b6) of the place where punishment is to be suffered. The decisions rendered by the Trinity are inviolable. God is omnipotent; and His judgements are perfect. All 3 members of the Trinity can call it. God, when He renders of judgment, can also take care of His verdict. His decisions are always carried out to the letter. His decisions never change. They are never reversed. There is no appeal to the Supreme Court of Heaven. His judgments are always fair and correct. The veracity of God and the omniscience make His decisions right and fair. When the Supreme Court of Heaven gets involved, the result is always just.

Supreme Court of Heaven

1. Cases involving evil in the world come before the Supreme Court of Heaven. All evil in the world comes before them.
2. All cases involving sin go to the Supreme Court of Heaven.
3. The Supreme Court of Heaven makes judgements on the rise and fall of nations. The court is hardest on the Client nation. When we depart from divine establishment, from the mission of a client nation, when the pivot becomes too small; the Supreme Court of Heaven will apply judgment. Dan. 9:24–27 gives us a good view of national discipline. No matter what shape our nation is in, if we advance toward maturity, our nation will be preserved and blessed. It is not a Christian nation status, it is a client nation, regardless of what the majority is.
4. Anti-Semitism is judged; personal or national. If you want the short way to discipline, just become anti-Semitic. “Those Jews are the root of all kinds of problems; I hate them.” God protects the Jews no matter how apostate they are. Do not use the excuse that we do not know who the Jews are anymore, as they are so intermixed. Gen. 12:3 protects the Jews. If God disciplines the Jews, step aside.
5. Supreme Court of Heaven adjudicates conflicts between believers. When you utilize the resources which God has given us, we make out find.
6. The Supreme Court of Heaven handles accusations against believers. Satan went to the Supreme Court of Heaven and said, “Job worships You only because You bless him. Take it away.” So God took it away, and Job still worshiped God.
7. God is fair to those children who are corrupted and abused; to whom such damage is inflicted and God handles those evil people who abuse them. God handles that situation.
8. The most pertinent to us is divine discipline of believers. The Supreme Court of Heaven always handles the divine discipline of believers. We will not get an announcement of the decision; but we will see and feel those results. God does not just let us do whatever; He involves Himself in our lives. Don’t ever feel left out. Before the Supreme Court of Heaven, he will be guilty of the body and the blood of the Lord.

Any believers who approaches the Lord's Table out of fellowship, ignores and minimizes the significance of our Lord's work. We have commemorated the Lord's death with dishonor and insult and injury. We are marginalizing our Lord and His work. There is no peace or happiness in a believer who lives in self-centered arrogance. You need capacity for life in Bible doctrine. No capacity to concentrate on Jesus Christ, then you have no capacity for life. The purpose of action of the Supreme Court of Heaven is to punish and to train and to motivate the believer toward Bible doctrine. The discipline will hurt; but we learn from it. Discipline is to teach.

In our culture, discipline has become a bad word. When it hurts, that is when we learn the best. He looks to train and to motivate. Without correction on our part, the result can be the final phase of divine discipline, which is the sin unto death.

No filling of the Holy Spirit for Communion is the first reason for problems in Communion. The Holy Spirit brings to recall the pertinent doctrines to the forefront. There is so much involved in the person and work of Jesus Christ. Bobby is stunned that every month, there is a different approach or a different angle to the Communion service. With doctrine in our souls, we can see it in so many different way. The Holy Spirit will bring it to our minds in so many ways. When you see the Holy Spirit work like that. When you are grieving and quenching the Holy Spirit, you cannot worship God in communion or be occupied with Christ.

If you are not filled with the Holy Spirit, your mind just goes blank or your mind wanders. This means that the doctrine in our soul is not being applied to the memorial moments. Communion to such a person is just some human ritual; it is nothing more than a mindless religious activity. It is, "If I do this, the Lord will smile on me." In these circumstances, they see the ritual as that which matters. The filling of the Holy Spirit and our meditation and concentration on the Word of God is what makes the Communion service meaningful.

Communion commemorates the grace of God. The grace principle of rebound correlates with the grace principle of salvation. You begin to understand that everything in God's plan is grace. So for many, the Communion service is just a pointless exercise. For some, at best, it will tell you that you have a long way to go. At worst, it can be destructive. It is not the participation but the concentration which is the key.

The carnal believer partaking of the cup and the bread is guilty of blasphemy.

The Carnal Believer in Communion is Blasphemous.

1. The carnal believer's mind is on something else.
2. The carnal believer cannot apply doctrine and cannot understand what is going on. This is blasphemy. What you say is just a reflection of what you think.
3. The fellowship and memory functions are neutralized by your carnality.
4. In effect, you have contempt for the Lord Jesus Christ and His work by failing to acknowledge and to appreciate all that He has done.

5. You do not want to be as Heb. 6:6 says, the believer in reversionism who puts the Son of God to open shame. You are making a proclamation to the world and to the angels. When we do not glorify Jesus Christ in the conflict, we put God to an open shame.

1Cor. 11:27: Whoever, therefore, eats the bread or drinks the cup of the Lord in an unworthy manner will be guilty of profaning the body and blood of the Lord.

What should we do? We must examine ourselves. That is v. 28.

Lesson #715

1Cor. 11:27–28 May 7, 2008

Wednesday

Letter from a soldier in Iraq.

Partaking of Communion in an unworthy manner means to take the elements while under the control of the sin nature. A believer with no spiritual manners, which means no prior training in doctrine.

In some situations, you must be aware of protocol, and if you are unlearned, you, at best, make a fool of yourself. A serious breach of divine protocol for those at Corinth for the Lord's Table. Prior training in doctrine. Training is necessary. You could not sit at dinner with royalty if you do not know the protocol; and you need to protocol in order to execute God's plan.

If you take communion in an unworthy manner, you are liable, you are guilty. Approaching the Lord's Table in carnality makes you liable. The first thing on your mind should be, "I need to be in fellowship." A carnal believer is ignoring or minimizing the significance of our Lord's work. You do not want to degrade them memory of our Lord's memory by your failure to rebound; by failing to properly prepare yourself for the Lord's Table. The greatest gift that man has receive is the grace of God; the last thing you want to disrespect is the grace of God.

A debasement, a dishonoring, a disrespect is involved when you reject fellowship when taking Communion. The supreme court of heaven is a moment by moment dealing with all that is going on.

Divine discipline is always done for our good. Parents know a little pain is better than a lifetime of pain. In some cases, there is no other recourse for children who get out of line. When God disciplines us, it is always for our own good. God knows just how to do it; He knows just what kind of pressure to put upon us. Recovery is the objective of discipline. Obviously, not just because you are angry at them. Do not discipline your children in anger. You need to give them discipline for the correct purpose.

Review: Situation for Carnal unworthy unbeliever

1. His mind wanders and gets easily distracted.
2. Such a believer cannot commune with the Lord or apply doctrine to worship. How can you memorialize the Lord if you have nothing to remember Him with. You must know Him and understand what He has done for you. It is a great exercise to bring up memories of Jesus Christ.
3. The fellowship and fragrance of memory is neutralized when you are out of fellowship.
4. The unworthy believer has no appreciation for His work; it is contempt.
5. Heb. 6:6 describes such a person; he puts the Son of God to an open shame.
6. Heb. 11:28 gives the solution.

1Cor. 11:27: Whoever, therefore, eats the bread or drinks the cup of the Lord in an unworthy manner will be guilty of profaning the body and blood of the Lord.

Self-examination is not something which you do once a month for communion. This is what you do preparing to execute the spiritual life. That is how critical self-examination is. Self-examination means we need to tell ourselves who and what we are. Our tendency is to ignore our carnality our weaknesses and our flaws. We seem to think that there cannot be anything wrong with our lives.

One approach is, I am a victim, so I don't have to examine myself. The Lord sitting on the supreme court of heaven is not judgmental. He never judges us to our detriment. He forgives and we examine. The supreme court of heaven always takes into account our examination. We have nothing to fear in self-examination. We cannot hide anything from God in our thoughts. You cannot fool God; you can fool yourself. Forgetting those things which are behind... God always forgives us when we rebound. So often we think of rebound as a way to sin. Rebound is for the purpose of living the spiritual life; it is not to allow you to go back to the same old rut. The more you grow in grace, the more you can stay out of the trap of recidivism. Rebound is for spiritual growth. Rebound is your license to serve the Lord; not a license to sin. It still works regardless of how you do it. Rebound is about spiritual growth.

Misuse of rebound is using it for recidivism. That is merely being locked behind the bars of your own carnality. God will get our attention one way or the other; if it has to be the hard way, then He will go that route. We must learn from our lumps. Examining oneself is the means of fellowship with the Lord. It is the means of using divine resources to concentrate on Him.

Self-examination means that we are examining our own spiritual lives as well. The obvious question is, if this self-examination is so important, what does it mean?

Δοκιμαζω = to test for the purpose of approval. This is a test of ourselves, but it is for His approval. We only need His approve in order to proceed. There is not need to confess to one person or to any group of people. It is heinous to stand someone up before a group and have them spew out their sins. Only a fool will tell everyone the worst. Self-examination.

We are all priests; we are royalty. A priest makes intercession before God. As a priest, we make our own intercession before God. That is the privacy of our priesthood. It is just between you and the Lord. The imperative is a command; you must examine. The individual believer is required to do this as a royal priest. Progressive present tense, which is a state of persistence. You must keep on examining yourself. It is not a one-shot deal. We keep on examine. It is a recurring compulsory activity. The believer must always test his own life for approval by God. The nature of the test is to determine if we are carnal or spiritual. Carnal means that we have committed one or more sins. The Holy Spirit does not reside in a soul controlled by the sin nature. The sin nature is no longer in control when we name our sins to God.

Several steps are necessary in order to self-examine. If you find unconfessed sins in the life, then you must rebound. That is the two step procedure. Identify and acknowledge. Scour your brain for what you have done; you identify and then you acknowledge.

Bobby recalls being summoned to his father's office for something which he did wrong. He violated a mandate of his dad or mom. He would say, "Do you know why you are here?" And he would say, "Tell me why you are here." Identification. Then Bob would tell him to acknowledge what he did. He had to admit what was wrong. Our lives are much better for it. If we acknowledge our sins, He is faithful and just to forgive us our sins and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness. God forgives all the sins we commit, even if we forget one or two of them. It works every time that we acknowledge. God forgives us from all unrighteousness. Every time we acknowledge.

Rebound is for the purpose of our spiritual growth; it is not just a stop-gap but the gateway to everything in our life. We need to know exactly where we stand every second of our lives. When you begin to develop capacity for life, self-examination becomes much less painful.

If you cannot identify a sin, you know what sins you have committed in general and often you have done that; or you are in fellowship.

1Cor. 11:28: But let a man examine himself, and so let him eat of the bread and drink of the cup.

Lesson #716

1Cor. 11:28 May 8, 2008

Thursday

v. 28 reads But let a man examine himself, and so let him eat of the bread and drink of the cup. This is the alternative to v. 27, which reads: Whoever, therefore, eats the bread or drinks the cup of the Lord in an unworthy manner will be guilty of profaning the body and blood of the Lord. You must examine yourself to determine if you are filled with the Holy Spirit or not; whether you are in or out of fellowship. For us, it is the Texas Two-Step process; identify and acknowledge these sins. Afterwards, we keep moving.

Review of Last Night

There is no spiritual life without self-examination

1. Identification is determining whether or not you have unconfessed sin in your life.
2. What does it mean? You have to review your thoughts and activities. Sin is anything outside the plan of God.
3. Sometimes that identification makes you immediately aware of a sin which you have just committed, which moves you promptly to the second step.
4. Whether this identification is quick or protracted, it must be done in complete honesty with yourself.
5. There is not room in this identification for denial, offensiveness, or anything else. This is the moment for us to assess our condition before the Lord.
6. V. 31 says, We must examine and judge ourselves rightly (objectively). It is easy to rationalize for yourself. Doing anything less is to our detriment.
7. Not only is self-examination a way to identify your current sins or status, but it is also a broader and more general examination of your weakness. These are areas where it is easy to fall prey to; there is a pattern to our sin life.
8. Those areas require the special attention of applied doctrine.
9. As you mature spiritually, it is an amazing thing to watch. You will see what doctrine does in your life. What does doctrine do in your life.
  - a. It gradually brings your areas of weakness under control. You can always rebound, but doctrine helps to bring these areas under control.
  - b. Doctrine scrapes away scar tissue from your soul.
  - c. You are increasingly released from the power of the sin nature; never completely, but things improve.
  - d. That only happens as you stay in fellowship for increasing periods of time. As you maintain the filling of the Holy Spirit for longer periods of time, and the more you take in doctrine, the more you are able to metabolize. It is a cycle. One affects the other. Maturity does not happen overnight. You need to continue with inculcation of doctrine your entire life. When you ignore or reject the inculcation of doctrine, this all breaks down.
  - e. Increasing filled with the Holy Spirit and with an accelerating spiritual advance, you will gain a greater ability to apply doctrine. This means application toward ourselves and circumstances.

Acknowledge

1. Acknowledgment is simply recognizing you have sinned.
2. Then you name this sin to God. So many people just want to do more.
3. Once you name those sins, the same thing happens every time; you are forgiven of those sins. There are a lot of things that believers have done over the centuries in order to be forgiven of sins; but it is easy.
4. Notice that 1John 1:9 does not say: to feel guilt or remorse about what you have done (you may feel bad about something that you have done; you are not any more forgiven; people want to do something more to feel that they have been forgiven; you cannot add to God's grace); repentance is not necessary; vow not to do that sin again (which is unnecessary and pointless; you may progressively do it less); being a believer does not mean that you have lost your sin nature. The temptations of the sin nature will dog us for the rest of our lives. The Apostle Paul, one of the greatest believers of all time, was dogged by the sin nature.

5. When you acknowledge the sins that you previously identified, then the ones that you did not remember or omitted for whatever reason, are forgiven.
6. This is the grace procedure.

By remaining in the Spirit and consistently taking in doctrine, the sin nature is increasingly brought under control. There will be a time for you as you mature when your areas of weakness aren't as strong as they used to be. They become weaker. That which you easily succumb to is less and less of a temptation.

The Happiness of God.

1. There will be a time in your life as a maturing believer that life increasingly apart from your area of weakness is a great experience. In this cycle, as you are filled and as you metabolize doctrine, and as you grow, you recognize that you can have the greatest life you have ever experience inside the two circles.
2. You share the happiness of God. The peace which passes all understanding. What we suffer on earth cannot be compared to eternity.
3. Our life is not affected by excessive emotions, subjectivity (always looking at yourself; always thinking about yourself and who is looking at you or thinking about you), human viewpoint (the opposite of divine viewpoint, the opposite of Bible doctrine).
4. We will have a life of great stability. Everyone in the country is wringing their hands about the next president. We are citizens of the United States and we have a responsibility to vote; but do not think that your vote will solve the problems of this country. Our spiritual growth is the key to this country's prosperity. When you are steeped in Bible doctrine, you recognize that Jesus Christ controls history and you can enjoy our political scene.
5. You will have a light where eternity shines even more brightly. We also have an insight that others do not have. You recognize that the 70 years we live in this life is nothing compared to eternity.
6. You have a life which glorifies God to the maximum. There are wonderful opportunities to serve God in many areas. We will still enjoy life; but we will be accomplishing a great purpose.
7. You will live a life inside the plan of God for us. That is the greatest experience which we can have in life.

Under these conditions, we are prepared to concentrate on the Person of Jesus Christ at the Communion Table. The Holy Spirit brings to mind the doctrines which we have learned and we can appreciate them. We apply them in ways that are necessary for us to have the memorial in our souls. That is the critical nature of self-examination.

The next step is given with and so. Ουτως, which is an adverb of manner; it is emphatic. So then and not until then. Self-examination; then and only then do you participate in the eating of the bread and drinking of the cup.

Εσθιω & πινω, which are both imperatives of permission. Imperative of command can also have permissive concepts. Eating and drinking has been approved and the ritual has meaning. How many times has someone taken Communion without having any idea of what is going on. What a waste of time.

1Cor. 11:28: But let a man examine himself, and then and only then does he have permission to eat of the bread and drink of the cup.

What happens when someone does not engage in self-examination. V. 29 gives the alternative.

The Corinthians got drunk at the love feast, and then they broke into factions. We approach the Communion Table with the wrong kind of thinking. There is a gravity to this. If you do not self-examine, if you have no doctrine to concentrate on, if your mind drifts, if you are thinking about every other thing, then you have no memorial to Him in your soul. If a believer is out of fellowship, the result is severe judgment.

The NASB is weak here. The Lord does not leave a believer alone who is outside of the plan of God. You can expect to be spanked, in ways designed to bring you back into the plan of God. This verse is different from the NASB. The conclusion of the thought is, eats and drinks judgment to himself. Bobby moved the conclusion to the end of the verse, which is our natural order.

Present active participle of διακρινω = to judge, to discern [in the sense of making a distinction or to see a difference]. in this context, δισκρινω is a conditional participle. We need to understand this, in order to grasp what Bobby is doing in the translation. This becomes the protasis of a conditional sentence. There will therefore need to be a conclusion. If...then... Apodosis is then he eats and drinks judgment to himself.

Body of the Lord is in some translations, but not in others.

1Cor. 11:29: For he who eats and drinks not discerning the body of the Lord, then he eats and drinks judgment to himself.

Lesson #1      2Tim. 1:5   Mother's Day Special   May 11, 2008      Sunday 1

2Tim. 1:5: I am reminded of your sincere faith, a faith that dwelt first in your grandmother Lois and your mother Eunice and now, I am sure, dwells in you as well.

Faith refers to the ones mentioned here are believers in Jesus Christ. Faith is a means of perception as well. Perception by faith determines reality. Christian perception is based upon the reality of the Word of God. Faith + GAP leads to growth and maturity in the Christian life. Two women and a man with sincere faith. There is a window here that we can look into the soul of a mature Christian mother and the homelife which she maintains.

Timothy had some recent problems, but Paul respect him. Timothy was a man of doctrine, even though he has failed from time to time. Timothy's advantage was a Christian home. It was a home where the mind of Christ was taught. Their home was centered in Bible doctrine. They made certain that doctrine was implanted in the soul of Timothy.

Lois gave the gospel and train Eunice doctrine in their home. We find in Acts that Eunice departed from doctrine for a time. Paul came to Lystra and Timothy was there.

Acts 16:1–2: Paul came also to Derbe and to Lystra. A disciple was there, named Timothy, the son of a Jewish woman who was a believer, but his father was a Greek. He was well spoken of by the brothers at Lystra and Iconium.

Eunice apparently married an unbeliever. That this man was a Greek was not the problem; but the way this reads, it suggests that he is an unbeliever. Too many parents think that if they give their children material advantages, that they have given them all that they need. However, material advantages apart from spiritual advantages is a disadvantage. Train up a child in the way he should go, and when he is old, he will not depart from it. Eunice already made a mistake in falling from the truth for awhile and marrying an unbeliever. She also allows Timothy's volition run its course, after teaching doctrine to Timothy. Bobby recalls his mother teaching doctrinal principles to him. She was a consistent teacher of God's Word, but she did not nag or threaten. A child learns through examples, and his mother understood the power of doctrine implanted in a child, and she never let up. This is a wonderful pattern of grace, and we have 3 generations carrying human history: Lois, Eunice and Timothy. Many of us have had parents who taught Bible doctrine, directing their children; making doctrine available in every way possible. But, realizing, there are disappointments and bad choices and mistakes. Adults do not forget the training and testimony of believing parents. It does not matter the mistakes a person makes, the negative volition, the pursuit of pleasure; he will always recall what he was taught from a young age.

Bobby received all that he needed to survive and thrive in this world. His mother never let up and Bobby thanks God for her uncompromising teaching of Bible doctrine.

Lesson #717

1Cor. 11:27–29 May 11, 2008

Sunday 2

Bobby meant the message to be a tribute to his own mother.

Looking now at the warning which believers face when partaking of the Communion Table.

We must always remember Who He is. Partaking in an unworthy manner. This shows maximum disrespect to the grace of God when we partake in an unworthy manner. We memorialize Him and we proclaim Him to the world.

1Cor. 11:27: Whoever, therefore, eats the bread or drinks the cup of the Lord in an unworthy manner will be guilty of profaning the body and blood of the Lord.

It is up to us whether we apply this self-examination, this two-step technique. God brings to mind things which are necessary for us to know. We need to be thinking, did I fulfill that objective?

After rebounding, he is ready to partake of the ritual meal.

1Cor. 11:28: But let a man examine himself, and then and only then does he have permission to eat of the bread and drink of the cup.

The result of the failure to self examine; if you are out of fellowship, and unworthy in manner and unable to memorialize our Lord Jesus Christ, the result is severe judgment. This should not be taken lightly. We will get to that in v. 30.

The change made in v. 29 is noted below.

Bobby likes the notes in the Thompson Study Bible, as many of them were his professors in seminary.

We begin with the verb διακρίνω = to judge, to evaluate, to discern, to make a distinction, to see a difference. Bobby also flip-flopped two clauses. Σομα has the added preposition of the Lord, which is a problematic phrase. κύριος does not occur in some Greek texts, but not in others. So it is found in some translations, but not in others. Bobby is going to give us a little Bibliology. How did the original text get passed down to us to what we have in our hands? It began with hand-written copies being made from the original text.

Paul sat in Ephesus writing a letter to the Corinthians and he somehow got it to the Corinthian church. The Corinthians received this letter which he had written with his own hand. The Greek is the divinely inspired text. Paul wrote a text and he would send it to a church. John wrote epistles; several wrote the gospels. As soon as they received them, they began to copy them. They could not just take this one letter and pass it around. They copied it for general distribution. These copies were distributed throughout all of the churches. The churches exchanged these letters in order to get the full picture. These epistles did not just remain local. The original writings were called the autographs. These were writings which came directly from the pens of divinely inspired writers. These originals were readily identifiable to the recipients. The Corinthians knew Paul and they knew his writing and the writing of his amanuenses, and there was a chain of control. In all of copying, the originals were either lost or they just fell apart. We have 1000's of copies of these manuscripts. The autographs have long since disappeared. How do we know we have the Word of God before us. Many people argue that, no way can this information being handed down accurately.

There is something else to add to this complexity. The scribes who did this copying were not divinely inspired. They made mistakes, as men are wont to do. They were human. There are a variety of circumstances which could affect them. A scribe could leave out a letter or a word or a phrase. Some of these scribes added words and phrases which were not there originally, and some added phrases to complete an ellipsis. Additions were made to explain the text. There were 1000's of manuscripts which have been found and are preserved today.

These errors are called variants. What is there varies. There are approximately 5000. Most manuscripts agreed in most areas. The Holy Spirit had a great part in preserving Scripture for us. There were human errors. The variants are where the manuscripts vary. Scholars compare variants among all the manuscripts and they compare these groups of variants in the various manuscripts. How do we know something is there or not there. Scholars look at the older manuscripts first, and assigned greater weight to them. We have manuscripts from the 1st and 2nd centuries A.D. What is amazing, is there is quality and conformity of manuscripts from Medieval times. The weight of one reading over another was, in many cases, obvious. You look at the age of the manuscripts, the number of manuscripts which read one way or another, etc.

Bobby was a classics major in UT. Those manuscripts are accepted by the scholarly world, and often there are only a handful of manuscripts. Often 1 or 2 manuscripts, which are taken as accurate.

Bobby begins work in the Greek Bible, because that is the inspired Word of God. Since everyone speaks English, then translation becomes an important factor. Our Bible is a product of all that copying over the centuries. Men and women sat up late into the night copying this or that manuscript, late into the night, which gives us what we have today.

What we have in our hands is quite accurate. Bobby's job is to transfer the Greek text into intelligible English text for us. Bobby's point is, of the Lord belongs in this verse due to the manuscript evidence. There are books which cover all of the variants and tell us which look to be the best.

There are A readings, which are almost foolproof. There are B and C readings as well. B readings have a few more variants and they are not as old. The C readings, which is what we are dealing with. Some older manuscripts have this reading and some do not. Here is when an exegete must look and decide whether this C reading is good or not. If there is a balance of evidence, how do we decide?

There are many good manuscripts which do have of the Lord in the A and B lists; and there are many without this phrase. Bobby kept this meaning because the meaning was much clearer. Of all these 5000 variants, not one of them changes the basic theology of Christianity; not one of them changes the most fundamental doctrines of the Christian faith.

Bobby keeps the phrase of the body in this verse.

1Cor. 11:29: For he who eats and drinks not discerning the body of the Lord, then he eats and drinks judgment to himself.

Lesson #718      Textual Criticism      1Cor. 11:29      May 14, 2008      Wednesday

Textual criticism does not mean that the Bible is being attacked. This is the name given to the search of the original Greek text of the Bible. Paul sends the letter to Corinth; and they realized the importance of this, so they made copies in order to distribute to other churches. From that one manuscript, 20 centuries later, we have what we have right now.

None of the original documents exist, but even if they did, we would not know what was original. All of these copies have intervened. Since there is no original text, there are about 5000 handwritten copies of portions of the New Testament. They were written and copied over a period of 14 centuries. No two of these manuscripts agree in every particular. That may seem insurmountable, when it comes to putting together the original text. As a skeptic, how do we know what the original text is? Without it, we do not have the Word of God. This seeming problem is actually the solution. The 5000 copies is to our advantage. This is where textual criticism comes into play. Scholars, over the centuries, have devised certain generally accepted methods to determine the correct text. There are generally accepted criteria for evaluating manuscripts. These are based upon probabilities. The textual critic must weigh one set of probabilities against another. He will have to decide whether A, B or C is more accurate.

The most probable reading is our end. In most cases, the solution is quite obvious. It is not a conundrum. What then are the criteria which have been developed? What are the criteria? There is external evidence of probabilities. The various manuscripts themselves.

What is the Evidence

1. External evidence:
  - a. The earlier manuscripts—those closest to the autographs—are more likely to be free from error. Fewer copies of copies have been made.
  - b. The evidence of geographical distribution. This means, the agreement of a number of manuscripts from widely scattered areas. Let's say you are dealing with 9 manuscripts. One group comes from Antioch, another from Alexandria and another from Gaul. When these manuscripts agree, then you have something. If they agree, it is more significant than agreement from just one area. In the same geographical location, scribes are more likely to perpetuate the same errors, as they are working off the same family of manuscripts.
  - c. Those which are found to be most trustworthy in clear-cut cases, deserve more weight when determining disputed cases. Let's say A is known to be accurate in several areas; B might be about the same age, but there are some problems even with clearcut cases. All of these 3 things are going to tell you what is the most reliable set of readings. Scholars have worked for centuries on these criteria.

2. Internal evidence:
  - a. The more difficult reading is preferred; that is the more like to good reading. It would make more sense for a scribe to change a difficult reading to an easier one to understand.
  - b. The shorter reading is the more preferable.
  - c. What is more likely for the scribe to have written.

1. The true text is fairly easy to discern and most of the time, the correct reading is obvious.
2. There are a few times when that is not true. There are A, B and C readings.
3. This authenticates and verifies our Greek Bible as accurate.
4. The current Greek text of the Bible is so close to the original autographs as to reflect divine inspiration.

The way the Bible has been preserved and examined makes it unique. The Bible that we hold is truly a very accurate Bible. This takes us to 1Cor. 11:29, and this is one of those variants; it is a C reading. For he who eats and drinks, eats and drinks judgment to himself if he does not judge the body rightly. That is the NASB. We have an if...then... clause. Eats and drinks judgment is the then clause.

The problem of the variant is one Greek word: σῶμα and in some σῶμα κυρίου in others. Body of the Lord is present in some very good manuscripts; but the same is true of that lacking Κύριος. The context suggests this. According to scholars, there is no good reason for excluding this prepositional phrase to be omitted.

In this verse, what does this body of the Lord mean? On Sunday, we should have discerned something on Sunday: the body of the Lord. We do not visualize or conjure up His actual body. The physical body is really unimportant, especially compared to the communion ritual. He became flesh and lived among us for the purpose of our salvation. It is the salvation and the doctrine which must be discerned. We recognize that He bore our sins in His body on the cross.

If you are at a memorial service for a loved one who has died... what are you thinking? What is your thought pattern? Are you thinking of the body lying in the casket? You remember the whole person, the events of their life which involved us; their smile and personality. You know that they have victory over death. No caskets at Berachah services. You focus on his person and his work. You focus on the whole person. Only when we focus on the complete significance of Christ and His work do we fully appreciate what He did on our behalf. It is His body which was broken for us; it is His salvation work which is significant.

Concluding Points

1. The bread and the cup set forth the body of Christ.
2. Anyone who enters into the ritual, failing to recognize the significance of his body, Communion is a memorial to His bodily sacrifice for our souls. Without discerning the body of the Lord, one just eats and drinks judgment to himself.
3. This body is a remembrance of the One who died spiritually for our sins. The fact that He was raised and has a resurrection body means that we will be raised and given a resurrection body as well.
4. Only with the discernment through doctrine can we fulfill this ritual, by discerning the body of the Lord. No discernment means no concentration.
5. Included in this is the status of the filling of the Holy Spirit. That must be part of the Communion service.

More Concluding Points

1. The necessity of rebound for spiritual discernment. You cannot discern without the filling of the Holy Spirit.
2. The actual discerning of the necessary doctrines for concentrating on the Lord and His work, through the filling of the Holy Spirit and through concentration. Bobby wants us to write our own Communion service in a blue book test.
3. This verse brings out the negative aspect. What if you cannot fill our your blue book? Then he eats and drinks judgment to himself.

$\kappa\rho\iota\nu\alpha$  = judgment. The bitter bread and cup if the believer eats and drinks without discernmt. If you participate without any discernment, then you are disciplined. Who the Lord loves, he scourge. We will never know eternal punishment. There is no definite article in front of  $\kappa\rho\iota\nu\alpha$

V. 30 names our discipline. Bobby wants to make sure that we get this verse in one gulp.

1Cor. 11:29: For he who eats and drinks not discerning the body of the Lord, then he eats and drinks judgment to himself.

1Cor. 11:29–30 May 15, 2008

Thursday

In 1Cor. 11:17–29, the Communion ritual has become completely corrupted by the Corinthian church. They have participated in a debauched love feast. They failed in their self-examination as well. They approach the Communion table in a state of carnality. Their souls are controlled by the sin nature instead of by the Holy Spirit. So they cannot concentrate or mediate on the person of Jesus Christ and His work. When they are unable to concentrate and meditate, they cannot fulfill the communion ritual. The Corinthians cannot produce a memorial to the Lord Jesus Christ through doctrine circulating in the soul. Because of that situation and because of all that we have seen in the Corinthian church, they have received a warning, and this warning was designed to remedy the problems in the Corinthian church.

Tonite, we should be somewhat proficient in textual criticism. The warning is failing to discern the body of the Lord.

Summary of Failure to Discern the Body of the Lord

1. This is a failure to discern the whole person of Jesus Christ; undiminished deity and full humanity.
2. He fails to concentrate on the One of whom was made flesh and lived among us. Jesus Christ came to this earth and was made flesh.
3. Such a person who fails to discern fails to appreciate the Savior, Who bore our sins in His Own body on the cross. 1Peter 2:24
4. So anyone who enters into the Communion ritual failing to discern the significance of His body (the 1st 3 points), is not recognizing the substitutionary nature of His death. This was the body broken for us on the cross.
5. Failure to discern is a monstrous dishonor to Jesus Christ. This is a slap in the face of Jesus Christ. This is showing dishonor and disrespect to Him. That is what the failure is.
6. The result of this failure is κρινα.

This should wake us up to realize that the result is going to be judgment. We eat and drink judgment to ourselves. This simply means divine discipline of the believer in time. It is not eternal judgment. No believer is eternally judged. The judgment of Heb. 12:6: Whom the Lord loves, He judges and scourges alive with a whip. Therefore, we may be interested in what this judgement might be.

1Cor. 11:29: For he who eats and drinks not discerning the body of the Lord, then he eats and drinks judgment to himself.

V. 30 gives the result: For this reason many are weak and sick among you, and many have been put to death. Weakness, sickness or even death. This is the outcome of failing to concentrate on what the Lord has done on the cross. Without self-examination and discernment, the supreme court of heaven takes over the judgment. If we do not judge ourselves, the supreme court of heaven does this instead. Because the Corinthians did not judge themselves, God took over and judged them. One of the major ways to receive pain and suffering is self-induced. You can cause tremendous suffering and anguish for yourself. Both in your own soul or by the results of the decisions which we make. God allows these things to play out. This is the law of volitional responsibility.

The Law of Volitional Responsibility

1. This recognizes that a believer's decisions have natural and logical consequences for his life. When you have come across various difficulties in your life, often it is you.
2. Bad decisions often cause much of your own misery.

3. The Law of Volitional Responsibility is summarized by Whatever a man sows, that he will also reap. Do whatever the Corinthians are doing. They have sown and now they are reaping.
4. We make bad decisions from a position of weakness. What does that mean?

Bad Decisions made from a Position of Weakness

1. When you are in a position of weakness, you are out of fellowship and you can only think with human viewpoint.
2. You neglect or reject Bible doctrine. That is always weakness.
3. No divine viewpoint in your soul.
4. These bad decisions lead to more bad decisions. One bad decision leads to another which leads to another. In no time, you are over your head.
5. All these decisions have repercussions; all of them. When you make a horrible decision, you can often trace that out to many results which are negative. You will make some bad decisions in your life; and with doctrine, you know you have made a bad decision. That is the kicker. No capacity for love and no capacity for happiness. Our happiness is fleeting. You will give no overt manifestation of being born again. This is called reversionism. That is the repercussion for your spiritual life. On a national scale, there is a shrinking pivot; social degeneration. It is almost nauseating how far we have fallen. Anti-establishment thinking. When we lose the standards of Bible doctrine, we contribute to the shrinking pivot. As goes the mature believer, so goes the nation. As you make good or bad decisions, so goes the nation.
6. Bad decisions mean prosperity or adversity are turned to stress. You maintain the happiness of God in adversity. Prosperity can be just as big a problem. Bad decisions can turn your life into stress. Sometimes it is short-term stress when you get back on track quickly; and sometimes, you can have years of adversity because of perpetuated bad decisions. You can make a bad decision and rebound, but the effects go on. The effects of the bad decision carry on. Now, these effects do not have to ruin your life; but the result may continue.
7. We must take responsibility for those decisions and actions and the repercussions. The solution is applying recovery solutions. Problem solving devices are applied to the repercussions of these bad decisions. As you recover, you make fewer and fewer bad decisions. Do not see yourself as a victim if the results are difficult. Do not give in to your soul weakness like revenge motivation, hatred, gossip, etc.

You must examine your life. Are you maturing at all? Are you applying problem solving devices? What is the deal if you keep making bad decisions. You must be honest with yourself. We all have defense mechanisms. We do not want to hear bad things about ourselves. All you can do is rebound and keep moving. That means, you need to keep with Bible doctrine. Otherwise, there is no evaluation and there is no learning. Sometimes, all you do is make excuses for your actions, and that will, at best, result in more bad decisions. If you are going to have pain, you might as well have some gain. Look back on your own life.

If you cannot do that, you fall into the category of unresponsive to doctrine and unteachable. You are exactly in the opposite direction of where you should be going. You must self evaluate in order to learn from your mistakes. To not continue to repeat the same old failures and follies is objective. You need to be able to evaluate yourself and grasp your own weaknesses, and if you don't, you will feel pain for the rest of your life. Whom He loves, He disciplines. You cannot continue to repeat the same old traps and follies. You continue to build doctrinal standards. Then you must apply that doctrine to your decision making. One of the best ways to apply doctrine is to your decision making. Use your doctrinal standards in order to make decisions. When you make good decisions from a position of strength, you are executing the spiritual life. Every decision and it is easy to forget all of the resources which we have for our lives. At some point, in our life, we will make good decisions from a position of strength.

The criterion for this pain

1. Refusing to evaluate yourself.
2. Remain in carnality; revel in your weakness.
3. Refuse recovery making you unable to metabolize doctrine.
4. You continue to make bad decisions from a position of weakness.

At this point, the Supreme Court of Heaven will step in; if we don't evaluate our own lives, God will. The punishment we receive is designed for our recovery. The attribute of love is behind it. When you discipline your children, you do this for their benefit. Every time God disciplines us, He is fair.

Often when parents have to discipline their children, they have to think about what they need to do. God never has to do this; He knows exactly what to do.

The Corinthians are continuing their carnality, and it extends to the Communion table. The repercussions should be obvious to them. However, in case they have missed the message, Paul points it out to them. This is designed for their benefit.

This is unquestionably a warning to us. We are learning what we are supposed to do during Communion service.

Why does the Supreme Court of Heaven step in . We are told to move out of the pain of discipline. That is the purpose of any divine discipline. It is a text message. The pressures of these categories of discipline are designed for the believer as a wake-up call. Why is this here? Why am I going through this? We are forced to go from subjectivity to at least a momentary objectivity. Sometimes in pain, we may have just a flash of objectivity. The reversionist rejects objectivity. Human viewpoint is relative. It is subjective. The upside of pain is, it can bring clarity.

1Cor. 11:30: For this reason many are weak and sick among you, and many have been put to death.

In v. 29 we have a believer taking Communion, but they do not take note of the body of the Lord; they do not discern the body of the Lord. This is not a discernment of the physical body of the Lord, as no one really knows what He looked like (despite the proliferation of paintings and pictures of Him). There is not reason for us to know what He looks like.

The failure to discern His body is to comprehend the full person of Jesus Christ; the hypostatic union. Failure to discern the One Who was made flesh and lived among us. That is the doctrine of Kenosis. He put aside the independent use of his divine attributes. We are also to appreciate our Lord and Savior who bore our sins in His own body on the cross.

If someone fails to discern the body of the Lord, then he eats and drinks judgment to himself. This is a warning of the consequences of following the Corinthian pattern of functioning without considering the results of their actions.

Self-examination always begins with rebound. This also has a second phrase, which is to evaluate oneself in the light of Bible doctrine. Once you rebound, you need to evaluate yourself. To fail to self-examine is to fail in the spiritual life. You fail to discern the body of the Lord. This person cannot metabolize doctrine and will continue to live outside the plan of God. We are to reach maturity and to glorify God in our bodies.

Here is a 3 point incremental divine discipline which involves great pain and suffering. God evaluates the reversionist and he deplores their refusal to evaluate themselves. He considers the complications that come from no recovering from a position of weakness. He brings weakness, sickness and almost sleep, in order to wake these people up. God disciplines us in grace. We are His children. God is responsible to allow us grow up. He gives us the opportunity to have a fulfilling spiritual life, which is what any parent wants for his or her children. Where discipline is lacking, there is only chaos. We see the lack of discipline in our schools today. It is a long ways from education. Without enforced rules for conduct and order, kids will not progress in their education; must less in life. They are immature in their approach to life; many cannot read; and many have no consequences.

As a believer, God applies His Own pressure in order to cause us to look at our own lives. Objectivity reflects God's criteria for the spiritual life. Man's criteria is what we can do for God. Subjectivity focuses in on man and objectivity focuses on man. Without rebound and Bible doctrine circulating in the soul. Suffering forces you to look at yourself and to look at the problems in your spiritual life. The believer is momentarily faced by discipline to examine his own life. God does not leave you alone when you are outside of His plan; He gets on your case so that you recognize what is going on. We may have a spark of positive volition toward Bible doctrine and we may recall rebound. People say, "God is not good, because He allows this pain in my life." If you are a parent who thinks there is no love in discipline, you need to look at this passage everyday. A child needs discipline and this sometimes requires pain. Enforced standards.

The believer in carnality is completely subjective. Subjectivity is arrogance. Subjectivity means that your soul is awash with arrogance and subjectivity. You need absolute truth from Bible doctrine circulating in your soul.

Bobby heard a commentator or a pundit say, "There is no such thing as objectivity." To him, that is true; he lacks standards and he lacks divine viewpoint. No truth in that person's soul. Objectivity is applying divine viewpoint to all aspects of our life. When we utilize doctrine with every aspect of our life, we are developing great objectivity. Bobby lives in a good environment of mostly divine viewpoint. However, in the army, there was tons of human viewpoint. We live in a world of human viewpoint.

The greatest life is when we think like God thinks. If we fail to self-examine, our life will be a cascade of subjective misery. We are a spiritual derelict; rummaging around in the dumpster of human viewpoint. Some believers are totally threatened by human viewpoint. It hits too close to home. We might have to admit to some chinks and flaws. It may undermine the elaborate web of lies which you have created. We must not fear. Seeing and encountering the unvarnished you. We need to see and evaluate ourselves. This is between us and the Lord. Objectivity is between us and God; we are evaluating ourselves in the light of Bible doctrine. If we are judging anyone else, that is a sin. At best, that may turn you into a nag. Do not deceive yourself; there is no recovery. Self-examination with objectivity from doctrine is an opportunity to get back on track, and this can be done inside your soul.

Better to have a little self-reproach in this life rather than divine reproach. In a flash of objectivity, you can begin the process of rehabilitation from the excoriation of divine viewpoint. A little positive volition and you are on the road.

This being out of fellowship can lead to sleep, which is a metaphor for death (here, the sin unto death). It is used many times in the Bible. Sleep is the final stop when we do not recover. When we stay in subjectivity and carnality and reversionism, that leads, at some point, to the sin unto death.

You must have objectivity; you admit your pain. You realize your own culpability. You acknowledge your sins in rebound and you acknowledge your spiritual life. You live with subjectivity and you have that momentary flash of objectivity and you realize that you are missing something. You get tired of the subjectivity and the pain and suffering and confusion; and you rebound, and you know where the solution lies.

Some of us could give a great testimony as to where we have been, where we are and where we will be. You must be able to look at yourself with objectivity and apply doctrine to both.

Otherwise, your entire life is just like Groundhog Day; every day is a repetition of the same carnalities of before. Why do you want to constantly go back to that subjectivity? The groundhog comes up, looks around, and then dives back into it. You constantly return to your subjectivity and human viewpoint, and dive right back into the dirt. Changing the course of your life from subjectivity to objectivity does not happen overnight. Some want a quick fix.

When you try to change in the power of your own ability, leaving out the power of Bible doctrine in your soul, then you will last until temptation pushes in on you. Groundhog Day; right back to it. Others look back on Groundhog Day and think, "Man, I am glad that I am out of that hole." Some of us dig a pretty deep hole of reversionism; but God is gracious and infinitely patient. He never leaves us alone. The journey out of this hole is objectivity and Bible doctrine. That is when your life counts and you have something great and you begin to share the happiness of God.

1Cor. 11:29: For he who eats and drinks not discerning the body of the Lord, then he eats and drinks judgment to himself.

Lesson #721

1Cor. 11:29–30 May 18, 2008

Sunday 2

Certainly, pain and suffering is a part of our lives. We need to consider the source of our pain and suffering. The Corinthians have abused the Communion. There is a complete failure which dishonors the Lord Jesus Christ and His work in the Communion service. The Communion service is a microcosm of our lives outside the doors of Berachah church. Failure to rebound and ignoring Bible doctrine; these are 2 bad choices which lead to more pain and more suffering. God puts a little pain on us in order to wake us up. This is suffering which is absolutely justice. Justice means perfect fairness. God is perfectly fair. Whatever a man sows, that he will also reap. We need that moment of epiphany; and then we need rebound. How do I think? What do I think? Where does it go when I leave this building? Does it go in one ear and out the other? Does it rattle around in an empty head? You must make some application of doctrine.

You must evaluate yourself and you must do it based upon Bible doctrine. You have got to remember it enough. People have said, "I would like to go to church, but I don't want to change." It is about coming into church and getting Bible doctrine to change you; it is subtle in many ways; and it is all about a way of thinking. It is a slow process. You gain spiritual momentum by metabolizing Bible doctrine. You are never far from turning things around. You can rebound anywhere. No objectivity and no recovery emerges, then discipline increases; the screws are tightened a little more. Each one is a little worse than the other.

Everywhere around us is subjectivity. This is where emotions control our thinking. Everything then becomes relative; it is all about us and how we feel. This means that self-centered arrogance controls our life. Thinking doctrine should control our emotions and bring objectivity to our lives. It is a wonderful relief not to always be focused on yourself. You have seen it before; that blank look of self-absorption. When Bobby first began teaching, he was very self-conscious. When you stop thinking about yourself and concentrate on what you are doing, you are able to function. When you walk into this auditorium, no one is thinking about you. Never stop evaluating yourself. Realize that you must not be preoccupied with yourself. Always seeking approbation or recognition and always thinking about what others are thinking is a total lack of objectivity. In subjectivity, you will live the world's motto: if it feels good, do it. That is the road to happiness, doing what you want to do. That is a false rationale for life. Why not gratify myself? I will rebound later.

For some people, you get doctrine in Bible class, but you don't take it with you. It stays in church. You are keeping one foot in church and one foot in human viewpoint. You will get negative returns on that. Syncretism is a hard habit to break. In the end, syncretism, is nothing more than human viewpoint.

It is a lot less glamorous to sit in Bible class and to grind it out with Bible doctrine than to enjoy other activities; and sometimes this can be very lonely. You do separate yourself and your thinking; but God provides for us; He always does. He knows exactly what we need. If we need social life, He can provide that. The greatest people you will ever meet are sitting in Bible class because they are of like mind.

In essence, you are ignoring the truth and mandates of Bible doctrine. Whatever doctrine you have is γνώσις rather than ἐπίγνωσις. Knowledge makes a person arrogant. It is about what you apply; and when you apply, it is humility. Doctrine is absolute truth. But you need to be able to apply it at the critical moments in your life. It is not just hearing doctrine, it is applying it. Your spiritual life is your life. You cannot separate the two. There is no dichotomy there; any separation is subjectivity.

You also need some alone time; some down time. When human viewpoint is all around you and you lack the defenses to deal with it, you are affected by human viewpoint. You are inundated with it. It is subjectivity which pervades your soul. If you can be alone, then you can be with people. This downtime can be dedicated to your spiritual advance. You cannot seek human viewpoint relationships and advance at a maximum rate. When you combine them, the result is syncretism. Human viewpoint and divine viewpoint are mutually exclusive. You cannot withstand the assault of human viewpoint. With objectivity, as you begin to gain, as you see the areas where you must not compromise, but where compromise happens all the time. You cannot compromise Bible doctrine in any way and maintain your momentum in the spiritual life.

Bobby has had great friends in the army, but he would not change them for like-minded, doctrinal associates. They coincide with and facilitate spiritual advance in the immature; at least, they are not counter-productive.

It is tough to grow up with just an mp3 player or watching dvd's. Human viewpoint is a siren song, which leads you to the rocks of shipwreck. You cannot afford to be a lemming, running after human viewpoint. With Bible doctrine, you will realize that you must make a conscious decision to say no to your weaknesses and yes to Bible doctrine.

There is only one way to escape the repetitive nature of Groundhog Day is seeing yourself in the light of divine truth, which is divine viewpoint, you are able to see yourself in relation to everything else. Every time you compromise your standards, even in your own mind, you take a step backwards. All of it is a part of the cosmic system and human viewpoint and that which takes you away of where you should be. As you go out doing whatever you are going to do, think at the end of the day, did you apply doctrine even one time to any circumstance of your life? That is living the spiritual life. It is not about you saying, I am going to change. Doctrine changes you.

1Cor. 11:29: For he who eats and drinks not discerning the body of the Lord, then he eats and drinks judgment to himself.

1Cor. 11:30: For this reason many are weak and sick among you, and many have been put to death.

Lesson #722

1Cor. 11:30 May 21, 2008

Wednesday

Weak, sick and a number sleep. This verse is sparse in words but dense in meaning. These are 3 incremental classifications of discipline. Death simply ushers us into eternity. We will see exactly what this means.

These 3 classifications are specifically pain and suffering in a believer's life; all discipline involves pain. When you discipline as a parent, if there is no pain involved, you may not get through to the kid. You need to get their attention. You have to get their attention by depriving them of something that they want or have. All discipline involves some sort of pain; otherwise, it would have no effect or power; and it would not motivate. Discipline is like a jolt of electricity which focuses the attention of the carnal believer upon his own life. People complain that God cannot be good if He allows pain. That means that He is mean. A good God would not allow the suffering which I am undergoing. Discipline is to focus on our problem or misdeed. When someone just accuses God of being a mean God; that is just an excuse to blame God or to blame others. In short, those sorts of people look everywhere else for the source of the problem. Look at yourself with objectivity. Pain is exactly what a person who is out of line needs. God is absolutely good to allow the pain of discipline. You must go to that self-evaluative mode. Self-evaluation is critical. At least momentarily you are forced to the privacy of your own soul. Examine yourself if you have any objectivity. For believers in suffering, the possibility for divine discipline should always be considered. From the mandates of Bible doctrine; from the aspects of carnality and reversionism. Don't put it off and don't put it away. Don't say "I'll do anything to get out of it." All it takes to get out of it is rebound. As you grow, it won't matter if you have pain and suffering or if you don't. You won't ever get released from adversity. Your life will be loaded with adversity. The problem is, what do you do with it. You must evaluate your life in that respect. It is really not that difficult to examine the course of your life. It might take about 5 minutes of honesty to go over yourself. You can't lie to yourself. You know when you are out of line. For some, the pain of discipline is almost a relief. This means that God cares about you, just as a father or mother cares about their child when they discipline them. The cause should be obvious to you when you hold yourself up to the objectivity of Bible doctrine. You are now able to do this and able to evaluate yourself in this light. Once you do this, you look for a solution. Rebound as the road to recovery and regaining positive volition toward doctrine to recover. All of this is part of your daily self-evaluation.

The pain is sometimes your only hope; pain is the environment for the believer for evaluation and recovery. There are times when it is harsh or intense. Some of us need more pain than others, depending upon how hard-headed we are. God knows how to apply the screws so that we get it. When you bang your head against the wall enough, you begin to look.

Divine discipline is our friend; not our enemy.

1. Discipline warns us when we are straying into carnality.
2. Therefore, suffering can open the door of objectivity concerning our thinking and actions.
3. All this means is, we are examining why or what do our circumstances mean? When suffering, keep thinking. God will bring to mind what your problem is. He will tell you where you have gone wrong. Don't just keep banging your head against the wall.
4. Then you give consideration to a solution found only in Bible doctrine. There is a wider context for discipline. This in this passage is a specific situation. Discipline can be applied for any foray into carnality. God, as our Father, never abandons His children. The exception is when a recalcitrant believer falls under the sin unto death. Even then, God never totally abandons a believer. There is always the opportunity to recover, as per the recovery of Hezekiah. He recovered and lived a few more years. We always, as believers, live under His watchful eye. God knows exactly where you are and He gives the exactly discipline that we need. God decreed in eternity past, the highest and best for every believer. He knew us in eternity past billions of years before we every existed. In His decree, He willed for us His highest and best. We always need to remember that divine discipline: we think of the pain involved, and we know it is never meted out apart from the love of God. Justice, righteousness and love cannot be separated. They all go together. God's discipline is always fair and always for our benefit. If God is disciplining us, then we deserve it. His discipline is in fairness and for our benefit. We must recognize discipline for what it is. It is blessing; not cursing for us. God always seeks the highest good for us. We have no right to bitterness. Why did God let this happen to me? We should, in fact, think, I am glad that God let this happen to me.

People arrogant assert that there is no such thing as objectivity; Bobby's roommate used to always say, "It is all relative." We are not of like mind with unbelievers because we are objective and they are not. They cannot begin to understand the absolutes of Bible doctrine. This is why there is that mandate in Scripture, do not marry an unbeliever.

We live by absolutes and not by relatives. Only the believer in Jesus Christ has this total capability. Unbelievers do not have it. Either you avoid or you handle these painful events. You have absolute truth in your soul.

V. 30 says they are weak and sick. There are reasons that people are weak or sick which have nothing to do with divine discipline. You can have ailments which are completely apart from the plan of God, but not because of divine discipline. 1Cor. 10:13: it will not be beyond what we can handle. We never know what or how much we can advance. When you are obviously helpless, dependency on the Lord.

For many years May Walker was at Berachah Church. She sat in a wheel chair in the center aisle. She had all sorts of ailments, and she was one of the greatest prayer warriors. She could not move around, but she could pray. Bob thanked her on many occasions for her faithfulness. She served the Lord and was in the plan of God in exactly the way that He had planned it for her. She operated under very difficult circumstances.

Psalm 50:15: And call upon Me in the day of trouble, and I will rescue you. This is an unassailable promise. May Walker constantly used these promises in the faith rest drill. Whatever your circumstances are, evaluate yourself. That is the perspective of divine viewpoint. Others with this kind of trouble would just feel sorry for themselves. A believer will all sorts of maladies can find himself in hospitals, which is a great place to witness and a time to apply the problem solving devices. Many people spend a lot of time in hospitals, and they learn to depend upon God. If you think a sickly person is under discipline, you are judging them. You hold yourself up to the light of doctrine; do not hold anyone else up to your own judging.

Weak is the nominative plural of ασθεναις and sick is αρροστος. Many are weak and sick. We already know about all of the problems in Corinth. There is a lot of divine discipline going on in Corinth. Both ασθενης and αρροστος refer to those who are out of fellowship, and they are suffering a literal malady. Paul is pointing out why. These two terms are not synonymous terms.

Αρροστος is a stronger term than ασθενης. Weak could be a nagging, chronic pain, but not life-threatening. It could be a continuous condition. They lack energy or lack comfort. These Corinthian believers are participating in Communion while out of fellowship.

Sick is a more acute term

1. Aroστος means powerless.
2. It could mean being an invalid.
3. It could be an incurable disease or one that is hard to cure.
4. It could be a person immobile from an accident or disease.

This is a progressive discipline with each ailment becoming more severe.

Sleep is the present passive indicative of κλημαω. Believers receive the action of dying. This word is always used for the death of a believer. There is no question that these are believers. Ηικανος which means sufficient, adequate, large enough. This is an adjective used as a noun. A sufficient number of believers are sleeping.

Ηικαμος means sufficient

1. This is an unspecified number.
2. It is large enough to be significant; not just 1 or 2.

3. This indicates severe discipline of a maximum number of people.
4. A sufficient number do sleep. This is not a few who have coincidentally die.

Discipline becomes incrementally more difficult; and at a certain point, there is this final, extreme discipline. They are incorrigibles. They refuse to recover. The sin unto death mocks God by ignoring the discipline. Death is incurred by certain Corinthians. Those who habitually and blatantly partake of the Communion Table out of fellowship. They carry out their blatant carnality in front of the entire congregation. They are stumbling blocks for the rest of the church.

1Cor. 11:30: For this reason many are weak and sick among you, and many have been put to death.

Lesson #723

1Cor. 11:30 May 22, 2008

Thursday

There was a substantial group of Corinthians who are weak and sick. There are many who are out of line in many areas. Sick means powerless [like an invalid]. When there is no correction from rebound, weak and sick are categories that a believer passes through.

There is a noticeable number of believers in the Corinthian church who have died. When we arrive in heaven, there will be great shame for some. In v. 30, sleeping is incurred by those who blatantly stay outside the plan of God. Those who are under maximum discipline, having already gone through being weak and sick. God is always fair and He is always patient with believers before administering the sin unto death. Some believers have already died, and others are on their way. They had no illusions about what anyone was doing. Paul is warning them that others among them will find themselves sleeping if they don't give up their carnality. This shows exactly how displeased He can be. The love of God and the grace of God are never missing. He can love us personally because of His Son. Step out of line, weak; step further out of line, sick; stay out of fellowship, sleep. It is all laid out here for us. The love of God is never absent, because all of this discipline was meant for our recovery. These believers are so far outside the boundaries. Communion is a proclamation of Jesus' work. These believers were mocking God and His grace and the substitutionary work; the very means of their salvation is being ridiculed by their actions. The whole point of the discipline is for them to wake up. The self-examination is only as good as the doctrine in their soul. Psalm 50:15: He will rescue you. We need to self-evaluate ourselves; rebound. These people were not only discrediting the name of Jesus Christ before the world, but they have become huge stumbling blocks for other believers. When you are so deep in reversionism, and you have become that much of a stumbling block for other believers, then you are cruesing for a bruising'. God is not going to be mocked. Dishonoring salvation and the grace plan; the entier package which God has provide for the Lord Jesus Christ.

Sleep is a metaphor for death. Literal sleeping has a physical, bodily connotation. You close your eyes and you rest yourself. Your soul does not sleep.

Sleeping as a Metaphor for Death

1. Physical death is when the soul separates from the body. Sometimes the exact moment is difficult to determine.
2. At the departure of the soul from the body, the body obviously goes into the grave. His grandfather's motto at a memorial service; speak to the living, memorialize the dead.
3. It is the body in the metaphor that sleeps. The body sleeps in physical death.
4. It is the body which awaits the resurrection. There are Christians who believe that a body must have a location in order to be resurrected. But a body does not have to be intact. If a person dies violently and the parts are scattered, they can still be resurrected. Egyptians mummified bodies so that they could have a body in the afterlife, and this is wrong.

Bobby begins a grave side service by saying, we stand here at resurrection ground. The body that sleeps awaits resurrection. Death is not the end; it is the beginning; it will begin either eternal life or eternal condemnation. Those who are buried at sea with no marker will be resurrected; those who are separated into pieces at death will still be resurrected.

It is not the soul which awakes at the moment of resurrection. Bodily sleep does not include soul sleep. The moment your soul departs your body, you will be conscious and self-conscious. The believer is never spoken of as have a sleeping soul. 2Cor. 5:8: We are of good courage [in the face of physical death]. Death is nothing more than going home. Paul would prefer to be absent from the body and face to face with the Lord, which is our status. It is preferable to be face to face with the Lord.

You do not sorrow as those who have no hope. Bobby likes memorial services; someone told Bobby that he has the gift of funerals. The unbeliever's soul does not sleep either. It awaits the final judgement. The soul does not go into limbo. 1Cor. 15 tells us that we take on bodies of immortality, which occurs at the rapture of the church. We are clothed in immortality.

We will get to this passage in a few years. Our body is called a body of immortality. Our body is reunited with a soul which never falls asleep. The body of immortality is the body that Christ received at His resurrection.

In between death and the resurrection body. There is not intermediate state of a conscious soul without a body. Purgatory is a grim thing. The more candles you light, the more thousands of years which get cut off the sentence.

Purgatory—a False Doctrine

1. The souls of sinners do not need to be cleared or purged. of sin by some place of suffering in heaven.
2. You will have an uncorrupted soul when it departs from this body.

3. How do we know our souls will be purged of our corruption? We cannot be face to face with the Lord in a body of corruption or a corrupted soul.
4. Face to face with the Lord is our interim location after death.
5. God does not accept a soul into heaven
6. The corruption of the body and soul is by the fall of Adam.
7. The sin nature is a part of every person's temporal existence. He had no human father, and, therefore
8. For the believer, the corruption of sin is not a part of his existence after physical death.
9. In both temporal life and in eternity. This is basic theology.

Grace Excludes Purgatory

1. Grace is unfettered by human works and any type of human completion. We cannot offer up our own works,
2. Purgatory and penance are not possible in God's plan. Rebound is God's plan.
3. God's grace has already covered us.
4. God does not need to punish us after physical death until He is sufficiently satisfied. Purgatory is about us paying the penalty of our own sin.
5. Our sins were paid for on the cross.
6. Our sins are forgiven the moment of faith alone in Christ alone.
7. No more satisfaction or forgiveness is necessary. Our temporal mistakes and shortcomings do not require an additional payment. God's righteousness makes us righteous. Abraham believed and it was imputed to him for righteousness.
8. God's perfect righteousness is imputed to us and not purgatory will make us more righteous.
9. We as believers in Jesus Christ do not have to experience a painful experience before arriving in heaven.

The soul is corrupted, and it is controlled by the sin nature whenever we are not filled with the Holy Spirit.

1Cor. 11:30: For this reason many are weak and sick among you, and many have been put to death.

Sunday 1

Memorial Day Message

Looking back at war, it is necessary and freedom is always purchased with blood. This is a lesson which we must learn, no matter how much we would prefer not to go to war. The alternative would be worse. The sacrifice of a few is always to the benefit of the many.

We must always be cognizant of the benefits of war. If war brings freedom, then it is a noble undertaking. We ought not to forget the price of freedom.

Bobby wants us to have a content for Memorial Day tomorrow. It has been 55 years since the Korean War, sandwiched between WWII and the disputed Vietnam War. Some even call it the forgotten war.

David Halberstam: from The Coldest Winter. The Korean War would last 3 years, whereas those who crossed over the border expected things to happen in 3 weeks. A numbing winter cold. The Americans faces tremendous mountainous terrain which worked against our tanks. There were caves, etc. Dean Atchison said, if the best minds went out to find the most damnable war, Korea would have been in.

Korea was a lot like Vietnam. These vets were largely forgotten and not honored like WW2.

There was a lack of recognition by their own country and they did not particularly like the country in which they fought. No one wanted to hear about this war; no one understood or wanted to understand. Their children would only know that they had been in a war there, but they knew little else. What they had done and why they had done it. They mourned those who did not come back and they shared this only with one another. Many of them had become amateur historians, privately published or xeroxed and stapled together. Some had history rooms. These rooms were closed off to outsiders. No one else offered up the proper respect. It was as if a critical part of the experience had been stolen from them.

Gradually, some went back to South Korea; and more went and went with other vets. They visited places where they had fought. They did not go to the places on the other side of the 38th parallel, as they were not allowed. However, there was a sense of gratitude by the people there. If it had not been a victory in a classic sense, in another sense, it worked.

That is the price paid for freedom. Thousands of Americans died so that South Korea is flourishing today. How many nations make such sacrifices for another nation? WWI and II are additional examples. There has never been a nation which has conquered a nation and then freed that nation. Germany and Japan. We are the bastion of freedom, bought with the blood of our soldiers. The world would be much worse off without the United States. Those Americans who hate what America is at this moment have chosen evil over good.

When the 3rd part of v. 30 comes upon a believer, he has failed completely. Κοιμῶ = to sleep; a metaphor for death. The sleeper receives the action of the verb. The sleeper is dead and these are believers who are dead. Κοιμῶ is used only for believers in the New Testament. This is the disgraceful death of a believer. The body in sleep, the body is still living and functioning, but there is a little rest associated with it. Sleep is a metaphor.

Sometimes we read on tombstones, rest in peace. The metaphor for sleep means that there is no living function within the body. Even in physical death, the resting body awaits its resurrection body.

Physical death separates the soul from the animate, lifeless body. The soul continues to be self-conscious and conscious of all else. When the believer dies, his soul is never said to be absent from God; just absent from the lifeless body. Absent from the body and face to face with the Lord. This occurs immediately, which is a preferable state for any believer. Do you want to cling to life no matter what until the last moment? You never have to fear death. In this case, our soul goes to be face to face with God. Our soul is separated from our earthly body.

The moment of death, the soul is conscious of being face to face with the Lord. That gives us courage. Physical death does not mean total sleep, body and soul. Some think that we are just unconscious until the resurrection. That is not the Biblical approach to death. The perishable body goes into the grave; but the dead body will put on the imperishable; and the mortal will put on immortality. The body is sown a perishable body and it is raised an imperishable body. Our immortality means putting on a new and different body, a body which can never experience physical death again and it will not deteriorate. 1Cor. 15:52. The trumpet will sound and the dead will be raised imperishable.

At the resurrection, our bodies are changed in the twinkling of an eye. We will meet the Lord in the air and so we will ever be with the Lord. We will meet Him in that resurrection body. We will have a body like His. God creates the soul of every human being at the moment of human birth. God can create nothing which is imperfect. Our body has been genetically transmitted from Adam, a nature of sin which we have received from Adam. Christ had to die for us so that our righteousness might be imputed to us. Without the body of sin, the soul of the believer is acceptable. The resurrection is the uniting of an always conscious, uncorrupted soul with a perfect body. There is no sin nature and no corruption. Just an eternal bodily relationship. Just an eternal relationship, face to face relationship.

The Scripture never speaks of a soul without a body. The rapture of the church has not yet occurred. Many believers have died already. The Scripture never tells us that these souls are wandering about in limbo, although movies portray it that way. Souls are never described in that way. There is an intermediate state between physical death and the resurrection is not one of a bodiless soul. The soul in heaven before the resurrection is clothed with an interim body. There will never be a time that we are without a body. It will be a spiritual body, just as the future resurrection body will be called a spiritual body.

We do not know the extent of the interim body; we do not know how they differ. Apparently, the final resurrection body is better, but the exact differences are never given. We know what the resurrection body is capable of by what Jesus did when on earth. A matter of speculation.

The bottom line here is, be of good courage. No matter what our mode of death is, be of good courage. Our death may come in the middle of the night and it may be painful. The interim body is only awaiting the resurrection body. These few years on earth and whatever we go through is not at all comparable to what we will be and what we will have in heaven.

1Cor. 11:30: For this reason many are weak and sick among you, and many have been put to death.

Lesson #725

1Cor. 11:30 May 25, 2008

Sunday 2

κλοιμαω is our word.

There is nothing that can be sugar-coated about war. Infantry is dirty, nasty, buggy, muddy and you go to awful places where awful people are trying to kill you. It is important that we recognize what our soldiers faced.

Κλοιμαω is not restful, it is nasty; it is a horrible death. It is for our benefit. And when it is over, we will be face to face with the Lord. When we receive a resurrection body, we will live with the Lord forever. We cannot imagine what eternity will be like. It is too wonderful; it is too vast. Here, we are dealing with sleep, and sleep, as a metaphor for death; and this includes any believer, particularly those who are in reversionism. Many a reversionist has fallen under this discipline. There will be eternal consequences as well. At the Judgment Seat of Christ, they will be embarrassed and they will lose rewards and they will lose rewards for eternity. There will be rank in heaven; those who live in the penthouse and those who do not. Bobby cannot describe what eternity will be like, but rewards are based upon our execution of the spiritual life and taking advantage of all the resources which God has given us. There will be a loss of rewards, but not a loss of salvation. Our life has eternal repercussions. It is incumbent upon us to metabolize doctrine and to keep that eternal perspective. It is to keep our perspective in the human life. People work hard their entire lives and they do this in order to gain this or that reward. It is one of the most driving motivations of life. We live in a society of envy and we want to work hard to have more than those around us. For the believer, temporal rewards cannot compare to eternal rewards. We live in this life and we have responsibilities. There is nothing wrong with material things. Just do not make them priorities. As a believer in Jesus Christ, God is often behind these blessings. There are times when God allows us to be prosperous. He needs witnesses in the upper reaches as well. There are those who require wealth to support God's ministries as well. Are your temporal aspirations greater than your eternal aspirations? We need the correct perspective; the only perspective comes from Bible doctrine circulating in your soul. Great blessing in time as well. There may be material blessings, but as you grow to spiritual maturity and you share the happiness of God. You have something much greater than the unbeliever can have in this life. You have consistent contentment. Many suicides in this life. We, as a believer in Jesus Christ, should never jump out of a window. Strive for success and have the right perspective.

The cause of the sleep in v. 30 is divine discipline. In short, they mock God and all that He has done for them in the person of Jesus Christ. They reap what they sow. God will not be mocked. They reap weakness, sickness and death. They sow reversionism. Do not mock God. Approaching the Communion Table out of fellowship is being hostile to the cross. Continued reversionism is hostility to the cross.

Philip. 3:18–19: For many walk as hostile to the cross of Christ, of whom I often told you, and now even weeping I say it, whose end is destruction, whose god is the belly, and who glory in their shame, the ones thinking earthly things. Sin unto death, whose minds are set on lust and human viewpoint. These are the same people. Πολλοι is many. This is sets of believers in Philippi and in Corinth. We are not exempted from what is written to the Philippians many years ago. So intense was Paul's concern, that he was even compelled to weep over their circumstances and choices. It made him sad to see believers walking in the opposite direction.

It is amazing that believers can be called the enemies of the cross for exactly the same reasons as unbelievers are. This is why they are weak, sick and that they sleep. God does not put up with that. He does not want enemies in His Own family. God spans in incremental ways leading up to maximum discipline for those who do not responds.

James 4:4: Adulterers and adulteresses! Do you not know that friendship with the world is enmity with God? Whoever therefore wants to be a friend of the world is constituted an enemy of God. Friendship with the world is hostility with God. There is no gray area here. On one side is hostility and on the other side there is God. When one wishes to be friends with the world, he makes himself an enemy with God. This book is addressed to believers. Do you want to arrive at the Judgment Seat of Christ as an enemy of God? "You have not been faithful in many things and you will not receive the rewards of God." The cosmic system is the domain of the believer just as it is the unbeliever. Is it the spiritual life or is it a secular focus? Such believers are enemies insofar as they oppose the plan of God. They cannot lose their salvation but they can certainly function in opposition to God. You are a turncoat to the plan of God; you are a Benedict Arnold.

Go back to Philip. 3:19 for the 3 characteristics: ...whose end is destruction, whose god is the belly, and who glory in their shame, the ones thinking earthly things.

Their end is destruction, which means the sin unto death. Their god is their belly, but the figurative meaning is emotion. There is not word for emotion in the New Testament, so the belly is used to stand for a person's emotion. How they feel determines what is right or wrong. Their emotions supercede all other aspects of life. They are slaves to their emotions. Some go to church to clap and sing; they go to church for an emotional rush. An hour or two after church, they go back to their old selves. It all depends upon how they feel. The Christian life is a straight line. Is how you live based upon how you feel? The rest of the world lives based upon their feelings. "If it feels good, do it." There is not evil; there is nothing wrong. They want to justify everything. You want to make them mad? Tell them that there is right and wrong; they might say "You are judging." But if they admit that there is wrong and evil, then this may apply to them as well. There are some horrible repercussions for this kind of thinking. Think where you were when you used to think that way. When the God is the belly, doctrine is neutralized. Epistemological rehabilitation cannot go on if emotion is stressed. When emotion is stressed, thinking is suppressed.

Bobby makes it easy for us during Communion. He gives us something upon which to think. There was a special on the Korean War. That is a memorial in our soul just as much as a monument anywhere else. Memorial is a thought in our soul. Memorial day is a perfect example. When you think about what they have done and then your emotions respond to that, that is true appreciation. That is the correct perspective. The application of doctrine in our soul makes the memorial. It is not how we feel in terms of warm fuzzies about Christ. The consequences of not applying the doctrine our dire.

The 3rd characteristic is Whose glory is their shame. You love what is wrong and you hate what is right. You have no clue about the spiritual life. They are not just reversionists; they revel in reversionism. This is what some of the Corinthians did at the Communion Table; it indicted them. They glory in their emotions.

Finally, they set their minds on earthly things. That is being totally enmeshed in human viewpoint. That is synonymous with the world. Human viewpoint is the Satanic policy of evil. Reversionism produces enemies of the cross, and the result is sleep, the sin unto death. So we will study the sin unto death Wednesday.

1Cor. 11:30: For this reason many are weak and sick among you, and many have been put to death.

Lesson #726

1Cor. 11:30 May 28, 2008

Wednesday

We're just dealing with one word in v. 30. There are many theologians in the evangelical world. There are some areas where there are some problems and one of them is related to this verse. Some object to the idea that we can fall under such strong discipline as we find here. The criticism is, sleep cannot be terminal discipline for a believer who is a reversionist. They think that reversionism cannot exist, so they reject the idea of discipline for reversionism. To them, reversionism just does not happen to a believer. A believer cannot stay out of fellowship for a long period of time. They might recognize this for one really big sin, like Annanias and Saphira; but they cannot believe that a true Christian sin regularly and stay out of fellowship. They believe that a true Christian will show evidence of being a Christian. How can anyone with an eternal destiny with Christ have a relationship where they bring shame to Christ. A person who does not submit to the Lordship of salvation cannot be a Christian. There are a number in the Christian world who hold to this. They preach or write that there must be a certain amount of submission or obedience in order to be confirmed. You are not saved for merely hearing and believing the gospel, is what some of them believe. Essentially, to be saved, a person must resolve in their mind to follow Christ or they are not saved. There are many ramifications to this. There are those who believe that someone is saved by faith, but they must do something to authenticate their faith. It is a two-step process to most of them. You had better show something of a Christian life, or the faith never happened. It is inevitable if you are a Christian. The advance or failure to advance in the spiritual life becomes a litmus test in your salvation. This is really insidious. If your faith is not demonstrated, then your faith is not real.

Now, certainly, the spiritual life was designed for living, and that is why we take in doctrine. However, salvation and eternal security are dependent upon the grace of God alone. These people mix justification or experiential sanctification. At the moment of faith alone in Christ alone, what does Christ do? He imputes His righteousness to us. Faith alone in Christ alone means that we are given His righteousness as one of the 39 permanent things which we get. There is nothing that we can do to add to the justification that God does for us. There is nothing that we can do by our own effort or our own demonstration. We share His victory on the cross (retroactive positional truth); we share His position in heaven (current positional truth). Faith in Christ immediately gives us His righteousness and the baptism of the Spirit, which puts us into union with Christ. Our mandate is to advance. That is our experience of sanctification, but it is not the same as our salvation. The Lordship salvation crowd links salvation with bearing fruit. They become fruit inspectors and they will tell you if you are with the program or not. To continue to loop back to the salvation event because you don't bear fruit almost guarantees that you never grow. They are linked by cause and effect, but they are separate functions in our life. In their thinking, they link the spiritual life as a confirmation of faith. They believe that faith in Christ is the basis for salvation; but they have to either dedicate their lives or they have to recognize the Lordship of Christ. If these things do not occur, then their salvation is called into question.

The spiritual life is our mandate. What they say translates to faith+works. If you don't live a certain way, then how can you be saved? The spiritual life is our mandate; we must live it as a believer, but it is not a proof of our salvation. Philip. 3:18–19. Many of those who write about Lordship salvation or Lordship spirituality, they charge high prices to make certain that you understand their false doctrines of salvation. There are believers who are enemies of the cross, and this is a person who thinks and acts just like an unbeliever. For the reversionist, there is no difference for their lifestyles. The consequences for the reversionist. His end is destruction (the termination of physical life for the believer). Painful death of the downward spiral of reversionism. You don't leap into reversionism in one day. The 2nd consequence of reversionism is, their god is their emotion. Κοιλια does mean belly, but there is a figurative meaning, and it is used for emotion. This is otherwise known as emotional revolt. A good number of Christians are slaves to their emotion. Emotions are not the Christian life, but there are 1000's of evangelical churches which prey on emotions. They are totally unstable; the Christian life is not instability. This emotionalism puts human viewpoint ahead of divine viewpoint. Doctrine is neglected or rejected. The end result is the same. You do not metabolize and you cannot live the spiritual life. However, the reversionist is still saved. It is not faith + dedication; it is not faith + fruits. Whose glory is in their shame. This is not just intermittent sin; they revel in their carnality; they rationalize it. It is what the rest of the world is doing. It is what makes them comfortable.

8:33 it cut off.

1Cor. 11:30: For this reason many are weak and sick among you, and many have been put to death.

Lesson #727

1Cor. 11: May 29, 2008

Thursday

Faluga soldiers handing out coins with John 3:16 and they had passed out the coins for several days. Some of the Iraqis are upset. Local commanders are concerned because they are not supposed to witness. It is an interesting dilemma. What do you do as a Christian soldier? You cannot disregard the standing orders that you have; and you must obey them. And, at the same time, you cannot disregard the mandates of Scripture to be a witness for Jesus Christ. Bobby is not sure how efficacious this witnessing is. A believer in Jesus Christ ought to be resourceful in these conditions and we have a responsibility before the Lord and to the commanding officers. You can certainly witness to other soldiers. When it comes to witnessing to indigenous people, passing out these things is like a red flag. These things are going to have minimal impact. If you are a believer and you have a personal relationship with a Muslim in that country, and you can speak of the Lord where a personal relationship exists. Muslims do like to talk about religion and they like to talk about faith and they are curious. Passing out a coin versus a personal conversation; there is just no comparison.

Bobby spoke last night on Lordship salvation. Believe in Jesus Christ and then make Christ Lord; and this is seen as proof of your true Christian faith. You will show through your actions that you are a believer. What about those who remain in carnality? People who are under these circumstances are constantly thinking about what they are doing and if this is proof of their salvation. They do not have the assurance in their souls. That is a sad situation. For them, the person who has accepted Christ but does not bear fruit, are not seen as being saved. They do not see those under extended reversionism can really exist.

The Bible is filled with warnings to believers, even those in extended reversionism. So Bobby is going to document what went on last night.

Categories of Warnings

1. Monetary reversionism.
  - a. 1Tim. 6:3–5: Whoever teaches false doctrine and doesn't agree with the accurate words of our Lord Jesus Christ and godly teachings is a conceited person. He shows that he doesn't understand anything. Rather, he has an unhealthy desire to argue and quarrel about words. This produces jealousy, rivalry, cursing, suspicion, and conflict between people whose corrupt minds have been robbed of the truth. They think that a godly life is a way to make a profit. Ευσεβεία = the spiritual life, godliness, the advance, spiritual growth. The person in Lordship salvation understands nothing. These are men of a depraved mind, deprived of the truth. They have the wrong motivation. Monetary reversionism, those who see godliness as a gain. It is like those who promise wealth for Christians. The health and wealth gospel. It is the bilking of reversionist believers. Christianity is seen as a good luck charm for monetary gain.

- b. Annanias and Saphira. Solomon in Eccles. 5; Baliim.
  - c. 1Tim. 6:10: we are capable of anything: The love of money is the root of all sorts of evil; and some by longing for it, have wandered away from the faith. This is a picture of someone in the downward slide of reversionism. ...and they have pierced themselves with many a pang.
  - d. Jude 11: money is a means to happiness, money can buy anything, money can bring security.
2. Verbal reversionism. The habitual practice of the sins of the tongue. James 4:11 5:9, 12 Gossip, slander, maligning, judging, lying. Discipline does not come from some overt sin, but more often from an unbridled tongue.
- a. James 5:9: Brothers and sisters, stop complaining about each other, or you will be condemned. Realize that the judge is standing at the door. God is poised to discipline us for sins of the tongue. Vv. 9–20 give us the kinds of things which occur. Verbal reversionism can culminate in the sin unto death.
  - b. The form of discipline this may take: Matt. 7:1–2: "Stop judging so that you will not be judged. Otherwise, you will be judged by the same standard you use to judge others. The standards you use for others will be applied to you. You see someone sinning and you cannot wait to tell someone else about what sin they have committed. We are assured that the discipline will come right back at us.
  - c. Hosea 4:1–6: Listen to the word of the LORD, you Israelites. The LORD has brought these charges against those who live in the land: "There is no faith, no love, and no knowledge of God in the land. There is cursing, lying, murdering, stealing, and adultery. People break my laws, and there is one murder after another. That is why the land is drying up, and everyone who lives in it is passing away. Wild animals, birds, and fish are dying. "No one should accuse other people or bring charges against them. My case is against you priests. During the day you stumble, and during the night the prophets stumble with you. So I will destroy your mother, the nation of Israel. I will destroy my people because they are ignorant. You have refused to learn, so I will refuse to let you be my priests. You have forgotten the teachings of your God, so I will forget your children. I will reject you because you have no knowledge of Me, are some of the sentiments here. You have forgotten the law of your God and I have forgotten your children. When a client nation disappears, God help the children. A client nation can go down just like an individual can. This is a warning to us as believers in a client nation. Social decay, which there is a lot of; there is economic disaster and military defeat.
3. Sexual reversionism Ex. 34:16 2Cor. 12:21 Eph. 4:19 5:5 Col. 3:5 1Peter 5:5 Jude it is easy to see the stages of discipline in this category. The stated outcome in Corinth; the incestuous believer.

4. Anti-establishment, anti-authority; the client nation or the individual goes under. The individual rejects authority. They reject law, government, military. They reject the divine institutions. Some in California have rejected the authority of marriage. Children are raising children and they do not understand authority. The generation Bobby came out of did not understand authority and they have passed this on to their own kids. Anti-authority in the church where the teaching of the pastor is rejected. That is the basis for all reversionism. Anti-establishment can lead to almost any form of reversionism. A rejection of all authority but your own.

- a. Rom. 1:24–28: For this reason God allowed their lusts to control them. As a result, they dishonor their bodies by sexual perversion with each other. These people have exchanged God's truth for a lie. So they have become ungodly and serve what is created rather than the Creator, who is blessed forever. Amen! For this reason God allowed their shameful passions to control them. Their women have exchanged natural sexual relations for unnatural ones. Likewise, their men have given up natural sexual relations with women and burn with lust for each other. Men commit indecent acts with men, so they experience among themselves the punishment they deserve for their perversion. And because they thought it was worthless to acknowledge God, God allowed their own immoral minds to control them. So they do these indecent things. There is verbal reversionism, they hate God and man; they are insolent (haughty); we have more insolent children today than ever before. Anti-establishment thinking begins in the home. Kids who grow up anti-establishment—that is the parent's fault. Rejecting doctrine is anti-establishment. V. 32: Although they know God's judgment that those who do such things deserve to die, they not only do these things but also approve of others who do them. You feel more secure when those people around you fall into the same behavior patterns as you have. You try to find those with the same weaknesses.

Examples of the Sin unto Death

1. These are just a few of the categories of reversionism. 1Tim. 1:19–20: ...holding faith and a good conscience. By rejecting this, some have made shipwreck of their faith, among whom are Hymenaeus and Alexander, whom I have handed over to Satan that they may learn not to blaspheme. An example of the sin unto death. This is verbal reversionism.
2. Rev. 2:5: Remember therefore from where you have fallen; repent, and do the works you did at first. If not, I will come to you and remove your lampstand from its place, unless you change your mind. Jesus is telling them to execute the spiritual life as they had back when they had some momentum. This is a metaphor for the sin unto death; the light of light goes out from you.
3. Rev. 3:16: So, because you are lukewarm, and neither hot nor cold, I will spit you out of my mouth. This is a believer who has stopped taking in Bible doctrine. The new believer is often excited and takes in Bible doctrine at first. They think that with human viewpoint they have it made. But God will vomit them out of His mouth.

Now we are back to where we were on the Doctrine of the Sin unto death:

Les. #728 Sin unto Death 1John 5:16 Cor. 11:30 June 1, 2008 Sunday 1

1John 5:16 is a part of this study as well as 1Cor. 11:30. The subject is personal sin. There is a connection between sin and the premature death of Jesus Christ. Such a death is the terminal punishment from constantly and continuously removing oneself from the plan of God. One of the things we are covering is divine discipline. Nothing obstructs the plan of God like the choice of a believer to remain in carnality. There is no Christian life when you are bogged down with sin. As you become more mature, sin becomes less of an issue in your life. It never goes away, but it becomes less important. There is a school of thought is Wesleyan sanctification, which also involves changing the notion of sin. As a believer, the best thing to do is to keep short accounts with God. Don't let your sins go unconfessed. This way, we can remain filled with the Holy Spirit for extended periods of time. This allows for epistemological rehabilitation, and we are rehabilitated from the old ways of thinking and acting. The question is, how long, how much and how deep into sin are you? We can see the spiritual advance made in our lives, if we look back to see where we have come from and where we are now. Sometimes this can be a difficult exercise because there is no advancement. Some remain mired and reveling in their own carnality. His thinking reverts and his lifestyle returns. It is our extreme honor and privilege to advance to spiritual maturity. The deeper the believer plunges into the lifestyle patterns of the unbeliever, the less evidence he shows that he has actually accepted our Lord, and this causes other Christians problems. They sin, they sin some more; they don't rebound; and they and others look at them and question their salvation. This puts you into an endless cycle of worry. The believer in reversionism or extended carnality does not grow, but he becomes an enemy of doctrine. This is a reversionist. Someone who reverts back to an old way of life. Can a person really be a believer who shows no evidence of being a believer? Can someone really stay in the lifestyle of an unbeliever and never rebound. Can someone believe in Jesus Christ and then never act on this decision? Can he never submit to the Lordship of Christ and still be a believer? Anyone who believes in Christ is saved and that is a finished work in Him. Once salvation is given by Jesus Christ, it is irrevocable. One of these things is eternal life. The immutability of God. Once God gives something, He never takes it away. It does not matter if we show any evidence of a Christian life. The reversionist is attended to by God. No one gets away scott free. God will continually jerk us around until He gains our attention to see if we will respond to this pressure. Abraham believed God and it was imputed to him as righteousness. We are made righteous; we cannot become righteous. Now, we can become more in line with God's plan, but we will still end this life with a sin nature.

There are dire consequences in this life for the believer who remains out of fellowship with the Holy Spirit. Some of us are pretty self-righteousness; we don't murder anyone; we don't commit adultery; but there are so many other sins: mental attitude sins and gossip and slandering. These sins keep us out of fellowship. If you continue this pattern, we will not grow spiritually. We do not have a functioning Christian life. We are a believer, but with no spiritual life. Each of the words of 1Cor. 11:30, weak, sick and sleep, represents a progressive stage of discipline. In our passage, it is physical health, and that gets our attention; but there are certainly other modes of discipline. A believer who lacks energy or is in physical distress; or the sickness becomes greater, and more difficult to cure; or immobile from an illness; and there could be compulsions, neurosis, and anxiety or depression. These are progressive warnings to the reversionist.

You have to check your own life. You know whether or not you have sinned; you know if you are out of fellowship. If you are sick, that does not mean you are under discipline. If you live 70 or 80 years, and you suffer for 5 or 10 years, so what. You will depart this life and there will be no more tears and no more death and you will receive a resurrection body which will never deteriorate. Time is a drop in the bucket.

Bobby thinks of his own father about Alzheimer's. There are many purposes, for Bobby and the congregation, and there are many purposes for this. Weak and sick can be progressive warnings; but they can be normal illnesses in life.

Now, if we continue to stay out of fellowship, then God applies the nuclear option: death, named as sin in our verse. Metaphorically, this is a hardened criminal; will not rebound, will not advance. Rom. 1:28–32 speaks of unbelievers, but the reversionist also has the lifestyle of the unbeliever. These kinds of acts explain while physical death is the option which God takes. Obviously, no fruit bearing when doing this. Other believers act as fruit inspectors. Bobby saw this evil weirdness in seminary. The evil of legalism is terrible. People who are self-righteous legalists are in reversionism. Their lives fall apart because of their reversionism.

Bobby is going to cover the sin unto death. Psalm 7:14–16 118:17–18 Ezek. 21:18–32 1John 5:16. The sin unto death is the ultimate punishment administered from the justice, righteousness and love of God. There is a benefit for those even experiencing it; but it is the greatest disgrace any believer can have. They will still go to heaven, but they arrive as the Judgment Seat of Christ and they will have a red face. They will not hear, "Well done, my good and faithful servant." They will also forfeit escrow blessings. There will be shame and there will be lesser and greater situations in heaven. There will be no equality in heaven. Heaven is not a welfare state. Some will have greater blessings than others have.

The sin unto death is the believer who never takes advantage of the grace of God. God allows us to grow and to get back into fellowship through grace means. There is unchecked sinning in the same area with no progress toward correction and recovery. No learning from previous discipline. It is always great to learn from your mistakes. Do not regret past mistakes; learn from them. Regretting past mistakes is a guilt complex and it does you no good. Many believers know what the ought to do, but they continue unabated. "That human viewpoint is pretty attractive. I am hanging out with some attractive person or people and they are out of bounds, so that is where I need to be."

1John 5:16: If anyone sees his brother committing a sin not leading to death, he shall ask, and God will give him life--to those who commit sins that do not lead to death. There is sin that leads to death; I do not say that one should pray for that. Προς θανατος = face to face with death. You are looking into the eyes of death.

This is the result of a particular sin. ἄμαρτία and it is in the singular. This does not mean committing just one sin to end up dead. Most of us have pro in the past hour. So there is no sin which leads to death. The singular refers to a category of sins.

The sin unto death is not due to the commission of just one sin; there is a cumulative affect often in one area of sin and takes place over an extended period of time without rebound. It is one category of sins which goes without correction. This is a believer who is unteachable. He continues down the same road over and over again.

1Cor. 11:30: For this reason many are weak and sick among you, and many have been put to death.

Les. #729 Sin unto Death 1Cor. 11:30 1John 5:16 June 1, 2008 Sunday 2

Some professors would say, "We don't preach enough sin in our churches" which, in their minds, generally means legalism.

There is a sin leading to death, and we ought not to make a request for that. This is a category of sins which occur over a period of time which leads to the sin unto death. We have a propensity to commit the same sin over and over again; naturally, this sort of sin leads to problems in other areas of life. Without spiritual growth, that is exactly what will happen in our lives. It is logical that the sins we don't want to let go of are sins which we enjoy doing. However, as you move away from your weaknesses, you begin to enjoy life more and more. This is about a wonderful way of life.

We ought to pray for those mired in various carnalities, but what do we pray exactly?

1. Pray for the strength of that person; pray that they might evaluate themselves. Don't you get involved in self righteous evaluation. Otherwise, in the way that you judge, it will be meted back to you.
2. Pray for their enlightenment in doctrine. We tend to want to nag someone out of carnality. We have enough on our own plate to do this.
3. Pray for circumstances to facilitate recovery; and sometimes these circumstances are painful. This does not mean that you nag this person repeatedly.

To pray for someone under discipline, you pray for that person because you know them rather well. This is not some acquaintance of yours that you do not know well. This function of prayer does not include gossiping, maligning or spreading tales about a believer. "Do you know what so-and-so is doing? Let's prayer for him." You don't do this during a prayer meeting. It is best that you do not mention this to the person for whom you are praying. You must be careful with friends if you want to retain their friendship. Do not confront another believer legalistically with their sin as that will drive them in the opposite direction. That will just tempt them to show you an even greater set of sins.

Now, if you are dealing with criminality, that involves a whole different approach, which usually involves the legal authorities.

This person may have locked in negative volition; he has hardness of heart that no amount of prayer will alleviate. Prayer is a conduit to God, but prayer will never override the volition of another person nor will it overrule the will of God. You might not pray for this person before they got so far out of bounds. Their sins may be in a state of progression and this goes to the sin unto death. Now, you might pray and not realize that they are under the sin unto death. You are not the church crier. The warning is just “Stay out of it” if it is apparent that it has gone too far. Maybe you have prayed for circumstances to motivate them to recover or pray that they become enlightened about their own behavior; but realize that every person has volition.

One believer can teach consequences to another believer by their life. Watching another believer crash and burn is a wake up call for some of us. Who wants others to learn from your mistakes and arrive in heaven with the sin unto death?

Case Histories of the sin unto death

1. Philip. 3:18–19 certain believers in Philippi. They are called enemies of the cross. You do not want to be an enemy of the cross. You fail to execute the Christian life and you live, think and act like an unbeliever.
2. Certain believers in the church at Laodicia. Rev. 3:16–18: So, because you are lukewarm, and neither hot nor cold, I will spit you out of my mouth. For you say, I am rich, I have prospered, and I need nothing, not realizing that you are wretched, pitiable, poor, blind, and naked. I counsel you to buy from me gold refined by fire, so that you may be rich, and white garments so that you may clothe yourself and the shame of your nakedness may not be seen, and salve to anoint your eyes, so that you may see. These are people who know doctrine is important and it is available to them, and they willingly turn away from it. They are more interested in their own plans and their own self-absorption and the pastimes of Satan’s system. God says, “I will spit you out of My mouth.” This shows God’s disgust with these people. Self-indulgence, a frantic search for happiness, etc.
3. King Saul of Israel, and his consistent jealousy and hatred of David. Mental attitude sins which became overt sins. He opposed the plan of God for Israel. He opposed the Davidic covenant. Saul could have lived out the plan of God but he tried to kill off David, who is in the line of Christ. This is how distorted Saul got. 1Chron. 10:13–14 tells us that Saul finally went into the occult, and this was the straw which broke the camel’s back.
4. King Hezekiah is the 4th example, and his case is unique. He actually recovers. He was under the sin unto death for his evil foreign policy. Isa. 30:1–2 and it is reflected in the king’s behavior and actions and this applies to us today. His leadership was messtup. He is put under the sin unto death. Isa. 38:1: In those days Hezekiah became sick and was at the point of death. And Isaiah the prophet the son of Amoz came to him, and said to him, "Thus says the LORD: Set your house in order, for you shall die, you shall not recover." Please don't yawn at me. I don't want to see you get discipline. Isaiah is amazing; there was no more pain than Isaiah, who watched his nation go down the tubes. He is in the plan of God and he told Israel and kings that they were going to go down. He got a lot of yawns. Isaiah was killed along with Israel; he was tortured and Isaiah did his job. Hezekiah did 3 things wrong:

- a. The empire of Assyria was a great menace to Israel threatening them with utter extinction. It began in 1933 and continued until 1945. It happens over and over again, but the Jews are still with us. Israel will be preserved. Those who bless Israel will be blessed and those who curse Israel will be cursed. When we become anti-Semitic, we will be cursed. Hezekiah sent money to the king of Assyria, depending upon money to deliver himself and the nation. 2Kings 18:13–16. He did this in plain view of all Israel. All Israel saw him do this. If money can solve a problem, then it is not a problem. He paid off the king of Assyria, who gladly took it, and it made no difference. There was no trust in God. To whom God has given, much is expected.
- b. Hezekiah also signed a defense pact with Egypt just in case. This was a treat with a foreign power. He depended upon Egypt. The Jews had a great infantry, but they did not have horses and chariots like Assyria had. So Hezekiah went down for help. Isa. 31:1 36:6 2Kings. This was obviously not something a spiritual leader can afford.
- c. 2Chron. 32:24–26: Hezekiah was inundated by the cosmic system. He was arrogant. This sent the nation into national reversionism. He raids the treasury and goes down to Egypt and bribes Assyria. He became a stumbling block for the entire nation. He set the stage for reversionism.

Hezekiah will recover.

1John 5:16: If anyone sees his brother committing a sin not leading to death, he shall ask, and God will give him life--to those who commit sins that do not lead to death. There is sin that leads to death; I do not say that one should pray for that.

1Cor. 11:30: For this reason many are weak and sick among you, and many have been put to death.

Lesson #730 Reverse Process Reversionism June 4, 2008 Wednesday

Some people have questions about the sin unto death; maybe they are disappointed with themselves or shocked by their own behavior. God is slow to anger and filled with abundant mercy. The Lord is slow to anger and great in power; but He will not leave the guilty unpunished (Nahum). It is not one heinous sin which brings the believer to the sin unto death. The fact that a believer is even concerned about his or her status is a good sign. They are evaluating themselves. From there, rebound is but one step away. The real problem are those who continue in carnality and never give it another thought, and intense discipline increases.

What brings the believer to the sin unto death. It is the result of a choice for consistent carnality in a particular area. One category of repetitive sins with no letup: monetary, sexual, etc. A variety of reversion complexes. It is a result of locked-in negative volition and reverse process reversionism. A fragmentation of not just your spiritual life, but your life in general. If you are legalistic, it goes in one direction; and antinomian trend (nihilistic?), it goes in another. Reaction and distraction, frantic search for happiness, operation boomerang,...scar tissue of the soul and reverse process reversionism, and this is where you are moving in on the sin unto death.

Reverse Process Reversionism

1. Reverse Process is the total influence of the cosmic system. This is the epitome of that which is anti-God or anti-Christ. Blackout of the soul.
2. Satan's plan of the cosmic system is substituted for God's plan; God's plan is no longer a part of your consciousness.
3. That which is worthwhile and valuable in life is rejected. Divine establishment or family life and the spiritual life; and all of these things are worthwhile and valuable in life.
4. Reverse process means to face in the opposite direction. To invert beliefs by a turn around in thinking. Once, a believer, and you have the objective to advance, and you are retreating all the way back to the point where you are no longer anywhere near the spiritual life.
5. True values and priorities are pushed aside. Divine viewpoint is entirely exchanged for human viewpoint. You cannot distinguish between divine viewpoint and human viewpoint. That which you think is good is human good from human viewpoint. You know nothing but human good and human viewpoint.
6. Reverse process reversionist spurns that which he should love and loves that which he should spurn. Personal love can turn to nothing but illicit lust. You become entirely self centered and you tolerate no one. Impersonal love does not exist. This is called leaving your first love.
7. A divorce from doctrine and the reality and the objectivity and reality of the spiritual life. Divorce is separation forever. A divorce from doctrine is separation from reality and the spiritual life.
8. You become enamored with objects of pseudo love. That which you should not love, you love. The world is your contaminated oyster. Sickness follows.
9. Personal love for God is replaced by self-love, self-indulgence and preoccupation with one's lust patterns. Corinthians replaced personal love for God with every indulgence of their lust pattern. Some of the Corinthians are weak, sick and some of them sleep.

This is the modus operandi of the believer in danger of or under the modus operandi of spiritual death. He has given himself over completely to the cosmic system. You can watch tv any day and you can pretty much watch someone who claims to be a Christian, and their spiritual disposition should be obvious.

Imposed for the cumulative effect of one area of weakness where you sin, and it takes place over an extended period of time without recovery and without rebound.

Philip. 3:18–19 Rev. 3:16 Laodicia, which is in Turkey, an archeological site today, but once a thriving city. Some of the believers in Philippi had gotten so far out of line that Paul calls them enemies of the cross. King Saul was in opposition to the plan of God as outlined in the Davidic Covenant. King Saul was in complete opposition to God's choice of his successor. God would have let Saul's life run its course and then let David take over. Saul got jealous and envious and he never recovered from those mental attitude sins. His mission in life became killing his divinely appointed successor, David, who was in the line of Christ.

Hezekiah was also one who abused his authority. His evil foreign policy was the problem. National reversionism which was reflected in the king's dependency upon human solutions. He was only able to think about human solutions to national problems. Hezekiah should have depended upon divine solutions. His entire nation was subjected to his pathetic leadership.

Isa. 38:1: In those days Hezekiah became sick and was at the point of death. And Isaiah the prophet the son of Amoz came to him, and said to him, "Thus says the LORD: Set your house in order, for you shall die, you shall not recover."

Bob did a great series called the Assyrian Crisis. The first thing which Hezekiah did was he tried to buy his way out. It seemed like a good idea except one thing. Money was not the solution. If money can solve a problem, then it is not a problem. When God is the solution, it is the only solution.

What does it matter if the Rabshaka is standing at the wall screaming at us...do you recall Israel when leaving Egypt? That was a hopeless situation. So Hezekiah called upon a foreign nation for deliverance. He made a deal with Egypt and tried to pay them off too. 2Kings 18:21. Deliverance was exclusively God's domain. Hezekiah misplaced his faith. His 3rd failure was the mental attitude sin of arrogance. He depended upon everything but the Lord to deliver him. This did not just happen overnight. We just have bits and pieces of this.

Hezekiah is lying in his bed. He had a covenant with God, but he depended upon Egypt. He was mortally ill. Isaiah stands on his death bed and says, "set your house in order, for you will die and not live." It is all over; God has told me, you are going to die. It culminated in a series of bad decisions. He set the precedent for national decline. Hezekiah was diametrically opposed to the plan of God for Israel. There were to be no pay-offs. Exodus has a passage saying, no foreign treaties. The Jews were not to depend upon an enemy to deliver them from an enemy. This was a hopeless situation; a powerful army with a fearsome reputation.

This was a hopeless situation; the Jews were afraid. They had no reason to fear if they trusted in God. This is a lesson for Israel's future. They would remember this; the fear, the hopelessness of the situation. God used this for Israel's instruction. Hezekiah's reversionism was obscuring this fact.

Isaiah tells Hezekiah to make out his will, pick out a predecessor, and get ready to die. Hezekiah rebounded.

Isa. 38:2–3: Then Hezekiah turned his face to the wall and prayed to the LORD, and said, "Please, O LORD, remember how I have walked before you in faithfulness and with a whole heart, and have done what is good in your sight." And Hezekiah wept bitterly.

Hezekiah finally turns to God and he knew where he should be. He began as a good king. This is what Reversionism had done. He could only turn to the wall and then he rebounded. He broke down and cried uncontrollably. He recognized that he had departed from God's plan. Finally, Hezekiah did what he should have done a long time ago. He self-evaluated under the sin unto death. He had to be told what to do. He was motivated. It was a shame that it had to come to this. He had to come to a point where he realized that no man, no amount of money, and no human thing could deliver him.

Hezekiah recognized how bad off he was and cried on his deathbed. He did not take in doctrine, he did not apply doctrine, and he could do nothing but cry. But, he did rebound and he did turn back to dependence upon the Lord. This is what the sin unto death is designed to do; to bring the believer to absolute helplessness.

God promised a kingly line to Israel forever. Hezekiah changed his mind and God changed His, and added 15 years to his life. There is recovery from the sin unto death. There is no guarantee the sentence will be lifted, but the believer can rebound and that is his only chance.

We will leave Hezekiah now and go to Jonah in Nineveh.

Lesson #731

sin unto death June 5, 2008

Thursday

Hezekiah wanted cavalry and soldiers from the Egyptians in order to deal with the Assyrians; this was one of his foreign policy failures. There can be recovery even from the sin unto death, as we find with Hezekiah.

God also spared Nineveh, which was a city in Iraq, and it is an archeological site today. It was the capital city of Assyria. It was a city of incredible evil. God made a promise; He promised to destroy it. God, in His grace, always knows where there will be positive volition.

God could not have chosen a worse person than Jonah; he hated the Assyrians; he despised them. He took off in the opposite direction. A fish swallowed him and spit him up on the shore. He gave the Assyrians the turn or burn speech. There was a great revival in Nineveh. Jonah observed, ### what does it mean when it says, God relented?

1. For God, relenting is an occurrence which He determined in eternity past.
2. God did not change His mind at the moment of occurrence; He did not say, "Okay, he's fine; I am changing My mind."
3. God never changes His mind.

How does God relent?

1. God knows every decision that we will ever make throughout our entire lives.
2. This means that He knew about a believer's reversionism; He knows when we go off the deep end. He knows in eternity past when we will recover.
3. In eternity past, God took all of this into account. Since God is eternal, when did He take all of this into account? We can only grasp the basic understanding of eternity past.
4. When God took these things into account, He decreed that He would revoke the sin unto death being applied to whomever. God made a decree; He made the decree.
5. God had not changed His mind as we understand that term. He has not relented as we understand the term.
6. In eternity past, God took into account our change of mind. He knew about it and took it into account, and decreed that we would change our mind. He decreed His response.
7. God decreed in that same decree that free will would be a part of our makeup; God created free will in us. Both are true. God is sovereign, and man has a truly free will. God decreed that those decisions would happen. He secured man's truly free will. There was a point in Hezekiah's life when he turned his face to the wall and he cried, and God relented at that point and gave him 15 more years; but God changed His mind in eternity past. God decreed that these things would happen, including the withdrawal of the sin unto death at that moment.
8. This means that God did not change; man changed.
9. God knew beforehand of all of our changes of mind. He determined in eternity past that He would not apply the sin unto death. That is relenting.
10. By relenting, God is simply dealing with us according to our freewill decisions.

What Policy was He Revealing?

1. God was revealing His perfect fairness and perfect justice according to His decrees.
2. We can understand and we can take heart that we are never without hope. God relents based upon His decision.
3. We are never beyond God's fairness or His love.

Next is the 5th case of the sin unto death: Annanias and Saspheira in Acts 5. They lied to God the Holy Spirit. They were in a church where there was a great deal of spiritual growth. They were filled with greed and jealousy and inordinate competition. Money was the most important thing in their life. They lied for their own monetary benefit. They used their own personal monetary gain as a cover story. They used the advance of the spiritual life to advance their own monetary position. They tried to con this church with a big donation. They sold a big piece of property and said they were giving all of the money to the church, but they held some back. This violated the devotion of this church. They became a huge distraction in total arrogance and approbation lust. They conspired to make a false impression of their spiritual growth so that they could seem like spiritual heroes and come out financially well-off. They had become the consummate stumbling blocks; they professed positive volition, but they were actually negative.

This was monetary reversionism and it took place over a period of time, and they died separately, and the rest of the church saw this and recognized the serious nature of mocking the Holy Spirit.

Case history #6: Himanaias and Alexander in 1Tim. 1:18–20: This charge I entrust to you, Timothy, my child, in accordance with the prophecies previously made about you, that by them you may wage the good warfare, holding faith and a good conscience. By rejecting this, some have made shipwreck of their faith, among whom are Hymenaeus and Alexander, whom I have handed over to Satan that they may learn not to blaspheme.

There are shipwrecked believers, who were delivered over to Satan (the pronouncement of the sin unto death) so that they may be taught not to blaspheme. Even under the sin unto death, there is always the hope of recovery. The punishment is also a teaching mechanism.

Case #7: This deals with David, who fell under the sin unto death over the Uriah and Bathsheba affair. His category of reversionism was sexual reversionism. There was a failure of national leadership, then murder, and then the sin unto death. Even as a believer of David's stature, he fell under maximum discipline. Even the greatest believers who have ever lived fall susceptible to maximum reversionism. 2Sam. 11:1: In the spring of the year, the time when kings go out to battle, David sent Joab, and his servants with him, and all Israel. And they ravaged the Ammonites and besieged Rabbah. But David remained at Jerusalem. David lost his leadership role, even though he was still the king. David was highly successful as a king in every way. He was unique, since he was a great-looking man, a musician, a great leader; and Bathsheba was also an incredible looking woman. People began to tell David what a great person he was. He began to listen to this flattery and he became self-centered. He was no longer thinking as a spiritual believer. David functioned as a mature believer for a long time, but he had become arrogant and self-indulgent. David had become a polygamist. He had a harem. He had married a group of beautiful women. This was all commensurate with his good looks. Kings in this era all had large harems, which indicated that they were prosperous and successful kings. David was a ruler of the client nation to God and polygamy was prohibited to kings in the Mosaic Law. The harem indicated that David was in sexual reversionism, and it distracted him completely. His many wives were the beginning of his sexual arrogance. He saw himself in arrogance; he took a lot of wives and he became a sexual reversionist. This will cause blackout of the soul and reverse process reversionism. However, this is why all of his marriages were failures. Unbridled sex was his ticket to reversionism. Sex without love is like ritual without reality; there is nothing behind it. It is a frantic search for happiness and for approbation. The outcome of all this is the opposite of what you have intended. David is in sexual arrogance before he ever laid eyes on Bathsheba. This arrogance made him very vulnerable. He had hit reverse process reversionism.

2Sam. 11:2–3: It happened, late one afternoon, when David arose from his couch and was walking on the roof of the king's house, that he saw from the roof a woman bathing; and the woman was very beautiful. And David sent and inquired about the woman. And one said, "Is not this Bathsheba, the daughter of Eliam, the wife of Uriah the Hittite?" To a man with capacity for love and in love with a woman, when he sees a beautiful woman, she is just that, a beautiful woman. Sexual arrogance ruled David. He was a peeping Tom. He liked what he saw. He should have been at war, but he was violating every principle of integrity his entire life. When a person is under sexual reversionism, every attractive woman arouses such a person. Or, if your weakness is homosexuality, children or even animals, then these things are aroused as well. No one's wife, son, daughter, etc. is safe around you. Christians in sexual reversionism are just as liable to this sort of sinning as any other.

2Sam. 11:4: So David sent messengers and took her, and she came to him, and he lay with her. (Now she had been purifying herself from her uncleanness.) Then she returned to her house. David is in a fix; he was a previously great man of doctrine, and here he is in the depths of reversionism. If it could happen to him, it could happen to any believer. This was just the beginning of David's reverse process reversionism. There would be lying and murder and deception.

Reversionism 1Cor. 11:30 June 8, 2008

Sunday 1

Reverse means to face in the opposite direction of what you ought to face. This is simply divorce from Bible doctrine and becoming captivated by objects of pseudo love. Self-love and self-indulgence come to the forefront; such a believer is unteachable and incorrigible. At a certain point, God administers the sin unto death.

Verbal reversionism: habitual sins of the tongue; gossip, maligner, continually involved in verbal sins. James 5:9 illustrates this. 14–16 is physical illness as a result and v. 20 is the sin unto death. We have had a case history of Hymanaus and Alexander, who are called perpetual blasphemers.

Monetary reversionism where money supercedes all else. It is easy to be sidetracked by money. Annanias and Saphira in Acts 5:1–10. They were involved in a real estate deal, and held back part of it, but claimed that they were giving all of it to the church.

National reversionism. Hosea 4:1–6: social decay, economic decay and military defeat, which can go through the cycles of discipline. The leaders of Israel set the precedent.

However, Hezekiah recognized that he was at the end of his rope, and God gave him 15 more years to live. This means the sin unto death is for our benefit.

Anti-establishment reversionism, which is where the young people of the United States are, beginning back in the 60's. It is unclear at this point as to whether this will advance to national reversionism. Don't trust anyone over 30 is anti-establishment. Rom. 1:24–28 is anti-establishment thinking of unbelievers. The reversionistic believer who rejects Bible doctrine and the laws of divine establishment follows the same fate as the unbeliever.

Chemical reversionism (drug addiction); legalistic and ritualistic reversionism (found in Mexico and the Philippines).

Sexual reversionism, which will be the next service.

1Cor. 11:30: For this reason many are weak and sick among you, and many have been put to death.

Lesson #733 Sexual Reversionism 1Cor. 11:30 June 8, 2008 Sunday 2

We are studying reversionism which leads to the sin unto death. Reverse process reversionism often leads to the sin unto death.

The final category of sexual reversionism, which can lead to the sin unto death. David will be our case history, who is one of the greatest believers of the Old Testament. This case of the sin unto death was over the Uriah/Bathsheba affair. David failed as a leader, he committed adultery and then committed murder. This is from the man who would be in the line of Jesus Christ. A believer, any believer, can find himself or herself into maximum discipline, which should be a great warning to any of us.

What happened to David did not happen in a vacuum. He was no longer thinking as a spiritually mature believer, even though he was a mature believer from his teen years forward. He accomplished the great things of his life because of his reversionism. David became extremely arrogant with all of his success. Arrogance was the original sin of Adam. In David's arrogance, he went the path of sexual reversionism.

David was an extremely handsome man, and he was very talented. He was a musician and he was king. He had a wide range of choices and he was able to have his choice of women. He was a man of great power. In his arrogance, he acquired a harem. Acquiring a harem was a custom of all the great kings of that era. The size of a harem reflected the greatness of a king. It took a lot of money to maintain a harem. We studied Xerxes, during the time of Esther, who had a great harem.

David's pastime of collecting women distracted him. 2Sam. 5 describes David's distraction. David fell into the pattern of unrestrained fornication and adultery. That is a sure way to blackout of the soul and reverse process reversionism. He was so taken when he first saw Bathsheba.

2Sam. 11:2: It happened, late one afternoon, when David arose from his couch and was walking on the roof of the king's house, that he saw from the roof a woman bathing; and the woman was very beautiful.

This was David's weakness. She recognized how hot this woman was; he was quite the judge of feminine beauty. The fact that she was married did not matter to him. He was sleeping in and getting up late in the day. His army was at war, as they often did in the spring. He should have been with them, but he was not. He abdicated his responsibility. Lust is aroused by every beautiful woman. Same for a woman seeing a desirable man. Perverted lust can be aroused: homosexuality, pedophilia, bestiality.

2Sam. 11:3: And David sent and inquired about the woman. And one said, "Is not this Bathsheba, the daughter of Eliam, the wife of Uriah the Hittite?"

David asked about who she was.

2Sam. 11:4: So David sent messengers and took her, and she came to him, and he lay with her. (Now she had been purifying herself from her uncleanness.) Then she returned to her house.

David seized her, which suggests rape here. Their firstborn son died; but later, their mutual son, Solomon, would rule over Israel. David is in the depths of reversionism, and if it can happen to David, it can happen to any of us.

2Sam. 11:5: And the woman conceived, and she sent and told David, "I am pregnant."

Uriah was probably Semitic and he was a great soldier; indispensable in battle. He is not a man to lose. Uriah was a great man of integrity. We know this because he refused to go home and sleep with his wife. He just could not get Uriah to sleep with his wife, so that he would not know about his wife's pregnancy.

2Sam. 11:6: So David sent word to Joab, "Send me Uriah the Hittite." And Joab sent Uriah to David.

David brought in Uriah, and tried to get him to hook up with his wife twice, but Uriah would not do that. David then made certain that Uriah was on the battlefield, and Joab was to make him point man, and then to withdraw from him, leaving him there alone to die.

God then sent Nathan to David. God sent Nathan with a parable.

2Sam. 12:1–6: And the LORD sent Nathan to David. He came to him and said to him, "There were two men in a certain city, the one rich and the other poor. The rich man had very many flocks and herds, but the poor man had nothing but one little ewe lamb, which he had bought. And he brought it up, and it grew up with him and with his children. It used to eat of his morsel and drink from his cup and lie in his arms, and it was like a daughter to him. Now there came a traveler to the rich man, and he was unwilling to take one of his own flock or herd to prepare for the guest who had come to him, but he took the poor man's lamb and prepared it for the man who had come to him." Then David's anger was greatly kindled against the man, and he said to Nathan, "As the LORD lives, the man who has done this deserves to die, and he shall restore the lamb fourfold, because he did this thing, and because he had no pity."

A rich man takes a lamb from a poor man, and slaughters this lamb for his guests. David got quite self-righteous and said, this man should die. He did not even recognize that this story was a parable. He said, "Bring in this man and kill him." David said, "This man should die!" David pronounced his own punishment.

2Sam. 12:7–10: Nathan said to David, "You are the man! Thus says the LORD, the God of Israel, 'I anointed you king over Israel, and I delivered you out of the hand of Saul. And I gave you your master's house and your master's wives into your arms and gave you the house of Israel and of Judah. And if this were too little, I would add to you as much more. Why have you despised the word of the LORD, to do what is evil in his sight? You have struck down Uriah the Hittite with the sword and have taken his wife to be your wife and have killed him with the sword of the Ammonites. Now therefore the sword shall never depart from your house, because you have despised me and have taken the wife of Uriah the Hittite to be your wife.'

David, on the spot, rebounded. He even wrote a psalm about it.

Psalms 51:1–4: Have mercy on me, O God, according to your steadfast love; according to your abundant mercy blot out my transgressions. Wash me thoroughly from my iniquity, and cleanse me from my sin! For I know my transgressions, and my sin is ever before me. Against you, you only, have I sinned and done what is evil in your sight, so that you may be justified in your words and blameless in your judgment.

God has great compassion upon David, despite the fact that he had fallen so far. David was essentially recognizing how God's faithfulness kicked in. He asks God to wash him. I know my transgressions and my sin is every before me. "For I know my transgressions." He recognized what he had done. "Against You and You only have I sinned." A great rebound passage.

The result is found in 2Sam. 12:13:

2Sam. 12:13–14: David said to Nathan, "I have sinned against the LORD." And Nathan said to David, "The LORD also has put away your sin; you shall not die. Nevertheless, because by this deed you have utterly scorned the LORD, the child who is born to you shall die."

David recognized that he sinned and he sinned against all these other people; but he tells God that he sinned against God and God only. Now, in private, you may apologize to someone, but this is not necessary.

There were repercussions to what David did. His son Absalom revolted. He took David's wives and raped them in front of the city, and in front of David. Then Absalom pursued David for a year.

Psalms 118:17–18: I shall not die, but I shall live, and recount the deeds of the LORD. The LORD has disciplined me severely, but he has not given me over to death.

David wanted to proclaim the grace of God to the world, and God has not given him over to death. There were terrible repercussions for the rest of his life. He regained his doctrinal perspective .

David was a man after God's own heart; and he will do all of My will.

If you make a lot of bad decisions, there will be repercussions; but if you rebound, you will live. David is a testimony to God's grace. So it is about the Corinthians under the sin unto death.

1. The sin is confessed.
2. The discipline is discontinued.
3. The sin is forgiven.

Sin unto death

1. Chronically unconfessed sin.
2. Reversionism which persists unchecked.
3. Sin which ignores grace and previous warning and previous discipline.

Sin can be forgiven.

1Cor. 11:30: For this reason many are weak and sick among you, and many have been put to death.

Paul uses the 1st person plural here because Paul is included in naming sins. This is a part of all of our lives. Paul lets on that he does not escape disciplinary action any more than we do. It is a lot better to judge yourself than to have God do it for you. This is how we preclude divine discipline. Don't be afraid of all this; be motivated by this.

We will always face adversity in our lives; however, this will cut down on the discipline. Paul uses the 2nd class condition, which is approaching this from the negative approach. "If we judge ourselves [but we are not doing that right now], we will not be judged.

1Cor. 11:31: But if we judged ourselves truly, we would not be judged.

Lesson #734

1Cor. 11:28–31 June 15, 2008

Sunday 1

One of the Fx people in Dallas said, “Do you know that you have been teaching 1Cor. 10–11 for a year now?”

We have almost completed the somber subject of the judgment of carnality which began back in v. 27. The memorial of the Communion service and these people were liable for the blood of Christ. We are exhorted to self-examination. The alternative to no self-examination is weakness, illness and sleep.

The extent to which we can concentrate on the person of Jesus Christ is self-examination during the Communion service. Examining oneself is the step to fellowship with God. You examine yourself and acknowledge your sins to God.

The believer must examine himself and then he may partake of the bread and the cup: But let a man examine himself, and so let him eat of the bread and drink of the cup. For he who eats and drinks in an unworthy manner eats and drinks judgment to himself, not making a distinction regarding the Lord's body (1Cor. 11:28–29).

Sickness does not indicate divine discipline, but self-examination should make it clear whether this is the case or not. A person who is unteachable and will not judge himself, death is next. Discipline is always unpleasant, but it is designed for our benefit.

1Cor. 11:30: For this reason many are weak and sick among you, and many have been put to death.

Discipline is so easily avoided. We don't have to be judged. This begins with εἰ 1st person plural διακρίνω. You may have hated grammar in school, but the grammar is the essence of Scripture. The 1st person plural has great meaning, and Paul includes himself here. Paul is not above it all. So the Corinthians might feel a little better if Paul includes himself with them. He has softened his excoriating discourse.

Paul is saying, with the 1st person plural, that he did not escape discipline any more than the Corinthians did. He is commending this approach to them.

The premise is if we judge ourselves rightly which is a 2nd class conditional, which is a contrary to fact condition. It states something as if it were untrue, even though it may be, in actual fact, true. When an imperfect tense is used in a 2nd class conditional, the past tense refers to a current condition. This should take place now, and it should have been occurring before. You should be doing this, but you are probably not. Paul looks back. Judging oneself rightly is equivalent to self-examination. There is no confession of sins to others or to the congregation; now, this does not preclude an appropriate apology.

We must compare our own thoughts with the Word of God and its mandates. What is the mind of Christ that I am supposed to assimilate and think with? With doctrine as the criterion, it is easy to determine where discipline will be dispensed. The difference is obvious. Absolute truth versus your activities. Even when that doctrine is γνώσις in the left lobe. In this operation Z thing, where the Holy Spirit makes the information clear to your mind, and it is moved to the left lobe. When it is believed, it becomes ἐπίγνωσις. Γνώσις may seem to be an intermediate stop, but the very fact that γνώσις is in the left lobe means that it can be used to compare against other doctrines. Human viewpoint and divine viewpoint are distinguishable if γνώσις is present. Blackout of the soul and scar tissue of the soul, it does not even get that far. This does give you a basis for making a self-evaluation. A believer thinking with divine viewpoint, using applicable doctrine, using ἐπίγνωσις, his actions glorify God instead of himself. With Γνώσις, you can see it; with ἐπίγνωσις, you can do something about it.

Rightly indicates a purpose; is what I think in accordance with doctrine? Are my actions that of a believer who is advancing who has a testimony for Jesus Christ before the world? How well do I hide it? This is a great point of evaluation; how do you present yourself to the world. This way you know how you think or how you act. You can use γνώσις to self-evaluate. For some, it seems too threatening to evaluate yourselves. Human viewpoint will overshadow divine viewpoint in your life if most of what you have is γνώσις. Self-evaluation, rebound, and then advance. ἐπίγνωσις in the soul means that you can advance. Bible doctrine is the mind of Christ. Evaluate, do I have the mind of Christ? Is this the focus, the center of my thinking? It would be a tragedy to overlook such a question.

The pivot of mature believers was the topic of the Dallas Conference. We are the reason for our country going down or not. If we do not advance to maturity, we are the problem.

Bobby enjoys watching the news and finds it quite interesting, and even he wrings his hands a bit; but keep in mind the perspective: Jesus Christ controls history and we are the secret to the client nation as the pivot. Jesus Christ always honors that which is in our soul. Could God take this nation down? Of course He could. It is okay to be involved in politics and there is a place for believers in Jesus Christ in public office; but keep it in perspective. We are here to evangelize individuals, but we are not here to Christianize the nation. You cannot legislate Christianity; but you can legislate freedom.

The standard of Bible doctrine must be at least academic knowledge. When the Holy Spirit teaches the human spirit and it becomes γνώσις, then we have a point of transfer which we can use to compare other things to.

Your priorities tell you whether you are thinking with divine viewpoint or human viewpoint. The 2nd phase of judging oneself is to assess one's own spiritual life and progress.

1Cor. 11:31: But if we judged ourselves truly, we would not be judged.

We ought to ask ourselves, who am I and what am I in the spiritual life? Am I progressing or am I retrogressing. Γνώσις in the left lobe gives us a place for comparison. This gives us a platform of standards. It is critical for us to ask ourselves these questions. Do I think with the mind of Christ? Am I embarrassed about the mind of Christ? Am I embarrassed to publically reveal that I think with the mind of Christ? These are all indicators. This is a part of self-examination; self-evaluation. We have a basis for this evaluation. What happens when we do identify and acknowledge these sins? We all have the same problems of self-evaluation and application. It is very easy to slide into old patterns of thinking, into old wheel tracks of unrighteousness. We are exhorted to have a new manner of life, which means a new manner of thinking. When we do it rightly, when we make the assessment concerning our spiritual life, when we compare our thinking and lifestyle with what the Scripture says,...

We don't have to go through being judged by God. The stated judgements of being weak, sickly and dying; these judgments will be removed. None of us has ever lived who has not fallen under divine discipline. We may not know that it is divine discipline, but divine discipline always follows bad decisions. Divine discipline always follows those things which are not done rightly.

There are circumstances in our lives every day which are related to our own bad decisions and sometimes which are divine discipline. The point of self-evaluation. At the point of rebound and the beginning of spiritual advance, we have the opportunity to lift and shift the artillery fire upon us.

Results of Discipline

1. Discipline can be removed entirely when we rebound and we begin to advance. This is called cursing turned to blessing.
2. Discipline can decrease, but remain in part. There may be some residual suffering involved. Cursing is still turned to blessing. It is the grace of God.
3. Discipline may continue in its same intensity. This is truly cursing turned to blessing. When you advance spiritually, you can handle anything. God will not test you beyond what you are able to bear.

We have a wonderful God and he blesses us in many ways, and this can be through pressure and pain. If we are teachable, we learn through experience. We learn through painful experience and bad experience. Do you really want to step back and run headlong into a wall? When we do this too much, God simply takes us out. Pain and suffering is not an advantage in the unbelieving world. To the believer, this is an advantage. If we have rebounded and positive to doctrine, we move ahead. David rebounded, but was under intense suffering for the rest of his life. How many of you have raped and murdered? Don't raise any hands. David did this and he was the first to say that the grace of God guides me in every way. No matter how painful discipline is, it is still for our benefit. Just make the correct assessment, just name it and move out.

1Cor. 11:31: But if we judged ourselves rightly, we should not be judged.

Temporal present active participle of κρίνω. This is the basic root which means to judge. As a temporal participle, it is correctly rendered when we are judged or when we are disciplined, are legitimate ways to render this verse. Carnality, bad decisions and failure to self-examine. This is from God. This phrase no longer focuses on the cause for our discipline (which is us) nor are we examining the repercussions of our discipline, but we are looking at the source of our discipline. The Lord will drag us into the woodshed personally. Now, there is national discipline and corporate discipline of various types, but this is God looking you right in the eye and saying, "I did this to you." ὑπο + Κύριος = by the agency of the Lord. The agent administers discipline, which is the sovereign decision of God.

God Disciplines

1. The agent administers discipline which is the sovereign decision of God the Father.
2. It is administered from His justice. God is always fair and He is always right. God's discipline is always perfectly administered and the exact right amount.
3. God's discipline is given in love.

The last phrase of the verse begins with ἵνα which introduces a purpose clause. The purpose is always for recovery from carnality and recovery from reversionism. That is its basic purpose. We have it for another reason. The world is κόσμος which is the world system and refers to the cosmic system. This is Satan's domain, the world of the unbeliever. The unbeliever can only reside in the cosmic system. An unbeliever can only possess cosmic system thinking. This sounds like, at first blush, that God disciplines us so that we do not fall under the same condemnation as the world receives, which is eternity in the Lake of Fire. Is the correction of divine discipline keeping us from ending up under eternal discipline in the Lake of Fire? Absolutely not! The believer, once saved, cannot be condemned. The unbeliever is condemned.

This is not the same condemnation of the unbeliever. There is no condemnation for those who are in Christ Jesus (Rom. 8:1). How do we reconcile these verses? Paul here is writing with a play on words, which is something which He does a lot. Paul is playing with the verb κατακρίνω = to condemn someone to death. God certainly condemns the unbeliever forever to death. We should not forget John 3:18. He who believes in Him is not judged, but he who has not believed in Him is judged.

Condemnation, no matter how you slice it, is a death sentence, and this death sentence is applied to us. The reversionistic believer lives in the cosmic system. He will not be eternally judged, but he can be judged to temporal death for his reversionism. The reversionist, even as a part of the cosmos, cannot suffer eternal death; and they cannot lose their salvation, even though they are among the worst believers in the world. Once a person gets salvation, they cannot remove it, no matter what we do. Paul has made it clear that, despite the reversionism in Corinth, that they will not suffer eternal death. However, there is a sentence of death to those who are reversionists who have gone too far. This is temporal death, not eternal death. Unbelievers are eternally condemned and believers under the sin unto death are subject to temporal death. This is all about death.

The legalist tries to set up some sort of nebulous line; “You can’t sin like this and be a believer.” We ask them, “Where do I cross over? At which point do I lose it?” We may have a million sins or a billion; but once we believe in Jesus Christ, we are eternally saved. Without rebound, the sins affect our spiritual life. One of the biggest mixups in the Christian life mix up our spiritual lives with eternal life. Believers need to be concerned about divine discipline, but not about eternal discipline.

Unbelievers are judged in time with eternal repercussions; and they will be judged forever from the Great White Throne. Believers are judged and disciplined in time, and death can be the final outcome (the sin unto death). This is for the believer who rejects the self-examination. The reversionist who thinks and acts like the unbeliever, can end up dead—temporally, and after a great deal of pain. He is not facing eternal death.

1Cor. 11:32: But when we are judged, we are chastened by the Lord, that we may not be condemned with the world.

Lesson #736

1Cor. 11:32 June 18, 2008

Wednesday

Bobby was given an envelope from a 2nd generation Berachian, and it was Valedictorian message from a gal at a Christian school. Every action of our lives strikes some eternal cord. We are celebrating all that we have learned and all that we can still learn. We are armed with the best education, and we must make every action count. We have the Word of God, which tells us how we do this. We must continue to learn from the Word of God so that we can apply this from our lives. Grow in grace and knowledge of our Lord Jesus Christ. We must glorify God in all that we do. All of our decisions ought to be based upon divine thinking. Sometimes the smallest decisions can be the most harmful or the most beneficial to us. Character may be revealed in the big moments, but character is developed in the small moments. In the college world, there will be man who don’t care to accept this truth. They are dissatisfied in many cases because they have already found themselves and are disappointed. With God, anything is possible. Grace and peace be multiplied, seeing that His grace and divine power...

It is good to know that this young lady has doctrine in her soul. She could not say this in a public school. She is a part of the young pivot of believers who continue to grow.

The discipline of v. 30 is divine discipline. It is precipitated by our own bad decisions and actions. This verse is no longer directed toward the cause of discipline, which is ourselves, but we are focusing on the One giving us the discipline.

Divine discipline is designed to shake up the soul; it is designed to slap us around, metaphorically speaking. It rattles our cage. It jerks us around so that we can see and self-examine. Renewing the positive volition necessary to advance to spiritual maturity. Discipline becomes personal and designed to get us going in the right direction. Some of us need more discipline than others. God knows what will get our attention when we need it.

We will make mistakes; learn from them. This is the grace of God extended through His discipline.

There is another reason given here for divine discipline. ...that we may not be condemned along with the world. The unbeliever is condemned to the final judgment and being cast into the Lake of Fire. This is not the final destiny of anyone who has exhibited faith in Christ. The cosmos (κοσμος) is the world system of Satan and the world of the unbeliever. Satan is condemned already and the unbeliever is condemned as well and shares Satan's destiny. Can this verse mean that the Corinthians are not saved and could end up in the Lake of Fire? Is Paul saying that only the fire of divine discipline will preclude the fire in hell? Hell is averted by faith alone in Christ alone. This is a verse directed toward believers. There is no condemnation to those who are in Christ Jesus. Once saved, always saved by the grace of God. Our salvation is assured by His immutability. If God gave salvation and took it away, then God would not be God. God never changes. When God gives something, it cannot be taken away. These Corinthians are in Christ. This phrase always refers to a believer in Christ. These believers are in line for condemnation. This phrase is Paul's play on words, specifically the word κατακρινω. This means to condemn someone to death. This is far stronger than simple judgment. This is a sentence of death for the believer and the unbeliever. There is a difference between these two condemnations. Remember the context; there is a sentence of death being administered to the Corinthians. Paul is reinforcing the seriousness of the doctrine with this statement. They know what the unbeliever's condemnation is. Unbelievers are judged with eternal repercussions; they will be judged on the day of judgment. At some point, they will hear, "You are being sent to the Lake of Fire because you refused to believe in Jesus Christ." They will spend eternity in hell because they have rejected Christ on the cross. The believer is rejected because he has rejected self-examination; and he has neglected or rejected doctrine. The believer out of fellowship, the believer on the road to reversionism; the believer who thinks in a relative way, that is the way of the cosmos. Satan is the most relative of the creatures. We will still spend eternity in heaven, and we may hear "Well done, My good and faithful servant; and we may hear, get in there."

This is a parallel of the horrific sin unto death and it is being compared to the Lake of Fire. We will avoid the condemnation of the final judgment and we have the choice in life to avoid the sin unto death.

Paul's appeal here is interesting and very effective; it nails the believer right between the eyes. Both the unbeliever and the reversionist are under a death sentence. This is not how we normally think of the believer. When we think about our life, we think about the wonderful provision of eternal life. It is rewarding in heaven and on earth. This verse is a jolt to the Corinthian thinking. Paul has his hands full with these Corinthian believers.

Bobby had a side thought of all this, and it does not deal with this directly. This is about the believer and the unbeliever in our verse, and it is about believers and unbelievers in our life. Unbelievers have less rules and more self-indulgent options; they can please themselves without all the Biblical constraints which we have. Sin and carnality is not an issue for unbelievers for the most part, although some do have more morality than we do. The mandates of Scripture are not on their radar screen. They do not have to consider doctrinal issues. The thought may creep into our heads...this occurred to Bobby on Sunday when there is the nod to God crowd. "My unbelieving friends are spending a day on the beach; they are on a boat; they are sleeping in after a wild Saturday night; or they are sitting down with a beer watching tv. This is a great night to be out at some watering hole. But here I am in Bible class instead of checking out the talent somewhere. I am listening to doctrine, but I am doing it grudgingly." The more doctrine you absorb and inculcate, the better your life is. This life which we have is not just about restrictions and mandates. Too many see this life as, you can't do this or you can't do that; and many people see the Christian life as mandates and prescriptions. However, there is no comparison between lives of the believer and the unbeliever. For the unbeliever, these moments of indulgence are as good as it gets. It will never get any better; and they will spend eternity in the Lake of Fire. Whatever they seem to have in terms of freedom of action, we have an infinitely greater advantage. We have the capability of a greater life if we take advantage of it. Doctrine gives us the capacity to enjoy legitimate pursuits and also a capacity for prosperity. So many fail the prosperity, believers and unbelievers both. The reversionist and the unbeliever are on the same track. Without the capacity for that, it will never be that good. They do not have capacity for what they have. We are a materialistic society and it does not make people happy at all. When we die, we will have eternity in heaven. For the unbeliever, they will have some fleeting moments. We will have the best temporal life that we can have, and then eternity in heaven.

Paul is saying, "Why do you want the life of unbelievers?" You can experience divine discipline, which is an added bonus for us, because we don't get that. You can turn reversionism into stress. Even then, we have the edge. We should live our lives in the light of eternity.

3 Concluding Points

1. Paul's statement equates the carnal, reversionist believer with the unbeliever. There is no comparison, actually.
2. Paul does this with the play on words condemnation. Unbelievers are under this condemnation and they cannot be released from it.
3. This is no joke; this is serious stuff; and we cannot be released from it.

This sums up communion and reveals a great purpose for Communion; unity for the body of Christ. We will come to the final few verses on Thursday.

1Cor. 11:32: But when we are judged, we are chastened by the Lord, that we may not be condemned along with the world.

In these final two verses of this chapter, Paul concludes this particular subject. The Communion ritual is a solemn function, and Paul needed this to be done right. He goes back to this in vv. 33–34. Paul will give them a conclusion which is punctuated with a command.

The good, the bad and the impossible are all Paul's brothers. He is further softening the severity of what he is going to say. Bobby will do this and call everyone his brothers and sisters. Paul is making it clear that he has not deserted them in their sinfulness; nor has God.

V. 33 answers a problem which has been on Paul's mind. In the love feast, there has been no love and no fellowship nor has there even been common courtesy. They have been rude to one another in every possible way. The attitude of love is from virtue in the soul. It is like love is derived from virtue which is gained by spiritual advance. Love gains capacity in this advance. Virtue love takes precedence over the faults and flaws in people. There was no love going on at this feast. Virtue love comes from the virtue developed in the soul. The attitude and the capacity for virtue love is always measured in terms of spiritual advance. The latter leads to the former. You cannot have capacity for love until you have first developed the capacity in the soul. When he gain and learn personal love for God allows us to have capacity for love for others. We cannot tell someone that we do not know that we love them. We can only love God by actually knowing Him. Personal love is the beginning of virtue. This is the motivation for personal love for anyone and impersonal love for all. This is what is missing in Corinth. You just do not pop out with impersonal love one day. Most believers have no idea as to how to love those that they do not like. Bobby in seminary found it found to see how those who were there trying to like him. If you are close an intimate with someone, then it is normal that there will be times that you do not like them. That is when impersonal love needs to kick in.

The virtue of the subject. Virtue love means that those slaves in the Corinthian church who got off for awhile to join this congregation; virtue love meant that these slaves would not be excluded from fellowship because of their social station.

Paul will hammer away on the fact that these people are a body; they are the body of Christ and a body workers together. Kindness, patience and humility needs to be pouring out of this church.

Paul's answer to this is, therefore, when you come together, my brothers, wait for one another. Remember, they came to eat; they came to satisfy themselves. One would take a meal and exclude the others. Some were turned away or ignored. They continued to discredit one another and to exert authority over one another. Every part of our world is dog eat dog; and it ought not to be this way in church. What do you gain by being superior to anyone else in this room? What do you gain by the manifestation of impersonal love? There is no excuse in this auditorium forever. In elementary school, you chose up friends and ones you did not want to know, and church should not be this way. People showed up and had the expectation of sharing in this love feast; but certain ones were excluded. The ones who brought plenty of food snubbed others. They just started right in. "Do you think that I am going to wait for some poverty stricken slave? I don't even like them." This is exactly what impersonal love is not. This is total arrogance. It is a mockery of the purpose of this love feast. This is a corrupt social agenda. When you arrive to church to participate in the social agenda, there are problems. If you show up for approbation, for food, for the pecking order. Do not have any illusions about this. Some are hungry while watching others indulge themselves even to the point of drunkenness. Some are outcasts on the outside looking in; and some are with the social crowd. The caste and the social element of this church far outweighed the spiritual elements. They were destroying the love feast and the Communion which followed.

What have we just covered? Self-examination: look at yourselves; recognize what you are doing and how you are acting. The fruit just does not happen; it comes from the doctrine in your soul.

The phrase wait for one another is the doctrinal approach for what is going on. Present active imperative of εκδέχομαι, which is a mandate. There is more than just waiting. There is a connotation of looking for or expecting or anticipation. This is a reaching out in fellowship with like-minded believers, who have inculcated Bible doctrine, so that they can worship together in unity. This is the greatest unity that there is. Everyone else in church who is there for the right reason is doing the exact same thing.

The greatest relationships in this world come from like-mindedness. This is active, not passive. It is not a chore for us to wait for it. It is waiting with enthusiasm. This is a certain attitude toward others in the church. This is not a forced smile; not a human phoney attitude; this is an attitude which is a demonstration of phoney human action. Do you think God wants to associate with us? Do you think we deserve this? The attitude which He gives to us is the attitude which we should extend toward others. With the like-mindedness of doctrine, there is a bond; even with those that you barely know or even don't like. The bond exists in all 3 categories. I don't know you but I know you. You mutually support one another in a life and death struggle. We are a band of brothers like no others. The Berachah battalion. Not enough churches teach doctrine. We are all on the front lines of the Angelic Conflict together. Some of us get lonely because the group we used to be in we no longer fit in anymore. The common ground of a band of brothers. This is a rare, rare association.

Isolation from like-minded believers is a great deposit in life. Even if the people you are around and even if they are very attractive, they do not think like we do, so the attractiveness fades. The difference is how you think; not how you look or they look or how exciting it is to be with them.

For 10 years, Bobby was in isolation when in the service. You are quite vulnerable when you are away from those that you have a common bond with. At times, Bobby was able to hang out with these tapers, and this was a great oasis in his life. Bobby can recall a house when stationed in Hawaii and there was always a bond there. This was quite different then going to a seminary where there is this great legalism. There was an Fx group in Portland, which was support and refreshment. There was tremendous refreshment in that. This is an experience only found among like-minded believers.

God takes up the slack whenever we are in isolation. There is a wonderful unity in the body of Christ. Without those associations, it is much easier to capitulate to human viewpoint. Creeping human viewpoint, and it is so easily appropriated when you have nothing else. Particularly when you move away from the momentum of Bible doctrine and move away from the fellowship with like-minded people.

1Cor. 11:33: Therefore, my brethren, when you come together to eat, wait for one another.

1Cor. 11:34: But if anyone is hungry, let him eat at home, that you may not come together unto judgment. And the rest I will set in order when I come.

Lesson #738

1Cor. 11:33 June 22, 2008

so then begins v. 33, and they take us to a conclusion of a particular subject. There have been discussions of long and short hair and authority (vv. 2–16); communion and divine discipline and the sin unto death (vv. 17–32).

After Paul has spent this entire chapter ripping these people apart, Paul calls them brothers. He says, when you come together to eat. There is divisiveness and reversionism at this church. The real problem for communion begins and centers around the love feast, which occurs prior to the ritual of the communion. In that feast, there was no fellowship, love or unity. The factions were clearly in evidence. There was little harmony, compassion, humility, grace orientation, or anything of Christian virtue in this love feast. There was plenty of tension and it had become a stumbling block. So, what is Paul's conclusion to this? Wait for one another. This is a mandate in order to unify this church. Divisiveness should not be the mode for this church. What makes a church a great church? People need a reason to get up in the morning and drag themselves into church. There has to be a desire for something; there must be positive volition toward something. This is a question which we should all answer. Many decide on a church home based upon the social life found within the church. What a friendly church. People like meeting people and a church is just one more place where this can be done. You can find an active social life in many different places. Sometimes, people choose a church based upon how a church interacts with the community, which often has nothing to do with evangelism and more to do with charities. This does not make a church unique or worthwhile. You can do good deeds and label them as Christian when they are just human good. It does not take a church to do charity work. Some choose a church for an emotional experience. People link God with emotion and they call it worship. The Richter scale of emotional quaking does not define the greatness of any church. Or, people find a church where their kids can learn something about Christianity. This is not a bad reason for attending a church, but it should not be the complete reason. The unique and critical reason is the accurate consistent, literal exegesis, interpretation and teaching of the infallible Word of God, which can be found no where else. This includes Fx groups and video groups.

We grow better in this sort of academic environment. A believer has no other way of understanding the plan of God or living the Christian life. There is no other way. One person asked Bobby, why do you go to church so much? Most see churches as being a once a week obligation for the Christian. Some expect to hear a nice, inspiring sweet homily. Our lives are centered in the Lord Jesus Christ, He is the absolute center of our lives, and if this is the most important aspect of our lives and His plan, then daily church is important.

There are 168 hours in a week and take away 56 hours of sleep with 112 waking hours. Is it really too much to spend 4–7 hours a week out of this 112 for the most important part of our lives? We spend most of our waking hours and days surrounded by human viewpoint, including the company of unbelievers who have no interest in the plan of God or Bible doctrine. Doctrine is the believer's lifeline. It is the only thing in this world which is not humanistic or relative. This is the only way to advance, the only way to know the Word of God. This is why some people go on mp3's and DVD's because they are starving.

There is another aspect of the assembly aspect, which is the community of spiritual like-mindedness formed by the souls of believers. Nowhere else can be found the spiritual like-mindedness. Of course, this must occur in the doctrinal church. There is no association in life greater than with those few people. When you meet someone with a relaxed mental attitude, it is evident and relaxing. It is a long ways from legalism and self-gratification. It can be found nowhere else. You cannot find spiritual like-mindedness without doctrine in the soul. We require this common ground. We live in a community surrounded by human viewpoint. The common ground of Bible doctrine is the only community of divine viewpoint in the midst of this cosmic system. You can have great friends outside the church. You can have believing friends who do not have Bible doctrine in their souls. The most intimate rapport will be with those with doctrinal like minds. There is nothing like the refreshment of the like-minded believer. Bobby knows some people at Berachah and he cannot get away from them fast enough.

Rick Hughes spends hours on the road teaching kids the gospel and basic doctrine. He gives them a taste of what Bible doctrine is. He is often out there isolated; he is around other believers at these schools, but often without those of a like mind. When he returns to Berachah, it is nothing but refreshment for him. It is an oasis of divine viewpoint. This like-mindedness is important to him. Bobby's known Rick for 35 years. These are some of Bobby's greatest times. They could be relaxed and they both look at life in the light of eternity based upon Bible doctrine. We are truly a band of brothers. There is no association in life like the one between two people living in the light of eternity. Not in the light of relativism, humanism and materialism. Bible doctrine is sufficient for all circumstances. This bond is like no other. The bond that we have is based upon Bible doctrine, and that was not what the church in Corinth was experiencing.

Paul tells this Corinthians wait for each other. Εκδοχομαι present active imperative: it connotes looking for, expecting, with a desire and a motivation. It is not just a passive approach. This is reaching out to other believers who worship the same Jesus Christ in a concentrated ἐπίγνωσις of understanding. The real bond is the doctrine in our souls.

We have this common ground for the enjoyment of everything else in life. It is not a chore to wait for; it is not something which is difficult. It is something to anticipate with great enthusiasm.

1Cor. 11:33: Therefore, my brethren, when you come together to eat, wait for one another.

Lesson #739

1Cor. 11:33–34 June 22, 2008

ἐκδέχομαι = 1) to receive, accept; 2) to look for, expect, wait for, await.

Bobby has been at some larger Thieme gatherings and there could be quite contentious. In Corinth, this was a family fight. The communion table is a singular moment of fellowship with the Lord. One entire chapter is spend on communion, because it is that important. It should be a moment of unity of like-minded believers which should carry over into all associations.

This is not a call to wait for one's particular social strata. This is a call to wait for all the believers there, regardless of their social status. Ἀλλήλους or allēlōn (ἀλλήλων) [pronounced al-LAY-lohn], which means one another, reciprocally, mutually. This is a reciprocal plural pronoun. Strong's #240. You don't get to wait for just those you like, and not those who are of a different status than you. You are unified by being in Christ and a desire for spiritual advance.

Walking into Berachah does not mean that you are immediately accepted. However, this is what should be. For by one Spirit we are all baptized into the body of Christ. We are made to drink from one Spirit. Race, social standing, vocation make no difference in the body of Christ.

Spiritual advance among the members. If one limb is dragging and the other is moving, you are out of step. We must move forward as a body. The like-minded believer and the entire body, who may or may not be like-minded. We are still all in this position. We need to get together and advance as a body, and we are one well-oiled machine. If we get too far out of step with the body, there is always discipline, which goes all the way to the sin unto death. There is no way to misunderstand what Paul is saying. The communion table is one great point of unity. This unites us as those who have believed in Jesus Christ. Bobby observes a unity of concentration in Berachah, a united concentration on the Person and work of Jesus Christ. This is not because we are singing in unison or swaying back and forth like the Aggies do. It is because there are moments of concentration as a body. Then we might pick up an mp3 or a DVD and take up the slack for that other hour/day. Mature believers are the impetus for that unity. The mandate for fellowship and unity.

Bobby can also see when some people are out of synch. He can tell when some are not concentrating but they are looking about. This is why Bobby doesn't use power point. The point is, Bobby wants our concentration, and that is the unity at Berachah. We are taking in the same doctrine and we are advancing and growing, advancing to spiritual maturity together. This is not a personal thing, it is a group thing.

1Cor. 11:33: Therefore, my brethren, when you come together to eat, wait for one another.

V. 34 will preclude divine discipline. In this context, there is a divisive love feast. Protasis of a 1st class condition, which means there is a reality to this premise: If anyone is hungry,... Paul is addressing those who are causing the divisiveness. Those who bring the food and plan to eat it, and they have plenty to eat. Paul is being very practical with this group of believers. He is giving a simple, logical solution. He is telling them to stop this divisive love feast. There is resentment, people are left out. First way to stop what is going on, stop the love feast. The solution to our problems is not found in relationships with others, even with like-minded believers. Stop the relationships that you are having problems with. You have to say no somewhere, so here is where Paul is going to stop the problems. The love feast is problematic and it is divisive. This halt will not stop all of the problems, but it will stop some things. The problems which are occurring will stop. There is a feast problem, so eat at home instead.

Present active imperative of  $\epsilon\sigma\theta\iota\omega$  = to eat. This is a command; not a suggestion. Do not set up a picnic and then exclude others. Do not bring this love feast prior to the communion table. This will keep them from diving into the food when they first arrive. By the time others were arriving, the food was gone, and some were drunk; and some got insulting and cruel; and some were deliberately excluded. They are to stop fomenting resentment. One of the worst problems for this church was this love feast. Apparently, at one time, people did eat at Berachah, a long time ago. Bob stomped many a fire in Berachah and he did it for the good of the body. We have a unified body because some people were stomped in the past. The objective is to stop fomenting resentment in this selfish activity.

Eat at Home

1. Eat at home is the exhibition of common courtesy and good manners toward all. Eating at home is the way that others are not made jealous.
2. This is a stop-gap for divisiveness. This is not the complete solution. This is good manners. Bobby demands good manners from us so that everyone can concentrate.
3. This measure will preclude other believers from entering into a state of resentment or anger or vituperation. There will be at least this external stumbling block.
4. The revelers will not be a stumbling block to the immature, the slaves, the poor, or those who are sick and tired of it all.
5. Instead of stop-gap measures, as believers mature, they can operate with impersonal love and spiritual growth. Because the environment is good for growth, the body of Christ can grow spiritually.
6. No more divisiveness over this love feast.
7. In that process, the believer becomes occupied with Christ instead of with himself or with his own arrogance. Occupation with Christ is the true attitude for communion and spiritual like-mindedness. Everything else falls into place at this point. The bonus is fellowship and unity.

There is nothing wrong with a love feast. However, they are to stop this because it has become a stumbling block. This is the law of love.

Then Paul adds a purpose clause. ...that you may not come together for judgment. They were coming together and some were weak, sick and some slept; this was the discipline which some of them faced.

Then Paul makes an abrupt statement to close this chapter. After all of these specifics and all of the subjects which he has taken up, and after dealing with these specifics, he will give one final statement.

1Cor. 11:34:But if anyone is hungry, let him eat at home, that you may not come together unto judgment. And the rest I will set in order when I come.

Lesson #740

1Cor. 11:34b June 25, 2008

Wednesday

And the remaining matters I will arrange when I come. This is a sentence which seems detached from the rest of the chapter. He says, I'll be there later and I will take care of some things. This is a post script; it has a very practical purpose, and it has one very practical point of doctrine right here.

Most of us have been in some sort of planning stage for a fundraiser, a business meeting, a wedding or a party; and there are all these details. There are always a number of details to be arranged. The first order to be dealt with are setting down specific details and what will be done. All of the major arrangements are made; but there are all of these fine points, the little details, which cannot be completed until the event or shortly before the event. You may say to your fellow planners, we will just deal with these few things as they come up.

This chapter has a lot of practical application, and there is a lot of intense meaning for us here in our everyday lives. This chapter has a major impact on the Corinthian church. These are items which will not wait. These problems must be dealt with right away, and Paul is dealing with real world problems. Paul says there will be some last minute details which Paul will deal with later.

Paul quickly concludes with one final sentence. It is if he is now in a hurry to move on. Here, the final sentence deals with the Communion Table and the Love Feast, and he will cover some additional details.

Aorist active subjunctive of ερχομαι the subjunctive and the particle αν implies vagueness and uncertainty in this sentence. Then he throws in the particle ος, and it means whenever I arrive [and if I arrive]. future middle indicative of διατασσω, which means to set in order, to prescribe. The doctor will prescribe some further solutions. There are some unspecified problems, and he will deal with those.

These Corinthians are problem children. Paul uses the accusative neuter plural of λοιπος, which means the other things. The Corinthians are loaded with additional problems. They are of lesser importance. Apparently the Holy Spirit did not see it necessary for us to know what these other things are.

There are probably additional things which are characteristic of this church. Maybe it was something in church organization or maybe just another question. Part of the reason that Paul addresses some questions sent to him from the Corinthians.

Local churches do have problems from time to time which have nothing to do with doctrine. Paul's gift is to teach them doctrine; but there are other specifics which are dealt with in another way. A lot of this has nothing to do with Biblical doctrine. There are also other problems which are not doctrinal in origin.

I would guess that this would still deal, in part, with the love feast or the Communion Table.

In the local church, there must be authority. Paul has already dealt with authority orientation. He is saying, I will show up and deal with the minor problems. There needs to be some personal supervision or authority and this requires a gift. The general principle is, there might be a gift involved.

In churches, little problems become big problems if they are not dealt with. The administrative leadership of this church handles the problems of Berachah beautifully.

1Cor. 11:34: But if anyone is hungry, let him eat at home, that you may not come together unto judgment. And the rest I will set in order when I come.

Summary of the Subject of Communion

1. The festivals of the Jews, especially Passover, as well as the sacrificial feasts of the Gentiles were social meals. They celebrated divine association with man.
2. The Passover, which included the sacrificing and eating of a lamb, which represented the Lamb of God, which represents Jesus Christ, who was slaughtered for us on the cross. He was our substitute, dying a substitutionary spiritual death.
3. It was at the last Passover meal that Jesus Christ instituted the Communion ritual. Where was this Communion ritual begun? At the Last Supper.
4. On the other side of the coin, heathen feasts celebrated gods and goddesses in various forms of worship. There was all sorts of worship in the Gentile temples, including the phallic cult.
5. This Gentile feast was indeed a social meal, and of an entirely different approach than the Passover. Social intercourse of all types, drunkenness and overeating and over-indulging.
6. Despite the different character of the meals. Whether true or false gods, and the manner of worship, both types were a part of the social milieu of the participants.
7. There is no mystery as to why the Corinthian church made up of Jews and formerly heathen Greeks. The predominant people at this church would have been Greeks. They were sets who combined for a social meal, called the Love Feast.

8. Because of the fact that the church was made up predominantly of Greeks, it is no wonder that the ritual itself became connected with simply satiating their hunger. They did not go to memorialize the Lord Jesus Christ, but more to eat and drink.
9. This was also the problem. The love feast got completely out of hand.
10. The love feast became a time of divisiveness which fomented great reversionism. The Jews became very legalistic and they divided up into various factions, and went to war with one another.
11. The Corinthians were approaching the communion table without self-examination. They did not evaluate themselves, and they did not acknowledge what they found to be wrong. They did not rebound. This resulted in discipline.
12. In so doing, not self-evaluating, they were perverting the Lord Jesus Christ's sacrifice for sins. the Communion is a memorial to our Lord's sacrifice for sins. Nothing is more critical or meaningful or solemn.
13. Paul corrects this terrible abuse, which included the sin unto death. They had the opportunity to utilize the discipline that they received for recovery.
14. The legitimate object was the memorial of the Lord Jesus Christ, rather than the love feast and all of the social activities which went with it.
15. The intimate fellowship was between the believer and the Lord Jesus Christ through the application of soteriological doctrine. All of these points should be triggering a memory response for what we have studied.
- 16.
17. Communion was the highest act of worship which combines all the elements of the spiritual life. This was a very critical understanding.
  - a. Rebound at the Communion service was so important, that some who did not do this, died the sin unto death.
  - b. The element of the spiritual life the knowledge of the Christian life. Corinthians has been filled with great doctrine. This doctrine taught should be metabolized, circulated, and then applied. It should be used in every area of your life.
  - c. Application of soteriological doctrine in the memorial and the application of doctrine in your life.
18. All of this is a microcosm of the way that every believer lives the Christian life.
19. This meal took on the added importance to every believer at the means of self-evaluating his own spiritual life and growth. The self-evaluation that we must continuously do.
20. So, the church was to move from one extreme from one extreme of communion perversion to another of a full understanding and a meaningful worship and spiritual life.
21. At the center of this change, was the change from spiritual immaturity to spiritual adulthood.
22. The more mature you are in your spiritual life, the more meaningful the Communion ritual is. You have the Communion and you have your spiritual life. Every time we come into church for the Communion Service, we are checking our spiritual maturity.

23. The more mature you are, the more you can live the spiritual life in a way which glorifies God. The Communion Service allows us to evaluate this.
24. The more mature you are, the greater the like-mindedness between you and others who are also mature.
25. The more mature you are, the greater the production and service that you render to the Lord.

We are now beginning 1Cor. 12. We have to know where we are going in this chapter. This begins a completely new section in the epistle. From v. 1 to 1Cor. 14, the general topic is spiritual gifts. We get to see how our spiritual functions. How is this doctrine in your soul manifested? Is this practical? This is where you meet the rest of the world. This is where Bible doctrine comes to the surface in the power of the Holy Spirit so that we might produce fruit in the spiritual life. Salvation is faith in Christ, even if we do nothing with our spiritual gift. Production is good thing. Fruit inspectors versus fruit producers. This utilization of our spiritual gift is directly connected to the spiritual life. We will see the use and misuse of spiritual gifts. We need to see the positive in this subject. These gifts are all about you. We all have a spiritual gift. We need to know what they are, how they operate, and it would be good to know what our gift is. We will know how and how they operate. We are all the proud possessors of at least 1 spiritual gift.

In these gifts, we will have a change to evaluate ourselves. Another opportunity for us, on a very practical note, to see where we are spiritually. We will also see failure by the Corinthians and their true-to-form Reversionism.

There is power politics in everything. And some gifts seem to be more spectacular than others. Wouldn't it be impressive if someone started speaking in a foreign language, or someone else healing or someone else prophesying. These gifts were all present, and those with the gifts felt superior, and those with the gifts thought, I have it, and you don't. The others felt inferior. The Corinthian misuse will be a beacon for all of us.

Lesson #741

1Cor. 12 intro June 27, 2008

Thursday

The Corinthians are poster children for failure. Paul has, by application of doctrine to their thinking and actions, has taught us Bible doctrine as well. Through their failures, we see categories of doctrine, but we see the equally important application of these same doctrines. This makes for a great vantage point for instruction and teaching. Paul not only presents divinely inspired doctrine, but he makes application to the carnal Corinthians. We study the doctrine and see a practical application of its use.

Some have told Bobby that they love the application found in 1Corinthians. This is how we know the categorical doctrine and how it works in our lives. Here is great doctrine and great application. Paul instructs us of the doctrine which we must learn. In this method, he brings us to a sense of urgency. We see a need in all of this to metabolize doctrine, not just a mandate to metabolize doctrine. We are mandated to grow in grace and knowledge of our Lord and Savior. We also get a sense of urgency, and we see a need. Paul is motivating us to metabolize doctrine by showing us its importance to our lives.

This is like a soldier entering into the military during a time of war. He has a sense of urgency as well as importance during a time of war. He wants to survive and he wants to complete the mission as well. Doctrine and its application are our training for the real world of combat in the Angelic Conflict. Doctrine and its application are our training. The Holy Spirit is intimately involved in all of this as well. They are in the midst of all sorts of problems. Paul presents doctrine and he shows how this doctrine is applied in these circumstances. We see where are applications in life meet with solutions.

We often learn from our own mistakes or from the mistakes of others. Through this epistle, we can avoid the mistakes of the Corinthians. We deduce doctrinal solutions. From Paul's practicality, we deduce solutions. The normal way is, we get the doctrine and then we go out and apply it. In Paul's approach in Corinthians, we see the problem and learn the doctrine in the solution of the problem. This is the reverse of how we normally learn things. Instead of learning the principle and then applying the principle, we learn the application and circumstances first, and deduce the doctrine from there. Utilizing the doctrine, by illustration, by example and by circumstances.

The negative side of life's circumstances. When we have great negative circumstances in our life, we are more likely to gravitate toward solutions outside of ourselves.

Paul is a genius; he knows what he is doing. He loves to deal in circumstances and presents doctrine in circumstances. Learning doctrine is only half of the equation of the spiritual life. The other half is making application to your spiritual life. A great verse in James, which is highly misunderstood: But prove yourselves doers of the word and not merely hearers. Hearers are learners; hearers and doers are both believers. You hear it, you metabolize it and then you do it. You cannot leave doctrine inside the auditorium only.

Paul is not just presenting categories of doctrine to hearers, but practical doctrine to doers. Right now, we are hearers of doctrine; and when we walk out the doors, we can become doers. If there is no application, you know doctrine, but you do not use it.

Paul will take doctrine one more step, to the results of the spiritual life. If you have the first two, then you get the 3rd. Utilizing spiritual gifts is the result of metabolizing and applying doctrine. Paul shows us how the Corinthians misuse their gifts.

Keep two things in mind as we move forward: the doctrine we know and apply is reflected in our service and our production in using spiritual gifts. Secondly, the production of our spiritual life is the result of doctrine and its application. If you can remember these two facts, then we have a big start on the next few chapters.

The Corinthians will not change from chapter to chapter. They will demand high standing in their church, and they will use their gifts for a personal power grab.

Bobby will cite their failures, then there will be the solution and the result. Failure, doctrine, application and result.

The problem with spiritual gifts in Corinth

1. If one gift in the Corinthian church was presumably more important than another, then they all wanted this gift. They were competitive and arrogant; big fish in a little pond.
2. They all desire to be the most important based upon their gift. Their emphasis upon the hierarchy of gifts.
3. If someone did not have one of the more important, desirable gifts, they became of lesser stature in the church. They were 2nd class citizens. This escalated the divisiveness. In this way, this section is a continuation of the Communion subject and the importance of unity and diversity in a church.
4. The prevailing opinion was, the spectacular, visible gifts were the best. They saw great results; and they liked that. Spectacular gifts made for a superior believer.
5. In other words, they thought that God put His favor on those with those gifts. It is easy to see what their problem was.
6. Visibly gifted believers—and there were many in this church—they became contemptuous of those who did not have them.
7. They looked down upon those who were not so well endowed with spectacular gifts. Worse, the misconceived God's fairness in distributing His gifts. Everyone gets the gift which he needs and can handle. To say that one gift is greater than another is to say that God is unfair and that He plays favorites.
8. One other problem surfaced in all of this: these spectacular gifts which were most valued and most desired were not the gifts which were necessarily the most useful to the church.
9. They were the most conspicuous of gifts, making the recipient of these gifts the most distinguished of believers. You can just hear the Corinthians crowing about their gifts. "I am superior and the rest of you are not as favored by me. Obviously, God gave a special gift to me because I am special."

Some believers with communication gifts had presented themselves in just this arrogant way. Ungraciousness, contemptuousness and great egotism continue to be here. To reveal and correct this problem, Paul uses an illustration. Paul illustrates with the basis of the body.

The Body

1. The body is a whole, but it is the sum of many parts.
2. All of these parts of the body work together for the overall function of the one unit of the body.
3. It is true that certain parts of the body are more important than others.
4. For example, nothing of the body works apart from the brain and the nervous system.

5. But, neither can the body function if all its members were just that one part. All managers and no workers.
6. So, the body requires many parts to function as a whole. This may seem so obvious, that there is not reason to write these down, but there will be a payoff.
7. The body cannot function to maximum efficiency without all of its parts working in unison.
8. Any part which is missing is a handicap. The illustration Paul will use hands and feet as examples. Each spiritual gift of each believer is a part that is necessary for the entire body.

The Payoff of the Body Analogy

1. Each member refers to a member of the body of Christ.
2. The brain is the mind of Christ which must communicate with the body.
3. The body of Christ is the universal church. Every believers in Jesus Christ.
4. Every believer has members of the body and they possess his or her own gift (which is his function); and that gifts functions as the mind of Christ directs.
5. No believer is left out. No believer is left behind. Every person who believes in Jesus Christ has a spiritual gift. We have one and we can utilize it.
6. Since no believer is left out, every believer is an integral and necessary part of the body. We are all functioning parts of the body.
7. Each member of the church, each believer is analogous to a body part and must function in coordination and harmony. This is a doctrine of ecclesiology using the body. Practical, as per Paul's methodology. We are all to be in lock step. An incredible sight to see is every step and movement of a army parade. When one person is out of step, it is obvious. Players in athletics work together as a team. The church is a team; it is a military unit in that sense. When one part malfunctions, the church is less effective. You either play it or you don't.
8. We are all of great importance to the body. Whether we are leaders, staff or workforce. We are all workforce in one respect. We are all working within the plan of God and in the body of Christ. A military cannot function without authority, without foot soldiers, without airmen, etc. We all function within the body of Christ.

Bobby has known Regina Taylor for 30 years and he has worked in T&P during that time, and now she is the caretaker for his father. She is content in her work and happy, working within her own spiritual gift., and this becomes more important to us than anything else. Her life is at its peak. She operates within the confines of her spiritual gift. We all have a spiritual gift, and there are a lot of them. We may be functioning in this gift, and if we follow the simple pattern of this gift, we will get results. Each one of us is different in that respect. We are a diverse group and a unified group, and the spiritual gift illustrates this. Bobby could not do what he does without Regina doing what she does. Their gifts are in coordination and we are parts of the body of Christ. We function for one another, but we have a different mission and assignment. All of these gifts originate from the same source.

We all have a spiritual gift and some of us see this as an imposition. Service to God gets in the way of serving ourselves. The legalist, on the other hand, views the spiritual gift as a great thing, and often better and more important than the gifts of others.

The gift of tongues was a legitimate gift during the time of Corinth. There are those who claim today to have healing and tongues gifts, and there is this superiority in their souls, since their gift is more spectacular and visible than other gifts. The bestowal of any gift is a matter of God's grace and His sovereignty. Nothing given in His grace should be a source of arrogance in our soul. Spiritual gifts are not a matter of merit. Grace is always defined as the unmerited favor of God. Therefore, spiritual gifts should never be a source of arrogance. God gives no gift to exalt one believer over another. What gives any believers the audacity to think that he serves God in a superior status to anyone else. He is more interested in his self-serving pursuits. The Word comes first and not us. We do not need to drop our secular pursuits for a more spiritual one. A church should not grab you by the throat and tell you that you need to give them your money and to start serving the church.

It is also a mistake to be bullied into using your spiritual gift without any knowledge. Nor should a church tell you to enroll immediately in a seminary or go to the mission field. The identification and the function of our gift takes time and spiritual advance. Just sit in church and take it all in. Our gift will begin to operate or we will develop a desire to have a particular gift. We all have a ministry; and Bobby knows the gifts of a few people in the church; but he certainly does not know ours. If you do not believe that you have used your spiritual gift, then relax. Just stay in the plan of God. You will eventually use your spiritual gift whether you know it or not. It is all about your spiritual advance. The further you go, the more your gift operates. A spectacular spiritual believer is one who learns doctrine day after day. When you understand all of this, you will be most effective in utilizing your gift. Every believer has a gift. We will learn to glorify the Lord in a greater and greater way; and we will develop the proper motivation to use our gift.

Some believers are maltreated in churches and are pushed this way or that way immediately, and they often learn to resent their spiritual life. We strain sometimes to be of great service to God, but with doctrine, it will just come together, and it will be a natural operation, in which we serve Him. Each one of us has an aptitude; a talent, and it is connected to our human aptitude and talent. God does not give the same gift to each believer. God gives a gift to us which is tailored exactly for us. Serving God is easy. The gift is activated and motivated by our spiritual growth. Our gift does not need to be forced. The greatest contentment and happiness that we will ever know is not about our own self-serving pleasure, but it is based upon our advance in the spiritual life. The most contented and the happiest that we will be in utilizing our gift in service to God. It is a matter of priority: whom do you serve, the Lord or yourself. Do not ever underestimate the grace of God. The Corinthians, as usual, represent failure in the plan of God. They have failed in orientation to authority. Their failure is good for us. They got discipline for their correction and we have the opportunity to learn from their mistakes without the discipline. Chapters 12–14 will deal with their mistaken use of their spiritual gifts.

They had a mistaken impression of the hierarchy of gifts and emphasized that over the proper use of these gifts. There were many visibly gifted people in that church, and some became contemptuous of others who either had or did not have a more visible gift. The last thing that a spiritual gift is designed to be is divisive. We are all part of a body and that body is to work in unison with all the other parts of the body.

The spectacular, visible gifts—which they saw as the most valuable—were not always the most useful of the gifts to the church. They were not effective at all when motivated by arrogance. Bobby: give me one gift one helps over dozens of men speaking in tongues. They spoke in tongues to reveal their superiority. Bobby will show us that tongues have ceased.

There are doctrinal lapses and failures in the church, and this is just more of these failures in a different realm: the realm of spiritual gifts.

The human body is a whole organism, but it is the sum of many parts. All of these parts intricately work together for the function of this one unit. The human body cannot function as a whole without all of the portions of the body working at the same time. The body does make adjustments, when everything is not there. Every believer is a part of the body of Christ. We are all a body part of the universal church. The gift that we possess defines the function that we have within the whole body. Every believer is a necessary and integral part of the body of Christ, and, ideally, each member should function in harmony with the rest of the members of the body. There are hundreds of thousands of churches where the members are functioning outside of the body of Christ and they are functioning in complete discord. However, the body makes adjustments. The body must have all gifts, each part with its own job to do. If one person does not fulfill their part, someone else steps up to do that.

Our purpose on this earth is to advance to spiritual maturity, and our gifts will naturally begin to function. It all fits together on this earth. This is why we are here. There is no other priority in your life and this is the overall one. We have a number of earthly obligations in this life, and our spiritual gift fits with all of the other parts of our life. You cannot just walk out on your obligations. Everything has to fit into the course of your life with the circumstances of your life. You cannot go gung ho on your spiritual gift and leave all other matters behind. Bobby is shocked when he hears about believers throwing their lives overboard to function with their spiritual gift.

Spiritual gifts are different, but they have the same goal: to build up the body of Christ. We each have a diversity of gifts, and they all originate from the same source. Our spiritual gift is the basis for our service to the Lord in our temporal Christian life. Obviously, if a door opens, you walk through it. If you have the opportunity to witness to someone, then you do that, even if that is not your gift.

Identification of your gift is not a necessity. You just continue to grow and the gift will begin to function; that gift will find you, even if you never completely identify that gift. What makes the body tick? There is a heart, a brain, a hand. The brain cannot function without the rest of the body. Without a body, nothing that the brain tells it to do, works.

You never retire from using your spiritual gift. God does not yank your spiritual gift from you at age 65. If you want to do something in retirement, then think about your spiritual gift.

Lesson #743

1Cor. 12 introduction June 29, 2008

Sunday 2

Bobby semi introduced Tom Molinar and they apparently did not realize what a friendly church ours had become. Our primary purpose is the teaching of the Word of God.

This applies to all of us; many us have wondered about spiritual gifts; and we don't know what the options are, how our gift is to function. However, we come to find out that we are involved; we have a spiritual gift. We are obligated to use this gift. It cannot be forced on us. We cannot be grabbed by the back of the neck and kicked to the path. There must be volition involved.

Somewhere down the line, our spiritual gift begins to operate. We have one and it will operate. We have to sit back, relax; we need to continue to advance spiritually, and it will operate. At some point, we may actually realize what this gift is.

Historical background on spiritual gifts. The giving of spiritual gifts to the church began on the Day of Pentecost, which was the beginning of the Church Age. The distribution of spiritual gifts and of the Holy Spirit all occurred on that day. The first dissemination of spiritual gifts began on the day that the disciples received their spiritual gift. The very first gift given was the gift of Apostleship. These other gifts fell under the gift of Apostleship. The Apostles were multi-gifted because they were the vanguard and the proclaimers of the Church Age. They wrote divinely inspired Scripture. They proclaimed and wrote mystery doctrine not known in any previous dispensation. Mystery doctrine had never before been revealed (apart from the Upper Room discourse). No one has been gifted like this before or since. Clearly, receiving a gift from the Holy Spirit is something which we must understand in our age because it is so unique. It is a defining feature of our dispensation.

The gift of Apostleship. There are gifts which are distinct from our gifts today. Bobby knows that he upset some people by mentioning that the gift of tongues is no longer in use today. If you stop vibrating, you will learn about it. I could care less, is the Texan way of saying it; and I couldn't care less is the proper way to say it. The Apostles had gifts in order to form the body of Christ in the embryonic stage. At the beginning, no one had any idea what the Christian life would be; no one knew about the change from the Age of Israel to the Church Age. There was nothing written. They did not have the New Testament Scriptures. The Apostles taught and wrote. Their gift was unique, because at the beginning, special gifts were required. Some of their gifts were temporary and transient in nature. Once the Scripture had been completed, all of the doctrine that we need is contained in the pages of Scripture.

What about those who do not have the Bible, wouldn't it be good for us to go and speak to them in tongues? The Bible has been translated into hundreds of languages, and missionaries go throughout the world just doing that. They do not require the gift of tongues in order to teach Christ.

How about starting out a church in that remote place. If you could just speak in tongues, you could get the whole thing started. But some of the greatest stories are those who have gone into regions that they have never been, remote, and they become a part of that group, and bond with them, and learn to communicate, which involves their volition and a learning of the language.

The power today is in the Word of God. There are ways in which teaching and preaching can be the most effective. Jesus healed all kinds of people, and people rejected Him and some believed. His healing was not a slam dunk ministry.

Believers today have permanent gifts, and not temporary gifts. We have certain gifts which allow us to function as the body of Christ. The Corinthians had a heathen background and they had been worshipers of stone and wooden idols. They were believers in the phallic cults. They had trouble distinguishing spiritual gifts from their experience and their heathen backgrounds, which included incantations and spells.

These next 3 chapters are the most extensive chapters on the notion of spiritual gifts. There are other chapters which deal with these gifts, but this is the most extensive coverage. Some today still try to be apostolic by using the temporary gifts. And there are some who see those who do not speak in tongues as being inferior or less gifted.

The Corinthians with all over their problems had more spiritual gifts than any other church. Perhaps, that is the sense of humor of God. None of them earned or deserved these gifts.

Spiritual gifts do not work apart from the filling of the Holy Spirit. Being in fellowship and advancing in spiritual maturity is what makes these gifts work, and that is to our infinite advantage. Because we possess a spiritual gift, we are distinctive among human beings.

Better to utilize our time to grow spiritually than to spend it on impressing a bunch of unbelievers. A believer using his gift begins to stand out. He does not have to have a great personality or anything else to stand out. An exceptional difference and this is a part of our relationship with God. Never forget where you have come from, as an unbeliever and as an immature believer. You must grow in order to utilize your spiritual gift. Since we have all that we need as an individual believer, do not desire to possess gifts which the world may see as astonishing and unique. Spectacular gifts were to be used to show that the church is of God.

But imagine the power of those who could go around the world and heal and speak in tongues and do miracles. However, we have charlatans all over the world defaming the name of Christ. We do not required spectacular gifts in order to have an impact in this world.

The old Apostolic spectacular gifts are no longer needed. All over Houston, there are spectacular displays going on.

What is going on in these Charismatic Churches?

1. These spectacular gifts take away from the teaching of the Word of God. You gain no spiritual growth from watching such a magic show. A friend of Bobby's has a prison ministry, and a charismatic type told him, "You are awfully dogmatic" but the Word of God is dogmatic. "I guess you've got a point."
2. Another problem is, some believers are stumbling blocks to spiritual advance. Believers who know nothing.
3. These spectacular debutes are stumbling blocks for skeptical unbelievers as well. The power is in the presentation of the gospel and in the Word of God.
4. The power is in the Word of God, and not in flashy presentations.

Our power in evangelism and service come from doctrine in the soul. We are indwelt by the Holy Spirit, and Jesus Christ, and God the Father, and we have 39 irrevocable absolutes. We have the completed canon of Scripture in order to understand all of these things.

The supernatural abilities actually begin to fade even in the time in which the Apostles lived. There was much in the beginning of tongues, healing and prophecy, as the Word of God had not yet been put in writing. As the Apostle Paul's ministry continued, he was unable to heal his best friend. Those gifts were no longer necessary. The doctrine was being disseminated. That is what mattered. Why sidetrack it with a bunch of flash. The difference is, it's a sidetrack. God has yanked this away from us and the emphasis is the Word of God and inculcation of the Word of God in our souls.

It does not take a spectacular display in order for us to fulfill the plan of God. Is it necessary for us to speak in tongues to fulfill the plan of God when the emphasis is on the unique spiritual life. How much time is spent on doctrine? Some want to spend all of their time on the spectacular gifts. We have gifts of the Holy Spirit which make us unique, and the use of these gifts detracts from growth. If these gifts were in existence, they would still be a substitute for the Christian life. If there is no metabolizing of doctrine with these gifts. You must have doctrine circulating in your souls in order to use your gift.

Have you ever seen a healing ministry of tv? Do you ever hear the gospel given? Do you hear any Bible doctrine? Never. Most of these healers do not know rebound and are therefore not filled with the Holy Spirit. Some of these people have never been in fellowship since the day they were saved. Since the Holy Spirit is necessary for the function of His gifts, these people are not in the Spirit, so there is no actual use of the spirit.

The Problem with Overt Displays of these Gifts

1. The use of gifts today is fraudulent, because they are no longer extant and these people are rarely in the Spirit and some are not even saved.
2. The use of these gifts is mistakenly seen as a sign of spiritual maturity.
3. These people who are so mature, their gifts are indications that they are immature and doctrinally deficient.

If you have had the experience of speaking in tongues or seeing others do so, you will have to rethink this.

Lesson #744

1Cor. 12 introduction July 2, 2008

Wednesday

Our spiritual life fits us perfectly and a spiritual gift is tailored just for us. The gift that we possess must be developed, just as everything else must be developed. We all possess some raw human abilities and talents. What are you going to do when and if you grow up? Some people never do. They flounder through life pursuing everything and finding nothing. We will find who and what we are when we grow up. Our talents and aptitudes are known early in life; and others of us never pursue these. People try different avenues in life and they experiment to find a life, one which is satisfying and rewarding; they try to discover themselves. We progress in life, which is normal. All of us pass through in the process.

The one thing which is common to all of us is our talents and abilities. We need maturation and education. We need training and experience for our talents and aptitudes. Whatever it is, we need some sort of training and education. For everything in life, it takes development, training and education. The same is true for the spiritual life. The same is true of developing our spiritual gifts. God knew exactly what He was doing. Our spiritual gift takes some spiritual development and training to function effectively; to find ourselves.

In Berachah, we are developing and getting some training. At some point, if we continue to get educated, then we will discover ourselves. Metabolizing doctrine is our spiritual education. Applying doctrine is our mode of operation. Maximum utilization of our spiritual gift is one of our objectives. Education is required. The added bonus, the more content that we will be in life. That is the wonderful part of the results. There is a great contentment. We have something which is far beyond what any unbeliever can experience. We have a great peace and contentment which comes from the plan of God and functioning within it. There is nothing better than finding out the Word of God and our gift, and operating our gift.

We advance spiritually and we serve the Lord in the way that He plans for us. God leaves us here for a certain amount of time, and there is a reason for this. What we do have and what we do know affects what happens in between. When you put your spiritual life first, that is what is fulfilling. Most people do not have a clue as to what their purpose is, and when they continue to be self-serving, it ends up being a dead end. In our journey in all of this, do not envy those who have a gift which you do not have. Often, that is a person who just wants to be noticed; approbation lust. So many people want a communication gift or another obvious gift, and the motivation is absolutely wrong. “Look at me.” That is the dead end.

We need to sort out some terminology. Many of us are very familiar with what Bobby will cover; but a large number of believers are not familiar with these things at all. Bobby wants us to get the big picture of our spiritual life, which includes spirituality and our spiritual gift.

Spirituality and Spiritual Gifts.

1. Many Christians think of spirituality and the spiritual life as something that we do based upon using our spiritual gift. That is the reverse of what it should be.
2. Spirituality and a spiritual life is connected to the spiritual gift, but they do not automatically go together. They are not solely the function of those gifts.
3. Spirituality is defined as the status of the filling of the Holy Spirit.
  - a. Only in the mode of spirituality can the spiritual life be empowered by the Holy Spirit.
  - b. The spiritual life is experiential; it is to be lived. But, it is not just doing something. It is also thinking with divine viewpoint. This distinguishes true Christian service from legalism.
  - c. The thought process of the spiritual life provides the correct motivation for service for using the spiritual gift which we have. That is the key.
  - d. The spiritual process which has been herein described must come first before the effective use of gifts. This is a process.
  - e. James 1:22 reads: But prove yourselves doers of the Word and not merely hearers. You hear doctrinal knowledge, but the key is you believe the Word.
  - f. The doer is the one who applies doctrine. Hence, in applying doctrine, follows the production of his spiritual life. Because Berachah has emphasized doctrine for so long, people think that Berachans are not doers but hearers of the Word only. They have the problem that Berachans are not doing enough. “Are you doing this, are you doing that?” And negatives approaches as well: “Are you not doing this or that?” James 1:22 provides us with the balance of the Christian life. We prove ourselves a doer of the Word. We can’t do this without making application. The production will occur. There is first spirituality, which is simply a status—a state of being. Then there is the spiritual life, which is experiential. Then we have the spiritual gift. Utilizing the spiritual gift is being filled with the Holy Spirit and then growing spiritually. Too many equate the spiritual life and production.

1. We are generated once when we come out of the womb; that is the first thing that He does for us, filling us with the Spirit.
2. The Holy Spirit puts us into union with Christ. We share everything that He is and He has.
3. He indwells every believer.

4. We are sealed for all eternity.
5. He gives each one of us a spiritual gift, which will be used somewhere down the line.

Spirituality and the Spiritual life

1. Initially at the moment of salvation, we are filled with the Holy Spirit, which begins God the Holy Spirit's post salvation ministry.
2. Filling of the Holy Spirit is a state of being.
3. Spirituality is not just the status of salvation. It is fellowship.
4. In fellowship, the Holy Spirit controls the soul of the believer, rather than the sin nature.
5. Only in fellowship, filling of the Holy Spirit, is the believer without sin.
6. Therefore, without the filling of the Holy Spirit, and being in fellowship, the believer cannot possess the state of spirituality.
7. Spirituality is a state of being which is conditional.
8. Spirituality and the spiritual life are not synonymous.
9. The Holy Spirit is the empowerment for living the spiritual life; that is the only way that the spiritual life can be lived. We do not remain in spirituality throughout our lives.

The filling of the Holy Spirit

1. We are mandated to be filled.
2. Being given the order to be filled means that we may not be filled.
3. We are commanded to do this because there are other options out there. If there is only one way to be, then we are not going to be ordered to do it.
4. We determined whether to be filled or not.
5. The mandate to be filled points to the correction option. We can still disobey. When an order is given, we can still say no.
6. We are filled of the Holy Spirit at the moment of salvation; but the mandate is given to us after salvation. This means that, at some point in time, we may not be filled. We lose the filling if we do not follow the command to be filled.

We lose the filling of the Holy Spirit by sinning.

1. Temporary sins cause us to lose the Holy Spirit.
2. We make this choice. This is the status of carnality, as opposed to the status of spirituality.
3. The Holy Spirit cannot fill where carnality resides.
4. So spirituality, the filling of the Holy Spirit, and carnality, the control of the soul by the sin nature, are mutually exclusive. The Holy Spirit has nothing to do with carnality.

5. These are two states of being and these states are absolute. You are either in fellowship or you are out of fellowship. There is no one foot in and one foot out. You either play the cards, or you fold.
6. Without absolute fellowship, there is no living the spiritual life. You cannot live the spiritual life in a state of carnality.
7. You must have the spirituality state of being before you can experience the spiritual life.

For most of us in Berachah, this is so basic. So many do not understand the difference between our experience and the state of being of being filled with the Holy Spirit. They always fall into the trap that the spiritual life is what they do. The greatest life there is, and even seminary students do not know this.

Without spirituality, the believer cannot live the spiritual life. Nor can the believer serve the Lord by using the spiritual gift which is given us. We have a gift which God has given us and there is a procedure for using it. You get your life back when you rebound. You cannot have it otherwise. There are two states of being, and in carnality, there is no spiritual life. Our spirituality is are fellowship. Therefore, without it, you cannot be spiritual and you cannot live the spiritual life. Remember the self-evaluation of identifying and then naming your sins. The believer who rebounds names his sins and then he is spiritual. Spirituality is the only means by which we can live. The purpose of the empowerment of the Holy Spirit is the only way to live the spiritual life and to advance in the spiritual life.

The knowledge which comes to us in church is by the Holy Spirit, and it does not happen unless we are filled with the Holy Spirit. The grace apparatus for perception does not work unless we are filled. We cannot apply anything without the filling of the Holy Spirit. We may have some γνῶσις, but that is not enough for us. Metabolizing, advancing are all based upon the filling of the Holy Spirit. These are prerequisites to Christian service.

1. The spiritual gift is a specified area for production in the spiritual life.
2. Dependent upon spirituality, spiritual growth and application of doctrine, which is operation Z.
3. The function of the spiritual gift in the operation of the spiritual life is the key to production.
4. Therefore, without the filling of the Holy Spirit, there can be no spiritual advance. There can be no function of spiritual gifts.
5. Without the filling of the Holy Spirit, and spiritual advance, effective use of spiritual gifts is minimal. With a little doctrine and being filled with the Holy Spirit, production may be minimal.

Summary

1. Spiritual gifts are given to every believer at the moment of salvation.
2. The gifts like salvation can never be revoked. Once God gives us a spiritual gift, it is yours. A spiritual gift does not retire. We may retire, but our gift is never retired. It is operative until we die.
3. The effective function of the gifts is a consequence of our spiritual life, but it is not synonymous with our spiritual life.
4. Christian service is not the spiritual life. Much of the Christian world believes that what you do for God is our spiritual gift. They miss the inculcation of doctrine and the motivation which comes from doctrine.
5. The effective utilization of our spiritual gift is spirituality and it is a part of the spiritual life. Application of doctrine, thinking doctrine, and reaching the high ground of spiritual maturity.
6. The more a believer advances in the spiritual life, the greater the function of his spiritual gift. Along with our advance the effectiveness of the gift increases.
7. Spiritual maturity brings motivation and momentum in the spiritual advance brings motivation; and competence in the function of the spiritual gift. Functioning with the gift requires doctrinal application.
8. Therefore, with motivation and spiritual competence, Christian service is greater and more effective. As a believer in Jesus Christ, our spiritual life hinges on our spiritual advance.
9. With maximum effective production from spirituality and the mature spiritual life, the believer glorifies God in his body to the maximum. 1Cor. 6:20

We have completed the introduction to chapter 12. There are two parts: description, diversity and unity and the true purpose of the gifts of the Spirit (vv. 1–11). Vv. 12–31 is the description of the body.

The believer's relationship with God the Holy Spirit. This is again one of the most misunderstood doctrines in all of Christendom. How we interact with God the Holy Spirit. Ask a Christian what does it mean to have a relationship with the Holy Spirit, and most will give you a nauseating answer. Many of them will speak of emotionalism. You don't feel the Holy Spirit, but He is there. It is a matter of faith. We don't have to feel it; we know He is there.

We can talk about the metabolism of doctrine, of the grace apparatus for perception. They did not have a clue in seminary where Bobby went. They did not get it. In a Pentecostal church, it is relating the spiritual gifts like tongues with an expression of the Holy Spirit.

1Cor. 12:1–3 is the first section.

1Cor. 12:1–3: But concerning the spiritual matters, brothers, I do not wish you to be ignorant. You know that being led away, you nations were led to voiceless idols. Because of this I make known to you that no one speaking by the Spirit of God says, Jesus is a curse. And no one is able to say Jesus is Lord, except by the Holy Spirit.

Περι πνευματικός = now, about pneumatikos. We should recognize πνευματικός as we studied it extensively in 1Cor. 2. It is a neuter adjective from 1Cor. 2:13 and it is spiritual things, spiritual phenomena; which is Bible doctrine.

Grace apparatus for perception also known as operation Z. Bobby is teaching Bible doctrine to us. He is imparting to us πνευματικός. We are born into the world dichotomos and we are born again Trichotomos. Πνευματικός is taught by the pastor, and it goes into the lobe as γνώσις. Then, we metabolize it by believing it, and it becomes ἐπίγνωσις. We must use the divine viewpoint that we have so that we can live the spiritual life. As we apply, we also produce. As we advance, as we apply, the spiritual gift is utilized.

Πνευματικός is an adjective, but there is no noun for it to modify; so it acts as a substantive. The context of 1Cor. 2:13, it was knowledge. We determine what this means, what the noun should be, based upon the context. V. 4 gives us the context: And there are differences of gifts, but the same Spirit;... The translators often insert the noun gifts. With this, Paul will embark upon the next 3 chapters.

He does not want these people to be unaware. "I do not want you to be ignorant." Paul constantly mentions the word ignorant. Rom. 1:13 11:25 1Cor. 1:8 10:1 12:1 1Thess. 1:18 and each time, there is a specific doctrine which Paul wants them to know. Paul is an educator and he is the greatest educator that the world has ever known.

1. Ignorance is everything which is opposed or opposes spiritual advance. It opposes executing the spiritual life. Paul is a failure if anyone is ignorant.
2. Ignorance is dishonoring to the Lord. Bobby used the term loser believer in seminary and they did not get that.

The concept of spiritual gifts is going to be a point of doctrine for these Corinthians. The Corinthians understand what Πνευματικός is, since Paul has already spoken of it in a previous chapter.

What Paul is doing here is not making a general reference to all Bible doctrine, but he is singling out a particular doctrine. In 1Cor. 2:13, there was a general process given to all doctrine. He is associating that process with this topic, spiritual gifts. Paul goes back to πνευματικός in order to get this across. Paul is waking them up. There are all of these carnal believers and they all have a spiritual gift. Gifts are presence even where carnality is also presence. Reversionism will not remove your gift; but it just won't function in reversionism.

Contrary to Popular Belief

1. The mere fact of possessing a spiritual gift does not make a believer spiritual. Too many believers take this one word and misinterpret it.

2. Nor does the possession of a gift infer that someone is living the spiritual life.
3. Spiritual life and spirituality and spiritual gift are all different things. These are sequential categories.

Sequential Aspect

1. Spirituality must be present for any growth to occur. Knowing what spirituality is, is the biggest breath of fresh air. People strain to get the Spirit and strain to exhibit it.
2. When a person in the status of spirituality, only then can he experientially live the spiritual life. This is the progression and the distinction. The cart can't come before the horse.
3. In living the spiritual life, the by-product is effectively utilizing your spiritual gift. You are filled with the Spirit, which means you can live the spiritual life, which means, at some point, you can make your spiritual gift operational.
4. The more mature the spiritual life, the more effective is the function of the spiritual gift.
5. Utilizing the spiritual gift is exactly what the spiritual life entails.
6. These 3 terms are all connected, but they are not synonymous.

1Cor. 12:1: But concerning the spiritual [gifts], brothers, I do not wish you to be ignorant.

Let me remind you Corinthians just how ignorant you have been. You have been idolaters. You were led astray by the idols. They used to worship idols, which were not God; and now they worship the true God. They used to bow at the feet of demons. Some may have been demon-possessed. Bobby read many books about the ancient Greeks and there was a dark power involved in heathen worship.

Guthrie: The Greeks and their Gods. He reveals the appalling affect of the cult Dionices. Madness, mania is the ecstasy which took possession of the women during their worship. The tearing to pieces of a victim was the regular culmination of their rite. This was a bloodthirsty worship of idols couched in eroticism. A phallic cult which built to a tempo of murder. There was probably some demon possession, e.g., in the priestesses. The demons took complete control of these women as part of the influences. They gave themselves over to erotic mania ending in butchery. That was their worship.

What was the demonic purpose. What could they gain? Sex was designed by God for intimacy and the expression of love between husband and wife. It had been perverted completely. The opposition opposes all which is divine, including divine institution #2. The Corinthian church was composed of converted Greeks from this sort of heathen worship. When Paul links Πνευματικός with v. 2. Why does Paul remind them of such horrors. They know about control, they know the mania and the ecstasy. That is the opposite of the Holy Spirit controlling the soul. These people were not returning to this type of worship, but it really gets their attention.

1Cor. 12:2: You know that being led away, you nations were led to voiceless idols.

Lesson #746

1Cor. 12:1–2 July 6, 2008

Sunday 1

Our country was conceived in liberty but it was born in war. No nation retains freedom no matter what document it is based upon unless that freedom is preserved through war. Every great civilization has never lived beyond 200 years. The freedoms we enjoy are once again under fire. There are 4 generations in the auditorium, and this newest generation must decide what freedom is worth. The direction this country takes in the next few decades, whether freedom is maintain or curtailed, freedom is never lost in the soul of the believer. The truth is not knowledge other than what comes from the pages of Scripture. We understand the responsibility of freedom and the source of freedom. Recognize that what we do is the foundation of the freedom which we have enjoyed for 200 years. Those who founded this nation were Christians, and whether slave or free, Christianity was in the souls of all. Freedom will be lost in our souls first before we lose it elsewhere.

According to the first verse, these Corinthians are unaware as to the nature of spiritual gifts, as are many believers today. The Corinthians have completely misunderstood the gifts which God gave to them. They used these gifts to determine some sort of rating system. Gifts are not designed to bring superiority or inferiority to any believer. They are designed so that we might participate in the body of Christ. There is never a reason for arrogance with regards to our gifts.

The gifts of the Spirit have become a source of disunity rather than unity; as members, we are one in unity, even though we have individual parts to play. This is how our country ought to be as well. When we become disunited, we have problems.

Such ignorance for Paul is everything which opposes spiritual advance and the spiritual life. Ignorance is spiritual failure. Enlightenment is always the gateway to spiritual advance. Ignorance is dishonor to the Lord. Their lives are filled with ignorance of Bible doctrine.

The preposition περι δε πνευματικός Paul did not pull this final word out of nowhere; it is an adjective, and Paul has a specific reason for using it.. Πνευματικός was used to refer to doctrine in the soul back in 1Cor. 2.

Bobby is teaching us, and we have a soul and a spirit and a body. When we believed in Jesus Christ, we get a human spirit back. The basis for this is πνευματικός, which is the teaching which we learn, and it is implanted into our minds. The Spirit then transfers this to the left lobe of the soul. This is what is taught to our human spirit. It is academic knowledge. If we believe this doctrine, it is transferred to the right lobe of the soul, and it becomes ἐπίγνωσις. It is the same doctrinal information in either lobe.

As it circulates, it develops problem solving devices, 10 of them, beginning with rebound and ending with occupation with Christ. It is the application of ἐπίγνωσις to our lives.

None of this works without the filling of the Holy Spirit. Metabolization of doctrine. This time, this is described as a gift. Not only do we apply problem solving devices, we are operating with ἐπίγνωσις to our spiritual gifts for Christian service. This is an overview of the Christian life and most people do not have a clue about any of this. Spirituality, spiritual advance, spiritual gifts, spiritual maturity all are tied together ἐπίγνωσις. Spiritual is about epistemological rehabilitation. They are a by-product of doctrine being applied to the spiritual life. You do not just start out with a spiritual gift and start functioning with this gift. You need to have metabolized doctrine, divine viewpoint, in your soul, to properly apply. As you advance spiritually, so does your service. James 1:22 calls us hearers; we hear the Word of God. We metabolize doctrine. He also describes a doer, which is a believer who applies the Bible doctrine in his soul. The hearer is the first 3 stages of operation Z and a doer is stage 4.

1Cor. 12:1: But concerning the spiritual [gifts], brothers, I do not wish you to be ignorant.

The final piece of the spiritual puzzle is serving the Lord with our gift. This service is the by-product of the metabolizing and maturing process of Bible doctrine. The Corinthians are a long way from this mature attitude of service. Paul wants to make certain that they understand this fully. Paul knows very well how they were led. This verse is a contrast between their former state and their present state. They used to be heathen, now they are believers. They used to worship idols, gods that do not exist; now they worship the One True Living God; they used to bow before demons, and were led astray, being led by the darkness of demonic control and influence. Sometimes, some of these people were possessed.

There was some description of the phallic cult back on Thursday.

Paul was comparing them to what they used to be as unbelievers and what they ought to be as believers. They ought to be controlled by God the Holy Spirit. They ought to be growing and living the Christian life, growing spiritually. They should not be manifesting the heathenism of their past. Paul is contrasting the controlling power of God the Holy Spirit with another type of heathen possession and influence. Demon possession and the suspension of the faculties in the demon cult. Paul is not accusing them of pagan rites. The Corinthians were thinking and acting just like unbelievers. They used to be under the cosmic system, and now they are acting as if they are. Demon possession is not possible for any of us. We can be demon-influenced, but not demon possessed. The doctrine of demons is the cosmic system and the thinking and philosophy of the cosmic system. We are either in the cosmic system or controlled by God the Holy Spirit. Believers can commit all sorts of heinous acts and crimes. The thinking and actions of the Corinthian believers came from the influence of the cosmic system.

As unbelievers, they used to be εθνος, which means foreigner. The problem is, their current thinking and activities are essentially the same as before. They think like pagans without the metabolization of doctrine. These people are just as foreign to Christ as the unbeliever; no doctrine in the soul; no spiritual growth, no spiritual gift function.

“You will know the truth and the truth will set you free.” What we receive in Bible class is Γνώσις and when we believe it, it becomes ἐπίγνωσις.

1Cor. 12:2: You know that being led away, you nations were led to voiceless idols.

Lesson #747

1Cor. 12:2–3 July 6, 2008

Sunday 2

Paul calls these believers εθνος, which means pagan. Americans seem to great pride in their ethnicity, and they take great pride in their national or ethnic differences, which separates us rather than unifies us. It makes us strangers. When Paul uses the word εθνος, he uses this as a divisive term.

Ethnos (ἔθνος) [pronounced EHTH-noss], which means 1) a multitude (whether of men or of beasts) associated or living together; 1a) a company, troop, swarm; 2) a multitude of individuals of the same nature or genus; 2a) the human family; 3) a tribe, nation, people group; 4) in the OT, foreign nations not worshiping the true God, pagans, Gentiles; 5) Paul uses the term for Gentile Christians. Strong's #1484.

Aphonos = voiceless. This adjective is connected with idols. Bowing before something which is voiceless and without life. Habak. 2:19: Woe to him which says to a piece of wood, and that is your teacher? This is your teacher? A teacher without a voice. You are an idiot to bow down before an idol who can teach you nothing; the idol cannot even speak. That is absurd.

How futile to worship sticks and stones and to expect messages. What ought you Corinthians be doing? They ought to be listening to the voice of a pastor-teacher teaching Bible doctrine; yet they are bowing down before inanimate, voiceless idols.

The first stage of operation Z is Bobby. The Holy Spirit makes it understandable. The difference between inculcating Bible doctrine and a voiceless teacher. There are a lot of voiceless teachers who actually speak. They say nothing. They do not speak the truth. They speak everything but the truth. They have all kinds of humanistic ideas and they teach psychology and popular culture.

We have all been on a date where the opposite number has nothing to say. Paul is suggesting here, who is dumb; the idols who cannot communicate or those who worship these idols. The dumb worshipping the dumb.

The perfect passive participle of απαγω, which means 1) to lead away; 1a) especially of those who are led off to trial, prison, or punishment. All freedom of action is suddenly gone when you are led away as a slave to the cosmic system. They followed a lead outside of their own volition; this is a coercion from an external source. Apagō (ἀπάγω) [pronounced ahp-AWG-oh], which means 1) to lead away; 1a) especially of those who are led off to trial, prison, or punishment. Strong's #520.

Paul is not saying, "I have no volition here; I am just being led away without having a choice." The cosmic system and the divine dynasphere, and these two systems are entirely opposed to one another. We are in this war. It is apropos to use this extreme example on these believers.

Why is this Extreme Example Apropos?

1. Paul wants to wake them up to their folly of reversionism. They are ignorant. They do not understand anything. This is just how ignorant you are. You are led away by any wind which blows in any direction. You stand for nothing.
2. Paul uses this extreme example to reveal that their thinking is no different than the thinking of an unbeliever.
3. Their lives represent useless and futility in the plan of God. They are in the cosmic system without fellowship and without the filling of the Holy Spirit. For the believer, that is the ultimate futility and uselessness.

Paul does not specifically mention the exact power by which they were led away. However, in v. 3, he talks about them being able to speak under the power of the Holy Spirit. They must be a comparison between the sources of the speech. The source of the speech in v. 3 is the Holy Spirit. If they can speak by the power of the Holy Spirit, they can also speak from another sinister influence. The comparison is the means by which the voice is given. It is manifested as the heathen forms of the phallic forms. Idolatry is the cosmic system and this is demonically influenced worship. Where is the voice for these ecstatic utterances? Women who were involved in the phallic cult who in the end tore their victims to pieces. The utterance of cursing and the utterance of the Holy Spirit.

V. 2 does not mention the demon, but it is the opposite of speaking by means of the Holy Spirit.

1Cor. 12:2: You know that when you were pagans you were led astray to mute idols, however you were led.

V. 3 continues a comparison. It compares speaking a curse and speaking a blessing; one without the Holy Spirit and one with the Holy Spirit. Both are directed here toward the Lord Jesus Christ.

As pagans, the Corinthians screamed and yelled before dumb idols. Saying these things were the same as saying, "Jesus is accursed." Idolatry completely rejects the true Lord. They are making this statement, even if they do not say this directly. They are bowing before a demonic idol, which is in complete opposition in the Angelic Conflict.

We know that demonic influence is involved here, because of the contrast of vv. 2–3. The closing phrase of v. 2, however you were led, is demon-influence or even demon-possession, which is in opposition to the Holy Spirit. The experience of being led away originates from demon influence. Paul in saying that the Corinthians were led astray to voice idols, means that they faced the effects of demon influence in their pagan temples.

Remember the extremes of the phallic cult activity? This is the same cosmic system that you now reside in. This is a tough thing to tell other believers, that you are cursing Jesus, just as they did in the temple of Dionysus, being led by demon influence.

Gal. 1:8: But even if we or an angel from heaven should preach to you a gospel contrary to the one we preached to you, let him be accursed. You have heard the gospel, you have heard the truth; now, if we or even an angel from heaven comes back and tells you something different, let him be accursed. Such a person or angel curses Jesus and His work. He curses the message, which means he curses the work of Jesus Christ. The Corinthians live in the cosmic system; they speak in the cosmic system.

Paul in these 3 verses is giving the Corinthians the idea that this is quite important, what Paul is going to tell these Corinthians. He is saying that believers in Jesus Christ can curse their own Lord.

That phrase "Jesus is Lord" is used in a lot of different ways today, most of them being wrong.

1Cor. 12:3: Because of this I make known to you that no one speaking by the Spirit of God says, Jesus is a curse. And no one is able to say Jesus is Lord, except by the Holy Spirit.

Lesson #748

1Cor. 12:3 July 9, 2008

Wednesday

There are 3 members of this cast: Jesus Christ, Who is the object of the curse or the blessing. The 2nd is the Holy Spirit, Who is not involved in speaking a curse; or Who is involved in blessing Jesus Christ. The 3rd person is the one who is speaking. Paul calls those who came from a phallic cult worship thing, and Paul calls them εθνος. There were hysterical utterances and some of these took place under demon-possession. The temple of idolatry was subject to this sort of thing. All the screaming and yelling of adoration made to voiceless idols came from an outside source. That is the source by which they were led astray. This source is always in total opposition to Jesus Christ. These heathen temples are the enclave of Satan and his demons, just as the church at Corinth is the enclave of Jesus Christ.

Those in the heathen temple were under cosmic influence. Why would their speech be a cursing of Jesus Christ if they never spoke His name? We are in the Angelic Conflict. These people were accepting and worshiping false gods, which is always a rejection of Jesus Christ. This was a verbal curse because of their ecstatic utterances. These utterances are cursings of the Lord. The Holy Spirit can have no part of this activity. The unbeliever led away by idolatry by these voiceless idols are led by the opposition. The circumstances are, these believers are speaking in tongues as one of their spiritual gifts. Paul is going to compare the vocal aberrations of the cultic temple to those speaking in tongues in the church. He is taking the ecstatic utterances of the heathen temple and comparing them to the believers speaking in tongues.

The believer is capable of tacitly cursing the Lord Jesus Christ. They may not be standing up and offering an oath against the Lord, but by their influence of the cosmic system. Being in the cosmic system makes us curse the Lord Jesus Christ. The comparison between the unbeliever and the carnal believer. Their acts in this life are comparable, even though one is going to heaven and the other to hell.

The Corinthian believers are out of fellowship and they are in continuous carnality. The gifts which they were demonstrating were not being used under the power of the Holy Spirit. If your gift is not functioning under the power of the Holy Spirit, then it is not producing any divine good. Anything outside of God's system of the spiritual life is in opposition to Him. These believers are speaking falsely, even though they have a gift which allows them to speak truly. It is as if they are speaking the ecstatic utterances of heathen. Paul uses a comparison between their old ways along side of their new gift.

What about this statement, Jesus is Lord? What does it mean? This one predicate nominative sentence is one of the most misused and misunderstood statements in Christendom today, confuse this statement. Those who are believers take this phrase and distort it into a definitive statement of salvation.

The Greek word for Lord is κύριος. Jesus is Lord. These are synonymous terms. κύριος is used many times in the LXX, so we know what it means, and it is equal to YHWH. This word was understood to refer to God the Son. Jesus is Lord means Jesus is God.

What Does Jesus is Lord Mean?

1. This is to raise Jesus above mere humanity.
2. This statement is a statement of the divine essence of the person of Christ.
3. This is a statement of the deity of Christ.
4. When you say Jesus as Lord, you are identifying Him as God in the flesh.
5. This is nothing less than the doctrine of the hypostatic union, God and man in one person. Undiminished Deity and true humanity in one person forever.
6. Jesus is Lord is a recognition of Who He is. That is what the believer understands Him to be. To deny His Deity is to deny His person. Plenty of Christian cults reject Jesus as God, like JW's and Mormons. Every religion on earth sees Him as a prophet. Islam sees Jesus as just a great prophet, superseded by Mohammed. Understanding Who Jesus is, is critical Matt. 27:54 Rom. 10:9–10. The fact that He is God is one of the first things that we had to contemplate His Deity is foundation to the gospel. Mark 1:1 reads, The beginning of Jesus Christ, the Son of God. His person, His work and His resurrection are the essence of the gospel, and our faith is placed in His person and His work. The unbeliever has no ability to understand the gospel.

Bobby is going to lay out salvation carefully, and then lay out a false doctrine of salvation. Usually, it is enough to present just true doctrine, and false doctrine does not need to be stated.

The gospel Z. Someone presents the gospel to us, so that we hear it, and then we express positive volition toward it. The Holy Spirit acts in common grace as a human spirit. Unbelievers do not possess a human spirit, so there is no way to understand this. The gospel is spiritual information. As in operation Z, he automatically transfers the gospel to our soul. We have no left lobe as an unbeliever. You simply say, "Father, I believe." This is what is called efficacious grace. Our positive volition does not save us. God the Holy Spirit takes this faith and makes it effective for our salvation, and baptizes us into Christ, giving us 39 irrevocable assets + 1. One of the things which occurs at this point is, we are justified. When we express faith alone in Christ alone, we get +R. This is what happens to make Jesus Lord. That is a status. He is Lord because the Holy Spirit makes Him Lord. We cannot make Him Lord. This the foundation of our faith.

Jesus is Lord

1. The statement Jesus is Lord can only be made because the Holy Spirit makes Him Lord at the moment of salvation. Common and efficacious grace, baptism of the Holy Spirit, and Jesus is Lord.
2. He is our Savior and we acknowledge that fact by faith alone in Christ alone.
3. Jesus is Lord is our position in Christ.
4. Jesus is Lord is a statement of fact based upon the efficacious grace of the Holy Spirit. Regeneration, baptism and justification.
5. The fact of His Lord ship is always true whether we advance spiritually or whether we are in reversionism; He is still our Savior and He is still our Lord. This position is only possible by God the Holy Spirit.

Notice that this phrase does not tell us to make Jesus Lord. That is the battle cry of one of the most insidious distortions around today. Even some great preachers push this.

What is Lordship Salvation?

1. To make Him Lord in Lordship salvation, is not hearing and believing the gospel (faith alone in Christi alone), but there is an additional step of
2. In Lordship salvation is it believing but for them salvation is believing and then promising God to dedicate their lives to Jesus. The faith is salvation, regardless of what they say afterwards.
3. Hence, when the Lordship salvation people say, "Jesus is Lord" they mean to make Him Lord through submission to His will. He isn't lord at this point.
4. However, He is Positionally and eternally Lord at salvation. They believe this, except...
5. A quote from a leading advocate. Most of us would know this guy. "The gospel call to faith presupposes that sinners must repent of their sin and yield to Christ's authority." It is not just believing. That is a part of their gospel.

What is this Lordship Apostasy?

1. Lordship salvation confuses justification and temporal sanctification.
2. Experiential sanctification is just another term for spiritual growth. We are sanctified; we are made holy. We become sanctified. That is our experiential holiness.
3. For the Lordship salvation, experiential sanctification is a sure thing for those who are truly saved.
4. In Lordship salvation, the believer will become progressively more sanctified. The believer will grow, if their faith is true. This all centers on faith alone in Christ alone. To this person, true faith means that we will advance.
5. The Lordship salvation crowd says that the true believer will persevere. They will grow spiritually because they are saved. A true believer will never remain in reversionism during his life. It just can't happen. If you expressed faith alone in Christ alone, it is a forgone conclusion that you will advance, if your faith is real.
6. Eternal life is attained only by committing oneself to following Christ right from the beginning. There is no alternative. You can commit yourself to growing spiritually all that you want, and you might and you might not. To them, there is no alternative; otherwise, you are not saved. They will always end up bearing fruit for the Lord. A person never reaches perfection, but they do not remain in carnality. If they stay in carnality, then it did not take. These people live in fear that they may not produce enough works to prove their salvation. They are striving for salvation. This is insidious. What this does is, this is what makes Jesus Lord. To them, making Jesus Lord is something that you do. This blurs the distinction between justification and experiential sanctification.

Bobby wants us to cogitate on this.

1Cor. 12:3: Therefore, of this I make known to you that no one speaking by the Spirit of God says, Jesus is accursed. And no one is able to say Jesus is Lord, except by the Holy Spirit.

1Cor. 12:3 July 10, 2008

Thursday

Have you ever doubted your salvation? Have you ever woken up in the middle of the night in a cold sweat? Is it really so easy? It seems so easy. What if God requires me to do more? What if I ought to be doing more? I know who and I am and what I do, and I don't meet my own standards; so how can I meet God's. Or, I have no idea how to serve the Lord or what my spiritual gift is. These are piercing thoughts which many people deal with.

If you doubt your salvation at all, then this message is dedicated to you. Bobby wants us to be absolutely certain, so that we never question this again.

In 1Cor. 12:2–3, Paul is dealing with those who are cursing the Lord, not actively, but tacitly, by not being in the Spirit; and they are not producing any fruit. Can a believer really be a believer who acts like an unbeliever?

We know the gospel and the Lord Jesus Christ. Jesus is Lord is a statement of His authority and hypostatic union; this is half of the gospel. As we have grown, we have learned much about the various doctrines associated with salvation.

We cannot understand spiritual things without the human spirit. We have not yet been regenerated. In common grace, the Holy Spirit acts as our human spirit, and He implants in our soul an understanding of the gospel; all that is required is positive volition. Salvation is believe on the Lord Jesus Christ and you will be saved. When we express this positive volition, the God the Holy Spirit makes our faith efficacious. The Holy Spirit regenerates us and we are given 39 irrevocable absolutes. It is the Holy Spirit Who accomplishes this along with our faith. This makes Jesus Lord; that is true doctrine. That is the plan of salvation. The grace of God is present in all of this. Jesus is Lord because we are in union with Him. The Holy Spirit makes Christ Lord because we have believed in Him and in His work. His work is a fact; it has happened.

Now, Bobby is going to get into a muddled gospel; the Jesus is Lord group. The confusion is, we must make Jesus Lord instead of the Holy Spirit doing this for us. Faith in Christ is necessary; faith is not enough to this group. We make Jesus Lord through faith production and we must produce this all of our lives. That is the second half of the salvation package. Salvation under those conditions, is by faith, but also by works. Or, you might say, your faith is proven by works. This salvation is by a faith that works. It is not considered faith+works; it is a faith which produces works. There is commitment, obedience, turning away from sins and Christian service. This is Lordship salvation and it is not compatible with the grace of God. Why is there a salvation problem with this thinking?

This Lordship salvation blurs experiential sanctification and salvation. Justification is the imputation of God's perfect righteousness at the moment that we express faith alone in Christ alone. In Lordship salvation, you will grow spiritually, or the faith was not real.

Lordship Salvation argues....

1. In order to get salvation, you must promise to move forward.
2. This does not make salvation based upon faith, but it is dependent upon spiritual growth.
3. If that commitment is not accomplished, then justification has not been accomplished.
4. This simply means, the individual who expressed faith will not go to heaven.
5. Only the one who progresses in the spiritual life and does not falter is actually justified and sees the pearly gates. In truth, if it is saving faith, then you are justified. Lordship salvation is proven by your life. If you go into reversionism, then they think you have never been justified.

Their Mistake

1. Their salvation by faith is not a once and for all faith which nails down salvation to a particular point in time. In truth, even if you never advance, this remains. Salvation and after-salvation are separate.
2. To say that justification depends upon spiritual advance is a total redefinition of the gospel.
3. In Lordship salvation justification by faith alone is changed to justification by faith+works or by a faith that works.
4. In practice, this means that a justified person is not capable of reversionism. A true believer never goes into reversionism., in their belief.
5. This confuses justification by faith at the moment of regeneration with experiential sanctification. Justification is not dependent upon spiritual growth. Lordship salvation is tantamount to a works salvation.

Why is this Wrong?

1. To them, a saving faith will produce good works. If you are not truly saved, then you will not produce good works.
2. Making Jesus Lord means that you will show fruit as a Christian. This means you will prove your justification by your works.
3. If you are justified, service, using your spiritual gift, is a foregone conclusion.
4. In Lordship salvation, if you do not bear fruit at sometime in your life and continue to do so until the end (perseverance of the faith), then Jesus is not Lord and you were not saved.
5. This is a very circular argument. If you are justified, you will produce good works; and if you don't produce good works, then you were never justified. You had better do good works.
6. True saving faith in Lordship salvation means you will persevere in good works without faltering throughout your life. Of course, they will say that you will have lapses, but not permanently; and that is the difference. Believers cannot depart from the faith, they would say. We know that a person who believes in Christ is saved; but they call this easy believism. It is just believe.
7. All of this means that for the Lordship salvation crew, there are two types of faith.
  - a. There is saving faith, real saving faith, and there is non-saving faith. That is, somehow, saving faith does not save you.
  - b. It is true that both types of faith are based on the same facts of the gospel. The gospel is the gospel is the same for anyone. But, if this regeneration does not actually take place because you do not show fruit, then Jesus was never Lord in the first place, and therefore, none of this actually happened. Faith in the Person and work of Christ is saving faith; but if they add fruit, then it is faith in Christ and your works.
  - c. The difference between saving and non-saving faith, is saving faith produces a sufficient amount of good works, whatever that is. What is sufficient? Bobby says the same thing to the unbeliever who depends upon his good works: what is enough? How many must you produce? There is no assurance in any of this.

- d. The one with non-saving faith may produce some good works, but he will eventually cease good works, and in, so doing, prove that he did not have saving faith.
- e. In other words, reversionism is impossible for a person with saving faith. No one with a saving faith can spend a lot of their life in reversionism.

The logical conclusion is, no one can be assured of salvation until their death. This has a close tie to Catholicism and Calvinism both. Not really Calvin's view, but those who interpreted his writings. According to Lordship salvation, eternal salvation is totally free. In another sense, it costs the believer, which is a departure from the faith. That is a paradox, which they overlook.

Here is what they mean

1. There is a price paid by us for eternal life.
2. What is the price? It is unconditional submission to His Lordship, which means submitting to Him without quitting or stumbling in the long run. The price that we pay is producing fruit. That is our part in it, according to these guys.
3. So they can say that the cost of salvation is our perseverance. You will execute the spiritual life. It is a foregone conclusion.
4. Dying in reversionism is the dying of non-saving faith. Grace means that salvation is totally free to us. As soon as we tack on a cost to us, we have lost it. Eph. 2:8–9 the work of Christ, not our work. Salvation is ours to be taken; living the spiritual life is not a requirement for saving faith. How terrible for us to think we can do anything for our salvation. We may produce fruit, but that is not proof of our salvation. Continual carnality does not mean that your faith is not real.

In Lordship salvation, a person who has expressed faith can never be certain of their salvation until they get into heaven. It all hinges on the works which they do after salvation. The certainty of salvation at the moment of faith is considered presumptuous. If we say we are saved at the moment of salvation, we are being presumptuous. What is really insidious, and Bobby has read this, the lack of assurance in our life is a good thing; it makes us hustle. A state of going to hell if we do not produce good works, keeps us on the straight and narrow. We are afraid if we don't, that we are not really saved. We are not given a lifestyle of fear but one of sound mind. Lordship salvation uses fear tactics. So many times a preacher will shake his finger at you and telling you how evil your sins are. Instead, this guy wants to scare you into spiritual growth. What is the difference between that and, "Do works and you will be saved." There is no difference in actuality.

How Clear is it?

1. The Lord Jesus Christ is Lord from the very beginning.
2. You are justified by faith alone in Christ alone, not by your works.

3. Faith confirms your position in Christ, and your eternal place in heaven.
4. All faith is saving faith when it is directed toward the person and work of Jesus Christ. There is no such thing as a non-saving faith when directed toward Jesus Christ.
5. That happens at a moment in time, regardless of the rest of your life. Theoretically, Hitler could have believed in Jesus Christ and he has been saved. That is the power of the grace of God; that is the power of the cross. It is all about what Christ has done for us, and not what we have done for Him. Anyone who expresses faith alone in Christ alone will arrive in heaven.

Spiritual growth and service are mandated, but they do not make you saved. These are all positions and they have nothing to do with any work.

A believer cannot submit to the Lord at the moment of salvation and make it stick for the rest of their lives. Or, how many times have you made a resolution, and you go back on it. All of these things your promise yourself and other people, rarely do you follow through. A commitment does not make anything a foregone conclusion.

A person who believes in Jesus Christ knows nothing about the Christian life or the mechanics of the Christian life. None of that is known right up front. Now, you might luck out and witness for the Lord and it works; but they do not know what divine good is or how to handle sin. Only through personal, spiritual growth. Gradually, as the believer matures, his life comes into line with the plan of God.

First one Z and then another Z; they are related, but the first does not depend upon the second. We can make Jesus Lord, to some extent, through spiritual growth. One does not prove the other and one does not sustain the other. If a believer falls into reversionism and never recovers, he is still assured of salvation and eternal life. This is a look at the deluding nature of Lordship salvation, one of the worst doctrines circulating in Christianity today.

1Cor. 12:3: Therefore, of this I make known to you that no one speaking by the Spirit of God says, Jesus is accursed. And no one is able to say Jesus is Lord, except by the Holy Spirit.

Lesson #750

1Cor. 12:4 July 13, 2008

Sunday 1

Each member of the Trinity is named in the beginning of this chapter. V. 7 has θεος and v. 3 has Πνευμα and Jesus in v. 3 as well.

Χαρισμα is the word for spiritual gift. Gifts are distributed on a grace basis. God does not pick out the greatest believers and give them the greatest gifts. Gifting is grace all the way. And no one gets a personal selection of gifts because he prays fervently for it. The gift or gifts that we have is complete at the discretion of God the Holy Spirit.

As an unbeliever, we heard the gospel, and we wanted to hear it and we listened. The Holy Spirit in common grace acted as our human spirit, and the gospel message made sense to us. The gospel is in the mentality of our soul and we understand it. We responded positively toward that message and God made our faith efficacious. Our faith does not save us, but the Holy Spirit Who regenerates us. Faith is necessary, but the Holy Spirit does what is necessary in order to put us into Christ. Jesus is Lord is a position. Whatever it was that we believed in Jesus Christ, and we got 39 irrevocable assets. Most of us may not know the actual minute, hour or day in which we were regenerated; but we were all given a gift at that point. This gift does not indicate some great spirituality or the advance in our spiritual life, as it is given to us at salvation. This is long before the process of spiritual growth.

God knew long before we were born what our talents and abilities were. Our effective function is based upon our spiritual growth. We need to grow to spiritual maturity in order for our gift to operate with the maximum impact.

The noun is διαίρησις which is in the nominative plural and it means diversities, varieties. There are a variety of gifts. There are different assignments which go with different gifts. Each gift means a different activity and proclivity for the believer. We do not have all the same aptitudes or affinities in life. As believers we are not all equal. We know that there are differences in aptitudes among people. In freedom, we have equal opportunity to go as far as we can go, based upon our abilities. Our gifts are tied to our human aptitude and abilities. If you cannot communicate a thought, the Holy Spirit is not going to give you the gift of pastor-teacher or evangelist. I can't do that job. Not to worry. God gives us a gift or gifts which are apropos. In the function of our spiritual gifts, God uses our spiritual advance as well as our talents and abilities. He assigns exactly the right gift for each one of us.

1Cor. 12:4: And there are a variety of gifts, but the same Spirit;...

Lesson #751

1Cor. 12:4–6 July 13, 2008

Sunday 2

A potential recruit has an MOS, which is a particular job which he will be assigned. There is training, depending upon the occupational speciality. This is an experience common to all. Some have been given this same speciality. It requires more than one to get a particular job done army wide. There has to be a number with these various occupations. Not everyone will have the exact same job. A diversity of job skills. They are all necessary components. They all go up to make one large unit. This is a diversity of jobs and a sameness in jobs. There is a unity in this one organization.

As we are sworn in as a new believer, we are given a mission and we do not know anything about it. We believe in Jesus Christ and God the Holy Spirit gives us an assignment, and we do not get a choice. It is based upon our human capabilities. From eternity past, God has had our profile and He knows what is in the realm of our capacities.

There are a number of pastor-teachers, because people need different teaching styles; there need to be pastor-teachers for various geographical locations. The growth of our individual spiritual aptitude depends upon our level of competence and training. The more you have to do, the more training is involved. The training is to put us in a place to accomplish the mission of the entire force. As we mature spiritually, the competence also increases and the function of our gift increases.

There are 3 passages of spiritual gifts: Rom. 12:8ff; 1Cor. 12:8–12, 28; Eph. 4:11 with another small list. This is not a comprehensive listing of spiritual gifts. They are divided into two categories: temporary gifts, most of which are in 1Cor. 12. These gifts ceased to function after a certain period of time, which was during the 1st century. On TV, there are a lot of interesting things which happen on a healing service, and these services are all phoney. There are miracles which do happen during our time period, although none are done through some human vessel. Then there are the permanent gifts, which are the gifts which we have. These gifts have been in operation since the first century. Rick Hughes is a person who has the gift of evangelism. Kids who are normally unruly and pay no attention during an assembly pay rapt attention to Rick. He can present the gospel in a way so that they understand. There are gifts of administration. There is the gift of exhortation, disseminating the word of knowledge. Faith, etc. These gifts will all be covered.

All of these gifts are given by God the Holy Spirit. The Holy Spirit works with us and through us. Just like metabolizing doctrine and operation Z works by the Holy Spirit, just as we execute the spiritual life by means of the Holy Spirit, so we function with our spiritual gift. The entire spiritual experience is based upon the grace ministry of God the Holy Spirit.

It is easy to get fat-headed in the use of your spiritual gift. You teach a great lesson, you do a wonderful job evangelizing. However, the key to all of this is God the Holy Spirit. Apart from His ministry, there is nothing that we can do. This is the grace operation which God has provided for us.

1Cor. 12:4: And there are a variety [or, diverse] [lit., differences, varieties, distinctions] of gifts, but the same Spirit;...

V. 5 relates the gifts to Jesus Christ. Here, there are diversities of διακονία = ministries, services. Genitive plural as was χαρίσματα in the previous verse. The outcome of metabolizing Bible doctrine and applying Bible doctrine is the manifestation of service through our gift. As you metabolize, as you advance to spiritual maturity, then manifested in the gift is our production. Every believer is thus in full-time Christian service; if you have a gift, then you have a ministry. People think of a pastor or an evangelist as ministers. You may not be standing in front of a congregation. Every moment that we live, we have a ministry. Your gift is not some little gift functioning 5 minutes a day. When you grow and metabolize doctrine, you have a full-time ministry. You have a full-time ministry in the pulpit, in the classroom, in the barracks, in the office, or wherever you find yourself. The gift fits us perfectly. Each gift is designed to fulfill a service. This does not mean that all of us do not have a responsibility of witnessing or praying. We can't ever skip out on those functions even if we do not have that particular gift.

Pray without ceasing is a consistent prayer life. It is also staying in the Spirit. We have the ability here to move mountains. It is an incredible resource and we speak directly to the throne room of God and He hears us. There are many ways that prayer has affected our life. We find out that, at times, it actually works. "Oh, God, help me now." In prayer meeting, Bobby tells us that we may have no clue as to how God will answer our prayers. He knows best how it should happen. We have a narrow mind with blinders on and it is exciting to pray for something and we know that He will answer us.

Being a representative of someone, means that we do not put him in a bad light. We want to represent them in a good light. We represent our school, our company, the armed forces, our political party by our actions. We also represent Jesus Christ in the same way. When you represent someone, you represent them in the best light. We are ambassadors for Christ. We are to witness for the Lord Jesus Christ and we are to produce for Him. The same Lord implies a unity of purpose. We are to glorify the Lord and to serve Him.

1Cor. 12:5: and there are a variety [or, diverse] [lit., differences, varieties, distinctions] of ministries, yet the same Lord.

These are works and deeds. This is a legitimate subject in the spiritual life. As believers, we do perform works in His service. There is teaching, administrating, giving, helps, prayer; and these all function together. All of these deeds fall in line with the gift given. These are not works or deeds or activities accomplished in our own energy or power.

Different gifts, ministries and works as a part of the spiritual life, but it is the same Father, Who has set up the function of these things. Our purpose is to glorify and serve the Lord Jesus Christ. That is our service. All of this is planned by God the Faith and executed by God the Holy Spirit. This is why all members of the Trinity are mentioned.

1Cor. 12:6: And there are differences [or, diverse] [lit., differences, varieties, distinctions] of workings, but the same God is working all things in all.

Lesson #752

1Cor. 12:4–6 July 16, 2008

Wednesday

The subject is practical; the end product of our metabolism of doctrine. It is our service to the Lord based upon the gift that we have been given. There are about 19 gifts, and Bobby will list them all and describe them.

There is a progression of thought in these 3 verses, and they all have διαθαιρησις. This word is key, and it is a central idea. Bobby likes rendering this diversities. We all have a variety of roles in the body of Christ. This indicates that each one of us has a diverse part to play in the body of Christ, making us united. It is a unity of diversity. Χαρισμας = gifts, diversities of; found in v. 4. It is amazing as to how many diversities which we have in the grace of God. Our central contact with God in all that He does for us is His grace.

People look around and see all the horrors of this world and say, “How can a loving God allow this world to continue like this?” The love of God is manifested in a way that no other love can be manifested. He gives His love in Christ. We are the cause of the state of our affairs.

Holy Spirit and Spiritual Gifts

1. V. 11 informs us that it is the Holy Spirit which distributes the diversities of spiritual gifts.
2. It is the Holy Spirit Who is responsible for disseminating this grace to all believers at the moment of salvation.
3. He give them to the believer for the purpose of benefitting the body of Christ.
4. Each gift is a different manifestation or demonstration of the Holy Spirit’s work in us.

1Cor. 12:4: And there are a variety [or, diverse] [lit., differences, varieties, distinctions] of gifts, but the same Spirit;...

In v. 5 we have δικονια = ministries, services. The body of Christ is involved in a variety of services. We each have our own ministry. We have a diversity of spiritual gifts and a diversity of services using that spiritual gift. We each have a ministry right where we live. It reflects our assignments, and we all have our own assignments in the body of Christ. As we grow and advance, the utilization of this gift becomes more and more effective. Each gift is designed to produce fruit in the life of a believer. All Bobby means by producing fruit and the true understanding of actually rendering service. In other words, divine good with doctrinal motivation.

Putting these Verses Together

1. The gift is a spiritual aptitude or talent. Bobby chatted with a young man with the gift of pastor-teacher. Every believer is enabled to carry our a service in the body of Christ.
2. The conclusion must be that each one of us is in full-time Christian service to the Lord. There is no part time service. We do not exercise our gifts 24/7. A full-time ministry does not mean every minute of the day. If you possess a gift, you are in a full-time ministry.
3. One of the great misconceptions of Christianity today. Possessing a gift does not guarantee spirituality or spiritual growth or the production of fruit. There is a vicious circle.

This verse concludes with the 2nd member of the Trinity. We all have the same Jesus Christ, Who we represent and serve.

1Cor. 12:5: and there are a variety [or, diverse] [lit., differences, varieties, distinctions] of ministries [or, services], yet the same Lord.

Varieties of effects, but the same God Who works all things. Ενεργίμα = operation, activities, works, deeds. Being a hearer and a doer of the Word. Works are a part of the spiritual life. These are not works or activities or operations which are accomplished in our own energy or in our own power. These works comes from spiritual gifts, and they are the effects of metabolizing Bible doctrine. Human good is when we act apart from God. There are different gifts and different works and different services, and they are all a part of assigning and the use of the spiritual gifts. This is all the same God. The Father has designed many types of operations and productions.

What these do

1. Benefit the body of Christ.
2. Manifest the Holy Spirit.
3. Glorify God Himself.

Spiritual gifts are an activity involving the entire Godhead. The Holy Spirit has a lot to do with them, but there are links from each gift to each member fo the Trinity.

Links

1. They are related to the source of all things, God the Father. He made provision for all gifts in eternity past. He is the designer and the source for spiritual gifts in the divine decrees.
2. There is a relation to God the Holy Spirit, Who bestows the gift and He empowers the function of the gift.
3. Spiritual gifts glorify Jesus Christ, and in Whose service, all the gifts are to be used.

The source, the bestowed and empowerment, and the Lord Jesus Christ, in Whose serice, all gifts are used.

Because of this Trinitarian approach sounds like a contradiction to v. 11, which says, “One and the same Spirit works all these things, distributing to each person as He will.”

ενεργεω = to work, to operate, to perform, to energize. He works all things in all persons. He works all things in all. The accusative neuter plural of πας means everything. Dative masculine plural of πας, which occurs twice here. It means within all. He works everything within all. We could render this, He works everything in the life of all believers. This is God the Father’s relation to all believers.

God the Father and His Work

1. Every aspect of our life, from salvation to eternity, falls under God the Father’s authority in the divine decrees. He knew about us in eternity past and He planned out everything about us in eternity past. It is impossible to understand that God has always existed.

2. This includes the planning and execution of spiritual gifts, and they were decreed in eternity past.
3. They were designed and determined for each of us. In the divine decree is our individual plan, as well as the individual plan for every believer who has ever lived. The divine decrees are quite large, but this is simple for God the Father. He knows all that is occurring now and all that will occur in the future.
4. Our spiritual gift was selected for us by God the Father in eternity past. God the Holy Spirit bestows this gift upon us.
5. The choice was made from the sovereignty of God the Father in the divine decrees. All the functions of the Trinity fall under the planning and the provisions.

- 1 v. 11 refers to a specific act of a member of the Trinity, distributing to each one individually as He will.
- 2 v. 6 refers to...
- 3 planned by the Father and distributed by God the Holy Spirit. The Holy Spirit is also sovereign God. Not only does He bestow them, but God the Holy Spirit bestows the power by which our spiritual gift functions. In our spiritual life, we manifest the power of the Holy Spirit. The whole system was designed by God in eternity past for the purpose of serving the Lord Jesus Christ and His body, the church.

Summary

1. All the gifts are bestowed and empowered by God the Holy Spirit.
2. All of the gifts are modes of serving the body of Christ and glorifying Him.
3. The effects of those gifts are due to the planning of God the Father in the divine decrees.

1Cor. 12:6: And there are differences [or, diverse] [lit., differences, varieties, distinctions] of workings, but the same God is working all things in all.

Vv. 7–11 will focus on God the Holy Spirit.

1. The first focus is on the diversity of spiritual gifts.
2. It focuses on the one origin.
3. It focuses on their purpose and the mission completion of the church.

Each gift provides a service for the body of Christ.

Lesson #753

1Cor. 12:6–8 July 17, 2008

Thursday

Diversity and unity. Each one is the diversity and the common good is unity. Dative masculine singular of hêkostos, which means to each one, to every man. This is not all mankind, nor is this limited to the masculine gender. The reference here is to the work of God the Holy Spirit in each one of us. None of us can operate apart from God the Holy Spirit, which is available only to faith alone in Christ alone. Phanêrosis+pneuma which means the manifestation of the Spirit. Manifestation is a noun of action modified by the genitive of the Spirit. The noun of action expresses a verbal idea. This is a noun of action with a genitive, which can be objective or subjective. The love of God or the love for God, differentiates between objective or subjective. On this decision, depends upon the meaning of the Holy Spirit's part in the spiritual gifts and what they mean to us. So it is a technical and a grammatical decision which is important. Bobby will develop this point-by-point.

Grammar

1. Whether objective genitive or subjective genitive depends upon whether the noun in the genitive produces the action or it receives the action of the noun of action. The noun of action is manifestation and the genitive is Spirit.
2. That means, does the Holy Spirit produce the action of manifesting (subjective genitive) or
3. Does the Holy Spirit receive the action of manifesting, which is the objective genitive. So, the key is, does the Holy Spirit produce or receive the action.
4. If the Holy Spirit produces the action, it is the Holy Spirit which gives the gifts, which is something which we know to be true. If this is a simple subjective genitive, God the Holy Spirit gives the gifts.
5. Objective genitive means to every man is given the manifestation from the Spirit.
6. If the Holy Spirit receives the action, He is the One Who is being manifested by giving the gifts. That would be translated the manifestation of the Spirit.
7. It is correctly translated as an objective genitive, a gift given to us to manifest the Spirit in our lives. It is not about Him giving the gifts.
8. The objective genitive means that the Holy Spirit is manifested through the different functions of the gift. The Holy Spirit is manifested through us which manifested the Holy Spirit through us. This gift manifests the Holy Spirit.
9. So, to every man is given the manifestation of the Spirit, means an open proclamation of the truth of the Holy Spirit's work by functioning in our gift. We are manifesting the Holy Spirit.
10. So to every believer, which means us, is given the privilege of the open proclamation of the truth.
11. Hence, utilizing our gift is a demonstration of the application of Bible doctrine from our soul. This reflects the Holy Spirit's work in us.
12. Hence that which is in our soul is openly demonstrated in Christian service and Christian production as a manifestation of the Holy Spirit's work.

Bobby is giving a visible manifestation of the Holy Spirit's work because he is teaching Bible doctrine. Bobby has already believed this doctrine and he is teaching it to us, the Holy Spirit working through him. This is true for all of us and we all have the privilege of manifesting God the Holy Spirit. This is a beautiful picture. It is the whole picture of the spectrum of God the Holy Spirit. This is our entire spiritual life and production. It is a magnificent picture of grace production and not human works. This is how we reflect the Shekinah glory, by producing His glory in our own life, through our spiritual gift, and it is all about grace. It is not about what we do.

The reason for this diversity of gifts is the final word in v. 7. What is the reason for this manifestation of gifts? Accusative middle singular of συνφέρω. Bobby puts these words on the board because these are the divinely inspired words which God gave the Apostle Paul. To the profit of all. Hence it means to bring something together for something else for benefit or advantage. In our context, a diversity of gifts are brought together for advantage. This is for the spiritual benefit of the whole body of Christ. Our spiritual gift is designed for the spiritual benefit of every believer. Our gift is not given to us just for our own gratification or our glorification, but it is related to the body of Christ. We have a gift for the benefit of all of us. Diversity and unity. These gifts are for the benefit of the whole body.

The Gifts

1. The gifts are manifestations of something which is greater than ourselves. We have the wrong way of thinking about our own gifts.
2. They are the gifts which are the manifestation in the life of every believer for the overall advantage for all of us, and glorifying God in so doing.
3. That is the profit, the συνφερο, the common good; and that is what our service is all about.
4. We are demonstrations of the work of God the Holy Spirit. That is producing fruit, utilizing our gift to produce God the Holy Spirit.
5. The power of God the Holy Spirit is manifested in us as we glorify God and as we serve the body of Christ.
6. This is the manifestation of the grace of God. The grace of God is the emphasis in our service. There is no service without the filling of the Holy Spirit. There is no service apart from grace; there is no service apart from spiritual growth, and all of this is the grace of God. The emphasis is not upon our service.
7. He works in us.
8. That is the manifestation of grace for the manifestation of good and the profit of all.
9. The gifts are bestowed for the corporate good of all, so that the body of Christ might manifest the Holy Spirit's work and glorify God in our bodies. Unity in diversity. Individual grace and corporate grace. This is so critical to our understanding because it defines the basic principles of spiritual gifts. This verse is the overall picture of the gifts which we have, why they are given and how they are used. Whether we do or not is entirely up to us and dependent upon our volition. Accomplishing good works using your spiritual gift is entirely a grace operation. We are not glorified by our witnessing; Bobby is not glorified by teaching doctrine; Rich Hughes is not glorified by teaching basic doctrine and evangelizing.

This verse gives us an overview of the gifts which we have.

1Cor. 12:7: And to each one is given the manifestation [showing forth] of the Spirit to the profit of us all.

These are all gifts which will be observed by all the believers at the church in Corinth. No need for these gifts if there is not a reason. What they have here are the visible spectacular gifts. They are manifesting visible, spectacular gifts. How can anyone think that speaking in tongues today would be all about them. The Holy Spirit manifests Himself for the benefit of all. God the Holy Spirit does not do this for that individual. Visibly gifted individuals. Some were contemptuous of those who had other gifts.

Paul's Points

1. The Holy Spirit gives all of these gift, and some of them are quite spectacular. He does this to manifest Himself and to glorify God and for the benefit of all.
2. This is the grace way of service, which He will emphasize. You have no spiritual life without the Holy Spirit.
3. The Holy Spirit distributes to everyone these diverse gifts for the allied working of the whole body. All the troops have different jobs. All of them go to make up the unity of the organization. Each one of us has has a different MOS; each one of us must practice and train in that MOS. This is so that we are proficient when it comes to using our gift.

Paul speaks of some individuals here and he gives 2 spiritual gifts. There are 19 gifts found in the Bible, and he will tell us which are temporary and which are permanent. There is the word of wisdom and the word of knowledge. Λογος is found in both of these.

Jesus as the Word

1. The Lord Jesus Christ was called ho logos in John 1:1–18. There is a lot packed into this chapter.
2. Jesus had many titles and this was one of them.
3. Jesus, in this title, is revealed as God and as man in One person. This is the incarnation of divine truth.
4. Jesus was the gospel manifested and His life and ministry demonstrated all soteriological doctrine. He was the truth; He was the Word. All of His life was the revelation of the gospel.
5. As the Word, He was doctrine personified. This is why He is called the Word.
6. Logos in v. 8 also represents divine truth.
7. This time in v. 8, different from John 1, divine truth here is spoken by someone other than the Lord Jesus Christ.
8. What is logos? It is mystery doctrine which has not yet been put into writing and circulated among the churches; this information has not been widely disseminated. This gift is for the dissemination of this doctrine to a wider group;; this is talk radio in the first century.

9. Even though it is not in writing and not widely disseminated, it is now being communicated and disseminated. It is the word of wisdom and the word of knowledge. This is what Paul is doing in his writings. He is recording doctrine in this divinely inspired epistle. Some guy who was a peon yesterday now has the gift of speaking mystery doctrines which were never revealed before. God was not going to leave these people in the lurch about their own unique spiritual lives. We get the word first, which is nice about this gift. It is easy to transfer the real purpose of a gift to the glorification of self for your own benefit.

Human good is not a grace operation.

1Cor. 12:8: For through the Spirit is given to one a word of wisdom, and to another a word of knowledge, according to the same Spirit;

Lesson #754

1Cor. 12:8 July 20, 2008

Sunday 1

vv. 8–10 gives us a list of gifts, and there is a seeming poverty of information about these gifts. There does not seem to be enough information for us to understand all of these gifts. However, the Bible provides an excellent amount of knowledge which covers all that we need to know. Let's look at all of the gifts in the New Testament documents: 1Cor. 12:8–12: To one is given through the Spirit the utterance of wisdom, and to another the utterance of knowledge according to the same Spirit, to another faith by the same Spirit, to another gifts of healing by the one Spirit, to another the working of miracles, to another prophecy, to another the ability to distinguish between spirits, to another various kinds of tongues, to another the interpretation of tongues. All these are empowered by one and the same Spirit, who apportions to each one individually as he wills. For just as the body is one and has many members, and all the members of the body, though many, are one body, so it is with Christ. Rom. 12:6–8: Having gifts that differ according to the grace given to us, let us use them: if prophecy, in proportion to our faith; if service, in our serving; the one who teaches, in his teaching; the one who exhorts, in his exhortation; the one who contributes, in generosity; the one who leads, with zeal; the one who does acts of mercy, with cheerfulness. Eph. 4:11–12: And he gave the apostles, the prophets, the evangelists, the pastors and teachers, to equip the saints for the work of ministry, for building up the body of Christ.

You may have looked at these lists and wondered, which gift is mine; and some you may have never heard of. It is not necessary that you know what your gift is, because, as you grow spiritually, your gift will function.

Some of these gifts are repeated; and overlaps. This would mean that these gifts mentioned apply specifically to the context of this passage (e.g., in Ephesians).

We have a total of 19 gifts in the New Testament, and they are catalogued under the heading of temporary and permanent gifts. There are 9 temporary and 10 permanent gifts.

The temporary gifts are more spectacular, and they are only found during the Apostolic portion of the Church Age. The end of these gifts was at least by 90 A.D. or so.

These gifts are not used today because they confirmed the authenticity of the believers with that gift. Israel had no clue as to the doctrine which we now have. This made the doctrine that we have is unique. We are empowered by the Holy Spirit and within the realm of these gifts.

In the first century A.D., there was no assembly of a complete canon of Scripture. Before the advent of our Lord, the Old Testament had already been translated into Greek, which was the primary language of that portion of the ancient world at that time. Without a written document, there was no other way for New Testament believers to receive doctrine. These gifts verified the messenger and the doctrine, which stuff had never been heard before.

Once the canon of Scripture was in place, it contained all of the information which we need. We hold the very words which God would have us know. We have something that no other believer from the first century A.D. had. 8 of the 9 temporary gifts is only found in Corinthians. Why do you suppose that these gifts are only listed here in the Corinthian epistle. The Corinthians were great abusers, and they could be arrogant and show arrogance toward others. These gifts were a source of division (the mental attitude sins of those with these gifts were the actual source). These gifts are still divisive today, even though they are no longer in use.

One reason that we study these gifts is, because they are gifts of great confusion today in the Church Age. There are a great number of those who realize that they do not possess gifts, but act as charlatans to lift the wallets from their followers.

Definition of a miracle: God is the cause of the miracle, even though he works through a personal agent, like today what might be known as a faith-healer or a miracle worker. God does still perform miracles in this world and for us, but it is not our responsibility to determine what is a miracle and what is not. Some people with an illness and have prayed to God to remove it, and God does, either by medicine or miraculously or using the body. However, you will not be healed because someone pops you on the head in the middle of a service.

There is a further problem for those who claim to have these temporary gifts. These spectacular gifts today blur and diminish the function of spiritual growth and even of the gospel. The focus is on the person with the gift of faith-healing or speaking in tongues, but the emphasis is not upon the Word of God. When people show these spectacular, miraculous gifts, it takes away from God's function in us. These gifts also become a source of emotional reversionism.

The 10 permanent gifts, which are in use in the church today. These are important because we have one of them.

1. Our permanent gift is our area of service for the Lord.
2. This gift is the visible part of our otherwise invisible spiritual life. You may not attract a crowd with helps, administrations, or giving. Churches with trust funds end up misusing them in many ways. At Berachah, they get just the right amount to do exactly what we need. There is some overage. There will be a use for the overage. The wood along side the T&P building and the Prep-school building will be replaced, which explains how the excess is being used. Giving with the right motivation is key.
3. Using our spiritual gift is the outworking of the manifestation of the Holy Spirit in our life. It is not about the Holy Spirit giving us gifts, but it is the fact that these gifts are the manifestation of the Holy Spirit working in our lives.
4. Our gifts are designed to benefit the body of Christ. Helps; when one believer helps another, this is a benefit. Many of the deacons at Berachah have the gifts of administration; and each gift benefits the whole body of Christ. Our gift is the epitome of God's grace. Effectively using our gift is our demonstration of spiritual advance. It is not a demonstration of our salvation. Lordship salvation asserts that we produce because we are saved.

The first two gifts are found in v. 6: For through the Spirit is given to one a word of wisdom, and to another a word of knowledge, according to the same Spirit;... The word of wisdom and the word of knowledge are the first two gifts. John 1:1–18 the word λογος is found over and over again, applied to Jesus Christ. In John 1:14, Jesus Christ is revealed as the incarnation of divine truth; He is the gospel manifested. He communicated doctrine in his 4 years of teaching in the Palestine area. Jesus Christ is doctrine personified.

The word is mystery doctrine not yet put into doctrine or widely disseminated. Λογος is doctrine which is disseminated. Certain of the Corinthians. All believers need to know about the unique spiritual life. We know, because we listen to Bible doctrine listed in the pages of the New Testament. They knew then because they got this information from the word of knowledge and the word of wisdom.

Word of Knowledge: This logically comes first. Λογος γνωσις is what is found here. This is doctrine which is heard. This is doctrine which is spoken through this gift for the purpose of implanting it in the mind and it is not available in any other way. We always think of γνωσις as a part of gap. Γνωσις has not yet been transformed into ἐπίγνωσις.

1Cor. 12:8: For through the Spirit is given to one a word of wisdom, and to another a word of knowledge, according to the same Spirit;

1Cor. 12:8 July 20, 2008

Sunday 2

Bobby gave the beginning verses twice. A friend told Bobby at halftime how he was recruited as a faith-healer. He said he had the right voice for it. Being a faith-healer is, apparently, a very lucrative business. Every circumstance can be handled with doctrine in the soul, and you don't need a miracle.

The word of knowledge. This is what is taught from a pastor-teacher. We transfer this knowledge to the right lobe. Bobby is producing knowledge for us, and whether we metabolize this knowledge or not is up to us. Bobby's job is to teach γνῶσις, and we are to take it in and believe it.

The general use of the noun Γνῶσις

1. Γνῶσις is not necessarily unmetabolized doctrine, as found in v. 8. It is not metabolized until it meets positive volition. It is a more general use of that term. It is not the specific, technical term.
2. This gift, the word of knowledge, is about the presentation of doctrine. It is not about the inculcation of doctrine. It will be inculcated by some, but this gift is all about its presentation. Bobby is giving us the raw food; the raw knowledge. The γνῶσις at that time did not come from the pages of Scripture.
3. This gift focuses on the communication of knowledge, which knowledge was not in writing.
4. Presentation of academic knowledge. We have not yet metabolized it. It comes from the pages of Scripture.
5. This gift does not focus on the result of metabolizing doctrine, which is why the word γνῶσις is used here instead of ἐπίγνωσις. The believer with this gift presents the word of knowledge to other believers; he presents it as γνῶσις. In the soul of the believer who hears it, it is γνῶσις; and he had the choice to believe it or not.
6. Therefore, this is a gift of academic insight into God's truth, that others did not possess at that time. Others did not possess this, because it was not in writing.
7. This information was not available to believers at that time. The communicator does not apply this information for the hearer; he cannot do that. The application is specified in the word of wisdom, which does involve metabolizing. That will be the word of application.

The word of γνῶσις is given according to the Holy Spirit. Κατα+πνευμα = in accordance with the Spirit, in conformity with the Spirit. This word conforms to the truth. The word of knowledge is divinely inspired directly from the Holy Spirit. The guidance for this gift comes directly from the Holy Spirit. Both gifts; one indirectly and one with the intermediary of Bible doctrine. This must be communicated, and this is the word of knowledge. It is unnecessary to have this gift today, because we have all the information which we need today.

Today, the pastor or the missionary, anyone with a communication gift, can take the place of this gift. Yesterday, it was a gift of teaching that which was not found in the Bible; and today, it is learned and then taught. This includes prep-school teachers. This can include women who teach children. It includes those women who teach, but they do not teach in authority over men. This is something which is contested in the ministry today (1Tim. 2:12). God does not allow women to teach men from a position of authority. Women do not even get to have authority over men who act like children.

The one who teaches doctrine has authority, which is gotten from the gift and the Word. Bobby can throw his weight around, having a title, but he can't do much without the authority of the Word of God. It is like someone with a commission in the military; without leadership, it is meaningless. If a woman teaches doctrine, she carries inherent authority over those whom she teaches, including men, which is prohibited.

No communicator today is directly inspired by the Holy Spirit. There is no direct, supernatural influence from the Holy Spirit, imparting new doctrine, divine revelation, the actual Word of God. Those who correctly teach the Word of God today are those who get it from the teaching ministry of the Holy Spirit and the Word of God. The proper communication of doctrine is not something which is brand new doctrine, not found in the Word of God. There is no new doctrine. Every time someone says they have new doctrine, that means we are dealing with a cult. Some of the worst cults today are from those who have received new revelation directly from God the Holy Spirit. A pastor can only stand up and teach with content, and that content is gotten out of the Word of God, and he teaches according to the ICE principles.

Bobby was told by someone this morning that someone was watch a pastor last night on tv because this pastor had been to a pastor-teacher, Stanley, who was in Atlanta at the 1st or 2nd Baptist church. Stanley told Bob that his ministry was turned around by Bob's teaching. It is the job of the pastor-teacher to study and teach. When a pastor-teacher does not study, then he is a failure.

Some will claim that the doctrine came directly into their minds in a dream. That is laziness; they want to be able to speak without having to do the spade work. If you listen to them, you will hear contradiction from the Word of God. Where there is contradiction, it is not the Word of God. It is false. The fallacy of this mystical communication is that it is entirely subjective. There is no standard of objectivity. The only test for accuracy is the Bible itself. Does this information agree with the existing the Word of God? If it does, then it could have been gotten out of the Bible. If it does not agree with the Bible, then it is false.

Those who claim direct revelation from the Spirit are charlatans. They are false teachers. Cults get launched by these types. For instance, the angel Moroni brought a 3rd testament which superceded the New Testament, and is called today the Book of Mormon; and it is new revelation which contradicts the teaching of the New Testament. It is a cult. It is not Christian. A cult is that which is in opposition to Him. God will not give new revelation which contradicts previous revelation. God's Word does not change. God is truth and He will not contradict that which He has already given.

If a person claims direct revelation from the Holy Spirit, and it agrees with the existing New Testament, then it is superfluous, because it can already be found in the Word of God. This is the fallacy of those who receive new revelation from God.

The founder of the Muslim religion, Mohammed 570–400 A.D. claimed that he received new revelation from God and that he was the last prophet of God, and that this information came from the angel Gabriel. This became the basis for the world's most intolerant religion. The pages of the Koran contradict the New Testament. There is information about Mohammed, but Muslims do not have a deep study of his life, because there are some real problems with him and the Koran. They do not want to go there, because it challenges the very nature of the revelation. They zealously guard the reputation of a man who was not all that reputable. He borrow portions of the Koran from the Old Testament. He denied that Christ was God and he denied that Jesus had been crucified. Jesus was labeled as just another prophet. Needless to say, God did not send a new revelation through Mohammed. His revelation opposes Jews and Christians and demands their destruction. The Jews are called false because they believe the wrong doctrine. Christians who disagree with Mohammed are subject to the punishment of Islam. In opposing the Word of God, Mohammed is a false prophet who could not have received new revelation from God. People can be killed for making this assertion. This is Satan's world and Islam is his religion. Mohammed is a false prophet and Islam is a complete lie, and their bloodthirsty actions from day to day belie their evil. Mohammed got just the revelation that he needed in order to justify what he did.

Islam is not a religion of peace. It cannot be maintained as a religion of peace, where its very founder was a perpetrator of warfare and plunder, which were his main interests. He is said to be an excellent pattern of conduct, and Islam's conduct today is not peaceful. Islam is a religion which is anything but peaceful. Those bound to follow the prophet follow him in that way. The Muslim faith requires them to follow the prophet Mohammed.

Some apologists for Islam say that these comments taken out of context to justify killing. There is no context for the Koran; it is rambling and incomplete. The Koran just makes statements, and these statements are made in complete expediency. This is the danger of new revelation. Good was defined as anything which benefits Muslims and evil is anything which harms Muslims. There is not higher moral standard. Absolutes are swept aside for situational ethics. Evil became anything that Mohammed did not want. Murder is justified if it furthers the cause of Islam, and it was extensively used by Mohammed himself. He was a murderer and he contracted assassins to kill his enemies.

Satanic Verses was written by Salmon Rushdie. Mohammed first claimed that these verses were from Allah, and then that they were from Satan. If one came from Satan then how do we know the others are not? Salmon dared to tell the truth and he is under condemnation from Islam.

Whether we win the war against Islam, we have truth in our souls. God will not destroy us or the nation where there is a pivot. We face an insidious enemy who believes in the Koran as much as we believe in the Bible. This does not mean that we need to be intolerant to every Muslim we meet, because they need Jesus as well.

More details on Wednesday.

1Cor. 12:8: For through the Spirit is given to one a word of wisdom, and to another a word of knowledge, according to the same Spirit;

The first spiritual gift which we began with, is the word of knowledge. We ought to already understand that most of the gifts in this context are no longer in existence. They were for the 1st century A.D., and we may wonder, why study these gifts right now? These were gifts which were a problem in the Corinthian church.

Knowledge here is γνῶσις. Here, it is not exactly as we are normally used to. We know that γνῶσις is academic knowledge. We can never discount γνῶσις, because we want to transfer it to our norms and standard lobe. With this gift, came the ability to impart God's truth, and it is specifically designed to begin the Church Age, as this doctrine was not laid down in writing. This γνῶσις was all about our spiritual life. This was an acceleration of doctrine for those who had never heard anything like this before. The communicator is emphasized here, rather than the recipient. Γνῶσις is yet to be metabolized. Maybe it will be and maybe not. The presentation of doctrine rather than the inculcation is the key. Without the hearing of mystery doctrine, the spiritual life would have been greatly delayed. There were only 12 Apostles and there were others on this spiritual team, but there is only so much that they could do. As it happened, this gift was less and less necessary. These guys had to walk and the journeys were arduous and dangerous. So God gave others the ability to teach information which was mystery doctrine. God did not leave the new church to fend for itself; God made certain that the church had doctrine to grow on. Doctrine being taught is readily available all over the world. However, then, this gift was greatly needed.

This word of knowledge was spoken in conformity with the Holy Spirit. The Holy Spirit governed directly what was being communicated. This person could not know this mystery doctrine other than the Holy Spirit. Today, this gift is unnecessary. We have all the doctrine which is necessary in the Bible.

Bobby is not divinely inspired, but he is illuminated by the Holy Spirit, which is done through the hermeneutical process, using ICE processes. There is the all important exegesis, which is taking the etymology, context, etc. in order to determine the meaning of the Word of God. Bobby then teaches us what we learn. No pastor is infallible. All pastors make mistakes. Only the Bible in the autographs is completely accurate. The prepared pastor-teacher in his study of the Bible will present accurate enough pneumatikos for the growth of the believers in his congregation. What is done from this pulpit is enough for us to understand Jesus Christ, the doctrine which He has given us, and to advance to maturity. Then, the person got the information directly from God the Holy Spirit, without intervening study. A pastor-teacher gets this through study.

Many have claimed new revelation from God, which ends up being contradictory and even antithetical to God. Cults have begun with this approach; unification church, scientology, Christian Science, Mormonism; and new revelation has been received to change the Bible to their liking.

Islam begun as new revelation from Allah to Mohammed, and that is a great example of how evil such an approach can be.

there is an interesting event in the life of Mohammed. He had a revelation, which he often did (the Koran is a set of revelations which came to Mohammed just at the right time to justify his function and life at that time).

Salmon Rushdie, in his novel, Satanic Verses. Why are Muslims so touchy about their prophet? The claim of Satan's influence is a challenge to the legitimacy of Mohammed's status as a true prophet of God, as well as to the legitimacy of the Koran as divine revelation.

Mohammed was unable to convert his own tribe. They were all in Mecca. The tribe's name was the Quraysh. These people were polytheists and they worshiped several gods, and Mohammed was frustrated and he was insulted by being rejected by his own people. This sets off a person's arrogance at times. This ate at Mohammed. If his own people would not accept him, who else would? No matter how he presented it, they would not accept his polytheism. It was a standoff; he got nowhere.

The leaders of this tribe approached Mohammed with a compromise. It was fascinating. It struck right at the heart of his new theology, they offered up a trade-off: you worship our gods for a year, and we will worship your god for a year.

Just in a nick of time, Mohammed got a new revelation from Allah. He was told that it was okay to pray to these gods, and that is because they were intercessors. This justified a radical change in his theology. He completely reversed himself, using a revelation from Allah to justify this change. New revelation is often expedient and designed to justify something the recipient wants to do. This was something which Mohammed did a lot, but here, it was most blatant.

In keeping with their pact, the Koraysh prayed with the Muslims. They did not mind this, because it was just another god to them. They had no problem with this. Mohammed began to realize just how severely he had compromised his religion with this approach. He could not just leave it like this. So, in order to disclaim this revelation, he then alleged that Satan had duped him and gave him this revelation. This cleared Allah of any wrongdoing, but Satan made him do it.

This infuriated the Koryash, and this began him on his career of bloodshed.

Through the centuries, this has been an embarrassing act in the life of Mohammed. If Satan could put words into Mohammed's mouth once, couldn't this happen again? Islamic scholars must then determine, are there other sections of the Koran be inspired by Satan? In fact, all of it is. The Korah is one of the all-time brilliant works of Satan. This incident calls into question the Koran. Mohammed did not have the gift of the word of knowledge. He was an unbeliever and a false prophet, a prophet of Satan, as his revelation opposed God.

He claimed that Jesus had not been crucified and that he superceded Jesus as a prophet. Do not ever fall for new revelation from God. Robert Spencer's book The Truth About

Mohammed, the Founder of the World's Most Intolerant Religion. In small print, it says that he now lives in a secure, undisclosed location.

One person, a relative of Van Gogh, was killed because Van Gogh said something bad about Mohammed?

Wisdom is the genitive singular of sophia, and this is the gift of the word of knowledge. Sophia is manifested by practical application by knowledge of one's life. Wisdom is applied from our soul to our circumstances. The word of wisdom is the ability to communicate application of a doctrine to experience. Bobby assumes that this is the spiritual life itself, and how it works. Perhaps this refers to mechanics? Word of knowledge is the impartation of γνῶσις; and the word of wisdom is the application of that γνῶσις to life.

Maybe these gifts functioned together. One might stand up and give some γνῶσις, and then someone stands up and tells the congregation how to apply it. Both of these gifts are designed to communicate. Neither gift refers to the recipient's function in reception. The emphasis is upon the communicator.

The word of wisdom is given through the Spirit, δια + the genitive singular of πνευα, which means that this is done by the agency of the Holy Spirit. Somehow, the Holy Spirit worked through a person and made this information known. They used their own mentality and their own style, and the Holy Spirit made certain that what they taught was accurate. The human and divine were mixed here, although we do not know exactly how.

The Apostle Paul had these two gifts, and, before writing this information down, he communicated this information directly to various congregations. This was the same gift that others got, but this was not for writing Scripture. Luke wrote the gospel of Luke and Acts, which is the exception? This was only in the form of the spoken word. They learned doctrine and how to apply it to their circumstances.

Neither of these gifts are necessary in the Church Age. They are replaced by other gifts designed to teach the canon of Scripture.

A caveat of Bobby's. There may be aspects of these two gifts to life. Some believers may impart wisdom and application to life; sometimes by watching a believer and his actions in life. It is wonderful to see the relaxed mental attitude of another believer, who is grace orientated and who reveals it in his life. They might see another believer and think, "I wouldn't mind being like that, having some sort of idea as to what I ought to do." When someone acquires doctrine in the soul and applies it, demonstrating this to others, and some others learn by their example; especially immature believers. Sometimes it helps others to see how this is applied from the souls of other believers. This would not be a gift on the list, but it may be a bonafide gift.

1Cor. 12:8: For through the Spirit is given to one a word of wisdom, and to another a word of knowledge, according to the same Spirit;

1Cor. 12:9: and to another, faith by the same Spirit, and to another, gifts of healing by the same Spirit,

Lesson #757

1Cor. 12:9 July 24, 2008

Thursday

A reporter was at Berachah yesterday and apparently took some photos during the closing prayer.

Two more gifts, faith by the same Spirit and gifts of healing by the same Spirit. Our system of perception is faith. All believers operate on faith. By grace, we are saved by faith. Heb. 11:1: Faith is the evidence of things not seen. Faith perceives that which is unseen as real. Faith is a critical concept for believers. We are saved by faith; we live by grace and faith; we die by faith. We do not see God; no one has seen God, and we certainly do not see our spiritual life, but there are results which we see. The approach in our lives is epistemological rehabilitation. Bobby lost sound for a bit. Faith is unseen, but at the same time, we see the results. And in the thinking of divine viewpoint. We see the results of prayer.

In our verse, faith does not refer to saving faith. That is because this is a spiritual gift, which is given to a believer. Saving faith is for the unbeliever only. Nor, is this the faith rest drill, which is for all believers. All of us, as we learn and grow, learn the faith rest technique.

So, what is the gift of faith? It is an increased measure of faith for a special service. Plenty of missionaries have arrived on a missionary field with very little but faith. The history of missions gives numerous examples of men and women who have faced the unknown, and they face it with an overwhelming trust. Many got on ships bound for foreign lands and ended up in places they never expected to end up. Hudson Taylor, Robert Moffatt, John Patton who faced cannibals, Mary Sleser who walked the breadth of Africa alone, William Carey a shoemaker who became one of the most versatile missionaries, Adiniram Judson getting on a boat heading to India and he ended up in Burma because they would not let him out in India, David Livingstone, George Whitfield, John Williams, David Brainard, and many others. They stepped out with the gift of faith. You might be thinking, "I don't want to step out and go to those places; Brenam is too far for me." This gift of faith is truly amazing in many ways. By these examples, this is a gift which functions today. Most of the gifts in this list ended but not this particular gift. It was given by the same spirit. Πιστις εν πνευμα = faith by means of the Spirit. Faith is given by and executed by the Holy Spirit. He gives and executes all other spiritual gifts. The Holy Spirit gives them and the Holy Spirit empowers them. The Holy Spirit is the common factor for all of our gifts. There is something more here as well. It is indeed a spiritual gift. It also serves as something else.

Faith is also a heading for the group of gifts which follow. How do we know that faith is the category as well. Vv. 9–10 have sort of a hidden nuance. Each of these gifts are separated by to another. It is like having several commas in a row. Every time we come across a to another, there is a new gift. In the English this is one adjective another. Two in the Greek: αλλος = another [of the same kind]. The other adjective in the Greek is the dative singular of ετερος = another [of a different kind]. Heteros begins a new grouping of gifts. The gift which follow faith all fall under the category of faith. When αλλος occurs, it is simply another gift; and ετερος refers to a new grouping of gifts. These 4 gifts are gifts of action. The previous two gifts were communication gifts. They were for the purpose of communicating doctrine to those who had no access to doctrine, which had not yet been written down. 2 communication gifts, 4 action gifts, 2 verbal gifts. All of this is hidden in the Greek.

These gifts which follow faith are of an extraordinary measure of faith and they are miraculous gifts only for the 1st century A.D. Miracle working gifts. Matt. 17:20 is a faith which moves mountains. These are obvious miraculous gifts.

These gifts were used for very specific reasons.

The first gift is χαρισμα ιαμα = a gift of a remedy for illness. There is the implication that one person can restore the health of a person.. The gift of healing is not given today to specific doctrines. The plural of χαρισμα indicates that there are a variety of healing gifts and they may correspond to the types of illness. Casting out demons could be a separate gift or it could fall under several other categories. By the way, exorcism is not a spiritual gift. There is no question that some people at Corinth could heal. They were not even a part of Paul's entourage. They were ordinary believers at Corinth who could heal.

Put the gift of healing into the hands of an immature believer, and Corinth is the result. Paul performed acts of healing in Acts 19:11–12 28:7–9 he laid hands on a person who was ill and they were restored to health. He did not pop them in the face. They were healed and that was the end of it. Peter and John also healed Acts 4:22, 30. This was for healing illnesses. There were also resuscitations from the dead. No one any longer has these gifts. This does not mean that miracles no longer happen. God answers some prayers with a miracle.

Cessation of the Spectacular Gifts

Bobby wants to give us an overview as to why these gifts have ceased to exist.

1. The Apostles and others who carried these gifts were foundational for the church. Without them, there would be no mystery doctrine; we would not understand the Church Age spiritual life or spiritual gifts. People had to believe who they were.
2. Signs and wonders and healings were their credentials to demonstrate their Apostolic authority (Heb. 2:4).
3. In this way, their office of Apostleship was confirmed. "There is someone with authority from God." Those who claim this today also claim direct revelation from God. Cults and new religions; that is what happens.
4. Because of these miracles, wherever the Apostles and their surrogates traveled, their authenticity was attested to by their gifts. They would hit a town and perform some miracles. What they did was legitimate.
5. Because of this obvious authority demonstrated through these gifts, what these Apostles said and wrote was accepted as from the Lord. Paul could write a letter to the Corinthians, and they would respond. This is why the epistles and the books that they wrote were accepted into the canon of Scripture.

6. Because of this, the canon of Scripture became the divine standard for doctrine. These people who saw Paul and John and Peter realized that they were authoritative and they accepted what they said and wrote.
7. When the canon was completed, these gifts became extinct. There was no need for them. The authority existed in the Scripture.
8. One example can be given: Paul could heal at one time, but later, he could not. Paul did not heal one of his own entourage when he got extremely sick. 2Tim. 4:20: Erasmus remained at Corinth; and Trophimus I have left ill at . He was an integral part of Paul's ministry and the illness came at a very bad time for Paul, and Paul needed a helper here. Paul had a need for his assistance. Paul's Apostleship was widely accepted and he was well-known, and at that point, he began to lose his miraculous gifts.

Les. #758 Cessation of Some Gifts 1Cor. 12:7–8 July 27, 2008 Sunday 1

We are investigating the service which each believer is obligated to give to the Lord following salvation, which is known as divine production or bearing fruit. We all have a certain service which we render to the Lord Jesus Christ, like prayer, giving, utilizing problem solving devices. These activities are common to all believers. There are specific areas of individual service other than these common areas.

We each have a specific area, a gift, which is ours for the common good. Each gift, as we utilize this gift, is the outward demonstration of the internal workings of God the Holy Spirit. When we function using our spiritual gift, we glorify God, and using this gift glorifies God in our bodies (1Cor. 6:20).

1Cor. 12:7: And to each one is given the manifestation [showing forth] of the Spirit to the profit of us all.

In vv. 8–10, we have a partial listing of these gifts, along with 3 other passages.

1Cor. 12:8: For through the Spirit is given to one a word of wisdom, and to another a word of knowledge, according to the same Spirit;

The spiritual gifts, with the exception of faith in v. 9, are no longer in existence. The missionary is often a person who moves out in faith. This gift is given throughout the entire Church Age. The remainder of these gifts all ended in the 1st century.

Throughout the centuries and throughout the world, many believers claim to possess some of these temporary gifts. Are there real faith healers among us? Do believers still speak in tongues, languages which they have never studied before? In identifying falsehood from truth, we will understand the priorities of the spiritual life.

There is a positive side to all of this as well. This is the same power which empowered these miraculous gifts. We learn that with God, all things are possible; and we find that He works just as powerfully in our lives today as He did during the Apostolic Age.

How can Bobby be so clear on the removal of these gifts? The gifts are clearly given only to some Corinthians and these gifts were being misused by some Corinthians. Their specific use is not the issue here, but their misuse.

The Doctrine of Cessation. This is how Bobby knows that these gifts are no longer in existence. Note what stands out: healing, prophecy, tongues, miracles. These are visually spectacular, metaphysical gifts. They cannot be accounted for by natural law. These gifts are all about the miraculous gifts of God. These gifts are performed by human beings and it sets apart those who possess these gifts. There is plenty of attention, plenty of prestige; as well as plenty of jealousy. As some used such gifts, others wanted them, and those without these gifts wanted them for the approbation which the others received. These gifts are no longer in existence because these spectacular gifts had a specific purpose for a particular time period. They founded the embryonic church. They were indispensable for the body of Christ from the beginning of the day of Pentecost.

The day of Pentecost marked the beginning, which was the start of many things, including these incredible gifts, for believers who knew nothing of these new doctrines initiated. These believers had many resources. Our spiritual life was to mirror that of Jesus Christ, and still, many believers did not get it. So, these gifts made this information available to them. They needed to know where this doctrine was available, even though this doctrine was not available to them. These miraculous gifts identified those who were authorized by God to spread this new message. This is doctrine that had never been heard before and there is no other way of getting this doctrine. These Apostles and their surrogates verified their office and gifts.

Miracles established the teachers of the early church. Doctrine was confirmed by miraculous functions within the church. Because of this delegated authority, the writings of these men became the standard of the spiritual life and every other aspect and practice of the spiritual life. No longer do we need to see all sorts of spectacular gifts. The credentials have been presented; the mystery doctrine.

Several examples of the disappearance of these gifts, which show us that these gifts began to fade even before the final words had been penned by John. Trophimus is found in 2Tim. 4:20: Erastos remained in Corinth, but Trophimus, I left sick in Miletus. Why would Paul leave an important member of his missionary journey behind? If Paul was able to heal Trophimus, he would have.

Epaphroditus was sick on his deathbed. Paul makes a point out of God healing him. Philip. 2:25–27: I have thought it necessary to send to you Epaphroditus my brother and fellow worker and fellow soldier, and your messenger and minister to my need, for he has been longing for you all and has been distressed because you heard that he was ill. Indeed he was ill, near to death. But God had mercy on him, and not only on him but on me also, lest I should have sorrow upon sorrow. If God heals, the purpose of the illness is over. Millions of Christians pray for miracles because they do not feel good, because they have a chronic illness or they have a handicap; they read about Paul touching someone and healing them, and the person says, "I want that." Whether the illness goes on or not is God's will. We all have aches and pains and we all are concerned about miracles. If these things persist, we must understand them as the purpose of God. If we have a chronic problem, it is part of God's purpose for our lives. So many Christians go to a healing service to alleviate their suffering.

What purpose does God have to allow illnesses and sicknesses. There can be many reasons. One is to accelerate our spiritual growth. We depend upon the plan of God to unfold in our life. Secondly, illness can demonstrate the sufficiency of our spiritual life to someone else and sometimes this demonstrates His sufficiency to us. It is important to realize that we can feel badly and yet have a relaxed mental attitude about it. We will all be face to face with God in eternity, and we can move forward despite our human infirmities. We all have infirmities of various types. We may have been able to do something at one time which we can no longer do. We have so much more than miracles. Thirdly, we can be so sick as to be in a hospital, and our attitude may get the attention of another person; and our attitude may reach this or that person as no one else could. There is more to our lives than making money or having great health.

So we need to relax and enjoy our illness. Paul may not have been aware of the various reasons for the illnesses of his friends. Now, we can still be healed by God in this day and age. We may wish for this, but God either does or doesn't, according to His plan. We concentrate on performing or executing the spiritual life. The great miracle for us is our spiritual life. God is perfectly capable of healing anyone if it suits His purpose. God still is imminent and He is still transcendent. God heals in cases where there is a continuing purpose for our lives in good health. Illness may be God's purpose at some point. The healing which God does demonstrates the wisdom and sovereignty of God.

A great miracle might have some meaning to us for 5 minutes; but a relaxed mental attitude lasts all of our lives. There is a great contrast between our lives and the lives of the 1st century believers; and we have just as much as they did, even without miracles.

Lesson #759

1Cor. 12:9–10 July 27, 2008

Sunday 2

We began with the gift of faith, which is a gift we can have today. The other gifts here are gifts which is not extent today. Bobby explained why in the previous hour: these gifts identified Apostles and the surrogates as men from God. Today, all that we need is found in the Bible. The credentials have been passed, and what we have is the divinely inspired Word of God.

Right now we are talking about the gift of healing as opposed to God healing today. Today, God does not heal through a human agent. Bobby was thinking of Kendall Weeks who has a church in Vancouver, Washington, across from Portland, Or. He's been there since Bobby was in seminary in that area. He was, at one time, a world class sprinter. He today has a very serious form of cancer, and 2 years ago, he was given a very short time to live. He continues to preach to a congregation there. Kendall does not pray for a miracle; but he teaches mystery doctrine.

No person today should take credit for the miracles of God. Some healers today reap a great monetary benefit today. God has a purpose for healing, and it was to alleviate suffering as only a secondary reason. Miracles are not performed just to alleviate suffering, pain and illness or anything else. That is the function of problem solving devices. Those ills and pains that we have can be alleviated for a short time through a pain-killer of some sort, and in a few hours, it comes back. If God does not remove the illness, it does not need to be removed. God gives us problem solving devices to deal with these things. We do not need to know the reason for our suffering and we need the problem solving devices to handle it. We may live 60, 70 years; or even 100. What is a few years of pain in service to God as compared to eternity? It is a short time. This is like having a tooth problem, going to the dentist, having it fixed with some pain and discomfort, and then going about your way without a problem.

Not all believers get a miracle. Miracles are not problem solving devices. They have nothing to do with the execution of our spiritual life, of our spiritual advance; they just happen. Problem solving devices come from our soul. The 11th problem solving device is not healing.

No person today can solve our problems. If miracles cannot provide the permanent solution to our physical problems, since we will have additional aches and pains after. We have to depend upon our spiritual life.

Believers who wait for and depend upon miracles are immature. They do not realize what they have and they do not utilize the spiritual resources that we have. Our spiritual resources are much greater than any miracle. The spiritual life is all your life; a miracle is a one-time thing.

Bobby is not completely impervious to our pains; and when a loved one is sick or in pain, then we would like a miracle for them to be around a lot longer. Bobby does not pray for a miracle in Bob, he is where he should be and there is a purpose for that. He would certainly like to speak to his father in ways that he did in the past, but the miracle of Bob's life is, he stood up in Berachah and taught for 50 years. That is all the miracle that we need.

A miracle is just a band-aid. The spiritual life is the real healing; it is not the band-aid of a miracle. You may put a band-aid over a cut, but the cut heals over a period of time. It is the faith rest perspective which is greater than any miracle. A miracle is fine if it happens; but do not depend upon it and do not wish for it.

Trophemus and Epaphroditus are examples which tell us that the Apostle Paul could no longer heal. After Paul's Roman imprisonment, during and after, he never mentions these temporary gifts. This was a specific point in time, because these gifts were no longer an issue.

Acts 16, Paul knew of some spectacular prison miracles; but it was no longer important for him to be sprung from prison. Someday, we may be a criminal for believing in Jesus Christ. Because we stand for something that someone in government does not stand for. Think about hate speech. Bobby could teach Rom. 1, where the Bible says homosexuality is a sin and a degeneracy; and this can be deemed as hate speech. Paul was in prison for teaching the truth. He wrote the truth. He wrote some of the greatest doctrine of the spiritual life which has been written. And he did not pray to be released. He did not ask others to demonstrate in his behalf.

Couldn't healing be used today where Christ is unknown? A missionary could walk into a very obscure tribe and heal someone and get their attention. Many think that could still happen. This is how healing was used in that way. When you are with a very remote tribe, you may think that a miracle would be just what such a missionary could use to get the attention of the natives.

Today's missionaries do not need these healing gifts; perform a miracle, and the tribe immediately thinks you are the new medicine man or some god, and that is what you do not want. You want them to be transformed by the power of Christ and the power of the Word. Showing strength in extreme adversity is what is impressive. Many a remote tribe has been won to Christ by brave men and women who are spiritually mature. A pastor or a missionary already speaks with divine authority. The power is always in the Word of God. If you want to get a reaction from someone, speak the Word of God to someone.

Bobby can speak the Word of God and it will have an impact wherever it is spoken, wherever it is heard. Speak it at a memorial service and it has transforming power.

When Bobby thinks of Kendall Weeks, he is at death's doors as per the doctors, and here he is 2 years later still teaching. He handles this by continuing to use the spiritual life and continuing with God's power. The power is in his ministry and this is what people see, even aware of his condition. It is marvelous to see the use of the problem solving devices at work in his life, what God has provided and how he has utilized it, despite the life that he is subjected to.

Unfortunately, many believers want to see visual demonstrations of God's power. They want to see the power of God in their lives. The greatest benefit to us is not a moment of healing, but a lifetime of growing. The mystery doctrine is complete. The Apostolic writers have long since been identified and now the Word of God, which they write, is what stands. Our personal faith in the plan of God is strengthened in this way, as doctrine is applied. Applying doctrine leads to results, and it leads to spiritual growth. A miracle happens for a moment and has nothing to do with one's spiritual growth. We all know how we handled problems 10 years ago and how we handle them now.

A miracle is really a lot like emotion. Here today and gone tomorrow. We have our ups and downs. A miracle is a high. A miracle is very temporary. Lazarus was resuscitated, but then he died. Even when a miracle takes place, the spiritual life still takes precedence. Do not wish for a healing miracle to take place to alleviate our suffering or to give us greater faith. Such miracles do not breed great confidence in God. Such healings cannot be the key to our spiritual lives, because they are so transitory. Personal spiritual growth is far more valuable to us than any overt miracle. Heb 11:1: the conviction of things not seen. Some people have seen a loved one die, and they turn away from God, thinking that God should have healed this loved one. The spiritual life recognizes that there is a time for someone to die. There is a reason. When the miracle did not happen, when there is no spiritual life to back it up, others just go off the deep end, leaving behind a spiritual life which is unfulfilled. I want a miracle; otherwise, I will not believe. Spiritual advance, executing the spiritual life, and then serving the Lord utilizing a spiritual gift which is in use today. We have all that we need in order to execute the plan of God for our lives. Faith rest must not take a back seat to the momentary visual representation of our faith. When God's promises are more important than our desires, then we understand the plan of God. We can see the distractions in all of this today. When anyone claims to be a faith healer or a miracle worker, you can see the distractions in these churches. People want to be healed; they want to see miracles; they relegate spiritual growth and doctrine from the Word of God to a second place to these healings and miracles. The healings and miracles end up being the focus of their spiritual lives. Bobby might perform a miracle one day, but next week he may not. Will our faith live on to the next month? No.

These people are charlatans and they get lots of money. These functions end up calling attention to the miracle worker. It is an ego trip. Those who have it are something and those who do not have it are seen as second-class believers. When you are influenced by that, you are dumb sheep and you often get fleeced.

The fact that people want and pray for great miracles today indicates that they do not have any idea what the spiritual life is or the power of the spiritual life. Praise and worshiping services are services where the Word of God takes a back seat to emotion. People want to see visible heroes and see spectacular demonstrations of miracles.

When you raise a child, is it the quiet honor of your life, or the one or two spectacular things that you do in front of the child which causes this child to grow and to have values?

1Cor. 12:9: and to another, faith by the same Spirit, and to another, gifts of healing by the same Spirit,

Lesson #760

1Cor. 12:9–10 July 30, 2008

Wednesday

You might think that it would be better not to know about these gifts; but such a lack of knowledge would leave a gap in the Church Age. We have not seen things like this; Bobby saw one crowd watching a healer, and he could not believe that this crowd was screaming and so taken up by all of this.

Why did these gifts disappear? They were no longer necessary. Even today, we need assurance that our Bible is from God. Here we have several of the methods used in order to transmit the truth. The problem is, this particular set of gifts are disputed among Christians today. Christians theologians and pastors are divided concerning these gifts. There are those who believe these gifts have ceased and some who do not. Every believer has a gift, but just not one of these.

In today's uses of some of these gifts, there is some dispute. It is not a surprising problem, given that these are no longer used. Bobby gave the reasons why these gifts ceased; they are Apostolic functions. These spiritual gifts were an Apostolic function, given to Apostles and to their surrogates, and later to other believers for the same reasons. Trophimus, Epaphroditus, Barnabas, Timothy are some of those who were famous believers. Even some of the Corinthians had some of these spectacular gifts.

The Apostles possessed all of these gifts and they were foundational for the church. That was the purpose of these miraculous gifts. There were others with individual gifts, but they did not have all the over arching authority. Some of the surrogates may have had more than one gift.

These gifts began on the very day that the Holy Spirit had come upon them on the Day of Pentecost. They so announced that the church had come.

Because of these gifts, the authority of the Apostles was confirmed. These miracles attested to who these men were and what the gifts represented. Church Age doctrine was being disseminated by word of mouth and by the pen. What they said and what they wrote was accepted as from the Lord, given these incredible gifts. Just showing up in some town and speaking mystery doctrines would not have been enough. They had to arrive with some sort of true authority. People needed to see that the power and authority of God was behind them.

These gifts began to fade even before the canon of Scripture was completed. Their authority had been established. People knew them as divinely inspired messengers from God. In later years, only on the frontiers of the early church were these gifts continued. At some point, these gifts were no longer issues.

Today, many people and many churches claim these miraculous gifts for themselves, which is a major problem. When you see these churches, you notice the great distraction and confusion which occurs within these churches. They are often called full-gospel churches, which is a misnomer.

For many of these non-cessationists, healing and miracles are the solutions to problems in life. These things become the solutions and doctrine becomes relegated to a lesser status. They talk about spiritual growth, but they end up leaning on an emotional prop. People need something spectacular in order to make sure their faith is real. The higher they are, the greater the evidence of their spiritual immaturity. They see something spectacular and they feel good and this confirms to them that this is a great thing. They do not have the doctrine which is the evidence of faith, missing the point of Heb. 11:1. They simply want a particular feeling. The power is found in the Word; not in the goofy things which occur in a church service. Faith is the evidence of things not seen...

The false function of miracles ends up calling undue focus upon the miracle-worker instead of on Jesus Christ or on the Word of God. No one today needs verification. The Bible has already been verified centuries ago when the Apostles were verified. The miraculous healing is in the Word of God. That is done through epistemological rehabilitation. Now and again, a miracle from God comes along, but not through a human agency.

The very fact that people want and ask for and fervently pray for miracles means that they do not understand the nature of God's true power at work in them. The power of God is in us. When you have the power of God working in us, it will become clear to us, the Church Age.

Miracles are not problem solving devices, but that is the way that people look at them. I am sick, I need a miracle; problem solved. The results of spiritual growth ought to be our assurance. Miracles are spectacular and emotional events, but they are ineffectual at evoking faith. They might strengthen faith for a few moments or even hours, but it does not continue. There are many proofs of this in the churches today.

In addition to this, there is a lot of emotion in response to these various, miraculous spectacles. That has become a huge problem. Emotions have become the gauge of spirituality in some churches, but emotions are never the guide to a person's life.

Bobby is not telling us to become emotional robots; and sometimes doctrine and functions in our life with evoke an emotional response in us. Never forget that the function of God in our lives is preeminent, and sometimes our response is emotion. But this should never be the criteria for the spiritual life.

When emotions are the master of your soul, they distort; when they are the criterion for your life, you become confused and you are not occupied with the Person of Jesus Christ. Emotions are fine; they are not the criterion of our life; they are not the aim of our life. Emotion does not sustain nor does it add to the value or to the depth of our life.

Emotionalism brings an irrationality to our lives. It brings an irrationality which can contradict thinking divine viewpoint. Emotionalism has no place in spiritual phenomenon.

You might be in Bible class and really get into a particular doctrine and enjoy it emotionally; that is fine; but it has nothing to do with your growth (the emotional part). Bobby was with people who were very aware of Berachah Church, and thought that we were all unemotional doctrine seekers. These people often moved further and further away from Bible doctrine, which moved them away from spiritual advance.

Some of us may come from a Pentecostal background and it was fun to go to church because it was entertaining. However, the longer you sit in this academic environment, the more you appreciate what doctrine does in your soul.

Mentality of the soul versus the emotion, and this is where so many Christians fall short. Emotion can only be a response to knowledge, to ἐπίγνωσις. Emotion is never the guiding factor. Bobby is angered to watch some services and to realize that is what guides these Christians. It is maddening to see these people duping their congregations with emotion.

Emotion is a wonderful thing. Bobby enjoys seeing or hearing things which bring emotion to him. Our flag has meaning; the greatest nation on earth; it means freedom. If you analyze your emotion, you should recognize that it is a response to something. However, some allow their emotions to be their guiding light.

Miracles happen in a short period of time; they are not something which takes any length of time. At church, when these miracles are occurring, you begin to lose your focus, because you need to see the miracles again. Miracles cannot maintain confidence in God. People need miraculous proofs. A miracle is divine intervention in your life. Divine healing is divine intervention in our bodies. And when we don't get this intervention, we are concerned whether or not God is there anymore. Our assurance is to continue to take in doctrine and to watch it work, because it does.

Miracles are a smokescreen for those who have rejected doctrine. Personal spiritual growth takes second place or no place to miracles and emotion. Miraculous gifts like healing do not advance the church today. In the first century, this did not occur because there was a true purpose for the gift—to focus on the teaching of the mystery doctrine.

People get into trouble and they want the rapture in order to bail them out. We do not have to worry about when the rapture will come. It will come just at the right time. Don't call Berachah and cry for the rapture because politics are going down the tube.

Bible doctrine applied from the right lobe of our souls is real but unseen. Our soul is the evidence of things not seen. This is why Paul is writing to the Corinthians on this subject, to correct their confused focus on these gifts. Some of them legitimately have these gifts and some of them are focused on the wrong things because of these gifts. For the Corinthians, emotions and these miraculous gifts has become the criterion for their spiritual lives.

We are covering these gifts because the churches today mirror what is going on in the Corinthian church. Miraculous gifts are not the central issue of the spiritual life. Instead of using and applying spectacular Bible doctrine to a problem, they depended upon the spectacle of a miracle. Their trust was in miracles then rather than in the Word of God. And they cannot wait to give these faith-healers their money.

3 Points

1. As the Apostolic age advanced, these gifts would cease.
2. These gifts no longer exist because their purpose is no longer needed.
3. The gifts in v. 10 really aroused the Corinthians.

1Cor. 12:9: and to another, faith by the same Spirit, and to another, gifts of healing by the same Spirit,

1Cor. 12:10: and to another, workings of powers, and to another, prophecy, and to another, discerning of spirits, and to another, kinds of languages, and to another, interpretation of languages.

Lesson #761

1Cor. 12:10 1Kings 18 July 31, 2008

Thursday

The 3 beginning verses are to remind us why we are here in Bible class. It also helps Bobby to warm up his voice.

The second spectacular gift after healing is found at the beginning of v. 10. No human being has ever achieved a miracle. Only the sovereignty of God can cause a miracle. Miracles workers today always focus on themselves. There were those in those days who could effect miracles. The Corinthians could even foul up miracles, but that involves the will of God. The basic aspect of miracles in the 1st century A.D. Ενεργηματα δυναμεον = acts of [divine] power. Miracles are supernatural activities. They are performed directly by God or by God through an intermediary agent. There are extraordinary activities which Satan and various angels can perform as well. These are things which cannot be accounted for by natural law. Miracles are performed by humans which is the case with this spiritual gift. These miracles are acts of God which He chooses to accomplish through an Apostle or a gifted person with the authority and ability to exercise such power. It is a temporary gift which is no longer in existence. A great example of such an event is 1Kings 18 with Elijah. He will call down fire from heaven, although few have any idea why this occurred.

Fire does come out of heaven as lightning, and that is natural. Calling down lightning at a specific time and to a specific place is miraculous. Baal had 450 priests and Elijah was one priest of Jehovah. They were no match for Elijah. They call upon Baal to bring fire down on their sacrifice, and many Israelites were watching.

1Kings 18:1–9: After many days the word of the LORD came to Elijah, in the third year, saying, "Go, show yourself to Ahab, and I will send rain upon the earth." So Elijah went to show himself to Ahab. Now the famine was severe in Samaria. And Ahab called Obadiah, who was over the household. (Now Obadiah feared the LORD greatly, and when Jezebel cut off the prophets of the LORD, Obadiah took a hundred prophets and hid them by fifties in a cave and fed them with bread and water.) And Ahab said to Obadiah, "Go through the land to all the springs of water and to all the valleys. Perhaps we may find grass and save the horses and mules alive, and not lose some of the animals." So they divided the land between them to pass through it. Ahab went in one direction by himself, and Obadiah went in another direction by himself. And as Obadiah was on the way, behold, Elijah met him. And Obadiah recognized him and fell on his face and said, "Is it you, my lord Elijah?" And he answered him, "It is I. Go, tell your lord, 'Behold, Elijah is here.'" And he said, "How have I sinned, that you would give your servant into the hand of Ahab, to kill me?"

Elijah even poured water on his own sacrifice, to make it more difficult to burn.

1Kings 18:30–37: Then Elijah said to all the people, "Come near to me." And all the people came near to him. And he repaired the altar of the LORD that had been thrown down. Elijah took twelve stones, according to the number of the tribes of the sons of Jacob, to whom the word of the LORD came, saying, "Israel shall be your name," and with the stones he built an altar in the name of the LORD. And he made a trench about the altar, as great as would contain two seahs of seed. And he put the wood in order and cut the bull in pieces and laid it on the wood. And he said, "Fill four jars with water and pour it on the burnt offering and on the wood." And he said, "Do it a second time." And they did it a second time. And he said, "Do it a third time." And they did it a third time. And the water ran around the altar and filled the trench also with water. And at the time of the offering of the oblation, Elijah the prophet came near and said, "O LORD, God of Abraham, Isaac, and Israel, let it be known this day that you are God in Israel, and that I am your servant, and that I have done all these things at your word. Answer me, O LORD, answer me, that this people may know that you, O LORD, are God, and that you have turned their hearts back."

The purpose is so stated, that all observing what is going on would know that Jehovah is God over all.

1Kings 18:38–39: Then the fire of the LORD fell and consumed the burnt offering and the wood and the stones and the dust, and licked up the water that was in the trench. And when all the people saw it, they fell on their faces and said, "The LORD, he is God; the LORD, he is God."

Jezebel and Ahab then tried to kill Elijah for performing this miracle.

Skeptics say that this lightning coincidentally fell at just the right moment. It was a natural, timely phenomenon. This lightning came down, however, not due to anything which Elijah had done. Miracles are a set up for something else. They are done where a maximum number of people could see the miracle so that they could speak of it. There are supernatural events which cannot be explained, like Jesus walking on water.

Many people love the spectacular. Anything can be done with special effects. It is not about the miracle, it is about who performed the miracle and what it means.

During the Apostolic age, miracles were used by pastor-teachers or evangelists in order to show everyone that they are people with authority from God. The person with the gift could perform a miracle at will. This is why we say, it is the message, not the man; it is never the miracle; it is the message behind the miracle.

God can do anything that He wants. He does not do it today through the agency of a human being, but He still performs miracles. God supercede nature. He invented and supercede nature. Don't forget this, but do not depend upon it either. God does not perform miracles through people any more.

God never used miracles to alleviate suffering. Miracles were first and foremost to focus attention on the power of God and upon Jesus, the man with the power, God's Son. If it was anything less than that, Jesus would have been remiss not to heal the world. Miracles were done sparingly, even during the time of Jesus and the Apostles. The reason was to focus attention on the message.

Satan is also in the miracle business. He can cause extra natural phenomenon. He has counterfeit power. He performs miracles to focus attention on his own power. Some healers are charlatans, and no one today performs miracles, healings or tongues in the power of God today. Satan does provide his own credentials for his own servants.

Satan can and does withdraw a demon from a demon-possessed person. This glorifies the exorcist. There was no ancient legitimate gift of exorcism. The word for this is εκβαλλω, which means to cast out. Only Jesus and those who were designated by the Holy Spirit were able to cast out demons. When Jesus or someone said, "Out" the demons departed. No demon can withstand the power of God. Εξοριζω = to exorcise, to remove demons. This was only used in pagan ceremonies. This function has never been authorized by God in any dispensation, and it has never been a spiritual gift. It is a counterfeit. A traveling exorcist ks someone who is fony lr worse.

Do not affirm a miracle worker. There are no intermediaries for us between us and God. Believers who attempt miracles insult God. It is phoney. It insults God. 3 wishes: I want health, wealth and happiness. These miracles are no longer delegated to human hands.

God can effortlessly provide a miracle at any time in any circumstance. It does not require positive volition, spiritual advance, or any sort of straining. God created the universe and nothing is impossible with Him. The greatest miracle every worked is Bible doctrine in the life of a positive believer. This transcends all earthly power. You see a miracle, and it lasts a few months maybe in your mind. But, you get more in your soul from doctrine and the filling of the Holy Spirit. We have the power of problem solving devices and of utilizing the permanent spiritual gift.

Since God does perform miracles, ought we to pray for miracles from Him? Yes. Praying for a loved one or for a person who is sick, this is a legitimate priestly prayer. However, all prayers must be under the principle of God's will. Prayer is powerful; it is an incredibly powerful weapon; but it does not override the will of God. We do not have all of the facts. It may not be God's will to heal the person for whom we pray.

Sometimes God simply denies our request, because He has a different purpose for our lives. If we ask for a miracle, it is something that we would all wish for.

You can pray for someone to be healed and you might even wish that you could take their place so that they would not have to suffer. This is a great capacity for love. When you make this prayer for them, you must realize that some of the greatest witnesses for Him are those who are dying or in some sort of a disaster.

Our hope lies in the problem solving devices and in the doctrine which is in our souls. It is not about miracles. Bobby would rather live in this age, understanding all that we are able to understand. We have more resources. We can see the results of our own spiritual life as we advance.

At one point, the Apostle Paul prayed desperately for relief for himself; he was the greatest believer who ever lived and he prayed 3 times to have a thorn removed from his flesh. He did not want to accept the purpose of the thorn. He prayed to have it removed and God said “no.” He prayed for it and he did not get it. Bob studied this in great detail the Thorn in the Flesh Paul resorted to 3 extremely intense prayers to be healed. The Lord replied in 2Cor. 12:9–10: “My grace is sufficient for you, for my power is made complete in weakness.” Most gladly, therefore, I would boast about my own weaknesses, so that the power of Christ may dwell in me. Therefore, I am well-content with weaknesses, difficulties, insults, hardships, persecutions, and calamities, for when I am weak, then I am strong. That means that we are depending upon God’s strength. We do not get the thorn removed but we are actually content.

Our spiritual life is the power of God to handle anything in life. Since God did not immediately curtail Paul’s physical ailment, there was obviously a reason for it. A miracle is never the solution; it is just the solution for one instance. The removal of this thorn would have neutralized Paul’s accelerated growth. The faith is the evidence of the things unseen. All the contentments are the blessings. Suffering is often the training ground for the deployment of accelerated growth.

God is not a dispenser of temporary pain killers. His solutions are not band-Aids for deep gashes; His solutions revolve around growth and not around relief. Our strength is perfected in weakness. Such weakness requires strength. God does not remove; He intends for us to endure whatever it is that we want gone. The spiritual life is sufficient for anything. When we are at our weakest, then we are at our strongest.

Some think that God is cruel to allow people to suffer. God is not cruel nor is He arbitrary. He does not throw adversity our way because He wants to see us squirm. Our God does not enjoy seeing His people in misery.

What Does God Expect us to Learn?

1. In weakness and in helplessness, God initiates to us divine grace. That is when we understand grace the most.
2. God communicates in weakness the blessings of the problem solving devices.
3. We respond to the divine initiative of grace with grace orientation.

4. If we have grace orientation, then we understand the plan of God and we have divine viewpoint. Divine viewpoint is grace orientation. The world does not have divine viewpoint. The world does not understand God's grace.

Spiritually self sufficient means that we are not dependent upon what others say or do. Miracles could easily become a human crutch. Being spiritually self-sustaining is stability and contentment under all conditions. Doctrine is much more powerful. Doctrine is the power of God for our life.

1Cor. 12:10: ...and to another, workings of powers, and to another, prophecy, and to another, discerning of spirits, and to another, kinds of languages, and to another, interpretation of languages.

Lesson #762

1Cor. 12:10 August 3, 2008

Sunday 1

Many believers are fascinated by what sort of things might happen to them and they are quite interested in prophecy and there are prophecy ministries. Some people are calling Berachah in a very worried state hoping for the rapture, hoping for a quick removal from the earth because of the state of our nation and their lives in general. They are so disturbed, that the solution to it all is to leave this behind. They are concerned by about the election and who will be elected, the threats of radical Islam, about freedoms being eroded or even lost, socialism on the horizon, and the redistribution of wealth, and the doomsday prophets of global warming. The rapture is not the panacea for the cure of the problems of our lives. There is no substitute for the problem solving devices for the problems which face us. The rapture is not a problem solving device. There is not date setting in the Scripture. We are simply told that He will come. Some of these people do not understand the real crux of their lives and the meaning of what we face. Suicide is also not an option. No believer is removed from this earth until God says it is time to go. No matter what happens in this country and no matter who is elected, we have the resources to deal with all of it. When these calls are made to the church, Bobby wonders what doctrines have these people been listening to? There are numerous false saviors and change is inevitable. Is politics the solution? Not a chance. Politicians and politics is a problem-manufacturing profession. They create more problems than they solve; creating these problems is often what gets them elected. No politician can bring a lasting hope to this country. The best any politician can do is one who will preserve the most freedom.

Trouble, any trouble in our life, is a time for us to accelerate our spiritual growth. Our hope is not in the slogans or the muddled thinking of some professed savior. Our current hope is not in future prophecy. Still, prophecy is Biblical and it does have a purpose for us.

Why is there Prophecy in Scripture?

1. We cannot fully understand God's plan apart from Scripture. We cannot fully understand His plan apart from the prophecy in Scripture.

2. Prophecy which has been fulfilled attests to the truthfulness and accuracy of the Bible.
3. So this means that there is an element of comfort in prophecy, especially when you are faced with the loss of the loved one.
4. There is encouragement in prophecy. As we begin to look at life in the light of eternity, we get a glimpse of it in prophecy. It is encouraging, but not a problem solving device. Problem solving devices are for a day-by-day, moment-by-moment use.
5. The atmosphere of heaven is developed in our lives as the unseen world takes on a reality. It brings this unseen world into focus and into reality.
6. There is much injustice in this world; you may despise someone for the injustice which they have done toward us. But we know that justice will be fully accomplished at some point in time.

The next gift which we will examine is prophecy. These are all temporary gifts which are no longer in existence. An intermediary between God and the rest of the believing world. It occurred much like the Old Testament prophets. In the Old Testament prophets, they were national leaders, especially in times of crisis. They superseded kings because they brought the hope of God to those who needed it. Many times, in Israel's history, people ignored these prophets to their own detriment. We studied Elijah and his miracle. He was the only man of Israel who stood in opposition to the 450 priests of Baal and to Ahab and his queen Jezebel. He did so in a miraculous way, and they finally listened. Isaiah dictated the correct foreign policy during a national crisis. New Testament prophets were not national leaders, but they spoke just to those in the church. They spoke as they received information from God.

What did this gift include?

1. Divine revelation coming to the prophet
2. Foretelling accurately the future as it relates to the plan of God.
3. Prophets gave a message of divine guidance. They gave great messages of divine guidance, related to Isaiah and his foreign policy.
4. Warnings of sin.
5. Current events and they told the people just what to do. What do we do about terrorism and who should be vote for? Wouldn't that be nice? It would make no difference at all. How many people today would listen today to a prophet. We already know the answers here; we do not need a prophet to tell us what to do. There is no reason for gloom or doom in your soul, no matter who is the president or who is in Congress or who makes ridiculous laws. There is nothing wrong with being involved with politics, but doctrine needs to be preeminent. We will lose ground without employing problem solving devices.
6. Prophecy will include predicted future events during the Apostolic age. Acts 11 Agabus prophesied famine, and it happened. Acts 21:10–11 he warned Paul about returning to Jerusalem. We need to be careful about using the word prediction, which can be based upon the trends of history. People do this based upon the trends of history. Some do this and they are charlatans, like those who read tarot cards or palm reading, etc. Prophecy is divinely predicted.

7. Prophecy included teaching.
8. Prophecy can be communication related to practical things.
9. Prophecy could have been an extra benefit to the church from the Holy Spirit. It presented mystery doctrine for a particular time and place when it was needed. This implies that the prophet has special wisdom into revealed truth.

Pastors today have often been called prophets, but none can be prophets like those of the 1st century. No pastor receives direct revelation from heaven. Bobby simply deals with truth which is already revealed. We have all the doctrine that we need, contained in the Bible for the present and the future. There are a lot of interpretations about the future. However, just as in every discipline, there are ways to interpret the Bible. One of the most skewed areas of the Bible today is eschatology. Often, prophecy uses figurative language. However, there can still be specifics attached to the prophecy. Prophecy was necessary then to complete the canon of Scripture. We see this particularly with John, Peter and Paul. They did so much of the eschatological work in the New Testament. Prophecy is not an antidote for the problems which surround us today; our solution is metabolized doctrine in our souls. There are no permanent solutions to doctrine.

Should we every go to a psychiatrist? For some people, the answer is yes; some can have tremendous problems which medicine helps. There are certain circumstances where counseling is necessary. However, 95% of the solutions for problems are found in our souls.

One good reason for counseling might be for being abused as a child. Once you see the reality for this, then you apply the problem solving devices. Our solutions lie in problem solving devices. There is plenty of prophecy in Scripture, and there is a reason that it is important to us as believers in Jesus Christ. All that will happen once the church exits from this world, then there is a place for prophecy. It does not currently have a place in our temporal life. Is prophecy the solution to November? The trends of history tells us that we have problems, the solution lies in our soul.

Lesson #763

1Cor. 12:10 August 3, 2008

Sunday 2

Bobby has to tell us from a very reliable source, and someone was listening to a talk radio show trying to get sleepy. A caller came on and said, "Bob Thieme said you should vote for a particular party." Bobby's disclaimer, neither Bob nor Bobby have made a statement as to which party or which person to vote for. We must determine ourselves. What is said in private is completely different. As long as Bobby is there, there will be no endorsements from this pulpit.

The gift: the distinguishing of spirits. Bobby often wonders what it would be like in a church service where one of these gifts is utilized. He cannot imagine seeing someone who is blind, lame or cripples who then can see or walk away. Today, this is not happening. These are charlatans.

Now we are dealing with a gift which is not as spectacular, but does not appear to be that fantastic at that time. During this time, there were many false teachers, and Satan would oppose the dissemination of the truth of the mystery age, and there would have been a concentrated number of these men. What better way for Satan to work than through false prophets. John understood prophecy. He was the real deal and there were many who were not. “Many have gone out into the world...” God provided a gift to determine whether someone was truly teaching accurate doctrine, whether this doctrine came from God or from Satan. This goes right along with prophecy. False doctrine could be very confusing, as it is today. False doctrine gets started because the Bible is not studied. Men who are teaching the Bible are unprepared or they get lazy and tired of digging out the great treasures of the Word of God. It seems to be much easier to float through life with some nice sermons. They are not prepared to discern falsehood from truth. This is why the gift of pastor-teacher is given. When you depart from Scripture, falsehood follows. The churches of America are filled with falsehoods. This gift was invaluable for the early church. We have that advantage. When someone speaks doctrine, all we have to do today is look at the Word of God today and compare it. It is easy for those who study the Word of God.

Most false doctrine can be discerned today; but then, there was no written Word that we can go to. A false teacher could distort and mislead, since there was no completed canon of Scripture. There were many false prophets; one example were the Judaizers who taught their own doctrines, different from what the Apostles were teaching.

Today, discernment results from study. Maximum knowledge of doctrine inculcated into our souls. In essence, we all have, in effect, the gift of discernment. Bobby discerns and we are able to discern as well. Our first line of defense is knowledge of doctrine. No one has the actual gift of discerning of spirits, but we have enough doctrine in order to discern false doctrine. Bobby will teach us true doctrine; and he teaches false doctrine which is incumbent upon us to understand, something which circulates among the churches today.

This discernment today is a characteristic of a mature believer, who can then avoid false doctrine. Sometimes, falsehoods do present. We can flush our souls of false doctrine and continue the intake of true doctrine and continue to grow.

Various kinds of tongues is the next gift, and this is probably the most abused gift of all of the gifts. Γλωσσα is tongue. It is that by which we articulate speech; and the figurative use is speech, language. It comes from γενος which means family, nation, kind. These two words can have a variety of translations. How is the exact meaning to be determined? How can we know what this is? What is actually meant by kinds of tongues.

The Biblical History of γλῶσσα. We can link the descent of the Holy Spirit upon the Apostles with the gift of tongues. Today, those who are tongues-speakers see this as a manifestation of the Holy Spirit coming upon them. To them, this is a second work of grace. They are first saved by grace and then, later, they begin to speak in tongues.. If Bobby wanted to learn a new language, it would be great to have the gift of tongues. The Apostles, when they spoke in tongues, spoke in a language which they did not know before. You could suddenly speak this or that language when you do not know this language from study. The Corinthians became quite arrogant about this gift.

We know that this is an actual language by the way γλῶσσα is used. Mark 16:17: Jesus promises His disciples that “You will speak in new tongues.” Jesus was also a prophet. He only gave a little bit of it. These signs will accompany those who believe. “In My name, they will cast out demons.” Believers did this when removing demons from demon-possessed people. They did not exorcize demons, which is not a spiritual gift and it does not occur today, in spite of the movie. Do you think you have the power to stand up to a demon? When some false teachers tried to send a demon out, the demon said, “I know who Jesus is; who are you?”

γλῶσσα may also be seen as miraculous. These disciplines were fishermen and uneducated and they were working stiffs. The Galileans were known as especially ignorant. Jesus told them that they would speak in various tongues, it was quite impressive, as Galileans could generally speak Aramaic only. This prophecy was fulfilled on the day of Pentecost.

Acts 2:4: They spoke with other tongues. This describes what happened at Pentecost to the other Apostles. It is a fascinating chapter. Vv. 8–12 make it clear that they are speaking in a foreign language. Later, we have believers speaking with tongues. These are other believers other than the Apostles who were speaking in a new or another tongue. There is a progression. Christ promised this; the Apostles spoke glossa, and then others spoke γλῶσσα after Pentecost. And the book of Corinthians is addressed to believers who spoke in tongues, but were abusing the gift. These passages all indicate the same type of miraculous speech pattern. The person could suddenly speak effectively in another language. A professor of Bobby’s were proficient in 27 languages, but this came from study.

Different kinds or families of languages, previously unlearned and never expressed before by the speaker.

Γενος Γλῶσσα:

The speaker had no prior training in this language and could speak intelligible language to others. If Bobby began speaking in Spanish, some would get it and most would not. Many would not be benefitted by this use. The Corinthians had an abundance of these

The Corinthian church had a number of gifts; they could heal, they could prophesy, they could speak in tongues. These were spectacular and miraculous gifts, albeit temporary. We are in an advantageous position to use whatever gift it is that we have.

The Corinthians are sitting in a city of commerce and one of the most important in the world at that time, in the center of commerce. They resided in a sea port where there were ships comes from Asia, the Middle East, etc. They came from all over the ancient world. It was a strategic church at this time. They had the opportunity to spread the gospel and to communicate mystery doctrine. This could be given to other believers from distant lands.

The centerpiece of the baptism of the Holy Spirit, and no one prior to this had ever been filled with God the Holy Spirit. This was for everyday, common believers. This baptism of the Spirit was the mode of being filled with the Spirit. Communicating this power was an important aspect to those in Corinth and to those who were traveling through. There was not greater demonstration than the spectacular and visible church.

We have already seen in Acts 2 the incredible gifts of the Spirit, including those who spoke Gentile languages which they had not formerly known. Through these men who had the gift of tongues, many saw the power of God the Holy Spirit demonstrated through this gift of language. Today there are many other churches who demonstrate the power of God the Holy Spirit today through the gift of tongues. The gift of tongues found today is bogus. God has seen fit to give us other gifts. We do not need to visibly see other power.

In those days, many heard the gospel in their own language on the day of Pentecost, on the day the church started. We are now studying the Corinthians some 20 odd years later; and they had this gift for exactly the same reason as those who had these gifts on Pentecost.

These spectacular gifts were withdrawn by the time the canon was completed and all that was needed was found in writing which brought them to maturity. We have been through all of the gifts with the exception of the very last one.

Why is it important for me to know these gifts which are no longer used today? The easy answer to that is, they are here and there is a reason for them to be here, or God would not put them here. We must understand why these gifts are given. There are many parallels between Corinth at that time and our life today.

When these temporary gifts were given to the believers in Corinth, they had incredible impact on various believers who lived then. The demonstration of gifts was used to draw a crowd and give the gospel. The Corinthians were on the cutting edge of the Church Age at that time. These Corinthians were largely immature with the same sort of problems and resources which we have today. The same problems existed in those days as occur today. This is why Paul gives so many instructions. We get the same instructions for us today.

The gifts were being abused and had become ineffective in Corinth and arrogance had thrown these believers off. They thought that God must favor a person when He gives that person some great gift. The body of Christ is well-served when we function in the way that God intended for us to function. That is how it was designed. However, in Corinth, those with spectacular gifts were seen as better. And these churches today have the same problems as Corinth had. The silly part is, they do not actually have these spectacular gifts. They are deluded, insofar as they do not have the gift; and yet, they continue to fleece the congregation. There is the real and the false use of these gifts.

These gifts today obscure the criticality of epistemological rehabilitation. Those who allegedly use these spiritual gifts, put their priorities into some emotional experience with God the Holy Spirit. How they feel is more important than what they think; and a lot of humanism comes out of this. This even comes from some evangelical churches where doctrine is obscured. How much doctrine are you thinking when there is a 3-ring circus going on in front of you. Doctrine allows us to realize that there is no time and no place when we cannot be filled with the Holy Spirit. More importantly, we think doctrine in every circumstance of life.

None of the gifts of that era was more abused than the gift of tongues, which is why Paul will spend more time with that gift than any other. The gift of tongues was used to evangelize, but it had become abused. Pentecostalism had spread throughout the Christian world today and it is found in all denominations.

The use of tongues did not help those who did not speak this language. Those who did not speak the language were getting nothing. The one with the spiritual gift understood the language, and it had an edifying affect on him as well. The rest of the congregation sat there and they did not have a clue. We might like the sound of the language, but that is not doctrinal growth. So, there would be no profit to hear doctrine taught in Spanish.

The gift of tongues was of no use unless the gift of the interpretation of tongues was available as well. Interpretation here is the Greek noun ἑρμηνεία, from whence we get hermeneutics, which is the system of interpreting the Bible. The interpreter of tongues did not just stand and speak what had been said. This gift was the ability to interpret doctrine from a previously unknown language. This interpretation may have been included even for those who did understand the language. This was a double-extra gift.

How did this gift work? There were many different scenarios in which it was used. One may have been a believer with the gift of tongues who stood up in the church and said something in other than Greek. Basic doctrines were taught to Jews and Gentiles, who did not speak Greek or Aramaic, and another language was what they understood. But those who spoke Greek only, just sat there and got very little out of this. There was little reason for them to be there in church.

Lesson #769

1Cor. 12:10 August 17, 2008

Sunday 2

The very last spiritual gift in this paragraph. We spent previous classes on the gift of tongues. Corinth was at the crossroads in a particular place in the world, so that tongues was important. Tongues was spectacularly misused at that time. It was arrogance which was dividing the church at Corinth. When the gift of tongues was utilized, and some did not understand this language.

The gift of interpretation of tongues was not just a translation of what was being said, but it also was an explanation of what was said. Therefore, people understood what was being said, and they explained in more detail what was being said. This gift was utilized to present mystery doctrine.

There was one great problem then and today. Today, people speak in languages which do not exist anywhere else on earth and they call it an angelic language. One professor from Dallas was asked to speak at a charismatic church, and he quickly began to speak the Qal stem of a particular word, and then he said what he did say. It was a dirty trick, but it served a point. They had no clue as to what he was saying, but they were getting excited about it.

The Corinthians were connected with various heathen cults like the cult of Dionices or Aphrodite and some spoke with demonic utterances, which were babbles, screams and yells. This just demonstrated that the gods were present.

What interpretation did was show that what was being said was an extent language from that time. The speaker in tongues did not depart from the power of the will. There was rational, doctrinal content to what believers said then in tongues; this does not occur today.

Where a language is not interpreted, it is not of any use to those who do not speak it. There are those today who say that they interpret this language, but who would know if they are interpreting it correctly or not. Those who know the language know that it is a real language. Those who know the language and those who interpret it understand what is said.

Today, it is subjectivity all the way; no one can confirm whether this or that interpretation is accurate. So interpretation confirms that tongues-speaking was legitimate. It was not legitimate unless someone could tell what was being said. The interpreter had implanted into his soul, a language which was a real language.

Before we proceed on the gifts, and since we are on this topic, let's examine the rest of the gifts which are found in the Bible. You might as well understand how they are used. This list are those found in Scripture, but this is not necessarily a comprehensive list, but more representative.

1Cor. 12:28 is the next list of gifts: And God has appointed in the church first apostles, second prophets, third teachers, then miracles, then gifts of healing, helping, administrating, and various kinds of tongues.

Apostleship

1. Apostleship is no longer in existence; only 12 men in the history of the church had this one gift, the highest of all the gifts.
2. It included all of the miraculous and spectacular gifts. This is also found in Eph. 4:11.
3. This comes from the Greek αποστολος which has several meanings, all of which have a bearing on the usage in the New Testament.
4. Used originally for a high-ranking Athenian admiral, to command a naval expedition. The Athenian council would gather and choose such a man to head. The general classical meaning was an envoy, an ambassador.
5. The Apostle carried his credentials with him. They present these credentials of their country to the country to where he goes. He also carried the highest authority.

Christ directly delegated this authority to these 12 men. These men had unique qualifications.

Qualifications of Apostles

1. Luke 6:15 Apostles were personally called by Jesus Christ.
2. They were with Him throughout His ministry in His 1st Advent, and they were called the 12. They were with Him and got personal instruction which others did not get.
3. So they had the greatest knowledge of what Jesus said, since they saw and observed Him first hand. Apostolic history is 12 men who used their gifts for the same goal and objective.
4. It was to these men to whom Jesus appeared after the resurrection. He appeared to all the 11. Jesus did appear to over 500 people after his crucifixion and resurrection, He appeared to these 11 and gave them personal instruction.
5. What about Paul? He possibly never laid eyes on Jesus Christ during His 1st Advent; however, Jesus did appear to him in His resurrection body. Acts 9:3–6 22:6–11 26:13–18 1Cor. 9:1 Am I not free? Am I not an Apostle? Have I not seen the risen Lord? Matthias was not the replacement for Judas, who was elected. An Apostle must be appointed directly by Jesus Christ
6. Before the ascension of Jesus Christ, these men had received the promise of God the Holy Spirit. They received this promise at Pentecost. No one else has been filled with God the Holy Spirit while tongues of fire ascended upon them. At the beginning of the Church Age, they received the Holy Spirit.
7. Signs and miracles and wonders set them aside. Rom. 15:19 1Cor. 12 the Apostles had all of these gifts.
8. These were the only ones directly commanded by Jesus Christ to evangelize as His personal appointees. No one has this gift today. There are those who claim to be descendants of the Apostles. This comes from the rock passage of Peter.

Besides Paul and the other 11, Barnabas (Acts 14:4); Gal. 1:19 James; Rom. 16:7; Epaphroditus in Philip 2:1–5; Sylvanus and Timothy were all called apostles. However, these men did not have the specific gift and the office of apostleship. They were, in a general sense, met the meaning of the word, as they were ambassadors or envoys. They were appointed by those who held the office of Apostleship. These were delegated by the 12 so that they could be envoys or ambassadors to a particular local or church. Timothy was sent to Corinth and later run right out of town. We might call these colonial apostles, where they had multiple spiritual gifts like pastor-teacher, evangelism, and prophecy and some other miraculous gifts; and they had the delegated authority to establish churches.

Barnabas had the authority to establish churches and to recognize men with the spiritual gift of pastor-teacher, and he could train them and appoint them to various churches and then to leave. That is the gift of Apostleship.

V. 28 is the gift of teaching, which is what Bobby has. Eph. 4:11 where it is called pastor-teacher. Also in Romans. No one can serve the Lord or grow spiritually apart from a pastor-teacher. Metabolized doctrine must reside in his right lobe, and this comes only from the grace apparatus for perception. It starts by us getting taught. It does not work unless someone teaches us, and the Holy Spirit is involved. You cannot get it by reading the Bible on your own; otherwise, why even have the gift of pastor-teacher? Bobby grew up in Berachah under the ministry of his father. As a teacher, Bobby grows now as he digs out the information from the Word in his office.

The gift of Apostleship and prophecy included the gift of teaching. The colonial apostles were probably also great teachers. They had to be clear about doctrine. They had to be able to give a clear presentation. If Bobby is garbled in his message, we will be confused. We cannot advance spiritually anymore than Bobby can. We are dependent upon his teaching to advance. He has s gift which we need and we have gifts which he needs.

Prophets did not tell people where they would be in the future or what kind of a job they would have, or where they would meet their RW. They only prophesied in relation to the plan of God.

Today, teaching is a gift, defined as the ability to explain God's truth, which is already established in writing. Bobby discovered his ability to teach spiritual things by teaching teenagers and his ability to teach by being in the rangers. Those who teach prep school can have this gift.

Eph. 4:11, teachers are listed with pastors, which indicates that the pastor is a teacher. The gift of pastor-teacher is given to men only. There was a recent woman pastor who found herself in hot water. There are no women pastors.

No Women Pastors

1. The qualifications for a pastor-teacher are found in 1Tim. 3:1–7
2. This is also stated in 1Tim. 2:12: Women are not to have authority over men in the church.
3. 1Cor. 13:44–45: women are to keep silent in church. The woman cannot stand in front of the congregation and teach with authority.

Lesson #770

Spiritual Gifts 1Cor. 12: August 20, 2008

Wednesday

The temporary gifts which disappeared 20 centuries ago, but they were foundational for the church. Tongues, healing, prophecy, miracles; gift of Apostleship taught and defined the doctrine which is ours today. We would know nothing of our spiritual life apart from the Apostles. We need the inspired Word of God in order to understand the gifts of the Spirit, which are necessary. The temporary gifts are at the heart of the church at the first century.

We are now cataloguing gifts where we are covering gifts which we may possess. We are going to cover those gifts not found in 1Cor. 12.

The first gift which we are looking at is teaching. No person can grow spiritually apart from the knowledge of Bible doctrine. No one understands the spiritual life or grows without listening to or metabolizing Bible doctrine. You cannot serve without growth; you cannot apply doctrine without growth. You do not learn without being taught. It takes training and background and skill and languages for a teacher to present the material of the Bible.

Maturing in the spiritual life is the key. This is training. We cannot wander into a profession and work to maximum efficiency. You cannot walk into the Christian life without any training and expect to function at maximum efficiency. Maximum growth means maximum service. There is growth, application and service. You may hear that “doctrine is all that you get at Berachah Church. It is all too dry; there is no real inspiration in all that doctrine.” If you cannot be inspired by the Word of God, then you might be missing the point altogether.

No amount of pastoral hype or politics will change what we need. We need Bible doctrine. What most churches are teaching is 15–20 minutes of pabulum. You need solid food and you need a lot of it. The Christian way of life may be the only place where you can eat all that you want. Illustrations and demonstrations are fine, if they illustrate or clarify doctrine; but it should not overshadow doctrine. What is it that God has provided for our spiritual growth? God has provided the grace apparatus for perception. Zorro could ride in make the mark of a Z in order to teach operation Z, but that can detract. We are told that these dog and pony shows—carnival atmosphere and motorcycles and midgets—may draw more people into the church so the gospel can be given, but the key is Bible teaching.

Teachers include pastors, missionaries, and seminary professors, teachers in prep schools and in Christian schools; and certain women who teach children under certain circumstances. The gift of a woman teaching is not necessarily in the home.

If nothing else, read to them while they fall asleep. You must inculcate your children. Bobby’s mother had the gift of teaching; she taught home Bible classes in the neighborhood.
